

HARD TIMES CAUSE
RECORD IN INSANE

New York State Institutions
Received More Patients in 1921 Than Ever Before.

(New York Times.)
More persons were sent to insane asylums in this State last year than in any previous year, according to the report of the State Charities Aid Association to the State Hospital Commission yesterday.

At the end of 1921, patients in the thirteen State hospitals for the insane numbered 38,736, an increase of 1,446 over the number there a year ago and 6,642 more than the rated capacity of the hospitals.

Homer Folks, Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, said he believed the number of persons who had gone insane from the use of alcohol during 1921 was fewer than normal, and that the increase was due partly to economic conditions and partly to war casualties. Many soldiers who had apparently been suffering from shell shock developed nervous trouble during the year, he said, to such a degree that it was necessary to care for them in hospitals.

"Unemployment and distress due to economic conditions," he said, "add a mental strain, pushing over the line of insanity many who had previously been close to the border."
Mr. Folks doubted that the increase indicated that communities were neglecting themselves more closely against the insane by shutting up unbalanced persons previously allowed at large.

"The most effective way in the long run to relieve taxpayers burdens for the support of State Hospitals is to institute measures which will speed the recovery of patients," the report says. "The value of the suitable employment of patients has long been recognized. Yet large numbers of the inmates of State hospitals sit idly by, left to degenerate and become permanent burdens upon the State. An occupational director and trained teachers should be employed in each hospital.

"Last year 13,228 visits were made to these clinics, representing 4,926 new persons, or first visits. Of these persons more than half, or 2,861, were people from the community coming for preventive treatment; the remainder, or 1,067, were patients on parole or discharged patients who were aided by keeping in touch with the clinic in re-establishing themselves in community life. The cost of organized preventive and after-care work is extremely small as compared with maintaining patients in State hospitals. Every dollar spent in this way is a saving of many dollars in State hospital appropriations, besides the saving of individuals to lives of usefulness and happiness."

The report further urges that the work of the clinics be more thoroughly organized and more widely extended and that the following steps be taken in this direction:

- 1.—The appointment of a Director of Prevention and After-Care for the purpose of developing and improving the work of the clinics.
- 2.—Establishment of additional clinics to cover every part of the State. An additional physician should be added to the staff of every State hospital to develop out-patient work.
- 3.—Social service is necessary to adequate treatment in mental cases; so it is recommended that each State hospital be allowed an additional social worker for preventive work.
- 4.—Allowance of funds to permit the holding of periodic district conferences by State hospital clinic physicians and social workers in order to exchange methods and increase volume of work.

NEW PRESIDENT

The Trades and Labor Council held a largely attended meeting last evening in its hall in Prince William street with F. A. Campbell, president of the council, in the chair. The meeting was addressed by Rev. H. A. Goodwin on mothers' allowances and the need for a juvenile court. He urged the council to continue its efforts to have a mothers' allowance act passed.

J. A. Sinclair, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, and James Suggie, a commissioner of the compensation board, both addressed the council on the Workmen's Compensation Act pointing out the advantages of the new act over the old one. They also dealt with the working of the act itself.

Following the speeches and reports an election of officers for the ensuing year took place and resulted as follows: F. S. A. McMullin, president; James Sharp, vice-president; George R. Melvin, recording secretary; A. D. Colwell, secretary; Charles Brown, guard; Percy Moore, M. Day and C. H. Stevens, audit committee.

ORCHESTRA AT HOSPITAL

The orchestra of the Y. M. C. A. of the Gorman street church provided a fine programme of music for the patients of the East St. John County Hospital last night and had a most appreciative audience. The programme was a bright and entertaining one and the members of the orchestra led in the singing of the choruses of several numbers. The members of the orchestra were as follows: Dr. F. L. Bonnell, Stanley Mealy, Leslie Craigton, George Hoyt, Paul Brown, Charles Burpee, Fred Bustin, Jack Holman and David Henderson. Heavy blankets were given the members of the orchestra.

AGRICULTURE IS IRELAND'S HOPE

Commerce Monthly Reviews
the Situation in That Country.

Ireland's future prosperity lies primarily in supplying food to the great industrial centres and consuming markets of Great Britain and the United States. The National Bank of Commerce says in the January number of its magazine, Commerce Monthly, Ireland's advantage is in agriculture, and the greatest possibilities for industrial development lie in the manufacture of food-stuffs from home-grown materials.

"The predominance of agriculture is indicated by the fact that in 1919, the last year for which values of Irish exports are available, 61 per cent. of the total value made up of articles of an agricultural character, while agricultural products of indubitable domestic origin formed approximately half the total," the bank points out.

"Live stock raising is by far the most important industry in Ireland and live animals the greatest single item of export. For the most part the stock are raised for the English market and exported alive. But it should be possible to export cattle in a much more profitable form than the live animal, the hoof. The fact that all this live stock is slaughtered abroad means the loss to Ireland of the profits of the slaughtering, packing, and related industries, and of the important industries, such as tanning, which depend upon the meat trade for their raw material. Moreover, approximately half the cattle exported from Ireland in the form of live animals are slaughtered in the world, so that the profits of preparation for market as well as those of slaughter are lost.

"There has recently been an attempt to develop an Irish meat trade which, unfortunately, through lack of sufficient capital, has not been able to continue. As far as operations are concerned, the disposal of the pioneer large-scale company, there was every indication that the meat trade could be sold profitably in Great Britain and other markets. A development of this meat trade seems to offer the most favorable opportunity of any plan yet offered to strengthen the industrial structure of the country and at the same time benefit the agricultural interests.

"The situation of the sheep trade is much the same. In the case of pork products the development of a meat trade action by the bacon curers has resulted in great improvement of the breed and quality. Bacon curing is an important industry, centering at Cork, Waterford and Limerick, and even before the war exports of bacon and ham were considerable.

"Dairying is another favorable field for development. Much has already been accomplished in organizing the butter trade but there is still opportunity for great improvement. The growth of the cheese trade in the latter years of the war was also an encouraging feature.

"In the field of industrial activity Ireland is severely handicapped by the lack of cheap power. The annual production of about 80,000 tons of coal must be supplemented by imports from Great Britain averaging $200,000 tons a year. The high moisture content makes difficult the successful application of peat to power production and the methods of winning peat must be greatly improved before it can compete successfully with imported coal for industrial use.

"Not only must coal be imported, but a very large proportion of the raw materials used in the principal Irish industries is of foreign origin. In the linen industry much of the flax is imported and practically all the steel used in Belfast shipyards comes from Great Britain. Although part of the wool manufactured in Ireland is of domestic origin, even this has usually been spun in English mills and there is a large importation of foreign wools and yarns. The tobacco and rope manufacturers of Belfast are entirely dependent upon foreign materials and the great brewers and distillers of Dublin use a large proportion of foreign grain. In sum, except for the manufacture of food products, in meat packing and dairying, Ireland is dependent upon other countries for both fuel and raw materials, as well as for markets for the finished product.

The trade figures suggest a second method of industrial development in Ireland which is fundamentally sound, namely, to supply the domestic market with some of the many articles now im-

MEMBERSHIP ROLL

The year reviewed at the annual meeting of German street Sunday school last night was a very successful one. The school was shown to have a membership of 628, including the cradle roll and home departments and the gain over the previous year was forty. As the result of the home visitation organized by W. S. Durham, the school had enrolled twenty-eight new members and twelve former members had rejoined. The total receipts during the year were $853.72, including $488.62 for missions and $365.10 for school expenses. The disbursements included $250 for foreign missions; $25 for the Baptist Sunday School Association; $25 for the Maritime Sunday School Association; $139.86 for charity, distributed by the pastor; and several smaller donations to charitable and worthy causes. L. W. Simms, the superintendent, presided, and there was a large attendance.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Superintendent, L. W. Simms; associate superintendents, S. E. Fisher and J. J. Machum; missionary superintendent, J. J. Machum.

CHLOROFORM IN THE HAREM.
The first experience of the use of chloroform by the Sultan Mulai Abdul Asfa of Morocco might easily have led to more serious results. Dr. Verduin, his English sanitarist, had operated on a slave under chloroform, and the sultan had been present.

The operation over, writes Mr. W. B. Harris in "Morocco That Was," the sultan retired into the palace, carrying with him a large bottle of the anaesthetic. The doctor tried to obtain possession of the bottle, but in vain, and all he could do was to warn the sultan to be very careful with it. He no doubt was, for apparently nobody died; but his ladies lay all over the palace as inert as logs of wood—for he had a grand chloroforming evening all to himself.

A NOTABLE ADDRESS. In his introductory remarks before the members of the women's and men's Canadian Clubs last evening, Dr. Basil Williams referred to a remark by Mr. Stead, editor of the London Times, on the American attitude toward history.

THE PESSIMISTS. The pessimists are not a happy man in these days of big events. We are told there was an air of pessimism when the Allied Supreme Council met in Cannes yesterday, but that "it was largely dissipated by the successful results of the first day's session."

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY. The New York Evening Post has an interesting article on prohibition. It agrees that in the great cities like New York, Chicago and some others the law is violated to a great extent, and fortunes are being made by the violators.

THE MEXICAN HANDIT. The Mexican handit may soon become a picturesque character of the past. A dispatch from Mexico City says: "The Mexican government is planning to extend an invitation to aeroplane factories to send representatives to Mexico City to consult the department of communications with a view to establishing air routes in all parts of the country."

DR. WILLIAMS VENTURED TO EXPRESS THE BELIEF THAT THE AMERICAN ATTITUDE TOWARD THEN SENT FORTH THE POLICY OF A SENSITIVE CANADIAN ATTITUDE, AND HE IS RIGHT. The British founders of Canada learned British history. It was their history. The American Revolution was to them a regrettable incident in a report which placed the colonial on an equality with the man at home, and strengthened allegiance by trusting the overseas subjects of the crown as he trusted the great military and naval leaders he had chosen for foreign expeditions.

GRAY ROAD'S END.

A gray road leading downward to the sea— A lonely road—to travel which seems slow— A long, long road for weary feet to go to meet the tides that call incessantly; Each turn reveals a hidden memory; Each tollsome height attained but marks the flow.

LIGHTER VEIN. Different. The little girl traveling with her mother on a street car was suddenly heard to say to the man next to her: "Do, do." The mother said: "No, dear; that is not your daddy; that's a gentleman."

NO WATER THERE. A large sporting goods concern shipped to one of its customers in the country a water polo ball. In the course of a week the following note was received: "We are returning for credit one water polo ball shipped us recently. The customer for whom we ordered this ball is dead, and where he has gone there ain't no water."—Judge.

Interesting Lecture Before the Canadian Clubs by Prof. Williams.

A masterly portrayal of the life of William Pitt, Earl of Chatham, was given before the combined Women's and Men's Canadian Clubs last evening in the Grand Hotel by Professor Basil Williams, a distinguished historian, and now head of the historical department of McGill University. His address was illuminated by many anecdotes from the life of the great orator.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Cockran-Cameron.
A wedding of interest to St. John friends took place in Westminster Presbyterian church, Winnipeg, on Saturday, December 31, when Edith Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cameron, 82 Guilford street, West St. John, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert J. Cockran, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cockran, 51 Wright street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. James Christie. The bride wore an imported suit of navy suede cloth, embroidered in black and gold, and large hat of black Lyons velvet, showing the new cut-out trim effect, with insets of black beads, also beaded effect on the brim, edged with trimming of black striped ostrich. An ermine stole completed the costume. Her bouquet was of American beauty roses and hyacinths. The bride was given away by Mr. L. M. Cochran, brother of the groom. The choir sang appropriate music. After the wedding, the bride and groom entertained the bridal party at the Royal Alexandria Hotel. They will be at home to their friends after the New Year in the Tavish Apartments, Wellington avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Noble, who were traveling to their new home in Montana, accompanied the bride as far as Winnipeg and remained over for the wedding. The wedding presents were numerous, among them being a silver scallop dish from the teachers of the Albert school, where the bride was formerly one of the teaching staff. Mr. Cochran is now on the teaching staff of the Winnipeg High school. Their numerous friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Cochran many years of happiness in their new home.

McInerney-Hopey.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. K. King. Mrs. Thomas G. Christie, of Boston, a sister of the bride, was in the city for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. McInerney will reside at Tisdale Place.

RECENT DEATHS

John Knox.

The death of John Knox, a well known resident of Little River, occurred yesterday at his home there. He was eighty-eight years of age and, although born in this city, had lived nearly all his life at Little River. Many of the old-time followers of horse racing will remember Mr. Knox as a horse enthusiast and will also call to mind the standard bred horses which he used to raise, particularly Allie Clay, the famous horses which afterwards went to the United States and made such records there. He leaves, besides his wife, three sons, William J., of this city, and James and George W., at home; also three daughters, Mrs. Jas. A. Cooper, of this city; Mrs. J. McLaughlin, of Little River, and Miss Nellie, at home. The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence. The interment will take place in Fernhill cemetery.

$54,000,000 BET IN MARYLAND PARI-MUTUEL MACHINES IN 1921

Baltimore, Jan. 7.—The state's revenue in 1921 from the four one-mile race tracks in Maryland was $60,180, the annual report of the State Racing Commission to the governor disclosed. The bulk of it came from the $6,000 per day fee each track is required to pay. The report also showed that $54,000,000 in round numbers, was bet in the pari-mutuel machines at these tracks at the spring and fall meetings.

MARRIAGE CUSTOMS
They Differ Widely Throughout World—Cakes as Love Letters.
Marriage in some form obtains in all lands, but the marriage ceremony has many variations. In no land does the bride present a gayer appearance than in China, where bright colors fairly run riot in the dress of the people. Red is the nuptial color in China, says The-Bills, the betrothal of the bridegroom-to-be sends the object of his affections a pair of bracelets tied together with red wine.

FLOWERS IN WINTER
Hyacinths, Narcissi, Tulips and Lilies Can be Grown in the House.
Bulbs of various kinds, grown indoors during the winter months, add much to the attractiveness of home surroundings and their culture should be more general than it is. A bulletin dealing with the matter in detail, prepared by the Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Ottawa, Ontario, has recently been issued by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and is available upon request. Provided certain essentials are observed, success is easy. A glass house is not necessary, but only a good window, with a view of the sky, is required. The temperature must not be permitted at any time to register more than six degrees of frost. Roman hyacinths, Paper White narcissus and Frezias will supply all the winter bulb needs desired up to the end of January. After the first of February, the Dutch Hyacinth, early varieties of narcissi, and crocuses are given the treatment that must be followed if it is necessary to consult the bulletin, in which the methods are also given that should be adopted for outdoor cultivation in colder districts. It would appear from the experiments made that the hardy bulbs which are imported from Holland might be produced in Canada. Even now there is a progressive trade in bulbs between British Columbia and Ontario and Alberta.

Expensive in Persia.
As in our own and in other lands, the wedding in Persia is an expensive affair. Of some of the wedding customs in Persia we have this account:—
"On the day before the wedding, the bride took a bath, and the bridegroom sent her some henna with which, after her bath, her hands and feet were stained. Her eyebrows and forehead were also tinted with a powder. The bridegroom was colored in the same way with henna.
"On the eve of the nuptials the bride's friends assembled at her house, attended by music and dancing girls. On the morning of the wedding day the husband sent a train of mules laden with gifts to his bride, the whole being attended by numerous servants, and preceded by music.
"Toward evening the bride was arrayed in a long veil of scarlet or crimson silk, placed upon a horse or mule, splendidly caparisoned, and conducted to her husband's home, accompanied by all her relations and a noisy band of musicians."
Bride Wore Crown.
Marriage in Holland is always a festive affair. In days of old the bride went to her wedding with a crown on her head, and in modern times the vehicle in which the bride party rides is decorated with flowers.

In olden times the bride appeared on the day after the wedding with her head covered, and gave all of her guests a glass of wine or some other drink, showing that she was mistress of her home. The threshold of the newly-married couple is strewn with flowers, and showers are used in the greatest profusion at a wedding.

NECROLOGY OF 1921.
(Toronto Globe).
The necrology of the year has been impressive. Among the notable Canadians who passed away were Principal Peterson of McGill University, Hon. A. Sifton, Lady Laurier, Lady Beck, Lady Tilley, Senator Frederic Nicholls, Robert McLaughlin, George T. Blackstock, K. C., John Hoskin, K. C., Sir Sam Hughes, Senator Edwards, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Lord Mount Stephen, Mrs. J. Griffin, William Davies, Lieutenant-Governor Lionel H. Clarke, and Sir Robert Campbell, D. D. The prime minister of Spain and Japan, and the famous Talaat Pasha, author of the Armenian massacres, were killed by a single bullet. The golden voice, Bethmann-Hollweg, raised to a dubious immortality by a single phrase, "a scrap of paper"; Christine Nilsson, the rival of Patti in popular favor two generations ago, and Prince Louis of Mountbatten, who, though an Austrian by birth, commanded the British war at the beginning of the war and gave the famous order which prevented the demobilization of the fleet at the critical hour.

CHILDREN'S DEFECTS.
Medical Examiners Increased in England and Wales.
The school medical staff in England and Wales was increased during 1920 from 224 whole time officials to 800, according to the annual report of the chief medical officer of the ministry of health. In addition, many nurses and regular physicians were engaged to examine nearly 2,400,000 children were examined in three groups—entrants, eight year pupils, and leavers.
It is estimated that two-fifths of the children coming up for medical inspection are found to be suffering from defects of some sort. Dental defects rank first in number, and about 70 per cent of the children were found to need dental treatment. Probably 8 to 7 per cent of all school children in England and Wales need surgical treatment for adenoids and diseased tonsils, says the report.
An inquiry into the reasons for the absence of children from school brought out the fact that in the large majority of cases the real or alleged reason for absence is health. A section of the report deals with the effect of the Summer Time act upon children, with the conclusion that there is an absence of reliable data to show that summer time is detrimental to the health of children.
The report concludes with a section on juvenile employment and it is suggested that the school medical service lend help in fitting the children for special employment such as to take up.

CRACKSMEN LOOTED SAFE OF JEWELS
Entered Apartment by Fire Escape and Secured $75,000 Worth of Gems.
New York, Jan. 7.—Safe cracksmen, believed to be experts, climbed the fire escape to the apartment of Harry Arnov, a Maiden Lane jeweler, at 108 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, some time last night and looted a safe which stood in a corner of the parlor and fled with $75,000 worth of diamonds, emeralds and rubies. They left no clues.
Mr. and Mrs. Arnov, who were at the theatre in Manhattan, returned to their apartment soon after midnight. They found the door of the apartment open. Knowing something would be amiss, Mr. Arnov rushed into the parlor. The cracksmen had gone, but the scene of the robbery was flooded by two lights so placed as to throw as much illumination as possible on the safe. The door of the treasure box was in the middle of the floor. Behind it was the empty safe. Detectives first made a thorough examination of the entire apartment without finding any fingerprints. It is believed that the burglars used gloves to prevent leaving marks. The whole front of the safe, which measured twenty-eight inches by twenty-two, was ripped off as if a gigantic can opener had been used. The box contained an extra strong repository for jewels, but this apparently was no problem for the thorough going robbers.
The Arnov apartment is the second

SENTENCED FOR WAR EXCESSES
French in Devastated Territory Impose Penalties in the Absence of Offenders.
Paris, Dec. 19.—(Associated Press by Mail)—People in the north of France whose territory was so long occupied by the enemy, have not forgotten or forgiven the Germans for their excesses in the war.
A war council at Lille has just passed sentences against German officers and soldiers for crimes committed during the invasion. The condemned were not present to be tried, so that these sentences can be put into effect only if one of the guilty persons should be arrested in France.
General Muller was condemned to five years imprisonment and 500 francs fine for stealing objects of art and furniture at Caudey.
Other sentences imposed but hardly likely ever to be executed ranged from one year in prison for swindling to ten years in solitary confinement for brutality, twenty years at hard labor for violence causing death and hard labor for life for killing a Frenchman in cold blood.

75,000 POILUS KILLED BY THEIR OWN GUNNERS
Paris, Jan. 7.—General Percin, in a book describing more than 200 battles in France and Belgium during the World War, concludes from data collected by him that 75,000 French soldiers were killed by their own artillery through defective liaison. The losses, he says, were higher by 80 per cent. in the French army than in the German army. The losses of the French infantry, he finds, were comparatively four times greater than the losses of the artillery. He fixes the French losses from the enemy's fire at 5,000,000 killed and wounded.
General Percin was military governor of the fortress of Lille just after the outbreak of the war. He evacuated the fortress on orders received from the government when the Germans approached the frontier, and was for a long time supposed by the general public to have evacuated the place of his own volition. A lively controversy between his friends and adversaries has been going on ever since as to whether he was badly treated by the general staff. He has severely criticized the conduct of the war in the field by the French staff.

GROWTH OF EAST ST. JOHN SCHOOLS

East St. John and Little River have to hustle to keep up with the growth of their school population and there will be two new class rooms opened and two new teachers on the staff when the schools open there on Monday. Five years ago there was only one school in that district, the wooden school at Little River, and there were thirty pupils. When the schools closed at the end of last term there were sixty-nine pupils at Little River, taught in one class room by Miss Cooper, and in the East St. John school there were ninety-seven pupils, taught in two class rooms by Miss Gertrude McGuire and Miss Hazel Belyea. There were also several children of school age for whom there was no room and so two new class rooms have been made ready during the holidays. The work cost between $5,000 and $6,000.

The five-masted bark "France" which arrived at Surrey Commercial Dock, England, recently, after a voyage from New Zealand. She left Wellington on September 5, and on her way across the Pacific passed the "Quest," Sir Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic ship. The photograph shows a portion of her main deck and gives an idea of the great size of the craft.

John had provision for two rooms on the ground floor and two rooms on the upper floor but those on the upper floor were left unfinished when the school was opened. During the vacation the upper rooms have been put in order, floors have been laid and plastering, glazing and painting have been done. Desks have been placed in the room which is to be used on Monday and all that is now needed to have the other room ready for use is the desks. Miss Hazel Gillott will be the teacher in the new room at East St. John.

The East St. John school is all prepared for a rapid growth in the school population as when it was built, it was planned as the first section of four rooms for a completed eight-room school. No more basement space will be required when the second section is built and the ground is already school property. In the present basement are twin furnaces giving adequate heat for the present building with combined hot air and hot water system. There are also two large playrooms in the basement. The school has a commanding site high above the road, giving a spacious view of Courtney Bay and the city as well as the rising land to the east and north. There is plenty of playground space around the building

SIR ADAM BECK REFUTES RUMOR

Some days ago it was brought to the attention of members of The St. John Hardware Clerks Association that citizens opposed to municipal distribution of hydro developed current were saying that in the Ontario towns one of the reasons why lighting charges were so low was that property owners or consumers were obliged to pay sums of $100 to $200 to the municipality as their portion of capital costs, at the time of connecting their premises with the hydro system.

Canadians Must Know More About Japan

Called into world life by an American Commodore, seizing with avidity upon many new things for its advancement from western civilization, protesting undying friendship for the United States, but struggling with seemingly irreconcilable differences, developed by marvelous leaps into one of the five greatest naval and military powers of the world, and now to become a signatory partner with Britain, the United States, France, and Italy in preserving "peace on earth, good will toward men,"—it is imperative for every Canadian to know more about this great Ocean Empire of the East, and to know what has happened in the Seventy Dazzling Years since Commodore Perry knocked at the Mikado's fast-locked door and summoned Japan to take her place in the family of nations.

FURTHER WORD ON HYDRO MATTER
 Hardware Clerks' Association Draws Attention to Reduced Rate in London, Ont.
 The Hardware Clerks' Association supply further information on Hydro development. The following article has been written for the purpose of proving the statement, if indeed further proof is necessary, that the lighting rates in St. John can be cut in half by municipal distribution of the Musquash current.
 In the city of London, with a population practically the same as that of St. John, electricity is distributed by the municipality. The first year the rates were reduced by half, and at the present day they are only about one-fourth of the former rate. Just at the time it might be well to mention the fact that the former rate was 3c per K. W., compared with our present rate of 10c per K. W. H., and yet it has been suggested that the citizens of St. John allow the present company to distribute hydro electricity, in spite of the fact that they have already stated in their own publication that "Cutting the cost of electricity itself in two, or getting the electricity for nothing would not make an appreciable difference to a light customer in the city of St. John."
 It has also been stated that the reason other places obtain so low rates is because of the large amount of electricity used by the average consumer. The following figures show how that in London the amount of electricity consumed advanced as the price reduced, proving beyond question that the amount of current used is regulated by the price, and it is safe to assume that similar results would be brought about in St. John.
 K. W. H. Price per consumer
 Year used
 1913 ..... 1,020,000 ..... 4.8
 1914 ..... 1,192,000 ..... 4.8
 1915 ..... 1,732,445 ..... 3.3
 1916 ..... 2,075,144 ..... 2.6
 1917 ..... 2,283,286 ..... 2.6
 1918 ..... 3,385,124 ..... 2.5
 1919 ..... 4,985,144 ..... 2.4
 London has a surplus of $38,948.41 for the year 1919.
 It may come as a surprise to many citizens to learn that there is a market in St. John for power alone, if the price is right for more electricity than at present is being offered to the city.
 The city of Brantford, by offering power at an attractive figure, increased its income from $647.69 in 1914 to $1,469.52 in 1919, and showed a surplus in 1919 from the sale of electricity for light and power of $15,688.59.

SCHOONER ON THE BREAKWATER
 While the schooner Frederick H. was making for harbor at high water, about seven o'clock this morning the shore suddenly loomed up on one side and in a moment the schooner crashed into the Negro Head breakwater, and settled down with her bow high and dry on the rocks and her stern under water. A call for help was sent out and the tug Murray Stewart went down but was unable to pull her off. At low water at noon she was lying at an angle of forty-five degrees. Another attempt will be made by the tugs Murray Stewart and Wasson to pull her off at high tide this evening. The vessel does not seem to be badly strained and is making very little water.
 She was bound to this port from New York with a cargo of 420 tons of hard coal for R. P. & W. F. Starr and was consigned to Nagle & Wigmore. The Frederick H. is a three masted schooner of 525 tons with a crew of seven men, commanded by Captain Frederick G. Hawk, who is also part owner, the other partner being K. J. Lochrane of Parrboro. She was built and is registered at Parrboro. Pilot Alfred Cline was bringing the vessel in through the west channel and it is thought the shore was hugged too close in the darkness.

WAS LOOKING AT FURNITURE FOR WEDDING
 Story of Parry in Connection With Dock Street Case, Told in Police Court.
 The preliminary hearing of the case against William Parry, charged with attempting to murder Nathan I. Jacobson in his store on Dock street on December 31, was commenced this morning in the presence of Mr. Jacobson. The prisoner was not represented by counsel, but at the close of the session he applied for a lawyer.
 Mr. Jacobson told of two visits of Parry to his store. On Friday, December 30, he said, he went out of the store for a while, leaving his daughter in charge, and on returning found the defendant there asking about some furniture. He conducted him upstairs to the show room to look over some articles, which the accused said he wanted to start housekeeping with, as he was to be married on Monday and had taken a house at 84 Germain street. A list of articles was made with which the man seemed satisfied, the prices totalling $360, to be paid for $120 down and $240 a month. Parry, he said, left to see his fiancée and to decide whether they could not get along with less furniture, but monthly instalments were rather heavy. He returned with a list reduced to $260, which he said he would pay for with a first instalment of $100 and monthly payments of $18. This was agreed to, and he promised to return the next day with the money.
 On Saturday evening about eight o'clock, Mr. Jacobson said, he was in the store when Parry entered, and asked to be allowed to look over the furniture again. They went upstairs together and examined several of the articles. They started downstairs again, with the witness in the lead, he said, and when they had gone down about twelve feet he heard the sound of a click behind him and close to the back of his neck. He turned around and saw Parry with a revolver in his hand, shifting it from one hand to the other. It was like the one in court, he said. A cartridge dropped out of the gun, and the accused picked it up and put both the gun and the shell in his pocket. Mr. Jacobson told Parry to walk ahead of him on the rest of the way down. Just as they were leaving, the accused said that he had been an insurance agent and carried the gun because he had sometimes a large amount of money with him. He would return on Monday with the money. Two policemen passed the door, and where called in. They got in touch with headquarters, and Detective H. J. Discombe and Don. J. arrived. On Monday he went to the station and saw a warrant for Parry's arrest.
 On cross-examination by the prisoner, he said he could be sure it was the click of a gun by the sound it made, and he was sure that it was no more than three inches from the back of his neck.
 "What possible motive could I have for trying to murder you?" Parry asked.
 The witness replied that he would like to know that answer. When asked why he didn't grapple with him when he was bigger than him, the witness replied that he did not want to fight with an armed man. The accused could have shot him after the time he turned away, he said, it was possible that there were more shells in the gun. He said he was sure of the time, eight o'clock in the evening.
 At this point the prisoner said he could prove an alibi, as he was calling on a lady friend, at that time.
 He asked the witness if a man with intent to murder another would give him his name, his girl's name and other particulars about himself.
 The witness replied that he would not expect it to be done that way.
 Parry went on to say that this was the first time he had ever been detained in jail. He didn't think it was fair for a man to accuse him of attempted murder and ruin his good name. He did not know the witness, and had no reason to harm him or to commit crime of any kind.
 "Do I look like a murderer of a criminal?" he asked.
 In explanation of the click, he said, he had the gun in a pocket from which he tried to bring a handkerchief, and it had got caught with the handkerchief. The click was caused by its coming in contact with some loose shells in his pocket. The gun worked all right in the afternoon, he said, and if he had wished to murder Mr. Jacobson he would have seen to it that it would have worked in the evening. He had not gone back Monday, because he had been called to Moncton to see a sick brother. His wedding had to be postponed for the same reason.
 The cross-examination was continued here after the prisoner had been warned that he was hurting his case. Mr. Jacobson said he was sure that the gun had been only three inches from his neck and that the trigger was pulled. He picked up the gun and pulled the trigger, saying that it made the same sound as the one he had heard.
 The case was postponed until Monday at 10.30 o'clock.

MEANS GAINING A NEW PROVINCE

Speaker Tells of Huge Territory Oil Explorations Have Opened Up— Work Will Continue.

(Toronto Globe.) We are disappointed, but not discouraged, said A. M. McQueen, vice-president of the Imperial Oil Company, in describing yesterday to the Engineering Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the explorations made by his company for oil in western Canada, which led to the opening up of the Mackenzie river field.

Among the reasons prompting the undertaking was the necessity for developing Canada's own oil supply. At great expenditure of money, ingenuity and hard work, tremendous difficulties were overcome by the geologists and engineers of the company. Although results might be disappointing, there was no need for discouragement, since there is no doubt in Mr. McQueen's mind, as to the need for proceeding with the work, which, he pointed out, will have a great bearing on the future development of the whole Dominion.

"I may seem to over-emphasize our own operations, and I may, perhaps, explain to those not familiar with the Canadian situation that the company with which I am connected—Imperial Oil, Limited—is making the first comprehensive test of the oil resources of Canada, and is of the world companies the only one carrying on operations here," said Mr. McQueen.

"Therefore, these operations may be said to be representative of all the conditions existing, but to say this is to be little either the courage nor the accomplishments of many small companies which have assisted in the pioneer work will some day participate in the favorable result—and favorable result I confidently believe there will be.

There were, except in the far north and the extreme west, but few exposures from which to work, so that a great deal of the deduction must necessarily be hypothetical. There had been, it is true, effervescences of enthusiasm which manifested themselves in the form of oil booms, and with these some drilling, but most of the work had been but indifferently performed and more than indifferently guided, and the records were small value.

"Outside the excellent basis for geological examination provided by Mr. Dowling and many others in the Geological Department of Canada, it was in many respects a new field.

"Chronologically, therefore, the first move was the accumulation of geological data, and while, as I have intimated, this research as it progressed produced no very definite encouragement, there existed a situation which caused the directors of Imperial Oil to accept what might be termed longer chances in taking action upon the geological information furnished them than would have been their policy if their attitude had been governed entirely and absolutely by commercial considerations.

Canada's Backward Position. "The war had demonstrated the vital importance to a nation of petroleum resources. Although, through the fine spirit and enthusiastic support of the cause of the allies which was manifested by the great American oil companies, this country received during the war a period an unstinted supply of petroleum, while in the countries of its origin petroleum was being rationed, the fact remained that Canada had produced but two per cent. of her annual consumption of petroleum. Apparently the great oil fields of North America stopped at that imaginary line of which we hear so much but never realize.

"As the largest of the Canadian oil companies, moral responsibility lay upon Imperial Oil, Limited, to explore the natural resources of which the country stood so greatly in need, and therefore our directors, upon the reports of their geologists, and in the face of rather discouraging reports and the condition that other great world petroleum corporations had sent their geological experts over the country, but had withdrawn without action or comment, considered the risk of the expenditure in developing a commercial production of crude oil. In the Fort Norman No. 1 well we obtained a small production, which only demonstrates the fact that oil exists in that region. Under more favorable conditions, at some other location in that territory, we hope to obtain a larger production, but time only can justify this prophecy.

"In the prairie sections we have finished two dry holes, and in the foothills section, although operations are still being carried on at all locations, we have practically demonstrated the absence of oil in commercial quantities at two locations.

"In summing up our experiences, I can only say that we are disappointed, but that we are not discouraged, and we are going on in the hope that we may some day feel that we have contributed to making Canada independent in its resources of a commodity of vital importance."

More Oil Necessary. "If the wheels of industry are to revolve there must be more oil, and to find oil the explorer must go to where the oil was—even though that locality be assumed to be beneath the Arctic lights.

"In brief, this is the explanation and the justification for the string of drilling rigs scattered across a territory two thousand miles from the Canadian boundary to the frozen ocean, and from the foothills of the Rockies to the crystalline rocks that border the eastern

Not Ready to Prophesy.

As for the possibilities of the field, the question is one which can be answered only by the continued application of the drill, and four drills will be operating for our company in the north next summer," continued the speaker.

"The results to date are entirely inconclusive. No news as to progress of operations can be expected by us until the spring or early summer of 1922, except the possibility of one well, which may come out by dog team through the winter. We confidently expect that these four wells will be drilled to the desired depth in the coming season, and demonstrate to a great extent the existence or non-existence of a commercial oil field in that locality. The expenditure in this district has been, and will be, very heavy.

"The company recognizes, however, that all that can be accomplished as a result of this heavy expenditure is simply to demonstrate the fact as to whether a reservoir of oil exists in that country which may become available many years hence, when oil is much scarcer and the price much higher, as eventually, to make this oil accessible to the world's market, it would be necessary to outfit many millions of dollars to cover pipe-line transportation to tide water.

What Discovery Would Mean. "If this field proves to justify the transportation facilities, there will be thereby opened up a country 2,000 miles long which has resources in timber possibilities, in minerals, and a wealth of fishing ground and agricultural areas which, together with the oil, will sustain a large population and spread the map of Canada north and south, as well as east and west.

Not Discouraged by Results. Despite the amount of capital which has been invested, and the engineering and drilling problems which have been encountered, the company has not been discouraged up to the present time in developing a commercial production of crude oil. In the Fort Norman No. 1 well we obtained a small production, which only demonstrates the fact that oil exists in that region. Under more favorable conditions, at some other location in that territory, we hope to obtain a larger production, but time only can justify this prophecy.

"In the prairie sections we have finished two dry holes, and in the foothills section, although operations are still being carried on at all locations, we have practically demonstrated the absence of oil in commercial quantities at two locations.

"In summing up our experiences, I can only say that we are disappointed, but that we are not discouraged, and we are going on in the hope that we may some day feel that we have contributed to making Canada independent in its resources of a commodity of vital importance."

The Railways of Canada Draw to Your Attention the NEW RAILWAY RATES

FOR PASSENGERS The advance on sleeping and parlor car tickets authorized in 1920, has been cut in half—the advance made on ordinary fares at that time having been completely taken off many months ago.

FOR SHIPPERS The percentage of advance granted to the Railways in 1920 has been reduced ten points. In addition to a five point drop at the first of the year. These changes became effective December 1st.

Your Cost of Living

YOUR cost of living should be directly affected. If it is not it is because (1) as the railways have pointed out before, the actual money paid for their services is an almost negligible factor in making prices, and because (2) even the huge sum now cut out of the railways' revenues and amounting to approximately—

$25,000,000* annually—becomes a very small fraction of a cent when split up among the billions upon billions of small and large articles which constitute the freight traffic of Canada during a year. And because (3) the Court which has the power to control railway rates is not able to direct who is or is not to get the benefit of reductions. In other words, whether these savings in railway charges are passed on to you—or whether they are absorbed in marketing, cannot be controlled either by the railways or the public.

BUT this fact remains: a very great sum of money—enough to build every year a small city, or a Quebec Bridge, or four hundred and fifty of the newest and most powerful locomotives—is now removed from the revenues of the Canadian Railways and should be reflected, at least to some extent, in the family budgets of all Canadians!

WHETHER your railways can continue to function without the revenue thus lost to them, is an experimental problem facing the various managements. It depends largely on whether traffic keeps up or falls off—and whether costs rise or decline. But the managements are attempting the problem cheerfully and with determination to keep Canada's railway service the cheapest, mile for mile, and among the most efficient in the world!

A VALUABLE MAP.

Attention is now being directed towards the country's natural resources, as never before, since it is generally recognized that only by a more widespread utilization of Canada's undeveloped lands, mines, forests, water-powers and fisheries can present-day economic problems be solved. The Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior has published a map showing the chief natural resources of each province. In Nova Scotia mixed farming, mining and fishing predominate; in Prince Edward Island fur-farming and agriculture. New Brunswick has large areas of timber, while mixed farming and fruit growing are outstanding interests. In Quebec may be found a wealth of timber for pulp-wood, also minerals such as asbestos, graphite and molybdenite, while in Ontario somewhat similar opportunities exist.

In the Prairie provinces the prospective settler or investor may obtain adequate returns on capital and labor in either grain growing, mixed farming or ranching, while in British Columbia timbering, fishing, fruit-growing and mining are among the leading industries.

In addition to information on natural resources, the map shows all railways and trade routes. An interesting and valuable feature is a series of comparative diagrams illustrating the production and exports of the various provinces. A copy of the map may be obtained free of charge upon application to the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

CAT PROVED AID TO MAN

Copenhagen, Jan. 7.—To Newton's apple and Watt's tea kettle now is to be added Finzen's cat as a humble contributor to the work of benefiting mankind. It has been revealed in connection with a Finzen celebration at the Institute here that the discoverer of the famous curative ray got his first idea from watching his cat warm herself in the sun. He observed that as the shadow crept up the cat moved on, so as always to keep as much as possible in the direct sunlight. Believing that the animal's instinct must have felt that the rays were benefi- cial, Dr. Finzen decided to study the question scientifically and his discovery was the result.

THE HOHENZOLLERN PALACES ARE NOW OF PRACTICAL USE

(By A. W. Porterfield.)
The last German Emperor controlled nearly thirty castles, all of which have been put to novel uses by the present German government. To do this effectively a special office, known as the Kronprinzliche, or Crown division, had to be established. It has turned in its report; its work is done. The Imperial residence in Berlin, known simply as Das Schloss, or "The Castle," has been converted into a museum for arts and crafts; that at Potsdam, the Kronprinzliche, contains the greatest halls as so used. The rooms that were the private chambers of the Imperial family now house the psychol- ogical institute of the University of Berlin and the wireless bureau of the central post office, and afford quarters to those who are employed in these branches of public service.

CALUMNY CAMPAIGN DEFIES SOLUTION

Third Mental Break-Down Follows Scurrilous Attack of "Tiger's Eye."

Paris, Jan. 7.—The mental breakdown of a third prominent citizen of Tulle as the result of anonymous letters, which for some time have flooded that usually quiet city, attacking the virtue of all women in high stations, has created an atmosphere bordering on panic lest an epidemic of insanity be at hand. All efforts to discover the author of this campaign of calumny, who styles himself "Tiger's Eye," have to date proved futile, though everyone knows from the circumstances that this person holds a position of high regard in their midst.

Following posting on the door of the municipal theatre of a list of alleged ad- fairs of the wives of ten of the most important city officials, the "Tiger's Eye" notified his victims that he had prepared for distribution two hundred additional poison letters. The irregularity of this person in carrying on his malicious campaign is remarkable. He addresses a letter attack- ing Monsieur X to Monsieur B, with a request that, after reading it, he present it to Monsieur X. This insures wide spread knowledge of the mendacious charges. Further mystery is added by the fact that letters are delivered personally and left beneath doors. In this the "Tiger's Eye" lives up to his name, as he not only avoids ambushes, but the next day informs those who have waited for him of the fulfillment of their efforts.

SCOTCH WOOLLEN MANUFACTURERS VISIT CANADA

Toronto, Jan. 7.—A party of sixteen Scotchmen to see their first ice hockey game at the arena here on January 28. The visitors, members of the Scottish Woollen Trade Mark Association, are touring the United States and Canada in the interests of their firms, manufac- turers of Scotch woollens. The entire section of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Association of British manu- facturers of Scotch woollens, the Scot- tish Woollen Trade Mark Association, has been invited to a dinner to be held at the Scot's, and have decided to take them afterwards to see Ottawa and St. Pat- rick's chase the puck.

11% Promised
11% PAID

A few months ago we offered our Clients the 8% Preferred Stock of the King Edward Construction Co., Ltd., with a bonus of 30% of Common Stock. We then stated that the Common Stock would, at an early date, go on a 10% basis. This promise has been fulfilled, and the King Edward Construction Co., Ltd., has declared its 8% stock at the rate of 10% per annum on the Common Stock. Those who took our advice and bought Preferred Stock with a bonus of Common, now have an investment yielding 11%. We are offering the 8% Convertible Debentures of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited, which should ultimately be even a better investment than the King Edward Construction Co., Ltd., as The Mount Royal Hotel Company has a much greater potential earning power.

MUST LOWER COSTS.

If we are to have an enduring pros- perity, it will have to have something more solid than the flimsy base of very high wages and extortionate profits, says The Wall Street Review, New York. The trend of 1922, as we see it, will be in the direction of a property found- ation on the adoption of more efficiency in operation and a lowering of pro- duction costs rather than an attempt to increase unduly the volume of busi- ness or to obtain returns through the medium of advancing prices to exten- sively high levels.

For these reasons it probably would be too much to expect 1922 to be a year of big profits. It will be enough if a solid foundation is laid for a stable prosperity. The chief purpose of the leaders of industry is not so much to make money at this time as it is to get the machinery in operation for a fair volume of production that will reduce overhead and permit the normal ex- change of goods.

Much good has been accomplished by the economic processes that have been working in the past year. The financial condition of the country has shown im- provement that has been consistent and continuous. The relaxation of the financial and credit strain has come as a result of the liquidation of the speculative accumu- lation of goods. The tremendous in- crease of a year and a half ago has

Death Rate From Tuberculosis Reduced 45 Per Cent in Eleven Years.

While the death rate from tuberculosis of all forms in New York City was eleven per cent. higher than the rate prevailing in the same year in the entire United States registration area, which now includes approximately 87,000,000 people, the New York Tuberculosis Association finds encouragement in the fact that there has been also greater de- cline in statistics of the disease were made public by the association yester- day. The date in the city was 126 tuber- culosis deaths for each 100,000 inhabi- tants, as against 114 for those in the entire registration area.

"In New York City's ever-increasing congestion, insufficiency of air and sun- light, its greater distances from fresh food supplies, its feverish activity, its common waste of daily travel, reduces resistance to tuberculosis more readily than the country," said the report. "Since 1910 the death rate from tuber- culosis in New York City has shown an excess over that of the United States registration area. The wastage of hu- manity from the scourge of tuberculosis is better realized when we add together the annual deaths from this cause dur- ing the last eleven years. In New York City alone the toll taken since 1910 amounts to 106,800, and in the expand- ing United States registration area, 1,100,225.

New York City the number of deaths charged officially to tuberculosis is probably an understatement. The registration area, which includes health resorts is not accurately known, and this must be borne in mind when comparing death rates with urban sec- tions with those for rural sections. It is probable, however, that in New York City the proportion now going to the health resorts is not manifestly greater than a few years ago, and there is also the fact to be considered that a number of consumptives frequently return home to die.

The one encouraging fact to be found in the comparison of the death rate for the City of New York with that of the country at large is its greater rate of decline. The city's excess in 1910 was thirty-one per cent., whereas last year it was only eleven per cent. During these eleven years the New York City tuber- culosis death rate has been reduced from 210 to 190 per each 100,000 inhabitants, so that it has been cut almost in half, manifestly reduced by forty-five per cent.

"What this means can be better ex- pressed by the saying that if the death rate of 1910 had prevailed during this entire period in New York City, the tubercular registrars would have been 121,280 instead of 106,800 deaths which actually occurred; or, in other words, that 14,284 lives have been saved."

A UNIQUE CACTUS HEDGE.

At Pinhook Academy—one of Hon- olulu's oldest and best known schools—is a famous cactus hedge of the night- blooming cereus variety. This remark- able plant has sent its curious stems sprawling in every direction, complet- ily hiding from view the stone-built walls that surround the campus on two sides. Ordinarily, this hedge would attract no more attention than any other cactus hedge were it not that, during the winter season, one of the most mag- nificent floral night spectacles is en- acted along its walls and repeated at intervals throughout the summer.

For a distance of nearly 600 yards countless cream-white flowers, a foot or more in diameter—like magnified water lilies slowly bursting into bloom—unfold their giant petals and reveal their gold-dipped stamens to the stars. Under the spell of a tropic moon, the scene is irresistible. One is reminded of a magnificent before an ultra- rapid camera. Admiring crowds of islanders and tourists call to gaze upon and ponder this nocturnal wonder which vanishes with the coming day.

One turns from this profusion of blossoms to contemplate a single flower smiling down from a high neighboring tree—for this native of western and tropical America is a wonderful climber. Whether shining in solitary splendor, like some great stars piercing the night, or in constellations of cream bloom, spreading a Great White Way in the darkness, the night-blooming cereus is a queen among those flowers that make earth's night scenes glorious.—Christian Science Monitor.

DeValera May Await Decision On Treaty

Eamonn De Valera, who yesterday announced his resignation as president of the Irish republic, later said that he would postpone his decision to leave office until a vote was taken on the peace treaty. If that vote was taken within forty-eight hours, he said that he would retire to private life, and also spoke of selecting a new cabinet if he was re-elected chief executive. From these conflicting assertions the inference was drawn that if the treaty was rejected De Valera would remain in office, if it were passed he would retire to private life.

His fundamental creed, Mr. De Valera declared, was government of the Irish people by the Irish people for the Irish people. Anything which detracted from the fundamental authority of the people was, in his eyes, a betrayal of the principles of those who proclaimed the republic in 1916. When he went to Clare he read their proclamation and told them that they had no right to resist as it was called, because they did not represent the people, but that was an untruth.

Mr. De Valera described his position as one of preserving the balance between Catholicism and Protestantism, the Sinn Fein minister of defence, who surrendered the military leadership to him, and Arthur Griffith, who surrendered the political leadership. He was, he declared, a sort of connecting link between the two sides.

Union Essential. This was successful for four years. A union of these forces was absolutely essential to national success. There could be no question of asking the Irish people to enter into any arrangement making them subject to the crown or to require allegiance to the British king, Mr. De Valera said. If war was attempted, the speaker continued, the people would face it, and the Irish delegates were told this and were informed that the sooner the British cabinet realized it the better.

The document brought from London Dec. 6, was inconsistent with that position. Neither technically nor otherwise, the speaker asserted, was he himself a British subject, and, thank God, he would die without being one. This statement was greeted with cheering. Mr. De Valera said he had been in a laborer's cottage and was enabled to know what the Irish people wanted by examining into his own life. He was not a member of the Irish Republican Brotherhood, but when he had hoped he would have a Fenian grave. Again there was cheering. He said he stood definitely for the republic proclaimed in 1916 and constitutionally established in 1919.

Continuing, Mr. De Valera said that on his resignation the cabinet went out with him. If re-elected he could have a new cabinet, but if the people would when he must have full use of all the resources of the republic to defend the Irish people and the peoples of the states of the British Commonwealth terms of peace as set out in his proposal.

The people in Ireland would deny the right of the British parliament or of the British crown, or any other foreign government to legislate for Ireland, and would use all the means they could to prevent Great Britain holding Ireland by military force or otherwise.

A suspension of the order of the day to enable Mr. De Valera's resignation to be considered was then moved for debate. Mr. Collins said he had tendered his resignation to Mr. De Valera who had refused it. If the treaty was rejected, he added, the president could have any cabinet he liked. The speaker declared that the morning session of the Dail had been hindered in receiving the report of the peace committee by "three or four bullies."

Mr. De Valera in explaining why he must resign said there must be some kind of authority. A journalist had kidnapped and minister of finance Collins had sent men to recover him. Mr. Collins had no right to send anybody that was the function of minister of defence Burgess.

Political Trickery. "I sent these men under orders of my superior officer," Mr. Collins replied. "We cannot have divided responsibility," Mr. De Valera answered. "I am a straight, plain dealer. I have met crooked ways with the straight; if we meet crooked methods by similar methods we are done. Political trickery sickens me. I have got here in this house the strange sort of dealing I had in the United States with other people of the same kind. I stand exactly where I stood. I know what others apparently did not know when they were on the edge of the precipice, and I would have halted there and nothing could have dragged me across it."

In conclusion Mr. De Valera said if there was a vote in the house within forty-eight hours he was quite satisfied, then Arthur Griffith agreed to withdrawing the vote might be taken at the

CAPT. KIDD AS THE VICTIM OF A ROYAL FRAME-UP

He was Only an Unlucky Pirate Hunter and Privy-Treasure, Says Joseph B. Gilder.

(Marian Storm in New York Evening Post.) On the black list of pirates there is no rightful place for Capt. Kidd. But the truth about him gets as shabby a welcome now as it did in 1701, when he hung at Execution Dock, for literature can badly spare his hat and jaw, his boots and cutlass, and his high-plumed wig. He is a victim of a royal frame-up, and his high-plumed wig is a symbol of the injustice done to him. He is a victim of a royal frame-up, and his high-plumed wig is a symbol of the injustice done to him.

His Trial a Tragi-Comedy. "For a year Capt. Kidd lay in prison in Boston, and then was taken over to Newgate goal, London, where at last he was brought to trial, as they called it, and convicted of piracy on five indictments and of murder also. He had no friends. There was nobody whom his life was a tragedy. The sole damage done to him was the fact that he was a member of the royal family—in fact, the King of England, and among his other names was the lord chancellor, the first lord of the admiralty, the secretary of state, the governor of New York, and Robert Livingston, founder of the American family of that name. His commission as a pirate hunter bore the Great Seal, of which the Lord Chancellor is the sole keeper, as every one knows.

"Now, these gentlemen were all of the Whig party, then in power. The Tories were keen on the hunt for a scandal to use against them. The rest of the story, and its sad conclusion follow from that fact. There had to be a scapegoat, and Kidd was the man.

His Services Priced. "His history is simple and honorable. His father was said to have been a Nonconformist minister, who was later in the service of the king. Late in his career he ran a packet between New York and London, but in 1689, when William II had become king, and there was hot fighting in the West Indies, he did good service on the English side against the French.

There were troublous times in New York when he returned, a lieutenant-governor being in office pending the arrival of the new governor sent out by the king, for the former governor had died. Jacob Leisler was the popular leader, but Capt. Kidd supported the aristocratic party; and he served the king so well that in 1691 the provincial government rewarded him with a substantial gift. Moreover, he married a rich widow, and these two facts mentioned, for the carefully picked crew with which it started was taken off by a press gang and Kidd had to come to New York to drum up recruits. When he left this city Governor Fletcher predicted that he would never be able to control for a long period the gang of ruffians that composed his crew, inasmuch as they were to get no pay except a share of the spoils. "There were 160 men," said Mr. Gilder, "and they were to receive a quarter of the winnings to be divided among them all. The king was to draw a portion of the proceeds—a third more than Kidd's own share."

Licensed to Hunt Pirates. A twofold purpose guided the Adventure. England was still at war with the latest on Monday. The motion for a suspension of the order of the day was then withdrawn and the debate resumed on the main motion.

France, so the captain's commission as a privateer, authorized him to seize French vessels, while his roving commission was to chase and capture pirates wherever he could. As a pirate hunter he had little luck. He did, however, take prize two vessels which were sailing under the French flag and carrying French passes. "It was not his fault that these turned out to be vessels flying the enemy colors to start rumors home ward that instead of hunting pirates he had turned pirate himself," Mr. Gilder pointed out. "A charge of murder was made against him when he came to trial. It is true that he killed a runner who was the leader of an attempted mutiny which few commanders would have dared to put down. The men were hungry; they wanted to pick up whatever vessels came to hand, and had decided to do so. The gunnery became intolerably insolent, and the captain hit him over the head with a bucket which stood near by. He dropped from the ship, and died next day."

After long hardships Capt. Kidd returned to the West Indies as the greatest prize vessel. "He was beguiled to come ashore at Boston—although he had no business there—and he was taken to Newgate goal, London, where at last he was brought to trial, as they called it, and convicted of piracy on five indictments and of murder also. He had no friends. There was nobody whom his life was a tragedy. Carson City, Nev., Jan. 7.—Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore is the last of its kind, Attorney General Fowler said in a closing brief in the Supreme Court here in his action to have the decree set aside. Miss Pickford received a decree at Minden, Nev., on March 29, 1920, and in a short time married Douglas Fairbanks in Los Angeles. When Attorney General Fowler attacked the divorce, Gavin McNab of San Francisco asserted for the defense that the Attorney General's move "violated every principle of constitutional government."

"No language can be found in any law that can be tortured into giving an excuse for the untruthful testimony of the respondent and the fraudulent decree awarded her by reason of such untruthful testimony," Fowler declared in today's brief.

GIRLS' LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

The first girls' basketball league in the city was successfully launched at a meeting last night. Six teams were entered in the league and a preliminary schedule was drawn up. The girls' teams are in good training and have some players they may well be proud of. It was decided that the first game of the league should be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Monday night, when there is a special programme there. At the meeting last night, besides some of the members of the various teams and all the captains, there were Mrs. John A. McAvity, the president of the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. E. C. Weyman, convener of the physical committee; Miss C. Littlefield, the physical instructor, and Frank Thorne, of the Y. M. C. A. The six teams which are entered in the league are divided as follows—Four from the Y. W. C. A., one from the Y. M. C. A., and one from Fairville.

It was decided to call the new league the Girls' City Basketball League. The officers elected were as follows—Honorary president, Mrs. E. A. Schofield; president, Miss C. Littlefield; secretary-treasurer, Miss Helen Sims; members of the executive, Miss Dorothy Love, Miss Dorothy Simonds, Miss Gerda Holman, Miss Margaret Sancton, Miss Helen Sims, Miss Nan Porteous. Another meeting of the league executive will be held shortly when the schedule will be completed.

The St. David's Win. The Junior Tuxis team of St. David's church last night defeated the Germain street Tuxis team in a fast and exciting game of basketball played in St. David's gymnasium. The score was twenty-four to fifteen in favor of the St. David's team. The line-up was as follows: St. David's, Germain Street. St. David's, Forwards, Jenner, Shaw, Smith, Centre, McAllister, Defence, C. Brown, Malcolm, B. Brown, Council, Belting.

Mount Allison Next. Under the patronage of His Worship Mayor Schofield and Mrs. Schofield, a rattling good game will be staged on the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium floor next Monday evening, when the Mount Allison 'varsity team, which is now touring Nova Scotia, will meet the fast Trojans. The college team wound up in Truro last evening. The Trojans are bringing the Sackville boys here under great expense in order to satisfy the public demand for fast sport. The ladies' league will be officially opened, preceding this game.

Games This Evening. Two good basketball games are expected to take place tonight on the Y. M. C. A. floor when the Trojans and Alerts of the senior section of the City Basketball League clash, and the Outlaws and St. George's of the intermediate section meet.

FREDERICTON DEFEATS ST. JOHN 3 TO 1

Fredricton, Jan. 6.—Fredricton took the lead in the western section of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Hockey League by beating St. John with Fredricton standing up to it at all stages and putting up a defensive game which St. John could not solve save on one occasion, when Bidlake was left uncovered and Barney Mooney dropped in a side shot before the goal-keeper had recovered from stopping one just before. Fredricton did not play the ragged defense game which Marysville did, but always had some players back. St. John worked hard but slackened in the final period. B. Mooney was again the star, his rushing helping out again and again. Payne, his mate on the defence, spent too much time in the penalty box but while on the ice was a valuable man. He did not make the showing he did the night before. The St. John forwards were outplayed by the fast Fredricton trio and when they did get going were stopped by the green and white defence. In the net McAllister put up a good game but during much of the game Fredricton shot poorly.

Scoring: First period, Fredricton, Jewett, 14 mins.; second, Fredricton, Flett, 17 mins.; third, St. John, B. Mooney, 18:30 mins.; third period, Fredricton, 19 mins.; Penalty: St. John, total 19 mins.; Fredricton, total 12 mins.

BONSPIEL EARLIER TO AVOID CLASHING WITH SKATE MEET. In order not to conflict with the championships at St. John, the provincial curling bonspiel that was slated for Fredricton for January 18, 19 and 20 will be held on January 11, 12 and 13. The St. John clubs have agreed to the dates mentioned and it is expected that the other eleven clubs will all be represented. The Blair Cup, indicative of the curling championship of New Brunswick, will be competed for.

SPEED CHAMPION TO SKATE IN U. S. Chicago, Jan. 6.—Oskar Matheson of Norway, international professional speed skating champion, will sail for the United States next week to compete in a series of races. It was announced here today. Matheson plans to race Bobby McLean, Norval Baple, Edward Lamy, Art Staff and other United States professionals.
