

NIPPON FEARS U. S. SHIPPING IN THE PACIFIC

Believes it Only a Question of Time When Her Flag Will be Displaced.

HAS ALREADY TAKEN REPRISAL MEASURES

Some More Liberal Orientals Say American Policy is Justified by Japan's Own Acts.

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE. (Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Washington, Aug. 4.—Another and a third bone of contention has been added to our pending difficulties with Japan. While the State Department is dealing with Japanese land-owning "aggression" in California and the northern part of Saghalin, Japan is raising objections to America's invasion of new shipping policy in the Pacific. At present 50 per cent of the traffic between the Far East and the Pacific ports of the United States is carried in Japanese ships. With the sudden emergence of America as the world's second greatest mercantile marine power, the Japanese consider it only a question of time when the Stars and Stripes will have displaced the Rising Sun as the emblem of shipping supremacy in the Pacific. Japan reads an unmistakable determination to create such a situation in the announced policy of the United States shipping board. It is known in Washington that feeling is running high, and developments are expected.

Active reprisal measures have already been taken by the leading Japanese shipping companies. The Nippon Yusen, Kaido, the Daik Shosha Kaisha and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha recently gave notice that they would withdraw from the international Hong-Kong-Pacific freight pool if the United States shipping board's policy was carried into execution. Another company, the Blue Funnel Line, which operates between Japan and the Philippines, did not wait for the shipping board scheme to come into effect, but promptly withdrew from the Hong-Kong pool.

Prepare for Counter Measures.

The Japanese claim to be acting in full accord with British shipping interests in resisting the bid of America to dominate Pacific shipping. Pending the ability of the Japanese and British governments to obtain remedial action through diplomatic steps, Japanese-British shipping companies are preparing for counter measures of the sharpest nature. A Japanese newspaper, reviewing the crisis which has arisen, said a few days ago that "if America does not realize the inappropriateness of her policy, there will surely be a life or death struggle between her and the countries whose mercantile marine interests are so seriously menaced."

Japanese shipping, especially in the Pacific trade, expanded enormously in the course of the war. Many regular services formerly maintained by British with German, French and Spanish lines are now in the hands of Japanese companies. The Tokyo government has encouraged the development of the Japanese mercantile marine by a liberal policy of subsidies. It has also facilitated its growth by drastic regulations which give Japanese ships a monopoly of the coastwise traffic of Japan.

Foreign vessels are absolutely excluded from that trade. At Portman ports they may touch, but only for coaling, being prohibited from loading or unloading cargo. Certain Japanese shipping authorities, less disposed than the majority of their confederates, say that the new policy of the United States in the Pacific is fully justified by Japanese policy. Until Japan declares the open door in her coastwise traffic and confines subsidies by her imperial mail steamships, liberal-minded Japanese say their government is without steady legs to stand on in protesting against an "America-first" policy in the Pacific.

Say It Spells Ruin.

The Japanese shippers declare that the United States, of course, has a right to protect herself and to adopt strong policies for the employment of her war-made 12,000,000-ton mercantile marine, but they say there is a limit even to "protectionist" necessities beyond which the United States dare not go except at the cost of war to the knife with the foreign interests, which are threatened with extinction.

STRIKING MINERS HAVE VIOLATED THEIR CONTRACT

In his telegrams he declared the strike illegal and unauthorized and in violation of contract.

WEAKNESS CONTINUES IN STERLING EXCHANGE

Sinister News From Europe Yesterday Reflected in Further Drops in Exchange.

New York, Aug. 4.—Sinister news from Europe today was reflected in a further drop in exchange here. Acute weakness continued in sterling exchange, demand bills declining 63-4 cents further to $3.56 1/4.

While the weakness was generally ascribed to the unfavorable Polish situation, a second factor in the decline was the large offering of bills against Europe's purchases of grain at the lower prices reached in the last two weeks. Exchange on London sold as high as $3.78 1/2 last week, and was quoted at $3.96 early in July. In April it touched $4.06 1/2 on the news that the Anglo-French loan redemption had been arranged for by Great Britain. In February the rate had fallen as low as $3.18. Practically half the recovery made between February and April has been lost in this recent renewed decline.

Exchange on other European markets was also lower today.

SENATOR HARDING ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Declares it to be the Other Extreme to a Referendum on Proposed Declaration of War.

Marion, O., Aug. 4.—In his second "front porch" speech today, addressed to a delegation from Wayne County, Senator Harding, Republican candidate for the presidency, touched on the league of nations, declaring it to be the other extreme to a referendum on a proposed declaration of war.

"I emphatically agree," he said, "that no authority other than Congress can call the boys of the United States to battle. Accepting this truth, why make a covenant that violates the good faith of nations. "Suppose," he continued, "that under Article ten a programme of armed force is agreed upon, and the Congress of the United States declines to respond. The executive would be called upon to carry on a war without constitutional authority, or we should prove our compact no more than a scrap of paper. We are on the side of both honor and safety to hold for ourselves the decision of our obligations to the world."

GRAIN ELEVATOR EMPLOYEES STRIKE

LLOYD GEORGE HAD BUSY DAY YESTERDAY

Move of Considerable Significance Reflected in His Two Receptions to Irish Deputation.

CONFERS WITH IRISH LEADERS

Delegation Urges Gov't to Drop Irish Crimes Bill and Substitute Generous Home Rule Measure.

London, Aug. 4.—Poland and Ireland gave Premier Lloyd George a busy day today. In addition to presiding at a long cabinet council and discussing these questions, Mr. Lloyd George received in the afternoon and again in the evening a deputation of Irish Unionists and Nationalists from Dublin and Cork who urged him to grant Dominion home rule for Ireland. The deputation was headed by Sir Stanley Harrington, commissioner for education in Ireland, and included a number of prominent men, among them Professor Wihlham Fitz-John Trench, Trinity College, Dublin. With the premier were Andrew Bonar Law, lord privy seal; Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, and other ministers.

An official report of the conference with the Irishmen, Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law received Leo Kamenoff, president of the Moscow Soviet, Leonid Krassin, and other members of the Russian mission, who have come to London in an endeavor to solve the trade situation between Great Britain and Russia. This was the first official reception of the Russians since their return to London. The discussion was confined to the Polish crisis.

Significant Move.

The premier's reception twice of the Cork and Dublin deputation was the cause of the greatest interest in the lobby of the House of Commons. Here the belief was expressed that the views of men of such high standing in the south and west Ireland, many of whom formerly were opposed to home rule, could not have failed to attract consideration by the ministers.

It was said in the lobby of parliament tonight that the delegation had urged the government to drop the Irish Crimes Bill and substitute a generous Dominion home rule measure. To the objection that the visitors did not represent the Sinn Fein, the delegation argued that the procedure they advocated would at least have behind it the large and growing opinion in Ireland, while the policy of combining "coercion" with the home rule bill now before parliament would be unanimously condemned.

Whether anything comes of the conference or not the view held in the lobby was that the premier's alacrity in receiving the deputation was highly significant. The meeting at Cork, at which it was decided to send the deputation to London, also occurred Tuesday. It is an open secret that the premier favors Dominion home rule as a solution of the controversy, and has been held back by the Conservative element in the cabinet. Therefore, additional significance attaches to the fact that a full meeting of the cabinet was held between the two receptions of the deputation.

SAILORS HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Alleged to Have Been Responsible for Death of Chief Engineer of French Steamer

Quebec, Aug. 4.—Two sailors, Lenoise and Hollinger were held on a charge of criminal responsibility by Judge Choquette in the police court today in connection with the death of Jean Vergos, chief engineer of the French steamer Marmoutier, who was thrown off the deck of the vessel after having been reduced to a state of insensibility. It is alleged. The preliminary hearing was set for August 10.

LIEUT. COL. McLEAN REACHES QUEBEC

Among Passengers on Empress of France Docking Yesterday.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—Among the passengers on the C. P. O. S. Empress of France, which arrived here today, were Lieut.-Col. W. McLean, St. John, and Major-General E. Thacker of Halifax.

There was a death among the third class passengers which had a saddening effect. A little girl named Annie Snape passed away and was buried at sea. She was traveling with her mother, and one sister. Many icebergs were sighted by the Empress of France when passing through the Straits of Belle Isle.

RUSSIAN SOVIET GOVT AGREES TO EVACUATE VILVA

FIND BODY OF FOUR YEAR OLD THOROLD GIRL

Child Has Been Missing Three Weeks—Bod., Stripped of Clothing, Was Covered With Weeds.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 4.—The body of Margaret Bouck, the little four year old Thorold girl who has been missing for nearly three weeks, was this morning found, with the clothes almost torn from her back, covered by a pile of weeds. The spot where the discovery was made is a secluded one in the deep cut on the Welland ship canal along the Pipe line used to supply construction hollers with water. David McNeil, who was last seen with the little girl, is being held on suspicion.

No trace has yet been found of six year old Kathleen Beecham, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in Thorold nearly three months ago. The finding today of what is believed to be the body of the Bouck child, evoked another problem, when the parents of little Kathleen Beecham, who disappeared May 24, also claimed the body of the child as that of their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bonock are quite convinced that the remains are those of their little girl, establishing identification by the clothing and hair. The remains are so badly decomposed that ordinary marks of violence were not easily detected. The clothing had been severed with a knife—there were no wounds noticeable on the body. The body was found by a pipe fitter employed on the Welland ship canal.

There is clean indication that the child was brutally maltreated. The little dress had been split up the front as with a knife, and the bloomers were cut about the knees. However, there is no knife wound on the body. The body was found face up, covered by a pile of weeds that had been piled up by the roots, obscuring it from view, and weighted down by the branch of a tree. The right hand of the little corpse still maintained a death grip upon the branch of a neighboring shrub.

LUXURY TAXES PROVE WISDOM OF GOVERNMENT

Several Millions Added to Country's Revenue As Result of Sir Henry Drayton's Budget.

JULY RECEIPTS SHOW 100 PER CENT INCREASE

Officials of Inland Revenue Department Believe Increase for Year Will Show $70,000,000.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press)—The effect of Canada's new luxury taxes are somewhat clearly shown in the excise tax figures available today. These taxes include luxury sales and manufacturers' tax, and, while it is impossible to give exact figures on the actual amount of luxury tax, it is safe to say that already several millions have been added to the country's income as a result of Sir Henry Drayton's 1920 budget. Collections from all sources of the inland revenue branch for July amounted to $9,982,051, as compared with $4,236,452 for the corresponding month of last year, or an increase of $5,745,599, which is more than one hundred per cent increase.

On the excise tax side the amount collected last month totalled $6,944,457 as compared with $969,299 for the same month last year. This is another abnormal increase which reflects the effect of this year's legislation.

Big Jump in June.

With regard to June of this year there was also a big jump in the matter of excise tax collections, the total being $3,289,676. This also serves to show that the excise tax is due even for bigger increases as the July return more than doubled that of the previous month.

All other items in the July revenue statement show slight increases with the exception of excise revenue of spirits, malt, tobacco, cigars, etc., which aggregate a decrease of $368,054.

Now that the new taxes have been in force two or three months officials of the department estimate, on the basis of the figures quoted above, there will be an increase of approximately $70,000,000 within one year. This, it is pointed out, was the estimate given by Sir Henry Drayton, Canada's minister of finance, in his budget speech last May.

RESCUES YOUNGER BROTHER FROM DROWNING

Heroic Fight by Lad 13 Years Old to Save Six Year Old Brother from Watery Grave

Yarmouth, N. S., Aug. 4.—(By Canadian Press)—A heroic rescue took place in Yarmouth harbor this afternoon when Robert McCord, aged 13, jumped from his motor boat to the rescue of his young brother Charles, aged 8, who had fallen overboard from the boat. The boys with their mother, Mrs. Charles McCord, of New Albany, Ind., are summering at Maitland. Robert and Charles had been up to town and were on their return when the accident happened. They were a couple of hundred yards from the dock and Charles was pumping some water from the boat, when by some means he lost his balance and fell into the water.

His brother immediately took to the situation and with remarkable presence of mind pulled the switch of the engine, let the boat go, and leaped over to his little brother's rescue. They were far over on the western side of the channel, and there was considerable distance between the boys struggling in the water and a wharf, but with remarkable grit and determination, Robert succeeded in keeping his brother afloat and above water until a boat was obtained and assistance went to them. The occurrence was witnessed by a number of people who are loud in their praises of the young hero.

AMBASSADORAL COUNCIL CALLED TO MEET AT PARIS

Paris, Aug. 4.—In view of the Polish situation urgent telegrams were sent today to the Allied Ambassadors, including the United States Ambassador, asking them to return to Paris from their vacations for a meeting of the ambassadorial council to be held tomorrow. FARMERS TAKING LIFE LEISURELY Accession of U. F. O. Gov't to Power Foreshadows New Era of Prosperity and Ease for Farmer.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 4.—The accession of the U. F. O. government to power apparently foreshadowed a new era of prosperity and leisure to the farmer in Ontario, if certain definite predictions can be accepted as criterion, the farmer and the business man will, in the future, as far as privileges are concerned be different in name only. The weekly half-holiday acknowledged by city folks as a prime necessity, but which till lately was frowned upon by followers of pastoral pursuits, is now becoming recognized as "not a necessary evil," but a practical health requirement. Investigations recently made in various centres of Ontario bear out the fact that the farmer is taking his half-holiday regularly. No fixed date has been set, but Wednesday and Saturday afternoons generally find the agrarian folk enjoying themselves at picnics and elsewhere to best advantage. Most have their ball teams and not a few have their lacrosse and soccer teams also. With these attractions and the regular U. F. O. picares, it is not difficult to account for their "change of heart."

BOLSHEVIK SCORE GREAT MILITARY VICTORY

Force Poles to Abandon Bug River Line and May Be Compelled to Relinquish Warsaw.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The Bolsheviki forces apparently have scored a great military victory over the Poles, who are reported to have been forced to abandon the Bug River line and possibly will be compelled to relinquish Warsaw. According to the latest reports reaching Paris the Polish army, for the time being at least, has gone to pieces and the Bolsheviki columns, advancing in echelon in accordance with approved German technique, are enveloping Warsaw simultaneously from the north and the east.

The Bug River line, Poland's Marne, has gone almost without a fight, compelling the Poles to make a rapid retreat and shorten their front, which some of the military experts believe will be likely to bring the Poles on the Vistula and San rivers and involve the abandonment of half the country to the invaders.

AMERICA'S GREETING TO BRITISH WAR LEADERS

Cabled by National Commander of American Legion Who Commends Work of British Army and Navy.

New York, Aug. 4.—Greetings on the sixth anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the war today were cabled to Field Marshal Earl Haig and Admiral Sir David Beatty by Franklin D'Olier, national commander of the American Legion. "Honor to the statesmen who had the courage to assume the responsibility of that decision," read the message.

"Honor to the British millions, who, with valor unsurpassed and hearts of oak, executed that decision on Britain's many fronts. When we contemplate what would have been the state of affairs in the world today, had not Britain acted as she did, and when she did, the trials and difficulties of the present hour, however vexatious, they may seem now to be, sink into comparative insignificance. "United States forces have had the privilege of service on land and sea under British high command.

"The memories of the associations of those great days will never perish. They will perpetuate themselves in our hearts and thus serve to perpetuate the indissoluble friendship of the British and American peoples."

keel of still another. In addition, there is under construction at the present time the hull of a large cruising vessel.

KING FINDS COMFORT IN N. S. ELECTIONS

Regards Results As Being Glorious Vindication of the Strength of the Liberal Party.

WILL INSPIRE FEDERAL WORKERS

Self-Appointed Critic of Hon. Arthur Meighen's Speech at His Home Town.

Newmarket, Ont., Aug. 4.—Asked in an interview here today as to the effect the Nova Scotia elections would have on his party, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader, said: "It will give a great impetus and inspiration. It is a glorious indication of the strength of Liberalism. I think it is all part of a feeling against the reactionary methods of Toryism as exhibited by the federal government. That feeling has found expression in the provinces as well as in the endorsement of Premier Murray."

Mr. King added that he believed the people of the Maritime Provinces were absolutely exasperated by the way they had been ignored by the federal government during the last few years in regard to the representation in the government. "The clear outcome of the Nova Scotia elections is a triumph of Liberalism," said Mr. King in a tone implying complete confidence in the future.

The Liberal leader declined to discuss the hydro-rail matter. "I have enough on my hands in the Dominion sphere," he said.

Slaps New Party.

Commenting on the new National Liberal Conservative Party he said: "My view is that this government has absolutely no right to continue at all. It has received no mandate from the people whatever. The present parliament is not representative of the people in regard to any post-war policies, it is a new government in name with a new policy. Everything is new about it, except the fact that it has no new verdict from the people. The people have had nothing to do with the creation of this government, the choice of leadership of the party platform. It is an entirely new institution without any expression of approval or endorsement by the people, and yet the government presumes to govern the country. It has usurped all the rights of a free people to govern themselves."

"I notice," continued Mr. King, "that in his speech at Portage La Prairie the prime minister spoke about law and order and the people's right to be represented by their representatives in parliament. The best way to secure law and order in Canada is to have a parliament that is thoroughly representative of the interests that will be responsible to parliament. That is the great issue to-day. It will be time enough to discuss difference of policies when we have an opportunity to give them expression, but so long as an autocratic executive continues to control the affairs of the country the people have no say about their policies. That is an anomalous position."

Loss to the Small Ontario Town is Placed at $100,000

Available reports are to the effect that the blaze originated in Young husband's general store and gutted it, spreading across the street the blaze caught and burned down a drug store, a bank and two dwellings. A number of residences were on fire.

DESCENDANTS OF LOYALIST FAMILY HOLD REUNION

One Hundred Gather at Home of George B. Sharp, Lower Millstream—Most Interesting and Historical Event.

On the 18th day of May, A. D. 1783, the United Empire Loyalists landed at Parr, Town, now the city of St. John. Among those Loyalists were Samuel Sharp and his son Robert Sharp, from States Island, New York. On their arrival they went up the Long Reach on the St. John River where they lived a short time after wards removing to the Millstream where they settled on the old Sharp farm near the school house.

Robert Sharp had a large family, the descendants of six sons still live in Kings county. The sons were Samuel, William, Joseph, Nathaniel, Robert and David. Samuel left three sons, Isaac, Joseph and Samuel; the present descendants of Isaac are Albert Sharp of Sussex; Joseph Hornbrook's children, of Mt. Middleton, and Mrs. George Smith, the wife of Joseph, is still living, aged 88, and her children are well known in Sussex where that youngest son, B. J. Sharp keeps a drug store. The descendants of Samuel are George S. Sharp and sisters. The present descendants of William are Charles Sharp, of Mt. Middleton, and his brothers and sisters. The descendants of Joseph are Police Magistrate H. W. Folkins, of Sussex, and his brothers and sisters. The descendants of Nathaniel are Newton Sharp and W. A. Kelstead, of Collins and Frank A. Kelstead, of Sussex and their immediate families. Robert had two children who have descendants now living, namely, Robert and Ann; Robert's daughter is Miss Cornelia Sharp, of Apohaqui; Ann married James Seaman, and has many descendants now living, namely, Dr. Pearson and A. E. Pearson, of Sussex, and their brothers and sisters, Mrs. Walter McMonagle, formerly of Sussex Corner, and Jas. S. Flagler, of St. John and others. David had descendants living in Moncton in Mrs. Sarah Weldon and her brothers.

On Tuesday, August 3rd instant, nearly one hundred of these descendants met at the residence of George S. Sharp, at Lower Millstream, in the house his grandfather lived in. Those present were reminded of the age of the buildings and of its surroundings; when this house was built by Samuel Sharp there were no roads to get to it—only a bridle path, and bears were so thick and plentiful.

EXPECT TO DO LARGE BUSINESS

Montreal, Aug. 4.—W. W. Butler, President of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, states that the operations of the enterprise have been considerably hampered by the shortage of materials, consequent upon the railway situation in the States. But a small proportion of the steel needed to fill the orders already on the company's books, aggregating some $30,000,000, was available, and until this situation was corrected there would consequently be a continuation of the present restricted output of the shops.

The shortage of railway equipment in Canada, said President Butler, rendered the outlook for the car building industry of the Dominion distinctly promising while negotiations for an important volume of export business are in progress.

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING GROWING

Filipinos Striking in Large Numbers — Feeling Running High and Situation Tense.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Manila, Aug. 4.—The anti-American strike has spread to the La Giralda cigar factory, where the force of 400 workers has quit without reason. A strike of all Filipinos employed by members of the American Chamber of Commerce is talked of and the strikers may resort to a boycott also. The native press is vicious in its anti-American attacks.

Three American newspapers are jointly issuing a community paper. The mechanical force is mostly soldiers and volunteer business men.

The military is unofficially supporting the Americans. Feeling is high and the situation tense.

The party of visiting Congressmen will sail for China tomorrow.

At 70, Has Never Seen Its Equal

Mrs. Reader Says She Will Always Bless the Day She Got Tanlac.

"I shall always bless the day I bought my first bottle of Tanlac and during the seventy years of my life I have never seen a medicine to equal it," said Mrs. William Thomas Reader, of south Clonas, Westford, Queens County, N. B.

"For years I was in a terribly weak and rundown condition and suffered a great deal from rheumatism. My appetite was so poor I just had to force myself to eat and my food seemed to me no good. I often had such spells of dizziness that if I hadn't caught hold of something I should have fallen and I don't think anyone could have suffered more from headache than I did. To make matters worse my hands swelled up to twice their size with rheumatism and my fingers got so stiff and painful that it was impossible for me to use them. I had such pains in my legs also that I couldn't sleep at night and often heard the clock strike every hour. I never found anything to give me any relief and had just about given up all hope of being a well woman again when I got Tanlac.

"It certainly is wonderful how the right medicine will help a person. Why, in a very short time I had a splendid appetite and could eat anything put before me. By the time I had finished the sixth bottle the swellings had left my hands and all signs of rheumatism were gone. I haven't been troubled with dizziness or headaches since and I sleep so well at night that I get up in the mornings feeling just fine. I am like an entirely different woman since taking Tanlac and am sure all who suffer as I did would get great good from the medicine."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and F. W. Munro, and the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative—Adv't.

WILL ASK AMNESTY FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS

American Federation of Labor Working for Release of All—Debs Wishes Same Treatment as Comrades.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company) F. W. WILE

Washington Aug. 4.—Efforts of the American Federation of Labor to obtain political amnesty for all political prisoners will be renewed when Congress meets as the result of a letter from Eugene V. Debs, imprisoned socialist, who has made the request that no further action be taken to obtain freedom for him unless all such prisoners could be freed.

The plan for Congressional action was announced here today by Central Labor bodies conference. Senators France and Owen and representative Voigt are expected to lead the fight and the belief was expressed that congressional hearings would be held by a joint judicial committee to see if some relief could not be ordered for those imprisoned during the war for political offences.

The letter from Debs was addressed to Mrs. Lucy Radin, secretary of the Central Labor bodies conference and follows:

"My dear comrade:

"Please say to the comrades in New York that, while I appreciate fully all that has been done in my behalf, I object emphatically to any further appeal being made for me only to President Wilson. I wish no special consideration and I wish to fare no better than my comrades. As long as they are held criminals and criminals my place is here. My comrades will therefore understand that they can serve me best by bringing their influence to bear in behalf of all."

JAPAN TO SEND AID TO HER FISHERMEN

Sending Cruiser to Petropavlovsk to Defend Them Against Possible Bolshevik Raiders.

By GLENN BABB.
(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Tokio, Aug. 4.—Apparently pursuing a policy of placing garrison along the entire northern coast of Siberia the government has decided to dispatch a 13,000-ton cruiser to Petropavlovsk on the eastern coast of Kamchatka to remain during the winter to protect Japanese fishing interests against bolshevik raiders who are reported to be descending from the north. The unnamed cruiser is now fitting at a northern Japanese port for the expedition, says the Tokyo Asahi.

The Japanese decision to occupy Petropavlovsk is based on the necessity of protecting Japanese fishermen and their canning and other establishments along the Kamchatka coasts. More than fifty such establishments, involving a capital of millions of dollars, are said to be endangered by bolshevik raiders.

Inasmuch as Kamchatka is cut off from the rest of the world from the last of September throughout the winter, it was deemed impossible to give the needed protection except by dispatching a warship with a large complement of marines.

It is noteworthy that the Petropavlovsk expedition means that practically every important port on the Siberian coast from Korea to the Behring strait will shortly be in Japanese hands.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Honestly advertised as such, without a claim for more than its over 30 years of use have amply proven. A Baby's remedy for Babies. And not an adult's remedy for all the family and all the ails that human flesh is heir to.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

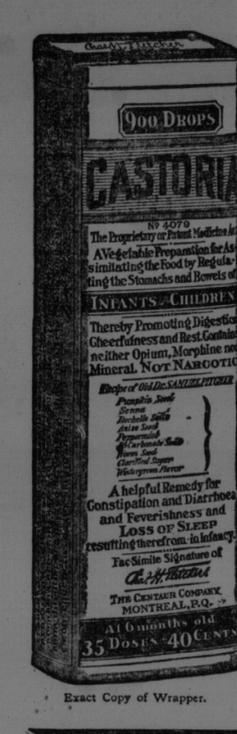

Make a mental note of this—It is important. Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your baby must receive special care. No baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Alma

Alma, N. B., July 30.—A meeting held last evening by the residents of Alma and outlying districts for the purpose of considering an amount to be paid as retainer fee to Dr. E. Rommel of this village. The meeting was called to order at 8.30, with J. A. Cleveland in the chair. Upon being requested to state his requirements, Dr. Rommel said that he would remain in Alma one year for a retainer fee of $500, to be paid in monthly instalments beginning Sept. 1st next. A resolution was then passed to the effect that a subscription list be commenced at this meeting. According to the following were elected to receive and collect the money: Sec. Treasurer, S. S. Koenig; collectors—W. E. Moore, P. Wolfe; E. E. Lewis, Waterside; E. A. A. Hearn, West Haver, and S. S. Kennedy, Alma. It was decided that the amount be collected in the form of an assessment paid by the head of each family, the amount named being $5. A good start was made toward the attainment of the object at the close of the meeting, when the sum of $146 was collected from a number of those present at the meeting, and there remains no doubt whatever that the sum required will be collected within a very short time.

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

For Colds, Pain, Rheumatism, Aching Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia and for Headache, Neuritis, Migraine, Earache, take Aspirin marked with the name "Bayer" or you are not taking Aspirin at all. Accept only "Bayer" Tablets of Aspirin in an unbroken "Bayer" package which contains complete directions. Then you are getting real Aspirin—the genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over ninety years. Now made in Canada. Handy tin boxes containing 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. "You must say 'Bayer'." Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monocarbonyl. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to meet the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

The Maritime Golf Championship

Started Yesterday

The first and second rounds of the Amateur Championship of the Maritime Provinces were run off yesterday at the Riverside Links. A. E. Scutten of the Westfield Club is the only St. John man, in fact the only New Brunswick player to go into the second round which will be played today. The other three returned are all Halifax men, G. C. Mielke, Brightwood, who had the best score Tuesday, J. M. Murphy and C. A. Evans, both of the Halifax Club. B. S. McFarlane, of Truro, last year's champion and Malcolm Starlin, Langan, a former champion and second best score in the qualifying round Tuesday were knocked out in the second round after passing their first golf easily.

J. M. Murphy had the satisfaction of getting back at Mr. McFarlane for the defeat he handed out to him last year at Truro. Mielke and Scutten play this morning in the semi-finals. Both are wonderful drivers but on account of his steady, consistent, all-round play Mielke is conceded the winner. The match between J. M. Murphy and C. A. Evans should be interesting. Both are very steady golfers and brainy players. It is a strange coincidence that these two met in the semi-finals last year at Sussex. Mr. Murphy won that game. Will history repeat itself? Mr. Evans says the pendulum will swing his way this year. Besides the championship play the first and second rounds in the consolation were played and the first round of the first consolation. The semi-finals in these events will be played this morning. One Riverside first and second round in the consolation were played and the first round of the first consolation. The semi-finals in these events will be played this morning. One Riverside first and second round in the consolation were played and the first round of the first consolation.

The professionals who will play the professional championship of the Maritime Provinces were all out yesterday going over the course (tuning up their match which takes place on Friday). The following professional will very likely take part—L. Quenneville, Brightwood; O. Braut, Truro; A. Kelle, Amherst; E. Cornfoot, Truro; Henry Menzies, Riverside; and Sydney Lingard, Riverside. Thirty-six holes, medal play, will be played; 18 holes in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

A large number of spectators were present throughout the day and followed the different players around. When the sun became too warm they enjoyed the comforts of the commodious club house. The First Round. The results in the first round of the championship play were as follows: Our Colonel, Brightwood, won from Geo. Mahon won from A. S. Peters, 1 up. J. D. McKenzie won from H. M. Evans won from D. S. Biggs, 3 up and 2 to play. Malcolm Martin won from E. E. McCauley, 4 up and 3 to play.

Scutten, Westfield Club won from J. D. McKenzie, Langan, Sydney, 5 up and 3 to play. J. M. Murphy, Halifax, won from B. S. McFarlane, Truro, 4 up and 2 to play. A. Evans, Halifax, won from Malcolm Martin, Langan, Sydney, 5 up and 4 to go.

The eight players that were knocked out in the first round of the championship in the morning's play continued to play in the afternoon in the first round of the first consolation. The results of this event follow: W. A. Henry, Brightwood, won easily from H. V. Dalling, Woodstock, 7 up and 6 to go. D. S. Peter, Riverside, won from D. S. Biggs, Amherst, 4 up and 3 to play. Hugh Henry, Brightwood, won from E. E. McCauley, Moncton, 4 up and 3 to play. H. M. Wylie, Brightwood, won from C. J. Jones, Woodstock, 1 up. This game was keenly contested throughout and was won by Wylie in the last hole.

Chatham Race Meet Started Yesterday

Special to The Standard
Chatham, N. B., Aug. 4.—Ideal weather prevailed here for the opening day of the mid-summer meet held at the Chatham Exhibition track this afternoon. Despite the heavy rain yesterday the track was in splendid condition and fast time was made in the several events. There were about 1500 in attendance. The programme consisted of the 2:25 trot with seven starters, 2:21 trot and pace with four starters and the 2:16 trot and pace with five. While the three events were won in three heats each they were all hard fought and interesting. Bingon Worthy, Bill Sharon and Lady Grattan captured first monies in straight heats, the struggle in all three classes being chiefly for second position. Bill Sharon was a great favorite and his driver, the veteran Peter Carroll, was given an ovation each time he came under the wire with the speedy chestnut leading the field. He won the 2:21 class easily and would doubtless give a good account of himself in the faster class, the 2:16, in which he is entered for Friday. It is worthy of note that the three heats in the 2:25 class were all trotted in the same time.

The programme for this morning calls for the semi-finals in the championship and the two consolations. The four winners that were returned in yesterday's play in each event compete in the semi-finals. Play begins at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. C. H. Townshend, L. S. Saunders, W. Bean and J. McGilivray.

These games were all under the direction of Mr. F. E. Townshend. After the conclusion of sports all were seated for a bounteous supper, which was prepared by the young ladies, after which dancing, card games, and the singing of old-fashioned songs to which Mrs. Thompson acted as pianist, were greatly enjoyed. Shortly after the party took to the cars for their return to the city, all proclaiming the picnic a grand success.

Second Series Of Rowing Races

The second of the commercial Club Rowing races will be held on the waters of Courtenay Bay next Monday evening, as the tide suits at that time. The first race will be started at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

The interest in this series is stronger than the first; the Belyea, Stackhouse and Renforth fours are each out to win and a good race may be expected. The Melniks crew, of the West End would also be in this race, but these sturdy oarsmen are unable to procure a boat. It is quite possible this crew will be seen in action at a later date.

Hilton Belyea gives a handicap of three lengths to the other scullers in the senior single.

The junior scullers are also keen in their spirit.

The distance for all races is one mile and a half.

ROTHESAY LOST TO FAIR VALE

An interesting game of baseball was played at Rothsay on Tuesday evening between the Fair Vale's and Rothsay clubs, and while the score was all one sided nevertheless there were a great many close and exciting plays made.

The clubs were rather late reaching the ball field, but after appointing an umpire settled down to hard work for six innings.

The Rothsay players were unable to find Mr. Higgins' curves, who pitched for Fair Vale, and the result was a goose egg had to be marked against them for the whole six innings.

The Fair Vales who at times were not able to find the Rothsay twirler's curves had to content themselves with getting one man over home plate for three innings; but the other three innings managed to send six men around the bases, making the score 6 to 0 in Fair Vales' favor.

But the Rothsay club not being at all discouraged will in the near future have a chance to redeem themselves if possible.

W. B. Parris, barrister of Vancouver, B. C., is in the city, a guest at the Royal Hotel and is renewing old acquaintances.

One of many fine Canadian

ON two million wheels rolls the traffic of Canada's steam railways.

As each train reaches a divisional point these wheels must be tested. For this work nine hundred car inspectors are required.

While the train crew pick up their orders, while engines are changed, while ice and water tanks are charged, the Car Inspector strikes each wheel and axle—and listens for the false note that marks a flaw.

Though he rarely finds one, the vigilance of the railways cannot on that account be relaxed—and 3,500,000 hours of labor must be paid for this service alone every year.

Increased freight rates are imperative, not only in the interests of the railways but of the individual citizen and the community as a whole.

THE TASK BEFORE CANADIANS.

Although not intended for political purposes, the Hon. Mr. Meighen's speech the other day at Portage La Prairie carries with it a lesson of considerable political importance. He pointed out the duty of the hour for all patriotic Canadians, which is to get together and work for the welfare of the country.

United Kingdom, but whether an outside peace-preserving force is not imperatively necessary to keep the North and South from flying at each other's throats.

AN INCREASING REVENUE.

Whether the luxury and other taxes imposed by last session's Budget are popular or not, they appear to be realizing the purpose for which they were imposed. While it is not as yet possible to give the exact figures, showing the amount actually realized by the luxury, sales and manufacturers' tax, the aggregate amount of taxes collected so far this year, is enormously in excess of any previous similar period.

MORE FACTORIES FOR CANADA.

Many American manufacturers for whose products a demand was created in Canada through extensive advertising long ago established factories in this country. Perhaps a majority of such manufactured articles most commonly known in Canada are made here.

THE RICH MAN.

Certain philosophers have preached the cheering gospel that it is more pleasant to be poor than rich. Possibly they are right, but appearances are against them. But, while admitting that wealth is a golden key to many worlds of enjoyment, it is not entirely useless to consider the lot of the rich man in true perspective.

KEEPING THE IRISH PEACE.

The new Irish Bill coming before the British Parliament this week will give to the Irish Government new powers to enforce order. Matters in Ireland have come to the stage where the British Government must either vacate or assert itself, and it now proposes to abandon the "hands off" attitude, and begin a policy of repression. Even the Irish Secretary, who took up office with great professions of mildness and leniency, has had to forecast stern measures. He now is excoriated by the Republican element like all the other Government officials.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

An Active Prince. (Vancouver Province) Asked what kind of a time he was having in Australia one of the press representatives attached to the Prince of Wales' staff replied: "Reggie kangaroo; keep us on the jump all the time."

The Wonder of Party Candidacy. (Greenville S. I.) "I don't know how the Republicans did not realize that Harding was a composite of George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, and Theodore Roosevelt until after he was nominated."

Canada's Ships. (Port Arthur News Chronicle) "Had it not been found necessary to affect work in Canada for the thousands of shipbuilders who would have been thrown out of employment with the conclusion of the British orders for ships, Canada would not have the magnificent fleet that now sails the seas and which will be greatly increased during the present year. Possession of these ships gives Canada the one want required to enable it to go out and seek trade and bring to our markets direct the goods of far distant lands we require and to carry these lands Canadian goods in exchange. Our ships are now sailing to most parts of the world, and are to be found in ports where Canadian ships never before entered."

Bill for Luxuries. (Toronto Sun) According to the statistics compiled by the Treasury of the United States Government, "Uncle Sam, his wife and family" are spending upward of $8,700,000,000 a year in luxuries. Tobacco heads the list with an annual outlay of $2,100,000,000; cigarettes cost $800,000,000; snuff and hose to tobacco a like sum; cigars, $570,000,000. The tidy little sum of $2,000,000,000 goes for motor cars and their parts. Candy makers reap a harvest of $1,000,000,000; while $500,000,000 is spent annually for chewing gum. Soft drinks cost the public $300,000,000; perfumery and cosmetics, $150,000,000; furs, $100,000,000; carpets and luxuries clothing, $150,000,000.

Inspiring Address To Canadian Club

Yesterday Dr. James C. Miller, Assistant Director of Vocational Training for Ontario, Took for Subject "What Are We Doing With Our Greatest National Asset."

At the Canadian Club luncheon at Bond's yesterday afternoon the members listened with rapt attention to an address by Dr. James C. Miller, assistant director of vocational training for Ontario, who pointed out the increasing necessity of vocational training for the future citizens of Canada. The president, A. M. Belding, was in the chair, and in introducing the speaker, pointed out that Dr. Miller had visited New Brunswick in 1919, when he was making a survey of the educational systems of the provinces, with special reference to rural education. He has just now come from Woodstock, where he has been lecturing to the teachers taking a summer course in vocational work.

In his younger days Dr. Miller lived in the only wooden dwelling in what is now the city of Regina. After the luncheon yesterday he was driven about the city to see the leading industries.

Dr. Miller is the assistant director of vocational training for Ontario, and was the man whom the Canadian government lent to Washington to aid in establishing vocational training for the American soldiers. The subject of Dr. Miller's address yesterday afternoon was: "What are we doing with our greatest national asset?" and was as follows:

Canada is a young country richly endowed in territory and natural resources. While our population is relatively small, it is in the main, composed of as fine and as vigorous a stock as can be found anywhere in the world. Our present human resources may be small in quantity but no apologies are needed regarding their potential qualities. Our greatest national asset is to be found in the undeveloped childhood and youth of our land and in the adults now actively participating in the affairs of life. Without this asset all other resources are of little avail and can accomplish nothing. May we take counsel together for this afternoon for a few minutes regarding this basic and most vital of our natural problems. What are we to do with the greatest of our national assets?

From the point of view of quantity we must look for the increase in our human resources to immigration and to home production. With reference to the former we need to give heed to the quality of the human stock that is admitted to our citizenship from beyond our borders. We must guard the outer gates and admit only the fit. With even greater intelligence and foresight must we take heed of those who enter through the inner gates of childhood and youth. They are physically and mentally fit to become real assets to the nation and not liabilities. We must safeguard the frontier of childhood against disease, lack of vitality and physical defects. The efforts of our new national department of health and of the provincial and municipal departments of health to meet this responsibility should receive not merely sympathetic intellectual approval but our positive and active support in terms of personal, civic and provincial action.

Our human resources are increased through the immigration of adults. Intelligence requires that they be not kept as a group apart with social, political and language barriers must be removed and they must be brought into intelligent and sympathetic association with all the earlier phases of our local and national life. This implies measure to facilitate the powers of assimilation through instruction in English, in personal and civic relations, in economic and political organization and methods. The least that we can do is to assist them in breaking through the language barrier. Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta have recognized this responsibility and have made provision whereby it may be met.

What of Childhood and Youth? It is the children of our native born and the children of the immigrants that we find the source of our human assets—the foundation material out of which our nation is to be built, and through which it is to be maintained and to find its growth. Our wisdom, foresight and effectiveness in conserving, developing and utilizing the human resources that come to us through this inner frontier will determine our future as a nation.

In its efforts to meet this responsibility society has evolved a social institution which it calls the school, whether it be kindergarten or university. It has placed the school as an intermediate institution between the helplessness and immaturity of childhood on the one hand and the opportunities and responsibilities of adult life on the other. Its task is essentially threefold in character: 1—It must function as a protective agency protecting childhood against (a) Economic pressure for an extending period of time sufficient to enable it to perform its other functions. Witness the Fisher Bill of 1918 in England, and adolescent school attendance act in Ontario and in twelve of the States. (b) Preventable disease and removable physical defects. Witness, medical inspection and supervision now provided not only in urban, but also in social communities. (c) Unfortunate tendencies of their own nature—that which is unsocial and building up that which will enable it to get along well with its fellows.

2—It must function as an educative agency developing and nourishing the life of the child with social, intellectual, moral and religious intent and at the same time giving it a mastery of the tools which it may itself use to continue this kind of nourishment throughout life.

3—It must function as a selective agency discovering on the one hand the special talents of the children and developing those precious talents so that each may attain to full self realization and on the other hand ascertaining the varied demands of a child life so that it may assist in guiding the children into those walks of life where in they may find full opportunity for self realization and at the same time that opportunity to render their greatest service to the welfare of society.

Not many generations ago, the school was but the hand-maid of the church. The emancipation of the human intellect from arbitrary authority led to the development of our cities and all that this has meant in times of increased knowledge of nature's materials and nature's forces.

The emancipation of the individual from arbitrary control carries with it the necessity of education for all those entrusted in order that duties and responsibilities be met as well as right and privilege claimed. The gradual emancipation of the individual from excessive economic pressure has brought not only the necessity but also the possibility of providing education for all citizenship and for vocational efficiency. The applications of several to the problem of training and utilizing nature's materials and so arranging and controlling nature's forces as to cause them to serve man's purposes have revolutionized the whole field of commercial and industrial work. The increase of productive power thus obtained has made possible (1) the elimination of slavery, (2) the elimination of child labor until fourteen years of age and in fact until sixteen and even eighteen years of age, (3) the restriction and regulation of woman labor, the shortened working day. All these without any great relative strain on the immense basis of society. This immense evolution of society has, however, brought with it an immense increase in the complexity of our human relations and in the preparatory training needed by all those who desire to enter the field of commercial and industrial work. The equitable distribution of the results of this greatly increased productive power is the chief problem in summer adjustment today. For the purpose of our training of our youth it is necessary to extend the school period for the training of our youth who are to enter commercial and industrial pursuits and it has made it financially possible to do with little if any greater strain on society.

Business Man's View of Situation If the school, the several institutions who as citizens have erected to care for the organized training of our childhood and growth, is to meet these increasing responsibilities, as business men and good citizens we must see that we make it possible for it to measure up to its responsibilities and having made it possible we must see that it does measure up to its opportunities for service. We are demanding that it care for the education of the children of all the people, that it train some for intellectual and professional leadership and in the operative work in all walks of life and that it train all in personal and social ideals and on the live principles of good citizenship. The problem of giving a preparatory training to those who are to enter the trades, the industries, the commercial schools in which will be as helpful to them as is the preparatory training we now give those who are to enter the professions is one that cannot be solved in a moment. The further problems of providing further supplementary vocational training for our youth while they are engaged in useful employment is a necessary and fundamental part of any programme for vocational training. The development of vocational education must not be considered as any way in conflict with cultural and professional training. Wisely planned it will bring an increase in cultural and citizenship training to five per cent of our boys and girls who do not continue into the high schools. Not only that but the training of those whose vocational responsibility is to be that of providing intellectual, moral, religious, political and social leadership will have to be greatly strengthened and extended. To lead an informed, intelligent and commercially and industrially efficient people who require the highest possible attainment in these fields of professional and social service.

Gentlemen of the Canadian Club, I wonder if we truly realize our responsibilities in this matter. Beyond a question or doubt, before the children now in our schools have run their course in life Canada will not be the Canada of today but a Canada of thirty or it may be forty millions of people. Think of what that means in terms of opportunity times. Lines of opportunity, in times of responsibility, in times of opportunity and these responsibilities will have to be met. In some sort of fashion by our boys and girls of today. How do we want them to meet and to deal with them? When their day of trial of stress and strain comes will they be able to look back and say "We are not afraid, we know and can do, because our fathers planned wisely and provided liberally to prepare us for the life that was before us." Will they be able to look back and say that or will our Canadian born boys and girls have to step aside and give the places of leadership and of confidence to others from other lands in which the adults of today have planned more wisely and more generously for the training of their young than we are doing.

Gentlemen, the extension of our educational service is not merely a personal or civic or even a provincial matter. It is all of these but it is the very foundation of our national life. What are we going to do with our greatest national asset?

People of Paris Suffer From Heat

Coolness Thing Sought After in Costumes — Importing Chinese Maids to Meet Help Problem.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

Paris, Aug. 4.—Grand Prix Sunday, the climax of the Paris season, being now in the fast fading distance, Parisians are getting restless and sighing for the cooler joys of Trouville, Deauville, Dieppe and Paris-Plage, where La Manche—otherwise the "hamburger" is invited, and the hot word in bathing suits can be displayed to advantage.

Paris herself has become a place of glaring days and sweltering nights, where the only possible thing to do is sit on the terraces of some cafe, in a straw hat and no waistcoat—if you are a man—or in the minimum of mourning de soie if a woman, and sip long led drinks through straws.

The American ice-cream bars and soda fountains are thronged all day by parched Parisians and American Americans and Canadiana, who are only waiting for the day when by the kindness of the roads and seashore hotel keepers, they can seek relief from this unbroken city.

Coolness, no matter in what material or style, is the demand of women entering their seashore frocks. The milliners are working double time to fill the overwhelming stacks of orders on hand, and trade union regulations as to hours are being enforced.

The crownless hat is the latest decree of fashion for summer wear, but is not, by the way, the most bizarre manifestation of millinery madness. One phenomenon that started the boom was the other day was what appeared to be a woman's helmet with ear-lappets, made entirely of cigarettes. The no-crown hat is becoming and easily made at home, and may consist merely of a bandless stack around with various quilts—of any old color—which may be picked up in the cloakroom. In place of the crown the wearer's own hair emerges in the centre and to be smart, the hair must be mahogany red. Appropriately enough, a bandy hat should be protected by a thatched roof parasol.

This is made of plaited straw in the most bewildering riot of jazz colors. The whole effect is barbaric.

A few weeks ago, a brave attempt was made to combine the overall movement in Paris among men, women, children—and dogs. There was an overall parade through the streets and even an overall frolic dance. But today, where are the overalls? Back where they belong in the warehouse and factory. The Parisienne to whom fashion is a religion, is not seen in the shapeless things, nor will she be seen walking with an overcast cavalier. So that's that! One or two bold spirits among the men, who have made a vow or had a wager to wear the overall, still survive, but they recognize alone or with other stalwarts sworn to brown exteriors.

Meanwhile a dressmaker has designed what she calls an overall suit, which is a sort of compromise, and has managed to avoid compromise on the price. It is quite smartly cut and is to all intents and purposes a one-piece frock with two breast pockets fastened by buttons. That is all about it that suggests the overall.

I have noticed during the height of the Paris season, women have largely eschewed canopies and ornate toilettes and appeared even at fashionable Longchamp in plain tailored suits or little dress frocks. If you saw a particularly out-of-frock woman inside was probably a mannequin and advertising was her game. Of course, the simpler dresses worn by the real

"I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches and did not sleep well at night. Finally, a friend urged me to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' In a week the Constipation was corrected and soon I was free of pain, headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous."

A Danish periodical recently asked its readers to vote for their favorite among the film artists of the day. The results have been announced, and as might have been expected, "the world's sweetheart," Mary Pickford, is top of the poll with 139,199 votes, more than 20,000 ahead of her nearest competitor, Marguerite Clark, who polled 128,852.

Among the men, Douglas Fairbanks, with 122,118 votes, closely followed by W. S. Hart, the "strong silent man," with 123,545. Then came Harold Lloyd, Wood and Wallace Reid with 123,190 and 119,466 respectively. The two remaining places in the first eight are filled by Pearl White, the Pathe serial star, 114,206 votes, and Anita Stewart with 102,875.

There is a chart at Hatfield, England, tracing the genealogy of Queen Elizabeth back to David, and thence to Adam. It measures 45 feet, and is believed to be the largest genealogical tree in existence. Coats of arms and heraldic devices are attached to many of the illustrious names given.

In anticipation of the ratification of the Woman Suffrage Amendment in New Jersey, letters have been sent to all Republican county chairmen suggesting that women be placed on the county committees as auxiliary members.

Chinese Maids. French housewives, at their wits' end for domestic help, are going to try Chinese maids, just as in America, Japanese maids have been imported to solve the great domestic problem. French girls are simply not to be had, as statistics prove. Figures filed by the domestic bureaus show that for every 150 jobs there are only ten servants. This scarcity is attributed to the increased marriage rate, the decreased birth rate, and the higher salaries paid by milliners and other businesses employing large numbers of girls. Already women in search of help are registering at the agencies for the first time. Consistent maidens, but so far there is no prospect of an early delivery of the "goods."

REPUBLICANS AFTER SUFFRAGIST SUPPORT

Leaders Call on Members of Tennessee Legislature to Vote for Woman Suffrage.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

F. W. WILE.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Republican leaders in Tennessee are exerting all possible pressure among members of their party in the Legislature to obtain ratification of the suffrage amendment when the Legislature meets next week, according to reports received here by the National Woman's party. Hal H. Clements, Republican chairman in Tennessee, has sent a letter to every Republican member asking a pledge for supporting from each.

Another prominent Republican, J. A. Fowler, assistant United States Attorney General for a number of years, in another letter has assured the Republican legislators that they action in ratifying the amendment would be legal.

"The Republicans of the state and nation," said Mr. Clements, "have always been foremost in the fight for suffrage and I therefore feel safe in pleading every Republican member of the House and Senate in Tennessee to support the amendment."

Mr. Fowler in his opinion on the legality of voting on the amendment at this time said: "It seems to me that the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the recent case of Hawke vs. Smith, secretary of state of Ohio, is conclusive on this question. My judgment, therefore, is that any member of the present legislature can vote either for or against the ratification of the nineteenth amendment without violating his official oath."

An editorial to be contained in the August issue of the Suffragist, the organ of the National Woman's party, which says that the suffrage plank in the two platforms offers a test of the sincerity of the two parties, was made here today.

"The suffrage plank in the platform of the Republican and Democratic parties offers a test of sincerity of the parties and platform," said the editorial.

"This one alone, of all the planks, can be carried out immediately. Failure to carry it out before the elections would leave little reason to hope for the enactment of the other provisions of the platform after the elections."

"Tennessee offers the first opportunity to the two parties to prove the sincerity of their stand in favor of suffrage."

"A strong vote for suffrage in Tennessee is the one opportunity which the Republican possesses to redeem their record of abstraction in Vermont and Connecticut and prevent the Democrats from winning the full credit for giving the thirty-sixth state and enfranchising women in time for the 1922 elections."

"Under the favorable situation presented for ratification in Tennessee, defeat of the amendment would be interpreted as deliberate or as due to sheer carelessness on the part of the political parties."

"The presidential candidate of both parties have announced themselves for ratification."

"The present Governor of Tennessee, who called the session, and all candidates in the coming gubernatorial election favor the amendment."

"The state chairman and the national commit-omen of both parties in Tennessee have endorsed it."

"The congressional delegation from Tennessee except for two members, strongly support the amendment."

"The legislature displayed its friendliness to suffrage last year by passing the presidential suffrage bill."

ARTISTS' MODELS GONE ON STRIKE

Refuse to Pose as Germans in War Pictures—Painters in Despair See Fortunes Slipping from Their Grasp.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

By HENRY FRANCIS.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The production of war pictures, now greatly in demand by historical societies and collectors, has been halted by the patriotic strike of artists' models at Montmartre, the Latin quarter, who refuse to pose as German soldiers.

The issued ultimatum declares they will not pose as Germans, wear German costumes, simulate German "culture" or favor the spirit of Germany in any form. The artists are frantic for they have seen the tide of fortune swelling with rush of orders from persons and societies who desire to perpetuate the memories of certain incidents and battles of the great war.

"How," ask the artists, "can we paint war scenes without showing the boches and how can we paint the boches without models?"

The suggestion to import German models met with a declaration that trouble might be expected if any such attempt was made. Feeling is running so high on the matter that female model have threatened to throw boards and riotous mobs who paint German figures and this has weakened the morale of the artists more than all the threats of rioting.

Though now receiving 300 per cent more than before the war, the models are asking for a four-hour day.

Financial columns state that Canadian Convertibles have had a successful year. Canadian Uniflites don't seem to count the year lost either, spite of Bishop Fulton's remarks.

With presidential suffrage bill with August session of the Suffragist, the organ of the National Woman's party, which says that the suffrage plank in the two platforms offers a test of the sincerity of the two parties, was made here today.

"The suffrage plank in the platform of the Republican and Democratic parties offers a test of sincerity of the parties and platform," said the editorial.

MOVIE NEWS

Helen Jerome Eddy will start work soon in "The First Born," Sessue Hayakawa's next picture, and his first production under the auspices of Robertson Cole. She will portray the part of a mother. Miss Eddy has much experience in oriental roles. She had prominent parts in two Hayakawa pictures, "The Tong Man" and "The Man Beneath."

Paul Trenton has forsaken his daily trips to the gymnasium and is getting a fine crop of tomatoes and hard-boiled muscles by working in his garden. He is becoming an adept in the use of a hand cultivator. Negotiations are still under way which may result in Trenton soon being at the head of his own company.

Seena Owen took her first lesson in operating a one-man street car in Los Angeles, recently. She has driven a peck of Alaskan dogs, been at the throttle of an engine, took a whirl at steering an airplane, drives an automobile with one hand, has handled a 16 mule team on top of a swaying stage, and merely took a try at running the street car to complete the list.

Supply inadequate. Monkey glands are being used as rejuvenators of old age. This affords little hope for the Canadian Senate, however, as it would take a whole jungle of monkeys to make a start.

To Make a Tart Salad Jell

Jiffy-Jell is for salads as well as desserts. Get the lime-flavor and it will make you a tart, green salad jell. Mint flavor makes a mint jell.

The fruit flavors in Jiffy-Jell are fruit-juice, essences in vials—a bottle in each package. They are real fruit, and the flavor is abundant. No artificial flavors—no saccharine.

Try loganberry or pineapple flavor for a dessert, and learn what delicious dainties Jiffy-Jell brings to your table. A package will serve six people.

Jiffy-Jell with its natural fruit flavor costs much less than jam or marmalade.

WRONG TAX—

That the boarding-house pruned its luxuriant diet. Few boarders are apt to agree. But a tax on potatoes would get their sure flat. Since potatoes they seldom can see.

March of the Cameron Men. The march of those Cameron men through Ireland must have been considerably lightened by the kindly act of the Sinn Feiners in offering to carry their rifles for them.

Flannigan—"What's the matter with ye, Mike?" O'Rafferty—"Tis near kilt I was be fallin' down an open coal hole." Flannigan—"Well, well, 'tis too bad they can't invent a coal hole that'll stay shut when it's open."

Old Stuff. Funniest thing about the U. S. Presidential campaign is the fact that U. S. papers prate about "campaign bribery" as though it were something new. What a lot of unconscious humorists those claps are!

U. S. PROTEST AGAINST THE JAP ACTION

No Dismemberment of Russia or Recognition of Soviets and the Open Door.

AMERICA PLAYING WORLD DIPLOMACY

Contents Russia Should Still Be Regarded as One of the Allies and Treated Accordingly.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)
F. W. WILE.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The United States in the negotiations which have been launched with Japan is playing world diplomacy of a far wider sort, it was learned today, than appears in the paragraphs of the Signal note made public in Tokyo. The objectives of the United States manifold in scope, includes the three following major factors:

Reaffirmation of the definite policy outlined and adhered since the armistice that there must be no dismemberment of Russia.

A supreme effort to prevent recognition, on the part of any civilized government of Soviet Russia.

Absolute adherence to the policy of the "open door" in the Far East expounded first by John Hay.

These three co-related objects have formed the basis of the position taken by this government and are known to be understood by the foreign offices of several European nations.

Despite dispatches from Tokyo the state department has refused consistently to affirm or deny the sending of a note to Japan on the occupation of half of Saghalin Island or the activities of Japanese troops in Siberia. Nevertheless, in diplomatic quarters here it is learned that the United States has offered objection that any of the participants on the side of the Allies in the world war should take advantage of Russia's present plight or take any portion of her country as hostage. From the viewpoint of the United States it is an accepted fact that the Central Empires in the late war are acting as trustees for the maintenance of status quo in that stricken country until a majority of the people of Russia can set up a government. In this stand the United States turns to its diplomatic quarters expressed in official circles, that the ultimate regeneration of Russia is a thing to be expected and worked for and until such an awakening of the mass of the Russian people can take place she is not to lose her preferential rights as an ally in the war against Germany.

This position of the United States government has been expressed on several occasions. It came to the front in the refusal to recognize the independence of Estonia and Latvia and again in the note on the Turkish treaty when President Wilson declared that in the disposition of the Dardanelles the United States considered that in whatever settlement might be made that due consideration must be given to Russia's claims and that a place must be left upon any commis-

"You've managed to give yourself a nasty gash," Mr. Mangan observed curiously.

"I don't understand why, I do not understand why."

"Doesn't it say somewhere in the Bible—'A life for a life'?" You kill—Roger Unthank.

The Great Impersonation

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM.

Dominey returned from the sideboard, carrying also a well-filled plate.

"I had a pretty useful night's rest myself," he observed.

Mangan raised his eyeglasses and gazed at his host's throat.

"Cut yourself, eh?" he queried.

"Razor slipped," Dominey told him. "I got out of the use of those things in Africa."

"You've managed to give yourself a nasty gash," Mr. Mangan observed curiously.

"Parkins is going to send up for a new set of safety razors for me," Dominey announced. "About our plans for the day, I've ordered the car for two-thirty this afternoon, if that suits you. We can look around the place quietly this morning. Mr. Johnson is sleeping over at a farmhouse near here. We shall pick him up on route. And I have told Lee, the butler, to come with us too."

"Mr. Mangan nodded his approval.

"Upon my word," he confessed, "it will be a joy to me to go and see some of those fellows without having to put 'em off about repairs and that sort of thing. Johnson has had the worst of it, poor chap, but there are one or two of them round by Wells who farms nearly eight hundred acres—"

He broke off in his speech. There was a knock at the door, not an ordinary knock at all, but a measured, deliberate tapping, three times repeated.

"Come in," Dominey called out.

Mrs. Unthank entered, severe, more unattractive than ever in the hard morning light. She came to the end of the table, facing the place where Dominey was seated.

"Good morning, Mrs. Unthank," he said.

She ignored his greeting.

"I am the bearer of a message," she announced.

"Pray deliver it," Dominey replied.

"Her ladyship would be glad for you to visit her in her apartment at once."

Dominey leaned back in his chair. His eyes were fixed upon the face of the woman whose antagonism to himself was so apparent. She stood in the path of a long gleam of morning sunlight. The wrinkles in her face, her hard mouth, her cold, steely eyes were all clearly revealed.

"I am not at all sure," he said, with a purpose in his words, "that any further meeting between Lady Dominey and myself is at present desirable.

"If he had thought to disturb this messenger by his suggestion, he was disappointed.

"Her ladyship desires me to assure you," she added, with a note of contempt in her tone, "that you need be under apprehension."

Dominey admitted defeat and poured himself out some more coffee. Neither of the two noticed that his fingers were trembling.

"Her ladyship is very considerate," he said. "Kindly say that I shall follow you in a few minutes."

Dominey, following within a very few minutes of his summons, was ushered into an apartment large and sumptuously elegant, an apartment of faded white and gold walls, of chandeliers glittering with lustres of Louis Quinze furniture, shabby but priceless.

To his surprise, although he scarcely noticed it at the time, Mrs. Unthank promptly disappeared. He was from the first left alone with the woman whom he had come to visit.

She was sitting up on her couch and watching his approach. A woman? Surely not a child, with pale cheeks, large, anxious eyes, and masses of brown hair brushed back from her forehead. After all, was he indeed a strong man, vowed to great things? There was a queer feeling in his throat, almost a mist before his eyes. She seemed so fragile, so utterly, sweetly pathetic. And all the time there was the strange light, or was it want of light, in those haunting eyes. His speech of greeting was never spoken.

"So you have come to see me, Everard," she said, in a broken tone. "You are very brave."

He possessed himself of her hand, the hand which a few hours ago had held a dagger to his throat, and kissed the waxen-like fingers. It fell to her side like a lifeless thing. Then she raised it and began rubbing softly at the place where his lips had fallen.

"I have come to see you at your bidding," he replied, "and for my pleasure."

"Pleasure!" she murmured, with a ghastly little smile. "You have learnt to control your words, Everard. You have slept here and you live. I have broken my word. I wonder why?"

"Because," he pleaded, "I have not despaired that you should seek my life."

"That sounds strangely," she replied. "Doesn't it say somewhere in the Bible—'A life for a life?' You killed Roger Unthank."

"I have killed other men since in self-defence," Dominey told her. "Sometimes it comes to a man that he must stay or be slain. It was Roger Unthank—"

"I shall not talk about him any longer," she decided quite calmly. "The night before last, his spirit was calling to me below my window. He wants me to go down into Hell and live with him. The very thought is horrible."

"Come," Dominey said, "we will speak of other things. You must tell me what presents I can buy you. I have come back from Africa rich."

"Presents?"

For a single wonderful moment, here was the face of a child who has been offered toys. Her smile of anticipation was delightful, her eyes had lost their strange vacancy. Then, before he could say another word, it all came back again.

"Listen to me," she said. "This is important. I have sent for you because I do not understand why, quite suddenly last night, after I had made up my mind, I lost the desire to kill you. It is gone now. I am not sure about myself any longer. Draw your chair nearer to mine. Or, no, come to my side, here at the other end of the sofa."

She moved her skirts to make room for him. When he sat down, he felt a strange trembling through all his limbs.

"Perhaps," she went on, "I shall break my oath. Indeed, I have already broken it. Let me look at you, my husband. It is a strong thing to own after all these years—a husband."

Dominey felt as though he were breathing an atmosphere of tar and poisoned sweetness. There was a flavour of unreality about the whole situation—the room, the child, the man, her beauty, her deliberate, halting speech and the strange things she said.

"You find me changed?" he asked.

"You are very wonderfully changed. You look stronger, you are perhaps better-looking, yet there is something gone from your face which I thought one never lost."

"You," she said cautiously, "are more beautiful than ever, Rosamund."

She laughed a little drowsily.

"Of what use has my beauty been to me, Everard, since you came to my little cottage and loved me and made me love you, and took me away from Dou Roger? Do you remember the school children used to call him Dou Roger?—but that does not matter. Do you know, Everard, that since you left my feet have not passed outside these gardens?"

"That can be altered when you wish," he said quickly. "You can visit where you will. You can have a motor car, even a house in town. I shall bring some wonderful doctors here, and they will make you quite strong again."

Her large eyes were lifted almost pitiously to his.

"But how can I leave here?" she asked plaintively. "Every week, sometimes often, he calls to me. If I went away, his spirit would break loose and follow me. I must be here to wave my hand, then he goes away."

Dominey was conscious once more of that strange and most unexpected fit of emotion. He was unrecognizable even to himself. Never before in his life had his heart beaten as it was beating now. His eyes, too, were hot. He had travelled around the world in search of new things, only to find them in this strange, faded world, side by side with this suffering woman. Nevertheless, he said quietly:

"We must send you some place where the people are kinder and where life is pleasanter. Perhaps you love music and to see beautiful pictures. I think that we must try and keep you from thinking."

She sighed in a perplexed fashion.

"I wish that you could get it out of my blood that I want to kill you. Then you could take me right away. Other married people have lived together and hated each other. Why shouldn't we? We may forget even to hate."

Dominey staggered to his feet, walked to a window, threw it open and leaned out for a moment. Then he closed it and came back. This new element in the situation had been a shock to him. All the time she was watching him composedly.

"Well?" she asked, with a strange little smile. "What do you say? Would you like to hold a wife's hand which frightens you so last night?"

She held it out to him, soft and warm. Her fingers even returned the pressure of his. She looked at him pleasantly, and once more he felt like a man who has wandered into a strange country and has lost his bearings.

"I want you so much to be happy," he said hoarsely, "but you are not strong yet. I have so much to do, I cannot decide anything in a hurry."

"How surprised you are to find that I am willing to be nice to you!" she murmured. "But why not? You cannot know why I have so suddenly changed my mind about you—and I have changed it. I have seen the truth these few minutes. There is a reason, Everard, why I should not kill you."

"What is it?" he demanded.

She shook her head with all the joy of a child who keeps a secret.

"You are clever," she said. "I will leave you to find it out. I am excited now, and I want you to go away for a little time. Please send Mrs. Unthank to me."

The prospect of release was a strange relief, mingled still more strangely with regret. He lingered over her hand.

"If you walk in your sleep tonight," she begged, "you will leave your dagger behind."

"I have told you," she answered, as though surprised, "that I have abandoned my intention. I shall not kill you. Even though I may walk in my sleep—and sometimes the nights are so long—it will not be your death I seek."

CHAPTER XI.

Dominey left the room like a man in a dream, descended the stairs to his own part of the house, caught up his hat and stick and strode out into the sea mist which was fats enveloping the gardens. There was all the chill of the North Pole in that ice-cold cloud of vapor, but nevertheless his forehead remained hot, his pulses burning. He passed out of the pattern gate which led from the walled garden on to a broad marsh, with dikes running here and there, and lapping tongues of sea water creeping in with the tide. He made his way seaward with uncertain steps until he reached a rough and stony road, here he hesitated for a moment, looked about him, and then turned back at right angles. Soon he came to a little village, a village of ancient cottages, with seasoned, red-brick tiles, tags, with patches of garden, a church embowered with tall elm trees, a triangular green at the cross-roads. On one side a low, thatched building—the Domain Arms; on another, an ancient square, stone house, which was a brass plate. He went over and read the name, rang the bell, and asked the trim maid-servant who answered it, for the doctor. Presently, a man of youthful middle-age presented himself in the surgery and bowed.

Dominey was for a moment at a loss. "I came to see Doctor Harrison," he ventured.

"Doctor Harrison retired from practice some years ago," was the courteous reply. "I am his nephew. My name is Stillwell."

"I understood that Doctor Harrison was still in the neighborhood," Dominey said. "His name is Dominey—Sir Everard Dominey."

"I guessed as much," the other replied. "My uncle lives with me here, and to tell you the truth he was hoping that you would come and see him. He retains one patient only, Doctor Stillwell added, in a graver tone. "You can imagine who that would be."

His caller bowed. "Lady Dominey, I presume."

The young doctor opened the door and motioned to his guest to precede him.

"My uncle has his own little apartment on the other side of the house," he said. "You must let me take you to him."

They moved across the pleasant white stone into a small apartment with French windows leading out to a flagged terrace and tennis lawn. An elderly man, broad-shouldered, with weather-beaten face, grey hair, and of somewhat serious aspect, looked around from the window before which he was standing, examining a case of fishing flies.

"Uncle, I have brought an old friend in to see you," his nephew announced.

The doctor glanced expectantly at Dominey, half moved forward as though to greet him, then checked himself and shook his head doubtfully.

"You certainly remind me very much of an old friend, sir," he said, "but I can see now that you are not he. I do not believe that I have ever seen you before in my life."

There was a moment's somewhat tense silence. Then Dominey advanced a little stiffly and held out his hand.

"Come, Doctor," he said, "I can scarcely have changed as much as all that. Even these years of strenuous life—"

"You mean to tell me that I am speaking to Everard Dominey?" the doctor interposed.

"Without a doubt!"

The doctor shook hands coolly. His was certainly not the enthusiastic welcome of an old family attendant to the representative of a great fortune.

"I should certainly never have recognised you," he confessed.

"My presence here is nevertheless indubitable," Dominey continued, "still attracted by your old pastime, I see, Doctor?"

"I have only taken up fly fishing," the other replied drily, "since I gave up shooting."

There was another somewhat awkward pause, which the younger man endeavoured to bridge over.

"Fishing, shooting, golf," he said; "I really don't know what we poor medical practitioners would do in the country without sport."

"I shall remind you of that later," Dominey observed. "I am told that the shooting is one of the joys which has not passed away from you."

"I shall look forward to the reminder," his uncle, who had been bending once more over the case of flies, turned abruptly around.

"Arthur," he said, addressing his nephew, "you had better start on your round. I dare say Sir Everard would like to speak to me privately for a moment."

"I wish to speak to you certainly," Dominey admitted, "but only professionally. Doctor Stillwell, if you will excuse me, Doctor Stillwell, as I will be getting on. You must excuse my uncle, Sir Everard," he added in a lower tone, drawing him a little towards the door. "His manners are a little gruff. He is devoted to Lady Dominey, and I sometimes think that he broods over her case 'oo much."

Dominey nodded and turned back into the room with the doctor, his hands in his pockets, eyes fixed steadily.

"I find it very hard to believe," he said a little curiously, "that you are really Everard Dominey."

"I am afraid you will have to accept me as a fact, nevertheless."

"Your present appearance, the old man continued, eving him appraisingly, "does not in any way bear out the description I had of you some years ago. I was told that you had become a broken-down drunkard."

"The world is full of liars," Dominey said quietly. "You appear to have met with one, at least."

"You have not even," the doctor persisted, "the appearance of a man who has been used to excesses of any sort."

"Good old stock, ours," his visitor observed carelessly. "Plenty of two-bell men behind my generation."

"You have also gained courage since the days when you fled from England. You slept at the Hall last night?"

"Where else? I also, if you want to know, occupied my own bedchamber—with results," Dominey added, throwing his head a little back to display the scar on his throat, "although insignificant."

"That's just your luck," the doctor declared. "You've no right to have gone there without seeing me, no right, after all that has passed, to have even approached your wife."

"You seem rather a marine as regards my domestic affairs," Dominey observed.

"That's because I know your history," was the blunt reply.

Uninvited, Dominey seated himself in an easy chair.

"You were never my friend, Doctor," he said. "Let me suggest that we conduct this conversation on a purely professional basis."

"I was never your friend," came the reply, "because I have known you always as a selfish brute; because you were married to the sweetest woman on God's earth, gave up none of your bad habits, frightened her into insanity by reeling home, with another man's blood on your hands, and then stayed away for over ten years instead of making an effort to repair the mischief you had done."

CITY ELECTRICIAN SUBMITS REPORT

Condemnation of the work being done by the New Brunswick Power Co. in bonding their rail joints was the feature of a report submitted to the Commissioner of Public Safety by the City Electrician, who contends that the present method is a menace to the water and gas pipes. A feature of proper bonding is that it obviates the necessity of tearing up paving to repair cracks in the welded joints. Examples of the damage to new paving through welding is evident on Main and other streets. It is further contended that the wide-spacing of railway ties in new work will not help matters any.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT ON DEATH OF TWO RAILWAY WRECK VICTIMS

Last Night Found Death of William Megarity and Thatcher Irvine Was Result of Collision—Unable to Find Who is Responsible for the Open Switch—Exonerated Crew of Way Freight From Blame—Shunter Crew Did Not Take Proper Precautions—Recommend All Switches Leading on Main Line Be Under Lock and Key.

The inquest into the deaths of Wm. Megarity and Thatcher Irvine, the two men killed in the wreck of the Hampton suburban train while it was entering the Island Yard Friday morning last, was concluded before Coroner Kenney last evening. The jury's verdict exonerated from all blame the crew of the way freight in charge of Conductor McManus. They were of the opinion that the crew of the switching engine did not take proper precautions in approaching the cut off switch, and that the crew of the suburban did all in their power to avoid the accident.

The evidence was all completed at 10 o'clock, when the jury retired and after two hours' deliberation brought in the following verdict: The Verdict. "We, the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of William Megarity and Thatcher Irvine, do find that Wm. Megarity and Thatcher Irvine came to their deaths on the morning of July 30th, 1920, in the discharge of their duties on the Canadian National Railways, at the entrance to Island Yard, in the vicinity of the Crosby Molasses Co., in St. John County, as the result of a collision between the suburban train in charge of William Megarity and the tender of the shunter, No. 1811, in charge of Engineer Milne, due to an open switch leading from the straight line track (so called) on to the west main line.

"From the evidence disclosed we are unable to find who is responsible for the open switch. We strongly recommend that all switches leading on the main line should be kept under lock and key and that proper care should be exercised by the authorities in charge to see that these switches are so kept.

"We exonerate from all blame the crew of the way freight in charge of Conductor McManus. "We are of the opinion that the crew on the suburban did all in their power to avoid the collision. "We are of the opinion that the crew of the switching engine No. 1811 did not take proper precautions in approaching a switch leading on the main line.

"From evidence of Engineer Coffey, we are of the opinion that the brakes on engine 1811 were not in proper working condition on the day of the accident, and we strongly recommend that greater care be taken on repairs to brakes or engines of all classes. (Signed) "James Sproul, foreman; Ernest J. Todd, Stanley A. Williams, S. J. Holder, A. Fred deForest, Herbert Keyes, Ernest Bates. "Dated August 4, 1920."

Five witnesses gave evidence last evening. Fred G. Mersereau, automatic block signal maintainer, testified that it was his duty to inspect the signals. He did so on the day before the accident, and the signals between St. John and Coldbrook were working properly. They were also all right on the day after the accident, except the west-bound signal at Coldbrook; it was due to the accident that this was out of order. It was pointing to danger after the accident. He said that if No. 1 switch had been open then the signal at Coldbrook would have indicated danger. On being questioned by H. A. Powell, K. C., appearing for Conductor McManus, he said he thought it was as important as any main line switch and thought that it should have a lock as well as any other switch on the C. N. R. main line. He was sure the engineer would have seen the block signal at Coldbrook, as it was his duty to see it. In answer to W. M. Ryan, appearing for the Crown, he said that a train, on crossing the block signal, would automatically put it at danger, and then it would have meant nothing to the driver of such a train. John J. Davis.

John J. Davis, general track foreman, said he was 600 feet east of the cemetery crossing when the suburban came in, and heard the driver blow his whistle at the crossing. About twenty of his crew were within about 200 feet of the switch at that time, and he had passed the switch in question about 7 o'clock. He had not noticed the freight train go out, but he thought if it had done so while he was there he would have heard it. Francis McCabe.

Francis McCabe, trainman, said he was working about 300 feet away from the switch, and he had gone to work at 6:45. He gave no new evidence. J. J. Chandler, car checker, also gave evidence which corroborated that given by the other members of the working crew in the yard. C. H. James.

C. H. James, locomotive foreman, said he had not received a report that the brakes of engine 1811, the shunting engine, were not working properly until Driver Coffey had reported that the brakes needed adjusting. He had examined the brakes a few days before the accident and found them in good order. He thought that they were sufficiently well adjusted to hold twenty cars. On examination by Mr. Powell, he said that he was not present when the brakes were adjusted or examined, but his subordinates had reported to him that they had examined them and that they were in good condition. Mr. Powell pointed out that this was not evidence. Witness thought that an engineer would not operate an engine if he found that it was unsafe for the work he was doing. L. R. Ross.

L. R. Ross, terminal agent, said that yesterday morning he had watched the block signal working at Coldbrook, when the switch in question was operated, and the signal was working properly, and he understood that it had not been tampered with since the accident. He had also measured the track at the scene of the accident and found that there would be 221 feet of clear vision of track over which the engineer of the shunter could have seen the target of the switch. No one would have any reason to operate the switch after the way freight had gone through, and if it had been opened, then it must have been done maliciously.

Addressed the Jury.

This concluded the evidence, and Mr. Powell addressed the jury, pointing out that his appearance was due to intimations that the train operated by Conductor McManus was to blame, but there was no doubt that the evidence exonerated him and his crew entirely. He thought that the key to the whole situation was the block signal at Coldbrook. If the switch had been open the danger signal would have shown at Coldbrook, and if it had shown then it would have been seen by the crew of the suburban, but no one of the crew had seen the signal according to the evidence. Some boy or man might have turned the switch, and it might have been that the switching engine had drawn out on the main line and after going back had been closed to close the switch. While he did not wish to influence the jury, his own conviction was that the engineer and foreman of the shunting engine were distracted by the presence of the third party aboard the engine. He thought the crew of the shunting engine should have observed the open switch, but then again there was the engineer's confidence in the brakes of his engine.

If the jury believed that Driver Milne, thinking the brakes had been tested and found all right by the locomotive foreman, had relied on them, then he should not be censured. Mr. James had not convinced him that the engine was in good order, as both drivers had said the brakes on the left side were not working properly. He thought also that the switch in question should require as much care as any on the C. N. R., and it looks were necessary on main line switches then this should have a lock also. If the switch could only have been opened by a lock, then anyone tampering with it if that was what happened, could not have opened it.

Suction Dredge Tornado Arrives

Said to be One of the Largest in the World and Will Work in Courtenay Bay—Large American Tug Humaconna Admired.

The suction dredge Tornado, said to be the largest in the world, arrived in port yesterday from Norfolk, Va., for the St. John Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Company, and will be used in Courtenay Bay just as soon as she can be made ready for work. She was stowed here by the tugs Humaconna and Roebling, and was consigned to Messrs. Nagle & Wigmore. The Humaconna, which is 190 tons register, is a fine craft and attracted considerable attention yesterday from visitors along the waterfront. She left for Boston last evening and will bring to this port a number of pontoons to be used in connection with the dredge.

Police Court Cases Yesterday

An assault case in which John P. Ryan is the defendant and his wife the complainant, was the only case before the police magistrate yesterday.

Mrs. Ryan said her husband was drunk on Monday night and struck her in the face. She followed him to Doran's beer shop on Brussels street, where the proprietor poured something in a glass for him. On her entry the man poured it out and washed the glass.

In consequence of the statement, Inspector Kerr had Frank Doran charged with having liquor in his beer shop. The accused was allowed out on a deposit of $50.

The case against Margaret Thomas, charged with keeping a disorderly house at 25 White street, her daughter, May Dobson, being an inmate, and John Lane being a frequenter, was resumed. Officer Dykeman stated that on Saturday night he was requested to go to the house. Arriving there, he heard quite a noise and found the three all drunk. There have been numerous complaints about the house. The case was postponed.

The case against Chester Niles, charged with stealing a tie from the C. N. R. train from Moncton, and stealing $105 from a passenger, was postponed till bail could be arranged for.

The case against Elijah Vall, charged with carrying a loaded revolver and pointing the same at Charles Earle, while wearing a mask, was resumed, and postponed. J. K. Kelley for the accused.

Thomas McCafferty pleaded guilty to soliciting passengers inside the rail at the Union Station, and was fined $2. F. C. Robertson, reported by Officer Lindsay for driving his car on the wrong side of Main street, pleaded not guilty, saying it must have been his son. The case was postponed for further evidence.

DIVERS AT WORK.

Doyle & Son, the divers, have just completed an inspection of the intake in the slip to the southward of the Atlantic Refinery. For some time the water in the intake has been rising and not been working well and it is said that some very extensive repairs will be made.

Sussex Rural Science School

Some Interesting Notes of the Happenings at the School for Teachers Which is Held on the Military Grounds.

"You can't do two things at a time. Perhaps not, but the teachers at the Rural Science School seem to be doing it. For in their camp at the Military Grounds they are combining successfully, work of a serious nature with a most delightful kind of holiday.

During the school hours you will find the different classes busily engaged in the lecture rooms, the garden or the woods and fields, taking notes, discussing practical problems, hoeing, seeding, transplanting, collecting specimens, making observations of birds, insects and trees; making a certain amount of knowledge and a great deal of fun.

But after hours! Then it is that the teachers and their instructors forget that work exists and give themselves up to sports and fun. The river is the first attraction and under the direction of Mr. McIntosh and Dr. Wheelock, would-be swimmers are making rapid progress. Baseball, quills, croquet and other games have their place. Much enthusiasm in baseball has been displayed and a picked team of young ladies was opposite a team of juniors of the opposite sex, and at the cost of many hard knocks they are practising diligently.

An account of their camp would hardly be complete without mentioning their successful work of a serious low where each amuses himself as fancy dictates and music and games have full sway. Open air sing-songs are also enjoyed.

The camp management under the supervision of Director Gorham, consists of the chaplain, Mrs. Wiles, a camp committee and a sports committee, whose executive committee, Mr. McIntosh and Dr. Wheelock. Under their direction the affairs of the camp are running in excellent order.

Rural Science School Yell. Butterflies! butterflies! beetles and bugs! Cyanide! Cyanide! grubs! grubs! Pig clubs! bee-hives! garden plots too! Barometers! thermometers! all we have to do! Scientific! Practical! Rural Science School!

Vice-Admiral Sir Allan Everett Dead

Was Here Recently on H. M. S. Calcutta and Made Many Friends—Died at Admiralty Hospital, Bermuda, Last Friday.

The medical officer on board the R. M. S. P. Chaleur, which is now at this port, informs The Standard that it was not Admiral Napier who died at the Admiralty Hospital, Bermuda, on Friday last, but it was Vice-Admiral Sir Allan Everett, who was recently a guest of the city on the occasion of the recent visit of the Calcutta to this port.

The Chaleur was at Bermuda on Thursday last, and the medical officer learned of the serious condition of Vice-Admiral Everett, who had been in an unconscious state from enteric fever for seven days. On leaving port next morning the Chaleur officers were informed of Admiral Everett's death. Lady Everett is now seriously ill with the same disease, and the steward of the Calcutta is also in a serious condition from the same trouble, as well as other members of the ship's crew.

Vice-Admiral Sir Allan Everett, while in this city, was the guest at several social functions, where he made many warm personal friends. The announcement of his sudden death, as given by the medical officer of the Chaleur, will cause sincere regret among those who were fortunate enough to make his acquaintance while the Calcutta was here.
