TEACHING YOUR DOLLARS TO HAVE MORE SENSE

Here Are A Baker's Dozen Quotations upon your character.—Elihu Hubbard

Savings represent much more than money value. They are a proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Only fool can waste; any fool can muddle; but it takes something of a man to save and the more he saves the more of a man does it make of him. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for ever; thrift, which means some form of self-restraint, steadies it. —Rudyard Kipling.

You must learn not to overwork a dollar any more than you would a horse. Three per cent is a small load for it to draw; save a safe one; when it pulls ten for you it's likely working out West and you're not to watch to see that it doesn't buck; when it makes twenty, you own a blamo good critter, or a mighty foolish one, and you want to make dead sure which; but if it draws a hundred it's playing the races or something just as hard on horses and dollars; and the first thing you know you won't have even a carcase to haul to the glue factory.—George Horace Lorimer.

When a man finds himself at the end of a year without a surplus; tho' he has had a good income, let him take an account of his year, and find it on each page into necessities, comforts, and luxuries. Let him keep account of every penny he expends and he will find that the last account will outweigh the former many times. Then if he has common sense, character, and will power, he will reduce the amount paid out for luxuries and amass a surplus. In other words, he will save. Saving is simply the elimination of waste expenditures. It is waste an doubtless, but it is the waste of a man constantly behind. The man who cuts out waste will have no difficulty in saving.—P. T. Barnum.

I have often been asked to define the short secret of success. It is thrift in all its phases, and especially thrift as applied to saving. Saving is the first great principle of success. It creates independence. It gives a young man standing, fills him with vigor; it stimulates him with proper energy; in fact it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment.—Sir Thomas Lipton.

Annual income twenty pounds; annual expenditures, nineteen, nineteen, six; result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds; annual expenditures twenty pounds eight and six; result misery.—Charles Dickens.

Before you are taken into partnership and given a chance to spend the money of the firm, you must give evidence that you know how to care

OFFICIAL APPLE EATER IS MACOUN'S WEIRD JOB

Ottawa Man Tests Sixteen Varieties Daily—Has Done It Six Months a Year for 27 Years.

An apple a day will keep the doctor away. For many this old adage in the language of the vaudeville stage may be considered so much apple sauce, but in the experience of William Tyrell Macoun, dominion horticulturist, there is much truth in the saying. He should know. For the last 27 years Mr. Macoun, who is the son of the late Prof. John Macoun dominion naturalist and botanist has been testing apples, strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries, cherries, plums, pears, peaches, grapes and other fruits. From September to February he tests apples. It is a job any small boy might envy. He has more than one thousand varieties of luscious apples from which to choose. At tests about six varieties a day during this period. So that in the last 27 years he has tasted enough real apple to reach the summit of the new Victory Tower on the parliament buildings if piled on top of each other.

Tests are made to determine the qualities of the particular apple, it is examined as to general appearance, flavor, juiciness, texture, color of skin, size, uniformity and its seasonal character.

The period just before luncheon Mr. Macoun finds the best for this delightful work. It whets the appetite for the midday meal. So accustomed is his system to this daily docket, he walks alone the streets of Ottawa before the day of prohibition. In fact, Mr. Macoun long ago learned their fine food value, and while he does not claim for them a panacea for all ills, he himself a notable example of their efficacy. Tall and straight, and handsome, his cheeks rosy like the apples that he tests, as he walks alone the streets of Ottawa with light step and buoyant men, he is the envy of all who would know his secret of the elixir of life.

When he first entered the department only five varieties of apples were found that would keep all winter. Now through research and experimentation, more than 300 varieties come under this classification. The best all-round apple in the world, in Mr. Macoun's opinion is the Mackintosh Red—especially the Ontario variety. It has lasting qualities, a fine taste and beautiful appearance. Mr. Macoun is endeavoring to produce an apple that will have the merits of the Mackintosh Red but will come on early in the season like the Duchess and still last throughout the winter. The fruit named after the famous prima donna, a seedling of the Mackintosh Red, and the Lebo, named after the wolf in Thomson's story, "Wild Animals I Have Known" are varieties of this new fruit. The Lebo was the result of a botanical Association for superior merits in a new introduction.

WIRELESS BRINGING THE YUKON NEARER

Wireless communication between the Northwest and Yukon territories and other parts of the world was officially inaugurated at midnight, December 31st, when the first message, signed by Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, was transmitted from Ottawa to Dawson. The recent completion of the southernmost terminal at Edmonton opened the way for the inauguration of the new service, the stations at Fort Simpson and Dawson having been already put into operation.

The Canadian Corps of Signals, in co-operation with the North West Territories and Yukon branch of the department of the interior, installed the wireless apparatus in the four stations completed, namely, Edmonton, Fort Simpson, Montreal and Dawson. Work on the northernmost station, that at Herschel, had to be postponed owing to the loss of equipment and supplies with the steamship Lady Kindersley.

BIBLE DREAMS AND DREAMERS

From very early ages old men dreamed means and young men saw visions. It is quite likely Eva, troubled in mind, and wearied making her first costume had dreams of serpents crawling among the apples and, if Adam's slumbers were not disturbed, he would have been prophetic. Various reasons are given for dreams. The wise "preacher" said: "A dream comes to a man in the time of business," more frequently it comes through indignation. One of the poets said: "to sleep, when fancy is let loose to play, our dreams repeat the wishes of the day." The use of dreams is variously estimated—some alleging them as nothing but vain fancies; others, especially in connection with the good or evil, portents of serious waking events. Whatever may be their present momentary value, in the early days, when revelation was limited, it would appear, from the record, that many of the great men of the world, in their dreams, received a providential direction, or warning, through dreams and visions. They are, like him, not so much needed now as they were in the childhood of the race.

The first recorded Bible dream is an interesting one, as, indeed they all are. It came to Abraham, King of Ur, when he had taken Abraham's wife, thinking her to be his (Abraham's) sister. "But God came to him in a dream by night and said to him, 'Behold thou art but a dead man for the woman which thou hast taken: she is a man's wife.'"

Abimelech was like Job when he said "Thou scarest me with dreams, makest me mad through visions." In the early morning, Abimelech hastened to restore the uninjured woman to Abraham's embrace. We do not like to say anything against the Father of the Faithful, but, in this particular, the pagan King shows up in a much better light than he did. Even Sarah must have thought so.—E. X.

NOVA SCOTIA MERCHANTS CAN SUPPLY NOVA SCOTIA NEEDS

Wherever Possible Let us Buy at Home This Spring—Would Go Far to Create Better Times —Be Fair to the Nova Scotia Merchant

Every Spring hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of dollars leave this province for the far away Mail Order Houses—that is one of the reasons that business in the cities, towns, villages of this province, is not in a satisfactory condition at the present time.

The merchants in Middleton and other places throughout this province, give employment to Nova Scotians. They help keep up the highways, yet our people pass by our own merchants and handicap the province by sending the money to firms outside of this province, and in some cases outside of this Dominion—firms who do not pay one cent toward the upkeep of the towns or villages of Nova Scotia.

The "Outlook" urges our people, at this critical moment in the history of this province, to be loyal to the merchant. Start this Spring, and whenever possible, let the business men in this province the benefit of your purchases.

There is no real or tangible excuse for buying outside this province, as 99 per cent of the things you require can be obtained in Nova Scotia just as advantageously as in other parts of the continent.

Suppose you think you are saving some money by sending your money abroad, look at the consequences. The money you have deprived the local merchant from obtaining goes to enrich the stranger, and may be the means of sending some Nova Scotian to New England to look for the means by which he can live. Now suppose 10,000 people send their money abroad and fail to help their local merchant. The result will be found to be almost beyond belief. Just think how many people would be forced to leave the province and seek a livelihood elsewhere.

Every dollar sent out of Nova Scotia means more unemployment, more depression, more stagnation, more emigration.

LET US ALL BUY AT HOME!!!

OBITUARY

At Torbrook, N. S., on February 5th, Mrs. Rachael Brown, widow of James L. Brown, passed away to her great reward at the age of 79 years. Her husband predeceased her over a year ago. She was a valued member of the Torbrook Baptist Church, a good citizen and a faithful mother and will be missed by all who knew her. She was kind and hospitable and was found in her place in the house of God as long as health permitted.

Sister Brown, too, was a member of the U. B. W. M. U. where she will be remembered in prayer. We do not think of her as dead, but living with her loving husband, as she leaves to mourn one son, Charles, of Brighton, Mass., and four daughters, Mrs. Willie Fletcher, of Greenville, N. H.; Mrs. J. E. Wood, of Nashua, N. H.; Mrs. Jack Killick, Victoria, B. C.; and Mrs. Thaddeus Sanford, at home, whose she and her husband tenderly cared for during the last two years of her life; also a brother, Elmer Foster, of Framingham, Mass., besides other relatives and friends.

The funeral service was conducted at the church by Rev. W. D. Wilson, of Middleton, who gave a very impressive address from the words in Psalm 90, verse 12, "Interment was in the Nictaux Cemetery where she was laid beside her husband."

There are a bunch of accounts on our books that we don't care how soon they are paid: in fact the soon the better.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE I. O. D. E.

The fifth Annual Meeting of the Rosemary Chapter I. O. D. E., was held at the home of Miss Annie Crowe on Monday evening, February 16th.

In the absence of Miss M. O. Sponagle, Regent, Mrs. T. H. Tucker, 1st Vice Regent occupied the chair.

The report of the Secretary, Miss Emma Dickie, was most gratifying, showing a splendid record of last year's work.

Among the undertakings during the year for the purpose of raising money were A Musical Comedy "The Washing Well" put on by local talent under the direction of Mrs. Dr. J. H. W. Kirkpatrick, Regent, now of Halifax and Miss Nellie Magee, now of St. John, and a series of Lyceum Concerts from the Alber-Wickes Platform Service, Boston. These were of a very high order and well patronized.

The money was largely devoted to furnishing the operating room of the "Soldiers' Memorial Hospital."

$25.00 was contributed to the Inter-Provincial Home at Moncton.

The Treasurer, Miss B. L. Gullivan, report shows that $115.77 was raised during the year. This was most gratifying considering the fact that our membership numbers only 221. We regret the loss through removal from the Town of several of our most active members during the year.

The following officers were elected: Regent, Miss M. Olga Sponagle, 1st Vice, Mrs. John A. Routh; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Jack Armstrong; Treas., Miss Beatrice L. Gullivan; Secretary, Miss Margaret Clark; Rhoda Secretary, Miss Annie J. Crowe.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

MELVERN SQUARE

February 17th—A Valentine Social was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Baker on Friday last night. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion and a good program was given, which consisted of instrumental music by the Melvern Orchestra; readings by Mrs. Harry MacNeill, Miss Esther Baker, Mrs. Wm. Phinney and Master Frank Phinney; piano solos by Miss Lillian Carrier and Miss Hattie Baker; vocal solos by Fred B. Baker and Miss Anna Parlee, of Kingston. A "napkin lunch" and a cup of tea was then served to all. Games were played and a very pleasant evening was spent. Over sixteen dollars was realized and will be used for the "Hall Fund."

Mrs. Braine spent the week end at Middleton, the guest of her son, Mr. Fred Shaffer.

Rev. M. W. Whitman, of Margareville, spent part of Monday and Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. MacNeil.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Doltiver, of Lacey Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Banks, of Kingston, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. McNeil on Sunday last.

Mrs. Wheelock Marshall and Little family rendered service in readings and prayer. We do not think of her as dead, but living with her loving husband, as she leaves to mourn one son, Charles, of Brighton, Mass., and four daughters, Mrs. Willie Fletcher, of Greenville, N. CORRESPONDENCE

Topping Prices and A Good Firm

Sir: In these days of depression, caused by the smash of Northard & Lowe, my former friends may like to hear of a firm through whom I have obtained exceptional prices probably averaging higher than anyone in the Valley. Mr. Elliott Smith, last year's President of the Fruit Growers' Association, was deputed to go to London and enquire into the conditions there and to further the interests of the Fruit Growers.

He found the firm of Gerald De Costa, Floral Hall, Covent Garden, London, and with branches at Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and Hull had made a deal with the Scotch fruit, and had held an exhibition of Birmingham, specially to make it more known. They were the second longest firm in the trade, the longest being Fred Munroe. Mr. Smith wrote me that if I would consign to them, I should get a square deal. I consigned my Gravensteines to them and obtained 30 shillings for the No. 1, 25 for No. 2 and the 3's cleared $2.62. The next consignment I got caught in the jam. They only averaged $2.00 per barrel. Some of my friends consigning to other firms lost money then. I held all I could and sent my Fallwaters in November, fetching 27 shillings, and Wellingtons No. 1's and 2's 27 shillings. No. 3's 26 shillings. Next boat I sent Golden Russets, 34 shillings; Mammoth Russets (or Swaze) 32s 6d. A few Canada Reds, Domestic and 3's fetched 17 shillings. I have just received a cable that my Fallwaters on the Cornish Point fetched 30 shillings No. 3's 29 shillings; Starks, 28 shillings.

Those fruit growers who still have fruit to send cannot do better than consign to De Costa.

The sale sheets are made out differently to any firm; the price in Canadian and English money—average per barrel—detailed remarks on condition—all very valuable hints—so that the farmer can see at a glance where he has made or lost.

I attribute a part of the success to the excellent hand packing of the Markland Fruit Co., who use no accursed grader and the supervision of Mr. Frank Porter, from both of whom I received a square deal, which I never had before.

A. C. WYATT, Clarendon Orchards, Kingston

P. S.—The Lawrencetown Fruit Company's Golden Russets sold for 75 shillings or $17.50 and their Bramley Seedlings (marketed months too early) 27 shillings.

Help For Tired Nervous People

Found in the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Are you pale and weak, tired most of the time, out of breath on slight exertion?

Are you nervous, is your sleep disturbed so that rest does not refresh you?

Is your appetite poor, your digestion weak and do you have pains after eating?

If you have any of these symptoms you need the help of such a reliable tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Read what Mr. W. W. Francis, of Calgary, Alta., says of this tonic. "After returning from overseas," writes Mr. Francis, "my whole system was in a badly run down condition. I became nervous, irritable, pale and lost weight. Of course I was given treatment and recommended many tonics, some of which I took, but with no apparent result. At last I could not even sleep. My sister, who is in England, wrote and urged me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I can scarcely say how glad I am that I took her advice. My friends were surprised at my complete recovery, but I assured them it was due entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I now always keep a box on hand in case of emergency."

If you are ailing give these pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Here and There

Of the 30,000 harvesters who went west this summer over Canadian Pacific lines, 14,000 are known to have returned east, according to C. B. Foster, Passenger Traffic Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, and it is thought that many others have returned, while several thousand are believed to have accepted positions in the west for the winter.

An indication of the increase in the value of effects being brought into Canada by settlers from the United States is shown in the latest report to the Department of Trade and Commerce. From April 1 to September 30, effects so classified were valued at $3,129,333, as compared with $2,866,467 in the same period last year, an increase of $462,872.

A feature which will add greatly to the attractions of Vancouver, B.C., as a winter resort, to say nothing of increasing its summer allurements, will be the new golf course to be laid out there at a cost of $120,000, exclusive of land. Work on the course will commence next spring. Fees will be merely nominal, fifty cents being charged for an 18-hole round, $2.50 for a month's play and $20 for a year. Play will be open to any member of the public.

Immigrants entering Canada during the 12 months ending October 31, 1924, totalled 134,189, as compared with 126,744 in the corresponding period of 1923-1924, according to the Department of Immigration and Colonization. These figures are more encouraging in view of the fact that the number of Canadians emigrating to the United States has to some extent decreased, while the number returning from the United States is on the increase, according to the department.

On November 29th, Hon. Marguerite Shaughnessy, daughter of the late Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, performed the launching and christening ceremony at the Clydebank yards of John Brown and Co. when the new Canadian Pacific S.S. Princess Marguerite, named in her honor, was slipped into the water. The Princess Marguerite is the second of the two vessels recently ordered by the Canadian Pacific for the company's British Columbia coastal service.

An entirely new service between Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, operating on the fastest schedule yet established for these cities, was instituted by the Canadian Pacific Railway on December 4. The new train, leaving Montreal at 6:15 p.m. daily, and Toronto at 9:45 p.m. daily, reaches Winnipeg at 9 a.m. 39 hours 45 minutes after leaving Montreal and 36 hours 15 minutes after leaving Toronto. Express passengers are especially benefited, as shipments reach the terminal cities in time for delivery on the second day after leaving, instead of on the third as formerly. Passengers gain a business day and earlier connections for more distant points, on reaching their destinations. As the eastbound train of this service connects direct with the Frontenac for Quebec city, passengers and express bound for that point also gain greatly by reduced time.

The following apt comment on the careless motorist and his ultimate fate comes from the Boston Transcript: "If a freight train at a crossing 'Hits an auto fair and square' 'There's the freight train—Where's the auto?' 'Echo answers 'Where!'"

Trees at the rate of 20,000 a day have been planted by farmers in Western Canada during the last 20 years, according to a report of the Federal Department of Agriculture. A total of 150,000,000 young trees, the report shows, has been distributed to farmers in that section in 1905.

Canada has entered into negotiations with Germany for a trade agreement which will give her the benefit of the most favored nations agreement. Exports to that country very nearly doubled during 1924 and at the close of the year Germany was practically in the position of being Canada's third best customer.

A co-operative shipment of poultry to New York City, encouraged and handled by the Dominion Poultry Service, Alberta branch, brought good results. The shipment consisted of two refrigerator carloads of turkeys and the ships received 25 cents a pound for their birds, the New York selling price being 41 cents a pound.

Among the interesting books of the season is "Canada's Great Highway," from the First State to the Last Spike," by J. H. E. Secretan, C.E., (published by Thorburn and Abbott, Ottawa). Dealing with the early history of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the volume contains many reminiscences of life in construction days as experienced by the author, who was a member of the company's engineering staff.

Agricultural products harvested in British Columbia during 1923 were nearly $4,000,000 in excess of the 1922 total, according to the annual report of the provincial department of agriculture. Total production for 1923 was $59,159,728.

The ninth winter carnival at Banff, Alta., will be held from February 7 to 14, 1925. The curling bonspiel in connection with the carnival will run concurrently from February 9 to 14. Revelote has fixed its carnival dates for February 8, 4 and 5, 1925.

Tourists to the number of 100,000 are estimated to have entered the Province of Nova Scotia during the past season. These people have left approximately $7,500,000 in the province, an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year. The number of motor cars entering the province during the tourist season exceeded 11,000.

Canada Book Week was held from December 1 to 6 this year. Addresses, radio broadcasting and special displays in stores throughout the country drew attention to the objects of the week, which are to promote the reading of good books generally and to foster Canadian literature. The week was, as usual, a distinct success.

The foolhardy recklessness of certain motorists was recently strikingly illustrated at a public crossing on the Canadian Pacific Railway line at Blind River, Ontario, when a speeding auto approached the crossing so rapidly that the driver was unable to pull up, and ran his car into the side of a train which was passing at the time. Fortunately, no one was injured.

In recognition of its excellent exhibits at the 1924 exhibition at Toronto, the Canadian Pacific Railway has been awarded one of the medals specially struck off for presentation to the Dominion and Provincial governments, and to a limited number of other exhibitors, whose high class entries in the live stock and agricultural departments won them championship prizes.

The plans for the construction of an immense amusement centre at Victoria, B.C., to be called the Crystal Gardens, have just been announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is responsible for the scheme. The gardens will include a salt water swimming pool 150 feet long, and a series of dancing floors, with tea and luncheon gymnasium. Great quantities of plants, vines and shrubs will be grown in the structure, which is on the lines of a vast conservatory, containing 36,000 square feet of glazed glass roof surface.

A considerable increase in the sheep population of Canada, which has declined since 1920 from 2,555,020 to 1,875,000, is expected as a result of the recent importation by Alberta ranchers of 400 Rambouillet rams. These animals are merinoes, with fine wool, bred in France from Spanish merino stock. Louis XVI obtained the first flock as a gift from the King of Spain. A harem of 20,000 western range ewes will be provided for the Alberta ranches. The enterprise is important, on account of the prevailing world shortage of wool.

Sailing from New York on January 14, the "Empress of France," palatial Canadian Pacific steamship, began her 'round-the-world' cruise, which is to last 130 days. The vessel was gallily decked with flags and filled with happy passengers eager to enjoy the experience of a lifetime. F. L. Wanklyn and Mrs. Wanklyn, were among those on board. Mr. Wanklyn recently received his position as executive assistant of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The most novel Christmas card handled by the Montreal post office this year was one prepared for the redoubtable Colonel George Ham, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, by a number of internationally known newspaper artists, creators of famous comic strip characters. In the centre of the card is a photograph of the Colonel, while grouped around him, commenting on his good qualities, are signed drawings of Pa Perkins, Tillie the Teller and Mac, Barney Grogan and Spark Plug, Our Gang and Dumb Dora. Colonel Ham is naturally very proud of the card.

BAY OF FUNDY TIDES

Published in Christian Science Monitor

The tide is out; the wet gray stones That form the slanting beach Now glisten in the sun, and white gulls circling round are watching for the shining fish enmeshed in nets and seines. Down at low tide between the rocks all barnacled and mussel-grown Surprising shells are found—rare pink and lovely shapes; And a slim fish waches round him, like a trainee in the teacher's web And a green lobster that's been wedged against the rocks By pieces of a broken mast. This dog is lifted up in small white puffs Above the soft blue horizon.

Now when the tide is in no beach is visible. The green bay stretches full, and surly Rooms with a deep note against the cliffs And splashes a foamy spray high in the air. Hiding the rocks and shoals that border Fundy's shore; Little sailboats bob about on white-capped sparkling waves.

Now is the bay more beautiful When the tides are high or when they're low? Someone who loves it less more easily could tell.

—ERICA AUSTIN SELFRIDGE

Nova Scotians Live By the Moon's Moods

TIDES ARE FULL OF MYSTERIES—THEY ONCE REACHED TORONTO IN BAY OF FUNDY THEY ARE MORE SENSATIONAL THAN ANYWHERE ELSE—WHEN MOON AND EARTH ARE IN HARMONY THERE WILL BE ONLY 13 DAYS IN YEAR.

BY A. P. COLEMAN
Professor of Geology at the University of Toronto

Riding with an English friend along the shore of Lake Superior last summer he remarked that it was as if the tide was in. The time was when the tide came in at Toronto and almost reached Hamilton, but that was perhaps 10,000 years ago, and an Ontario man of the present day would have to go to Quebec or to see the tide ebb and flow in his own province. In a few years, perhaps, when the T. & N.O. Railway reaches Hudson Bay, many years ago, the tide comes sweeping in with the mad gathered from the bottom of the Bay of Fundy, then close the sluices till the mud settles and the clear water can be discharged when the tide is out; and so the meadow on the left bank of the river is kept at level and provides the richest soil in the Maritime Provinces.

You will, of course, go to see Grand Pre and muse over the fate of Evangeline, and you will also see the lush grass of the dyked meadows, reclaimed from the salt marshes by the work of the tides themselves. Open the sluices in the dykes when the tide comes sweeping in with the mud gathered from the bottom of the Bay of Fundy, then close the sluices till the mud settles and the clear water can be discharged when the tide is out; and so the meadow on the left bank of the river is kept at level and provides the richest soil in the Maritime Provinces. The tide comes sweeping in with the mud gathered from the bottom of the Bay of Fundy, then close the sluices till the mud settles and the clear water can be discharged when the tide is out; and so the meadow on the left bank of the river is kept at level and provides the richest soil in the Maritime Provinces.

The best view of the Bay of Fundy is from the top of Blomidon, near the northeast of the low ridge of the North Mountain, which shelters the famous orchards of the Annapolis Valley. From the top one can see the Bay of Fundy, the side and the Basin of Minas on the other, and scrambling down 500 feet to the shore one can see the tide up against the rocks and the work of the tide where it handles boulders and underlines cliffs of solid rock instead of the red slime of the marshy shores near Grand Pre.

Walking along the beach one day at low tide I made an unexpected find. Perched on the top of a huge boulder there was a big steam launch propped up with a pole so as not to roll sideways. Two disconsolate men stood in the launch, looking at the tide. They had run aground just as the tide had turned and must wait till it came in again, which would not be for some hours yet, and they were terribly thirsty and sea water would not quench their thirst.

The run of the tide, twice a day into and out of a great estuary like the Bay of Fundy or Bristol Channel in England means the expenditure of a tremendous amount of energy, far more than enough to drive the machinery of all the cities for hundreds of miles around, and many practical men have looked longingly at the ebb and flow of the tide for a long time, but have found it impossible to harness the power of the tides for human use. A company was formed some years ago to develop power from the tides of the Bristol Channel in England. If it is successful man will have captured for his own purposes some of the vast energy of rotation which keeps the earth spinning on its axis.

It is now the great tides of Fundy and a thousand other inlets of the sea do other geological work, wearing down the rocks along the shores and carrying the mud and sand far out to be deposited in the depths. In the lapse of ages these will be filled and the ground-up materials of the shores will form mud flats which may some day be lifted and make dry land. There can be no doubt that the sweep of the tides as they follow the moon round the world does work of another kind. They form a break on the rotating globe and very gradually slow down its motion. The day was once much shorter than it is now, perhaps not more than six hours in length in the beginning, and in the future it will steadily grow much longer, second by second, until at last there will be only one rotation in a month and the earth and the moon will be in harmony. Then there will be only thirteen days in a year. The rate of change is exceedingly slow, however, and the present generation need not worry over the matter.

WINTER IN THE COUNTRY

The distant jingle of bells, faintly carried on the snow-burdened air—the feather of smoke above an old stone chimney that was built when stone was plentiful and firewood an encumbrance of the land—the haunting voice of a hound beyond the hill—rabbit tracks in and out among the cedars—the crack of an axe ponder in the woods—snow, snow, sliding, sliding, hampering the feet of the traveler, snow deep on the roads with more coming easily all the time.

No sun to tell the direction or the time; BYON to whistle to summon the toiler or tell him the day's work is done; no face of unpunished want peering from a shadowy corner; no clang of gong or shriek of trolley; no jam of traffic at intersections; no rush and roar of bottled humanity confined behind walls of busy factories; no mingled odors of eating houses, laundries, second-hand stores and snow-dampened mankind to assail the nostrils; just utter stillness and the rhythmic of their lives is blessed the tortured eardrums.

A lens shoved out; a mail-box standing patiently waiting; a bread-basket on a post with a note and some money for the baker; a woman feeding steaming oats to her flock of hens under the shelter of a shed; a boy in heavy cap, overalls, smock, great socks and rubbers, plodding across a furrowed field with a gun on his arm; a man taking a team of horses from the blackness of the stable to water them at half-buried troughs; ruminating cows standing on the measure pile while their stable is being cleaned out; and snow, snow everywhere, white and cold and wonderful!

Naked trees against the dull sky; fences wandering like filigree across wide fields; the hand of Death ap-

RAILWAY COSTS SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO AND NOW

Difference in what roads have to pay for equipment makes stiff grade for trains to climb on road to paying operating expenses.

It is becoming daily more important that the public in a country of such vast extent and small population as Canada should thoroughly appreciate the importance of the maintenance of an adequate railway system whereby the producer may reach his markets. It is obvious that the very extent of the country and its scanty population make this maintenance very costly. Until such time as the population increases by immigration to the extent that the traffic on the railroads is heavy enough to enable them to reduce passenger and freight rates, and yet meet expenses, it is impossible for rates to come down without serious loss of efficiency. Those who demand such reductions and even expect the rates to return to the standard of ten years and more ago do not seem to realize that unavoidable expenditures have risen phenomenally of late years in practically every direction, giving the railway a stiff grade to surmount before they can pay operating expenses, compared to which such expenditures were formerly a level track.

This is especially true of railroad equipment, the cost of which in almost all cases has doubled or even tripled. It is true that the quality of equipment has improved during the seventeen years covered in the above diagram. The public has demanded improved service such as could only be given by improved equipment and the railways must pay accordingly. The diagrams shown above graphically illustrate the facts as they apply to only one class of equipment, locomotives and certain kinds of rolling stock. In studying them it is important to bear in mind that they do not account for cost of repair, maintenance or operation, including wages, but only for actual depreciation, and these costs, not touched on here, are far one mile of road:

Telephone Use Saves More Than Cents!

It may be difficult to take too much care of the rents, but it is quite easy to let the dollars take too much care of themselves.

Many a man among us will spend hours debating the wisdom of buying wrapping paper a cent a pound cheaper, who, when the question of selling the article to be wrapped in the paper arises, will not pause an instant to consider whether a cheaper selling plan exists than that by train and travel.

Yet, there, right on his desk in front of him sits his Telephone giving him access to any point in the Province.

A talk over the Long Distance Telephone Lines would sell his goods just as effectively as by a visit, and would save him hours of valuable time and dollars of hard cash.

A mother's love is indeed the golden link binding youth to age; and he is still but a child—however time may have furrowed his cheek or silvered his brow—who can happily recall, with a softened heart, the fond devotion of the friend and gentle guide of the best friend God ever gave a man.

But Real Success Rarely Individual Effort.

"There are many exceptions to every rule in which accident or good fortune seem to have played a great part in a boy's or a man's life, but in the main, real success is probably rarely obtained except through individual effort." In addressing the students of Lower Canada College recently, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, enumerated as qualities and attributes to material success, work, self-reliance coupled with modesty, loyalty, imagination, humor, studied thought.

"If I were to pick out for you the most admirable quality possessed by the students of this college, I would say that it is that of loyalty; loyalty to your family, to your school, to your university, to your country and to yourself. The second in the long list of qualities which are admirable is imagination; dreams mean idealism and idealism is often followed by constructive vision. Imagination enables a man to take out of life sometimes more than there is in it. Retain as long as you can your faith in other men.

● "The third quality that I would mention is self-reliance, and I think that it is probably one of the outstanding characteristics of the Canadian young men." The field of have mentioned to you because they are so admirable in themselves. There are many and I can only mention a few. I have mentioned self-reliance. Couple it with modesty—that fast disappearing virtue—and you have a combination of inestimable value to any boy starting in life.

"The last quality I am going to mention which helps a boy to succeed is human kindness," Mr. Beatty said. "Your own success will be greatly aided by a kindly and

I Am Photography

I carry the News of the World, and bring you Visions of Far Distant Lands. Our Modern Civilization is largely dependent on my efforts. Though Men may pass and empires crumble to Dust, my magic will preserve their Likeness for Future Generations.

Each day as you read your daily paper, you see therein pictures of persons or things of interest, from England, U. S., China, or some other part of the world.

These must be of interest to us or the papers would not spend the money necessary to the publication of these. If pictures of things Foreign are of interest to us, why should not pictures of our own be more so. But you do not see very many pictures of our people or things of our province. Let us overcome this and show what we of the Annapolis Valley have got both by having pictures in the papers and by sending the photographs to our friends.

"Will preserve their likeness for future generations."

Through photography may we come a veritable history of our valley, let our camera record the changing faces and costumes. So that our negative files from which duplicates may be had at any time will form a complete WHO'S WHO, and HISTORY of ANNAPOLES VALLEY by the magic of the camera—W. H. DILL.

Made Her Baby Plump and Well

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zephoria Layton, Three Rive's, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthy sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S., writes:

"Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I tried nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results."

This lasted for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, who bade me give Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial.

After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease."

A tale of youth and summer time and the Baxter family, especially William.
By BOOTH TAKINGTON.

matched it out of the water. Looking about her, she perceived a gutter which seemed even lovelier than the one she had followed. It was deeper and broader and perhaps a little browner, wherefore she launched her ship upon its dimpled bosom and explored it as far as the next sewer hole or portage. Thus the voyage continued for several blocks with only one accident, which might have happened to anybody. It was an accident in the nature of a fall caused by the sliding of Jane's left foot on some slippery mud. This treacherous substance, covered with water, could not have been anticipated. Consequently Jane's emotions were those of indignation rather than of culpability.

Jane resumed her navigating. Thus absorbed she failed at first to notice the approach of two young people along the sidewalk. They were the entranced William and Miss Pratt, and their appearance offered a suggestive contrast in relative humidity. In charming and tender colored fabrics, fluffy and cool and summery, she was specklessly dry. Not a drop had touched even the little black parasol over her shoulder, not one had fallen upon the tiny white doglet drowsing upon her arm.

But William was wet. He was still more than merely damp, though they had evidently walked some distance since the rain had ceased to fall. His new hat was a maddening ruin, his dark coat sagged, his shapless trousers dopped heavily, and his shoes gave forth marshy sounds as he walked. But he carried a walking stick proudly.

If Jane had not recognized the modeling of his features she might not have known them to be William's, for they had altered their grouping to produce the clean air after a rain that was totally unfamiliar. To be explicit, she was unfamiliar with this expression in that place—that is to say, upon William—though she did seem something like it upon other people once or twice in church.

William's thoughts might have seemed to her as queer as his expression could have known them. There he was, not very definite, however, taking the form of sweet, vague pictures of the future. These pictures were of married life—that is, married life as William conceived it for himself and Miss Pratt—something strikingly different from that he had observed as led by his mother and father and their friends and relatives. In his rapid mind he beheld Miss Pratt walking beside him "through life," with her parasol and her little dog, her exquisite face always lifted playfully toward his own, with admiration underneath the playfulness, and he heard her voice alive always rippling baby talk throughout all the years to come. He saw her applauding his triumphs—

"Will-er!"

The aviator struck a hole in the air, his heart misgave him. Then he came to earth—a sickening drop, and instantaneous.

"Will-er!"

There was Jane, a figure in a plastic state and altogether disgraceful. She came up out of the waters and stood before them with feet of clay, indeed, postulated upon the curbstone.

"Who is that curious child?" said Miss Pratt, stopping.

William shuddered.

"Was she calling you?" Miss Pratt asked incredulously.

"Willie, I told you you better take an umbrella," said Jane, "instead of paper's cane." And she added triumphantly, "Now you see?"

"You go home!" he commanded hoarsely.

Miss Pratt uttered a little scream of surprise and recognition. "It's your little sister!" she exclaimed, and then, reverting to her favorite playfulness of enunciation, "Oor ickle Jane!" she added gayly, as a translation. Jane misunderstood it. She thought Miss Pratt meant "our little sister."

"Go home!" said William.

"Not, not!" said Miss Pratt, shaking her head. "Me 'frail oo's a o'ty, not'y ickle dirt! All dat!"

Jane advanced. "I wish you'd let me carry 'Poodle' for you," she said.

Giving forth another gentle scream, Miss Pratt hopped prettily backward from Jane's extended hands. "Oo-oo!" she cried childishly. "Masin! 'sach! Pheus! Flopt all soap-water-wash clean. Ickle thiry all muddy, nasty! Ickle dirty must doo home, det all soap-water-wash clean like ickle siss den. Eevabody will love 'oor ickle siss den," she concluded, turning to William.

"Tell 'oor ickle siss den' doe home det soap-water wash."

Jane stared at Miss Pratt with fixed solemnity during the delivery of these admonitions, and it was to be seen that they made an impression upon her. Her mouth slowly opened, but she spoke not. An extraordinary idea had just begun to make itself at home in her mind. It was an idea which had been hovering in the neighborhood of that domain ever since William's comments upon the conversation of

"I used to think that, too, when I was younger."

Mr. Genesis in the morning. Meanwhile William and Miss Pratt went on, leaving Jane to her own diversion.

The pale end of sunset was framed in the dining room windows, and Mr. and Mrs. Baxter and the rehabilitated Jane were at the table when William made his belated return from the afternoon's excursion. Seating himself, he waived his mother's references to the rain, his clothes and probable colds, and after one laden glance at Jane he fell into a state of trance.

"Everybody in town seemed to be on the streets this evening as I walked home," Mr. Baxter remarked, addressing his wife. "I suppose there's something in the clean air after a rain that brings 'em out. I noticed one thing, though. Maybe it's the way they dress nowadays, but you certainly don't see as many pretty girls on the streets as there used to be."

William looked up absently. "I used to think that too," he said, with dreamy condescension, "when I was younger."

Mr. Baxter stared.

"Well, I'll be darned!" he said. "When you were younger?" Mr. Baxter repeated, with considerable irritation. "How old do you think you are?"

"I'm going on eighteen," said William firmly. "I know plenty of cases—cases where—"

"I paused, relapsing into lethargy."

"What's the matter with him?" Mr. Baxter inquired heatedly of his wife. William again came to life. "I was saying that a person's age is different according to circumstances," he explained. "You take Genesis's father. Well, he was married when he was sixteen. There was a case over in Iowa that lots of people know about and nobody thinks anything of. A young man over there in Iowa that's seventeen years old began shaving when he was thirteen and shaved every day for four years, and now—"

He was interrupted by his father. "And now, I suppose, he's got whiskers!" he burst forth. "There's an ambition for you! My soul!"

CHAPTER XI

Jane's Theory.

It was Jane who took up the tale. She had been listening with growing excitement, her eyes fixed placidly upon William. "He's got a beard!" she cried, alluding not to her brother, but to the fabled Iowan. "I heard Willie tell ole Mr. Genesis about it."

"It seems to lie heavily on your mind," Mr. Baxter said to William. "I suppose you feel that in the face of such an example your life between the ages of thirteen and seventeen has been virtually thrown away."

William had again relapsed, but he caught himself feebly. "Sir!" he said.

"What's the matter with him?" Mr. Baxter demanded. "Half the time lately he seems to be hibernating and only responds by a slight twitching when poked with a stick. The other half of the time he either behaves like I don't know what or talks about children growing whiskers in Iowa. I mean that girl left town yet?"

William left the table. Mrs. Baxter looked distressed. As for Mr. Baxter, he felt a little remorse undoubtedly, but he was also puzzled. He referred to his mystification a little later as he sat with his evening paper in the library.

"I don't know what I said to that (stupid boy to hurt him," he began in an apologetic tone. "I don't see that that there was anything too rough for him to stand in a little sarcasm."

"I think he's married," said Jane. "What?" And her parents united in their hilarity.

"I do think he's married," Jane insisted, unmoved. "I think he's married with that Miss Pratt."

"Well," said her father, "he does seem upset, and it may be that her visit and the idea of whiskers, coming no close together, is more than mere sentiment, but I hardly think Willie is married. Jane."

"Well, then," she returned thoughtfully, "he's almost married. I know that much, anyway."

"What makes you think so?"

"Well, because, I kind of thought he must be married, or anyway somep'n, when he talked to Mr. Genesis this mornin'." He said he knew how some people get married in Pennsylvania on 'radia, an' he said they were only seven or eight years old. He said so, an' I heard him. An' he said there

Western M. P. Explains to His Parliamentary Friends and Enemies the Logical Working of Indian Minds

Amusing stories are not told every day in the House of Commons. But Gavan Duffy, M. P. for Whitehaven, Sask., considerably brightened proceedings during a recent debate by recalling the experience of an old Irish colonel in India who had a native servant with a very long and unpronounceable name. The colonel decided that his name was too much for him and would have to be abolished, but the difficulty was to make the native agree to this.

So, acting on a sudden idea, he took the native to a pond and dipped him in. When he brought him out the colonel said: "Now your name is Mick and you will eat no more meat on Friday." The very next Friday, he saw Mick eating a big hunk of meat and demanded an explanation. "It's all right, colonel," replied the native with a solemn face, "this no meat. Me dip it in pond and call it fish."
