C.P.R. APPEAL DISMISSED

Railway Companies are Liable for Starting Prairie Fires—E. N. Williams Wins his Suit. Tucker Again Beats Armour

The full court met yesterday to deliver judgments in the various cases before them at this sitting. The most important judgment affecting the public interest was that of the King vs. the C.P.R.; the defendants having appealed against the convictions under the prairie fire ordinance. Mr. Justice Harvey read the judgment which dismissed the appeal. In doing so he cited the contention of the company that the North-West ordinance does not affect a company operating under the Federal Railway Act, and further they contended that proper precautions were taken by them through having spark catchers on their engines to release them from any other obligations. They also urged that this matter was delegated by the Dominion Railway act to the Railway Commission and that therefore the ordinance did not apply.

The court has, however, held that there has been no decision on the application of the federal law by the railway commission. The North West Territories ordinance through the passage of the Autonomy act became provincial legislation. If the federal and local laws are found to overlap, the Dominion law obtains. There is, however, no effective federal law with which the provincial law conflicts. The company did not take the necessary precaution to burn along their tracks between the track and the plowing also provided for and therefore they were liable to the penalty imposed.

This judgment was concurred in by Chief Justice Sifton, Mr. Justice Pendergast and Mr. Justice Newlands.

The court was unanimous in dismissing the appeal, but on different grounds. Mr. Justice Wetmore read his judgment concurring with Mr. Jus-the court three times, and Mr. Tucker has won each time, and the final decision of the court en banc will probably settle it although other proceedings arising out of this suit are likely to follow.

The court decision was unanimous. With Costs

The Stevens vs. Hilton case was dismissed with costs, Mr. Justice Harvey reading the judgment and all concurring except the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Stewart who read dissenting judgments.

Moore Jaw Sealed
In the case of McMillan vs. Moore Jaw the appeal was allowed and judgment reversed, the defendants having to pay $193 damages.

In the case of Woolly vs. Harper and McRoberts the appeal was dismissed with costs.

Got Salary
The appeal was allowed with costs in the case of Cliphsham vs. Grand Prairie school district. This was a suit to recover salary after dismissal. The amount of award was reduced to $75.15.

Williams Wins
The Blackstock-Williams case has been finally settled in favor of the defendant Williams. Locally the case is well known. Defendant answered verbally an offer for a piece of Rose street property facing the West office, and later defendant stayed in writing the lowest offer he was likely to consider up to a certain time. Plaintiff took this to mean a contract of sale and closed the bargain on his part, but defendant refused the deposit stating he did not intend to sell. Plaintiff then took action to gain possession of the property but lost in the lower court and yesterday his appeal was dismissed.

In delivering judgment Mr. Justice Wetmore said that the letter written by defendant was not a contract of sale. It was merely a statement. He cited a decision of the privy council on a similar case. Mr. Justice Harvey was very reluctant to agree with his brother judge but did not dissent from the judgment, and he was supported by the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Scott. Mr. Justice Stewart's judgment dismiss-

It is rumored that W. A. Brown, general superintendent of the C.N.R., will succeed E. A. James as manager of the company. Mr. Brown is now at Bank recuperating after the strenuous winter, the most of which was put in on the road where he went for weeks at a time without having his clothes off, and many times has gone the twenty-four hours round without sleep.

The Grey Nuns from Montreal, will arrive in the city today to open their hospital. While the new building is being erected they will utilize old St. Mary's Church, which was used by the city as an emergency hospital last summer. The tenants in the Grey Nuns' houses are moving out and the Sisters will occupy this building as a residence.

Exemption Case
The next case is of considerable public importance. Some years ago the town of Indian Head exempted one Osment from taxation on account of industrial improvements. Later the council assessed him for school tax. He refused to pay this tax on the ground that the assessment was a municipal tax. Mr. Haultain, solicitor for the town of Indian Head, raised the question of minority right in connection with this tax, and the court en banc reversed the judgment of the lower court and confirmed the assessment.

Appeal Allowed
In the case of O'Neil vs. Stien the appeal was allowed with costs.

SOURIS COAL RICH IN GAS

Important Discovery by Dr. Charlton who finds Estevan Product Will Produce 8,000 Feet Per Ton

According to the analysis of Dr. Charlton, Provincial Bacteriologist, which he has been conducting for some time, Souris coal contains eight thousand feet of gas per ton, or almost as much as Pennsylvania coal. This fact is of very great industrial importance to Regina, as the Souris coal fields are only 75 miles from this city and the supply of lignite is practically inexhaustible. The city will vote on a gas franchise on the 18th inst. and it is a question of moment whether the western coal can be used for the manufacture of gas. It has been contended that the coal for this purpose would have to be brought from Pennsylvania, but now the fact has been established that right at our door coal is found almost as rich in gas as the foreign product, and this coal

THEY'RE AFTER DOLLAR WHEAT

Farmers of Continent can Organize and Control Prices--Big Movement on Winnipeg, April 30.—Dollar wheat is the slogan of the grain growers of the United States. Already an energetic campaign to fix that price as the minimum value of a bushel of a bushel of the 1907 crop is under way.

The result of the interview will be the formation of the Canadian Society of Equity on the great wheat growing sections of Manitoba Saskatchewan and Alberta.

While some scepticism is encountered, no prejudice against the campaign is detected and scepticism is easily allayed. Fully as enthusiastic as the wheat grower are the banker, merchant and professional men. They realize that the dollar wheat campaign means a decided increase in the local supply of money.

Washington wheat growers, like those in Canada, are fully alive to the possibilities of the campaign. Word comes from Spokane that the farmers and wheat growers' Association is running through the wheat

"Every other interest is well organized except that of agriculture, and eventually it too, must fall in line. This is the age of co-operation."

President Everitt has spent some time in Minnesota and North Dakota, laying of the plan of campaign for dollar wheat, for this is one of the principle battle grounds.

Wheat controlled, he says, is the topic of the hour among the farmers everywhere. Demand for wheat is constant, but the market is an erratic thing, consequently it is logical that supply rather than demand is responsible for the fluctuations, and if that supply could be made regular fluctuations would cease.

Taking the ground that the result of the competitive system of selling wheat is responsible for the unprofitable prices, excessive acreage and soil impoverishment, the society will plan a reduction of acreage.

A plan will be evolved for storage of grain in owner's hands. Steel tanks will be recommended, also the securing of terminal elevators at all primary receiving points.

It is the intention of the grain growers to sell more directly to the millers and do their own exporting, thereby excluding speculators.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultant, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is a most good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholin, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Pinley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Souder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

"The Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Opinions being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of such ailments as well as in the throat and chest. It is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The Discovery is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients, mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Littlefield, N. Y.

MINERS DECIDE TO-MORROW

Labor Leaders and Operators Together and Men Will Vote on Contract Terms—Government was Ready

The labor leaders and the mine operators have signed a two years peace settlement to become effective on condition that it is endorsed by the miners who will ballot on the agreement tomorrow. It is said by Sherman that the men will accept the terms and return to work. Sir William Mulock is at Petrie but his services as chairman of the board of investigation will not be required. The government was fully prepared to cope with the situation if the strike had become acute and police detachments in the vicinity of the mines were considerably strengthened and they had plenty of rifles and ammunition. There were two squads sent from Regina and 129 rifles. These were distributed between McLeod and Lethbridge. The C.P.R. were preparing for the worst and had large quantities of coal ordered from other sources, and were sure of sufficient supply for the trains.

can be laid down at a merely nominal cost. What Dr. Charlton's discovery means to Regina can hardly be estimated as this will materially reduce to us the cost of gas. There is a very valuable by-product from Soubis coal, consisting of black oil in which there is a good percentage of ammonia. There is no coke, however from this coal, but this fact would not warrant the importation of the foreign product when the gas properties are so pronounced. Dr. Charlton will make experiments with other western coal along the same lines as the previous analysis.

SCHOOL FOR HOUSEWIVES

BY MARY HANCOCK

Different Ways of Preparing Asparagus

THE high rank of "Asparagus" is awarded to this child of the early spring-time justifies us in making the subject of a paper entirely given up to its nature, works and ways. It was in high favor in imperial Rome. The epicurean patriarch—when the modern master would say, "Be quick about it!" and the city conductor would growl, "Step lively!"—enjoined his slave to do it in less time than is needed to cook asparagus!

Most of us are familiar with the tale of the two French gourmands who quarreled over the rival merits of oil and butter in cooking asparagus, finally compromising by sending word to the cook to prepare half of the vegetable with butter and half with oil. The friends chatted amicably for awhile after the point was settled. Suddenly the advocate of butter, who was the guest of the other, fell down in a fit. The host raised him and saw that he was dead. Whereupon he laid down the lifeless body, ran to the head of the kitchen stairs and shouted to the chef: "Do it all in oil! The butter-man is dead!"

An American lover of the table avers that Asparagus officials "is an aristocrat from tip to stalk." All of which goes to prove that the owner of the high-sounding title differs utterly from human upstarts. He is an upstart, nevertheless, and the further he gets away from his native soil the less worthy is he.

AT ITS BEST IN VIRGINIA

In Virginia, where our aristocrat of the kitchen-garden is at its best, he is systematically kept under the surface of the ground. Asparagus is planted in rows, and as it peeps above the earth, it is banked out of sight, the long lines of rich mould rising steadily to keep pace with its growth. As a result, when the asparagus is cut for the table it is bleached from root to tip and tender throughout. It took me a long time to learn to accept the spring green stalks offered in Northern markets as asparagus. Sometimes German green-grocers and market-women called it "grass." This was said to be a perversion of the stately name. Indeed, country folk often spoke of it as "sparrow-grass." A half century ago Fredric Cozens, genial and loving humorist, made us laugh with him at the bucolic ambitions of Mr. Sparrowgrass and his spouse. We quote him to this day.

PREJUDICE AGAINST "GRASS"

I own, frankly, to a rooted prejudice against the "grass," which time and usage have not overcome. My heart still turns fondly to the plump and pale columettes grown in Southern market-gardens. Yet I am told that what medicinal virtues are inherent in asparagus are more potent in the green spindles than in the bleached larger stalks. I am quite ready to believe the further assertion that these virtues are eliminated from canned asparagus and that the delicate straw-color of the closely packed stalks is due to chemical agents. We all know how flavorless the canned imitation is by comparison with the fresh vegetable.

Other succulent growths, asparagus deprecates quickly when drawn from the earth. If cooked within an hour or two after it is cut, the twenty minutes' boil recommended by cook-books will send it to table tender and good. It has long been my custom to cut off half an inch from the lower part of asparagus bought in the markets and to set the stalks upright in water as I do with cut flowers. Asparagus is planted in rows, and as it peeps above the earth, it is banked out of sight, the long lines of rich mould rising steadily to keep pace with its growth. As a result, when the asparagus is cut for the table it is minutely. Some people think fairly stories better for children than Bible histories. I do not agree with them, if one is wise in one's selection of Scripture stories.

C. E. W. (Providence, R. I.)

Packing Eggs

If a little flour be mixed with the salt used in packing eggs, it will prevent the hardening of the salt about the shells.

But the flour?

May I come again?

G. H. P. (Holland, Mich.)

Brief and to the point! The suggestion is sensible. Salt absorbs moisture with marvelous readiness and holds it. In drying, it cures and hardens. I have seen eggs that were packed in salt break when the lump of salt was detached from them. Upon the same principle the canny housewife mixes cornstarch with the salt in the cellar prepared for table use.

Yes; come again and often, if you are always as pertinent and sententious as you have been today.

A Bit of Encouragement

I have always thought yours a difficult task, but I have more sympathy with you now than ever.

About three months ago I wrote asking you for an answer long ago. I believed my request had found a resting place in the waste basket. No; did I wonder at this, for really the matter was not important after all. Imagine my surprise and pleasure at seeing my letter and one of the dearest recipes in a late issue of the Exchange!

Since I have realized that you must actually keep track of all letters, and that you really do answer each in turn, I think your patience must exceed that of Job. The task seems tremendous to me, and I write this to encourage those who wait long for replies, and to bespeak for you my sympathy.

Here is the recipe I promised:

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake.

Melt two squares of chocolate in one-half cup of sour cream. Beat together the yolks of three eggs, one and a half cups of sugar and another half cup of sour cream. Add the melted chocolate, a pinch of salt, one large cup of flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one of vanilla. Finally, the beaten whites of the three eggs.

Bake in a square tin, and when cool pour a boiled icing over it.

To make this last: Beat a cupful of sugar with one of water until it "threads." Beat the white of an egg light and add a quarter teaspoonful of cream of tartar; pour the syrup over this slowly, and whip all light. When the right consistency is gained, sweep upon the cake. The cream of tartar makes the icing light and thick.

C. B. S. (River Forest, Ill.)

Your patient consideration of an over-weighted editor is as soothing as it is unexpected. The veriest dullard in figures can gaze at the impossibility of crowding 18 letters per day into a corner that would hold but twenty at most. I am so used to tart queries as to the reason that letters demanding replies within two or three days do not appear under that number of weeks and why

ASPARAGUS RECIPES

Baked Asparagus (English Style).
Cut off an inch from the lower part of the stalks and scrape them from end to end with a sharp knife, taking off the thin outer skin alone, without bruising the rest. All the stalks must be of equal length. Bind them into a bunch and set upright in a saucepan of boiling water slightly salted, just deep enough to leave over an inch of the tips out of water. Lay a clean napkin about the base of the stalks to prevent them from tipping over. Put a close cover on the saucepan to keep in the steam, and after you feel that the boil has begun, cook twenty minutes.

Take up the asparagus, drain off all the water, wipe the threads and lay the stalks, alternately tip to base, on a hot dish. Cover with a good drawn butter and serve.

This might be called a "steamed" rather than baked asparagus, the distinctive feature of the process being that the tips are steamed and then left plumper and less sodden than if immersed with the stalks in the boiling water. If the asparagus be withered and stale, cook for twenty-five minutes.

Baked Asparagus (German Style).
Cut two inches from the lower part of the stalks. (The thrifty German housewife never throws these away. They go into the stockpot, adding pleasantly to the larder.) Scrape off the woody skin and set into bunches of a dozen stalks each. Lay at length in a saucepan and cover with boiling water. Put on a cover and cook fast for ten minutes; then add an even teaspoonful of salt and a heaping teaspoonful of butter. Cook for fifteen minutes more; drain, lay on buttered toast and pour over it a cupful of drawn butter based on milk. Let the mixture stand for a few minutes, then pour the butter over the stalks and serve.

Baked Asparagus (Italian Style).

minutes. It is very good, prepared in either way.

A Scallop of Asparagus (Swiss Style).
Leave but an inch of the stalk below the tender part of the tips. Cook tender in boiling water, salted, adding a bit of butter at the end of ten minutes. Drain and dispose a layer in a well-buttered bachelard, stave ready six eggs boiled hard. Rub the yolks of powder, season with pepper and salt and strew thickly over the asparagus. Put with water and put in the rest of the asparagus. Pour over the top a cupful of milk heated to scalding, then thickened with a roux made by stirring together in a pan over the fire a great spoonful of butter with a tablespoonful of flour. Cover this sauce with very fine, dry crumbs, stick bits of butter in it, pepper and sift Parmesan cheese over all. Bake for fifteen minutes, covered, in a brick oven, then uncover and brown lightly.

Curried Asparagus.
The tips are used for this dish. Make a roux by trying a sliced onion in three tablespoonfuls of butter, until the onion is slightly colored, strain it out, then return the butter to the fire and stir into it a heaping tablespoonful of flour, a spoonful of lemon juice, a dash of paprika and a tablespoonful of curry powder. Have ready heated in another saucepan a cupful of milk, adding a pinch of soda, and stir it gradually into the roux, removing it from the fire to do this. Set again on the range, stir for a few seconds and pour over the asparagus tips, which have been cooked tender in salted boiling water. The roux seems tremendous to me, and I write this to encourage those who wait long for replies, and to bespeak for you my sympathy.

Here is the recipe I promised:

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake.

Melt two squares of chocolate in one-half cup of sour cream. Beat together the yolks of three eggs, one and a half cups of sugar and another half cup of sour cream. Add the melted chocolate, a pinch of salt, one large cup of flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one of vanilla. Finally, the beaten whites of the three eggs.

Bake in a square tin, and when cool pour a boiled icing over it.

To make this last: Beat a cupful of sugar with one of water until it "threads." Beat the white of an egg light and add a quarter teaspoonful of cream of tartar; pour the syrup over this slowly, and whip all light. When the right consistency is gained, sweep upon the cake. The cream of tartar makes the icing light and thick.

The Housemothers' Exchange

I READ the letter in yesterday's paper from "Monograph," and your answer, and your ideas so entirely coincided with mine that I want to write and tell you so, and thank you for the answer you gave here, and in a way to others who hold her views.

I suppose she is not to blame because she never had a chance to learn how to take care of a house, but how does she know she does not like it when she has never tried it? Of course, there are things about housework not entirely pleasant, but so there are about office work, and I don't like to clean my typewriter and get my hands all stained, but I have to do it just the same. Nothing do I love to scrub floors and wash a lot of kitchen dishes, but I think the enjoyable parts of housework more than compensate for these unenjoyable things. I am not like her. I love housework, and all that pertains to it, and for a girl who has worked in an office for four years after completing a high school course I think I have a pretty good idea of what housework means. My mother was not taught housework when a girl—that is, to make a study of it—and has never liked it, and she determined that her daughters should be taught housework clear through, and I know I have been, and my little sister is making a good start.

It seems to me that no boarding-house life can make up for a home life. It may be a little more aristocratic, as she seems to think, but no boarding-house would satisfy me, and I know whereof I speak, for I, too, am going to be married before many months, and nothing but a home, even though it be only a small flat, would satisfy me, and I know from things my father has said that is what he wants, too. He has never had a home, being an orphan, and he looks forward to our having a home with a great deal of pleasure. I don't see what she can be thinking of deliberately to put aside home life and be content with a boarding-house. I don't believe she would, either, after giving it a trial.

What is more pleasant than the washing and wiping of daily china and glassware, the cooking and serving of a good meal that is just enough for two, or the arranging and cleaning of a house? Maybe I am a little too far the other way, but it seems to me that when I lean through office work and am in my own home my joy will be full.

Her stance has the higher ideals of the two in wanting a home. Even granting

I can make room for, not because I agree with the writer in her contention, but that other women, and particularly mothers, may ponder upon her ideas and express their individual views. For myself, I own, without a blush, that I cried out "Yes!" at dear Peter Pan's appeal: "Don't you believe in fairies?" Nor have I ever found that my children confounded the true and the false in everyday life and working hours for having been fed, as a dessert after lessons and real tasks, with the blessed old fairy tales. Jean Jacques Rousseau (of whose private life we will say nothing in a family paper) considered that the parent who told his child that birds and beasts talk and have dramas, etc., after the manner of humankind, did his offspring great harm.

I am sorry that I cannot recall the author of a rhyming reply to the French theorist that I once knew by heart.

"I will not ask Jean Jacques Rousseau if birds congregate or no. Of all things old and some things new, The child who reads and takes for true The story of a rook and bull Must have a most uncommon skull."

But now for our thoughtful correspondent's well-written essay:

Many children annoy their parents by lying. I have wondered if reading fairy tales to the little ones and making up stories to entertain them had anything to do with the untruthfulness. Children cannot understand why they may not make up stories, too, without being called wicked and being punished.

For my part, I see no sense in telling children about the cow who "Jumped over the moon, While the dish ran away with the spoon." It would be far better to read something sensible to them; something that will help them to grow up with noble thoughts and make them kind to their fellow-creatures. Some fairy tales frighten children. I know of a child who is afraid to go into the garden because some one told him of a little girl who was turned into a batthers never see the light, that your gentle appreciation of my difficulties, and my honest desire to mete out justice to all, is like a poultice to an inflamed surface. Not that I lay unreason and intemperate reproaches to heart. The inflammation is but skin deep, yet brags annoy and mud is unsightly until it is dry enough to rub off.

A Suggestion

(Contributed.)

I have tried the recipe for the "Marion Harland Compote" sent in by a correspondent. We pronounce it "very good." But may I suggest that half the quantity of water (or none at all) be put into the bake dish with the apples, as the water draws the flavor out of them? The inflammation is but skin deep, yet brags annoy and mud is unsightly until it is dry enough to rub off.

Recipes (Contributed)

Crackerjack.
Fear over unsalted popcorn the molasses daily given herewith, and crackerjack far superior to the ordinary variety will be the result:

One cup of New Orleans molasses; four cups of sugar (granulated); six cups of brown sugar; butter, the size of an egg; one cup of vinegar.

Boil hard until it threads, or drops brittle in cold water. Remove from the stove and stir in as much soda as will lit on a dime.

Chop-a-Corn.
Four hot chocolate fudge over unsalted popped corn.

Apple Tapioca.
Peel, wash and core carefully tart apples. Sweet apples will not do. Arrange in a deep dish. Fill the interstices with a half-cupful of sugar; stick a bit of butter in each apple; squeeze half a lemon over the apples, then gradually add a cupful of cold water. Cover the dish and bake until the apples are soft.

Here is a cupful of tapioca that has been soaked for four hours in enough water to cover it well. Drain the syrup from the apples upon the soaked tapioca and set over the fire in a double boiler until it is boiling hot. Four, then, upon the apples and set over the fire for twenty minutes.

You may serve hot in the dish, setting it with water on the table, or in a glass dish while warm, and set ice-cold with sugar and cream.

Fork Tenderloin and Apples.

(A nice breakfast dish.)

Broil the tenderloin thoroughly over a clear fire. Do this slowly, turning them several times to keep in the juices and get them cooked evenly. When done, lay upon a hot platter and lubricate with a mixture of butter and tomato catsup. Treat both sides in this way and set the dish, closely covered, in a hot oven over for five minutes.

Then lay about the pork, tart apples, sliced, but not covered or pared, and fried to a delicate brown in butter or in the fat of salt pork.

A Ginger Jar's Transformation

LUCKY indeed, is the woman who owns one of those fascinating old ginger jars from China that were so popular half a century ago. Many a seafaring captain, caught by the rich color and glaze of the blue and white jars, asked them up for a few cents just to show his women-kind at home what pretty wares the heathen "tarrings" could turn out. And the wife or mother, after due wonder, would probably utilize the rare vase to hold her pickles or even to the prosaic mixing of beer "mash" for bread.

Little did either realize that these children would value these vases among their greatest treasures, which to buy would cost almost their weight in gold.

These old Canton ginger jars, not content with insparading in their old age as flower holders, are now being put to a new and interesting use as a base for a lamp.

A clever young bride, whose grandmother was a Chinese and whose father was a Yankee, recently found three of these charming blue and white jars in her grandmother's attic. Rapturously she displayed her find, to the old lady's vast amusement at the queer taste of girls nowadays in wanting to own these "old Chinese crocks."

Two were at once put to use as flower jars for the dining table. The third was filled with a brass tank and burner. After a somewhat lengthy search, a blue and white shade that toned in beautifully with the rich colors of the base was found in a junk shop, and a remarkably handsome lamp was given a place of honor in the drawing room.

So much admired was this lamp that one of the other jars was converted to the same use. As a second lucky find of a suitable porcelain shade did not materialize, a queer hammered brass shade of Oriental design was substituted with equally good effect.

Any one owning such a jar would have no difficulty in turning it into a lamp after the lighting apparatus is added, by buying one of the pretty Japanese paper and bamboo shades or harmonizing tones that may be purchased at a cheap wire frame store. It is a home-made art trifling expensed with a glass wire frame. It is a home-made art trifling expensed with one of the quaint dragon patterns in glass. EVIDENCE OF GROWTH

What further evidence of the growth and expansion of Canada is needed than that furnished by the estimates passed by the Federal House at the session just closed.

The main and supplementary estimates aggregate over $126,000,000. This speaks eloquently of the rapid strides we have taken during the past decade, despite the fact that those who now occupy the treasury benches at Ottawa condemned the expenditure of one-third that amount in 1895.

It has taken ten years of Liberal rule to convince the leaders of that party that their policy with regard to revenue and expenditure was a falacy, and if two terms in office have made a national party out of a small narrow-minded faction, so much the better for the country.

Of course to approve of the large estimates just passed does not mean that we support all the items of expenditure. We believe that in the public works department there are too many little items, for a building and a war here and there in the maritime provinces and Quebec—expenditures for purely political purposes, while improvements of serious concern to the whole country are left undone.

The time is drawing near when millions of dollars more must be spent on our waterways especially on the deepening of the Welland canal; the intercolonial railway must be extended to Georgian Bay, and the Hudson's Bay road must be built, although we believe the latter will have to be undertaken by the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Considering the enormous growth of the whole country especially the west, it is folly to say that $126,000,000 constitute extravagant estimates for this Dominion at the present time.

Our own city of Regina offers an example of growth which we would do well to apply to the country at large, and conditions in general will bear out that comparison.

The day of small things has passed away, and those who doubt have but to read the last Canadian estimates, which are much larger per capita than that of the country to the south of us.

TECHNICAL DENIALS

The Government and Mackenzie King are taking a great deal of trouble to deny in a purely technical way that the police squads with large shipments of rifles which left here last week for McLeod and Lethbridge had anything to do with the labor troubles at the mines.

The West was the first newspaper to announce that the police and rifles were sent out so as to be available in case of trouble and that the force was in readiness at headquarters if needed.

The police went west to McLeod and Lethbridge and they were well equipped for trouble, and it, under the circumstances and with the warning indications pertaining to the difficulties that would ensue in case of a complete strike, the government had not taken this precaution to send in power to enforce the law, they would have been guilty of criminal negligence.

It is well known that the people would never stand for the mines being tied up over a labor quarrel, especially after the fuel famine of the past winter. The people and the railroads must have coal and the Government would have to arrange for operation of the mines in the event of a strike until such times as the operators and miners arrived at a solution of the dispute. The needs of the country demand this and there is no doubt that the police would be needed at the mines to keep order.

The labor organizations at Fernie must know that the history of coal strikes would warrant the government preparing for the worst under such conditions as the present and the sending of the police was not an expression of want of confidence in the negotiations taking place for a peaceful settlement.

Acting Premier Cartwright said in contradicting the West announcement afterwards published by the Calgary Herald that the dispatch was "mischievous" and that the movement of the police was only to complete the arrangements with Alberta that they were to have a force of a certain strength in that province.

This statement by Sir Richard is very weak and also goes to show that it is false. When the labor question is at a crisis it is not a time to send squads of police and large shipments of rifles to points in the vicinity of the storm centre unless there is serious reason for it. If the police were sent for the reason given by the Government then Ottawa committed a blunder and the despatch of the force was bad diplomacy for the Government might have known how this would be interpreted.

There was no blunder, however, and the police were sent out to McLeod and Lethbridge for the reasons given by The West when we made the announcement, and if there were trouble at the mines, the necessary men and arms were ready to follow those already gone to the front.

ANOTHER ADMISSION

By just sitting down and writing it is really interesting to watch the Ottawa coercionists tie themselves up in knots.

We all knew how shallow and false were the arguments of the Government when the Autonomy bills were before parliament, but the plausible statements of ministers of the crown had some weight in certain quarters or at any rate those who swallowed the autonomy issues tried hard to believe that there was something in the arguments of the government on such a matter as for instance, the land question.

As Mr. Oliver was the man who braced himself for the attack on the government's attitude in with holding our public lands, it is interesting at the present time to recall the defence of that policy.

"The cost of the administration of the public lands would be more than the province could stand." This was his cry when driven to the last ditch and for this stand he always found a few who applauded him.

The second annual report of the Interior Department has been issued since Mr. Oliver took his memorable stand to justify coercion, and now we have only to take his own words and the records of his department to show how insincere he was on the occasion referred to.

The cost of the administration of the public lands would be more than the province could stand. Without further comment we publish the following extract under the heading of "Revenue" from the last annual report of the Interior Department issued by Mr. Oliver:

The gross revenue of the department from all sources amounted to $2,533,858.12, which is a net increase of $697,439.56 over the receipts of the previous twelve months. It will be observed that the largest item of increase was on Dominion lands proper, the total revenue under this head for the last decade being $13,139,941.78 as compared with $2,548,825.95 for the preceding ten years. When it is considered that the bulk of this revenue is made up of homestead fees and mining, grazing, timber and hay dues, the enormous increase above mentioned must be accepted as the strongest possible indication of the substantial and rapid development which has been going on in the settlement of western lands during the past few years.

The surplus in the lands department last year was over a million dollars.

Now with respect to the census and immigration returns the last paragraph works both ways.

It stands to reason that if there is a "rapid development going on in the settlement of western lands," settlers must be rapidly coming in. The census and immigration returns, however, show that the immigration to Canada for "the past few years" has been going to the eastern provinces, and of the 41,000 who came west of the Great Lakes, 29,000 settled in Manitoba, while as the same blue book shows, as explained by us in our last issue, there are practically no homesteads in Manitoba now, and there were only 1182 entries last year compared with 27,715 in Saskatchewan.

Why go further, however, in taking seriously the absurd predicament in which the government find themselves respecting these issues.

RECRUITS SCARCE

Winnipeg, April 30.—Inspector F. Church, R.N.W.M.P., riding master at Regina, says "This is a new business for me as usually we have plenty of recruits, but the large settlement of the country makes it necessary to increase the force. It is quite a job to get the class of men we require. I have had to reject many men who passed the doctor on account of them not coming up to our own standard, not being quite sturdy enough for some reason or other. Others who were sturdy enough were slightly out in their eye sight or had some other defect. I have taken on forty men since I have been here, after putting them through a strict medical examination. The life is a strenuous one and a man has a good deal to stand; the settlers look to the police for information of every kind and they have to lend assistance to the quarantine department of cattle, the department of customs, the department of the interior, so besides wanting men physically fit we want good steady men of fairly good education. We have received applications from Montreal, London, Ont., Orkney, Portage la Prairie and many other points."

DECLINED APPOINTMENT

Prince Albert, Sask., April 29.—Rev. T. M. Marshall, Baptist minister of Prince Albert, has been offered the appointment of general missionary for Manitoba by the Home Missions Board of the Baptist association of Manitoba, and the North-West Territories, but yesterday he announced to his congregation that he decided to reject the offer. In remaining here Mr. Marshall is yielding to the strongly expressed wishes of the members of his church, who pointed out that the great success of his ministry shows that his work lies in Prince Albert.

The writ, in the action for libel instituted by Hon. H. R. Emmerson against the Frederick Gleaner was served by Sheriff Sterling on J. H. Cocksbutt, managing editor of the paper on Saturday. The amount of damage claimed is $25,000. John Cunningham, a boy of ten years was maltreated at Lethbridge by N. Stewart and J. Kaskis. The men got the youngster in a stable and poured carbolic acid on his body. Alarmed by his cries they then applied water which only increased the pain. The men were locked up.

As a result of small pox the Victoria day celebration and the old boys re-union has been abandoned at Ingersoll, Ont. The central school and public library have been closed. There are 18 cases reported.

SUNSHINE FURNACE
UNBREAKABLE FIRE-POT

The lower portion of a fire-pot is usually nearly or partly filled with dead ashes, leaving the live, red-hot coals in the upper part. The result is that the upper portion expands much more than the lower.

This uneven expansion causes a strain too great for a one-piece fire-pot to stand. Sooner or later it will split, allowing precious heat and sickening gases to escape.

But the fire-pot of the Sunshine is constructed to meet this condition. It is in two sections. The upper half expands, as much as necessary, independently of the lower. When cool, it contracts back to its original size, fitting to the lower half perfectly.

And this strong, unbreakable, gas and heat-tight, two-piece fire-pot is just one of the many superior features of the Sunshine.

At the last meeting of the board of trade questions of transportation were dealt with. H. F. Myton reported for the special committee appointed to consider shipping conditions.

P. McAra, Jr. brought up the action of the Winnipeg board of trade in urging the government to compel railway companies to fully equip their lines before making further extensions. Mr. McAra did not think that this course would benefit Regina as a distributing centre, and while he could support the portion of the request of the Winnipeg board respecting equipment he was opposed to the curtailing of construction. In the House of Commons, at Ottawa, Mr. Aylesworth introduced a bill at the request of the province of Ontario, giving power to the courts to annul certain marriages which had taken place without the consent of the parents of both contracting parties, these parties never having lived together either before or after the marriage was performed. Power is given to dissolve these marriages between the ages of 14 and 18. There was one such case where the parties had treated the marriage as a joke. The bill will effect no other province but Ontario.

WILL THE TOWN SECEDE

Provincial Boundary, Will be Changed—Lloydminster's Future in Hands of its Citizens—Champaign's Views

The boundary line between Saskatchewan and Alberta runs through the centre of the town of Lloydminster and the people of that town find this very inconvenient and annoying. After experiencing many difficulties in connection with their local affairs by reason of this, the citizens decided to take action with the provincial governments to have the boundary changed, so as to include the town-site in one province or the other, and this will be decided later by a vote of the citizens.

While the fourth covers the very important fact that the "Sunshine" burns any kind of fuel successfully. The McClary Co. claims to be the largest manufacturers under the British flag, and to a very great extent this growth is due to the persistent and carefully prepared advertising campaigns.

Honor, Riches and Long Life!

WHAT YOUNG MAN but desires them, and dreams no doubt that great success will attend his efforts and crown his later years with good fortune. Yet frequently in his haste to become rich the Young Man overlooks, entirely, the only methods of acquiring a competence which are sure—though to him they may seem slow. Often he reaches thirty or thirty-five with practically nothing laid by. Then he finds it hard to economize; his expenditures have been gradually increasing and he has not acquired the habit of saving. The advantage of ENDOWMENT LIFE INSURANCE taken out early in life, is that it furnishes a method of saving which is unequalled. In fact it almost compels you to save money regularly. You can commence with any amount, from $1,000 up, and increase it as your circumstances permit. According to statistics, of those who take out Endowment Policies at the age of 30, eighty per cent. survive the payment period of 20 years. You are, therefore, likely to live to enjoy the results of your own financial foresight and you can be certain of full returns upon the money invested.

There are over ONE MILLION Endowment Policies in force on this Continent, representing ultimate accumulations of Two and a Half Billion Dollars.

Wouldn't you like to join this vast army of money savers?

The most progressive, enterprising, far-sighted and successful young men are included in its ranks.

We have some things to say about Endowment Life Insurance.

Fill in the attached Coupon and send it in—do it to-day—it costs nothing and may be the means of starting you on the road to fortune. Others are inquiring, why not you?

REGINA

REGINA — THE CAPITAL AND INDUSTRIAL CENTRE OF SASKATCHEWAN

This City Leads in Wholesale and Distributing Business—In Railway Facilities—In Public Utilities—In Education—And Regina District Leads in Agriculture

Situated in the centre of a productive wheat area; an assured railway centre, with a rapidly growing distributing and wholesale business, Regina will ever be the leading city of the province.

The trade area of Regina extends into Alberta, especially with regard to the implement business, which for the two provinces is centred here and amounted last year to over $6,000,000. This branch of commerce has been attended by an enormous growth within the last two years, and this season will witness the permanent establishment of several large concerns in this city. With immigration at floodtide the settlement of the large country is very rapid, and thus increases proportionately the immediate demand upon the trade of Regina, from which the wants of the settlers are supplied.

The wholesale and distributing business depends upon the transportation, and today there is no city in the province better equipped with railway facilities. Next year we will have the C.N.R. from the east, and within two years the G.T.P. line to Yorkton, the C.P.R. to Prince Albert, and the Saskatchewan Central (or the Hill Canadian system) from the south-east, this being guaranteed in the charter approved a few days ago by the legislature. The G.T.P. Company has chartered powers to construct three lines into Regina, but the Yorkton branch will be the first in operation and will be constructed at an early date, the final survey having been made. With these facilities assured and with the distributing business now under control, why should the city not set a pace of industrial development not before recorded in the Canadian West? The day of small things for Regina has passed away, and besides being the capital city, we are the industrial city of the province.

A Wheat Centre

The fertility of the soil in the Regina district is well known, and last year the yield of wheat per acre was much higher than the provincial average. While the wheat average for the whole province for the past season was 21.40 bushels per acre, the Regina district, consisting of Pense, Balgonie, the city, and Lumsden yielded 22.89 bushels per acre. The total area of land under crop in 1905, was 188,019 acres; in 1906, 231,293 acres, or an increase of 23 per cent.

In wheat last year there were 165,686 acres under crop with a total yield of 3,788,069 bushels.

In Oats 58,363 acres yielding 2,568,947 bushels, or 44.01 per acre.

In barley there were 1,938 acres yielding 54,921 bushels or 28.33 per acre.

Flax last crop 5,301 acres yielding 76,415 bushels or 14.41 bushels per acre.

The total wheat yield for the province for the past nine years is 20.28 bushels per acre and the Regina district has never been below the average.

There were 550,000 bushels of wheat marketed at Grand Coulee in 1905 against 10,000 in 1902.

Seed for Australia

The Government of Australia this year placed an order with the Northern Elevator Company for two cars of No. 1 hard Red Fife wheat for seed purposes, and the company

QUEEN OF THE GOLDEN WEST

(Quotation from Britain's El Dorado by Russell Elliott Macnaughton.)

And there, resplendent with morning sun,
Fairest of all the Regina plain
Shone with its harvest of perennial gold,
A land of promise, and the very shrine
And granary of the empire yet to be
For other forms of wealth must pass away;
But here till labor and till time be done,
The seed-time and harvest shall return,
Yea, and returning, yield their royal store
Unstinted and unstinting, not in vain,
Queen of the golden west, for evermore
Thou bearest that for ever-honored name
Of her, whose tongue the law of kindness spake,
Who stretched her hand in bounty to the poor
And her people increase from afar.
And still, while winter's pall about me lies,
And chill monotony shroud the lifeless earth,
I see that joyous day spring once again,
When all the ruddy corn-fields round me glowed,
I see—and hope and gladness fill my heart.

FARM SCENE NEAR REGINA

searched all through the West without finding the grade they required till they located two cars purchased from Peter Donald of Pense. This was immediately placed in sacks and shipped to Australia. Thus again the superiority of the Regina district as a wheat growing area is demonstrated.

A Municipal Model

Regina is one of the best governed cities in Canada, and is the wealthiest municipal corporation, having assets upon which a surplus of nearly $1,500,000 may at any time be realised. The assessment last year was $7,100,000, representing a gain of 400 per cent. in four years. We spent a half million dollars last year in civic improvements with a rate of only 15 mills on the dollar.

In Regina the franchises of the city are municipalised, and power is supplied to industrial establishments by the municipal electric plant, which gives a 24-hour service at comparatively low rates. The city will soon vote on a bylaw respecting the establishment of a gas plant for heating and lighting purposes. If the city does not undertake this project as a municipal scheme, very satisfactory arrangements are offered in an alternate scheme from competing corporations.

Eastern coal for steam purposes can be obtained at a very low price

The Man Who Made Regina The Capital

Hon. Edgar Dewdney tells The West why He Located the Capital Here—Historical Review—Official Documents will be Published—Views on Regina's Future at present, and as the C.P.R. are contemplating running a line from a point on their Arcola branch to these mines, Regina would under those circumstances be in close touch with an inexhaustible fuel supply.

The citizens have had their minds directed towards a street railway system, which at present is a little previous, but which in less than five years will be necessary, and which when established will be owned and operated by the city.

Last year Regina undertook an extensive improvement scheme the initial expenditure on which was nearly half a million dollars.

Last year there were 78,400 yards of creosote and bitulithic pavement laid at a cost of $123,220, and concrete sidewalks amounting to $54,507.

Big Increase

The expenditure on public improvements this year show an increase of 25 per cent. over last season, aggregating the sum of three-quarters of a million dollars. The work for this year is an elaboration of that of last season, as the following outlay will show:

The amount of creosote block paving to be done this year is 19,200 yards, bitulithic pavement 32,450 yards and asphalt paving 16,400 yards, costing in all $257,360.

Sewers

When the contracts of last season are completed the southern part of the city will have adequate facilities for the present, and a separate system in the north is now engaging the attention of the council. A large trunk sewer running east and west will be put down this season.

Water Supply

The greatest asset any community can possess is an abundant supply of good water, and Regina holds a very exceptional position in this respect.

The water that is being distributed in Regina is obtained from underground springs, and is as pure as it is possible to get it. The water supplied until last September was obtained solely from springs intercepted by the 15-in. supply line leading from the reservoir to the compensating basin, which basin is situated about four miles from the city. There is an immense storage of Boggy Creek water at the reservoir which, though not as desirable as the spring water, could be used, after being treated with copper sulphate in proper quantity for domestic use. Fortunately there are a number of valuable springs near the reservoir which are being tapped and conducted to the main pipe line, and in this way the supply of last summer has been trebled. Last August a weir was placed in the 15-in. pipe at the compensating basin, which weir measured a supply of from 190,000 to 200,000 gallons daily. There is another supply which has been finally opened up this winter, entering the main pipe about two thousand feet below the reservoir, which is supplying fully 200,000 gallons daily. There has also been a 12-in. and 15-in. open joint pipe line laid around the banks of the reservoir, intercepting the springs that naturally lead to the reservoir, and there is nearly 200,000 gallons daily entering the main supply line from this new pipe line. It

Hon. Edgar Dewdney, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Territories, was in the city on Thursday and Friday, 11 and 12th inst, having stopped off on his return to Victoria to spend a couple of days with Hon. F. W. G. Haultain, James Brown and other old friends.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney is one of the most historic figures in Canada today, having been closely associated with the constitutional development of British Columbia and the North-West Territories, his experience in the public life of this country extending over a period of twenty-eight years. He knew Regina when the place was only a hamlet, and the surrounding country a bleak plain. At that time he was in the Indian department where he made a close study of the native character, and no man was more respected by the tribes who accepted his word as law, and he wielded a powerful influence with these people during the troublesome rebellion days. That the uprising did not occur the year previous was largely owing to him, but with accentuated grievances he could not avert trouble. He has given more than a quarter of a century to the public service, and he will have a prominent place of honor in the history of Canada.

Located Capital

Tall and erect, with a dignified bearing that at once commands attention, the silver haired statesman and administrator, who carries his seventy-two years with ease, arose from his arm-chair to accord an interview with a West representative. He entered into an interesting dis-is possible that another 200,000 gallons daily can be secured by other laterals being run in different places.

The probable consumption for domestic purposes at present is as follows: 400 services, 5 persons to a service, 65 gallons per capita per day amounting to 130,000 gallons per day. The C.P.R. have taken on an average for the three days ending March 30th, 75,750 gallons per day for the water tank alone. The 10-in. delivery pipe from the compensating basin of 150,000 gallons at the power house. This will give an extra ten hours reserve in case of fire, and the larger basin four miles out will give a twenty hour reserve, which will make the city safe from fire, and have a strong tendency to lower insurance rates.

The Public Health

The chairman of the health committee this year is a medical man, who is supported by the whole medical fraternity in his vigorous lot sales, and there yet remains in the possession of the city, property to the value of nearly one million and a half dollars.

A new central fire hall is being constructed this season costing over thirty thousand dollars.

$2,000,000 in Buildings

Last year the building permits issued in this city amounted to two million dollars. This places Regina fifth among the cities of the Dominion.

FIELD OF FLAX NEAR REGINA—77,000 Bushels Grown in the Province Last Year.

basin to the city at its full capacity approximately 1,200,000 gallons per twenty-four hours.

Compensating Basin

The compensating basin four miles out holds approximately 65,000 gallons. It is very desirable that the capacity of the compensating basin at this place should be vastly increased, and another basin holding one million gallons will be constructed as soon as possible. A 500,000 gallon basin will be added to the policy of sanitation. The city has just purchased a fifty ton capacity incinerator, and the most drastic measures are being taken to ensure ideal health conditions.

Civic Buildings

The new city hall is one of the finest public buildings in the Dominion. It will cost about $150,000 and not one dollar of this amount is contributed by taxation. The handsome pile is being constructed out of the interest on the proceeds of city

Owing to the lateness of the spring the permits for this season are slow although many large contracts have been let, and the estimated amount in building improvements will exceed that of last year.

MR. JUSTICE SCOTT, REGINA'S FIRST MAYOR

His Lordship Talks of the Early Prejudice and Embarrassment—Financed on Circus
Fee—First Municipal Organization—A Changed Scene

As the first mayor of Regina, who supervised the laying of the foundation of our municipal organization, Mr. Justice Scott, who for the past couple of weeks has been in the city attending the last court en banc of the North-West Territories, commands a prominent place in our civic annals. His Lordship cheerfully assented to the request of

MR. JUSTICE SCOTT

The West for an interview on Regina's early municipal history, and for an hour he discussed pioneer days and compared the conditions then with those existing at the present day.

He came here from Winnipeg, as a young barrister in 1882, when the Regina fever took such a hold on eastern people, that those who followed up the C.P.R. construction thought that this place would be a city in a short time and rival Winnipeg as a western centre, especially when the capital was located here the following year. Great was the buoyancy of the early citizens, however, at the first, they were soon breathing moody atmosphere owing to adverse criticism from outside sources, for there appeared to be an organized effort in certain quarters to destroy the growing confidence in Regina's future. The severe attacks from unfriendly newspapers together with the removal of the divisional point by the C.P.R. put a damper on the hopes and aspirations of the pioneer citizens. They toiled on, however, with combative tenacity, constantly looking for a rift in the clouds.

While some had crossed the borderland and others had moved away before the brighter day dawned, those who stayed on the spot have reaped their reward, while those who now in other places took part in the early struggle are gratified that Regina has finally triumphed, and that her prosperity has been so firmly established.

Early Organisation

The first municipal organization in Regina was a commission formed late in 1882 for the purpose of executing a system of fire protection. A brigade was organized and an estimated expenditure of one thousand dollars for equipment was authorized. The members of the commission were as follows, elected at a public meeting: W. H. Gibbs jr. (chairman) D. L. (now Judge) Scott, secretary; D. Mowat, Jas. Rielly (now of Calgary), J. A. McCaul, (now of Indian Head); J. D. Moulton and P. Pope. The commission after being in office about six months realized that further municipal development was necessary and at another public meeting in July they resigned and were succeeded by a "citizens' committee" to conduct the affairs of the town till its incorporation. This committee was composed of D. L. Scott, Q.C., chairman; John Seccord, secretary; N. F. Davin, Q.C., Dr. Lafferty, J. H. Benson, A. D. Ferguson, W. H. Gibbs, W. C. Hamilton, Jno. A. Kerr and Jas. Hamblly.

Close Financing

Up to the time of incorporation late in 1883 the committee had no means of raising money except by contribution or voluntary assessment and after the election of the first council board consisting of D. L. Scott, Q.C., mayor; J. W. Smith, J. A. Kerr, J. D. Sibbald, B. Hamblly, until the fall of 1884 the municipal business was financed on a circus fee. The new board could not get any money except by the old method of voluntary donation till the taxes came due, and the bank could not loan money to the new corporation. There was a way out of the difficulty, however. The first circus over the C.P.R. main line was to stop off at Regina. The finance committee saw their opportunity, and taxed the show men $50. This put the council in a fair way to fortune, and they financed on this money till the taxes came due.

Debt Issue

In 1884 the council decided to issue $10,000 worth of debentures to run for twenty years. These were duly advertised, but there was no market for them. The banks had some suspicions regarding the status of the council under the conditions of incorporation, and Regina was in more or less disrepute owing to continuous "knocking" from certain sources. These debentures were disposed of locally, however, at a discount of 25 per cent.

Judge Scott served two terms as mayor and continued to take a deep interest in municipal and other mat-

The New Federal Business College

This new and promising educational institute opened in Regina on the 10th of September last and from the very first day had a good attendance. Since the new year, however, it has enjoyed a patronage that would do credit to an older and more pretentious institute.

The "Federal" is the only business college in the province of Saskatchewan that maintains a fully equipped business department in charge of an experienced and successful teaching staff, and whose graduates are guaranteed good situations, or failing which all fees are refunded. As a matter of fact, we are informed that the calls upon the college for efficient office help are three times greater than available graduates.

The Houston Land Company, whose offices are in connection with the college, gives the students in training a very valuable and practical drill in office routine. The proprietor, Mr. G. S. Houston, has had many years of just such experience as is necessary to ensure success on the part of those who desire to enter and follow business vocations.

The instruction in individual and, therefore, students may enter the school at any time, and a few months in the Federal represents a great increase in earning powers. Now is the time to arrange, better call or write.

REGINA FOUNDED

BY POLICE OFFICER

Regina owes its existence to a R. N.W.M.P. officer who was sent to locate a site for the headquarters of the force and he chose the spot where the barracks now stand. Arrangements were then made with the P.R. to locate the town site and Regina was then surveyed.

Since that time Regina's name has been inseparably connected with that historic force and notwithstanding that changes are taking place so rapidly that the status of that splendid body must change also, it is the wish of all that they may never become disassociated with the capital.

Except at the outposts, of civilisation, life is not as strenuous for the men as it used to be, yet the past winter was very trying on those who had to make long journeys through sparsely settled districts far from railway communication and cut off from the outside world by the exceptionally severe winter, and it was due to the gallantry and endurance of the R.N.W.M.P. that there was not more suffering under such circumstances.

During these later years it has become necessary to police the shores of the Hudson's Bay and a great many men are required for that service, a large number being also in the Yukon. The experiences there will in some cases exceed the pioneer life on the prairies, as all reports indicate that it is a hard and solitary life. However, duty is all that a member of that force knows, and when the history of that military organisation finds its proper place in Canadian history the record will be one to the credit of the country and one that will redound to the honor and pride of the force.

Among the recent important achievements of the police was the History of Regina's Postal Service

From Packing Box to Magnificent Cut Stone Building—Branch Office and Free Delivery

Regina's postal service dates from 1882 when the post office was portable and consisted of a packing box which was allowed to remain a week at a time inside each of the business tents, and it was quite a nuisance, people having to keep it themselves, there being no one authorised to look after the mail.

E. B. Reed is credited with taking the initiative in drawing the attention of the government to this matter and a change soon took place. The first postmaster was Joseph C. Irvine, who was appointed in December 1882 and occupied J. J. Campbell's tent for a couple of weeks after which he moved to South Railway street and the following April to Stobart's on Victoria avenue. In January 1886 the new post office on Scarth street was completed and occupied. Mr. Irvine was succeeded by J. A. Whitmore who held office till his death and was succeeded last year, J. Nicoll, the present incumbent, taking his place.

Regina has completely outgrown the old building of 1886 and owing to lack of facilities the congestion is very embarrassing, but the handsome new structure will be adequate to the needs of the city for the next ten years.

The returns for the department for the year ending June 30th '06 show the gross revenue of the Regina post office to have been $37,510.53. There were 5,604 money orders issued, amounting to $99,884.54. There were 10,574 money orders paid amounting to $234,801.16. The total notes paid amounted to $44,735.63.

It was found necessary to open a branch office, this being located in German town. The business of this branch has grown enormously since its establishment.

The government is arranging to provide a free delivery system in smaller cities than where this practice is now in vogue, and the board of trade are arranging to take the matter up with the Postmaster General, so that Regina will probably be enjoying these facilities in a short time.

The first mayor of Regina was D. L. (now Judge) Scott, the councillors being J. W. Smith, (now mayor) Jno. A. Kerr, J. D. Sibbald and Jas. Hambly.

capture of the Bill Miner gang. This struck terror into the hearts of the outlaws who have occasionally worked up courage to attempt a desperate robbery such as are common to the south of the boundary.

There is not another body of men on the continent that can rank with the R.N.W.M.P. All important visitors to the city want to call at the barracks and if possible see the men on parade.

Regina has got a great deal of notice from writers who have carried away lasting impressions of the police. A correspondent to the Pittsburg Times after visiting the barracks two years ago wrote as follows, some of which The West has previously published.

"Regina is the headquarters of the mounted police, the barracks being located on the plain outside the city, close to the government house, which is the official residence of the Lieutenant governor of the North-West Territories. It is a very complete establishment, with administration buildings, residences for the commissioner and the other officers, barracks for the men, guardhouses, not only for the delinquents in the force, but also for prisoners awaiting trial or removal to the penitentiary, riding school, stables, theatre and a church. There is a spacious athletic ground attached, where cricket, baseball and other games take place, cricket of course being the favorite. A very spirited game of cricket was in progress when the Times correspondent visited the post, and it seemed odd to hear Assistant McIlree apologetically say that the team was somewhat crippled just now two of his best players being stationed in the Mackenzie River country, 3,000 miles to the north, and above the arctic circle.

How Recruits are Taught -

There are about 125 men here, not for police duty alone, but because this is the training school for the force. All recruits come here and are drilled, taught to ride and are instructed in their duties. They are put through what might be called a pretty stiff "course of sprouts," for the discipline maintained is very rigorous, and, moreover, their duties are so important and at times delicate, requiring the exercise of judgment and tact where force would be perhaps impossible, that intelligence as well as courage, activity and endurance is an imperative requirement.

Of course they must be able to ride and shoot well, since their efficiency largely depends, and often their lives upon these two requirements. Inspector F. Churc, for 15 years in the English Life Guards, and who is regarded as one of the best riding masters in the world, trains the recruits to ride, and if his pupils acquire any great portion of his skill as a horseman they will pass muster anywhere.

Mounting a horse which, two years ago, was brought in unbroken from the prairies, the Inspector gave an exhibition of both equestrian skill and what a horse may be taught by patience and kindness. The spirited animal galloped at high speed, guided only by the pressure of the rider's knees or by the swaying of his body, came to a full stop within a few feet and at a touch dropped on his knees and then lay down, as if to afford a breastwork from behind which its master might defend himself.

THE PROGRESS OF REGINA

(Written by Nicholas Flood Davin, March 1st, 1883.)

Even during the months of December and January—full months in the North-West, Regina advanced. But there was much to damp ardour and discourage enterprise, and many felt discouraged. The most ridiculous rumors were set afloat by persons opposed to the city, and mountains were made out of mole hills. The visit of Mr. W. B. Scarth did much towards dispelling misunderstanding, and ever since the greatest confidence has prevailed. New buildings are rising along Broad street, on which now all the lots are taken up under building conditions, and within the area bounded by South Railway his hotel full until his guests were lying thick as eels in a mudhole, in beds, bunks and along the passages.

Around Regina for twenty miles the land is taken up, and this is the reason the people have faith in the most maligned city the world ever saw. The land is rich—unsurpassed in richness. Suppose all the curses which have been poured on the head of Regina from the infliction of its name forward, were to be effective, the tillers of these teeming acres would want a centre where they could buy and sell, litigate and educate their children and house the Government which should regulate their affairs. The land around Regina is the sure guarantee of its future.

No one was more closely identified with the early history of Regina than the late NICHOLAS FLOOD DAVIN, F.C., M.P.

REGINA IN 1888

Victoria, Albert and Broad streets there is room for a good city. This will evidently be for some time the business part of the town, or rather will be the town, for a goodly sized town it would make. When people look at the map they forget the area over which a town in these days is "laid out" and do not realize the distance between Victoria and South Railway streets as they would do if they had to walk it two or three times a day. If the natural forces which lead the citizens to draw together, and not scattered over wide areas are allowed full play, Regina will soon go ahead. The railway traffic is increasing. Arrangements are in progress for digging a public well. Churches are about to rise, and what is better than this, there are already in Regina ministers of the Gospel who are emphatically first class men. A citizen has been born in Regina, and in time such an event will be no longer singular. There are a considerable number of lawyers here—a sure sign that there will be something worth fighting over. There is no whiskey, and mainly for this reason, a row is never heard in our streets, a quarrel never heard of in our hotels and billiard saloons. The hotels are full, although we have heard a discontented landlord say he would not think

Regina's Sponsor

Twenty-five years ago Regina consisted of a dozen tents and a couple of shanties. A party of old country tourists arrived in this canvas town on a bright summer morning in a special car and dined in a tent hotel. Among those visitors was Nicholas Flood Davin, who had given up his law practice in Toronto to make a home somewhere in the west. He became enamoured of Regina and decided to cast his lot with the handful of pioneers who were gathered at this point. Mr. Davin hung up his sign as a barrister and at once proceeded to establish a newspaper. He was anxious to tell the world about the queenly spot on these broad plains and he had more to do with the promoting of the early growth and development of the place than any other agency. Within one year there was in the town a population of 1,500 people. Through his eloquent tongue and prolific pen Mr. Davin became sponsor for Regina in her infancy, and now as the Queen city of Saskatchewan she has fulfilled the hopes and prophesy vouchsafed for her.

Fred Cook, writing to the Toronto Mail, twenty-five years ago spoke of Regina as the "Much abused Regina." Of all the places in the North-West not one has come in for less praise or more abuse." Rev. Mr. Wellwood writing on Regina in the Winnipeg Sun refers to this place as "Much abused Regina." We have lived down the reputation of the past.

The first murder trial held in Regina was that of John and George Stevenson for killing John McCarthy. The both men charged were found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on Nov. 28th, 1883. John McCarthy was a settler who lived on Sec. 32-18-14. The murderers were half-breeds. J. H. (afterwards Sheriff) Benson prosecuted, and D. L. (now Judge) Scott defended the accused. Judge Richardson was on the bench. Peter Hourie, now on the Crooked Lake Reserve, was interpreter.

REGINA'S BIG DEPARTMENTAL CASH STORE

In the earlier days when there was more activity and romance in the life of a mounted policeman, recruits could be had in plenty, but now conditions are becoming more settled and there is more work and less romance. The force is made up of all kinds of men, Canadians, Englishmen and foreigners, and even Indians and halfbreeds. College men have been found in its ranks, and scions of rich, and, perhaps titled families, some drawn to it by the fascinations of the free life of the frontier, others because of failure in other and less active walks of life. As a whole the force is made up of good men, more than ordinary intelligent, brave and tactful and fitted to deal with the heterogeneous people who inhabit the great North-West. With a military organisation they are only civil officers.

Organised in 1874.
The North-West Mounted Police was organised in 1874, starting with 200 men. At first they dealt mainly with Indians, of whom there were 30,000 in the North-West. Pages might be written of their first journeys into the interior of what was then an almost unknown land.

THE CANADA LIFE

Among the first of Canada's leading financial institutions to recognise the importance of Saskatchewan, and also Regina as a centre, is the Canada Life Assurance Company. That company has recently established a separate branch for Saskatchewan and located their chief office for the province in this city. "The West" extends a welcome to the company and to Mr. J. H. H. Young who will have the management of the company's business for the province and who comes to Regina to live. Mr. Young has had a long experience with the Canada Life having entered the head office 24 years ago, for the past thirteen years has represented them in several of the large centres of the United States.

Not many of Canada's institutions have seen a "Jubilee" anniversary, but the Canada Life has just completed its 60th year and the statement submitted to the Jubilee meeting contains many interesting features.

It is interesting to note the following from the remarks of the Hon. Geo. A. Cox, president of the company at the meeting:

"One of the most important features of our business is the satisfactory character of our invested funds. The substantial and steadily increasing prosperity of the agricultural community in all parts of Canada, and especially the important development of the western provinces, creates a good demand for choice mortgage loans at rates that materially increase the average rate of our interest earnings. We have now over six million dollars in mortgage loans, largely upon farming lands, and this contributes not only to the profit paying powers of the company but also aids in the development and prosperity of our country.

The payment to our policyholders during the year of $1,854,229.07 in profits, matured endowments and death claims; the increase of $1,951,000 to our accumulated funds, which have now grown to $32,280,542.59; the addition of $4,890,145 to our business in force, which has now increased to $112,572,028.39; and at the same time a reduction of nearly 4 per cent. in our expense ratio; all indicate a large share of public confidence, a liberal and honorable treatment of policy holders, a progressive policy and at the same time an economical management."

In the April number of the company's publication "Life Echoes" a

WHEAT THE CORNER STONE

Ottawa, April 25.—The agricultural commission held its last meeting of the session today, and adopted its report, which was presented to parliament. The report in part says:

"A careful survey of the entire field demonstrates that agriculture is the corner stone of national wealth and power and is in a more prosperous condition at present in the Dominion of Canada than in any other country in the world, whilst unopened territory of rich lands awaits settlement, ready to respond bountifully to the industry and intelligence of many millions of willing hands. In a word, Canada is the world's greatest bread field of today. Besides, no other country of the globe offers a larger measure of constitutional freedom and legal protection of the people, irrespective of social class, condition or rank."

The question of the water supply for Regina was solved twenty-five years ago when Dan. Macalister, M. I.C.E. of London, Eng., after looking over the ground assured the citizens at that time that there was enough water at Boggy Creek springs to supply a city of at least 50,000 people.

REMINISCENCES

(By a Regina District Pioneer)

My wife and myself, newly married left Liverpool early in March in the year 1885. And within a few weeks after leaving England we found ourselves in a little board shanty on a one hundred and sixty acre homestead about fifteen miles north of Regina the capital of the Territories.

The shanty consisted of one room sixteen feet long and fourteen feet wide, which served for kitchen, sitting room and sleeping room, my wife having to be content with a place curtained off as a substitute for a bedroom. A similar edifice only without floor or other roof but poles and sod sheltered our stock, viz: the regulation yoke of oxen and a cow, together with a loud crowing rooster and four hens which we purchased in Regina at the modest price of one dollar each.

The purchasing of our stock and lumber and the trips to and fro to the homestead took some time and by the time we had our buildings up and ourselves installed it was near the end of May.

In the meantime we were at expense in town and our resources were nearly at an end by the time we found ourselves ready for a start.
Consequently the oxen had to be taken often from their work to haul loads of hay or wood, to earn a little, and the season proving on the

A PROPHECY

(Written by N. F. Lucin in January, 1884.)

A pleasant city on a boundless plain,
Around rich land where peace and plenty reign;
A legal camp, the province wisdom's home,
A rich cathedral, learning's splendid dome;
A teeming mart, wide streets, broad squares, bright flowers,
A marble figure whence a fountain showers—
What city's this? A gentle princess, famed
For happy genius, it Regina named.

dry side much breaking could not be completed.

Our first winter was an experience to us. The sharp cold confined us to the house unless specially prepared for a long journey. The necessity of life had also to be provided and many trips were taken for small profit to eke out on the remains of our little capital.

Then came '86 a year of almost total failure. I tried to cut my little crop with a mower, but the short grain fell among the clots and stubble and I could not save it. Our potatoes did better. It is a fact that potatoes will stand more drought than any other crop on the farm and if fairly treated will yield if anything does. I put up some slough hay, took every chance of a job and we faced another winter under similar circumstances to the first.

Many settlers left the country that year.

The following spring the government gave seed grain to the settlers, every man requiring two sureties to be responsible for payment. The season was better and I got a nice yield off forty acres broken and backset and was able in the fall to pay back my seed and look with satisfaction on my pile of grain, small, but sufficient with a little work to keep me going.

Still if it had not been for some assistance things would have gone hard with us. An interesting event occurred in the family and our home friends sent us congratulatory letters, one of them containing the very thoughtful and practical addition of a small draft. I do not think that anything that was ever done for me in my life could equal the relief and satisfaction caused by the receipt of that twenty pounds. The sight of that bit of paper that meant such relief from anxiety and addition to our comfort fairly broke us down.

Drawbacks.

It was not very inspiring in the late eighties to move around the country. Go in what ever direction you like, shanties and even well built houses, all deserted by their owners, met you, at every mile or so. Fields going back to prairie or acting as propagating grounds for weeds abuted on all the roads. The people whom one met were not well dressed nor were their teams in more than working order.

There were many reasons for this state of affairs. The oft repeated droughts no doubt by leaving the people without adequate means or return for their labor were the chief cause. The bit of home money became exhausted, and the feed was expensive to buy and the labor of breaking the land kept the fields small, not sufficiently large to cover household expenses and leave a profit.

Besides this, many who came in were not accustomed to the work, others were neither accustomed or suited to it. Some lacked method, some muscle, some both. Still others, after a trial, acknowledged their preference for something different.

It was also a new country. Few of my neighbors tried anyone. There was little money turning over. I have seen at the post office quite an interest taken in some lucky dog who produced a silver ten cent piece to buy stamps for his letter.

Then farming was not very well understood either. Poor seeding, for instance, was often the cause of a loss of half the crop. People sowed broadcast or used inferior drills with the result that the seed did not germinate regularly and sometimes laid in the ground until all hopes of a full crop were passed.

Binders were a speculation. They might work and they might not, and while they were "bucking" the grain was shelling.

Summer fallows, when people first began to use them often grew the dirtiest crop on the farm. This was owing to the fact that the weeds when turned under, instead of rotting as in moister countries, cured in the ground and ripened their seed with the sap they contained. Good cultivators were scarce and all work was done hurriedly, there being so many other demands on peoples' time.

'88 was a good year both for yield and price. '89 was again almost a failure. In the spring of '90 the government again distributed seed grain which, as has always been the case, met a good year and helped us on to the banner year of '91.

In 1891 Nature seemed to try for once just how perfect a season she could put up, both as a model for all subsequent years, and also a reward and encouragement to those who had put their faith in her.

The season opened with nice seeding weather with showers to start the seed. Then the June rains made no delay, but took the crops in hand just at the proper time. When the ground was sufficiently moist for the crops and the breaking plow, the rain would cease and be followed by sunshining weather for a week or ten days. Again when the crops would do with some more rain and the plow began to go a little stiff, on would come the rain, showering and raining gently till all was in fine shape again. Also unlike many wet years the mosquitoes were not too bad right through July and August the sunshine and moisture were proportioned to perfection. At harvest time the weather cleared up bright and fine and nearly every sheaf of grain in the country was stacked without a drop of rain or anything to make against its finest condition.

The granaries this time were full, and full of such grain. Plump enough to satisfy the most exacting miller, the wheat was covered with a shell of bran so brilliant and clear that one almost fancied one could see through it. Although some were tempted to launch out a little too much by this successful season still it did an immense amount of good to the country. Bills were paid, horses were bought, houses rebuilt or added to, and everywhere smiling faces and cheerful talk showed how grateful to the waiters was the long and anxiously looked for year of plenty.

Slow Progress

The year of ninety-one had unworthy successors. Ninety-two was a half crop, ninety-three less, ninety-four a failure as bad as eighty-six.

I myself had now added another quarter section of railway land to my original farm, my neighbors had nearly all at least a half section, that is to say, three hundred and twenty acres, and as the land was level and free from all obstructions we now had considerable acreages under crop. In these dry years we were more than able to keep going, but people on light land and the new comers felt the pinch.

The good year had induced heavy expenditures in machinery on the credit system and while this was of a great service especially to men of small means, it meant in the long run that people were over purchased and the steady drain on these accounts led to a worse state of financial embarrassment after the heavy blow of ninety-four than had ever been experienced in the country.

The fall of ninety-four found people without grain sufficient even for seed and flour, few or no potatoes or other vegetables, the stalls depleted by continual sales, the cows going dry, the chickens starting on their winter rest with a prospect of short commons and future credit simply a thing that people need not ask for.

Something had to be done. Our North-West government was appealed to and after deliberation and enquiry found that the situation demanded immediate attention. Ottawa would do nothing so out of our slender funds the executive had to do their best for the people. It was done as a rule impartially and carefully. A few instances occurred where over large sums were granted, but as a rule the money was granted for bare requirements. The form of relief was meant to be worked on a fair wage for man and horse being paid up to a sum considered sufficient for the applicant's needs.

Turn of the Tide

I now hasten to turn from a recital of ups and downs, progression and retrogression to a general description of the eight years lasting from 1895 to 1902 inclusive.

To put it briefly every one of these years paid its way and the majority of them were highly profitable.

Farming has passed out of the experimental stage in the North-West. The requisite conditions to ensure a full crop according to the season are known. The methods of sowing those conditions have been formed by experience and machinery that makes those methods possible and been perfected and only needs local knowledge used in its selection to make work rapid and effective.

Ploughing summer fallow which used to be done late and carelessly is now attended with promptitude and skillfulness. Without quite the fancy exactness that obtains in the old country. The furrows are still thoroughly and deeply turned over and the surface is kept diligently worked with cultivator and harrow until frost kills all weed growth and the land is thoroughly worked up. When the snow leaves in the spring most fields come out showing perfect and in a fine condition to retain moisture and promote rapid germination.

You can now drive to Regina on well bridged and well graded roads and see as many as three or four drills at work in one field seeding fifty or sixty acres a day.

During the growing season you will pass block after block of crops as

Times Have Changed

Considering the present assessment of over seven million dollars, the low rate of taxation; the public improvements, the financial standing of the city; its status as the capital, the seat of learning, the wholesale and distributing centre of the province, and its place in a rich agricultural area, Mr. Justice Scott was constrained to remark that times have certainly changed. Early prejudice and adversity have died hard, and are both buried in the potter's field.

WHOLESALE, DISTRIBUTING

All Large Canadian and American Implement and Farm Machinery Concerns have Their Headquarters at Regina—Manufacturers Coming in

As stated elsewhere the wholesale and distributing business of this city last year amounted to over $6,000,000, which will be increased considerably this season as there are many more business houses and a larger demand as the country becomes settled.

Mammoth warehouses are being constructed in addition to these already in operation.

Regina has a branch of the North-

West Commercial Travellers association and this year one hundred and sixty travellers certificates have already been issued. A hundred and twenty-one of these running out of the city.

Some of the larger concerns with their provincial headquarters here are: The International Harvester Co., the J. I. Case Co., the American Abell Co., the Frost and Wood Co., the Massey Harris Co., the Waterloo Mfg. Co., the Cockshutt Plow Co., the Fairchild Co., the Garr-Scott Co., the North-West Thresher Co., the New Hamburg Co., Reeves & Co., the Nichols and Sheppard Co., the Canadian Fort Huron Co., the Anderson, Tudhope & Co., the Watercus Engine Works, and Avery Co.

Who'salers

The H. W. Laird Co., Ltd., the National Drug Co., Bright & Johnston, fruits; B. C. Sugar Refining Co., American Tobacco Co., Cameron & Heap, grocers.

Distributors

Manufacturers

The Regina Flour Mills Co., the Regina Brewing Co., the Young Thomas Soap Co., Ltd., the Regina Mattress Factory, the Composite Brick Co., two Tobacco factories, Cushing Bros. Sash and Door Finishing factory, the Western Mfg. Co. and the Regina Machine and Iron Works.

BUSINESS COLLEGES

Regina possesses business college facilities quite adequate to the needs of the province, there being two institutions at the capital.

The Federal Business College of which George S. Houston is principal, is well equipped with a proficient staff of teachers and has been operating with very successful results. This commercial school is open continuously with of course the usual summer vacation.

The Regina Business College conducted by A. C. Horne, principal, has turned out many graduates who have been highly successful in business pursuits.

The demand for business college graduates today exceeds the supply.

Pioneer Experiences

Immigrants coming into the west this spring find it inconvenient because they are tied up for a few days by reason of a railway blockade, but they should remember that with the worst conditions possible today the experience of twenty-five years ago cannot be repeated, and we might cite a case to show what those who made the Canadian West endured in the early days.

In May 1882, John S. Lytle, the head of the well known family east of the city arrived in Winnipeg from Ireland. He was accompanied by his wife and eleven children, and a partner, Mr. McLeod. With a tent, oxen, wagon, plow and provisions they started west on the train as far as Oak Lake, then the end of the track. They then commenced their journey till they reached township 17, range 18, where they were the only settlers for months till the railway overtook them, and Regina was located, nine miles west of them. During the first season Mr. Lytle put up a log house and plowed fifty acres. They drew the logs fourteen miles. They also put up a stable for fifty head of cattle and stacked 200 tons of hay.

This was real pioneering, and to such men as Mr. Lytle the country is deeply indebted.

In the autumn the most powerful modern threshing machines are into country is the excellent land system. Divided into homestead sections and purchasable sections, people have been able to commence on the free land and expand into the other. But every rose has its thorn and it is a matter of regret that the government should allow such wholesale alienation of public lands into the hands of men who never put their little finger to the binders of the country; whose only reason for being here is to lay an additional load on the settler who, should everything not go just so, will have plenty to do without acting as sap producer to this new and undesirable addition to the population.

Of course the examples of the big schemes is influencing others and business men and even farmers are rushing into the questionable business of mulcting the incomer in additional payments.

However, in our time there will be plenty of land and to spare and it is a consolation to see boys growing up industrious and ambitious, and to know that a wide field for their talents and industry spreads in boundless stretches on every side of them.

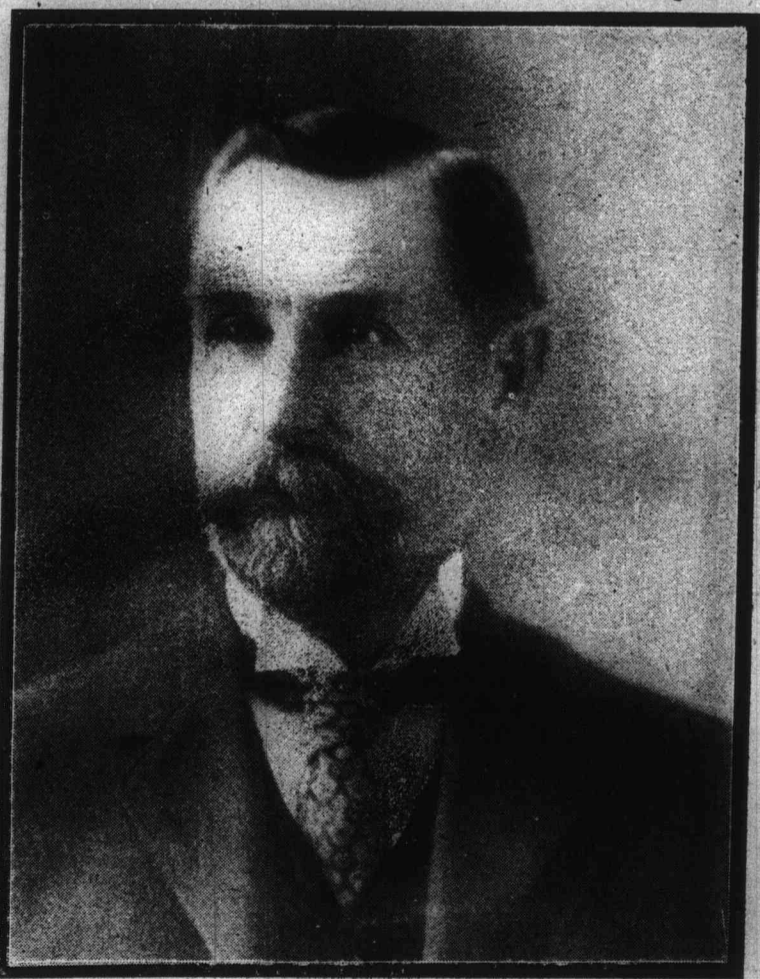

Besides the country has a fascination of its own, the fascination of unequalled fertility. Had we the English rainfall and the length of summer, even that country of high averages would have to take a back buildings, a combination of stable and barn are now the rule on every well managed farm. Well bred and well cared for horses and cattle are becoming more general and fewer oxen and inferior horse teams are seen every year.

Beginners with small means can sometimes show three or four thousand bushels of grain the third season and sport their driving team and fancy buggy the fourth, sometimes sooner.

One condition that has helped this seat to the Canadian Northwest. But we may be thankful things are as they are.

My friends of "The West" have asked me to write something founded on fact, and I have thought it well to stick as closely as possible to that line. It is better for everybody that people should know what to look for than that they should entertain expectations of a kind of land that exists only in the fancy of the pastoral poets or the fevered imagination of the prospectus writer.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS AGGREGATE $3,000,000

With Regina's Industrial Future Assured, Capitalists Invest with Confidence—Some of the New Structures

Three million dollars is the total of the building operations in Regina for the present year. These figures may be exceeded if labor and material are available. All the contractors and builders have already all the work they can handle this season. Amongst the best buildings to be erected this year are:

The land titles office to cost about $100,000, a handsome two-storey structure.

The Masonic Temple and Darke block, a combination building, 125x 65x100 feet, three storeys high, and of solid brick construction with decorative front. Cost $85,000.

Albert school in the north-west section of the city will be an eight roomed building with a large assembly hall, modern in every respect and built of white brick and stone trimmings, to cost about $50,000.

property in Regina, and have moved our headquarters there. "We have built for the present a temporary office and repair rooms on our property which is located in block 183, on the corner of 8th and Broad streets. We are getting out plans for a new warehouse which will be erected this coming summer. Our Winnipeg business now becomes a branch of Regina and our Calgary business remains a branch from Regina. All our business in Canada centres in the Regina office."

"Our line consists of threshing engines, plowing engines, threshing machinery and attachments, as well as steam plows."

A block of offices and stores 175x100 feet will be built on Rose street opposite the city hall. They are of red pressed brick three storeys high, costing $100,000, and a similar block will be built on South Railway St.

The W. Percy Gillespie Co. have undertaken the erection of eighty houses at a cost ranging from $3,500 to $5,000 each.

$600,000 is the estimated sum to be spent in construction of residences this season. There are many buildings projected and for which plans are prepared but which are not included in this list. They will include warehouses, apartment block, store buildings, hotels and residences. The large buildings undertaken last year and running into this year are: The city hall, costing $140,000. This building will not be completed until late in the season, but is making good progress. It occupies a portion of the square on Hamilton street, Rose street and Eleventh avenue. It has a frontage of 146 feet on Eleventh avenue; 140 feet on Rose street with three entrances. The construction is of red pressed brick with Bedford cut stone facings, three storeys high with floor and ceilings fire proof, Kahn truss bars and concrete construction being used. The basement will be used for offices of the magistrate and police with court room and cells. The sub-basement will contain the city engineer's department. On the main floor will be the council chambers court room, office of mayor, city clerk, assessor and medical health officer. First floor—Auditorium with seating capacity for 1000. Second floor—gallery for auditorium, janitor's apartments, and various offices for municipal purposes. This magnificent building will be completed by the end of the year.

The Northern Bank, now being completed, has a 50 feet frontage by 125 feet in depth. This building has a particularly fine appearance built of cut stone front. It has steel frame work with reinforced concrete floors and is fire proof with separate elevator section. Cost $115,000.

The Kings Hotel will be opened on July 1st and is one of the largest hostleries in Saskatchewan, being 100 x115 feet, four storeys and basement. It is of solid brick construction with stone facings. The Kings is being elaborately finished inside and has 132 rooms. Cost $150,000.

The Wascana Hotel which was to have been opened during the winter but which was gutted by fire in December is a four storey building having 47 bedrooms. The main building is 50x120 feet with an annex 50x10. The house is divided into twelve compartments with automatic fire proof doors. Floors and ceilings are also fire proof. Cost $85,000.

The Canada Permanent Building will be finished this summer at a cost of $43,000, and adjoining it is the Mackenzie & Brown block at a cost of $15,000. These are built of reinforced concrete and are fire-proof throughout. These are the only buildings of the kind in Saskatchewan.

The Metropolitan Methodist church is costing $88,000; is built of red pressed brick and is of a very handsome design.

The Young-Thomas Soap Co., Ltd. have their four storey factory block well under way, and when completed and equipped will cost about $30,000. The machinery is now on the ground to be installed.

The Bell Telephone Exchange block is a very solid building, costing $35,000. It is built of white brick, three storeys.

The Von Hotel is nearing completion and costing $25,000.

The Haslam apartment block is well under way and when completed will be a credit to the city.

The Darke building will be five storeys high of red pressed brick with Bedford stone trimmings and will be utilised for purposes similar to the temple. This building will cost $125,000. The whole block will be ready for occupation about Oct. 15th.

The Y.M.C.A. building on the corner of 12th avenue and Cornwall will

In the warehouse district the following companies are building this season: International Harvester Co., Nichols, & Sheppard Co., The Reeves Co., Thos. Wilkison. The total cost of these will amount to $100,000.

The following extract from a letter from Reeves & Co., the great American Threshing machine company will give some idea of what is being done here by the wholesale implement concerns:

"We are pleased to advise you that we have transferred our headquarters from Winnipeg to Regina. Our business in Canada has heretofore all been handled from Winnipeg, but we have now

The High school last year was attended by 100 pupils, the staff by four teachers. The Normal school has two sessions, from 150 to 200 students being enrolled. Gratton separate school has a rollment of 200 pupils, with a teaching staff of four.

During the season the establishment of a collegiate institute is being undertaken, and there is prospect that the provincial university will be located in Regina.

denominational colleges will be established to affiliate with the conferring institution. It is expected that the government will soon as possible secure a candidate to become president of the university and commence the organization work.

Hospital Accommodation

Up to the present Regina has been very deficient in hospital accommodation, but in another year the city will have the best equipped hospital service in the west. The Regina Victoria hospital, which was taxed last summer, and it was necessary to organise an emergency hospital. At the first of the year has since been announced. RANCH SCENE NEAR LUMSDEN

The teaching staff consists of ten teachers. The Alexandra school has accommodation for 300 pupils and has six teachers. The contract has been let for the construction of a large new school in the north end of the city costing nearly $50,000.

The High school last year was attended by 100 pupils, the staff being four teachers. The Normal school has two sessions, from 150 to 200 students being enrolled. The Gratton separate school has an enrollment of 200 pupils, with a teaching staff of four.

During the season the establishment of a collegiate institute will be undertaken, and there is every prospect that the provincial university will be located in Regina, and denominational colleges will be established to affiliate with the degree conferring institution. It is understood that the government will as soon as possible secure a competent man to become president of the university and commence the organization work.

Hospital Accommodation

Up to the present Regina has been very deficient in hospital accommodation, but in another year this city will have the best equipped hospital service in the west. The Regina Victoria hospital became overtaxed last summer, and it was necessary to organise an emergency hospital. At the first of the year the Park Sanatorium was opened, and it has since been announced that the Grey Nuns will establish an institution costing about $100,000, and the city will put a similar amount into a large municipal hospital. Therefore it is with confidence that we look forward to the growing demand on Regina hospitals by reason of the large immigration, being met by enormously increased facilities.

Exhibition Centre

Regina has the best exhibition fa-industrial function, and is being patronised from all parts of the province.

The Nor-West Farmer commenting on the Regina spring fair this year, said:

"The outstanding feature of the show this spring was the most excellent exhibition of Clydesdale horses. It may seem rather a bold assertion to say that the young province of Saskatchewan this year put up a display of Clydesdales that has never before been excelled in the Dominion, but such is the cold, unvarnished fact. True, there have been many larger shows, but numbers do not count for anything, and strictly from the point of quality Regina today stands unbeaten. Such is the opinion of reliable horsemen who know whereof they speak, including the judges, Messrs. Gray and Kydd, and when we say that the Regina Clydesdale show is unexcelled in the Dominion we might as well say on the continent of North America, because it is to Canada that the Chicago International has to look for its topnotchers in this breed. Saskatchewan is certainly to be congratulated upon having such an excellent lot of high class horses within her boundaries, and the breeders who have brought them there are deserving of hearty commendation for their energy and enterprise."

The Regina Agricultural Society which has been a live organisation since the early days, was dissolved this winter, and is succeeded by the Industrial Exhibition Company, which will hold a large fair during the coming summer. These institutions all add to the prestige of Regina, but it is doubtful if any other city in the province would have offered such facilities as this city has for exhibition purposes, and the outlay has been borne out of the proceeds of the city property sales.

ing considered by the railway companies. Within this area the most of the property was held by the city and the industrial concerns now located have been used very generously, paying only a nominal sum for the sites. Many good blocks are still discussion with regard to Regina—its past, present and future. Having made this the capital of the Territories, and seeing his early prophecy fulfilled, his opinion is well worth canvassing and his words carry weight. After nine years in the Indian department he succeeded the Hon. David Laird as Lieut.-Governor of the Territories, but still retained the Indian commissionership. On assuming his new duties he was asked by Sir John A. Macdonald to choose a suitable location for the North-West capital. The only stipulation was that the new seat of

with a full sized silver spade presented by the directors of the company. He still has this memento in his Victoria home, where it is regarded as one of the most historic treasures in his possession.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney was enquiring about some of the old settlers, and took a great deal of interest in reciting how John McIntyre wandered over many parts of the west, before he struck the soil of the Regina plains, and when he rubbed it in his hands he said that was the kind of land he wanted. During the early days the settlers who farmed their lands never had a poor crop, and he presumed the same is true today, although at that time the country was in a more or less experimental stage.

tion was only four hundred. Hon. J. H. Ross was the first member. Up to this time the elected members did not get any indemnity, but now they were given $400. The following year elections were held in the seats created in 1883, as the term of office was only two years. In this election, Regina and Qu'Appelle were each given two representatives, and McLeod, Moosomin and Prince Albert were created electoral districts. In 1887 the Lieut.-Governor introduced Hon. F. W. G. Haultain to enter public life, and he has been a prominent figure in the history of the Territories since that date.

Time Will Vindicate

The Victoria Week about a year ago recommended that Hon. Mr. Dewdney be urged upon to write the early history of British Columbia, as he went to that administration of public affairs during that critical period.

Hon. Edgar Dewdney obtained for the North-West Territories the first form of responsible government, his term of office having expired the year the North-West Territories act was amended. During the term of his successor, Hon. Joseph Royal, there was a bitter contention over the interpretation of the law with respect to control of the finances.

Mr. Dewdney had only vacated Government House at Regina when he was called by Sir John A. Macdonald to his cabinet to succeed Hon. Thomas White as Minister of the Interior and superintendent of Indian affairs. In the bye-election he was opposed by J. G. Turin, now the sitting member for East Assiniboia, who at that time was badly defeat-government was to be the centre of the richest agricultural area obtainable in the North-West Territories, but of necessity at that time it had to be on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He had in the exercise of this responsible duty acted only after a great deal of investigation and deliberation, but he concluded that Regina was the most favorable situation, and he located the seat of government here, his choice to be confirmed twenty-four years afterwards by an almost unanimous vote of the first provincial legislature.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney regretted very much that owing to death having visited his home, and taken away his helpmeet, he was unable to be present at the inauguration, for he would have met some of those who criticised his judgment when he first made Regina the capital.

In the establishment of government institutions in Regina care was taken to distribute them well over the townsite, so as not to confine the growth of the place to any particular direction. In looking over the city today and beholding its growth and acquisitions, he would not hesitate to predict that this city will have over fifty thousand population, and will be one of the greatest centres in the west for railways, for commerce, agriculture and education. Twenty-four years ago faith in this country meant faith in Regina, and this reasoning is just as sound today.

He regretted to hear of the embarrassment to this city and much of the country owing to the blockade of the Prince Albert branch. He recalled the turning of the first sod on that line by Mrs. Dewdney, who performed the important function

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS

Historical Review

Becoming reminiscent with regard to the constitutional development of the North-West Territories, Hon. Mr. Dewdney referred to the time when he took office as governor when there was only one elected member of the old council, two members being appointed by the crown. With the growth of population a revision became necessary and more seats were created—Moose Jaw, Broadview, Qu'Appelle, Regina, Lorne and Edmonton, five of which were represented by appointed members and six by elected members. In 1884 Calgary and Moose Mountain were also added. The basis of representation was one thousand people, but Moose Jaw seat was created when the population was only four hundred. Hon. J. H. Ross was the first member. Up to this time the elected members did not get any indemnity, but now they were given $400. The following year elections were held in the seats created in 1883, as the term of office was only two years. In this election, Regina and Qu'Appelle were each given two representatives, and McLeod, Moosomin and Prince Albert were created electoral districts. In 1887 the Lieut.-Governor introduced Hon. F. W. G. Haultain to enter public life, and he has been a prominent figure in the history of the Territories since that date.

ed. Hon. Mr. Dewdney continued to hold office during the Abbott administration till Oct. 16, 1892, when he resigned and in November was appointed Lieut.-Gov. of British Columbia. His term having expired, he retired into private life, being twenty-eight years in the public eye.

He has made Victoria his permanent abode, having a very beautiful home on the island.

Sir John A. Macdonald in defending Lieut.-Governor Dewdney from Opposition attacks in the House of Commons on March 20th 1883 for locating the capital at Regina, said that he relied upon Mr. Dewdney's ability and judgment. The premier dwelt upon the excellent quality of the land around the North-West capital, and deprecated the Opposition style of running down the country, and for attacking Regina.
