Legal Decisions

1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the Post Office, whether directed to his name or another's, is responsible for the payment.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued he must pay up all arrears, or, if he wishes to discontinue, he must call on the publisher and collect the whole amount, whether the paper is taken from the office or not.

3. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the Post Office, or refusing to pay for them, is not a crime, but is a civil offense, and the paper is taken from the office or not.

The Changed Hymn.

"He hath put on a new song every month."

"Jesus lover of my soul!"

Bids me in His bosom stay,
And the billows round me roll I am safely hid away.

For He holds me in His arms, Quite beyond the tempest's reach,
And He whispers to my heart Words unknown to human speech.

"Other refuge have I none," Hark ye to His voice,
I am kept in perfect peace, I am covered all day long.

"Nath the shadow of His wing, Dwell in safety thro' the night, Waking, this is what I sing:

"Thou, O Christ, art all I want," Thou my helpless soul in Thee; Thou will never leave alone, Nor forget to comfort me.

Thou hast saved my soul from death, Thou hast banished doubts and fears,
And the sunshine of Thy love Sweetly drieth all my tears.

"Piteous grace with Thee is found," Thou dost wash me white as snow, I'm content to dwell apart From all else, Thy love to adore.

"I so love to look on Thee That my eyes are growing blind To the things once dear to me, —The blessed face that shall dwell in safety by Him."—DECT. 33. 12.

Interesting Story.

Winning a Pardon.

"Do not talk to me of my daughter!"

I have no daughter!"

Old Squire Edmunds drew himself up proudly, and closed his mouth in a way that seemed to say that it was useless to press the matter. His mind was made up. And those who were acquainted with his inflexible nature knew that it was little use to attempt to change him when once his mind was fixed.

But the gentle old maid who had undertaken to plead Georgia Moreland's case was not daunted by the father's stern face.

"Georgia is ill, and she pines for your forgiveness. She has suffered much, and through it all she has always thought kindly of you notwithstanding the unfeeling conduct you have manifested towards her. Squire Edmunds, I warn you, now that there is a time coming when you will wish you had been merciful? How can you expect to be forgiven unless you forgive others? How can you expect that the day of judgment God will blot out your iniquities, when you have refused to forgive the child who disobeyed because her heart went from her and passed into the keeping of an honest man—even though he was a poor one?"

The squire never flinched before the stern, accusing voice of the grave faced woman. He knew that few persons would have the courage to speak to him as she had done, and he replied for her. "A man who had come to him in this way he would have knocked out of doors without ceremony."

"She disobeyed me wilfully. She knew the penalty. She has made her bed—so let her lie upon it. She is no child of mine! I have no such child!" and his hand sought the curly head of a little boy, four or five years of age, who had crept to his side and was looking up into his stern face with his blue eyes full of wonder.

"But think a moment. She loved Harry Moreland."

"She loved beneath her. He was a vagabond mechanic, and the son of a washed woman!"

"He was no vagabond," returned Miss Coombs, warmly. "He was an honest, industrious young man. He would not have wronged a fellow being out of a penny. If he was a washerwoman's son he was none the worse for it, and Mrs Moreland was a respected woman as there was in Quincyville."

"Miss Coombs, I respect you, but I hate and detest the man of whom you speak so favorably. And as for Georgia, I hope never to see her face again. And may Heaven curse me if I ever forgive her, or forget the wrong she has done me."

"May God, who is good and merciful, help you to see things aright," said Miss Coombs, reverently, and spare your life until you report of your iniquity toward your own flesh and blood."

"I have told you I have but one child."

"And even that may be taken from you. The God whom you defy may take Oscar away from the baneful influence you exert over him, and leave you like a lone tree stripped of all its branches."

"Hush! I cannot bear it! Oscar!
Oh, Heaven, it would kill me to part with him! and the stern old man drew golden head to his bosom.

Mary Coombs rose and went away.
She felt how useless it was to plead with this relentless man, and saddened at heart, yet prayerful that he might change his purpose, she rested the case in the hands of a power higher than herself.

It was the old story over again.
Georgia Edmunds had been the belle of Quincyville, and the pride of her happy father's heart. He doted upon her, and was never happy when she was out of his sight. Neither pains nor expense was spared to make her accomplished beyond the majority of young ladies, and at twenty, a fairer or more graceful creature never breathed.

She fell in love with Harry Moreland. Of course it was a dreadful absurdity in her; you and I, reader, acknowledge that. We know that love does not amount to much when love of silks, and satins, and diamonds are really what constitute happiness. Nobody could be happy unless all these charming things were at command, and everybody knows that love is an old-fashioned, outworn sentiment with which no one with the slightest pretensions to style has anything to do.

What is love? Pshaw! a mere vagary of sentimental moonstruck youths; and under the existing state of things I cannot understand how the majority of people are going to be happy in heaven, supposing they reach there, since its atmosphere is love, instead of greenbacks.

Georgia's husband was a noble fellow and they were very happy in spite of everything. He worked hard and was happy in doing so, because he worked for Georgia, who had sacrificed everything for him.

Squire Edmunds had disowned her on the day of her marriage, had shut his doors in her face when she came to ask his pardon for what she had done, and from that time forth all his hopes and affections centered on little Oscar.
This child had been born to his old age, and had cost the life of his dearly beloved wife, and perhaps this melancholy fact made the boy even more precious to the heart of his father.

For two years Georgia and her husband were happy and comfortable.
Then the dark days came. Harry was injured by a fall from a building on which he was at work, and a long illness followed. Their slender means were exhausted and Georgia took to sweeping and copying—yes, even washing—to earn the means with which to buy bread. She was too proud to go to her father for assistance, even if she had not known that it would be refused; and so through the long cold winter she struggled on, living often without food enough to stay the craving of hunger.

Just as Harry got able to go to work again, she was taken down with a low fever, and from this she was just recovering when kind-hearted Miss Coombs chanced to get information of the situation of things.

She went to the squire and stated the case fairly—though without the knowledge of either Georgia or her husband—and the reader knows the result.

If Squire Edmunds ever had a relenting thought towards his daughter no one knew it. He kept his own secrets most determinedly. If there was any tenderness in his heart it flowed for Oscar alone. His attachment to this boy was something almost pitiful to witness, since it gave one the impression that, deprived of the child, Harry would lose all interest for the old man.

He seldom permitted little Oscar out of his sight. By night the child slept in a cot by the head of his father and by day he was his constant companion.
If he complained of illness the whole house was in instant turmoil and all the physicians in the region were summoned with speed.

The only wonder was that the child had not died long before; for it is usually the case that children who are of use to anybody take their departure early, while those for whom nobody cares live to grow up and flourish like weeds. A strange world this! a very strange world! and few of us understand the working of its complicated machinery. But it is quite as well.

A week after Miss Coombs' interview with the squire, that gentleman fancied that a sea-bath would do Oscar good. The child had looked a little sallow lately, and so the father decided on taking him to Cohasset.

It was a fine morning for a little journey, and the squire was in extra spirits. So was Oscar. He drove down in his carriage and at the depot the squire met an old classmate whom he had not seen for years and naturally the greeting was most cordial. Oscar had established himself on a settee with a paper of bonbons, and the squire, never thinking of the child leaving the place, stood on the platform talking with his friend.

Suddenly the sharp whistle of the train was heard, and the squire turned hastily to look for his boy. He was not there where he had left him. And simultaneously with this discovery the squire heard in quick succession three, yes, four, screams of the locomotive, and knew that there was something on the track.

Like lightning he flew to the door, looked down the line. And there just in front of a huge steam monster his hands extended and his gold hair floating in the breeze, was his idolized little Oscar!

The engineer was making frantic efforts to stop the train, but all who looked knew how vain was the attempt.

With a wild, despairing cry the poor old man fell back against his friend, and, faint and dizzy, closed his eyes upon what was to come.

A wild shout of triumph broke from the startled crowd, as a man leaped down the steep bank just in front of the train, and seizing the child just as the last hope of life was at an end, cleared the track with it and fell helpless on a rock on the opposite side.

A score of people ran to lift him up, for he was bruised and bleeding, and his strong right arm which had been around the child, was broken in two places. But Oscar was unhurt.

"Saved! saved!" was the cry which rang out on the air, and reached the ears of the squire.

"Heaven be thanked!" cried he,
"Bring the man here, and let him have his own reward. It shall be given, though it makes me a beggar."

His child was in his arms now, the soft bright hair pressed against the squire's cheek.

Holding his boy, Squire Edmunds made his way through the crowd that had gathered around the intrepid rescuer, and looked on the pallid face.
He knew him instantly. It was Harry Moreland, Georgia's husband!
The man whom he had cursed many a time in his soul.

There was a fiery struggle in the heart of the proud old man, but it was over quickly. His face cleared. He strode forward and grasped Moreland's hand.

"My son," said he, "come to my house; henceforth it is your house.
And carrying Oscar in his arm, he led the young man to his carriage and put him inside. Then a loud cheer broke from the enthusiastic by-standers, and the carriage drove away.

Harry was taken to the squire's house, and laid in the great guest chamber, and while the physician attended to his injuries, the squire himself drove over to Moreland's poor home for Georgia.

What passed between father and daughter I do not know, but when the squire returned, Georgia was with him, and his arm was around her waist, and she was weeping happy tears on his shoulder.

Weeks and months elapsed before Harry Moreland was able to go about again, but the most devoted care and attention were his, and no father could be more tender of a son than was the squire of the "vagabond mechanic."

Ten Thousand Dollars a Year.

Robert Burdette, humorist, who has recently, so we learn, become a parson, once said to a young boy, "There's nothing like knowing your business clean through, my boy, whether you know anything else or not."

Vanderbilt pays his cook $10,000 a year. He might have known how to cook fairly well and known a little of a thousand and one other useful all of them.

He gets that just because he knows thoroughly how to cook, and it wouldn't make a cent's difference in his salary if he thought the world was flat and went around its orbit on wheels. The cream always rises to the top and stays.

As with individual vocations, so it is with every branch of business, or every class of goods or article of use or necessity. They live the life of the butterfly and are forgotten as soon as something else appears that is new, or else they become so firmly fixed in the minds of thousands that they become a part of life itself.

We were forcibly impressed with the above idea from a remark made by a gentleman in our office a few days since. He said, "Any article of merchandise that has been on the market since 1810, and still sells like the old Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, must have extraordinary merit." The manufacturers, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., have in their office and will send to anyone, testimonials from old people who have used it in their families, when young, and whose children's children have used it very many years. This is not at all remarkable when we think of the amount of good this remedy will do; thousands of cases of pneumonia and consumption have been prevented by using this remedy for internal inflammations, such as colds, coughs, catarrh, bronchitis, as well as cramps and pains innumerable.
It is totally unlike any other remedy used, and called liniment. It was a great mistake ever calling it anything but Johnson's Anodyne. The information on the large four-page wrapper around each bottle is worth much to every family. Johnson & Co. send a pamphlet free to anyone, containing much valuable information upon diseases and their cure.

Gardening for Ladies.

Make up your bed early in the morning; see buttons on your husband's shirt; do not rake up grievances; protect the young and tender branches of your family; plant smiles of good temper, and reap a crop of health and happiness; root out the causes of nervous debility, and "female weakness," by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite-Preparation. It is a sovereign specific, and thousands of the fair sex bless the day they first heard of it. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

To cleanse the stomach, liver, and system generally, use Dr. Pierce's Vetlet.

Partial Judgment.

It is difficult to avoid making an exception of ourselves, when we are reflecting upon the errors and frailties of mankind. Said a Quaker, one day, to his wife:

"All the world is queer, excepting thee and me, and thee is a little queer."

Another candid and self-righteous individual, in a moment of confidence, gave vent to the opinion:

"There's but two honest men in this town—Brother B— and myself; and sometimes I have my doubts of Brother B—!"

No one can ask honestly or hopefully to be delivered from temptation unless he has himself honestly and firmly determined to do the best he can to keep out of it.—Lubin.

Hall's Hair Renewer is free from alcohol and dyes that injure the skin. It is scientifically prepared, and will restore gray hair to its original color and vigor.

"Used Up,"

"Tired Out," "No Energy," and similar expressions, whenever heard, indicate a lack of vital force, which, if not remedied in time, may lead to complete physical and nervous prostration.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to vitalize the blood, build up the tissues, and make the weak strong.

"For nearly three months I was confined to the house. One of the most celebrated physicians of Philadelphia failed to discover the cause of my trouble or afford relief. I continued in a bad way until about a month ago when I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and the Sarsaparilla until completely cured."
—John V. Craven, Salem, N. Y.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time."—E. L. Foster, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

Sisters in Yucatan.

Sisters in Yucatan have a fancy for dressing precisely alike in the minutest particular, so that not a bow or a button, a flower or an article of jewelry varies.
In the tropics large families are in the fashion, and any day one may see girls out in groups of three or four to a dozen, who, by one glance at their clothes, one may know they belong to the same parentage. Thus it is easy to distinguish the members of a family, and not infrequently the fair ones are called by their favorite color. For example, the five sisters of the Espinosa household are known as "the red roses," because each of them invariably adorns herself with jacqueminets, while the people speak of the Gonzalez girls as "the colorados," because they are always dressed in red.
The style of hair-dressing does not differ as often here as in other countries, probably from constitutional lack of enterprise more than anything else. Years ago the "bang" was introduced into Mexico and Central America, and ever since every female between the ages of 5 and 50 with any pretensions to style wears her hair cut straight across the forehead.</

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 22, 1889

EDITORIAL NOTES

We tender our thanks to our contemporaries both in this country and the United States who have written such kind words concerning our late brother. In life he ever held in high esteem the members of the fraternity, and if, as some believe, those who have "gone before" are allowed to witness what transpires on earth he must view with pleasure the manifestations of regard and sorrow on the part of the "brothers of the craft."

We saw no mention made in the estimates of an appropriation being made for King's county. For a long time Wolfville has been trying for an allowance for a wharf and breakwater. This is surely as much needed as some of the items now included in the estimates. Besides, what about the post office on King's hills, which we have been waiting for for some time, and we are waiting till our neighbors in the shiretown are fitted out to put forward our claim.

The third session of the present Provincial Parliament was opened yesterday afternoon by the honorable the Chief Justice Administrator of the Government. He appeared in plain clothes, which is the first time this has been done, we believe, since the Province had a Parliament. The speech contained reference to the general prosperous condition of the Province, the steps taken by the Government to establish mining schools, the inauguration of the model farm, progress by railway matters, &c.

The feeling that incorporation is necessary to the best interests of this village is becoming more and more popular, although there are those who oppose it as they do every move in the direction of progress. Those of the latter class believe in plodding along as their fathers and grandfathers did before them, believing that what was good enough for their fathers forty years ago is good enough for them to-day. In order to test the true feeling of those interested in the matter it would be well to call a public meeting, and discuss the reasons for and against it, and if thought advisable to have a vote taken and the matter finally settled.

Perhaps there has not been so mild a winter in this valley, in the remembrance of man, as has been the present, yet in some parts of Canada the severity of the winter has been keenly felt. The worst storm of the season so far is reported from Montreal which commenced on the night of the 12th with snow accompanied by a gale of wind which whirled the light snow into immense drifts, making travel exceedingly difficult in the city and totally impossible in the outlying districts. Chimneys were blown down, sign boards swung off their hinges, while to add to the discomforts the temperature took a sudden drop and registered 12° below zero.

We comment the article on fire protection in another column to the careful attention of the people of this town. While we agree perfectly with our correspondent on many points, we cannot endorse his opinion that the time is far away when Wolfville will have an efficient water system. We need it not only for fire purposes, but many others. We see no reason why it is not as possible for Wolfville to procure a good water supply, as it is for Kentville, Bridgetown, Annapolis, and other towns of no greater importance. Possibly it may not come till the town is incorporated, but it will come just the same. However, we are glad that the matter of fire protection has been taken hold of by correspondents, and hope to see it receive a thorough ventilation.

The practice of the old Court of Sessions, continued by the Municipal Council, of allowing certain individuals to perform the whole or a portion of their statute labor on their own private roads, appears to be about as just and reasonable as it would be to allow them a portion of their county rates to be expended in laying out new roads to their back fields or a portion of their poor rates to support their children. Almost every farm has about so much road to keep in repair and it matters but little whether the dwelling is situated in the front or rear of the farm. If the dwelling is placed in the rear, it is necessary in order to reach it that there be a road leading from the highway to it; and if placed in the front it is equally necessary to have a road to get to the rear. Thus in either case, on most farms, roads have to be maintained and should be at the expense of the occupier. The road tax like all other taxes is placed for the good of the public and should be as equally enforced. The practice of allowing any deviation from the written law is a dangerous one and may lead to perplexing complications.

Fire Protection.

A CORRESPONDENT SPEAKS HIS MIND ON AN IMPORTANT SUBJECT.

DEAR ACADIAN,—I have noticed with a great deal of interest the developments of the subject of fire protection in Wolfville since the late disastrous fire near your own office.

In May, 1883, the second number of the ACADIAN, or rather, the YOUNG ACADIAN, was issued, and in it, under the head of "Needed Reforms," I find it advocating just such a scheme as you are attempting to work out in Wolfville. At that time your paper was young and its utterances were looked upon as those of a learner in the art of journalism. Had these same suggestions been carried out, what would have been the result? Well, I will not go over the long list of fires which have occurred during the last six years, but look simply at the last one. I was told by several who were earliest on the spot that had they had an axe, a ram, a grappling hook, or any thing of any sort that could have been used for the purpose, the addition in which the fire started could have been torn down and the two buildings saved.

Deputations waited on the Minister of Customs asking for further protection on manufacturers of India rubber, cotton and woolen plushes for shoe linings, haircloth, Smyrna rugs, inwares, whips, &c.

A large number of the members from Ontario and Nova Scotia interviewed the Ministers of Customs and Finance to urge the advisability of the Government re-imposing the duty on small fruits, shrubs and nursery stock.

A measure has been submitted into the Senate affecting bills of lading, applying the principles of the Ontario and Nova Scotia acts to the whole of the Dominion, allowing consigners and endorsers of bills of lading to sue upon the contract.

Replying to Mr Turcot, Hon John Haggart stated it was the intention of the Government to make the maximum weight of single rate letters one ounce instead of half an ounce. It was not the intention to lessen the charge of parcels by mail.

The total number of supernumeraries last year was 52. 19 were post office officials; 19, customs; 7, marine department; 5, inland revenue; 2, privy council; 3, railways and canals; 2, agriculture; 1, Indian department; 1, mounted police; 1, public works. Total, $29,903.

Sir John Thompson introduced a bill to make further provision respecting the speedy trial of certain indictable offences and explained that the changes proposed are only such as are necessary to bring the speedy trials act into operation in Nova Scotia, the only province to which it does not now extend.

Hon. McKenzie Bowell, in answer to a question stated that the total expense incurred in the revision of the electoral lists had been as follows: Before the Government assumed the work of printing, $414,574; cost, $215,000, besides $63,849, the cost of plant acquired by the Government for the work.

A select committee consisting of Sir Adams Archibald, Messrs Barnes, Charlton, Davis, Ellis, Jones, Jones, Kenny, Landry, Langelier, Perley, Skinner, Weldon, and Wood, has been asked to inquire into and report upon the amount of tonnage and kind of freight during the year 1887 going to and from Canada and passing through the United States in bond.

Dr Landerkin's resolution regarding the rebate duty on corn was voted down by 112 against to 70. The resolution was as follows: Whereas distillers are allowed a rebate of duty upon corn imported for use in the manufacture of spirits for export, it is in the opinion of this House, but right and just that farmers and stock-raisers who import corn to feed cattle or other stock for export should also receive a similar rebate.

would need such a collection. No, sir. For fire, you want, say, five or six public tanks in the village and in convenient places to be filled by either boring or surface drainage, the first preferred; but lake water is, at present anyway, simply out of the question. When you get far enough along for that you want a pumping engine on Gaspeau river and a reservoir up on the ridge, but I am afraid you and I will not live that long.

Well, I must stop, for I've already imposed on your space. Some advice to the fire company another day.

NOTES FROM THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT. Mr Charlton, Ferguson of Welland, and Hon. Peter Mitchell condemned the system of seizures practised by customs officers to their personal benefit.

A. E. Curran has interviewed the Minister of Customs and asked to be allowed to import corn free of duty, out of which to manufacture cornmeal.

A bill to amend the weights and measures act by Hon. John Costigan. This provides for branding barrels on the head in place of on the side as at present.

The estimates have been tabled. The total amount to be voted is $28,489,593; the amount authorized by statute, $16,746,293; making a total of $14,553,887. Canal expenditures, $4,589,740; Harbors and rivers, $184,600; Subsidies and subventions increased accommodation for the Interprovincial at Halifax, $150,000; Ditto at Moncton, $67,000; Ditto at St John, $25,000; The net debt of Canada on January 31st was $236,670,564, and the expenditure on capital account up to the same date was $3,340,876.

Valuable Testimonials.

The following testimonials will be of valuable service to all intending using dyes and want to be sure of getting good reliable dyes.

We the undersigned have used and sold all kinds of dyes, but have found none near so good as the "Excelsior" dyes; for which we can truly say that that can be used. They are sold by all first-class grocers and druggists at only 8 cents per package, which is cheaper than other dyes, and they will dye more goods than any dyes we ever used; and since all that are interested in dyeing. They will not fade like other dyes and besides give a most beautiful color, and they are so simple to use that any child can use them; and are economical, brilliant and durable colors.

THE SNOW.—The question remains to be asked, Are we going to have any more snow? Echo answers, (Sine) (w).

SOCIAL.—The members of the Baptist church held a social in their vestry on Friday evening last. We are told a very pleasant time was had.

BOY WANTED.—To learn the barbering business. Must be active and quick to learn, and about 15 years of age. Apply to J. M. FINE, Wolfville.

THE SNOW.—For a few days last week the sleighing was excellent, but on Sunday a strong wind came from the south which melted the snow down quickly, and by Monday the sleighing was ruined.

THANKS.—Mr. J. D. Chambers, Secretary of the Wolfville branch of the Nova Scotia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, has our thanks for the 11th annual annual report of that Society, for 1888. It is a neatly gotten-up volume and contains much interesting reading matter.

MISSESSARY.—Miss Aggie Blackadder, missionary at Trinidad, who is now visiting her home in Wolfville, will, we understand, speak in the Presbyterian church next Wednesday evening on her missionary work in Trinidad. Miss Blackadder is a talented speaker and her address will no doubt be very interesting.

REMOVED.—Rev. M. P. Freeman removed to Gasperon parsonage this week, his duties there as pastor of the church requiring his constant presence. Since his residence in Wolfville, Mr. Freeman and family have made many friends, who will regret their departure. However, what is our loss will be a gain to the people of Gasperon. Mr. Freeman is doing a good work there and is universally respected by the people.

DARKNESS.—The two pillars left uncovered by the recent fire, and the unsightly and broken condition of the sidewalk in front of them, needs looking after by some person. One of these pillars is now partially filled with water and being so near the sidewalk is a dangerous locality for pedestrians these dark and stormy nights. The commissioners of streets seem to be the proper persons to attend to this matter, and should at once cause some provision to be provided against a possible accident.

GOOD BUCKLE.—Good Oats at 40 cents, each, at BORDEN'S.

FRATERNAL VISIT.—On Saturday evening last Wolfville Division made a fraternal visit to Hopfield Division, Annapolis. The evening was one of the pleasantest of the season and the sleighing excellent. A large number of the members participated in the enjoyment of the evening. Two double sleighs and a number of single ones were required to accommodate the party. On arriving at their destination the visitors received a warm welcome and were invited to take part in the programme of the evening. This consisted of music, some excellent readings and a number of speeches. A very pleasant evening was spent. Hopfield Division meets in a cozy room in the basement of the church and seems to be in a prosperous condition. From present appearances they have reason to be hopeful for the future.

New Lamp, Crochery and Glassware arriving every week. R. PRAT. 27

A PLEASANT EVENING.—On Wednesday evening a pleasant gathering was had at the residence of Mr. G. V. Hand, it being the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, the members of the choir of the Wolfville Baptist church, of which Mr. Hand is chorister, and a number of other friends were invited to spend the evening. The time was very pleasantly occupied and the host exerted himself to see that none were neglected. At the close of the evening, Mr. Barpee Witter, on behalf of the choir, in a neat address, presented Mr. Hand with a beautiful pair of gold-rimmed spectacles as a token of the regard in which he is held by the choir. Mr. Hand, though wholly taken by surprise, replied, thanking the choir, in an appropriate manner, after which the very pleasant evening was brought to an end by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Hand is certainly deserving of such treatment, not only by the choir but by the congregation generally, as he has labored long to bring the music of the church to the present excellence.

ICE.—Owners of icehouses are beginning to put in their summer supply of ice. Those who are cutting it report the ice of superior quality this winter.

NEW ROOMS.—The rooms in the top story of C. A. Patriquin's shop are to be fitted up for Mr. Rice's studio. They are large and roomy and will make a fine studio.

SLEIGH DRIVERS.—Several pleasant sleighing parties were had last week and we understand others planned for this week were prevented by the disappearance of the "beautiful." Better luck next time!

CHANGED OWNERSHIP.—The "Acadia House" has changed owners, having been purchased by Mr. J. L. Franklin. Mr. Franklin, we understand, takes possession the first of May and will conduct it himself as a first-class hotel. It is well situated and should be a paying house if properly conducted.

Minard's Liniment relieves Neuralgia.

LOCAL MARKETS.—The following is a scale of the local market as far as could be gathered by a reporter:—

Hay, per ton, delivered, $10.00. Oats, per bushel, 40c. Potatoes, per bushel, 25c. Beans, per bushel, 2.00. Pease, per bushel, 1.25. Eggs, per dozen, 12c. Dried Apples, per bushel, 50c. Green Apples, No. 1, per bushel, 1.00. Beef, per quarter, fresh, 7c. Mutton, do do, 5c-6c. Pork, per carcass, do, 5c-6c. Beets, washed, at, 50c. Carrots, washed, at, 35c. Oats and Feed; Lime, $1.50 per sack at Prat's.

RECIPE.—Mr. Harry N. Shaw intends giving a recital in College Hall on Friday evening next, March 1st. The programme will consist of humorous, pathetic and tragic readings and impersonations, interspersed with music by the College Double Quartette. Those who have had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Shaw in the past will hail with pleasure this opportunity of again listening to him, and those who have not heard him will want to do so now. The following from the Truro Sun is only one of many such notices that we have noticed in the Maritime papers:—"The diverse character of Mr. Shaw's selections gave ample opportunity for exhibiting the versatile nature of his talent. His power of portraying character was equally evidenced by the humorous, pathetic and tragic selections that made up his programme. His Shakespearean recitation was perhaps the most difficult of the evening, and was given in a manner to do credit to any stage. Mr. Shaw first appeared before a Truro audience last season, and this second recital has greatly added to his reputation as an eloquentist. We do not recollect of any better entertainment of this kind ever having been given in Truro, and shall look forward with pleasure to Mr. Shaw's next appearance here."

TAKE NOTICE.—If your razor is dull, take it to J. M. Shaw's Barber Shop, and he will put it in first-class order for the small sum of 15c.

APPLIES FOR ENGLISH.—The following circular we have received from Mr. Thomas Whitman. Not discouraged by the loss of the Esme Mr. Whitman, with his usual push, has secured another steamer to load at Annapolis:—"The B. B. Henry II, has been engaged to take the place of the Esme, and will load at Annapolis for London March 10. The freight will be one dollar per barrel for coal lots, including cost of storage at the front-proof cellar at Annapolis, where apples will be received at any time before the B. B. arrives, and put on board on her arrival, free of any extra charge to shippers.

I beg to inform those who have sent apples to the warehouse here for shipment that they are perfectly safe from frost, and in the proper temperature (34 degrees) to keep in sound condition for months, as was proved by delivery of winter apples (Spits, Pines, Baldwins, etc.) from this cellar last June, in perfect condition. Please fill up the enclosed freight contract, with the quantity of apples or the number of cartons for which you wish to engage space, including what you have already sent to the warehouse here for shipment. Sign and mail the contract to me here, when I will secure for you the space you require, if not too late. Please respond promptly, as after the date is all on board we may not have the space you require. THOMAS WHITMAN, Annapolis, Feb. 18th, 1889.

BERWICK TIMES.

NEWS, NOTES, JOTTINGS, ETCETERA.

Rev. D. O. Parker is our representative in Berwick, and is prepared to take orders for job printing and advertising. We are constantly adding to our plant, and will give prompt attention to all work. Get our prices.

The people of Berwick are not alone in believing that this village affords one of the most central, healthy and attractive places for a happy and prosperous home. During the past year there has been a special awakening to this fact. One family after another possessed of a competence of this world's goods are electing their homes among us. For those in feeble health—and we speak somewhat from personal experience—we believe there is no more salubrious climate in this Province. The intelligent class of citizens who are moving into Berwick is an acquisition of real moral and material wealth and should receive from the old settlers a right royal welcome. It is the little courtesies and pleasanties and cordial greetings cheerfully and timely given to the stranger that gladden and beautifies his new home. In this connection we are pleased to announce that the Rev. Thomas Rogers, late of Bernada, has bought the neat and commodious cottage of H. E. Jefferson, Esq., and is now moving into it. Mr. Rogers is in feeble health. Mr. Jefferson is boarding for the present, but contemplates building on one of his lots on Commercial street between Union and Albert streets. Those who wish to secure building lots on Commercial street—one of the finest rural streets in the Province—will have to move quickly, as there are only a few more in the market.

Henry B. Hamilton, well known in this city as an agent for the sale of pianos and organs, died yesterday afternoon at his residence on Mt. Hope St., Pawtucket, of typhoid pneumonia, after an illness of but little more than a week, his age was 38 years. Mr. Hamilton came to this city from Nova Scotia about seven years ago, and has made many warm friends during his residence here. He was a warm-hearted, kindly disposed man in all his relations, ever willing to lend a helping hand to the needy and suffering. He was an active member of the Worthless St. M. E. Church, being connected with the official board of the church; and he was filling the position of Superintendent of the Sunday-school for the fifth term. He was a consistent member of the Y. M. C. Association, and was one of the board of directors. He was a member of Lowell Lodge, K. P.; Synodical City Council; United Friends; and of the United Workmen. A widow and two sons survive him.—Lowell Mass. paper.

D. O. Parker's cask of Pine Oil about which there was a commutation in our columns a few weeks since has been taken to Annapolis to be disposed of to pay the illegal duty levied on it of $11.41 instead of $1.53. Mr. Parker's good friend the City officer at Annapolis will have a little fun before he sees the end of his persistent willfulness, he has had the pleasure of handling and straightening out just such fellows before.

At the close of the meeting in the Baptist church on Wednesday evening a donation was made Mr. Blunt, the evangelist, of nearly $30. Choice Labrador herring in 3/4 barrel at Prat's.
