the news: From the rumouts which have of late been promulgated with respect to the interference of a high personage in the political affairs of the State, a more than usual carloisity was excited in the minds of the public generally, high as well as low. No indication of a hos-site spirit to her Majesty or her Royal Consort presented itself in the earlier part of the day, and the appearance of the streets gave in-dication that the populace would not in any way interrupt or annoy the Queen in her pro-or ber Majesty was the signal for loyal and respectful greetings, which were, however, not on hearly as on some former occasions. Here and there hissing might be heard; but these demonstrations were at once drowned in a hore so of cheers, and it was evident that the hissers were a small minority. At several points the cheering was taken up with unusual spirit, and it was noticed that it was louder and more general as her Majesty returned from the House of Parliament.

the House of Parliament. It was just a quarter after two when her Majesty embered the house, leaning on the arm of Prince Albert, and proceeded and followed by the different officers of state. Her Majesty appeared to be in the engoyment of excellent health. On taking her east upon the Throno her Majesty rested for a few minutes, and then directed the Commons to be summoned. On the appearance of the Speaker and the Com-mons, her Majesty, in a clear voice, read the speech.

THE great increase of beggars and mendicity of all sorts that has taken place in Charlottetown within the last few years, is one of the inevitable results of the tast tew years, is one of the inevitable results of the increases of populations and augmentation of wealth. But a few years since, there was scarcely a papper, properly so called, to be found in Charlottetown;— the case, we are sorry to say, is saidy altered; there are now too many, by a great deal, for the size of the

are now too many, by a great deal, for the size of the place. Much of this, we fear, is caused by indiscri-minate almsgiving. It is one of the blessed dispensa-tions of a Frovidence which always works for our our good, though sometimes in very mysterious ways, that the principle of pity and compassion is univer-sally diffused; the wish to relieve the needy, the de-sire to alleviate suffering, is far more general than many people are aware of. It is one of the instincts of our nature; but the misfortance is, that, like all instincts, unless properly regulated, it is as likely to lead us into doing evil as good. For indiscriminate charity, by giving to the impostor, not only fosters and encourages profligacy and crime, but is an actual robbery of the unfortante and deserving poor, inas-much as what is given to the former, lessens by so much as what is given to the former, lessens by so much the fund to which the latter has the only just claim. We place the unfortunate in the only just claim. We place the unfortunate in the first rank, not only because they are the most numerous, but because they, in this country at least, are almost the only objects of charity and compassion. There are a few of the latter, comprising chiefly widows and or-phase, and those who, from old age and want of connexions, and by neither vice nor improvidence, are reduced to a state of destitation, from which they address the company on the subject of Charity, and the objects and intentions of these who have lant their aid to begin this re-good a work will be fully made known and explained.

DURTHS the full in politics occasioned by waiting for the results of the elections now pending, we would wish to direct the attention of our readers to a subject which has been before alluded to in this journal, in two well-written letters under the signature "W." These letters did not pretend to advocate any new principles, or lay claim to any new discoveries : they were merely a synopsis of old and established max-ims, pat forth in the simplest manner for popular information.

There are, however, only two que

There are, nonvever, only two questions that we conceive arise upon the subject. Ist, is a Bank wanted? 2dly, is there capital and intelligence in the Country sufficient to put a Bank in operation ? When these questions shall have been decided in the affirmative, another will accessarily spring from the decision, viz: What kind of Bank shall be the decision, viz: What kind of Bank shall be established—a private Joint Stock Bank, with an un-limited individual responsibility.— or a Chartered Bank, the responsibility of the members of which shaft be limited to the amount of the shares held by small be institled to the amount of the same sheat by each member of the Corporation ? We would respect-fully suggest, that there could be no better time for holding a public meeting on this subject than the pre-sent, at which the two first questions might be freely liscussed. It would appear, we think, clearly manifest, that

It would appear, we think, clearly manifest, that the institution of a Bank is importively called for, if the commerce of the Island is to be put upon an equal facting with those of the surrounding colonies. The internal commerce of the country also requires that the same advantages should be held out to our farmers and traders as are enjoyed by the like classes farmers and traders as are enjoyed by the like classes in every country that is at all in an advanced state of civilization. There are a great many persons in dif-ferent parts of the country who are actually in want of a safe place in which to deposit their money, and, what is more to the purpose, this money is lying idle, productive neither to the holder nor any one else; whereas if lodged in a Bank, it would be immediately put into circulation and be productive of profit to the person who lodges it, the Bank, and him to whom it is advanced by the Bank. Bat the great benefit which we would anticipate from the meeting of persons interested in the matter, would be, the ascertaining whather there are a a sufficient number of persons wilinterested in the matter, would be, the accreating whether there are a sufficient number of persons wil-ling to join in such an association;—for that there is a sufficient surplus capital seeking employment, we have not the least doubt of; nor do we doubt, also, that such a meeting would be well attended, and that that such a meeting would be well attended, and that the benefits and advantages of the introduction of the banking system would be fally made manifest, and that a sufficiency of capitalists would conse forward; and it would be for them to say, what should be the nature of the institution. We should profer to see a chartered Bank, under proper restrictions-we mean such as have been found useful and necessary to preserve the interests of the public, while they have not interfered with the salutary action of the Bank, nor the fair profits of those who have embarked their capital.

All our editions from the 1st of September appeared in entirely new and benefit type, prepared expressly for this paper. Our Steam Cylinder Presses are not surpassed by any in the world. Even though our Weekly Edition should be rapidly run up to 100,000 copies, we are prepared to print and mail every copy on the out interrupting or restarding the regular issue of our three Daily editions, amounting to Twenty-add Thousand copies. We stand ready to adopt any improvements, however expensive, which will enable us to disseminate intelligence more freshy and effica-tiory, and shall especially hall, as we labor to effect a radical improvement in the celerity and reliability of the Mails.

A limited amount of space in the WEERLY TRIBUNE. The Wonder of the World ! In this mammon-worshipping Ago, it is rare to find a man place his usefulness to the public, before his isterest. During a late visit to the 'City of Spindles,' we were presented by a professional friend, to the col-ebrated Chemist, Dn. J. C. AYER, whose name is now perhaps, more familisr than any other, at the bed-side of sickness, in this country. Knowing the un-precedent popularity of his medicines, and the im-mense sale of them, we had expected to find him a millioners, and rolling in wealth. But no, we found him in his laboratory, busy with his laborares, autong his crucibles, alembics, and retorts-giving his these personal care to the compounds, on the virtues of which, thousands hang for health. We learned, that notwithstanding his vest business, and its prompt ra-turns in eash, the Doctor is not rich. The reason as-signed is, that the material is costly, and he persists in making his preparations so expensively, that the sett profit is small.-American Farmer, Phil. For Sale by T.
