CHAPTER XX.

IN THE PRISON CELL.

Myrtle drew her mother gently from the room, and then Lynette and Mrs. Be'court sat down side by side. The girl's fear and timidity were swept away by a torrent of feeling. Still clinging to the elder lady's hand, she continued tenderly:

"Oh, I am so glad to see you again, and to have you look at me kindly! I have been so unhappy since my visit to you, and it seems years and years, the time went so slow. Then I was ill—did you know I nearly died; Oh, you cannot guess how dearly I loved you—all! Her eyes fell, and a rosy color, like the heart of a seashell, dyed her cheeks, as she wondered if she had said too much. But she gathered courage and continued: 'Edgar is coming this afternoon, and I am so glad—so glad! I have a secret I wish to tell you—but perhaps it is better to wait till Edgar comes. Then the cruel suspense will be over. Will you let me come to you some day soon—after Edgar comes—and tell you all the truth?'

"Yes, dear, come when you wish," returned the lady, won in spite of herself by the winning creature, and when she met the eager, wistful gaze of the pathetic dark eyes, she bent her stately head, and gave what they mutually invited—a tender kiss.

"Perhaps I was wrong, but she seemed so repentant and so sweet," she said, when she told her daughter of it that evening.

But they were both vexed that Lynette had, as they phrased it, "imposed on her kindness of heart."

"She only wished to be on good terms with you again, and to get forgiveness for her outrageous behavior," Mrs. Caskie said bitterly.

"Do not tell Stephen when you go to see him to-morrow. It can do no good to revive her memory in his heart," said Mrs. Llewellyn, the younger sister, on whom Stephen's silence had imposed till she believed he was forgetting his love.

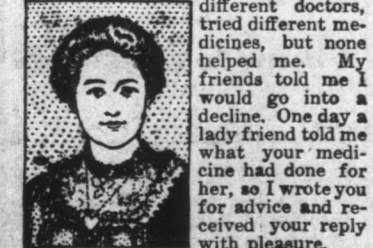

Lynette and Myrtle had dinner with Myrtle's parents, and then they prepared to go to Roncervet to meet Edgar. And who could blame Myrtle if she took extra pains with her toilet, and made her fair blond loveliness more charming than ever, while her blue eyes beamed with joy of her heart?

Myrtle's pony flew quickly over the road, and in half an hour they reached

AFTER DOCTOR'S FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Midgie Station, N. B.—One can hardly believe this as it is not natural, but it was my case. For ten months I suffered from suppression. I had different doctors, tried different medicines, but none helped me. My friends told me I would go into a decline. One day a lady friend told me what your medicine had done for her, so I wrote you for advice and replied with pleasure.

I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at the second bottle showed improvement. Now I am regular and never was so well in my life, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.

Please publish my letter for the benefit of others.—MRS. JOSEPH W. HICKS, Midgie Station, N. B.

Indian Head, Sask.—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is indeed a boon to women who suffer from female ailments. My health is better now than it has been in my five years of married life and I thank you for the good your advice and medicine have done me. I had spent hundreds of dollars on doctors without receiving any benefit.—MRS. FRANK COOPER, Box 448, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ed Roncervet and the railway station. On the platform they saw Mr. Lewis pacing to and fro, and he waved his hand at them to wait.

"Coming to the side of the little cart, he said:

"Don't be scared now, Lynette, but as soon as I got here I found a telegram waiting for me. Edgar is ill, and cannot come till to-morrow or Thursday."

Both the beautiful faces grew pale with dread, and Lynette cried:

"Let me see it!"

"Don't you believe me?" he cried rather roughly.

"Let me see it!" she repeated impatiently, and most reluctantly he obeyed.

She and Myrtle read together:

"Edgar's coming to-morrow!" the old man sang out cheerily, and then they halted by the roadside to take her in.

"Let me see the telegram," she said faintly, as the boy whipped up his horses and started off again.

"What's the use?" he said unhesitatingly, but she persisted, and he had to yield.

"Oh, Uncle Jack, Edgar may be very ill—even dying! I ought to go to him right away."

"Nonsense!" Edgar says he will be here Thursday eve."

"He will not—I feel that he will not!" she sobbed in keen distress, and Lewis added soothingly:

"If he doesn't come, you can go down to Richmond on Friday, and ask about him yourself. You will be married then, and Graham can take you."

"Married! But you see that my brother insists on postponing that till he comes!" she almost shrieked, in her dismay.

"Nonsense!" he returned roughly and decisively; and in that word the poor girl read her fate.

They would force her to the altar to wed the man whom she now loathed so bitterly. She had given her promise, and they would not let her slip. Uncle Jack was her guardian, and would use his absolute power to make her obey his behests.

All hope seemed to die from the poor girl's heart since Edgar's failure to come.

"Neither will he come to-morrow," she thought. "Or, if he should, it would be too late. They would be dressing me for the wedding, they would keep him away from me, and persuade him to let it go on. I am

"Do not think of anything so terrible, dear. He will come to-morrow," said Myrtle, keeping back threatening tears, though her own voice trembled with apprehension.

Her own heart was sinking with grief, but she must give no expression to it. She must not let even his sister know how dear he was, since to the world they were only friends.

"Here comes the carriage!" cried Lynette, flinging her arms around her friend's neck.

Myrtle whispered anxiously:

"I am troubled over you, Lynette. What if they should drag you to the altar, in spite of yourself? Better come home with me now, and defy them!" encouragingly.

But the weak girl only trembled and sighed.

"No; let me wait till Edgar comes. He will surely come to-morrow."

"And if not, dear?" anxiously.

Lynette's eyes lighted with some strange emotion, and she murmured:

"If he fails me, I shall do something desperate! Good-by!"

She ran away to the carriage, and as Myrtle saw her driven away she felt as if the lovely girl was being splitted away to some evil fate. She felt certain that Edgar's failure to come would not stop the marriage, if her uncle could prevail on her to consent to its going on.

Myrtle spent a very restless night, both on account of her fears for Lynette and her uneasiness over Edgar's illness.

"What if he should die!" she thought, in bitter anguish.

The next day she was so worried that she decided to meet Edgar at the train, but Mr. Lewis was there before her and again, with a telegram: "Too ill to start to-day. Hope to come Thursday eve. Postpone the wedding till I come."

"Shall you do as he commands?" she asked the farmer anxiously.

"No," he said bluntly. "If he ain't here Thursday eve, the wedding will go on all the same. Prentiss won't hear to no postponement. It's unlucky, he says, and besides it would disarrange all the plans. The supper's ready, the invitations sent, and Gillian and Vida, too, are dead set against putting the thing off at all."

"Will That To-morrow Ever Be?" Uncle Jack dreaded to go home to Lynette with the second disappointment about her brother, but he braced up his courage, saying to himself:

"I've got to face the music, that's all, and a feller what's in the army ain't no call to be a coward, I take it. But confound the feller! What made him get sick at this particular time? Didn't I have fuss enough on my hands already?"

He feared that Lynette might make a scene about postponing the marriage, and he had all a man's horror of scenes, while his uneasy feelings over the high hand he was carrying with Lynette were held down by the arguments of his wife and his squally cunning niece, who boasted unceasingly of the great advantages of the match.

Lynette knew very impatient as the time came for him to arrive from the station so at last she wrapped herself up warmly, and walked out to meet the carriage.

Uncle Jack saw her coming and groaned.

When Lynette saw that her uncle and Erastus were alone in the carriage, her sweet mouth quivered and tears sprang to her eyes.

"Edgar's coming to-morrow!" the old man sang out cheerily, and then they halted by the roadside to take her in.

"Let me see the telegram," she said faintly, as the boy whipped up his horses and started off again.

all alone in my trouble, with no one to help me, and I must think of some way to help myself. They shall never drag me to the altar with Graham Prentiss.

She said not another word to her uncle, and he was relieved at the apparent submission with which she had received his dictum.

"She is giving in. I sha'n't have so much trouble as I feared, only I don't quite like the look in her eyes, he told himself.

Graham Prentiss came to call that evening, and was outwardly grieved and inwardly jubilant that Edgar had not come. He did not care to have Lynette's clear-eyed brother come to the scene and investigate matters. He had an uneasy fear that something would occur to snatch his lovely prize from him at the eleventh hour.

She was cold and different to him as usual; but he bore it well, saying to himself angrily:

"In twenty-four hours I shall be her master. Then I will teach my princess better manners."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Suppose an engineer had a certain great weight to lift. Suppose it took three hundred horsepower of pressure to lift that weight. A man suppose that the engineer should apply fifty horsepower to it, and then shut off his engine and then try again and again with fifty or seventy-five or a hundred horsepower. Wouldn't we think he was an extraordinary foolish man?

He has wasted his power, we would say, and has accomplished nothing. He would have done better to use all his power at once or not try to do the thing at all.

And yet how many people act just like that engineer? I am thinking of a woman who lives with a very trying elder sister. The older woman is one of those people who make life miserable for all about them by harboring a thousand whims and caprices and cautions and irritating little prejudices and fustinesses.

All these things fret the younger sister to the verge of insanity, and she lives in a continual state of protest—fretful, nervous, inefficient protest. She argues, she pleads, she scolds, she begs.

But never—and here you catch my simile—never hard enough to do any good. Her sister's obstinacy and self will is a weight that cannot be moved except by some great pressure. And that the younger sister never exerts. As a result both their lives are embittered and saddened by perpetual petty warfare without one bit of good being accomplished.

Now this is the way it seems to me. That the only thing to be done in a case like this is for the sufferer to make up her mind that she, when she wants anything badly enough, will stand firm and get it, and that when she doesn't want anything enough to exert that pressure she will give up pleasantly.

In other words, when the weight must be lifted, she will exert the necessary amount of power and lift it, and when it doesn't she won't waste her power. In regard to the law of obedience, Elbert Hubbard says:

"Revolt is sometimes necessary, but the man who mixes revolt and obedience is doomed to disappoint himself, and everybody with whom he has dealings. To flavor work with protest is to fall utterly."

It seems to me it's the same way with family life. There are conditions in family life when revolt is absolutely necessary. When you are sure those conditions exist, why revolt and do it thoroughly. But when you know that acquiescence is wiser, why acquiesce and do it cheerfully. But don't mix the two. At least, not if you care anything for peace in your home.

Household Notes.

Drawn-work borders are not infrequently combined with solid centers. Mice object to camphor, which if put in places frequented by them will drive them away completely. Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on a gilt frame and they will disappear. Remove rust stains from white goods by applying lemon juice and salt and laying the material in the hot sun. If the cellar stairs are not well lighted, paint the bottom step white. This will save many an unfortunate misstep. Grease on a wall can generally be eradicated by covering with clean blotting paper, and then passing a warm iron over it. Needles both for hand-sewing and machine work may be sharpened on the discarded emery-boards from the dressing table. Brass bedsteads can be cleaned by rubbing with a cloth dipped in sweet

In Dread of 'Something'

You can scarcely tell what it may be—Nervousness, Irritability, Nervous Collapse. You can only throw off this depression when the nerve cells are restored to health by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nerves, and you are compelled to seek aid from other sources. It will take some patience and persistent treatment, but there is no way by which you can so certainly restore health and vigor as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The best time to restore the nervous system is long before such a critical condition is reached. Such symptoms as sleeplessness, headaches, nervous indigestion, muscular weakness, loss of energy, failure of memory and power of concentration, irritability and discouragement tell of a failure of the nervous system and warn you of the approach of serious trouble. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box, 9 boxes for $2.50; all dealers, or Edinboro, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms Can be Cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden. Folks Past Fifty Must Use Cascarets.

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascarets are to weak bowels—a 10-cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whipl the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

To whiten wooden floors add two tablespoonfuls of paraffin to the hot, soapy water used for washing a floor. It will cleanse the boards and will also destroy any insects that may be lurking in the cracks of the wood.

To renovate a bath scrub with hot soda-water, and then scour with sandpaper till the surface is perfectly smooth. Apply evenly two coats of white paint, and lastly, one of bath enamel. Let it get thoroughly dry before using.

The Camilla scarf is the latest conceit of the needleworker. It is made of a very fine white canvas, and is worked in quite light colors, such as blue and white, or pink and white, a mercerized floss being used. The edges are scalloped.

Baste a narrow strip of muslin along each outer edge before putting the curtains in water, and let it remain until the curtains are washed and stretched. You will find your curtains will be straight without the usual sagging.

Dish-covers may be easily kept bright and clean. Remove grease with warm water and soda, dry with a soft cloth, then apply a little metal polish with a flannel. A final polish with fine whiting will then make the covers look like silver.

Into a lemon jelly made as usual stir, as it begins to harden, half a cup of shredded preserved ginger. Or, if preferred, cut into small, inch-long pieces. Set away to harden. Serve with whipped cream flavoured with just a drop or two of brandy.

Silk and woolen goods may be cleaned of grease spots by gently rubbing them with cake magnesia. Lay the goods away in a dark place for several days and then shake out the magnesia. Press the fabric with a hot iron, first covering it with brown paper.

Damp shoes must be carefully dried. Do not put them in an oven or dry quickly. Stuff with newspaper or bran and stand in a draught. When the leather has stiffened from neglect, rub in a little vaseline. Vaseline is excellent for most leathers if not used to excess.

"Without Authority."

The People's Party has achieved fame as a picnic party, and its leader stands out head and shoulders above the leading picnicers of his party. Indeed, so ardently has he sought fame as a picnicer that the Capital has seen little of its Premier since the spring. Immediately the House closed he lent the light of his countenance to the Burin District, and in his party organs he did not hide his light under a bushel. He struck next picnic of his life in London and the British Isles, and of the limelight of publicity he did not fail to find a full share. Then came his return home, his wait for an interview with his colleague, Mr. Emerson, his rush to Placentia by a special train, and his well advertised stunts in Burin District. During this second visit his fame as a bog-trotter was noised throughout the length and breadth of the land. But too much publicity jades even a Picnic Party. The Daily News failed to take note of his last picnic, viz., that over the Bonavista branch with the President of the Construction Company, and maintained an unwonted silence about it. Indeed, we believe his visit to inspection would have remained wholly unchronicled had we not briefly adverted to it ourselves. Spurred on by the exclusive merits of this signal service, which has remained so far unacknowledged by the recipient, we purpose to tender him another meritorious service.

As bitters follow sweets, so comments attend picnics. And this was evidently the sequence of the Bonavista picnic. Our correspondent informs us that there is a rumor in Trinity that the site of the station in Jenkins's Farm was selected during that visit, and that the Premier was a party to the selection. The meritorious nature of this second service consists in drawing publicly the attention of the Premier to this report, in order that he may have an opportunity of denying it. We cannot give credence to the report (1) because the Premier and the Colonial Secretary have both promised that the line shall be taken into Trinity town and the station built there. (2) Because the Colonial Secretary stated first that the report of the commencement of the building of the station was "absolutely without foundation," and we must credit him with a belief in the truth of his words. (3) Later, i.e., on Monday last, apparently after learning there was foundation for the report, the Colonial Secretary went to the Premier with the approval of the Premier: "No instructions of any kind sent contractor regarding station site Trinity. Notified contractors to-day that work undertaken without authority is at their own risk."

In view of this report of the erection of the station at Jenkins's farm; in view, too, of the Colonial Secretary's message to Mr. Grant of Monday last, we want to know in clear and categorical terms what the situation between the Government and the Contractor is in regard to clause 24 of the Railway Extension Act, 1910. Is the Contractor submitting designs, specifications and estimates of stations, piers, etc., and obtaining the approval of the Government before commencing work on them? In other words, is the Government enforcing the clause to which we have referred? In part it runs as follows: "The Contractor shall erect all stations, piers, wharves, fences and snow fences along the line of the Branch Railways to which this contract refers, and shall erect, construct and perform all other works which the Government shall require, which are not included in, or incidental to the completion of the works comprised in this contract, as the Government in their discretion may consider necessary and appropriate; and for the purpose of obtaining their approval, the Contractor shall submit designs, specifications and estimates of the said erections and works. The approval of the Government shall be a condition precedent to commencing any work upon or in connection with the erections and works comprised in this clause."

Banker Has Hard Time

The Lunenburg banker Marion Mosher, Capt. Jno. Mosher, arrived here from the Banks yesterday afternoon for a supply of ice and to refit. After baiting she makes her last trip for the season to the Banks. She landed one of her crew named Moyle Dismont at Sydney, suffering from neuralgia in the head. While on the Banks Wednesday week there was a fierce blow and in it she lost an anchor and 50 fathoms of cable. Cooking at the Top of a Chimney

To cook a potato-pie at the top of a chimney 300 feet high by means of the heat generated in the fires below would seem an impossible task, yet such a feat was on one occasion accomplished by John Faulkner, a famous Lancashire steeplesjack.

The incident was the outcome of a wager between Faulkner and the manager of a Manchester gasworks, who doubted John's statement regarding the excessive heat.

A large iron kettle was procured, and this, being filled with the necessary ingredients—66 lb. in weight—was hoisted to the summit of the huge chimney-stack. Faulkner placed the receptacle on the outer and coolest side of the brickwork, but despite this the contents were found to be thoroughly cooked in one hour and twenty minutes less than the stipulated time.

Faulkner won his wager, and the pie, which, it is said, was slightly burned at the bottom, was afterwards distributed among the poor of the district.

Ruinous Dissipation.

On the occasion of a visit of a travelling circus to a small town, the juveniles of the surrounding country were all agog with excitement raised by the large posters and gorgeous advertisements. The young son of a notoriously close-fisted old farmer rushed in to his father and eagerly implored him for sixpence with which to "see the circus."

"What!" exclaimed old Skinfint. "Sixpence to see the circus, and have only last month I let you go up to Farmer Jones's field to see the eclipse of the moon! Young man, do you want your life to be one perpetual round of gaffery?"

His First Experience.

He had never fished before, but now, with a new and shining rod, and faultlessly attired, he was whipping a trout stream.

Suddenly, by some odd chance, he got a bite—a beauty from the way his line trained.

With rod held straight ahead, he slowly and steadily reeled it in.

Presently the fish was directly below the end of the rod. Did he stop? No, he kept on reeling the fish in, and finally the fish's head touched the top. He even tried to pull him through the ring. Just then he saw a man standing on shore, and turning with a bewildered look, he said: "What shall I do now?" "The only thing you can do now," the man suggested, is to climb up the pole and stab him."

A Chance to Learn.

Two gentlemen from the Green Isle were one day strolling along the banks of a canal, when one of them accidentally slipped into the water.

For some time he gave a splendid exhibition of the art of floundering, and, in his great distress, he shrieked loudly for help.

"Can't you swim?" his friend on the bank called out to him.

The poor fellow in the water, in a weakening voice, replied, "No." "Well, all I can say is," remarked his friend on the bank, "you've got a mighty fine chance to learn now."

COWES Sept. 20.
 The White Star steamer Olympic was in collision to-day with the British cruiser Hawke, near Osborne Bay, Isle of Wight. Both were steaming in the same direction. The Hawke ran stem on into the liner, tearing a large hole in the latter's starboard quarter. The steamer immediately beached. Although making a good deal of water, the steamer, later, steamed slowly back to Southampton. The Hawke was also damaged, but was able to proceed, unassisted. The Olympic carried the largest number of first class passengers that ever started across the Atlantic. She has been safely docked at Southampton.

A Grand Success.

The entertainment held at the Aula Maxima, St. Bonaventure's College, last night was a distinct success. The hall was completely filled. Amongst those present were His Grace the Archbishop, Sir E. P. Morris and Lady Morris, Rev. Bro. Cullane, Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, Rev. Frs. Pippy, Greene, and the Brothers of Mount Cashel. The programme was a well varied one and began with songs rendered by Messrs. Perkins and Ruggles, Mr. McCarthy, Misses E. Doyle and M. Fitzpatrick. All the singers were warmly applauded and responded to encores. Miss Mary Keegan then gave a recitation which was greeted with well merited applause. The comedietta, "Happy Pair," was next presented by Miss Keegan and Mr. John Murphy. The piece abounds in ridiculous situations, which kept the audience on the laugh till the closing scene. Miss Keegan portrayed the part of the "Loving Young Wife" very cleverly and gave a fine illustration of what culture and inherited talent are capable of doing in the case of an amateur. She was ably sustained by Mr. Murphy, the "Exact Husband." We congratulate all concerned on the success achieved.

Texan Arrested.

After Sergt. Cox arrived here yesterday with a female prisoner, he was apprised that a seaman named John Tolley, who nine days ago deserted from the big ore boat Otto. While on the ship yesterday forenoon tried to pick the locks of the cabin and staterooms in the ship, evidently with intent to steal. While the Otto was at Bell Island the captain of the ship reported to the sergeant the disappearance of Tolley, and also gave the officer a description of the man. At 5 p.m. yesterday Sergt. Cox and Const. Devine met a man answering Tolley's description near the Royal Bank and arrested him. They took the right man.

Lost Big Cheque.

Yesterday afternoon as Mrs. Graham, wife of Roadmaster Alex. Graham of the R. N. Co., was walking along Water Street, after passing Queen's Street she dropped a cheque on the Bank of Montreal for $155. It was endorsed with the name of the receiver and Mrs. Graham immediately stopped payment at the Bank and also reported the matter to the police. The cheque went with her hand bag and a ticket for Seidom.

Believed Him Dead.

Last night there were four prisoners in the lock up. During the night a telephone message stated that what was believed to be the body of a dead man was lying on Waterford Bridge Rd., near Mr. H. D. Reid's cottage. Sgt. Savage and an officer drove out there and found a man named Fitzgerald, who is often arrested, unconscious from an overdose of alcohol. He was taken to the lock up.

A Lively Pig Chase.

A lively chase after a pig might be seen on New Gower Street, at the foot of Theatre Hill, last evening at 6.45, when all the people were coming home from work. Mr. W. Campbell, the victualer, was the owner of the young porker, and he was conveying it in an express wagon to his farm at Rosellan. The pig was lying in the bottom of the carriage in a bag, but managed to wriggle out and jump from the vehicle at the foot of Theatre Hill. The pig ran and jumped over the retaining wall near Callahan Glass's factory. The crowd of citizens watching their way home from the East and West all began to take an interest in the proceedings, and many of them made an attempt to catch the pig, but without avail. The animal broke through several hastily formed cordons and ran over the foot of James St. in safety. At the head of the street Mr. James performed the stunt that did the needful. He threw himself down on the pig and bore it to the ground. His successful capture was cheered by an excited crowd of citizens who had given up the idea of going home to tea preferring to see the end of the exciting contest. Mr. Campbell was deflated to get his pig back and it was removed will give the man who captured it a reward.

Spanish Revolution Broken.

Special Evening Telegram.

MADRID, To-Day.

Strikes in many cities of Spain continue, but the revolution seems to have been completely confounded by the prompt action of the Government. The postponement of the general strike until to-day is regarded as indicating that the backbone of the Revolution is broken. The Government while preparing to take drastic measures does not lose sight of democratic ideals, which have inspired its programme. The Premier declared martial law last night, notwithstanding the Government's respect for the right to strike, if legally followed. "All those who wish to demonstrate in the streets will have their chance to-day," said the Premier. "I am determined once for all to finish those mutterings of Revolution." Houses have been searched, arms seized, and the prisons crowded with rioters and political suspects. King Alfonso has announced his intention of remaining in Madrid until the crisis is over. According to official news the situation has improved. The Government believes the movement will be suppressed by Monday.

Promise Broken.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Just now when such loud shout is made by the Government of how they are fulfilling the promises, it would be interesting to note how one of their principal promises has been ignored as far as St. Lawrence is concerned. After last election the people here were all expecting an elective Road Board, but in this matter we were much disappointed as a few leaders of the Government were appointed without further ceremony. Several letters were addressed to the Premier, reminding him of his promise of an elective Road Board, but the replies invariably stated that the matter was under consideration, etc. Finally the people were told that they could have an elective Road Board only after a petition was presented, showing that the majority of the people wanted it. It did not take any great amount of intelligence to see to what extent the Government intended to carry out their bluff. We all knew that Sir Edward did not say anything about petitions in connection with electing Road Boards, but to humor him we had a petition forwarded bearing the signatures of seven eighths of the voting population. It is amusing to know that amongst the signatories were some of his strongest supporters who just itched for the chance of signing such a petition so sure were they of its being granted. Needless to say the petition has not been heard of since. It lives in our minds as the memory of a promise.

Yours truly,
CONFIDENCE MISPLACED.
St. Lawrence, Sept. 18th, 1911.

A Big Success.

Harvey to whose efforts the sale is mainly due deserves to be congratulated on the result. The amount of cash taken is very little short of $600.

GLENCOE'S PASSENGERS.—The s.s. Glencoe arrived at Placentia from the west at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, bringing Rev. J. Harridan, E. Harris, G. Barnes, R. Brech, H. Condy, Robertson, W. Penny, C. F. Death After a Scratch.

Morris Quatman, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought nothing of the injury, but blood poison set in and he is dead.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn, scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful, yet painless germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and stopping the pain and smarting. That is why Zam-Buk is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore, and new healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworms, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

The Foods That Make You Fit.

Good Health Depends On What You Eat.

"If people only understood the medicinal value of proper food, doctors would have to shut up shop." Such is the assertion of Professor F. X. Gauraud, formerly chief of the Laboratory of the Medical Faculty, Paris, who has been making a study of the medicinal value of various articles of everyday food. In his opinion, people troubled with heart disease, rheumatism, or disorganization of the nervous system should avoid butchers' meat and in its place eat ham, eggs, because it is finer and shorter in fibre, is far easier to digest than butchers' meat, and consequently also forms an invaluable food-medicine in cases of dyspepsia.

For tuberculous patients, Professor Gauraud recommends eggs, particularly the yolks. He says the yolk of a fresh egg has distinct degermating effects on the growth of the tubercle bacilli in the human system. Six eggs a day are considered as ample to serve as both food and medicine. For people of rheumatic tendencies, two soft-boiled eggs, with bread and butter, are recommended as making up about one-sixth of the average daily allowance of food such persons should allow themselves. The addition of hot butter in preparing fried eggs, scrambled eggs, and buttered eggs, is condemned because the butter detracts from the digestibility of the eggs.

For Mental Workers.

Meat for the mental worker is disastrous. "How often," says the Professor, "do writers after a heavy meal, especially if it consists largely of animal food, complain of that sluggish, drowsy feeling which renders them incapable of accomplishing anything? Try fish, which gives the same satisfaction as meat; allows the same utilization of forces by the labourer and sportsman as well as by those who lead a sedentary life. Nothing," he continues, "can explain the prejudice which so many people have against this article of food. It affords a little less stimulation in quality, though but good can come of its use to the system."

"For all weak persons, convalescents, and those suffering from nervous depression a supply of meat is beneficial, but the average man in good health can get along better on a diet in which butchers' meat plays a very small part."

New Yacht Arrives.

A FINE VESSEL OWNED BY DR. GRENPELL.

The new auxiliary three-masted yacht George B. Cluett, Capt. C. E. Mille, arrived here yesterday at 3.50 p.m. The vessel was built at Staten Island, N.Y., and was launched on July 1st, to the order of George B. Cluett, a millionaire philanthropist, who presented the vessel to Dr. Grenfell for his work on the Labrador. The vessel is named after Mr. Cluett, and is now on her maiden voyage. She left New York on August 1st, and going to Boston took on board Mr. W. R. Stirling, of Chicago, with his two daughters and other persons interested in Dr. Grenfell's work. She then proceeded to Halifax and after leaving there went through the Gut of Canso, down the Strait of Belle Isle to Forteau and reached St. Anthony on the 21st. After discharging supplies there she visited Battle Harbor, Indian Tickle, Indian Harbor, Nain and went as far North as Kiglapit and then returned South calling at Rigolette, and reached St. Anthony on the 14th inst. She left for here on the 18th and had a good run to port. The ship proved herself to be a fine sea boat, is built especially to withstand ice, and carries a 75 horsepower Wolvorme gasoline engine and is very speedy when running under full sail, on a free wind. The ship is splendidly found and furnished, has large well lit and well ventilated officers quarters and state rooms, and her lines are very handsome. Her dimensions are:—Gross tonnage, 210; nett, 135; length, 113 feet; beam, 25 8-10 feet; and depth, 11 feet. Mr. French, of Bay Roberts, is mate of her, and Isaac Snow and Walter Smith, of the same place, with a Swede, are the steamen on board. As she lay at Job's wharf yesterday she was greatly admired by people who visited the place.

Scoundrel at Large.

Last night as a lady, who resides on Cabot Street West, was going towards Mr. Horwood's grocery store on that street, she was accosted and jostled by a scamp who for two nights past has been prowling around that part of the street near Barter's Hill where the fountain is situated, which is very dark and where a light is badly needed. Shortly after this another woman was passing by, with her little boy accompanying her, when the same scamp stopped her, used the worst kind of language and attempted liberties with her. The woman sought the friendly shelter of Mr. Mogge O'Neill's house near and became weak when she arrived there. Mr. O'Neill had to escort her home after she revived. It would be well for the Council to put a light there, for the place is a lonely one at night and in total darkness, and it is not the first time that blackguards have annoyed females in this place.

Be sure you have a bottle of Stafford's Liniment in your home.—aug19.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

This is the corner of the dead. The grass is sighing as it waves. The night is falling as I tread among the low neglected graves. I knew the men who slumber here, who, silent, wait the judgment morn. THE POTTER'S chest resting on his pauper's Bier—the harvest home of FIELD. I knew them in the gilded bars, and heard them sing the night away; but now, beneath the autumn stars the gilt has turned to gravedust gray. I knew them ere they learned the woes that follow wassail, and the scorn; and here they lie, in ghastly rows, the harvest home of Barleycorn. I knew them when they had their dreams of honor, usefulness and fame; and now the silver starlight gleams upon their hermitage of shame. And other revelers may keep their vigils with the drinking horn; but through the night the dead men sleep, the harvest home of Barleycorn. No weeping widows seek this place to pray above their loved and lost; no mother bends her pious face above the dead hand whitely crossed. Here desolation reigns and broods, and all the landscape is forlorn. The dead men in their solitudes—the widows of John Barleycorn!

Berlin, August 24.—Surgeon General Dr. Aklyama, a professor at the Army Medical Academy in Tokio, who is now in Berlin, has given to the Militar Wochenblatt the tables of Japanese casualties in the Russo-Japanese War, which were drawn up by Dr. Mori, but suppressed by the Government.

The first table gives the number of killed and wounded in the seven important engagements and battles of the war. In the battle of Kintechu, which lasted two days, there were killed 35 officers and 663 men, and wounded 111 officers and 3,550 men. In the battle of Wafanku, which lasted two days, there were killed 8 officers and 292 men, and wounded 44 officers and 892 men. In the battle of Toshi-kiu, which lasted three days, there were killed 13 officers and 182 men, and wounded 51 officers and 913 men. The names of the remaining four battles are not given. In battle No. 4, which lasted twelve days, there were killed 222 officers and 3,355 men, and wounded 608 officers and 17,529 men. In battle No. 5, which lasted thirteen days, there were killed 179 officers and 3,917 men, and wounded 605 officers and 15,873 men. In battle No. 6, which lasted 5 days, there were killed 80 officers and 1,754 men, and wounded 249 officers and 7,023 men. In battle No. 7 there were killed 554 officers and 15,850 men, and wounded 1,799 officers and 51,856 men. A second table gives the number of killed and drowned in the most important engagements before Port Arthur. In the engagement of July 26 to July 31, there were killed 24 officers and 667 men, and wounded 119 officers and 3,278 men. In the engagement of August 19 to August 24 there were killed 186 officers and 3,800 men and wounded 386 officers and 11,404 men. In the engagement of September 19 to September 22 there were killed 49 officers and 874 men, and wounded 130 officers and 3,780 men. In the engagement of November 26 to December 6 there were killed 294 officers and 4,834 men, and wounded 430 officers and 11,299 men.

Blown Up and Killed by Dynamite.

QUEBEC, Sept. 13.—Dr. Dube, a young physician from L'Islet county, is dead at the Hotel Dieu Hospital as a result of having been blown up in a dynamite explosion at his home yesterday. There were several sticks of dynamite in a barrel at the rear of his home, and a servant girl emptied some hot ashes on them not knowing what they were. Dr. Dube happened by when the explosion occurred. He was horribly mutilated.

VAGRANTS ARRESTED.—Two prisoners were arrested for vagrancy last night and taken to the lock up.

Bonaventure Here.

The s.s. Bonaventure, Capt. C. Cross, arrived here from Port Elizabeth, N.J., at 2.30 p.m. yesterday with a full cargo of anthracite coal for A. J. Harvey & Co. The ship left there on Wednesday afternoon last and for three days had comparatively fine weather, but after that and until port was reached she had thick fog and a heavy sea with strong head winds until Cape Spear was passed and she got a glimpse of the land coming down the shore. The ship has been running since May month between Port Antonio, Jamaica, and New York in the fruit trade, carrying bananas mostly, her round trips being 14 days duration. On several occasions she carried passengers, who were delighted with the ship. She did good work all through the summer and was on schedule time every voyage. All the Newfoundland sailors remained on the ship but most of the crewmen quit a couple of months ago. The ship had mostly fine weather, except on her third last voyage, when she was two days caught in a hurricane, but proved herself to be a fine seaboat and came through without damage. Her charter would not expire until October 25th, but the fruit market being congested from shipments of new goods coming from the South and Western States, it was decided to abandon the trade earlier than usual. The captain and crew are well and are glad to be home once more.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham in the death of their son, Frederick, which took place here on Monday. Fred was a very bright little fellow and by his many ways he had endeared himself to all his acquaintances.

The hull of the wrecked schooner Rose May was sold yesterday for the benefit of the Insurance Co., and fetched the sum of $9.00.

Miss Flossie Dwyer, eldest daughter of Constable Dwyer, leaves by tomorrow's train for St. John's where she enters the C. of E. College to train for a teacher. We wish her much success.

Partridge shooting commenced today and all our local sports are on the war path. The morning was very disagreeable, but the day later turned out fine.

On Friday last the 15th inst., we were shown some very fine specimens of native trout caught by Mr. W. Ward, Collector of Customs, in one of the ponds on the Heart's Content Road. One very pretty fish weighed 2½ lbs.

Mr. John G. Munn left by train and Ethie yesterday for the North. His mission is to appoint agents to purchase all the fish possible, for the Gorton Fish Co. We trust the enterprise will be profitable for all concerned, particularly our hardy fishermen, without whom there would be no fish merchants or agents.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Hare on Wednesday last and another to Mr. and Mrs. P. Madigan on Sunday.

It is rumored we are soon to have another Wood Factory started here. Let us hope that such is the case, as the more factories and other business concerns started the more employment will come to our labouring classes.

Mr. Albert Spence, of the Reid Nfld. Co., who took Station Master Ford's place during his well-earned holiday, left for his St. John's home yesterday. Albert's host of friends were pleased to have him with them for a few days.

A man who suddenly became so fond of his wife that he tried to eat her, was before the court a couple of days ago. He was bound to the peace.

Work on the dock is going ahead rapidly. Pile driving had to be discontinued yesterday for the very good reason that there were no piles on hand to drive. In the meantime the divers went down and cut off the piles level with the bottom. Many people watched this interesting proceeding.

In connection with this pile driving it has been suggested that the present would be a good time to have another block added to our Public Wharf. With another block the wharf would accommodate all sorts of vessels. This is merely talk, but we hope it will be considered by the Powers that be.

CORRESPONDENT.
 Harbor Grace, Sept. 20, 1911.

LARGELY ATTENDED FUNERAL.—The funeral of Master Fred Buckingham, who died shortly after his arrival from Harbor Grace, took place yesterday afternoon. It was largely attended, all his schoolmates of St. Bonaventure's College, where the deceased studied, being present. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket which contained several wreaths and some flowers. Interment was at Mount Carmel Cemetery.

At Synod Hall.

Amongst those who attended the third biennial conference of the Deaneary Avalon Sunday School Board at the Synod Hall last evening were His Lordship Bishop Jones, Rev. Canon Smith, Rev. Canon Temple, Rev. J. Hewitt, Rev. E. K. H. Caldwell, Rev. C. H. Burton, Rev. J. Brinton, Rev. G. H. Hewitt, Rev. P. P. Law and the teachers from the missions of Portugal Cove, Petty Hr. Keligrews, Pouch Cove and the three parishes of the city. The meeting opened with appropriate prayer. The Rural Dean, Rev. Canon Smith, who occupied the chair, then delivered an address in which he referred to the appointment of the Board by Synod enactment. He also referred to the great benefits derived by the teachers at the conference of 1907 and 1909. Rev. Mr. Burton followed with a paper on "The relationship between the home and the Sunday School," which was highly appreciated. Miss Stirling read a helpful and analytic paper on "The teacher and the pupil." Rev. J. Bell, Hon. Sec., dilated on "What the Sunday Schools have done for the Orphanage." Mr. G. H. Malmidment's paper on "The Value of Catechism in the Sunday School" showed close thinking and an intimate knowledge of the subject. Those who participated in the discussion on the papers elicited helpful information. Rev. J. Brinton, Rev. P. P. Law, Rev. Canon Temple, Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, W. H. Goodland and A. Morgan. The Lord Bishop suggested that the Deaneary put into effect the resolution passed at the 1909 conference re examination for Sunday School teachers. On motion of Rev. J. Bell a resolution was carried to affiliate the Deaneary of Avalon with the C. of E. Sunday School Institute of London. Before the meeting closed votes of thanks to the ladies of the Cathedral Parish and St. Thomas's Parish were passed for their kindness in providing refreshments for the evening. A letter was read from Rev. J. Netten, of Pouch Cove, in which he regretted being unable to attend. The conference, Drowned.

In the Waters of British Columbia.

On August 14th a message was received from British Columbia by Rev. Fr. Renouf, of Trepassay, stating that Joseph Halleran, son of Joseph, Daniel's Point, Trepassay, was drowned on August 4th, that his body had been recovered and laid to rest in the Roman Catholic burying ground, but no particulars were given as to how the accident occurred. The good, kind Priest broke the news to the aged father in a gentle manner. The latter bore his trouble and sorrow with perfect submission to the Will of the Most High.

On Friday, August 4th, the whaler "Vado" was lying at Prince Rupert Dock waiting for the fog to clear, the crew were all on board and had retired at 9 p.m. the quarter master being the only one on deck. At two o'clock in the morning he heard a splash over the ship's side. The crew were immediately called, and young Halleran was found missing. Life buoy marks were speedily thrown overboard, but the drowning youth made no motion to save himself, and did not make the slightest noise when going over save for the splash when he met the water. Every possible effort was made to rescue him while still alive, but still in vain, and after an interval of two hours his lifeless body was drawn up. A silver mounted coffin was procured for him by his comrade, R. Pennell, also a Newfoundlander, and on Sunday, August 6th, he was laid to rest. Young Pennell, who was with him, is also a native of Daniel's Point, and feels the loss of his dear friend very much, being in a foreign land among strangers with no one to comfort him makes his burden doubly hard to bear.

Halleran was a young man of 33 years of age, and had a father, 2 brothers, 3 sisters and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn the loss of a kind, dutiful son and a loving and affectionate brother. One of his brothers left his home 17 years ago and settled down in Chicago; no doubt he will be greatly troubled over Joe's untimely end, and as he had lived with him in Chicago for 3 years, and only returned 20 months ago, remaining home for only five short months when the notion of travelling entered his mind and with his cousin, R. Pennell, made for British Columbia, in October 1910. They had been working hard and were saving the greater part of their earnings, intending to spend the coming winter among their friends in Trepassay. To his sorrowing relatives we extend our sympathy.

BROKE HER LEG.—A little girl named Nugent, 11 years of age, fell while playing near her home on Water Street last evening and broke her leg. Dr. Macpherson set the limb.

which was considered the most successful yet held, closed with Benediction given by the Lord Bishop.

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Headache five minutes later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel life is worth living.

"More Work and Less Talk."

There are still many working men in Newcastle-on-Tyne who remember Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., who is inquiring into the railwaymen's grievances, when he worked as an iron moulder in the firm of Robert Stephenson and Co. His education was but scanty, and he was obliged to learn all he could when and how he could. But his natural ability and intelligence soon made an impression upon his fellow-workers, and before he reached his twenties the men were choosing him to lead their deputations. Mr. Henderson's motto, however, from the day when he began to think for himself has been "More work and less talk." To quote the words of a North-countryman overheard on one occasion by the writer, "Artie's a deep 'un. He don't say much, but, by gum, he can think!"

AN UNFOUNDED RUMOR.—The rumor which went the rounds about a week ago that seaman C. Pope of the Bonaventure had fallen into the hold of the ship and received dangerous injuries, was utterly false. Mr. Pope met no mishap and is enjoying the best of health.

"There's a Reason" FOR

Grape-Nuts

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

To know of and use a food that will feed and restore brain and nerves before slight nervous troubles end in complete nervous prostration or brain-fag is wise, for unless proper food is supplied daily it is unreasonable to expect the nervous system to answer the demands made upon it.

There is a food, Grape-Nuts, for the particular purpose of restoring weakened nerves or fagged brain to health and strength.

A business man of Baltimore, who made the trial says:

"Two years ago my health had become so seriously impaired it was impossible for me to attend to business. At the least exertion my nerves would give way and the condition of my system allowed me little or no rest or sleep at night. Stomach trouble soon followed and I could take no solid food. I tried the best tonics and medicines but they all failed.

"Finally Grape-Nuts food was recommended and after using it for 10 days I began to feel its good results and at the end of three months I was again a well man—nerves restored to their normal condition, strength renewed, and I was able to do any amount of both mental and physical work without feeling unduly fatigued.

"I know Grape-Nuts built up my brain and nerves and still keep them strong and vigorous just exactly as food builds up muscles or fat, for instance, and I am glad to have learned this valuable lesson." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Trial 10 days proves things when Grape-Nuts food is used. "There's a Reason."
