'Margaret,' The GIRL ARTIST, OR, The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER XII. "After all, you are not such a fool as you looked, my friend," he said. Pyke stood eying him stealthily and curiously, then he slapped his knee cautiously.

"I've got it!" he said, with a leer. "He's after your girl, guv'nor!" Austin Ambrose smiled again. "You are really an intelligent person, Mr. Pyke," he said, suavely. "And now that we understand each other—and we do, I think?"

Pyke swore horribly for assent. "Exactly. Then I think we had better part. Take my advice, and don't watch for rabbits any more! Go home and rest until your friend sends you word that the time has come to pay back old scores. When he does so, well—he be ready, and strike home!"

"I will!" Pyke declared, setting his teeth. Austin Ambrose flung his cigarette away. "Poaching is a hard trade," he murmured, looking up at the sky, which shone blue as a turquoise through the trees. "One should pity the poor fellow who is driven to it, rather than condemn him. There, my poor man, take this small coin and find some honest work. You are strong and able, get some employment. Believe me, honesty is the best policy!"

And he held out a sovereign. Pyke took it, examined it, and put it in his pocket. But he stood still, waiting like a well-trained hound, for further orders. Suddenly Austin Ambrose raised his hand and pointed to the road. "Go!" he said sternly.

Pyke started, just as a dog would start, fingered his fur cap, and muttering: "Yes, guv'nor, yes," disappeared.

Austin Ambrose remained seated for some minutes, his brows knitted, his eyes fixed on the ground, then he murmured: "Yes, I shall win this! Everything goes with me! Everything! It is a bold game, but I shall win it! A man gets all the trump cards dealt him, or breaks the bank at faro, once in a lifetime; it is his one chance! This is mine! Even this country clown makes one! Yes, I shall win, and then, Violet! and then—"

He walked quickly through the wood. The dog cart he and Blair had engaged was waiting, and he dismissed the boy who was holding the horse. They had driven from Harefield, the nearest large town, to which they had come by rail, and were going to drive back and take the return train there.

Rheumatism A Sneaking Disease Has At Last Met Its Conqueror

Throbbing Muscles and Swollen Joints Made Well.

RUB ON NERVILINE.

Old age knows no foe more subtle, more unrelenting than rheumatism. At first only a grumbling pain is felt. But, alas, it settles in the joints and muscles, and finally tortures its victims.

To-day the disease may be in the muscles of the back, thigh, shoulder or neck—to-morrow in the joints of the hand, toes, arms or legs it may work with redoubled fury.

Whether the pain is constant or occasional makes no difference to "Nerviline." Because other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged. Nerviline has cured the worst of cases. It has brought health to those in the deepest despair, has ended years of awful suffering for those who never hoped to be well again.

As he had said, they had taken every precaution to keep their visit a secret.

After he had been waiting five or ten minutes, Blair came striding toward him. He was rather pale and very quiet, and signed to Austin to drive.

"I should drive you into a ditch," he said; "my hands are all shaky! Austin, she is an angel!" and his voice was shaky, whatever his hands may have been.

"Meaning Miss Margaret? She is better than an angel! She is a lovely and a charming lady," said Austin Ambrose.

"Isn't she?" exclaimed Lord Blair. "Austin, I did not exaggerate?"

"No; you did not even do her justice! I never saw a more beautiful and bewitching young creature! I don't wonder at your infatuation."

"Infatuation! I don't like the word. Infatuation is not love, and I love her more than ever a man loved yet, I think."

"And you are right," said Austin Ambrose, emphatically. "Blair, my boy, you are in luck. I'm not given to raving about women, but, upon my word, I could do a little raving about Miss Margaret!"

"Rave away, then!" said Blair, bluntly. "You won't harm me. Ah, Austin! if you knew how I hate all this secrecy and deception! I tell you I hate it! Why should not I declare my love for her to all the world? I tried to persuade her to let me go to the earl after you had left us, but she wouldn't let me."

"You are a fool!" burst from Austin Ambrose's lips; then, as Blair looked at him with astonishment, he added quickly: "I beg your pardon, Blair; but it does make me mad to see you so bent upon destroying that sweet girl's future in the way that you propose to do. Why, man, what harm does it do her or you keeping it quiet for a while? The earl is an old man, any year—a month, a day—he may die, and then—why, then you may tell all the world, when you have got his money safe at your banker's for you and your wife and children! Miss Margaret is more sensible than you."

"Yes, after she had heard you," said Blair, slowly. "Well, I suppose it's the best thing to do, but I hate it, all the same. Though, after all, I don't care; it's enough for me to know she loves me."

There was silence for a moment then Austin Ambrose said smoothly: "If I were you, Blair I should secure that beautiful creature as soon as possible."

"What do you mean?" demanded Blair, awaking from a reverie. "I should marry her."

"If she would," he murmured, in a low voice.

"Oh, yes, she would," said Austin Ambrose, in a quiet tone of confidence. "I think I could help you to that, Blair. Honestly, I think her such a treasure that, if I were in your place, I should never rest easy for a day until she were mine! A prince might long to make her his consort! To tell you the truth, I am as bewitched as you are. I had expected to see—well, I won't tell you what, but I will tell you what I did see, a lovely girl, who was not only lovely, but a refined and gifted lady. Marry her, Blair, and at once!"

"I'd marry her to-morrow if she'd let me," said Blair hotly; then he repeated:

"If she would," he murmured, in a low voice.

"Oh, yes, she would," said Austin Ambrose, in a quiet tone of confidence. "I think I could help you to that, Blair. A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the insane hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELDON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old-fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

lapsed into silence, and Austin Ambrose was content to let the seed he had dropped take root.

"Will you come to the club and dine with me?" he said, when they walked home. Lord Blair shook his head.

"No, thanks, old fellow," he said. "I want to be alone. Don't think me a bear."

"No, no, I understand," said Austin Ambrose, as he shook hands; "go and dream of Margaret, and remember what I say, my dear fellow. A prize like that is never too quickly secured."

Blair wandered to his rooms, to pace up and down his sitting-room, and think over every word Margaret had said. Austin Ambrose went to his chambers, and having dressed carefully and leisurely, dined luxuriously at his club, and at half-past ten called a cab and had himself driven to Lady Marabout's, who had an "evening" that night. Lady Marabout's rooms were filled to overflowing when he entered, and he had to make his way through a crush that extended as far as the hall and stairs; but in his cool and leisurely fashion he reached the principal saloon at last, and having shaken hands with the hostess, who greeted him with a brave though tired smile, he bent his steps toward a small crowd that surrounded some favored person at the end of the room.

The favored person was Violet Graham, the heiress. The dragon, Colonel Floyd, the Marquis of Aldmore, and other well-known men were round her—one holding her fan, another proffering her an ice, and a third looking over her ball carte in the hope of finding a vacant space; and she leaned back on the settee smiling absently, and listening, "with half an ear," to their compliments and flattery.

Austin Ambrose made his way to her slowly, his opera hat under his arm, his clean-cut face serene and perfectly self-possessed.

"Is the dancing all over, or just begun?" he said, as he inclined his head before her. "I am too late for anything, I suppose?"

Nothing could have been cooler or more matter-of-fact than his words, or the tone in which they were uttered; but she looked up with a sudden flush.

"I don't dance the next; it is a square dance," she said. "Take me to some cool place—if there is a cool place, Mr. Ambrose!"

He held out his arm, and to the mortification of her circle of courtiers, he led her away.

"Confound that fellow Ambrose!" muttered Colonel Floyd. "Why couldn't she ask me to take her into the conservatory?"

"Or me?" muttered two or three others, as they sauntered away ill-temperedly.

Austin Ambrose led her into the conservatory and placed her in a seat, then he broke off a palm-leaf and fanned her patiently, as if it were his sole mission on earth.

"Well?" she said, and it was the first word she had addressed to him since her greetings.

He smiled, a confident smile. "Meaning our friend, Blair?"

"Yes, yes," she said, impatiently. "Where is he? What is he doing? He was invited to-night. I came expecting him to be here."

He smiled again. "Don't be impatient. At present our friend Blair shuns the revel and the dance—"

She flashed her eyes upon him angrily. "You have seen him?"

"Yes," he said. "I have seen him. He is still infatuated over his dairymaid. But don't be alarmed. I have nipped that little affair in the bud, I think."

He smiled again. "Don't be impatient. At present our friend Blair shuns the revel and the dance—"

She flashed her eyes upon him angrily. "You have seen him?"

"Yes," he said. "I have seen him. He is still infatuated over his dairymaid. But don't be alarmed. I have nipped that little affair in the bud, I think."

"You have?" she exclaimed, with a quick glance.

"Quite," he said, easily. "Before a week is passed you will find him at your feet again."

"Can I trust you?" she murmured. He shrugged his shoulders.

"As much as one can trust another seeing that, according to the latest novelist, we are all Judases. But you can trust me. This affair of Blair's will end in smoke, believe me."

Violet Graham drew a long breath. "Remember!" she panted. "Put a stop to this—this madness of his, and I will give you anything you can ask!"

"I shall not forget," he said. "Let me take you back now."

Why a Root Grows Down.

Why does a root grow down? Did you ever wonder? I have, and here's why. In the tip of a root are tiny, weeny, little specs, so small that you or I couldn't possibly see them. Well, you know, the earth, like a great magnet, pulls everything down toward itself. That's why we don't fall off and why things don't fall up instead of down. Gee, wouldn't it be funny if they did. These tiny little specs, I told you about, feel the earth pulling and make the root grow down to answer the tug.

When it comes to a stone, of course, the root isn't expected to grow through it and couldn't do it even if it were expected to, so it bends to the side and for a while don't grow down. But as soon as it passes the stone, as quick as a wink, a message flies from the tip to a region a little further up. Then, before you know it, the root is growing down again and everything is as it should be.

Just think, when you look at a tree, you only see half of it. There is that much again growing into the earth. These mighty roots anchor it firmly so that it can sway to the wind.

"Hello, there! Blow and shriek and roar as much as you want. Your bark's worse than your bite as far as I'm concerned."

My, there surely are lots of wonderful things in this world of ours. Let's keep our eyes open and see them all as they can.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE.

"I want to ask Mrs. Blank to my party, but as I have never called upon her, I don't know whether it would be proper," said Mrs. Young married.

"You should make an effort to call before sending out your invitations," replied her sister.

Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Fashion Plates. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

A SIMPLE PRACTICAL MODEL.

1638 - Ladies' House Dress, with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

White linen, embroidered in blue, would make this a smart morning dress. Checked gingham, striped seersucker, figured lawn, drill cotton rep or poplin, is also nice. The style is simple and pleasing. The right waist front is crossed over the left. A shaped collar facing outlines the neck. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or short length. The skirt is cut on new lines, with lapels stitched in tuck effect.

This desirable model is cut in 7 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 7 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for a 36-inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

1630 - A JAUNTY STYLE.

Fashions may come and fashions may go, but none seems so practical or pleasing for the little boy as the Russian Blouse suit, be the variations as they may. In this model, the lines are simple, with a bit of shaping at the closing. The trousers in "big brother" style are cut with straight lower edges. The sleeve is finished with a plain, straight cuff, to which is added a jaunty cuff in turnback style. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 5-year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

New Spring HATS AND New English and French Flowers AT HENRY BLAIR'S. The Spring Hats are amongst the first of the new arrivals. The new modes are infinitely varied in shape and style, so that no one need anticipate the slightest difficulty in selecting a Hat that is eminently suited to the personality of the wearer. Also would like to say that very modestly priced Millinery will most certainly be a leading feature of the Spring Season at HENRY BLAIR'S.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT! The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any shop in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play." Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would stop inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality. We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT COMPANY. dec3.1f

Florizel Arrives

WITH HEAVY TRIP OF SEALS. The s.s. Florizel, Capt. A. Kean, returned from the northern sealfishery yesterday morning, reporting for 45,000 seals, made up as follows: Young Harps 41,000 Young Hoods 2,000 Old Hoods and Harps 2,000

Total 45,000 few years ago the Florizel brought 49,069, turning out 1004 tons of fat, this present cargo Capt. Kean believes is the heaviest even though behind the record number. The Florizel at St. John's on the morning of March 15th. Two days later she was named while trying to work north. The rest of her story is practically the same as told by previous arrivals. On March 16th and 17th the Florizel brought 10,600 whitecoats which were somewhat scattered and after getting these aboard got into the main patch on March 18th and got a good share of it. A cut was then made for hoods. The Florizel spoke the Esk on her way home Saturday last in 20,000 on board and she was then in a patch of bedlamers and expected to load up. The Samuel Blandford was also seen. She reported for 18,000 and since got 600 odd. The Florizel brought in the remains of James Coffe, of Bay Roberts, who died on board the Erik. The body was forwarded to the late home of the deceased by this morning's train. The catch for the northern ships is estimated thus: Florizel (in port) 46,000 Neptune (in port) 32,000 Eagle (in port) 31,000 Sable I. (in port) 23,000 Bloodhound (in port) 22,000 Terra Nova 27,000 Erik 28,000 Sam Blandford 18,600 Total 220,600 The Florizel began discharging this morning and should finish about Wednesday night. The approximate amount of the Florizel's cargo, according to the handsome price given for this year, will be $110,000. It is thought, in that event, her crew will be close on $150 and the captain's share will be about $4,400.

Mr. Grace Notes.

Mrs. Henry Parsons died this morning after a long illness.

Flippers are selling at 50 cents per pair. We hope Sunny Jim will enjoy a stew better that he appears to enjoy muscix.

This is indeed the finest day we have had this season—bright, clear, and spring-like. The genuine although it is the 1st of April.

$6.00 per cwt. is the price the Blood-mo's crew are getting for their sale.

Mr. Victor Parsons has just purchased the pretty little cottage owned by the late Charles, Webb, Griffin. Parsons has a splendid property in a best desirable locality.

Mr. Ernest Sheppard, the harbor ferryman, is getting his motor boat. Maribel fitted up for her season's work. In the meantime Mr. Sheppard is saying a man to ply on the harbor in a sail boat to accommodate as such as possible the travelling public.

It is thought here that the man named Griffin, lately found in a pitiful condition in a stable in St. John's, has one sister, Mary Griffin. The latter is very sick, but is being kindly treated by the neighbors and friends.

Several packages of socks, etc., were shipped to St. John's by last evening's mail. The ladies are still working and never tiring in their efforts to provide comforts for our brave boys.

The week of prayer held by Rev. A. Holmes of the Methodist Church in Fisherman Hall was well attended, and services were very much appreciated by all who attended.

other and Sister Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills. Too Good to Be True.

In this letter Mrs. Hurley relates how she and her brother are cured of kidney trouble by Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills.

That is the kind of enthusiasm Dr. Chase's medicines arouse and that is why they are so generally known and used to-day. People who are cured of their friends and neighbors, and the word is passed along.

From the limits of Dr. Chase's office at Ann Arbor, Mich., the good news of these medicines travelled until they are known the world over and considered indispensable in many thousands of homes.

This is the kind of letters we are receiving daily and there can be no staking the enthusiasm expressed.

Mrs. J. J. Hurley, Upper Harwell, Ark. Co., N.B., writes: "I suffered from indigestion for two years and had a great many kinds of medicine, but got no lasting relief until I used Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills."

Man Drops Dead While on His Way Home. On Saturday evening, while on his way home from work, Mr. John F. Roberts collapsed and died suddenly at the foot of Lime Street. He was picked up by passers-by and conveyed to his home. Clergy and doctor were immediately summoned but of no avail, as life was extinct when they arrived. Deceased was but a young man, born at Tilt Cove, N.D.E., 31 years ago, being a son of Mr. Elias and the late Annie Roberts, who at that time resided there, his father afterwards removing to North West Arm, N.D.E., where he conducted a large lumber business.

Empire Has More Than Enough Zinc For Its Own Use. Which Was Third--
The Bloodhound or the Neptune?

As the second, third and fourth arrivals from the seal-hunters all reached port last Thursday evening almost at the same hour, there has been a diversity of opinion ever since as to whether it was the Bloodhound or Neptune was third ship to reach its port of discharge, Hr. Grace or St. John's. In consequence sweepstakes holders are much concerned about the matter and are wondering as to whether they are going to capture or lose the much-coveted "fifty lucres" for third prize. In its last issue the Bloodhound reached Hr. Grace at 7.15 p.m., whilst the Neptune reached St. John's harbor at 7.30 p.m. However, an official message received from Hr. Grace by the Telegraph Coy. on the night of the arrival stated that the Bloodhound arrived at the Bay Metropolis at 7.43 p.m. Which is the correct time?

TO-DAY'S Messages.

TWO VESSELS SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. Lloyd's report the sinking of the Norwegian steamship Norme, 1,224 tons, and the British schooner John Pritchard, 118 tons. The crews of both vessels were rescued.

AEROPLANE MISSING.

LONDON, To-day. The British official, last evening says: Last night at St. Etel we captured an officer and four men. Grenade fighting continues. Artillery on both sides have been active about Sauchez, Angres, St. Etel, Loos and Ypres. There has been mining activity by both sides about Hulloch and the Heuzoullern redoubt. Two hostile aeroplanes were driven down behind the German lines. One of the machines which was sent out yesterday is missing.

ABANDONED BY CREW.

HONG KONG, To-day. Stranded in a storm off the Lantau Islands, twenty miles south of Hong Kong, the Japanese steamship Chiyo Maru, whose 229 passengers, mostly Americans, were rescued by a British warship, is now believed to have been abandoned by the crew.

GOLDMOUTH SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The British steamer Goldmouth is sunk and the crew, two members of which are suffering from injuries, were landed at Fremantle, says a Lloyd's despatch from that place dated Saturday. The Goldmouth is 7,456 gross tons, 471 feet long. She is owned by the Anglo-American Steamship Company, London, and was probably in the Government service. The latest shipping records give her sailing from Port Arthur, Texas, on October 25, Norfolk, November 4 for Dartmouth.

HEAVY ATTACKS AND COUNTER-ATTACKS.

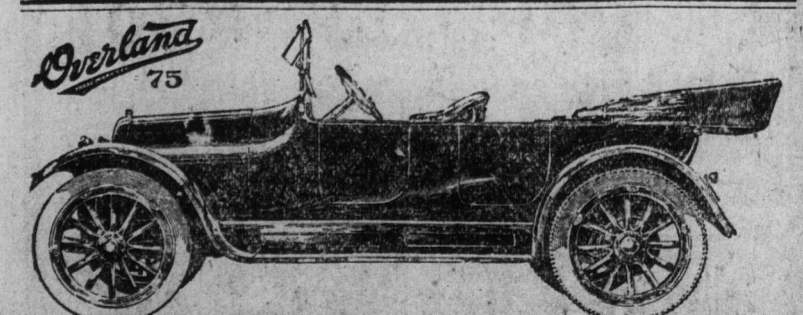

PARIS, To-day. The Germans launched heavy attacks against the French positions both west and east of the Meuse and to the west of Amiens, which were repulsed, but to the east in the neighbourhood of Port Douaumont the assaulting forces were able to penetrate the Caillotte wood, lying south. From the northern part of the wood they were almost immediately ejected by French counter-attacks.

ZEP. ATTACK LAST NIGHT.

LONDON, To-day. The coast of Scotland and the northern and southeastern counties of England were attacked by Zeppelins on Sunday night, according to an official announcement by the Secretary of War. The announcement says the Zeppelin raid took place on Sunday night, when the coast of Scotland, the northern and southeastern counties of England were attacked. Bombs were dropped in various places. No details are available.

THE USUAL MASSACRE.

LONDON, To-day. A correspondent on the northeast coast town says the Zeppelin sighted there at 11 o'clock on Saturday night dropped 14 explosive and seven incendiary bombs. Ten men, three women, three children were killed, and 25 seriously injured. In addition about eighty others received minor injuries. A tram car inspector was killed, a woman tram car conductor had her leg blown off and several houses were wrecked. One house was comby a German submarine in the Bay of Biscay on March 28th, the men were allowed ten minutes which to leave the vessel.

105 DROWNED.

TOKIO, To-day. The steamer Wakatsu Maru bound for Magasaki for Coastal points has been wrecked at Sunken Rock. Eighty-nine of her passengers and sixteen members of her crew are believed to have been drowned.

SEND-OFF FOR ASQUITH.

ROME, To-day. The visit of the British Prime Minister Asquith to Rome, ended to-day and Asquith left the capital amid the cheers of thousands of people. Premier Salandra gave a luncheon in his honor at which were present many Senators, Deputies and former Cabinet Ministers, members of the present Cabinet and other high officials of State. There was an impressive demonstration at the station when Asquith said farewell. Great crowds with flags and bands gathered and gave the British Premier a rousing send-off. The bands played British and Italian patriotic airs, while the people cheered for England and shouted for the Allies' victory.

TURKISH FORTS DESTROYED.

LONDON, To-day. The forts of St. George and Sanjak, as well as other coastal defences of Smyrna were destroyed on Friday in a three hours' bombardment by British warships, says a dispatch from the Times from Salonika. The Turks did not reply to the fire of the warships. Sanjak is the chief works commanding the entrance of Smyrna harbor and St. George is about three miles southeast.

HEAVY FIGHTING AT VERDUN.

NEW YORK, To-day. The Germans are still carrying on strong offensive operations northeast and northwest of Verdun. About four and one half miles northeast of the fortress they penetrated the Caillotte Wood, just outside Port Douaumont, after a violent bombardment. From part of this wood the French immediate counter-attack from the Caillotte Wood, but here the French heavy machine guns held the Germans without effect. The French have now completely evacuated the Caillotte Wood and draw a line south of the town, but near its immediate outskirts. Berlin says that northeast of Hancourt the Germans have captured the village of Hancourt and Le Mort Homme the Germans entirely cleared the French from about 1,000 yards of trench, where the British had been since March 30. On other sections about Verdun there has been only intermittent bombardments. Artillery duels have characterized the fighting along the remainder of the front. Air craft have been very active around Verdun. The French brought down three German machines, but Berlin asserted the aerial combats resulted in their favor. Both sides are busily engaged dropping bombs on the establishments at various points. Greater activity than usual has been displayed in the fighting between Germans and Russians in the region of Hwaranovitch, southwest of Minsk. Elsewhere on the Russian front the situation is unchanged.

MANY CASUALTIES.

LONDON, To-day. With the exception of the big raids on January 31st, when the casualties aggregated sixty-seven persons killed, 117 injured, the Zeppelin raids on Friday and Saturday nights caused a greater loss of life than any previous aerial attack, this year. Total casualties for two nights, according to official reports were 59 persons killed, and the wounded. A some compensation for this sacrifice of life, however, the British public finds satisfaction in practical proof of their great improvement in defensive methods dealing with aerial incursions. For the first time since the inception of this method of warfare on the British coast, not only one raiding Zeppelin being brought down and its crew taken prisoner, but official reports recount exciting aerial fights between Zeppelin and British airmen. Lieut. Brandon, who mounting to a height of 5,000 feet got over the raid and dropped several bombs on it with effect. Connection with Lieut. Brandon's exploit is unconfirmed. An interesting report from a Copenhagen Danish vessel which observed at a great distance in the North Sea what appeared to be a half submerged Zeppelin, the authorities express the hope it may prove to be the machine Lieut. Brandon bombed.

NORWEGIAN SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. Lloyd's report the Norwegian steamer Peter Hamre sunk on Saturday night while at anchor. The crew of fifteen has been landed from the Kenish Knock lightship. The Peter Hamre had a tonnage of 1,100 gross, and was 224 feet long.

TEN MINUTES TO LEAVE VESSEL.

LONDON, To-day. A Reuter despatch from Almeria says the crew of the Norwegian steamship Norme has been landed there. The Norme sinking, which has been previously reported, torpedoed

BRITISH SHIPPING TOLL FOR MARCH.

LONDON, To-day. The Board of Trade summary of casualties to British shipping, reported for March, shows nineteen steamers aggregated 44,410 tons, eight sailing vessels of 1,865 tons were sunk by enemy warships. Ten steamers of 19,927 tons were sunk by mines and one steamer of 2,131 tons was sunk either by an enemy warship or mine. Forty-three lives were lost on steamers sunk by warships, and eighty-two in steamers sunk by mines.

BRITISH EXTEND LINE.

PARIS, To-day. The British army in France, according to a semi-official communication, recently extended its front in the region of Arras so as to release French divisions for employment elsewhere. The length of the front now defended by the British is 139 kilometres. The communication adds that since March 27th active operations about Verdun has been of unchanged character. Inasmuch an offensive is now being taken by both sides, the French offensive is being directed against the German salient in Avocourt Wood and a German offensive is being directed against the French salient at Malancourt.

FORTY BOMBS DROPPED LAST NIGHT.

LONDON, To-day. The Zeppelins which attacked the east coast of Scotland last night hung over the district for forty-five minutes, during which time twenty bombs were dropped. No further details are announced. The Zeppelin which appeared over a northern county remained about five minutes, but as far as is at present ascertainable, dropped only twenty bombs over a considerable area largely agricultural.

2.00 P.M. FORMIDABLE ATTACKS ON VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day. A new phase of the battle of Verdun has begun and the belief prevails that the violence of the latest attack forebodes another attempt by the French front and German infantry has been rested and re-organized. New batteries of large calibre have been moved up closer to the front. The French counter-attack yesterday's fighting on the whole western front was not favorable to the French. It is authoritatively stated. The object of the Germans was to clear the approaches to Port Douaumont and the French positions were thrown forward on the mile and a half line between Douaumont fortress and village of Vaux. They stopped them with attacks from the Caillotte Wood. Further east they deluged the French from the last ruined houses of the village of Vaux, but the French positions were so placed as to make it practically impossible for Germans to debouch from the village, vigorous French counter-attacks drove them back to the upper fringe of Caillotte Wood. Total result of the very formidable effort they had put forth was a gain for Germans of about 500 yards of Terrain more than offset it is affirmed by very heavy attacks on the front on Friday night last. On the river, the Germans attacked Avocourt blockhouse in a no less determined manner but again met with complete failure, the observers declare.

All exports from Holland last night by the United States steamer yesterday unloaded a train filled with vegetables bound for Germany.

Keeping Promises.

By RUTH CAMERON.

What a peace-inspiring thing it is to receive a promise from some people! Your mind is set at ease on whatever subject the promise concerns. You know the as done, and you rest secure in the haven of their dependability.

But alas! there are other people whose promises give you no such feeling of security. You hope they will fulfil them but you are never surprised to be told at the eleventh hour, or, by worse chance, the thirteenth that they were not able to. Sometimes excuses and explanations are offered, sometimes even that formality is dispensed with.

My Experiences With Promises.

Once upon a time I had partial charge of keeping the headquarters of a certain society open. The days divided into sections of two hours each and various members of the society were pledged to look out for the headquarters during the hours assigned to them.

On the second day my telephone rang frantically. The woman who had promised to take the shift from twelve to two was on the telephone. It was three o'clock and her successor had not arrived, nor did she come at all. She subsequently explained that she had been called to town. She did not say that the call was extremely pressing and she had apparently made no effort to get a substitute or notify us. Yet she seemed to feel that that post-mortem explanation wiped the slate perfectly clean.

She keeps promises she's that kind. During the month that we kept our headquarters open things like that happened again and again. On the other hand, there were women who made considerable sacrifices to keep their word. What a joy it was to look at the schedule for the day and be able to say, "We needn't worry about this forenoon. Mrs. M. has it, and she will be there, or see that someone is. She's that kind."

I am a bit afraid that some of the opposite sex will read this with a curled lip and say, "Well, that's all you can expect of a woman." No, Mr. Misogynist, all you can expect of some women, and of some men, too.

He Wanted Performances Not Explanations.

A business man told me that he had dismissed a young employee who appeared to me the brightest and most promising of the half dozen in his office. I asked him why, and he said, "Because he seems to think that an explanation of why he didn't do a thing is just as good as getting it done. There are times when explanations are necessary, but I don't want too many of them. I want performances, not excuses." To enter a man's employ is to tacitly promise to do the tasks he requires. Constantly substituting excuses for performances is breaking this promise.

Beyond and above and at the heart of the world of material things is a world of ideals and intangibilities that to some is more real than the tangible actualities. In this world a respect for one's pledged word is something very precious and worth sacrificing much to keep the right to. Are you a citizen of this world?

The blue serge suit must have about its trimming a touch of color. For instance, one has buttons and trimmings of yellow cloth, while another may have bands of gray stitching and a gray silk collar.

Prejudicing Recruiting

Six Months' Sentence For Woman Anti-Conscriptionist.

Following on the seizure some weeks ago of documents by the police at the offices of the Women's Anti-Conscription League, Hogarth-buildings, Westminster, Mrs. Nellie Best, hon. secretary of the league, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Westminster under the Defence of the Realm Act for making a statement likely to prejudice recruiting in his Majesty's Army. These statements were headed: "Warning to those about to be conscripted:—How Your King and Country are Treating the Lads who Voluntarily Enlisted."

Mr. Horace Smith had to threaten Mrs. Best with a warrant before she came into court, accompanied by some friends.

It was stated that the circular in question was handed at the end of January to Mr. Robert Nield, assistant editor of the Morning Post, who sent it to Scotland Yard.

Mrs. Best, asked to plead, said that she was defended by the Lord Jesus Christ. "Who told us not to kill." She did not intend to call witnesses in the ordinary way. "I am responsible for the printing of this leaflet. I am also responsible for doing my very utmost since war broke out to prejudice recruiting, which to me is all butment into the trade of murder. I have kept a large number of lads out of the trade of murder," she added.

The magistrate's sentence was greeted with cries of "Shame!" and boing and groans from the defendant's friends.

MARCHING ON

I have read a hundred essays on the Causes of the Fight, and every country's in the wrong, and all are in the right; the bones of countless butchered men are bleaching in the light, and Death goes marching on. The war was a forced on yonder king, who couldn't dodge the scrap; and it was forced on 't'other king, who is a peaceful chap; and meanwhile every foot of Europe's soggy map, King Death is marching on. It seems a shame, when all the kings were suffering for peace, that war should spring its wrinkled front, and all its dogs release, that generals should wade around in blood and fur and grease, and Death go marching on. And still the soldiers fight and slay, their little wage to earn; and where the vine and figtree were, the lurid beacons burn; the sleepless children watch and wait for dads who won't return, and Death is marching on. It must have been spontaneous, the great and bloody game; if anyone's responsible, no man will take the blame; old Europe's littered with her dead, her blind and halt and lame, and Death goes marching on.

The Mission

AT THE CATHEDRAL.

Last night at the R. C. Cathedral the closing exercises of the Men's Mission took place. Before a packed congregation Rev. Fr. Robert preached an instructive and impressive discourse from the text "He that shall persevere to the end," etc. After the sermon the baptismal vows were renewed by members of the parish. The Papal blessing was then imparted by Fr. Robert. Benediction followed, the celebrant being Rt. Rev. Mons. McDermott, assisted by Revs. Drs. Carter and Greene. The collection taken up amounted to $1,510 against $1,277 collected from the women last week.

AT ST. PATRICK'S.

The women's mission was opened at St. Patrick's Church last evening. Rev. Fr. Columban recited the Rosary and Rev. Fr. Hubert preached.

Returning Soldiers.

His Excellency the Governor received on Saturday a telegram from Capt. Timewell, giving the names of nineteen soldiers of the Newfoundland Regiment who are being returned as medically unfit, by the Allan Liner Scandinavian, due at St. John, New Brunswick, about the end of this week. What the disablement is in each case is not known, except in that of Private Gillingham, who is suffering from a malady requiring medical treatment. Surgeon-Captain Paterson was sent out last night to St. John to take charge of this draft, and care for them on the way here. Their names are:—

167, Belbin; 1608, Pike, 1325, Stroud; 2407, Hepditch; 1370, Carey; 705, Peddel; 1207, Thistle; 678, Bastow; 1464, Gillingham; 1424, Bromsey; 910, Noseworthy; 1478, Bishop; 1056, Pelley; 732, Tibbs; 1015, Adey; 1336, Cleary; 3456, Mann; 817, Shears; 1715, Hynes.

Train Notes.

Dr. Fenwick, and the number remaining to participate was one of the largest in the history of Wesley Church.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $931,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

LONDON, April 2. (Official Press Bureau has given the following statement, dealing with the Zeppelin raid on the English coast last Friday night: Total casualties reported by the Zeppelin raid on the night of March 31st to April 1st amounts to 53 killed and 66 injured. Nearly two hundred explosive incendiary bombs were dropped. Baptist Chapel, three dwellings, and two cottages were destroyed. The town hall, four dwellings, thirty-five cottages and a tram shed were partially wrecked. There was no military damage. A number of aeroplanes went up to attack raiders. Lieut. Brandon, R.N., flying to six thousand feet, saw a Zeppelin about three thousand feet high. At nine thousand feet he over it and attacked, dropping incendiary bombs, three of which hit the Zeppelin. Later he got a Zeppelin again and let off two bombs over her nose. His machine was hit many times by incendiary bullets. This may have been a Zeppelin which dropped a gun, ammunition and petrol into the chimney, possibly by mistake, down off the Thames.

At nine thousand feet he got over it and attacked, dropping several bombs, three of which he believes took effect. Later he got over the airship again and let off two more bombs over her nose. His own machine was hit many times by machine gun bullets. This may have been the Zeppelin which dropped a machine gun, ammunition and petrol tank machinery, or possibly which came down off the Thames.

Bismark

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash." In April, 1815, Bismark, whose first name is unimportant, was born in Prussia. His birthday, April 1, is regarded with great reverence in Germany, but is not celebrated in France, Austria or England.

Bismark was the son of wealthy parents, but he soon overcame this hardship and rose to a great distinction in his student corps and carved his monogram on the faces of a large number of opponents. He studied law, soldiery, and farming, and finally entered the Prussian Diet, which at that time consisted mostly of milk and water. This did not satisfy Bismark and he proposed in a memorable speech to administer a tonic of blood and iron. Son afterward he became a chancellor and started to change the diet.

At this time Germany consisted of a large number of states who fought among each other like a grand opera troupe. Bismark proposed to unite them by picking out some easy country to lick, and then working up by degrees to a real fight. He chose Denmark first, and put a tin ear on Copenhagen. A few years later he jumped on Austria, which at that time was the leading White Man's hope, and filled the Austrian newspapers so full of obituaries that they had to crowd out pure advertising matter. Then Bismark put a chip on his shoulder and paraded around in front of France, until Napoleon III. knocked it off. The result has been carefully recorded in history. Bismark put France through the ropes in three rounds, paraded through Paris, wiped his boots on the Champs d' Elysees and carved streaks of the flank of the suffering country by annexing Alsace and Lorraine. By this time all the German states had climbed into the Prussian hand-wagon and the German empire was doing a rushing business.

Bismark continued to superintend the country for many years, being finally ejected from the driver's seat by young Wilhelm II., the Roosevelt of Germany. He then retired to his estate and died full of years and honors in 1898. He was a thick, heavy man with a copious neck, a stern, forbidding forehead, eyebrows like hedge fences and an impassable mustache. His mission in life was to prop up wobbly and inefficient royalty and he did it so well that he will always be known as the foster father of Germany.

"GOOD CLOTHES."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." New good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.
