For the information of persons belonging to Newfoundland who propose to go to the United States of America, notice is hereby given that the Immigration Laws of the United States, which came into effect on the first May last, provide—

1. That all aliens entering the United States shall pay a tax of $8, but children under sixteen years of age, accompanying their father or their mother, shall not be subject to such tax. In the case of persons not remaining sixty days in the United States, the said tax will be returned upon their leaving the country.
2. All aliens over sixteen years of age, who cannot read the English language, or some other language, will not be permitted to enter.
3. Amongst other classes of aliens not admitted into the United States are the following:—Idiots, insane, epileptic, paupers, those physically defective and children under sixteen who are unaccompanied.

Cases have been brought to the notice of the Government where Newfoundlanders for one or other of the above reasons have been refused admission to the United States and much disappointment and inconvenience, as well as expense, has been the result.

Baseball seems puzzle me greatly. I lately "inside" baseball. "Could you kindly let me know what this means?" I ask you. A.K. Inside baseball is loose genera; name applied to those minute but all-important details of the game which so frequently determine the tide of victory or defeat. "Inside" is used in the sense that the things are generally "over the hills" of a audience and are known generally only to the elect masters, like McGraw, Hartnett, Clouder and I.

RED HOODED BASEBALL.

Kicking, bowling, vociferous objections to the umpire's verdicts, and a team wearing full of pep are the ways to a team grabbing. Not that they play for senseless kicking could be encouraged—no, indeed, but a healthy holler, a loud protesting squaw, and a red hot argument, mean something—something more than the mere noise, uproar and outlandish howl of the indignant arbiter. It means that the player is playing baseball. That's what it means, and when you see you are protesting earnestly protesting your rights your supporters will be right there back you up in your endeavours, don't you see any half-baked claims on the roster? I want men full of red blood, I mean who look for their rights and for the rights of their club." John J. McGraw, Manager New York Giants.

Address of His Grace Archbishop Roche To St Bon's Alumni.

In his opening remarks His Grace said that the paper which he would read for them would consist merely of some reflections—suggested by the great events transpiring in the world to-day. Speaking at the present time one could hardly deal with any subject that did not directly or indirectly concern the present great crisis in the world's history. He said advisedly the present great crisis in the world's history, because surely the events of the last three years and the problematical and uncertain issues which the next few years would bring forth could not be otherwise regarded than as constituting one of the greatest crises in the history of mankind. At the present time we were not in a position to realize the magnitude of this great world catastrophe. We were as yet within its shadow and we could not view it from that perspective of distance which alone would enable us to realize its vast proportions. Only the future historian would be able to appraise the great war at its proper value, and to appreciate its magnitude in the annals of humanity and the history of mankind. Naturally, everyone was disposed to view the war, its issues, its consequences and its effects from his own standpoint. The statesman, the philosopher, the politician, the political economist, the historian and the scientist, all viewed the war from a different angle, and the Churchman, the moralist, naturally viewed it from the standpoint of Christianity, from the viewpoint of the Church. The object of the brief paper which he proposed to read would be to present in a passing way some aspects of the relationship of the Church to the grave problems to which the war had given rise, and which would be still more strongly in evidence when the world struggle came to a conclusion.

His Grace then went on to say that a spirit of widespread unrest was abroad in the world to-day. The world war which began nearly three years ago, had brought about cataclysmic conditions the world over. The spirit of unrest prevailed all sections of society. The Scriptural passages which commentators interpreted as referring to the events preceding the Last Day might be well applied to the time in which we were living. There were wars and rumours of wars, and on the earth distress of nations, men withdrawing away with fear and expectation of the things that would come upon the world. We were witnessing the making of history at a more rapid pace than history had ever been made in the past. The making of history could now be measured by months and years which before could be measured by generations and centuries; and there could be no doubt that history would be made still more rapidly in the years immediately before us.

His Grace then quoted the words of an American writer who made these pointed comments on the world's situation to-day: "We stand agape at the world as we see it to-day, at the world both Old and New. We are spectators of history at the making. We are witnessing a set-back of European civilization, putting where it was two thousand years ago. We have witnessed in Europe the violence of every law, natural, national, human and divine. We have seen the most solemn pledges disregarded, treaties considered as scraps of paper, and alliances mere vantage points to secure other thirty pieces of silver. Observers and thinkers are asking when will the Bible, the Magna Charta and the Declaration of Independence reach the scrap basket as worthless and unneeded. If we bring our thoughts nearer home they are focussed on a nation drifting from its God, on a land of empty Churches, on a Christian nation whose schools are religionless and whose homes are at the mercy of the divorce courts."

Everywhere throughout the world there were evidences of the growth of the Democratic spirit. The evils of Autocracy were bidding fair to give place to the greater evils of an unrestrained Democracy. The pendulum in Russia had swung from the serfdom of the old regime to what would seem to be the unbridled license of Democracy. It need hardly be said that labour unrest had been very much in evidence since the war began. Some of the greatest difficulties that had to be contended with in all the belligerent countries in the prosecution of the war had arisen from unrest and discontent amongst working men. All these things, His Grace said, went to show that great democratic and social questions were being forced by the logic of circumstances into the foreground to-day. Amongst the after war problems and they would be many and serious, none would be more difficult of solution than those that would arise directly from the spirit of Democracy

lem. The Church stood and always has stood for the principle of the living wage dictated by justice and charity. Her whole doctrinal teaching warned the employer to regard his workers not as mere machines capable of producing so much output, but as brethren with immortal souls like himself and destined for an immortal end. So also the Church warned the worker that he must give conscientious labour for fair wages. To the employer she preached fair treatment and more justice and charity. To the labourer she addressed an admonition against the spirit which demanded the most for the least he was capable of giving. To the employer she intimated that not greed of gain, but justice and charity, should be the motive power behind his conduct, and to the workman she equally forbade greed, and commanded a conscientious discharge of his obligations. Her one intention was to Christianize the relationship between capital and labour, and to make each regard the other not as foes but as Christian allies. The social problem, he said, must be settled on that basis or it would never be settled at all.

Concluding, His Grace remarked that dark and gloomy indeed from every standpoint was the outlook in the world to-day. No one could foretell what the immediate future would bring. Volumes had been written upon the war and its after problems. The moral issues to which it would give rise, the economic consequences following from it, the general social dislocation which would result, all these had formed the theme of interested speculation for writers and thinkers. One could not take up a magazine without meeting an essay or an article on some of these various war issues, and learned writers differed so widely as the poles in their views as to the conditions that would obtain when the war is over. But surrounded as we were by the mists and the fogs of doubt, despondency and despair, we had confidence, His Grace said, in the genius of Christianity and in the great moral power and influence of the Church to triumph over the difficulties, however apparently insuperable, of the future. We placed our faith in the great eternal principles for which the Church stood. We believed that their widespread application would aid materially in the social, economic and moral reconstruction that must follow the conclusion of the war. The world at the present time was dulled and deadened, the whole world seemed to have been dazed and stunned as though by the impact of war. The world seemed to have sounded the lowest depths of materialism. It would appear as though we were in danger of reverting into the decay and barbarism that followed the disappearance of the civilization of Babylon and Rome. In the religion of Christ, however, we had the secret of the perpetual rejuvenation and protection of society. Christianity was the great conservative force in society to-day, and we looked to the constructive force of the Christian religion to aid in the solution of afterwar problems. From the present social and moral conditions we believed that there would be a reaction. We hoped and believed that out of evil good would come, and that after the mad orgy of war through which the world is going at the present time, a period of calm reason would ensue, that spiritual values would again be revered and cherished, that a higher moral sense both in nations and in individuals would result; and in bringing about all these things, we believed in the ability of the Church, with its widespread spiritual influence throughout the world, to aid materially in solving the problems of the present and the future.

A Logical Purchase

A better motor car for less money. Willys-Overland success means just that to you. For years the Overland product has outsold all motor cars in its class.

This year, through an achievement new to the motor-car industry, the company has applied the economies of vast production to the most comprehensive range of models ever built by any one motor car manufacturer.

All the general expense heretofore charged to a single class of motor cars has been distributed over several groups, including not only low-priced cars but cars in the high-priced class as well.

You will find in the Willys-Overland group motor cars in high-priced class selling for a moderate price.

Or we can offer you the dominant value in lower priced motor cars of quality that are exactly adapted to your every need or pleasure.

In every class these motor cars represent such remarkable value that every consideration of pride, economy, safety and enjoyment must urge you to consider the Willys-Overland group first.

Tell us what kind and class of motor car you want. Let us help you solve your personal motor car problems as thousands of others are solving theirs—permanently.

We will gladly arrange for a practical demonstration.

Obituary.

MISS ELIZABETH GUINNEY.

We may well imagine the sorrow which enshrouded the Guinney household like a gloomy pall, when Lizzie, the loved daughter of John and Ann Guinney, died on Wednesday morning. The deceased had been ailing for more than twelve months, yet she bore the illness with exemplary patience, and despite the unremitting care of her parents, and all that medical science and skill could do, she passed to her eternal reward on July 11th, at the early age of 21 years. When it became evident that the innocent young life was fast slipping to a close, the last sacraments were duly administered as a Viaticum on the last journey, and to be an angel of the Covenant and a pillar of light to guide the soul to that unknown country, from whose bourne no traveller ever returns. Modesty, simplicity and sweetness, these were the charming qualities which endeared her to all with whom she came in contact, and will be always cherished sacredly in the garden of hallowed memories. We extend sincere sympathy to the father, mother and three brothers, whom she leaves to mourn. A void has been made in their home and in their hearts, which only Christian faith and hope can fill, but the souvenir of the dead girl's piety, affection and love must ever remain as a sweet consolation when time has softened grief and has dried tears.

A FRIEND.
St. John's, July 14, 1917.

Fortune for old Eooks.

An Eightpenny Book Sold for £1475.

There must be some chuckling going on behind the scenes if the spirits of the departed genius which once inhabited the vale of tears know what goes on in their former sphere. William Blake, for instance, must have almost died again with laughing when he saw his "Marriage of Heaven and Hell," a book which nobody cared to touch for when he lived, sold for £700 a hundred years after he penned it, and that but one poor copy! Then his "Milton" actually fetched £1,800, whereas when he finished it on his death-bed he was in receipt of 18s. a week, the remuneration for cleaning out pigsties.

Robert Burns died in misery and poverty, although his countrymen gave him a fine funeral and revere his memory. He never made a living by his art. He wrote immortal songs for "a song" as far as payment was concerned. Masterpieces which are immortal went for a few shillings. "Scots Wha Hae" and "Auld Water" and "John Anderson, My Jo" probably fetched less than a guinea between them, yet a copy of the Kilmarnock Edition of his poems brought £1,800 in New York lately, more money for a few score brown pages of print than Burns handled in the whole course of his earthly life.

But not only is the product of a poet's genius of increasing value as the years go on, but the simplest things he used, Burns's desk, a shabby old mahogany piece of furniture that any second-hand dealer would have sniffed at, sold lately for £600, and a common Scotch pebble engraved with the poet's arms, invented by himself, fetched £210.

One can imagine the sardonic smile of Emily Bronte, in the Shades, when the tidings came through by spiritual wireless, that five little unpublished poems of hers had sold for £25. For when the three sisters committed the rash act of printing a volume of poems

A Fulfilled Prophecy.

Mr. Sidney Valentine, the popular actor, told me a good story recently of the days when he was rehearsing in King Arthur, a play that was heralded by a big flourish of trumpets, but which turned out nevertheless a complete failure.

Irving was producing the play, the special music had been written by Sir Arthur Sullivan, and Sir Edward Burne-Jones was responsible for the scenery and the costumes.

One day Mr. Valentine chanced to be standing at the stage-door, when out came a disappointed suitor.

"For a moment he stood gazing at the playbill, and then muttered: 'Sir 'Emy Irvin! Sir Arthur Sullivan! and Sir Edward Burne-Jones! Three bloomin' knights!—and that's about what I give it.' — Pearson's Weekly.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE.

"Should a married woman have her own Christian name on her visiting cards? Should she use her husband's title?" asked Mrs. Newleywood.

"It is customary for a married woman to have her husband's entire name after the prefix 'Mrs.' She should never use her husband's title," said her older sister.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill. — "While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. Sheldon, 5567 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, but with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

L. O. A. Church Parade.

The members of the L. O. A. in the city attended Divine service at St. Mary's Church, South Side, yesterday afternoon. The members assembled at Victoria Hall shortly after 2 o'clock and headed by the S. B. band marched in processional order to the church. The service was conducted by Rev. H. Uphill, who also preached an eloquent and inspiring address, taking his text from 1 Kings, 19, 11-12 (ancient version). On returning to their Lodge room hearty votes of thanks were accorded the Rector, the church officials and organist.

In Germany.

The world has moved on a step in the world drama, Germany's step in the German tragedy. We are not permitted to see all the little wheels in her political machinery and would hardly understand them if we were, but it is easy to comprehend the broad aspects of what has happened. The whole sequence of events has been continuous and logical. Two months ago such part of Russia as was articulated, speaking not altogether falsely for the chance of a general peace. Automatic Germany blundered, as it always does. It replied by offering a separate peace, scarcely striving to conceal the obvious advantage it hoped to acquire for itself from Russia's acceptance or continued hesitation. Russia became first alarmed and later thoroughly awake. The mailed fist smacked just a little too plainly underneath the velvet glove. After some indirect parleying, she gave over the useless endeavour and set out on the only road which can lead to the peace she desires. She is marching along it now, and Lemberg is on the way.

The first smashing blow of Brussels' armies started the revolution in Germany and Austria which will continue until its object is achieved. The plain failure of the management of the "Russian situation" effected an alliance of the great centre party in Germany with the Social Democrats against the Prussians and pan-Germans. The issue is really joined at last between the Germanic peoples and their rulers. It has found its first expression in the demand for electoral reform and an open statement of peace terms, because those constitutions are absolutely necessary if peace is to come at all through negotiation with the Allies and not at their dictation after smug defeat. It has achieved its first effect in the fall of Bethmann Hollweg. On the surface the removal of the Chancellor may look like a victory for the pan-Germans; in reality it is a severe defeat. He was possibly the only man in Germany who could have held the dissolving elements together, at least until the necessary credit vote had been passed. He stood out last week flatly against the no-war policy. He quickly changed his stand. By a mere juggling of words he had almost reconciled the inconsistent aims of both sides when heaven we thanked the Crown Prince, whom we verily believe to be heaven's instrument for the undoing of Prussia, intervened. He would have no compromise with anything moderate. The Chancellor saw the utter impossibility of his position and relinquished it. His successor, George Michaelis, is a Prussian and doubtless the Kaiser's nominee and no more. He is the merest figure in the struggle and will probably soon be swept out of it. Thus Bethmann's disappearance simply brings the two parties into sharper distinction and conflict. Both cannot survive until peace and we know which will have to go. The war cannot end without the overthrow of the Hohenzollerns and it is hard to see how that can be brought about save from within. Prussia is already aligned against Austria; she may soon be opposed also by Bavaria. Sooner or later the clash must come. For the present it is heartening to the Allies to see it coming and to realize that it is the direct outcome of Russia's return. Whatever be the event in Germany, to us her present difficulties are the promise and harbinger of victory.

MONDAY, July 16, '17.
Some sufferers from dyspepsia give Pape's Diapepsin their plaudits and say these little triangles are "the best ever" for stomach troubles. They seem to do their best work when there is sour stomach, gas, waterbrash, or other evidences of fermentation in the stomach, and in many such cases give ready relief. They also help the appetite. Price 60c. a pkg.
Cream of Roses and Witch Hazel is one among many preparations to be used as emollients in sunburn and summer skin troubles. Some people say it is one of the best. Where there is profuse perspiration of face, neck and hands it is certainly worth trying. Price 25c. a bottle.

AT THE CRESCENT.
Madame Timmins sings a very pretty ballad, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. Richard C. Travers and Warda Howard are presented in "The Night of Souls," a very strong supernatural feature, in three reels, produced by the Essanay Co. The winsome Mary Pickford features in "My Baby," a special Biograph Pickford subject, and the great comedy team, Bud Duncan and Ethel Tearse in "Doctor Brown," a rich Kalem comedy classy show. Don't miss seeing this great feature to-day.

Cox's Grocery Store Destroyed by Fire.

At 12.45 a.m. yesterday the Central and West End fire companies responded to an alarm sent in at the corner of Water Street and Adelaide Street, and on reaching the scene discovered volumes of smoke pouring from the grocery store of Mr. Z. Cox on Water Street. Before the fire fighters could get in their work the lower and upper flats were a seething mass of flames. After the fire had been controlled somewhat at the front, the flames burst through the back roof. A hose was brought to the rear through Strang's store, next door, and even then there was some difficulty in getting at the flames, so congested is the place. However after 65 minutes hard fighting the "all-out" signal was rung in at 1.50 a.m. Mrs. Strang's store is slightly damaged by smoke and water, as is also Templeton's dry goods store. Mr. Cox's large and varied stock of groceries and provisions was destroyed and the building badly gutted. We understand the store and stock were partly covered by insurance. The night picket at Headquarters, consisting of twenty men, in charge of Lieut. Smith, turned out and assisted the firemen in quenching the blaze. Mr. Cox didn't leave his store until about 11 o'clock on Saturday night and reports everything as usual when leaving.

Cemetery Anniversary

The anniversary Requiem Mass was celebrated at Mount Carmel Cemetery yesterday. The weather was charming and a multitude of people attended. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Kitchin, who also delivered an eloquent and touching sermon from the Gospel of the day, during which he referred to "Our Boys" who were fighting nobly and righteously at the front in defence of the Empire. He intimated that when peace should be proclaimed, it was the intention to erect a monument in the Cemetery for those who had sacrificed their lives for us and on which would be inscribed the names of the deceased heroes. He exhorted the large congregation to always remember in their prayers the members of the 8th Regiment and their memories should ever be cherished. After Mass Dr. Kitchin and the Cemetery Committee were hospitably entertained at the residence of Mrs. James Kenna, nearby.

His Grace the Archbishop at Flatrock.

Yesterday morning the settlement of Flatrock, St. John's East, was on foot—the occasion being a visit from His Grace Archbishop Roche for the purpose of blessing and re-opening the church after extensive improvements and renovation, and also to bless and erect new Stations of the Cross. The morning was ideally fine—the sun shone out brightly giving the final touch to the elaborate preparation which the willing hands and hearts of the people of Flatrock had wrought. At either end of the settlement very beautiful arches were erected bearing words of joyous welcome to His Grace and breathing the sincere wishes of honest hearts for his welfare. Adjacent to the church three splendid arches, which displayed both skill and taste, had also been built, upon one of which a photograph of His Grace, surrounded by his coat of arms, and bearing appropriate mottoes, was prominently displayed. Bunting in great quantity flew gaily in the breeze and radiated a spirit of enthusiasm and gladness upon all sides. At eleven o'clock the Archbishop, accompanied by the Rev. Mgr. McDermott, V.G., arrived, being greeted with volley after volley of musketry and hearty enthusiastic cheers of the large assemblage.

Mass was celebrated just after 11 o'clock by the Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan, S.P., in presence of His Grace and Mgr. McDermott. At the conclusion of Mass the Stations of the Cross which are very beautiful were blessed and erected by the Archbishop. The latter ceremony over, the congregation which was very large, many being unable to gain admittance to the church, re-assembled outside the church where two addresses of welcome—one from the people of Flatrock and the other from the school children were read to His Grace—addresses which breathed the deep affection and sterling loyalty of a devoted people for and to a devoted Archbishop and father. To the addresses the Archbishop replying in eloquent and chaste language, thanked the good people of Flatrock for the magnificent welcome they had so cordially extended to him. He spoke of it being his first official visit to Flatrock since the formation of the new parish of Flatrock and Pouch Cove, and dwelt at length upon the progress that had been made in the settlement, laying emphasis upon two facts—the splendid generosity of the people and their whole-hearted cooperation with the good pastor, the outcome of which was the many and beautiful improvements that had been accomplished in and about their church and the rest—a church of which they might all be justifiably proud. His Grace also made reference to the new school which is being erected in the settlement, and said next to importance to a church in a parish is the school, where all that makes for good citizenship and honor and noble members in society, and fidelity to principle are taught and learnt—where in a word character is moulded and the future of the individual fashioned. Hence he was glad to perceive this progress in school matters. Referring to the presence of so many young men in Flatrock His Grace made a very fine appeal to them to remain at home and thereby assist in building up their native land instead of going abroad to assist in the upbuilding of other lands, remarking that the same display of industry and effort at home, as they had put forth on other shores would bring them more happiness and peace (as nowhere was there a happier land than this Newfoundland ours), than they would find elsewhere. Archbishop Roche referred to the evident signs of prosperity on all sides and remarked that it was practically certain, judging by what he witnessed to-day, that spiritual prosperity went hand in hand with the material prosperity—paying a grateful tribute to the strong faith and deeply rooted piety of the people and the zeal and energy of the pastor. Concluding his beautiful address His Grace explained the devotion of the Stations of the Cross—that it was a touching reminder of the passion and death of our Lord, and was practised chiefly in the holy season of Lent and upon all Fridays, also as a devotion instituted by the individual. The instruction was simple, yet touching and very beautiful and the great concourse of people were visibly moved. Archbishop Roche then imparted his blessing to all assembled, and the picture presented as he did so was one to be long remembered—the multitude kneeling on the ground with bowed heads, the upraised hand of His Grace imparting his blessing, with the glorious sunshine flooding its brilliance everywhere—this picture will long live in the memories of all fortunate in being present.

In the course of his remarks His Grace incidentally said that a very pleasing feature of all he had seen in improvement was that there was no debt upon the parish—a fact conveyed to him by the pastor. Before leaving Flatrock His Grace motored through the settlement, and on all sides was cheered to the echo. Leaving Flatrock the Archbishop, accompanied by Mgr. McDermott and Father O'Callaghan motored to Pouch Cove, where another hearty welcome awaited him, and at the Presbytery luncheon was partaken of. Later in the evening His Grace returned to St. John's in company with the Rev. Mgr. McDermott and Fr. O'Callaghan. Thus ended a very happy and pleasant day. Flatrock's red letter day—a day marked by the splendid loyalty of devoted hearts to the exalted office and dignity of the Archbishop, and (not in lesser degree) to His Grace himself.

Amongst those present were a large number of Christian Brothers and prominent citizens from St. John's.

BIG LINER A SHORE ON MISTAKEN POINT

Norwegian - American Liner Kristianiafjord, 10,669 Tons, Strikes the Rocks in Dense Fog -- Will Probably Become a Total Wreck -- Passengers and Crew Safely Landed and Brought to St. John's--No Lives Lost.

Mistaken Point, Trepassey Bay, historically known as the "graveyard of the Atlantic," is again the scene of another big wreck, the ten thousand ton Norwegian Liner Kristianiafjord having gone ashore there yesterday morning during a dense fog. The probabilities are that she will become a total wreck. The ship, which was in command of a Norwegian Naval Captain, was bound from New York to Bergen, Norway, and thence to Christiania, the capital. She had a general cargo and on board all told were 1,117 passengers and crew numbered 276, and the passengers 841, including men, women and children, but principally the former. The passenger list was a very composite one, including representatives of every nationality in the world, excepting those allied with the enemy countries, but mostly comprised of Russians, Norwegians and Swedes. There was, however, one German on board, a first class passenger, named Schannau. He was a former member of the German Embassy at Washington. His passport was O.K'd and he was allowed to proceed to Germany. The Kristianiafjord left the American port on Saturday, July 7th, and after a fine run reached Halifax two days later, where she remained four days and underwent a thorough examination. All the ship's documents as well as those of the passengers and crew were closely scrutinized. After leaving there on Friday last, the 13th instant, the weather was hazy and overcast. On Saturday it was very foggy. Gradually it grew thicker until the forecastle head was not discernible from the bridge. The steamer was going slowly, only at quarter speed, when she struck the land at the place mentioned at 4:30 a.m. yesterday. Immediately the "S.O.S." call was sent out and two steamers in the vicinity of Cape Race at the time responded hurriedly. The S.S. Sable Island, which was bound here from a Nova Scotia port, picked up the wireless and sent back a reply to the Norwegian that she was coming to their assistance. The Sable I. was then 15 miles east of Cape Race and Capt. Murley informed that the fog was as thick as mud. He reached the scene of the wreck at 2 p.m. or nine hours and a half after receiving the call. Capt. Murley then learned that the Canadian Government steamer Stanley had been there and left. All the passengers had been safely landed in lifeboats at Bob's Cove, a half mile away, about an hour after the Norwegian went ashore. The crew were still standing in an apparently hopeless condition. She was lying on the rocks parallel to the shore, perfectly upright. The ship's bottom must have been badly ripped as every hold was full of water, though the engine room was tenable. The Sable I. walked and took on board 97 men, women and children, who were taken from their place of refuge in boats. This task was accomplished without difficulty, as the sea was fortunately calm. The Sable I. then proceeded to St. John's getting here at 7:30 this morning.

ARRIVAL AND QUARTERING OF SURVIVORS. Immediately on arrival the refugees were given quarters at the King George Fifth Seamen's Institute with the officials of which arrangements had been effected by the Government, acting on behalf of Mr. Tasker Cook, Norwegian Consul, who is at the scene of the wreck, for the housing of the strangers. In almost incredibly quick time, Mrs. Jones and her energetic assistants at the Institute had a sumptuous meal prepared for the 97 survivors, who were soon made happy and comfortable. Within two hours after notice had been given, the employees of the Reid Nfd. Co. had a train consisting of twelve cars, including a diner to which were attached engines No. 105 and 117 all ready to proceed to the scene of the wreck. Leaving the station at 2:30 the train reached the end of the line at 7 p.m. Preparations were made to serve hot drinks and light lunches to the survivors, six hundred and nineteen of whom boarded the train. Four of the regular stewards, under the direction of Mr. Moore, did everything possible for the comfort of the passengers, special attention being given to the women and children. Shortly after midnight the train was on her way back to the city, and before arriving breakfast was served the passengers. At Petty Hr. the train was delayed for some time while the passengers were separated in their different classes, 1st, 2nd and 3rd. Reaching the city the survivors were marched into the waiting room at the station, where they were examined by Dr. Campbell, Port Officer. From there the women accompanied by their husbands and children, were placed in cabs and driven to the Institute while the men passengers travelling third class were formed up four deep in the square in front of the station and marched to the Prince's Rink, from where they were distributed at different places throughout the city. The second class passengers who arrived by train were put on board a big ship now in port, where they will remain temporarily until further arrangements are completed.

Milady's Boudoir. Faded hair not incurable. When the color of the hair becomes so faded as to cause anxiety the sufferer may be quite sure that the nervous system is not in the best order, and so seek first of all for the internal tonics and improved habits of life which will build up the body. Sulphur and iron taken internally, anointing the scalp at the same time with yolk of egg. Is a treatment indorsed by good physicians for restoring faded hair to its natural color, as these supply the minerals upon which the coloring matter of the hair is supposed to depend. The following solution of iron, applied externally, is also advised by authoritative persons for the same causes: Citrate of Iron, 2 drams; mix with 2 ounces of water. This is especially good for dark hair, as the iron produces a delicate stain. The scalp and hair must be moistened with the lotion about twice a week. Regarding simple dressings for the hair, something that will give high gloss fashion now demands for the well-dressed head, the simpler the mediums used the better, as all hair dressing tend to clog the scalp after awhile. A dressing which will give the hair a look of richness and besides, increases its growth, is made of two ounces of eau de cologne, and two ounces of pure castor oil. If the cologne is made of pure spirit it will dissolve the oil completely, leaving a lotion clear and sweet; so it is necessary to get the purest German cologne the market affords as the cheaper ones are worthless for the purpose, only the best thing blending with the oil.

The fighting resulting in the capture of Kalusz subjected the revolutionary army to the severest test, according to the Ruskly Slavo, which says that Russian cavalry entered the town at noon on Wednesday and found it abandoned by the garrison. The Russians were soon attacked, however, by fresh enemy forces which were rushed from the fortress after a stiff fight. The Russians were compelled to fall back; reinforced they returned and drove the Germans out at 2 p.m. The Germans, supported by an armoured train, counter attacked and again occupied Kalusz, but they were once more expelled with heavy losses. The armoured train was used to support the bayonet, ensued until six o'clock p.m. The Germans, says this paper, used explosive bullets with machine guns. The Russians took a few prisoners; in some houses German gunners were found chained to guns.

OUR MONTREAL PRO-GERMANS. MONTREAL, To-day. Lt.-Col. I. P. Rexford, formerly the officer commanding the 87th Guards Overseas Battalion and a soldier of a Highland reinforcing company, narrowly escaped maltreatment at the hands of a mob of about 5,000 persons on Fletcher's Field yesterday afternoon when during the progress of an anti-conscription meeting called by Mayor Mordere Martin, M.P., Col. Rexford shouted a contradiction of a statement made by Alphonse Verville, Liberal Member of Parliament. The meeting was well attended, there being about 15,000 persons packed around the speakers' platform when the speeches were at their height. The principal speakers were Mayor Martin and Mr. Verville. Letters regretting inability to be present were received from Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Pugsley, M.P., E. M. McDonald, M.P., J. H. Rainville, M.P., and Hon. Chas. Murphy, M.P. The exciting climax to the meeting came when Verville was denouncing the Government's sponsorship of the Military Service Bill. Mr. Verville, speaking in French, declared that there are many Canadian soldiers in England who are kept there to prevent their physical condition becoming known to the people of Canada. "It is not so," Col. Rexford shouted in English. Immediately the crowd broke up, although only a comparatively small number could have heard the denunciation. The principal speaker who dashed towards the Highlander as the most conspicuous target. Col. Rexford was in mutli. When the crowd realized that Col. Rexford had made the remark, both he and a soldier were hustled under escort of Mayor Martin and the police, who ordered them to leave the vicinity for their own safety. The two boarded a street car. About 5,000 persons followed them to the car lines and when they had boarded the car stones were thrown and the car windows broken.

Rexford, formerly the officer commanding the 87th Guards Overseas Battalion and a soldier of a Highland reinforcing company, narrowly escaped maltreatment at the hands of a mob of about 5,000 persons on Fletcher's Field yesterday afternoon when during the progress of an anti-conscription meeting called by Mayor Mordere Martin, M.P., Col. Rexford shouted a contradiction of a statement made by Alphonse Verville, Liberal Member of Parliament. The meeting was well attended, there being about 15,000 persons packed around the speakers' platform when the speeches were at their height. The principal speakers were Mayor Martin and Mr. Verville. Letters regretting inability to be present were received from Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Pugsley, M.P., E. M. McDonald, M.P., J. H. Rainville, M.P., and Hon. Chas. Murphy, M.P. The exciting climax to the meeting came when Verville was denouncing the Government's sponsorship of the Military Service Bill. Mr. Verville, speaking in French, declared that there are many Canadian soldiers in England who are kept there to prevent their physical condition becoming known to the people of Canada. "It is not so," Col. Rexford shouted in English. Immediately the crowd broke up, although only a comparatively small number could have heard the denunciation. The principal speaker who dashed towards the Highlander as the most conspicuous target. Col. Rexford was in mutli. When the crowd realized that Col. Rexford had made the remark, both he and a soldier were hustled under escort of Mayor Martin and the police, who ordered them to leave the vicinity for their own safety. The two boarded a street car. About 5,000 persons followed them to the car lines and when they had boarded the car stones were thrown and the car windows broken.

THE POSITION OF FINLAND. PETROGRAD, To-day. A semi-official News Agency to-day received and made public the following telegram from Helsinki, Finland: Confidence was expressed here to-day that a compromise would be reached on Monday which will satisfy Finnish demands without revolutionary acts or a declaration of Finnish independence. The Ukrainian National Assembly does not desire the separation of the Ukraine from Russia according to official word received here to-day. It was brought by Nekrasoff, Minister of Ways and Communications, who has just returned from Kiev.

DIED. On the 15th July, at Freshwater, Ferryland District, after a tedious illness, Elizabeth (Lizzie), youngest daughter of John and Ann Guiney, aged 21 years, leaving to mourn their sad loss a father, mother, sister and three brothers.—R. I. P.

This morning, at 2 o'clock, after a severe illness of three months, (rheumatic fever), Frederick Roy, son of I. C. and Rachel Morris, aged 10 years. Funeral on to-morrow, Tuesday, at 2:30, from 26 Freshwater Road. "One loss on earth, one more in Heaven."

This morning at 7 o'clock there passed peacefully away after a tedious illness of meningitis, Louise (Lulu) Driscoll, eldest daughter of Caleb and Jean Driscoll, aged 15 years and 10 months; funeral takes place on Wednesday, July 18th, 1917, at 2:30 p.m. "Safe in the arms of Jesus."

Reichstag, reads as follows: As on August 1914, so the threshold of the fourth year of war the German people stands upon the assurance of speech from the throne that we are driven by no lust of conquest. Germany took up arms in defence of its liberty and independence and for the integrity of its territories. The Reichstag rejects all plans at an economic blockade and the stirring up of enmity among the people after the war. The freedom of the seas must be assured. Only an economic peace can prepare the ground for the friendly association of the peoples. The Reichstag will energetically promote the creation of International Judicial Organisations. So long, however, as the enemy Governments do not accept such a peace, so long as they threaten Germany and her allies with conquest and violation of the German people's rights, together as one man, hold out unshakable and fight until the rights of itself and its Allies to life and development are secured. The German nation united is unconquerable. The Reichstag knows that in this announcement it is as one with the men who are defending the Fatherland in the heroic struggles they are sure of the underlying thanks of the whole people."

MAKING HIS DEBUT. COPENHAGEN, To-day. Dr. George Michaels, the new Chancellor of the Reichstag on Thursday, the address is expected to contain an announcement of his forthcoming programme.

HELPED BY GERMAN. TIEN TSIN, To-day. Republican headquarters here has issued a statement in which it is declared that Chang Hsun will stand by interned Germans in defending his residence and that those Germans escorted him to the Legation quarter barracks. Apparently the majority of the fire from Chang Hsun's forces caused suspicion that he had expert foreign assistance.

CHANG HSIEN'S POSITION. LONDON, To-day. According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Tien Tsin diplomats in Peking met secretly to discuss the extraordinary transfer of General Chang Hsun from the Dutch Legation where he had taken refuge during the fight between Republican and Imperialist troops last Thursday to the German barracks. Apparently the majority of the diplomats think that Chang Hsun, by refusing mediation and thus causing loss of life, forfeited the rights of ordinary political offenders.

Faded hair not incurable.

Faded hair not incurable.

When the color of the hair becomes so faded as to cause anxiety the sufferer may be quite sure that the nervous system is not in the best order, and so seek first of all for the internal tonics and improved habits of life which will build up the body. Sulphur and iron taken internally, anointing the scalp at the same time with yolk of egg. Is a treatment indorsed by good physicians for restoring faded hair to its natural color, as these supply the minerals upon which the coloring matter of the hair is supposed to depend. The following solution of iron, applied externally, is also advised by authoritative persons for the same causes: Citrate of Iron, 2 drams; mix with 2 ounces of water. This is especially good for dark hair, as the iron produces a delicate stain. The scalp and hair must be moistened with the lotion about twice a week. Regarding simple dressings for the hair, something that will give high gloss fashion now demands for the well-dressed head, the simpler the mediums used the better, as all hair dressing tend to clog the scalp after awhile. A dressing which will give the hair a look of richness and besides, increases its growth, is made of two ounces of eau de cologne, and two ounces of pure castor oil. If the cologne is made of pure spirit it will dissolve the oil completely, leaving a lotion clear and sweet; so it is necessary to get the purest German cologne the market affords as the cheaper ones are worthless for the purpose, only the best thing blending with the oil.

Temperament Tragedies.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

There are few things sader to me than to see two close relatives together who have an unfortunate effect on each other. I am thinking just now of a mother and daughter. They are both pleasant, attractive people when you meet them individually, people reasonably easy to get along with. The mother is somewhat domineering but she is very kind hearted and has hosts of friends. The daughter is rather obstinate but she is quiet and restful, in many ways an ideal housemate. They Just Clash. And yet if you saw these people together and never saw them apart, you would think what disagreeable, irritable people they were. Each transforms the other into another person. The mother becomes critical, nagging, interfering, the daughter had tempered and unbelievably rude. The daughter appears the worst, both because her mother's exasperating interferences are always made with kind intent, and because the things the daughter flings out at her mother are in such wretched taste. I think it always offends us to have a child speak rudely to its parent even when we sympathize with the state of mind that caused the rudeness. If Either Is To Blame. And yet the mother's temperament is just as much to blame for the lack of harmony between the two as the daughter's. That is if one should talk about blame at all in such cases I can't really feel that two temperaments are any more to blame for not harmonizing than two colors. I think we all know cases like this. Even nearer home than the one I cited is that of a father and daughter both of sentimental, irritable, high strung dispositions. Each needs a little patience, a little calmness in a companion. Neither finds it in the other and the result is constant friction when they are together. The Saddest Temperament Tragedies Are Those Of Marriage. Perhaps the sorest tragedy of antagonistic temperaments is when such temperaments develop in a husband and wife. People blame them for having chosen each other. Poor fools, they chose in a moment when nature had blinfolded them. Blame her! In fact nature is to blame for all these temperament tragedies, and those who suffer from them should have our sympathy. That is, if they make the best of the conditions, try to use patience and forbearance, try to let each other alone. Nature is to blame for the lack of harmony. She isn't to blame for people's making the worst of it. I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made. ARCHIE E. LAUNDRY. Edmonton. sensible and satisfactory arrangements that could be devised, and enabled large droves of exhausted citizens to lay in a complete stock of rest. But what do we see to-day? We see woman refusing to support the family without help and even demanding an allowance of 25 or 30 cents a week. The weekly allowance cannot be too strongly condemned by the press and clergy. It is a cunning device to separate tight husbands from the wives of their bosom, and should be nipped in the bud before it destroys the American home.

The growing independence of woman is illustrated by the fact that some men are not allowed to carry a key to the front door, but have to give three knocks and the semi-annual password before being admitted after two o'clock in the morning. The woman suffrage movement also shows that man is slowly drifting into obscurity, oblivion and decay, and will soon be given the choice of voting the same way his wife does or sewing on his own pants buttons.

Man cannot get along without woman, but the increasing number of women wage-earners is melancholy testimony to the fact that woman can get along without man and lay up money.

Your Boys and Girls.

If you are wondering what to buy or make for your godchild, here are a few suggestions. First, a carriage robe; next a pillow for the crib or carriage. This may be made of any pretty bits of embroidery, lace, sheer linen or net, and may be square, long or round, though just at present the round ones are particularly popular. Then a veil of soft silk net with a narrow crocheted edge. A pair of linen booties, crocheted around the top, and with a tiny rosette below each strap, which is embroidered. Bibs are important on the list of baby's requisites. Some of these are no more than filmy bits of lace and linen, over a padding, but a more practical style is of a fine white pique with a scalloped or crocheted edge.

Tiny armlets to hold up the sleeves of the little dresses, which are usually too long, are made of bits of ribbon shirred over the narrowest elastic and finished with a center of a few tiny ribbon roses. Soft towels for the bath may have a line of drawn-work or fancy hemstitching and the baby's own initials, and a set of small-sized Turkish towels with wash-cloths to match may be accompanied by a bath apron of the same material, all worked in a simple cross stitch design.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, than the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. MAY 23, 1917

She is able to foment a high grade of discord over a four-day beard. Until a few years ago woman was content to do most of the work and thus give man time for thought and pin pool. This was one of the most

NO HELP.

WALTY MASON

If evil things should come to pass, it will not help to cry "Alas!" It will not help to cry "Alack! Life gives me fanfods in my back!" WALTER LINCOLN held the White House job, he had a good excuse to sob. Then every day brought woe and care, brought dismal tidings of despair. Great Abe would listen to the news that gave his government the blues, and cry (men thought he ought to wail): "Say, that reminds me of a tale." Some did not understand him then, some mirkless, narrowminded men; they called him jester and buffoon while they put up their doleful tune, and talked of dead men's bones and biers, and wept some forty kinds of tears. But now we think of Abe as one who saved things by his genial fun. Historians now love to bless the man who smiled in times of stress, who told gay yarns while others wept and their supply of sackcloth kept. Though deep and dark your trouble is, it does no good to cry "Gee whizz!" Pretend you do not care a darn, and tell the boys a rattling yarn.

Household Notes.

Fritters can be made from bread crumbs. If it is not safe for the children to go barefooted let them wear sandals. Slow cooking and plenty of it is the secret of preparing cornmeal satisfactorily. Put a pinch of salt in the white of eggs and the time for whipping will be less.

The character of any one meal should be determined by that of the other meals. Don't let food remain slightly warm for any length of time—it will spoil quicker. To save buying brats for home-framed pictures, use-discarded talking machine needles.

In cooking dandelion shoots, it is a mistake to cook longer than will make them tender.

GERMANY'S TROUBLES.

LONDON, July 15.—The political storm which has been convulsing Germany ever since the Russians' first startling offer has culminated for the present in the resignation of Imperial Chancellor Hollweg, but all indications show that his resignation is far from being the last act in the drama. The beginning of far-reaching developments, which are bound to affect the fabric of the German Empire and have momentous consequences on the progress of the European struggle. The resignation of the Chancellor came in the end quite unexpectedly, for Hollweg in previous party discussion and heated debate in the main committee of the Reichstag which have been proceeding through the week, seemed to have triumphed over the opposition by making concessions which were tantamount to the formation of a new Imperial coalition ministry. At the same time the Chancellor, by his declaration that Germany was not actively fighting for freedom of territorial possessions, evolved a formula which seemed satisfactory to those who clamored for peace agreement and those who demanded repudiation of the formula of annexations and no indemnities. It is this Hollweg was strongly backed by the Emperor. The advent of the Crown Prince, who was summoned by his Imperial father to share in the deliberations affecting the future of the dynasty, seems to have changed entirely the position with regard to the Chancellor. The Crown Prince once took a leading part in the discussions with the party leaders, and his ancient hostility towards Dr. V. Bethmann Hollweg, coupled with his notorious dislike for political reform, undoubtedly precipitated the Chancellor's resignation. The fact that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Chief of Staff, and General Von Ludendorff, first Quartermaster General, have been most prominent throughout these discussions, and that a certain joint dictatorship by them, and augurs well for the realization of the Prussian franchise reform, which the Emperor has just detested, or for movement towards the diminution of Germany's war aims and the return towards peace, upon which the Austrian Emperor has been doing his

GERMAN'S TROUBLES.

LONDON, July 15. The political turmoil which has been convulsing Germany ever since the Russians' first startling offensive has culminated for the present in the resignation of Imperial Chancellor Hollweg, but all indications serve to show that his resignation is far from being the last act in the drama, and that the beginning of far-reaching developments, which are bound to affect the fabric of the German empire, and have momentous consequences on the progress of the European struggle. The resignation of the Chancellor came in the end quite unexpectedly, for Hollweg in prolonged party discussion and heated debates in the main committee of the Reichstag, which have been proceeding all through the week seemed to have triumphed over the opponents who have been clamouring for his head by making concessions which were tantamount to the formation of a kind of Imperial coalition ministry. At the same time the Chancellor, by his declaration that Germany was defensively fighting for freedom of territorial possessions, evolved a formula which seemed satisfactory to both those who clamored for peace by agreement and those who demanded repudiation of the formula of no annexations and no indemnities. In all this Hollweg was strongly backed by the Emperor. The advent of the Crown Prince, who was summoned by his Imperial father to share in the deliberations affecting the future of the dynasty, seems to have changed entirely the position with regard to the Chancellor. The Crown Prince at once took a leading part in the discussions with the party leaders, and his ancient hostility towards Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg, coupled with his notorious dislike for political reform, undoubtedly precipitated the Chancellor's resignation. The fact that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Chief of Staff, and General Von Ludendorff, first Quartermaster General, have been most prominent throughout these discussions, and that a section of the press has been clamouring for a joint dictatorship by them, hardly augurs well for the realization of the Prussian franchise reform, which the Emperor has just deterred, or for the movement towards the diminution of Germany's war aims and therefore towards peace, upon which the Austrian Emperor has been doing his utmost to persuade the German Emperor to embark. The Bavarian ministers have been among the most active in these Berlin confabulations, and the fact that the Centre Catholic Party has rallied to the peace gospel preached by Matthias Erzberger directly on his return from Vienna, where he saw Emperor Charles, show that the Austrian Emperor is backed in his determination to secure peace by at least one, and that the most powerful of the states in the German Empire, whether the other southern German states will join in what appears to be a movement towards the renunciation of the Prussian hegemony events in no distant future will probably show. Hollweg's successor, Dr. George Michaelis, is a bureaucrat of the old type, whose appointment can be scarcely regarded as promising much in the direction of the parliamentarization of Germany. Entering the Prussian civil service in 1879 at the age of 22, he followed the customary placid career of a Prussian official, holding various minor posts at different provincial places until he was appointed Under Secretary for Finance in the ministry of 1909. In February, 1917, he received the additional appointment of Prussian Food Commissioner, a special post authorized by the Prussian Cabinet. The only break in the monotonous routine up to 1909 was a period of four years which he spent at Tokio as lecturer in the German law school there.

GREECE AND FRANCE.

PARIS, July 15. President Poincare has received among other telegrams of felicitation one from King Alexander of Greece congratulating "your noble and beloved country on the occasion of the national fete." King Alexander further expressed best wishes for the greatness and prosperity of France, and triumph in the cause of right and justice and liberty for which she has been heroically struggling for three years, a struggle in which Greece is happy to be able henceforth to participate.

GERMAN AGENTS IN RUSSIA.

PETROGRAD, July 15. The Minister of Ways and Communication, N. V. Rasnoff, has notified all militia chiefs at various railway stations, that information has been received from the staff that the Germans have sent agents to assassinate government officials, with particular intentions against M. Kerensky, the War Minister, and urging every precaution.

AUSTRIA AND GERMANY.

ZURICH, July 15. The Austrian Reichstag was thrown into an uproar on Saturday when a former Czech Minister, Herr Praschek, declared the state of the entire world was not directed against and that Austria should detach herself from her ally, says a Vienna despatch. "How are we to obtain peace, demanded Herr Praschek, if we cling to the German side? Must we continue to sacrifice our interests to the expansion of Germany? Must we continue to submit to German militarism that has drawn us into this war?" The speaker declared that Czech deputies had been imprisoned for attempting to bring about an alliance of Austria with Russia and France, and added that if they were to be stigmatized as traitors then all the Czechs who believed similarly should be so stigmatized.

FRANCE'S FETE DAY.

PARIS, July 14. France to-day celebrated its national fete with a fervor and quiet joy unknown in many years.

THE NEW CHANCELLOR.

LONDON, July 15. Dr. George Michaelis, Prussian Under Secretary of Finance and Food Commissioner, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg as Chancellor. The message relating to the resignation of Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg was circulated through the wireless stations by the German Government and was received by the British Admiralty. It says also that the Emperor accepted the resignation, and named Dr. Michaelis to succeed him.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

COPENHAGEN, July 15. By means of a skilful play on words it is intimated in the Tageblatt of Berlin, that the German Crown Prince is supporting the movement to unseat Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg.

REICHSTAG DISSOLVED.
 AMSTERDAM, July 15. A Berlin despatch received here to-day, says the sitting of the Reichstag after some unimportant discussion, was dissolved. The President, Dr. Johannes Kaempff, was authorized to summon the Reichstag as soon as circumstances allow.

WILSON AND GERMAN INSURANCE.

WASHINGTON, July 15. President Wilson late yesterday issued a proclamation prohibiting German insurance companies from doing further business in marine or war risk insurance in the United States, and forbidding American insurance companies from insuring with them. Payments on existing contracts are suspended during the war, except in case of vessels now at sea.

BERLIN PAPER SUPPRESSED.

COPENHAGEN, July 14. The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger has been suppressed indefinitely by the military authorities. The reason is not given, but presumably on account of an attack on Austro-Hungary in connection with the statement by Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian minister, who has come out for peace without annexation.

SUPPORT NEW PEACE FORMULA.

COPENHAGEN, July 14. According to a despatch from Berlin to the Berlingske Tidende, the new peace formula put forward by the Liberals is being supported by a great part of the Centre Party. All parties have summoned their parties to Berlin as soon as possible.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

COPENHAGEN, July 14. The Wilke News Bureau of Germany circulates the statement that the resignation of Dr. Von Bethmann Hollweg, Imperial Chancellor, has been accepted.

KING BACK FROM THE FRONT.

LONDON, July 15. The King returned to-day from his fourth visit to the front. On this occasion he was accompanied for the first time by the Queen. He issued a special order to the armies in the field, saying: "I leave you with feelings of admiration and gratitude for past achievements and confidence in your future efforts. On all sides I have witnessed scenes of your triumphs. The battlefields of the Somme and Ancre, Arras, Vimy and Messines have shown me what great results can be attained by the courage and devotion of all arms and reserves under the efficient command and staffs. It was a great pleasure for the Queen to accompany me and become personally acquainted with the excellent arrangements for the care of the sick and wounded whose welfare are very close to her heart. For the past three years the armies of the Empire and the workers in the homelands behind them have risen superior to every difficulty and every trial. The splendid successes already gained in concert with our gallant allies have advanced us well on the way towards the completion of the task we undertook.

There are doubtless fierce struggles still to come and heavy strains on our endurance to be borne, but be the road before us long or short, the spirit and pluck which have brought us so far will never fail, and under God's guidance final and complete victory in our just cause is assured."

KEEP YOUR SHOES NEAT

2 IN 1

BLACK WHITE TAN 10¢

SHOE POLISHES

Preserve the leather and make your shoes last longer. These polishes contain no acid and will not crack the leather. They combine liquid and paste in a paste form, and with very little effort produce a brilliant, lasting shine.
