CHAPTER XV.

"I say! time—time! Dear me, how quickly it has flown! That's thanks to you, Deane." He had dropped the "Mr." already, which was really very friendly of him. "We must be going, Trevor. We dine early, you know. Oh, by the way, Deane, I wonder whether I could persuade you to waive ceremony and come and dine with us to-night? When I say 'us' I mean my sister and myself—and Trevor of course. We shall be quite en famille, you know, and I can assure you that my sister will be very pleased to see you. A friend of our dear Trevor has the surest passport—"

Trevor did not respond with a smile, but glanced at Bobby, and then suddenly made a red hand.

"Thank you," said Bobby. "I shall be very pleased."

"Now, that's very good of you," said Mr. Morgan Thorpe, gratefully. "We dine at seven-thirty. Early, isn't it? But you won't mind just once in a way, my sister—well, my sister is rather delicate, and goes to bed early. Seven-thirty. How stupid of me! I had forgotten the address."

He took a card from his case and gave it to Bobby, with a charming smile. The card bore the inscription: "Mr. Morgan Thorpe, 31 Cardigan Terrace, S.W."

Bobby put the card in his pocket, said he would be punctual, and the two men left the club.

When they had got outside, Trevor said, gloomily: "Why the devil did you ask him to dinner? It wasn't necessary. I don't know much of him—an old school-fellow."

Morgan Thorpe smiled. "My dear fellow, that's no reason why you shouldn't know more of him. I've taken a fancy to him—have indeed. Besides, he will be a pleasant addition to our petite party."

Mr. Thorpe hummed a bright little air, and Trevor muttered something under his breath. They walked to Cardigan Terrace, and Thorpe stopped outside No. 31.

"No use asking you to come in, I suppose?" he said, blandly.

Trevor looked, with a kind of savage wistfulness, up at the windows, then shook his head.

"No, I shall be there at seven-thirty."

"So long, then, dear boy," said Thorpe; and he went up the steps and rang the bell.

The door was opened by a maid-servant, a middle-aged woman with the unmistakable face and manner of a French woman.

"Where is your mistress?" he asked in her language.

"In the dressing-room," replied the woman, shooting a glance at the departing Trevor.

Morgan Thorpe went up to the narrow stairs—the houses in Cardigan Terrace are small, not to say poky—and knocked at the door. A low clear voice, with a singular metallic ring in it, said "Come in," and he entered. The room was richly but garishly furnished; the air was thick with perfume—there was an odor of cheap scent all over the house, by the way; and the hangings of rose pink were soiled and stained.

At a muslin-covered dressing-table sat a lady. She was in a dressing gown—also rather soiled—over which a mass of black hair hung like a torrent. She was small but pretty, more than pretty; for no one had ever looked at her face without being more or less fascinated. The features were small and exquisitely chiseled. Her eyes were black as sloes, and remarkably expressive. They could be sharp and brilliant, and they could be soft and languorous, just as their owner chose. Her face was pale, of that ivory whiteness which sometimes goes with black hair.

She was beautifully formed, and very graceful, with hands and feet like a fairy. In short, she was a beautiful little woman, with the face and the charm of a siren, and with about as much heart.

She turned the corners of her dark eyes upon her brother for a second, then went on with her occupation, which was the application of powder de riz to her beautiful face; and she did it with the delicate touch of a skilled and born artist.

"Well!" she said, as he looked down at her with a smile; and there was a world of significance in the word.

"A new friend is coming to dinner, my dear Laura," he said.

She looked at him in the glass.

"Who is it?"

"A friend of Trevor," he said. "A young fellow by the name of Deane. Quite a boy—a charming boy."

She made a slight contemptuous noise.

"Ah, do not despise the day of small things, my charming sister!" he said, lightly.

"I hate boys!" she said. "And a friend of Trevor—sulky, and sullen, and awkward as himself, I suppose?"

"On the contrary, a handsome, nicely-mannered, and, as I have said, quite charming boy."

"He will be a change, at any rate," she said. "I am getting wearied of that bear."

"Take care you do not let the bear see it!" he said, warningly. "We have not got all the bear's skin yet, my dear Laura." She smiled.

"And is this boy coming only because you have taken a fancy to him?" she asked, as she drew a thin, exquisitely thin, line under her eyes.

"What—who is he?"

"Cramming for Sandhurst," he said. She smiled contemptuously.

"I know the kind. An allowance of a hundred a year, and promised his dear good mother down at the parsonage that he wouldn't play. Oh, I know!"

"I don't know what his allowance may be," he said. "But I fancy he will be worth a little attention, my dear Laura." He took up a newspaper which lay—with a fan and a lady's silver cigarette-case—on the couch. "See here!" He read aloud: "The Great Electric Storage Co. Ltd. Capital. £100,000. Directors: Lord Borrowmore, Impecunary Castle, Theodore Mershon, Esq., The First, Leafmore. Peter Deane, Esq., Woodbine, Leafmore."

"See? A son of the man who is in the swim with Theodore Mershon ought to be worth a little attention. You are looking sweet to-night, my dear Laura. What are you going to wear? That soft yellow dress with the—er—low neck? Right! He's a nice boy. A nice, frank boy. The sort of boy to fall in love with."

He pointed to the glass, in which the fascinating face was reflected, and with a soft laugh, left the room.

CHAPTER XVI.

Bobby dressed himself with more than his usual care that evening, spoiled half a dozen ties before he could get one to set to his satisfaction, and brushed his short but wavy hair until it shone like raw silk. It was his first invitation to dinner since he had been in London, and he was quite in a small state of excitement about it.

Punctually at seven-thirty he presented himself at 31 Cardigan Terrace, and was shown by the French maid into a small drawing-room. It was the usual London drawing-room; there were a good many colors in it, and it looked rather gay to Bobby after the rather shabby one at home; but the cretonne was rather dirty, and there was an odor of scent and cigarettes which rather surprised him.

The door opened and Mr. Morgan Thorpe entered. He looked very handsome in evening-dress, and he welcomed Bobby most cordially.

"Delighted to see you, my dear Deane," he said, with his winning smile. "Trevor is not here yet; my sister will be down presently. Did I tell you that she is a widow? Poor girl! she lost her husband soon after her marriage. It was not altogether a happy union; but I must not bore you with our family history; suffice it, that Time has healed her wound and restored something of her old happiness. I think you will like her, my dear Deane. She is a dear girl—for she is only a girl still—and a great comfort and joy to my life."

At this moment the door opened and the great comfort and joy of Mr. Morgan Thorpe's life entered. She certainly did look only a girl and Bobby was startled not only by her youth but by her beauty. There was something about her which literally took the boy's breath away.

At that moment her face wore a pensive expression, the dark eyes were soft and sad, and the red lips half apart. The beautiful dress of yellow accentuated the clear whiteness of her skin and the black hair and brows. She held a black fan in one hand and a bunch of white flowers in the other. Altogether she was a vision of grace and loveliness calculated to move a more experienced man than Bobby to wonder and admiration.

"This is our friend Mr. Deane," said Morgan Thorpe. "My sister, Mrs. Dalton, Deane."

She laid down her fan and gave her small hand to Bobby, with a smile which showed her white even teeth to perfection, and said she was glad to see him. Commonplace words enough, but they sounded wonderful to Bobby, for the gods, when they are in a good humor, are wont to be lavish of their gifts, and they had bestowed upon this woman not only grace of form and a beautiful face, but a soft and musical voice which she could play on as a skilled musician plays upon his favorite instrument.

"You find our menage very small, I have no doubt, my dear Deane," said Morgan Thorpe. "We have taken this house furnished; and though it is not all that we could desire, it is large enough for two, and my sister and I possess contented minds; though I must confess we do find the house rather small after our palazzo in Florence. It was lent to us by our dear friend the prince."

He did not say which prince; but Bobby was duly impressed.

"Ours has been rather a wandering life," continued Mr. Morgan Thorpe, "and though we have many friends abroad we have very few in London."

"Mr. Deane will be a host in himself, I am sure," said Laura, very sweetly and with a slight foreign accent, which made her voice seem still more charming to Bobby, who blushed with pleasure.

Then Trevor came in. He did not look very much better-tempered than when Bobby had parted from him. He gave the two men a nod and a scowl, and going straight up to Laura, handed her a bouquet.

"Got them coming along," he said; "thought you'd like to have them."

Wilson Makes Bold Statement.

Denounces "So-Called Americanism" as Spurious--Bolshevik Regime in Lithuania--British Miners Make New Demands--U.S.A. Troops in Hayti Accounted for 2,000 Natives--Battle of Jutland Discussed in Commons.

WILSON SPEAKS TO PRO-LEAGUERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. President Wilson received at the White House to-day a delegation of Pro-League Republicans. His address to the delegation was the first he has made since he was taken ill more than a year ago. President Wilson appealed for the completion of the great moral achievement which, he said, the great war represented, asserted that it will have been fought in vain unless the United States completes the work she began. "There is only one way to assure the world of peace," he declared, and that is by making it so dangerous to break peace that no other nation will have audacity to attempt it. The President declared that "So-called Americanism" prated so much about in the United States is spurious and invented for party purposes only. The President warned his hearers not to be deceived into supposing imperialistic schemes ended with the defeat of Germany or "that Germany is the only nation that entertained such schemes or was moved by sinister ambitions" and long standing jealousies to attack the structure of civilization. "There are other nations," said the President, "which are likely to be powerfully moved or are already moved by commercial jealousies, by desire to dominate and to have their own way in politics and in enterprise, and it is necessary to check them and to appraise them so that the world will be united against them as it was against Germany if they attempt any similar thing."

GOVERNMENT RESIGNS.

LONDON, Oct. 27. The resignation of the Lithuanian Government and the establishment of a pro-Bolshevik regime, is reported in Central News despatch.

HELPING LITHUANIA.

WARSAW, Oct. 27. Thousands of rifles and machine guns with some artillery, are reported transported from East Prussia into Lithuania recently, and trainloads of German soldiers are going there, according to information reaching Warsaw from Vilna. The inter-Allied commission is investigating to determine if Germany is in any way violating the Versailles Treaty by these shipments.

NEW DIFFICULTY HAS ARISEN.

LONDON, Oct. 27. A new difficulty has arisen delaying complete settlement of the coal strike, which this afternoon was believed to have been attained on the basis of an increase in the miners' wages was set forth in the earlier announcement this afternoon. That the difficulty is serious is indicated by the fact that the cabinet has been summoned to meet early to-morrow morning before the conference of miners and government officials re-assembles. At the last moment the miners presented new demands, which caused adjournment of the conference with the representatives of the government. Nothing has yet transpired as to the nature of the miners' new demands.

NATIVES KILLED IN HAITI.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. Natives killed in Haiti during the five years of United States occupation, numbered two thousand, instead of three thousand as previously announced by the Navy Dept., it was disclosed to-day.

THE END OF THE WAR.

LONDON, Oct. 27. Asked to-day in the House of Commons for an official date of the end of the war, Right Hon. Bonar Law, Government leader, said it would as nearly as possible correspond with the signing of the Turkish and Bulgarian treaties by Great Britain, which are the only ones outstanding.

EMERGENCY BILL GOES THROUGH.

LONDON, Oct. 27. The Government's Emergency Bill, which provides for all contingencies in the event the Miners' strike should involve railway and transport workers, was passed through all remaining stages to-day and passed the third reading to-night.

FREIGHTER ASHORE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. The British steamship Opawa, from Manchester for Montreal, is ashore on the Middle Ground, near Cape Henry, and has called for assistance, a wireless message to the Naval Communication Service here to-day said. The Opawa is a freighter of nine thousand tons gross.

"IRISH REPUBLIC" MONEY CONFISCATED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27. Many thousands of pounds, alleged to belong to the Irish Republic, were discovered and confiscated when military forces raided the Munster and Leinster Bank here yesterday. The money was distributed over several accounts in the bank, it is said. The blow is likely to be extremely serious for Sinn Fein.

THE BATTLE OF JUTLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 27. In the House of Commons to-day it was stated the proposal to publish an enclair account of the battle of Jutland has been abandoned. Information had been received from unofficial German sources throwing considerable light on the battle from a new angle. Any record based on British evidence only would there, it was said, be a one-sided version, and would create a wrong impression of the battle. The whole of the material prepared by the Admiralty will be incorporated in Sir Julius Corbett's work under the authority of imperial defence, which is to be published next year.

ANTON BERNICK, of St. Paul, Minn., who says he now eats better, sleeps better and works better, as a result of taking Tanlac. Says all his friends are talking about his improvement.

"There must be something wonderful about Tanlac for it has made me feel better, eat better, sleep better and work better," said Anton Bernick, of 138 East Congress Street, St. Paul, Minn., a well-known employee of Swift & Company. "Tanlac has helped me so much that all my friends are stopping me on the street and asking me what it is that is making me look so well, and of course I am always glad to tell them it is Tanlac. I hadn't been down sick in bed exactly, but I hadn't felt just right for a long time. I was all run down, had indigestion, my appetite was poor and nothing agreed with me. In fact I had to force down every mouthful. I would eat and I would always suffer from indigestion for an hour or so after every meal. I also had headaches and would get so dizzy at times I could hardly keep from falling. I simply had no ambition or energy to do anything. "Just as I have already said, Tanlac has made a brand-new man of me and I am feeling fine now in every way. Of course I will always recommend Tanlac." Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. A Big Undertaking.

PLOUGHING A TRENCH FOR TELEPHONE CABLES.

Yesterday evening Mr. C. Lester had ten horses employed plowing a trench for the Avalon Telephone Co. on Duckworth Street near the Newfoundland Clothing Factory. The road-bed which is of tarras proved too hard for the tackle and the job was given up. It was, however, resumed this morning with heavier gear and a team of 16 horses, two abreast and though the yoke stood the test the specially designed plough would not keep in the ground, and the job had to be abandoned again, but not for good, as another go at it will be undertaken immediately. Heavy blocks and tackles, to which horses will be hitched up, will be used, when it is hoped the steeper strain will prevent the plough from hopping out of the furrow.

"A barrel full of laughs" is how one delighted theatre goer expressed his appreciation of that great comedy "Nothing but the Truth," presented by the Klark-Urban Company at the Casino Theatre last night and there is no doubt that the large audience was thoroughly in accord with this sentiment. From the rise of the curtain on the first act to the final fall there was not a dull or uninteresting moment, and laughter rolled in one huge volume throughout the theatre continuously. The theme of the play hinges upon a bet, involving the sum of $10,000 and the happiness of two loving hearts but to give away the plot would be to disappoint those who will attend to-night's reproduction, and perhaps lose them some good laughs, the latter being none too plentiful these days, or at least the cause for them. BONAVISTA BAY MAN DIES IN BAFFIN'S LAND.

(Daily News).

On Tuesday evening last, a message was received by Mrs. James, Circular Road, containing the sad intelligence that her husband, Mr. R. S. James, had died last April in Baffin's Land. Mr. James left here some years ago on the s.s. Kite which took him down to Baffin's Land where he settled in Pond's Inlet, intending to return at the end of two years. No news of any description was received from him but it was supposed that he was trading in furs. Last year a Scotch whaler, named the Albert, owned by Capt. Munn, who has a whaling station on the Greenland Coast, called at Pond's Inlet, and the captain of the ship whose name is Murray, spoke to Mr. James. On returning to Scotland last November, Capt. Murray wrote to Mrs. James telling her of her husband and enclosing a few lines from him. According to the letter to Mrs. James from her husband, it appears that Mr. James wanted to come by the Albert, but being unable to arrive at terms regarding his furs, etc., the ship owner asking 50 p.c. of the lot, he decided that as he had plenty of supplies he would stay another year and journey over land by dog team, via Fox Channel, to Churchill the Hudson Bay Co.'s Post, where he would be able to get a steamer to St. John's. Capt. Murray also informed Mrs. James that her husband was in good health and that he would be starting his long journey on December 1st, 1919, and that he hoped to reach Churchill some time in February this year. This has been the only news to be received since Mr. James left civilization and at present it is not known where or how he met his death. The message which conveyed the sad news was also sent by Capt. Murray who has again returned to Scotland after his annual voyage to the Arctic regions, and was received by Mr. Ambrose James, his father, who resides at Glovertown, B.B., and he notified the deceased's wife and family. No particulars are given, but it is expected that the next English mail will tell the story.

Mr. James was a former resident of Glovertown, B.B., and made many trips to the Far North. Some years ago he went north with the Harry Whitney expedition to Baffin's Land in the s.s. Neptune in search for gold alleged to be there in large quantities. The Neptune carried a number of scientists who explored the areas in which the gold fields were presumed to be. The Neptune returned to St. John's with some furs and curios, the members of the expedition reporting that there was no indication of the precious metal on the coast. Later Mr. James engaged with Mr. K. R. Prowse to visit Baffin's Land for the purpose of trapping for a two years' trip. A companion named Holden is supposed to have spent the first winter with James in Baffin's Land, and during his stay became badly frostbitten, and next season made his way up the coast to Battle Harbor where he died in hospital. His widow and seven children, who were expecting him home this year, are heart broken over the sad news forwarded them, and they with the aged father and mother in Glovertown, will have the sympathy of the community.

The 19th annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society for the St. John's District, opened in George Street Church schoolroom Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 27th, at 3 o'clock. At 3.30 Mrs. S. K. Barnes, the District Organizer, took the chair. After singing the Convention Hymn, Mrs. Hemmison gave the address of welcome. Very encouraging reports were given by the delegates of the Auxiliaries. Mrs. Hunter, the Newfoundland Branch President, who has just returned home after attending the 39th annual board meeting at Toronto, gave an interesting account of the work being done by the various branches. A solo was beautifully rendered by Miss May Pollard. The meeting closed with Benediction by Mrs. Barnes.

Between the afternoon and evening sessions, a social hour, to which all present were invited, took place. The evening session opened at eight o'clock with Miss Gertrude Parsons, Circle and Band Secretary, in the chair. Mrs. Johnson, wife of the Rev. Mr. Johnson, of the Congregational Church, gave an interesting address. During the evening musical items were rendered by Misses Thistle, Pottles, Christian, Vincent, Bowden, and very pleasing recitations were given by Miss Estelle Barnes and Miss Sadie Butt. The meeting closed by the singing of Convention Hymn and Benediction. To-day's sessions of the Convention will open at 3 o'clock this afternoon and eight o'clock to-night. Teas will be served during the interval between the sessions. E. E. P.

To-Day's Messages.

STUDENTS STONE CONSULATE. BARCELONA, Oct. 27. Barcelona University students to-day stoned the British Consulate as a protest against the death of the Lord Mayor of Cork. Every window was broken. The students are believed to have been partisans of Catalan Home Rule.

GERMANY'S SURPRISE PACKET. PARIS, Oct. 27. The German Government somewhat to the surprise of the Council of the League of Nations, has sent to the League office, ten treaties or diplomatic agreements entered into by Germany since January 10, it was learned to-day.

HAVANA GETS BIG FIGHT. NEW YORK, Oct. 27. The fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, for the heavy weight championship of the world will be held in Havana, Cuba, it was announced here to-night.

SCIENTIFIC REGICIDE. LONDON, Oct. 28. Scientific examination of the monkey that bit King Alexander of Greece shows no sign of infection, though a Rome newspaper stated that the simian had been artificially inoculated with rabies.

SYLVIA IN THE TOILS. LONDON, Oct. 28. Sylvia Pankhurst was sentenced to-day to six months imprisonment on a conviction of attempting to cause sedition in the navy, by editing and publishing an issue of the Workers Dreadnought.

GUARDS KEEP VIGIL. LONDON, Oct. 28. A silent vigil was kept by frequently changed Republican guards over the coffin of Lord Mayor MacSweeney in St. George's Cathedral last night. Mrs. MacSweeney has collapsed from strain and anxiety.

A VEXED QUESTION. LONDON, Oct. 28. The Cabinet is summoned to meet early this morning, previous to resumption of negotiations between Government and Miners' leaders. The sudden halt in negotiations has dashed hopes of the optimistic. There are positive assertions that the chance for agreement is so doubtful that a breakdown of negotiations is possible. Both sides maintain secrecy and it is impossible to say whether one or the other is responsible for the hold up.

YIELDING TO THE HUNS. PARIS, Oct. 28. The French Foreign Office received official notification to-day that Britain renounces her rights of confiscation of German property in the United Kingdom. Officials emphasize the gravity of the move, as they fear Germany may make similar requests to France, which could not be granted.

DAY OF NATIONAL MOURNING. DUBLIN, Oct. 28. Arthur Griffith, Acting President of Dail Eireann, has issued a manifesto declaring Friday a day of national mourning, in memory and honor of MacSweeney, Michael Fitzgerald and Joseph Murphy.

ASK THEM TO REFRAIN. DUBLIN, Oct. 28. At a special meeting of the Dublin Corporation, Capt. McWalter, High Sheriff, urged that persons in the confidence of remaining hunger strikers, ask them not to persist further, "division" and offer its services to Lithuania.

TEN CONSTABLES DISMISSED. LONDON, Oct. 27. Sir Henry Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, announced in the House of Commons to-night that ten constables had been dismissed this week from the Irish Constabulary, for various offences. He added that everybody was being dismissed who

Special Fall Display of Fashion's Newest Costumes

FROM Fashion's Centre, New York, we received last week a very striking selection of Ladies' Costumes for Fall and Winter wear. In fine Serges, and the new Llama Cloths, exquisitely trimmed and braided, these new Costumes are remarkable for beauty of line and design, and quality of material.

Here are all the smartest new shades, sizes to suit all buyers, and we make a special feature of REALLY never stocking any two Costumes alike.

When you are looking for your Fall Costume ask to see the new Pleated Straight-line Skirts in plaids and plain materials, they are the latest fad, and very graceful in wear.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A DEBILITATING HABIT.

The older I grow, the more I come to feel what a disgusting, debilitating, dangerous thing is self-pity! If there were such a thing as a course in character building, I think the first ten lessons should contain five on the necessity and the means of overcoming the habit of self-pity. You know how it weakens you physically to break down and have a good cry over some little thing—the feeling of lassitude which comes over you after such an indulgence. Well, I think self-pity is a kind of crying in the mind, and it has the same effect of weakening the mental and moral fibre. Again, think how many quarrels between husband and wife self-pity is at the root of.

A Small Grievance Becomes Martyrdom.

Some little grievance or annoyance comes up between these twain and if each would be ready to look at it as the small thing it is, there would be quarrel. But suppose either, or (and this is utterly fatal) both, have cultivated the habit of self-pity. The small grievance starts them going and in their minds they gather together around it all the other grievances that they have ever felt, and then look at this collection through the magnifying glass of self-pity until they see an insurmountable mountain standing between them and happiness—where there is really only a molehill.

The Stock of Love Used Up.

If there is enough love between them they are enabled to level that mountain in the course of time and see only the molehill again. But sometimes there is not enough love, and sometimes the stock of love gets used up by too constant usage in rolling out the mountains that self-pity has erected.

There is no bigger, finer achievement for anyone who has a tendency that way (and that includes many of the best of us) than to conquer the habit of self-pity.

Laugh Yourself Out of it.

Laugh at yourself when you catch yourself at this childish habit. Give yourself a mental shake and think of something else. Or ask yourself if

HOUSE OF HAPSBURG.

The princes of the Hapsburg line in camp and court now cut no ice; they have to fast while others dine, their stand-off's bad, they lack the price. Some eight duchesses and dukes now stand around with frigid feet; their titles now seem empty flukes since they can't get enough to eat. They send to us the warning cry, from roofless castles where they lurk. "Unless the ravens bring us pie, we gravely fear we'll have to work." With noble courage thus they face a future fraught with dread and fears, these scions of a kingly race that loafed for quite a thousand years. Far better face the headman's ax than be a laundress or a clerk, but proudly they'll get down to tasks, and if they must, why, they will work. Their landmarks are forever gone, their world is jostled upside down, and some cheap uncle has in pawn the jeweled sceptre and the crown. Too proud to seek the craven's doom by means of rope or gun or dirk, they cry, amid the encircling gloom, "Just lead us to the honest work." And if for honest work they look, they will not need to travel far; I'd take a duchess as my cook, and hire a duke to run my car.

To renew velocity of carpet sweeper, wrap little wooden wheels with tire tape until they fit tight against rubber wheels, on each side of them.

The European-Asian Conflict.

The conflict between Europe and Asia, let it take as various shapes as it will, is due to the never-ending antithesis of Greek and barbarian, writes Rev. Canon William Barry, in the Nineteenth Century and After.

The Greeks invented science; they were adepts in the practice and theory of limited and constitutional governments; while Asia lives by custom, knows nothing of science, and worships naked power. To European thinkers it is a first principle that reason should dictate law; that progress, not stagnation, is man's calling; and all this the Greeks have taught us. Until last year the Turks were the vanguard of barbaric Asia, fronting scientific Europe.

Their origin was Tartar, their record one of untamed fierceness in war, of tyranny in peace, which the religion they adopted might seem to consecrate rather than to soften; and in spite of a singularly mixed pedigree they preserved without change the Tartar characteristics of a boundless fury when once aroused and of indolence the most profound at other seasons. To culture of the intellect, to art and industry, to rural occupations, they have ever been as a people refractory and obtuse.

The Turk is a fighting man or he is nothing. It may be objected that he surely knows how to keep his conquered subjects down; but he governs by setting them one against another, as he acquired his empire by taking advantage of their divisions.

From Saracen or Syrian, Jew or Armenian, he has learned merely to use their special gifts instead of imitating them himself. "The Franks," says Cardinal Newman, "were their merchants, the Armenians their bankers, the subject races their laborers, and the Greeks their sailors."

The Turkish government is parasitic, eating up and leaving waste the region which it found civilized, but which have steadily fallen away to desert, and their illustrious cities to ruin. Five hundred years and more of possession by the sons of Ottoman show the most fertile countries in Asia, with a population of less than thirty to the square mile.

Roman roads have given place to mere tracks in a desolate land: Asia Minor, once a glorious and flourishing province of Old or New Rome, is a wilderness; Palestine's milk and honey a far off remembrance, and Constantinople, among the world's capitals, is at once the Sultan's opprobrium and a reproach to Christian Europe which has left it under such base thralldom.

The map of Turkey in its vast, neglected dominions, curving half around the Mediterranean, exhibits an age-long scandal that posterity will find it hard to believe in.

Beer Brewed in the Abbey.

Westminster Abbey has been put to many strange uses during the thousand years or so of its existence. In Cromwell's time it was turned into a barracks. In pre-Reformation days it was utilized as a Parliament house, and a brewery and a bakery were established by the monks for their convenience within the sacred precincts.

In the early years of the last century it occupied in popular estimation the place now taken by Madame Tussaud's, a visit to the "Abbey Wax-works," as the collection of effigies of famous people there kept was called, being one of the treats reserved for country cousins and children on their holiday.

Here, too, William Caxton set up the first printing-press. And because it was his custom to discuss all matters connected with the undertaking at a meeting in the Abbey chapel with the Father Superior in the chair, any organized gathering of workers in a printing establishment to-day is a "chapel," and its chosen chairman is a "father."

To be used to help adjust the unnormal differences between the decreased prices of our fish and the increased prices of our every day requirements!

To the Public of Newfoundland--St. John's in Particular:

Our main industry—fish—is not bringing prices that it has the past four years. Canada is not getting the same prices for her dependable products, the United States of America is still worse off than Canada and Newfoundland, losing her enormous export trade due to the war; consequently the immediate depression in all three countries, and from same causes the whole world.

In Canada and the States merchants are trying to adjust the purchasing power of the people with their earning power, by disposing of the millions of dollars worth of Merchandise at unprecedented reductions.

Here in Newfoundland face the same conditions that other countries are now going through.

CONTINUING FROM TO-DAY UNTIL NOV. 5TH

We, THE LONDON, NEW YORK and PARIS ASSOCIATION OF FASHION of St. John's, connecting ourselves with no other firm in this town, have decided to offer to the general public of this country a weapon in the form of $120,000 worth of wearing apparel for Men, Women and Children at prices that will forever be remembered by our population as a duplicate of prices gone by.

Words and unfulfilled deeds are not worth the paper they are written on these days.

The only method to adjust things to-day in our Newfoundland is by our method.

We Offer Merchandise at an Immense Loss to Ourselves

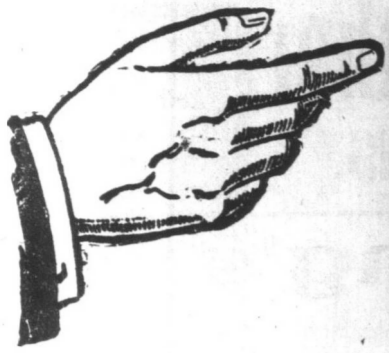

but we do it merrily, because we are compelled to do it now or later; and just when everybody requires their Fall and Winter Wares, we feel justified in giving the public the benefit now, because later our effort would be as nil, because the public would be all bought up and consequently would not be able to stand behind this most beneficial movement for all concerned.

WE WANT THE WHOLE TOWN TO MARCH DOWN HERE FOR THE NEXT 3 WEEKS. We must have the backing of the whole town, otherwise our effort will be useless; and we believe every Man, Woman and Child in this town are waiting patiently for the day when everybody will do as we are to do.

Here is YOUR OPPORTUNITY! Come Down Here and See If You Cannot Buy All Your Requirements in Our Line for the Next Three Weeks. Then Watch Results!

Red Herring Tactics.

The Government press repeatedly charge newspapers opposed to the administration with being responsible for the existing state of affairs in St. John's. That—if it were true—would be a delicate compliment, and praise from the Sir Hubert Stanley's of the Star and Advocate is praise indeed. And we hasten to express our appreciation of the notice taken of us by our Duckworth and Adelaide Street contemporaries. Seldom is it that we do not get some advertisement in the leading columns of the organs of the Government, but chiefly in those of the former, whose sole purpose and object is apparently to influence its credulous readers into the belief that but for the criticisms of the Opposition Press, everything would be lovely with the goose hanging high. Surely it is time to quit that sort of thing and admit that people have sufficient intelligence to discover for themselves that the blame for present conditions belong to the Fish Regulations, and that with or without criticism, they have proven unworkable and have benefitted neither fishermen nor exporters. That this is obvious opinions of outport fishermen bear ample testimony. Daily we are in receipt of letters from all over the island, complaining of the utter stagnation prevailing and the abandonment of the issuance of supplies on credit by merchants. In the darkest financial hour of Newfoundland there was ever the promise and prospect of winter supplies for the producers. Their curtailment, if not absolute cutting off, of supplies is something for which fishermen are not prepared. Hence there is much depression because of this.

The Fish Regulations cannot have been of the value claimed for them otherwise such things could not be. Had their passage and operation been of such material advantage and profit to fisherman and exporter alike, as their supporters boast, why is it that gain all round has not accrued? If the Regulations were good no amount of opposition or hostile criticism could affect them. Ergo they cannot be good, for nothing but stagnation has resulted since their promulgation. But let those who favor them illustrate the good they have accomplished. Give the public chapter, verse and figures, showing all the resultant benefits to this dominion and its people, which the Codfish Export Regulations have brought about. Abusing McGrath, Currie and James may be the policy of the Government press, but it is not a policy convincing to the people. It does not acquaint them of the marvellous wonders the Export Regulations were intended to accomplish, consequently the use of the proverbial red herring fails of its effect. The attention of the public is not going to be diverted, particularly when it learns that the Government or the Advisory Board or whichever of them is responsible, does not know its own mind for a moment, and by proclamations and counter-proclamations re the price of fish creates confusion worse confounded.

Knocking Labrador Fish.

Appended is the latest Circular Letter to Exporters, issued from the office of Marine and Fisheries, by the Secretary of the Advisory Board. It is not difficult to determine the meaning of this instruction. To any one reading between the lines its intention is perfectly obvious. For the present, comment is withheld, the information only being published to-day for the benefit of exporters and fishermen alike.

Dept. Marine & Fisheries, St. John's, Newfoundland, 27th October, 1920.
Sirs:—I have the honor, and have been instructed, to inform you, that in the opinion of the Fish Exportation Board, it would be detrimental to your interests as well as to the trade in general, at present to charter vessels for Labrador Fish during the next three weeks. Owing to the fact that there is about 200,000 quintals of Labrador now afloat and loading, which in the Board's opinion is ample for market requirements for at least three or four months. Therefore, if you charter vessels, it might be a considerable time before being permitted to sail. For the best interests of all, you are urgently requested to refrain from chartering such vessels until further informed by this Department.

I have the honor to be, etc.,
H. V. HUTCHINGS,
Secy. of Advisory Board.

As an article of commerce sugar was not known among the Greeks, and it is not mentioned in the Bible. The sugar-cane is believed to have grown wild in India, and, while no reference to sugar can be found up to A.D. 200, there is no doubt that the juice of the cane was in use long before that period.

The art of evaporation of the juice to a solid substance is an Indian invention of about the seventh century, and was spread all over the then known world. The Arabs and Egyptians prepared candy at an early date by recrystallising the sugar obtained from the pressed cane.

The introduction of the use of sugar into Europe was largely due to the Crusaders, who acquired a taste for it when they were in the Holy Land. On their return home their demand for it resulted in creating a market for it in Venice. It was not long until the sugar-cane was cultivated in all the countries bordering on the Mediterranean, and the industry flourished up to the fifteenth century. After the discovery of America, the Spaniards and Portuguese and later the Dutch, French and English, introduced sugar cultivation into their colonies in the West Indies and South America. By the introduction of slave labor, which was practically unknown in Christian countries prior to the fifteenth century, it became possible to produce sugar in large quantities, so that it ceased being a costly product used only by the rich, and became cheap enough to be an article of common consumption.

Cathedral Parish Bazaar Opened Yesterday.

CROWDS IN ATTENDANCE.
Yesterday afternoon in the C.L.B. Armoury, the Bazaar arranged by the Women's Association of the Cathedral Parish, was opened by Miss Armorer Harris, in the absence of Lady Harris, who was prevented by illness from performing the ceremony. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor, His Lordship Bishop White, Canon Jeeves, Rector of the Cathedral, and Canon Bolt. A large number of people visited the place during the evening and night, and ready sales were made at the different stalls. The refreshment tables and also the dainty tea tables in the Gymnasium were well patronized. Various side shows proved a great attraction the hit being the Charlie Chaplin Comedy Co. This troupe, consisting of Messrs. F. Bussey, E. Ash and Joe Wheeler, the ventriloquist, gave shows every twenty minutes. Mrs. H. Outerbridge and Miss Mary Keegan were also seen in a playlet which was much enjoyed. The Bazaar will be open again this evening with the C.L.B. in attendance. The following is a list of the different stalls and the ladies who are in charge.
Handkerchief—Miss Ethel Cook.
Candy—Miss Rowe.
Women's Association, Fancy—Mrs. Hitchcock.
Woman's Association, Plain—Mrs. Noseworthy.

Wives and Mothers.

Of Sailors and Soldiers.
To-morrow, Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, the first reunion for the season of the wives and mothers of sailors and soldiers will be held at the Spencer Hall (old British Hall, opp. Tobacco Factory). These gatherings will be held on the second and fourth Fridays of each month throughout the winter, and the committee hopes not only that they will be as well patronized as last winter, but that all connected in this way with the navy or with any regiment will come and join this Women's Association formed for pleasure and mutual help. Those who are not able to leave their babies and tiny children are asked to bring them with them, and the committee will be pleased if all those who so very kindly helped with the refreshments will come and do so again.

In Memoriam.

JAMES W. PITTMAN.
On Monday, Oct. 18th, there was laid to rest at the cemetery of St. Augustine's Church, New Perlican, the remains of the late James W. Pittman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pittman.

Mr. Pittman, or Jim as he was generally spoken of by his friends, was formerly Principal of the High School at Rose Blanche, afterwards taking charge of Harvey & Co.'s branch business there.

When the war broke out, he, like many another brave lad, resigned his position and offered himself and services for his country's disposal, and in due time crossed to the western front, where he held the rank of sergeant. After receiving injuries there which totally incapacitated him for further active service, at the front, he returned home and spent some time recruiting, being also for a while employed at the Militia Department.

For the past two years he had held the position of Superintendent of the Shannon Munn Memorial Orphanage, where he was beloved by the boys, and all connected therewith for his pleasing manner and striking character, as well as his business ability. He took a great interest in the boys there and was lieutenant of the Orphanage Corps.

Being a constant sufferer from injuries received at the front, he was advised, after receiving treatment at St. John's Hospital, to seek further advice at Halifax. He entered Camp Hill Hospital and spent two months there, where it was found impossible to effect a cure, and he was at this institution when the summons came, which he obeyed as only the soldier and christian can.

The body was brought to his home for interment, accompanied by his brother John. The funeral was very largely attended, being of a military nature, the C.L.B. from Heart's Content being present under Major (Dr.) Anderson.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Canon Smart, after which "The Last Post" was sounded by Bugler Willis White. He sleeps but will awaken at the Last Great Call when all Christians shall receive the Master's "well done!"

Messages of sympathy were received from: Mr. R. B. Job, Miss Alice Peddie, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pittman, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Pittman, Miss Porter and C.L.B. (St. John's), Mr. Reuben Bemister, Bay Roberts; Mrs. S. Ollerhead, Heart's Content; Mrs. Enos Reid, Green's Hr.; Mrs. E. Laing, Winterton; Mrs. Rachael Ellis, Hant's Hr.; Mrs. John Bemister, Misses Bemister.

Mrs. John Bemister, Misses Bemister. Letters of sympathy from Mr. R. B. Job, Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment, Halifax, Rev. Canon Smart, Mrs. Jno. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Mitcham, Mr. and Mrs. S. Russel, Rev. A. Pittman.

Memorial Cards from Mrs. Jno. Pittman, Mrs. Louisa Hopkins, Mrs. W. Hopkins, Miss W. Inkpen and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Inkpen, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Inkpen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, Miss Margaret Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Long, Miss E. H. Graham. To all of whom relatives desire to express their sincere thanks.

Shipping Notes.

It is expected that repairs to S.S. Anglesa, which arrived in port yesterday with her bilge pumps out of order, will take four or five days. The ship is commanded by Capt. G. Davis, owned by Messrs. Jas Jenkins Sons & Co., Ltd., Cardiff, and is 4,460 tons gross, 2,818 net and has a cargo of 6,800 tons of grain, which is consigned to Rotterdam.

S.S. Tulsa, Capt. F. N. J. Nordberg, which arrived in port yesterday morning for repairs to her boilers, will be delayed some three weeks, as new boiler tubes have to be ordered from New York. The Tulsa is a new ship, being launched early in 1919, and is owned by the U.S. Shipping Board. She has a gross tonnage of 5,562 tons and 3,484 tons net, and was built at the Hog Island Pennsylvania ship-building yards. These yards, which were erected during the war by the American government, have been making records in the mercantile ship-building world, and although the Tulsa is a large boat, she was built in the remarkable quick period of 62 in the remarkable quick period of 62 for launching ships, seven steamers aggregating 54,775 tons being launched on the evening of July 21st last in the record time of one hour and twenty-seven minutes. Whilst in port Messrs. Furness Withy & Co. are the Tulsa's agents.

Pauperising the Patients

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Permit me to make a few remarks re the Notice of the Hospital Board, whereby the Public are given to understand, that on and after January 1st, 1921, all persons who enter the General Hospital for treatment will be charged at the rate of One Dollar per day during illness, or detention in the Institution. Now, I daresay the Board, after mature consideration, decided that the above mentioned procedure was the only remedy to relieve all Hospital congestion, and to make the Institution self-supporting or nearly so, and whilst I admit the necessity and right of the Board to make a reasonable charge, applicable to patients who can afford to pay, yet, the springing of so drastic an order on the Public is too autocratic a procedure to be taken kindly by the people. Such a far reaching change in the management, or to put it more plainly, an attempt by the Board to Pauperise all patients who cannot pay One Dollar per day, should be approached with extreme caution, and more time taken to educate the people that such a change was in contemplation. You cannot, gentlemen of the Board, notwithstanding your extensive knowledge of public matters, turn a business, or the old-time routine of a Government Institution, the same overnight. Such an important matter must be taken up gradually, and by close watching and careful supervision, note how each new rule and regulation works out, successfully or otherwise. But no, such a suggestion would be too lenient, and coming from an outsider cannot be considered, but on the face of the changes about to be put in force, one can see the same lack of foresight and characteristic blundering which generally follows when a body of so-called brainy men attempt to force upon the people a charge so unreasonable, that it will meet with strong opposition and eventual failure. At the same time, every right-thinking person will admit, that all patients should pay something for the careful and obliging attention of the doctors and nurses, and to partly compensate the Government for maintenance and upkeep of the Institution; but no person should be pauperized for inability to pay. Such autocratic action is, to say the least, inhuman and cold-blooded in the extreme. There is no particle of sympathy for those who may be deprived of the very necessities of life in order to pay the fees demanded for treatment at the Institution. No consideration is given to the fact that a person may be willing to pay what he or she can afford; but One Dollar per day, or seven dollars per week is simply beyond the earning power of a great many of our people. Unfortunately, there is no middle course. The Notice calls for One Dollar per day, or upon failure to find the necessary sum, application will be made to the Poor Commissioner for payment of the scheduled sum, and upon payment, such amount becomes chargeable to the grant voted by the Government for the relief of the Poor and Destitute. What a future is before our unfortunate sick! Just think for one moment, and then realize the degradation that is about to be imposed upon you, my countrymen, and your suffering relatives. Is this picture a true one or not, Mr. Poor Commissioner? Again. In the case of a private room; the charge at present is Five Dollars per week, or double the former charge, with an additional One Dollar per day, a total of Seventeen Dollars per week, under the new rule, as against Five Dollars per week at present. Are you, I ask, trying to soak some poor and needy patient, who desires quiet rest and privacy, to the more public treatment of the Wards, and who is capable of paying the Five Dollar per week charge, but cannot under any circumstances afford to pay Seventeen Dollars per week, and as a consequence has to undertake treatment as a Ward patient at One Dollar per day? You are by this method reserving the Private Rooms for wealthy patients, thereby making a class distinction, and I ask the Public to watch closely how this latest imposition will work out.

Yours truly,
Oct. 27th, 1920. SYMPATHY.

Resolutions

PASSED AT LAST NIGHTS MEETING S.D.L.L.

There was a general meeting of the Self-Determination for Ireland League of Newfoundland last night in the C. C. Hall, Mechanics' Building. The meeting was open to the general public and an audience of at least a thousand attended. It was announced that the Friends of Irish Freedom had accepted the League's offer of amalgamation and decided to join their forces and the members of that organization entered in a body and were welcomed with enthusiasm.

Messrs. John M. Devine and John T. Meaney then addressed the gathering on their experiences at the Irish Race Convention at Ottawa. Both delivered inspiring speeches and were greeted with continual cheers and applause. Mr. Devine devoted the greater part of his address to demonstrating the absolute dissociation of the Irish cause and religious issues, and Mr. Meaney eloquently handled the political and historic side of the question, warmly denouncing the campaign of misrepresentation and calumny which was being waged by propagandist news services and the assistance given thereto by the local press. He reiterated his assertion at the Convention "Ireland never could and never will again trust the word of an English statesman." Mr. Meaney's speech evoked thunderous applause.

After a vote of thanks to the speakers had been passed by acclamation the following resolutions were adopted. The gathering standing in silence for some moments.

WHEREAS in common with the whole civilized world, Newfoundlanders have kept vigil in spirit at the bedside of Terence MacSweeney, T. D., B.A., Lord Mayor of Cork, and of his companions in martyrdom in Cork Jail, throughout their sublime moral protest against arbitrary injustice and the rule of force;

AND WHEREAS the death of Terence MacSweeney, Michael Fitzgerald, and Joseph Murphy has stricken the world with admiration for their heroism and horror at their fate;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Self-Determination for Ireland League of Newfoundland, in general meeting assembled, place on record its profound and earnest condemnation of the tyranny that tried these men on trumped-up charges before a court specially established to convict them; its abhorrence of the blind perversity that exacted their lives rather than accede to their just protest; and its conviction that this infamy will bring its own punishment;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the League congratulates the Irish Nation on the dauntless heroism displayed by its sons, which is a source of pride to our common humanity; that it condoles with the stricken relatives of these, the latest of Ireland's martyrs, whose sorrow and whose pride it shares; and that in the name of sanity and decency it demands the instant and unconditional release of those prisoners in Cork who still survive;

RESOLVED further that the members of this League, inspired by the immortal example of Terence MacSweeney and those who died with him, pledge themselves individually and collectively to spare no effort to ensure that they have not died in vain.

Over 100 new members were then received into the League after which the meeting adjourned.

Grand Concert and Dance will be held in the B.I.S. Club Rooms on Friday, 29th inst. Tickets, 50c, may be had from members of the Society or at the door. Oct. 26, 31, 1920.

Inter-Collegiate Football

Feldians and Collegians Draw.

The opening game of the second round of the intercollegiate series was played yesterday afternoon at 2.45 on St. George's Field. The contesting teams were B.F.C. and M.C. The M.C. went off with a rush, and for a time the Feldian defense was hard put to it to keep the ball clear of the goal. The M.C. attack on their opponent's goal continued for about fifteen minutes. For the remainder of the half, the Feldians, waking up, kept the ball in the M.C. goal, but all efforts to score were unavailing. After the interval the Feldians seemed to have everything their own way and were constantly bombarding their opponent's goal. Poor shooting in front of goal, however, prevented them from scoring. At times the M.C. forwards in the Feldian goal had to save some very difficult shots. The final whistle was without a goal being scored by either side.

Sons of the Parsonage.

Out of a thousand names chosen at random from the great ones of the past three centuries, no fewer than 170 are those of men who were cradled in rectories, vicarages, and "manse" the majority of them homes of small means.

They are more numerous, in fact, than the sons of Army and Navy officers, lawyers, and doctors combined. Not only do they take the palm in regard to numbers, they have a greater fame than men of any other class including such giants as Dryden, Addison, and Goldsmith in literature; Paley and Wesley in the Church; Reynolds in art and Harschell in astronomy; Wren in architecture and Jenner in medicine; Nelson sailor and hero; and Cecil Rhodes, Empire-builder.

Samuel Taylor Coleridge was the son of a Devonshire rector; William Cowper had for father the Rector of Berkhamstead; and Tennyson first opened his eyes in a Lincolnshire rectory. And so on through the long list, from Andrew Marvell to John Keble; and from John Fletcher and Thomas Fuller to Charles Kingsley, James Anthony Froude, and Blackmore.

Of our Lord Chancellors of the last two generations, four were sons of the Church—Lords Campbell and Cransworth, Shelborne and Herschell.

In the same period more than a score have worn judges' ermine; and a still greater number have been bishops or archbishops—including the present Archbishop of York and the Bishop of London.

There has been no Cabinet in any generation that has not had its sprinkling of parsons' sons, including among others in recent years, Lord Wolverhampton, Wesleyan minister's son; Mr. Augustine Birrell, Mr. Bonar Law, and Sir Robert Horns, all of whom had Nonconformist parsons for fathers; and Lord Carson, who was born in his father's rectory at Kedleston.

Household Notes.

Dissolve spices in just enough boiling water to cover them when making spice cake. A uniform flavor and an even color throughout the cake result.

The batting from old comforters may be picked in shreds, put in a pan in a moderate oven and stirred often until fluffy and used to stuff soft pillows, etc.

If you cut off all addresses which come to you typewritten on envelopes and pin or paste on laundry and packages, you will save time and perhaps trouble.

To have onion flavoring all winter, plant three onions in four crocks and keep in kitchen. Snip off a young shoot when soups or salads need a slight flavoring.

Cashed a Bank Note He Ate.

Not every Australian soldier can describe himself as a £20 (100) Commonwealth bank note and present himself to the Commonwealth treasury for cashing, but this currency transaction actually happened recently, writes a correspondent. A young South Wales "Digger" was lying on the battlefield of Fleurbaix when he saw a German Red Cross collecting party approaching him. Remembering that he had a £20 note in his pocket which would almost certainly disappear, he pulled it out, memorized the number, and chewed it up. When released at the end of the war he returned to Australia and told the story at the Commonwealth treasury in Melbourne. At first his tale was regarded as a good joke, but finally investigation was made, and it was found that on August 4, 1914, a £20 Commonwealth bank note had been issued bearing the figures memorized by the soldier. It was the only note of the series which had not been returned to the bank authorities. The defense authorities were then asked to look up the soldier's record, and it was found that he had no black mark against him, so the money was paid.

Girl Fought as Czecho-Slovak.

Anna Holokova, a Czecho-Slovak girl who fought in the front line with the soldiers of the new republic until her sex was discovered when she was severely wounded in the breast, is ranked as Czecho-Slovak's greatest hero. At the outbreak of the war, Anna Holokova, then fourteen, studied music in Warsaw. With thousands of others she was thrown into prison, suspected of being a German sympathizer. For more than a year she lay in prison until she was released. Upon the formation of the Czech army, Anna donned man's clothing as the only means of joining her countrymen in fighting for freedom. Her sex remained undetected all the time until her secret was revealed by the bullet wound in the chest. Upon her recovery the doctor refused to allow her to go back, but permitted her to remain as a nurse.

Jenkins' Ear.

If the United States is drawn into a war with Mexico over Jenkins it is no more than might have been expected. This is not the first time that a man of that ill-omened name has caused trouble between the two races. Have we forgotten the "War of Jenkins' Ear" that lasted seven years and involved two hemispheres?

Bob Jenkins was in 1731 master of the brig Rebecca, bound from Jamaica to London when she was overhauled and looted by a Spanish coastguard ship. The Spanish captain just before he left cut off Jenkins' ear and presented it to him as a souvenir of the visit. Jenkins did keep it and used it as exhibit A in evidence of Spanish atrocities.

For seven years he carried it about England with him, fanning the war spirit to a flame, until finally he was called before a committee of the House of Commons and displayed to them the severed article. One of the M.P.'s asked him how he felt when the Spaniard came at him with the big knife, and he answered: "I committed my soul to God and my cause to my country!"

Some of his opponents said that the dried up bit of flesh that he showed to the parliamentarians was not an ear at all. Others said it was Jenkins' ear, but that it had been legally amputated when he had been put into the pillory for some crime.

But, anyhow, Parliament accepted it as a casus belli among other outrages and indignities. War was declared and Admiral Vernon, alias "Old Grog," captured Porto Bello, near where Colon now stands; from which arose the British claims on Panama, from which arose the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, from which arose the dispute between England and the States over the Panama tolls, from which arose—but the rest of the acts of Jenkins' ear and all that it did are written in the annals of the future.—Ex.

Packing Rattlesnakes.

Three large rattlesnakes have just been acquired by a London animal dealer. They lay, with others, in a sunken enclosure having a glass front, and it was necessary to pack them for transport.

Describing the wriggling coils of muscle and venom as "beattles," two experts started on their task by lowering a large metal box into the cage. Promptly the rattles started—imagine an annoyed telephone subscriber turning the old-fashioned handle, and the bell-hammer hitting the wooden case instead of metal bells. Every tail stood up and every rattle threatened death and destruction to the intruder.

Next their feelings were outraged by a long rod which was thrust under the first of the victims selected for purchase. As the snake felt his balance upset, he coiled round the rod and clung to it. With a heave he was lifted up and shaken into the metal box, and his exploring nose was tapped when he tried to get out again. Two more rattlesnakes, buzzing with rage, were placed in the same box and the heavy lid was shut with the rod.

The box was then lifted out with the cord and the experts started the more ticklish operation of moving them into a wooden packing-case. This lay without a lid beside the metal box, and here the expert packers had to work at closer quarters with the reptiles. A sheet of gauze was slipped partly over the wooden case and was drawn tight when the first snake slithered in. The gauze was carefully slackened to admit the others with the ever-ready rod poised to foil a striking snake.

Finally, with only the gauze between the packers and the fangs of the thoroughly angry rattlesnakes, battens were nailed across the top to complete the boxing up. A girl messenger could have carried them without the least fear when this piece of work was over.

Parties desiring to reserve tables at the Blue Puttee may do so any time during the day, and if a special after-theatre supper is desired (Chicken, Partridge, Oysters, etc.), we will serve it by getting a few hours' notice.—oct25,61

although seeing the benefits to be derived from a Trust Company's administration, hesitates about cancelling any appointment he may have already made, the Montreal Trust Company can be named to act with the Executor or Executors already appointed. In this way the Trust Company co-operates with the Testator's appointees in the administration of the Estate.
This plan is very acceptable when the Testator's wife is named as Executor. Few women have the necessary business training to enable them to carry on the administration of an Estate, but with the co-operation of the Montreal Trust Company the Testator's wife can be appointed with full assurance that the Estate will be well looked after.

One thing essential in your Winter Coat is QUALITY. One has to wear their Winter Coat for many months, and to stand against this you require the best of material in it.
We have carefully selected our stock of Winter Coatings and feel we have goods that merit your approval. You can purchase enough excellent material to make a coat for $24.00, and if you wish we can make it up for you, and deliver the finished garment in a week or less if necessary. The material is equal in quality to that in coats which retail at $70.00 to $90.00.
We ask you to come in and see the goods, examine them, get samples and prices, compare with others, and come back and purchase the goods.
