THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1868.

FROM OTTAWA. A despatch from Ottawa says: The confusion and squabbling in the Cabinet, rendering a rupture probable at any moment, has produced a most desponding feeling among the supporters of the Coalition, and they wear very long faces. Nobody there has any respect for the Government, and Ministers are fast sinking in the estimation of the members.

The North-west and the Union. The correspondence between the Government of Canada and the Colonial Secretary on the subject of the admission of British Columbia and the North-west Territory into the Union, has been laid on the table of the House of Commons. The proposition for the annexation of these countries has been promised, by the Secretary, an early consideration, but, he says, as the subject is one of no common importance, it will require lengthened and careful deliberation. Accompanying the correspondence is a copy of the resolutions passed at a public meeting in Victoria in January last, together with a memorial addressed to the Governor General of Canada, by a Committee appointed by the said meeting. The resolutions recite the action taken by the Legislative Council of British Columbia, which, in the month of March last, passed unanimously a resolution, requesting the Governor General to take measures without delay to secure the admission of British Columbia into the Canadian Confederacy on fair and equitable terms. A public meeting held in Victoria concurred in this action. The memorialists allege that public opinion in the colony is overwhelmingly in favor of Confederation with Canada; that the office holders are generally opposed to Confederation, and that there is a small party in favor of annexation to the United States. They further urge on the Canadian Government to telegraph the Imperial Government to urge on the Governor of the Colony to negotiate for the admission of British Columbia on the following terms:—

- 1. Canada to become responsible for the public debt of $1,500,000.
2. To provide Federal officers and services.
3. To grant a sufficient fixed subsidy and per capita subsidy to insure the support of the Local Government.
4. Representation in the Senate and Commons of Canada.
5. The construction of a trans continental wagon road from Lake Superior to the head of navigation on the Lower Fraser, within two years after admission.
6. Popular representative institutions insuring responsible control over the Government.

These terms cannot be considered unreasonable, and that they are not so may be accepted as proof of the sincerity of the wishes of the people of British Columbia to cast in their lot with the other confederated Provinces. If admitted at all, they must of course be admitted in accordance with provisions in the Act in anticipation of their desire, or that of their neighbours of the North-west to enter the Union, and the same rights and privileges must be accorded them that are now enjoyed by the Canadas, or Nova Scotia, or New Brunswick. The validity of their claim for a subsidy for the support of the local Government must be allowed, and none will question their right to representation in the General Parliament. The opening of communication by a more direct route than at present exists, even though the thoroughfare should be simply a wagon road is the one condition to which there is likely to be a demur. We should not be surprised to hear it obstinately contended that a wagon road is not the proper sort of road to build, that it would be nearly valueless so far as the intention of making it subservient to purposes of emigration went; and that the Dominion is not in a position to build a railway. Should this idea grow strong and prevail, then farewell to British Columbia, for it is not at all likely that the inhabitants of that colony would join the Union while the want of a thoroughfare kept them actual aliens from the chief portion of the country to which they had been annexed. That a railway cannot now be constructed to British Columbia by the Canadian Government is certain; that it will not be undertaken by private enterprise may be asserted with equal confidence—and what then is to be done? What but comply with the modest request of the memorialists, remembering always that children must creep before they walk.

The Red River Nor'-Wester of the 29th of February contains the following strange paragraph:—"We are informed that the people of the Portage have become disgusted with the present rule of the Hon. Hudson Bay Company, and have formed themselves into a new Republic, to be known hereafter by the name of New Caledonia. President Thomas Spruce and his Private Secretary, Mr. Frederick Bird, of the New Republic were here last week, conferring with Gov. MacTavish, on important business, the nature of which is not yet made public."

Be now settled that Mr. Thos. R. Merritt and Mr. Eccles will be candidates for the representation of Lincoln at the coming election, to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Mr. Benson to the Senate. Mr. Rykert was solicited, through the medium of a requisition, to become a candidate, but he declined the proposed honor. The Hamilton Times says it is reported that Mr. Rykert will support Mr. Merritt, and that Mr. Merritt, if elected, will be an independent supporter of the Government. We apprehend the word independent, as applied to Mr. Merritt, means simply nothing at all. It is used as a sort of meaningless euphemism. We have never known any man to profess to give a government an independent support, who did not abandon his self-assumed role as soon as he entered Parliament. Mr. Eccles, we are informed, has issued his address, and comes out on broad Reform principles. The nomination will take place on Thursday, the 2nd of April, and the polling on Thursday and Friday, 2nd and 3rd of April.

GERMAN INGENUITY.—The French are peculiarly clever in delicate scientific tests; but no nation on earth except the Germans ever have thought of so singular and effective a trial of mechanical apparatus as was used lately upon a new arrangement for ventilating the House of Commons of the North German Parliament. When the apparatus was all in order, the three hundred workmen who had been engaged upon the building, which is an entirely new one, were shut up in the Council Chamber, furnished with cigars and tobacco, and ordered to enter upon a general fumigation; which command the tobacco-loving Teutons joyfully obeyed, delighted at so easy and pleasant a mode of earning their wages. After three hours, the doors were opened, and the thermometer showed a rise of only one degree in the temperature of the room, while the atmosphere was comparatively unaffected by the enormous amount of tobacco burned there. Such is the statement, at all events, if it be true, the Berlin legislators may congratulate themselves upon possessing what does not elsewhere exist,—a thoroughly ventilated Council Chamber.

A Mr. Smith writes to the Ottawa News, disclaiming any jealousy of the Frazer clan, and suggests a gathering of the Smiths. By all means, have a world's congress of Smiths.
