96. No expense to be incurred by medical officers on account of Government without previous authority for such being obtained.

97. Medical officers will, from day to day, keep a list of the names of all men and officers to whom medicines or medical advice may be given during the 16 days' drill,—according to Form A, page 54, Regulations for the Active Militia,—stating the medicines given in each case, and transmit a copy to head quarters on the breaking up of camp, together with a list of such medicines as have been expended.

98. In any cases of serious illness or accident, the medical officer shall, in conjunction with the commanding officer of the corps, make such immediate arrangements as may be necessary, sending the Patient if possible at once to his home or the nearest Hospital; he will make a minute report to head quarters of all circumstances connected with the case; and he will make a weekly report of the state of his patients, through the commanding officer to head quarters.

99. The medical officer of the day will inspect the camp and vicinity, the guard tents, cooking kitchens, latrines, &c., and will report any dirty or unhealthy condition of the camp to the commanding officer of the camp.

SELECTION OF SITE FOR ENCAMPMENT.

100. The following are the principles which have mainly led to the established forms of military encampment, and, however troops may be encamped, these principles should govern the disposition of the camp.

1st.—The front of the camp should correspond in extent with the front occupied by the force when deployed in line.

2nd. The means of passing freely through the camp with a large front should be maintained.

3rd.—The tents, bivouacs, or huts should be disposed with a view to the greatest amount of order, cleanliness, ventilation, and salubrity.

4th.—The camp should be as compactly arranged as the above considerations permit.

101. Battalion tents should never be arranged in a double line; short single lines are best. The tents in line should be separated from each other by a space at the very least equal to a diameter and a half of a tent, and the farther the lines can be conveniently placed from each other the better. Where troops are at a distance from an enemy, and are to remain some time in camp, and ground is available, the camps may be formed at double intervals.

102. Whenever troops remain in camp more than three days, tents should be struck every two days. All arms, straw, and blankets be removed from the ground covered by the tent, and the ground should be swept clean with a broom, or branches of trees, and left exposed to the sun and wind. Blankets, clothes, &c., should be spread out to air, and the tent roughly pitched in the intervals of the camp with slack ropes, and the fly loose to allow it to be well blown about; tents should never be pitched in the intervals. Men invariably at night urinate round the tent and consequently pollute the ground.

103. Whenever troops remain more than one night in camp, the tent flaps should be rolled up every morning; in rainy weather, the fly may be rolled up on the leeward side of the tent.

104. As a rule, the doors of the tents should face the head of the column, but this rule should never prevent their being turned away from the prevailing wind.

105. Trenches should be dug round tents and a drain should connect these trenches so that the water may not lodge in them, but may run freely off. The first wet day after the camp is formed, officers commanding companies should personally examine the ground on which their companies are encamped, and should see that proper drains are constructed; half an hour's work on a wet day, when the natural run of water can be seen, will do more to keep the camp healthy than a day's labour in dry weather.

106. In encamping large bodies of troops, it is very desirable that a sketch of the ground, no matter how rough, showing the place to be occupied by each corps, should be prepared beforehand; by this means the officer charged with forming the encampment can in a few minutes place the whole of the camp colour men, so that when the regiments arrive they may proceed at once to the position assigned to them. Cavalry and Artillery should never be placed on a flank, unless the latter may be necessary for defensive purposes, in which case the guns should be protected by a strong guard of Infantry. The reason for this is that, in case of attack, mounted corps take longer to turn out, and the horses, if frightened, are apt to produce much confusion.

107. The Commissariat Depot should be placed in a central position, with easy access to all parts of the camp, and close to a good road by which supplies can be brought up. The Engineers usually encamp to close Head Quarters of the Division.

WATER SUPPLY.

108. Few things are of more importance to the well being of troops when encamped, than a plentiful supply of pure water.

109. Water is usually obtained from streams, ponds, or existing wells. When troops are encamped for a considerable time, or when stationary depôts are formed on the line of communications, it may be necessary to sink the wells, make reservoirs, and lay pipes.

110. From whatever source the water supply is derived, it is absolutely requisite that it should not be polluted. The officer entrusted with the duty of forming the encampment will therefore post sentries over it, taking them from the first troops that arrive on the ground; when the camp is completely formed, a regular guard will be posted over the water supply. If the supply is from a stream, great care should be taken that the watering place for the men should be distinct from that for the animals. The latter must be lower down the stream than the former, and it is advisable to send patrols up the stream to prevent men washing or bathing in it.

111. All washing in the neighbourhood of wells or watering places used for drinking, should be strictly forbidden, as the foul water percolates through the soil.

112. If the stream have a muddy bottom, great care should be taken not to stir up the mud by dipping vessels into it; small field pumps, which form an article of engineer equipment, should be fixed and the supply obtained in that way. If the stream be shallow, dams should be made on it; these are easily constructed with a few pickets and sods,—a small piece of tarpauling may be used with great advantage for the purpose of making them water tight. A barrel sunk in the bottom of the stream affords a convenient place into which to dip the sucker of the pump, or collect water.

113. Filters can be easily made by placing two barrels one within another, and ramming the place between with clean straw, coarse sand and charcoal if it can be procured, or branches of trees with the bark taken off. The water is allowed to flow into the outer barrel and rises through holes pierced in the bottom of the inner barrel. In a standing camp, if the water is not good, charcoal should be made, and the water regularly filtered: an average of 1 gallon per head is enough for troops when encamped; if in standing camp, this allowance should be increased, as men should be encouraged to wash themselves as much as possible.

114. If the banks of the stream or pond are steep, they must be cut down so as to allow the animals to drink easily. If the soil is muddy branches of trees, fascines, and stones should be let down to prevent the animals sinking in the mud. A horse, bullock, or mule drinks about 1½ gallons at a time, and takes about two minutes to drink, or, if unavoidable confusion be allowed for, about three minutes. The time requisite to water any number of animals may therefore be easily calculated by the number that can drink at one time is known. If many animals have to be watered, and the frontage is small, the hours at which each corps is to water should be laid down, to avoid unnecessary crowding.

115. An officer should invariably accompany all cavalry parties, and instructions should be given that each horse as soon as he has drunk should leave the water, and the party should fall in at a little distance clear of the next comers.

116. If the animals have to be watered at a very shallow stream, it should be deepened, either by making dams or by excavating the bottom; animals drink more rapidly when the water is from 4 to 5 inches deep than if it be shallower.

117. There are three kinds of pumps generally used for military purposes.

1. A small hand, lift and force, pump with flexible hose. This will draw water from 18 feet and throw it about 16 feet, working with a lift of 18 feet and a throw of 7 feet (the height of an ordinary water cart); it will yield 7 gallons per minute.

2. The Norton tube well. This consists of tubes driven into the ground with a monkey, and with a pump screwed on the top. One of these wells takes about 3 hours to fix it; it will yield about 7 gallons per minute, and keep three horses drinking at one time. These pumps are very useful in searching for water.

3. The "Bastier Pump" is a pump with an endless chain, working over a wheel; it yields from a depth of 45 feet (worked with two men), 2,200 gallons per hour.

118. If the water supply is from wells, troughs should be provided for the animals to drink out of. These may be made by simply excavating the ground and roughly paving it with stones, or they may be made of wood or sheet iron if it can be procured.

LATRINES.

119. Latrines should be made by fatigue parties as soon as the troops arrive on the ground, the places having been previously marked out for them by the quarter-masters of corps and battalions. The trench should be made as narrow as possible, and about four feet deep, a rail or post supported upon forked posts at both ends, and about eighteen inches from the ground laid along the edge, will serve for the men to sit on, and the whole should be screened with bushes, trees, or lumber from public view.

120. A fatigue party should throw a couple of inches of earth over the soil every day. This if carefully done, will prevent all smell.

121. When the trench is filled up, another one should be dug near it.

122. The camp police and sentries should have orders to prevent the men from committing nuisances in the vicinity of the camp.

CAMP POLICE.

123. At every camp of exercise, a certain number of men are to be detailed as a military police force, the strength of which will vary at the discretion of the officer commanding the troops encamped according to circumstances. The military police to consist partly of infantry and partly of cavalry, who will at stated times and in rotation, patrol in the vicinity of the camps, for the preservation of good order, and to suppress all irregularity of conduct on the part of the troops. The men detailed for duty as military policemen, should wear a piece of white cotton or linen fastened on the right arm above the elbow, or some such distinguishing badge, and officers and men of all corps attending camps of exercise should be warned to obey their orders, and to afford them every support.

124. At divisional camps of exercise, the military police will be under the orders of the Assistant Adjutant General.

125. At brigade camps; under the Brigade Major, and at all camps, a Non-commissioned officer will be appointed by the officer commanding to act as Provost sergeant.

126. In cases where camps are formed in the vicinity of towns and villages, should the civil authorities require any support to the civil force during the period such camps are in operation the assistance or co-operation asked for is to be promptly afforded by the officer commanding.

DUTIES IN CAMP.

127. The ordinary routine duties to be observed in these camps of exercise will be such, modified by circumstances, as would be observed by Her Majesty's Regular troops under similar circumstances as laid down by regulations.

128. One gun will be fired by the field battery at day break, immediately after which the Reveille will be played by bands or corps of drums and fifes belonging to battalions appointed daily for this duty in succession; and at sunset another gun will be fired when the Retreat will be sounded in the same manner as detailed above. As a general rule the breakfast hour will be at 8 a. m. dinner at 1 p. m., and the evening meal at 6 p. m. Tattoo will be sounded at half-past nine, when the reports will be collected and handed to the field officer of the day by orderly officers of battalions and corps; and at ten o'clock the bugle will sound for lights to be extinguished after which no one will be allowed out of camp except passed by authority, and all officers and men are to sleep in camp.

129. There will be a field officer and a medical officer of the day appointed daily in Brigade orders, and in addition to the Supply officer, they will form the board of Inspection and Examination as to the quality of the provisions supplied by the contractors for issue to the troops. The decision of the officers composing this Board will be final as to the rejection or otherwise of the daily rations; and when such are passed, no complaints will afterwards be admitted as to quality. This Board will assemble at the time of the delivery of the Provisions in Camp, and the officers composing it are to be very punctual in their attendance at the proper hour, in order that the troops may obtain the provision supplies without unnecessary delay.

DISTRIBUTION OF RATIONS.

130. Simultaneously with the assembly of the above Board of Examination, the Quarter Masters, and Quarter Master Sergeants of Corps, accompanied by the orderly Corporals of Troops, Companies or Corps; and one Orderly from each of the Troop and Company Messes, will attend at the place appointed for the receipt and issue of rations, and after Quarter Masters have received over from the Supply Officer, in bulk the quantity of provisions their respective Corps are entitled to, they will distribute to the Orderly Corporals of Troops, Companies, and Corps, the quantities such Corps have to receive, when the same will be subdivided into the proportion for each Mess by the Orderly Corporals.

131. It will be the duty of the Orderly Sergeants of Troops, Companies, and Corps, to furnish the Quartermasters of Corps with the daily ration returns of such, upon which Quarter Masters will base the general ration return for the Supply Officer who is charged with the receipt, custody and issue of all provisions, fuel, forage required for the use of the Troops, and his duties are detailed under the head Supply Regulations.

132. The Assistant Adjutant General at Divisional, and the Brigade Major at Brigade Camps of Exercise, is the proper channel through which all orders are received and issued to the Troops.

133. The Assistant Quarter Master General at Divisional Camps, and the Camp Quarter Master at Brigade Camps, will issue to and take over from the various Corps, all articles of Camp equipage. They will issue daily the ball ammunition required for target practice by the companies and corps detailed, also blank ammunition when required for field days, and they will exercise a general supervision over the cleanliness of the camp. One tent will be allowed for every ten men, and one non-commissioned officer will be placed in charge of such men. One tent will be allowed to every Regimental Field officer, and one tent for the company officers, one tent for each Surgeon, and another tent as the Regimental Hospital Tent, one tent as Commissariat Store when no better place for storage can be obtained, one Guard tent to every Battalion, one tent will be allowed to each of the staff Officers and marquee tent to Battalion and Regiment for the officers mess.

134. The Musketry instructor will attend daily to the musketry instruction and target practice of the troops during the period of exercise, he will see that officers understand and carry out the system of registering in the returns the points obtained by the men; he will be constantly present at the Rifle Range during the target practice, to take general superintendence and control of the system of firing; he will be the referee and sole umpire, in all cases of dispute as to accuracy of marking, &c.; he will be responsible for the target practice returns, which, on the conclusion of each day's firing, he will carefully collect and record, initialing the whole for purpose of verification, handing in the same to the officer commanding the camp in accordance with such instructions as may be issued; he will also carry out any further orders connected with musketry instruction which may be issued by the officer commanding the camp.

135. It will be the duty of Brigade Majors to keep the roster of all Brigade duties and to issue daily to the Adjutants of Corps the Orders for the following day, and Adjutants are to attend at the Brigade Major's tent at the hour appointed to receive such orders.

136. The Orderly Officer will perform such duties as the Deputy Adjutant General or the officer commanding the Brigade may direct.

137. It will be the duty of Adjutants to keep the Officers roster of duty for their respective Corps, and to promulgate under instructions from their commanding Officers the necessary orders; the Sergeant Major will give out the orders of the day to Orderly Sergeants of Troops, Companies and Corps and keep the non-commissioned officers duty roster.

138. There will be an Inlying Piquet told off daily from every Corps in Camp, whose duty it will be, under the Officer Commanding the Brigade and Field Officer of the day, to patrol in the vicinity of the Camp or in such other places as may be directed, for the purpose of supporting the camp police if necessary, checking any irregularities on the part of any men belonging to their own Corps, and bringing back any unauthorized absentees to Camp, but except under urgent and unavoidable circumstances, the piquet of one corps will not interfere with men of another.

139. Officers commanding Brigade Camps will take care that the number of men detailed daily for guard and sentries, also for Regimental duties, do not exceed the usual number authorized by the Queen's Regulations and the customs observed in the Regular Army.

140. A Field Officer of the day, taken in succession according to seniority from all Regimental Lieutenant-Colonels and Majors, will be detailed daily in Brigade Orders.

141. Canteens for the supply of such extra provisions or articles as may be required, be (to enable the men to purchase for themselves such additional provision supplies, as butter, milk, eggs, cheese, &c., as they may desire), will be allowed in Camp at the discretion of the Officer Commanding, but under no circumstances will spiritous liquors of any kind be allowed into Camp; and it will be a special duty of the Field Officer of the day and Camp Police to visit frequently all canteens, to take care that this order is strictly observed. In the event of any Suttler selling or bringing spiritous liquor into Camp, he is to be turned out, and not re-admitted.

142. The necessary forms of marching in, and marching out states, rations and musketry returns, &c., required will be furnished from Head Quarters to Deputy Adjutants General Commanding Districts for distribution to Corps; but officers Commanding Battalions and Corps will be required to furnish the necessary regimental stationary, Daily Parade States, Guard and Sick Reports—as heretofore—and all Corps will bring with them their Regimental and Company Order and Defaulter Books.

DISCIPLINE.

143. Unless strict discipline be observed men cannot be formed into an effective military body—good discipline is acquired by a constant and habitual obedience to orders without murmur and without question—the officers, non commissioned officers and men of all corps are reminded of this and they should bear in mind that during the period of Annual Drill they are for purposes of Military discipline under the Queen's Regulations and Articles of War the same as if employed on actual service as defined in the Militia act of the Dominion.

144. Commanding officers of Corps in dealing with any cases of irregularity which may occur, are in all first offences not of a serious and aggravated nature to have recourse to admonition, but on repetition of offence the minor punishment authorized should be enforced according to the nature and degree of the offence, every repetition of an act of drunkenness will be visited by the stoppage of one day's pay, and the confinement to Camp of the Offenders at the discretion of Commanding Officer, and with a view to the prevention of irregularities, every effort should be made by Commanding and all other officers, to stop the introduction of all spirituous and intoxicating liquors into Camp, for it may generally be relied on that when drunkenness can be prevented there will be no crime.

145. In the event of any man being found with spirituous liquor in his possession while in Camp, or bringing the same into Camp, the liquor is to be immediately thrown away and the man should be punished by his Commanding Officer.

146. The minor punishments that may be awarded by Commanding Officers are confinement to the Camp for any period not exceeding 14 days, and stoppage of pay accompanied by confinement to camp for repeated drunkenness. Men awarded punishment of confinement to Camp by their Commanding Officers will not be allowed beyond the precincts of the Camp (except on duty), during the period of confinement to Camp awarded, and they will in addition to taking their own share of Brigade and Regimental duty, be employed as an extra duty, under the direction of the Camp Quarter Master, in preserving the cleanliness of the Camp.

TARGET PRACTICE REGULATIONS.

147. The carrying out of the Annual Target Practice of the Militia of the Dominion is of primary importance. The non-commissioned officers and men of all corps armed with the Snider Rifle will fire five rounds at 200 yards, five rounds at 400 yards and five rounds at 600 yards, and money prizes with badges will be given by Government to the best shot in every Company, Corps, Battalion and Military District, who perform the prescribed course of Target Practice at the annual drill, as follows, viz. :-

148. To the best shot in every Company or Corps, $5, with badge. To the best shot in every Battalion, $10, with badge. To the best shot in every District, $15, with badge; and the Adjutant General of Militia will give a prize of $50 with a silver medal, to the best shot with the Snider Rifle in the Active Militia of the Dominion for the year 1872.

149. The annual target practice of Brigades, and Batteries of Artillery, whenever practicable, will be carried out with field Guns, or guns of position at their disposal, under special instructions from the Inspectors of Artillery—and money prizes, with Artillery badges will be given by Government:

To the best shot in every Brigade or Field Battery of Artillery, $10 with badge. To the best shot in every Garrison Battery, $5, with badge, and $5 in addition if no prize is drawn by Battery for rifle shooting. Troops of Cavalry, or other Corps armed with the Snider Carbine, will fire five rounds at 200 and five at 400 yards, the best shot in such corps will receive a prize of $5, with badge—and where troops of Cavalry are formed into a regiment a prize of $10, with badge, in addition to the troop prizes, to the best shot in such Regiment. The Grand Trunk Brigade will carry out its annual target practice at such times during the season as may be directed by the Commandant, and will be entitled to receive the prizes before mentioned, and this Brigade will also be entitled to receive the district prize of $15. To entitle a company or corps to compete for and receive the above prizes, not less than 2 thirds of its establishment authorized strength must be present at the time and perform the prescribed annual drill and target practice (the men to be bona fide enrolled members of the same according to the Militia Act) their names being duly registered in the company target returns. To entitle a battalion or brigade of artillery to receive the battalion prize, all its companies or batteries must have been exercised, and have established a figure of merit, as laid down, and with the strength as mentioned above, at the prescribed course of target practice at the annual drill. The above prizes for good shooting will only be opened to the non-commissioned officers and men of the Active Militia, and officers are not to practise during the annual course prescribed for the non-commissioned officers and men. It is directed that the target shall be four feet wide at 200 yards, bulls-eye 8 inches square, and two feet centre; at 400 and 600 yards, 6 feet wide, with a bulls-eye 2 feet square and a centre 4 feet square. Bulls-eye to count 4, Centre, 3, and Outer 2, at all ranges. Position when firing shall be, standing at 200, kneeling at 400, and any position at 600 yards, but without artificial rests.

150. The figures of merit for a company, battalion or district, will be obtained by dividing the total number of points obtained at three ranges,—200, 400, and 600 yards—by the number of men actually firing, and carrying out the quotient to two places of decimals.

151. The best shot in the company, battalion, district, and Dominion, will be that man who obtains the greatest number of points at three distances, viz. : 200, 400 and 600 yards.

152. Ties will be decided by the greatest number of points obtained at 600 yards; if still a tie, by the greatest number at 400 yards; if still a tie, by the greatest number at 200 yards; if still a tie, by the inverse order of shots counting backward from 600 yards. And to decide ties for the Adjutant General's prize the score of each shot made by district prize winners, will be furnished in detail by Deputy Adjutants General to head quarters.

153. The prescribed course of Target Practice will be performed by the different Companies, under the command of the Captains, who will keep and sign the register of each man's performance, certifying the same as correct.

154. At the conclusion of the training the Register of Target Practice will be sent by the Brigade Musketry Instructor to Brigade Majors, who will make out District Returns from the Company Returns and forward them to the Deputy Adjutants General for transmission to Head Quarters.

155. The greatest possible accuracy must be observed in keeping the Registers, as on these depend the selection of individuals for the Annual Prizes.

156. As a general rule there should be two markers in each but, one N. C. O., and one man of a different Company to the one firing—and a Bugler at the firing point.

157. The Musketry Instructor will be on the ground during the time each Company is firing its course, to see that the course is conducted according to Regulation.

158. To prevent accidents occurring, the following rule is to be strictly observed:

The squad will form up ten paces in rear of the firing points, "ground arms," and retire six paces in the rear of the arms, which are not to be taken up except by word of command. The squad commander will remain at the firing stake, and call up each man successively who will fire his five rounds in succession, and then rejoin his squad, his score having first been read to him. The squad commander will be careful to caution his man as to the target he is to fire at, and see that he is aiming at it, and that no shot is fired until the flag or disc is entirely down. No loading to be permitted except at the firing stake. No one but the squad commander or scorer is to be permitted within ten paces of the firing point.

FIELD EXERCISE AND EVOLUTIONS.

159. As a general rule, when not otherwise directed by officers commanding at Camps of Exercise there will be three daily parades for drill for all companies and corps of infantry, not engaged at target practice, at the following hours, viz. :-

160. At 6 a.m., for company drill under captains or officers commanding companies, superintended by the field officers; at 10 a.m., for battalion drill under commanding officers of battalions and at 3 p.m. or such other times as the Deputy Adjutant General, or senior officer commanding may direct for brigade drill and exercise.

161. At the morning parades for company drill, under captains or officers commanding companies the movements and exercises contained in part II. of the Infantry Field Exercise Book (latest edition), will be practised from pages 58 to 101, and especial care will be taken to instruct each company in the mode of skirmishing as laid down at page 91 to 101, every company officer will also be practised at these morning parades in the mode of sizing, forming and telling off a company, also in the manual and platoon exercise; the men will be instructed in the manual exercise prescribed for the short rifle, except as regards the mode of fixing and unfixing bayonets, in which instance the directions laid down for long rifle will be followed. All orders contained in the Field Exercise for the guidance of troops carrying the short rifle, are applicable to the men although armed with the long rifle, and whilst performing the platoon exercise, both officers and men are to be instructed in position and aiming drill, as laid down in the book of Rifle Exercises and Musketry Instruction at page 176 to 185. Officers and men will also be practised in the mode of mounting and relieving guard, in marching reliefs, in posting and relieving sentries, in challenging at night, in receiving grand or visiting rounds, and in paying the proper compliments, and the non-commissioned officers and men will be instructed in the mode of saluting, as laid down in section 6, part I., page 14, of the Field Exercise. It is not necessary that the men should be instructed in the slow step.

162. At the parades for battalion drill, the Field Officers and Adjutants will be mounted, and the companies equalised. The strength of each company when formed for drill purposes to be not less than twenty files. Battalions will be practised in the mode of firing prescribed at page 106 of the Infantry Field Exercise Book, when the battalion is in line at close order, in forming advanced and rear guards, and in skirmishing as directed at page 205 to 221; they will also be practised in the few simple movements required from Infantry when in action as laid down in the Field Exercise Book.

163. Whenever the brigades parade for field manoeuvres, the whole of the Corps will attend (the necessary guards and one cook per troop or company only being left in Camp). At these parades the troops will be drawn up in such manner as the officer commanding may direct, and if circumstances admit should then move off a short distance from Camp in Column of route, throwing out advanced flank and rear guards, moving always as if in the close vicinity or actual presence of an enemy, deploying from time to time as circumstances and the nature of the ground would suggest into a line of battle, each arm of the service being posted so as to afford mutual support. The usual positions for field Artillery when moving with a brigade is laid down at page 278 of the Infantry Field Exercise Book, and the principles upon which these manoeuvres should be conducted in contradistinction to mere drill, is explained at page 279.

164. The established rule relative to the employment of Horse and Field Artillery, when manoeuvring directs that officers commanding divisions or detached brigades, should indicate to the officer commanding artillery under their orders, the general object of the movements about to be executed, and these officers should give directions to the captains of batteries, as to the best mode of co-operating with and supporting them.

Officers commanding batteries should be permitted (under the direction of their own commanding officers), to use their own judgement in selecting the best positions to enable them to operate with advantage either in covering an attack or retreat, conforming of course as much as the nature of the ground would permit, with the movements of the corps to which they are attached.

Any special directions received by the Officer commanding Artillery, from the Officer in command of troops, relative to any change in the disposition of the batteries during the movements will of course be promptly carried out.

A battery ought not to be exposed to the risks of infantry fire, unless under unavoidable circumstances which occasionally occur in action.

165. The brigades should be practised in taking up positions for defence, or forming for purposes of attack, in the mode of attack and carrying positions, and in retiring as if in presence of a superior force, in regular military order, from one position to another, the various arms supporting, covering, and relieving one another in retreat. Whenever circumstances will admit the troops should be exercised, whilst taking up positions for defence, in creating artificial where no natural cover is available, by constructing shelter trenches, for the infantry in the manner laid down in the Field Exercise Book, and in throwing up breastworks to protect Field batteries. Very valuable practice may also be afforded on these field days by dividing brigades into two forces, under commanders previously named in brigade orders, one side to act on the offensive, and the other on the defensive. The officer commanding the Division with suitable Staff Officers, acting as umpires. The troops on these occasions being supplied with blank ammunition. By carrying out properly the above system of practical field days, and sham battles, officers and men are best instructed in their duties, and their military intelligence becomes greatly developed.

CAVALRY.

166. The drill for all troops of cavalry and mounted corps, when such are not required for brigade exercise, will be carried out regimentally by the officers commanding, and the mode of forming advanced and rear guards practised as laid down in the cavalry regulations; also the mode of extending as mounted skirmishers, and in firing with blank ammunition when mounted whenever circumstances will admit.

The necessary instruction for cavalry corps is detailed in the Cavalry Drill Book of 1st August, 1869, and in addition to the introductory remarks contained in that code of instruction, particular attention should be paid to sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, comprising military equitation.

FIELD ARTILLERY.

167. Whenever possible, the Annual Shot and Shell practice of batteries of Field Artillery, will be carried on during the time the Battery is in camp; if there is no available range, or if the firing of shell would be attended with danger, the practice will be deferred till a suitable range can be obtained.

168. Requisitions for Ammunition and all other stores necessary to complete the equipment will be forwarded by officers commanding batteries prior to the commencement of the drill season.

169. No annual training of a Field Battery will be considered effective unless during that time at least one march of twenty (20) miles, or thereabouts, has been made with limbers and waggons properly packed, all entrenching tools, camp equipage, small arms &c. strapped in their places, on these occasions officers commanding will mount their detachments when the state of the roads will admit.

170. During the period allotted to "Regimental Drill" in camp, officers commanding will select the most simple and useful of the movements laid down in the "Manual of Field Artillery exercises." The drivers will be instructed in riding, driving, cleaning harness, &c., the gunners in gun drill, dismounting and mounting guns, righting guns which have been upset, changing wheels, removing disabled Field Artillery, &c.

171. Where facilities exist, officers commanding should practice those under their command in throwing up cover for guns in action, moving gun and horses over walls, ditches, ravines, small streams or other obstacles, and without adhering to strict rules, endeavor to stimulate the ingenuity and interests of all concerned.

172. On the conclusion of the training and return of Field Batteries to their respective Head Quarters, all harness, saddlery, carriages waggons and small stores will be replaced in the sheds in a perfectly clean state and fit for immediate service; the drivers cleaning the harness, the gunners the guns and waggons. Officers commanding field batteries will be held responsible at any time when their batteries are suddenly ordered out that the service ammunition and other necessary stores are complete and in good order.

173. "Unbribed, unbought, our swords we draw,
To guard the Monarch, fence the Law."

OTTAWA, MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1872.

To CORRESPONDENTS.—Letters addressed to either the Editor or Publisher, as well as Communications intended for publication, must, invariably, be pre paid. Correspondents will also bear in mind that one end of the envelope should be left open, and in the corner the words "Printer's copy" written, and a two cent stamp will pay the postage if not over an ounce.

DESIROUS of placing before our military readers the "Regulations for the Annual Drill of 1872-73" in full, we have been obliged to exclude all other matter, as well as delaying the issue of the paper a day longer.

"That luminary of democracy" in Montreal, the Northern Journal, attempts to be sarcastic and severe on our article reviewing the Oxford Professor's "Aim of Reform;" instead, however, of accomplishing either he manifests ill-temper which, in a pure Democrat, is a very objectionable feature—worst of all comes the confession of literary piracy, for which the amende is made with a bad grace.

The Northern Journal seems to understand cutters' law; it is the only code in vogue amongst the class it represents, restitution being only compulsory on detection; however, as the red flag has been hoisted, a piece of piracy more or less is of little consequence considering the objects of the mission to be universal confiscation.

If anything could surprise us in this world it would be to hear the organ of a pure democracy use the term gentleman; it must be a terrible heresy in a persuasion where "all men are free and equal," and can only be accounted for on the supposition that its real meaning was not understood. Perhaps the writer in the Northern Journal had not the advantage of a Webster, or he would not have lapsed into such a fearful error. We beg leave to assure him that we would begin to doubt our right to the title if he had conceded it.

We have had some success in stripping the sheep's clothing off the wolves; in this case it is only plucking the borrowed plumes off a Jackdaw, an operation all the more easy inasmuch as the garrulous and mischievous bird attracted attention to the peacock's feathers. That our readers may see the exact figure the apostle of liberty, equality, fraternity and confiscation cut, we copy in full the effusion of the Northern Journal, strongly advising the writer not to exert himself too much, or such efforts may deprive the great cause of Reform of its able advocate.

In one thing he is right, and that is in calling us an undiluted Tory, if by that term the enemy of all shams, all political false doctrines, all democratic humbug and all treason to the best interests of Canada is indicated; and we shall lose no opportunity of exhibiting the sinister teachings of such blots on the Journalistic literature of Canada in their base deformity to the condemnation of our readers.

The Northern Journal with others of its class in their insane effort to make the pyramid of social order stand on its apex are no competent judges of what really constitutes the status of any class in society—their objects as avowed by themselves, and notably in the "Aim of Reform," is a redistribution of property—in other words indiscriminate plunder—and according to the confession of their organs, the class represented must be composed of knaves and fools—the latter believing the villainous fallacies which the others concoct for their delectation.

It is not our precise business to fix the particular genus to which the author of the 'Aim of Reform' or the Northern Journal belongs, it is their own particular business to settle that, but it undoubtedly is ours to warn the people of Canada against the teachings of the one, and the insinuations of the other, even though the information is second hand. The following is the article referred to:—

"The VOLUNTEER REVIEW, that amiable and high-toned organ of Cartier and the 'gentlemen' of Canada, reviews Professor Goldwin Smith's essay on 'The Aim of Reform' in its usual chaste and scholarly way. It is hardly necessary to say that this article was copied by us from the Fortnightly Review, an English periodical of the highest class. We have not the honor of numbering Prof. Smith among our contributors. We certainly owe him and the Fortnightly Review an apology for neglecting to credit Our order is to credit all articles taken from contemporary magazines or newspapers, but the proof-reader sometimes forgets his duty in this respect. In order that there may be no uncertainty as to what matter is original and what selected in the Journal we print the one in solid type while the other is leaded, thus showing at a glance what is written for the Journal. All our readers, we think, understand this, and we are sorry to have misled the REVIEW."

"As to the article itself we reprinted it, long as it was, because we thought it worthy, and likely to do good. There is much plain talk in England which is never heard in Canada, and which a certain class of people ought to hear. Its powerful operation upon the VOLUNTEER REVIEW shows that it was the proper medicine."

"The abuse of this disgrace of Canadian journalism is the highest praise that the Professor has received on this Continent. If any one wishes to know what a genuine undiluted Tory is let him read the VOLUNTEER REVIEW. Of course the first five lines taken anywhere will show that the writer is neither a gentleman by birth nor a scholar by culture, but one of those fawning sycophants who hang around 'great men,' grinning with delight even when snubbed. Are they not 'in the presence?' Of the REVIEW itself it is enough to say that it is worthy to be Cartier's organ."

The Northern Journal understands probably from practice the sycophant's role perfectly; is he an imitator of the author of the "Aim of Reform"?

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favorite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only in 1lb., 3lb., and 1lb. tinned packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London, England

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH.

PROSPECTUS OF

A New Independent Health Monthly.

The object of it is, to teach the people all that pertains to the preservation of Health, the prevention of Diseases, and how to live in order to develop normally in body and mind.

It is not a Medical Journal, but PHYSIOLOGICAL and HYGIENIC, a family magazine, containing just that practical information on the laws of Life and Health, useful to every member of the household, and cannot but be worth many times its price to every family in which it is read.

Quack Medicines, and quack doctors will be exposed, and swindlers will not be allowed to impose on the people where the SCIENCE OF HEALTH is generally circulated.

This Journal will be the exponent of all known means by which Health, Strength, Vigor, and a Long Life may be attained by using and regulating those agencies which are always accessible and so vitally related to Health and the treatment of Diseases, including Air, Light, Temperature, Bathing, Eating, Drinking, Clothing, Recreation, Exercise, Rest, Sleep, Electricity, Mental Influences, Social Relations, and all Normal agents and Hygienic materials. All that is required to keep well and to preserve health, is a knowledge of the uses and misuses of these agencies.

The SCIENCE OF HEALTH will be the best exponent of the scientific principles of these subjects, and not the organ of any particular Institution, or of the professional practice of any one, but devoted to the best interests of the whole people.

Terms.—Published monthly at $2.00 a year in advance; single numbers, 20 cents. Clubs of ten at $1 50 each, and an extra copy to agent; we are offering the most liberal list of Premiums. LOCAL AGENTS wanted every where, and cash commissions given. Address all letters to

BAPTISED IN FIRE.

THE CHICAGO PHENIX.

A UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER.

READ THE FOLLOWING.

A popular weekly paper for the times, embracing the leading features of those journals destroyed by the terrible conflagration, and combining just such a corps of writers as will give the public all the news of the week, in a condensed compilation of the leading journals of the nation, and the world.

A TRUTHFUL RECORD.

THE PHENIX will be the most truthful and reliable recorder of incidents and facts concerning the great fire, ever published.

ACCOUNTS OF THE FIRE.

It will contain only such accounts as are vouchered for by reliable witnesses, and will correct the erroneous and fabricated statements of sensational writers.

CHICAGO AND THE NEWS.

It will, for a time, be devoted especially to the past, present and future of Chicago, besides being the most complete weekly newspaper in the world.

FIRESIDE COMPANION AND NEWSPAPER.

Its columns are devoted to News, Commerce, Science, Literature, Art, Drama, Music, Humor, Pastime, Poetry, Fashion, Society news, and enough of Romance to make it a most desirable fireside companion, as well as the most reliable and complete newspaper for the business man in the counting-room.

BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS.

It will be illustrated with engravings taken from photographs of the Chicago Ruins, instead of sketches "By Our Special Artist" who was not "on the spot," and thus give a series of PERFECT views, not obtainable elsewhere, and the first number will contain the only correct map of the burned city.

HAPPY HOURS.

That beautiful literary journal, "HAPPY HOURS," whose publisher was the first to issue a paper to meet the public demand, after the awful fire, has been merged into the literary department of the PHENIX, which will embrace the contributions of more than sixty of the most popular writers of the day.

A SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE PHENIX will contain, as an special feature, a more complete record of incidents and results of the late terrible fire, than can be found in any book, paper or other publication in the country. So numerous and inaccurate have been the accounts sent forth, that something reliable and readable is eagerly sought at this time, and THE PHENIX will fill the bill.

A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE.

THE PHENIX is the cheapest paper in America, at only two dollars a year; in fact it shall be the paper for the people and the times.

THE FIRST NUMBER.

The first number will be issued on Saturday, Nov. 11th, and will be the paper wanted by every body, as a record worth preserving or to send away, and for its accurate illustrations.

ITS BASIS.

It is a consolidation of other journals, and therefore on a solid foundation, continuing their former circulation.
