Democrats Show Large Gains in United States

Many Notables Retired to Private Life in the Balloting of Tuesday—"Al" Smith Again is Governor of New York—Lodge Wins Election.

(Canadian Press.) New York, Nov. 8.—Democratic gains in the U. S. national elections continued to pile up steadily as belated returns came in from all parts of the country early today. Throughout the night Democratic gains in the House of Representatives accumulated without counter gain for the Republicans in a single congressional district. The great majority rolled up for the Republicans in the House of Representatives in the night balloting of Tuesday. "Al" Smith again is Governor of New York. Lodge wins election. In Ohio, Representative Fees, Republican, was running a close race with leading Senator Pomeroy, Democrat, who had been counted a possibility for the democratic presidential nomination on the event of his success this year. Labor voters, it was said, were cast against Pomeroy because of his stand on the railroad question. Pennsylvania going Republican as usual, sent Gilford Fiehot to the governor's chair with a Republican administration and re-elected Senator Pepper and Reed, the latter for both a short and a long term. Senator Gerry, Democrat of Rhode Island, bested the former Republican governor, Livingston Beckman. In Texas, where a Democratic nomination was expected, the election to the senate. Support of the Democratic candidate, M. M. Neely, was leading Senator Sutherland, Republican incumbent. La Follette Returned. Wisconsin returned Senator La Follette to the senate with a large plurality. In Wyoming, where Representative Mondak, republican leader in the house of representatives, was running for the senate, the late returns indicated a close race with Senator Kendrick, Democrat, who was said to have some republican support. Democratic returns showed the Democrats making all the gains in the house of representatives and all the losses in the house of representatives. The defeat of Representative Meyer London, in New York, Berger, a Socialist, was a violation of the espionage law during the war and expelled from the house, but his conviction was reversed by the supreme court of the U. S. He then announced his intention of running for congress again. Lodge and Cox. Boston, Nov. 8.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was re-elected over Wm. A. Gaston, (Dem.), yesterday by a plurality of 1945. The vote of the state complete was: Gaston—414,790; Lodge—416,675. A recount of the vote for senator undoubtedly will be asked for by Col. Gaston, so some of his associates said. Governor Channing H. Cox, Republican, was re-elected over John F. Fitzgerald by a majority of 56,046. The vote of the state complete was—Cox—468,277; Fitzgerald—412,222. Pelletier Defeated. Boston, Nov. 8.—The entire Republican ticket appears to have been elected by safe margins. Joseph C. Pelletier, (Dem.) nominee, was defeated in the office of district attorney of Suffolk County, including Boston. His successful opponent, Thomas C. O'Brien, is a Democrat who was a candidate on both tickets in the primaries and won the Republican nomination. He was appointed district attorney by Governor Cox to succeed Pelletier. O'Brien's plurality over Pelletier was 23,412. Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8.—Former Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris, (Dem.), was elected to the U. S. senate over Senator Charles E. Townsend. PARTIES CLOSE ON RETURNS UP TO NOON

New York, Nov. 8.—At noon, eastern time, today, twenty-five states had completed their congressional election returns, but neither Republicans nor Democrats had progressed much further toward control of the House of Representatives.

The vote at that hour stood—Republicans 185 Democrats 187 Socialists 1 A majority to control is 218. Iowa was the only state which had returned a solid Republican delegation.

Seven companies of well-armed Fascists, wearing steel helmets and marching to tunes from fifteen bands, have left the Tyrol.

FREDERICTON PLANS AGAINST LOSS OF U. N. B.

City Council Appoints Committee to Watch Developments. An Embalmers' Examining Board is Appointed—The Moncton Transcript Taken Over by a New Company—News of Fredericton. (Special to The Times.) Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 8.—The city council of Fredericton has taken action to oppose any movement to remove the U. N. B. from Fredericton. The action is in the form of the appointment of a committee to keep in touch with the university authorities and friends. This committee will take whatever action is deemed necessary to keep to the front the claims of the institution as a provincial university. The committee is composed of Ald. C. W. Hall, Ald. G. T. Feeny, Ald. G. H. Clark and Ald. F. L. Cooper. Ald. Feeny and Ald. Hall are graduates of the U. N. B. Ald. Cooper said that an effort was being made to remove the university from Fredericton and that its existence here meant much to the city, not only in the way of securing employment, but also in the way of making the city widely known. He believed that the movement which had been started in every way, it might be well for the city to consider the matter of financial assistance. In the past the city had expended a dollar in aid of the university. Mayor Reid spoke along similar lines, suggesting that it might be well for the city to consider a proposition to contribute a proportional amount of the expense of the university. Other members of the council said that if the university were removed it would only be a matter of time until the city would be left with a shell. The dwelling and barn of Fredley Upton of Upper Magalloway were destroyed by fire this morning. The house, which was insured, was carried on the dwelling and three hundred on the barn. The embalmers examining board composed of N. Louis Brennan, Dr. G. G. Mevin and J. R. Sedgewick, met in the city hall this morning. Rev. A. Brock Humphries of Devon and Rev. John Stead of Centreville, Church of England, have been registered to celebrate marriages in New Brunswick.

EX-KAISER IS NOT POPULAR

(Special Cable to the New York Times and Montreal Gazette) Berlin, Nov. 5.—Most of the newspapers continue to ignore the ex-Kaiser's wedding. Others only print a few details of the programme in some obscure corner of their Sunday editions. The Lokal Anzeiger, once the ex-Kaiser's organ, pleads for sympathy with the "loose man of Doorn, once the son of the German Fatherland, who now languishing stretches out his arms for a new and silent happiness at the side of a lady who has come down to his heart." Another equally famous and monarchist newspaper, the Geitowalder Zeitung bluntly asserts that the ex-Kaiser's former adherents receive a severe shock by this marriage and identifies itself with the following lines quoted from Frau von Bunsen's book, "About the Kaiser in Doorn": "Let us hope that God will let him die a natural death. Let us hope that his life, upon which the eyes of the whole world are concentrated, may now on its eve drift into peace that will rob it of its tragic aspect. Let us hope that the greatness that is yet attached to the fate of the ex-Kaiser will not be destroyed and that the picture history will preserve of him, may not be small and unworthy of his ancestors. God grant this man a kind and speedy death."

Practices Extreme Parsimony at Doorn—Berlin Papers Ignore Wedding.

(Associated Press Cable) Doorn, November 4.—Of late the ex-Kaiser's daily log-sawing exercise has been expeditiously introduced by the introduction of a new circular saw which he can operate single-handed, instead of calling upon his gardener for assistance, as heretofore. Now, however, the new saw is lying idle and William has been taking advantage of the open shooting season to blast away at anything on wings. Even small birds present a target for him. He takes pleasure in executing rapid snooting. It would seem reasonable to expect some local celebrities to attend upon the wedding of so prominent a member of the community, but the ex-Kaiser is not popular with the Dutch villagers. Furthermore, in the rural districts of Holland class lines are rigidly drawn and the social life lacks the casual unbending of the conventions which features more democratic countries. The unpopularity of the ex-Kaiser with the villagers of Doorn is partly explained by his extreme parsimony, although he pays a local income tax based on an annual revenue of 185,000 florins. The fact that he employs German labor by preference also is a subject for much adverse comment.

The Lokal Anzeiger, once the ex-Kaiser's organ, pleads for sympathy with the "loose man of Doorn, once the son of the German Fatherland, who now languishing stretches out his arms for a new and silent happiness at the side of a lady who has come down to his heart." Another equally famous and monarchist newspaper, the Geitowalder Zeitung bluntly asserts that the ex-Kaiser's former adherents receive a severe shock by this marriage and identifies itself with the following lines quoted from Frau von Bunsen's book, "About the Kaiser in Doorn": "Let us hope that God will let him die a natural death. Let us hope that his life, upon which the eyes of the whole world are concentrated, may now on its eve drift into peace that will rob it of its tragic aspect. Let us hope that the greatness that is yet attached to the fate of the ex-Kaiser will not be destroyed and that the picture history will preserve of him, may not be small and unworthy of his ancestors. God grant this man a kind and speedy death."

DON HUNT HURLS ANOTHER BOMB AT CLOTHING PRICES. You can't get into Don Hunt's big store on Charlotte street today. He has started his annual ructions with prices throughout the whole store right at the height of the season. Suits, overcoats, undergarments, everything goes by the board at auction sale prices. Mr. Hunt says his experience is that the wise merchant should break loose from the profit ideas at the psychological time and make it doubly worth while for the people to help clear the shelves so a few months later he won't have to try and foist bargains on them when least needed. The bargains being put up for sale by Don Hunt are here for everybody now at the start of the season when they can get the full use of them. See the sale advertisement in tonight's Times.

MEN'S "BURBERRY" COATS JUST RECEIVED AT M.R.A. LTD. The man who desires a distinctive new top coat for the winter season cannot go wrong if he buys a "Burberry". Latest models are in half belted and free hanging styles. Wonderfully well tailored. They are showing in plain colors and leather mixtures. "Burberry" coats are sold at the M. R. A. Ltd. store exclusively—(Men's shop—2nd floor).

HOW QUICKLY MEN LEARNED THE LESSON. About a year ago there was a sudden babal of "bargain" shooting. Many stores shouted "cheap! cheap!" and struck a popular chord. Men wanted to economize after years of free spending. They bought "bargain clothes" to save money—and very soon discovered they were not saving because the clothes didn't hold up. Once was enough! They have proved for themselves that we have been right all along. To stand fast to our policy of selling good clothes at fair prices, and what a scramble there is among the "weather vane" stores to make you forget they ever sold you poor clothes! Our winter clothes (of every sort) are good clothes, just as we always have, and always will sell. Thus said A. E. Henderson, The Clothing Man of 104 King street.

GRIEF WAS CAUSE OF ARTIST'S DEATH. Young Dutchman's Exhibits in Paris Salon Did Not Bear His Name. (Special Cable to the New York Times and Montreal Gazette). Paris, Nov. 8.—Because his exhibits at the autumn Salon were not signed with his name, but with the name of the firm for which he worked, a young Dutch painter, Cornelius Rooker, died of grief. That, at least, is at present the only explanation of his death, which is to be the subject of a post-mortem investigation at the morgue tomorrow.

In Rooker's life and death there is one more example of the too frequent tragedies in the after-war life of the artist. Only last week an inquest was held on a young student who had died of hunger and hunger was in part, at least, the cause of Rooker's death. Like all his kind he had come to Paris filled with ambition in his art. When at last he had exhibited his art work shop, which makes a speciality of designs on batik, he earned something like $30 a month, and not more than exist even in the Latin Quarter. But he wanted more than to live. He wanted some measure of fame, and when he went to the Salon and found that his name did not figure on the work which his firm had exhibited, he seemed to his friends to become embittered and despondent.

According to his employers, a promise had been made to him that at the end of his first year's work his name should appear, but Rooker discovered a clause in the Salon rules that the name of who ever appeared on any exhibit should appear on his work. With this in his hand he went to his employers and in his excess of rage provoked them so that they dismissed him.

To his friends he said nothing of his dismissal, but for two days seemed last evening he spent with friends, who tried in vain to rouse him from his melancholy. Next morning he was found dead, still in his clothes, lying on a couch in a humble room. When a doctor was summoned he could find no trace of poison or any other means of suicide, and Rooker's friends refuse to believe that he voluntarily took his life, as he was of a very religious character. The probability is that he simply died of heart failure brought on by excessive and unbalanced emotion.

Quite a Difference. Chatham World: A Chatham visitor to Woodstock reports that automobile owners there run over to Houston every day or two and fill their gasoline tanks. The Houston price is twenty-five cents a gallon (wine measure), and Woodstock dealers ask forty-five cents. Some New Brunswick dealers are asking car owners at the price of fifty cents a gallon.

REPORT ON HYDRO SENSATIONS IN CHICAGO FIRE

Submitted by MR. SCHEIDENHELM

Heroine Dead and Rejected Suitor is Arrested Pending Inquiry.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The heroine of an apartment house fire is dead and her rejected suitor, a teacher of Spanish, was placed under arrest pending investigation of a blaze that swept through a five-story apartment building and drove nearly 400 persons from their homes.

The girl was Bernice Holm, 25 years old, who saved her mother and returned to the flame-filled building and was burned to death. J. C. Quezada, 37 years old, who twice had been repulsed by the young woman and ejected from the building, is the man held by the police. A chafe led the flames upward through the five stories, as the tenants slept. The flames and smoke were filling the building when Miss Holm woke her mother and led her to the fire escape, where firemen carried her down.

The girl turned back, presumably to effect other rescues and disappeared within the building. Other tenants of that and adjoining buildings were scrambling down stairways and fire escapes. Several of them were scorched as they fled. A chauffeur carried a woman on his back and a baby in his arms as he descended a fire escape. The scene was one of confusion and Miss Holm was temporarily forgotten.

MICHAEL COLLINS LEFT BUT A SMALL SUM. London, Oct. 26.—(By Mail)—It is understood that General Michael Collins has taken out administration of his estate, which is valued at about $10,000. It will be equally divided between members of his family. The smallness of the amount is remarkable when it is considered that Collins could have obtained large sums of money. The tales of his exploits covering some six years would, it is estimated, have brought in $200,000, while he recently refused no less than $50,000 for his memoirs.

ANOTHER "DUD."

An American engineer, who certainly ought to enjoy the complete confidence of the New Brunswick Power Company, has told the government of New Brunswick and its engineers, in effect, that they are not to be trusted.

HERE ARE THE FACTS.

There is enough water stored in the immense storage basins already provided at Musquash to develop 21,000,000 kilowatt hours for five months if not a drop of rain fell.

P. CAMPBELL & CO. 73 Prince William St., St. John, N. B.

How delightfully plain and simple all this is. Convince the people that only the power company can afford to tamper with hydro, and let the company get it—and the people go on paying high and higher rates, to provide dividends and interest on that $3,000,000, and the $2,000,000 of common stock coming right along to claim its share also, and the balance of the $7,000,000 waiting around the corner.

PREMIER FOSTER SPEAKS.

In reply to Mr. Scheidhelm, the American engineer, who says the city cannot afford to believe the government of the province, Premier Foster last night said— "The government of New Brunswick has officially agreed to furnish 10,000,000 k. w. h. per year to the city of St. John from the Musquash plant. It is also agreed to supply from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 to Moncton. It will supply both places and the energy will be delivered to both places as required, and more will be delivered just as soon as the power market will absorb an additional quantity. The people of St. John need not worry about the capacity of the Musquash plant. The government has guaranteed to give them, when they want it, as much power as they require up to 15,000,000 k. w. h. per year."

GREAT BRITAIN'S EXAMPLE

(Baltimore Sun.) Great Britain's payments of interest on her debt will tend to crystallize the feelings of America with regard to her foreign debts. This country has been more or less uncertain about the debts due from Europe. Intellectual people, including many bankers, say that the debts are dangerous assets. Other people, also extensively intelligent, say that America lent money and should collect it just as a private creditor would. It is not a matter of right, but of expediency. And now Great Britain acts as if she were going to pay, while other nations expect about the same treatment. Intellectuals in the American demands. Does this mean that Great Britain is the only honest creditor to think so. Perhaps what it really means is that only in Great Britain has public opinion come to regard the future as of more importance than the past—to believe that the war can be paid for by a loan, and that the debt and debts which are out of harmony with the standards by which the world guides its daily business.

IN THE DAYS OF OLD LIVING.

Describing old stage-coach days between New York and Albany, Sarah Conestock writes in the November Harper's Magazine. "Steak, fish, and beer were served at the best taverns for breakfast, with cakes, tea, or coffee. At two or three o'clock in the afternoon, when the stage was at a substantial dinner of many boiled dishes and a great amount of meat. At seven o'clock came a sturdy supper. Brandy, hollands, and other spirits were furnished at dinner, and a vast variety of other beverages might be ordered from the still-devil of early fairs to the small drinks so popular to quench an honest thirst, not to heat the brain." New York State was famous for its cider, and the many other drinks made from its potent apple. Kalm, in 1740, saw the horse press in use in the Hudson Valley."

THE NEW ART.

"What is good for sore eyes is good for sound eyes. A picture gallery one day Jones objected to a modernist landscape," writes Simon Strunsky in the November Harper's Magazine. "He said it did not show the world as he saw it. And he had gone on to describe just how he did see that particular landscape in respect to form, light, and color. 'To be sure,' said his artist friend, 'that is the way you see the world. You're so beastly healthy. But that is not the point. The question is how does the world look to anyone endowed with progressive glaucoma and in an advanced stage of paresis?' And there was nothing Jones could say."

SAYS ENGINES OF THE SHIP WERE VERY DIRTY

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Captain W. E. Cornott, late master of the steamer Sackatoon, was the chief witness heard yesterday by the Dominion wreck commission's court here, at an enquiry into the accident to Lachine Canal lock No. 1 on October 21, when two gates were carried away and much damage and delay caused to shipping. The witness said he repeatedly gave orders for full speed astern and finally the accident occurred.

CHURCH BELLS CALLS VOTERS OF ATLANTIC CITY TO POLLS

Atlantic City, N. SUN BATHS ARE ADVOCATED

The Academy of Medicine in Paris Hears of Benefits of Solar Treatment.

Paris, Nov. 8.—More extensive use of sun baths in the treatment of tuberculosis has been urged upon the Academy of Medicine by Dr. Armand Delle. He reported that several tubercular cases and also sufferers from prionitis had been cured by sun baths in various sanatoriums in Southern France. He said he believed the solar treatment would be effective in Paris during the sunny season. The sun cure was further praised by Dr. Maurice Benoit, who declared it was beneficial for cancer. He reported on experiments with mice.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 147. SIMPLE R. F. AMPLIFICATION.

Radio frequency amplifiers employing air core transformers have been used quite extensively with considerable success when care is exercised in designing the transformers for the particular wave length on which they are to be used.

The circuit shown in the diagram below makes use of one stage of radio frequency, detector and one step of radio frequency amplification.

The circuit shown requires but one amplifying transformer since coupling between the one step of radio frequency amplification and the detector circuit is obtained by means of impedance coupling in the form of a variable capacitor.

Since radio frequency amplification requires that the transformers employed be designed for the particular wave length on which it is desired to receive, the circuit shown above where a variometer is employed for coupling coil, the circuit shows where a variometer is employed for coupling coil.

While this circuit is useful in the reception of damped waves such as emitted by spark stations and radiotelephone stations by increasing the filament temperature of the radio frequency amplifier tube this circuit may be caused to oscillate at an adjustable frequency so that the reception of continuous waves such as the carrier wave of radiotelephone stations and continuous wave telegraph stations may be accomplished on the heterodyne principle.

The circuit illustrated is particularly useful in cutting out the interference from the spark stations, since these signals are not amplified the same amount as the signals from continuous wave stations. Station disturbance is also reduced to a minimum when employing the radio frequency transformer.

In using this type as well as other types of radio frequency amplifiers it should always be remembered that vacuum tubes have a certain capacity between the elements which varies somewhat with the different makes and lengths of 960 meters at present extensively employed for broadcasting purposes the capacity of the tube plays an important part and in some types of tubes forms a shunt path for the radio frequency currents thereby materially reducing the strength of the received signal.

It has been noted above that this circuit may be used for the reception of undamped signals by setting up local oscillations. In multi-stage amplifiers it is sometimes difficult to prevent the circuits from oscillating due to a certain amount of feed back coupling in the battery circuits or the other wiring of the set. Oscillation may sometimes be prevented by exercising great care in making the battery wiring as short and as low resistance as possible or by employing separate batteries for the different stages of amplification.

Lesson No. 148. POINTS TO REMEMBER.

If the receiving antenna is exceptionally long it may be necessary to insert a variable condenser in series with the antenna circuit in order to reduce the wave length sufficiently to tune the resonance with broadcasting stations operating on 960 meters.

Storage batteries may be charged from any lighting circuit whether the current is alternating or direct. If the current is alternating it is necessary to step the voltage down by means of a transformer, then to rectify it into pulsating direct current by means of some form of magnetic or electrolytic rectifier. If the current is direct it is merely necessary to reduce the voltage by means of series resistance inserted in the line which may be in the form of lamps in parallel.

Receiving sets for portable use at summer camps and elsewhere may be operated in conjunction with a loop or coil antenna thereby avoiding danger from lightning and obviating the necessity of constructing an outdoor antenna and ground. Regenerative receivers should be used when a loop is employed since considerable radio frequency amplification is obtained with this type of receiver.

Condensers having a capacity of the order of .001 microfarad allow radio frequency currents to pass with little opposition but audio frequency currents do not pass through such small condensers. Condensers should have a capacity of several microfarads when they are to be employed in circuits in which audio frequency currents are wanted.

Inductance coils consisting of a few turns of wire on a form with an air core offer practically no opposition to the flow of audio frequency currents but are often used as radio frequency chokes. When it is desired to keep the radio frequency current entirely out of the circuit a coil having an iron core may be employed.

In damp muggy weather the pole pieces of the magnets in telephone receivers may become so rusted as to impede the vibration of the diaphragm. This condition may be remedied by removing the cap and metal diaphragm and carefully wiping off the ends of the magnets with a fine cloth dampened with sewing machine oil.

Before dismantling the receiving set in order to pack up for the summer or for transportation to the city or seashore it may be well to re-tune out a circuit of the way the set is connected up so as to avoid repeating the period of experimentation which always precedes the satisfactory operation of a home-made set. This applies particularly to sets where the component parts are not mounted on a panel but are arranged at random on the table.

Variometers are not as efficient as tapped coils in tuning to very short wave lengths since there is always a certain amount of wire in the circuit representing a constant resistance in the case of the variometer. LONG SKIRT ADDS TO UNEMPLOYMENT

Garment Workers Out of Work by Style Change.

Relief Fund is Provided—Abandonment of the Suit in Favor of the Dress Enforces Idleness Upon 80,000.

New York, Nov. 8.—The return of the long skirt is held to be largely responsible for the widespread unemployment, with its consequent distress, among thousands of workers in the ladies' garment industry of New York City. The condition of the workers and their families recently became so acute that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, headed by Benjamin Schlesinger, called a meeting of its district chairmen to consider what relief measures might be taken.

At a meeting held on Wednesday last the district chairmen were asked if they would give 8 per cent. of their weekly income to a relief fund for the thousands of idle workmen. They voted affirmatively, and their action is binding on 2,500 district chairmen, according to Mr. Schlesinger who explained that the collection of the relief fund was already under way.

The unemployment among the garment workers is unprecedented for this time of the year, and according to Mr. Schlesinger, it is due to the change of style in women's dress. Enforced idleness is prevalent for the most part among the workers who were engaged in the manufacture of women's suits.

In the manufacture of suits for women there was an unexpected slump during the summer just ended. The falling off, according to reports current in the trade, was caused by the re-appearance of the dress with the long skirt. The suit was practically abandoned in favor of the dress during the past summer, and it was due not only to the fact that the change from knee to ankle length skirts was effected first in women's dresses, but to the fact that women found it more economical to wear dresses than suits. Another factor which increased the popularity of the dress, according to Mr. Schlesinger, is the simplicity of the one-piece garment.

"When a woman buys a dress, it is all in one piece," explained President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. "You might say that her purchase is complete. With a suit, which is practically abandoned, she must buy a dress to make up a suit, including the skirt, the blouse and the shirt waist."

"When a woman buys a suit she then has to consider the purchase of a waist to match the suit. It is easy to understand why women showed such a decided preference during the past season for dresses."

The fact that the dress lends itself so readily to artistic drapery of the human figure is also considered among the factors which contribute to its popularity.

The Vogue for dresses, according to rough estimates by Mr. Schlesinger, has resulted in unemployment among 30,000 workers in the cloak and suit business. He said that of the entire 50,000 garment workers he expected to find employment when the long lockout and strike was ended in the spring, and the outlook was bright for a heavy demand for women's suits, there were 15,000 who were kept busy in the manufacture of women's dresses, and about 5,000 who found employment in the cloak and suit business.

Some of the manufacturers of women's suits, according to Mr. Schlesinger, have felt no ill-effect from the "unusual" popularity of the long-skirt dress, but he explained that they were the manufacturers for whose designs there was always a wide demand.

The collection of funds for the suffering garment workers and their families will continue until the first part of November when the cloak and suit business will begin to make up its garments for spring trade.

News of the G. W. V. A. and Its Activities

The Alliance Session—The Flanders Poppy on Armistice Day—Information About Missing Soldiers is Asked For.

(By G. W. V. A. News Service.)

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—General satisfaction is being expressed by ex-service men throughout Canada at the results attained by the Dominion Council of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance in session at Ottawa last week.

It was also decided to continue the federation until plans for more intensive work could be developed.

The legislative committee of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance will also assume the task of marshalling the ex-service men's case for additional re-establishment measures before the royal commission, appointed at the last session of parliament to enquire into the subject.

A significant custom.

Those who wear the little silk replicas of the Flanders poppy on Armistice Day, November 11, will be helping to attain three worthy objects, according to statements of those in charge of the distribution at Dominion headquarters of the G. W. V. A.

The Flanders poppy as the "Flower of Remembrance" bids fair to become a permanent custom, and the G. W. V. A. hopes to have the manufacture of the silken flowers for the Armistice Day anniversary reserved as a non-competitive occupation for the disabled men.

The "Heart-ache" Bureau.

In a recent letter a correspondent described the information department of Dominion Headquarters, G. W. V. A., as the "heart-ache" bureau.

The funeral was attended by many and a large number of spiritual and beautiful floral tributes bore mute testimony to the popularity of the young lady and the sympathy aroused by her early death.

SEEK INFORMATION

Two Upper Canadian publishing houses have written the secretary of the board of trade asking for detailed information about St. John. An inquiry has been received for the names of hay and farm produce dealers. The last issue of The World's Markets published in New York, a copy of which has been received by Secretary Armstrong, devoted chiefly to articles on Canadian trade.

THE VICTORIA RINK

If notices which will be posted soon on Victoria Rink are disregarded, police will be posted at the rink. The rink is not used, so Commissioner Thornton, of the public safety department, said this morning. A copy of the city engineer's report, the commissioner said, was sent to the owner, F. E. Williams, some two months ago. Mr. Williams declared yesterday that if the rink was closed he would sue the city for damages, and he planned operating as usual this winter.

ST. JOHN REPRESENTED

The St. John district was well represented at the twenty-first dominion convention of the Metropolitan Insurance company, which was held in Halifax the other day. Among the 100 field representatives of the company who attended the following were the local representatives: Harry F. Lowman, manager; Douglas C. Jones, Stanley Clarke and Edward Finlay. If the price were cut, as it will be, to the 1918 rates when Musquash power is turned on for city use, the consumption will naturally increase, because cheap power always means expansion, greater use of energy by both light and power users. Engineer's estimates have supplied data to the government showing that the Musquash plant can supply 10,000,000 k. w. h. to St. John at any time, and although St. John cannot use that amount at once, that amount will be ready. In fact the engineers show that the plant will produce 21,000,000 k. w. h. even in an exceptionally dry season. It must be remembered that our engineers have been at work on this enterprise for a long time, and that while some engineers are still hesitating, the Musquash plant is ready to turn on the power. Seeing is believing.

MRS. MARY BALSON

The death of an old time resident of St. John occurred recently in Dorchester, Mass., in the person of Mrs. Mary Balson, widow of J. B. Balson, who some fifty years ago conducted a hat and cap business in the old Pine building, this city. Mrs. Balson was a daughter of Conductor James Decker, one of the first conductors of the old Intercolonial railway, who will be remembered by older residents of the province. Mrs. Balson was survived by two daughters, Miss Belle Balson and Mrs. A. Swallow; one son, John Balson, and one sister, Miss Hannah Decker, all of Dorchester. Old residents of St. John will hear with regret of her death. Burial was in Dorchester.

THANKSGIVING TEA

A successful Thanksgiving tea was held on Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Spencer, Douglas avenue, by the members of the Tuckabatchee Circle of St. Matthew's church. The rooms were attractively decorated with yellow candles and chrysanthemums. The dining-room was exceptionally pretty in the soft glow of the candlelight. The beautifully appointed table was presided over by Miss Jennie Kein and Miss Myrtle Daley. Miss Irene Hunter received tickets at the door. Those who assisted with the serving were: Miss Louise Schroeder, Miss Alberta Galbraith, Miss Jessie McCarthy, Miss Winnifred Morrison, Miss Lillian Priddle, Miss Lillian Garnet, Miss Amy Chesley. Candy was sold by Miss Mrs. Brooks and Miss Margaret Kein. A satisfactory amount was realized for the building fund of the church.

GOOD BOWLING

An interesting two-men bowling match game was played on the Victoria Alleys last evening by Harrington and Copp versus Gill and Farnham. The former team won, largely due to the excellent bowling of Joe Harrington, who averaged above 104. The scores follow:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Score. Total, Harrington 102 89 87 104-328, Copp 90 84 86 92 104-460, Gill 104 94 100 102 85-485, Farnham 99 78 102 89 87-465

A prize for the highest string bowled on the Victoria Alleys last week was won by Waldo Reid. He and Edward Farnham tied, and last evening met in a three string total to decide who would get the prize. In the last box Reid was forced to make a seventeen spare to tie and managed to do so. Another roll-off was necessary, and Reid won.

PREMIER FOSTER GUARANTEES POWER ENOUGH

Pours Some Hot Shot Into Mayor's Expert's Eleventh-Hour "Report" on Musquash

ALL POWER THAT ST. JOHN CAN USE

Also Plenty For Moncton—Binding Contract of the Government Leaves no Cause For Worry About Sufficiency of Power—A Word About "Roorbacks"

Premier Foster was asked last evening by The Telegraph if he had read the report submitted to the Mayor and Common Council by Mr. Mc. Scheidhelm, the Mayor's expert on Musquash, in which it is alleged that the power there is insufficient to supply St. John and Moncton requirements during years of low stream flow. The Premier said he had not only read the report but he had been amazed by its character.

"This is not a report from an engineering expert at all, whatever the detailed report may be if it ever comes," said Hon. Mr. Foster. "This looks to me like an eleventh-hour campaign document, what they call a roorback, and it isn't very much of a roorback at that."

"I have every confidence in the good sense of the people of St. John and New Brunswick and I know they are not going to be hurried from their purpose in connection with hydro by any device to discredit our policy, this 'preliminary report' on the Musquash which makes its appearance on the eve of an election. I have nothing to say as to the wisdom of spending the city's money to secure a report at this time to attempt to discredit the people's own enterprise. That is a question for the electors, and I shall not deal with it."

"But when the good faith of the government of New Brunswick, of which I am the head, is attacked, it is only natural that I should make reply, quickly and definitely. And my reply is that whoever or whatever Mr. Scheidhelm may be, the electors of St. John and the people of New Brunswick are not at all likely to be swayed or influenced by him in this matter."

"The government of New Brunswick has officially agreed to furnish 10,000,000 k. w. h. per year to the city of St. John from the Musquash plant. It is also agreed to supply from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 k. w. h. to Moncton. It will supply both places and the energy will be delivered to both places as required, and more will be delivered just as soon as the power market will absorb an additional quantity."

"The people of St. John need not worry about the capacity of the Musquash plant. The government has guaranteed to give them, when they want it, as much power as they require up to 15,000,000 k. w. h. per year."

"Remember that at present the Power Company distributes in this city 100,000,000 k. w. h. If the price were cut, as it will be, to the 1918 rates when Musquash power is turned on for city use, the consumption will naturally increase, because cheap power always means expansion, greater use of energy by both light and power users. Engineer's estimates have supplied data to the government showing that the Musquash plant can supply 10,000,000 k. w. h. to St. John at any time, and although St. John cannot use that amount at once, that amount will be ready. In fact the engineers show that the plant will produce 21,000,000 k. w. h. even in an exceptionally dry season. It must be remembered that our engineers have been at work on this enterprise for a long time, and that while some engineers are still hesitating, the Musquash plant is ready to turn on the power. Seeing is believing."

"Suppose that St. John found that it required more than 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 k. w. h. All right. The government will deliver as much more power as St. John desires to contract for at any time. Even the present great storage at Musquash can be increased, if need be, long before this country, or the whole country, between here and Moncton, could utilize all the energy which the Musquash plant can generate today, if the government would be harnessing the Lepreau, and the Mesagaugavie if the increased use of power showed that it was necessary to tap those other sources of energy."

HYDRO MEETING AT THE IMPERIAL

Mr. Fisher and Other Speakers at Gathering Tomorrow Night in Interests of Hydro at Cost.

Interest is keen for a meeting to be held in the Imperial on tomorrow, Thursday evening by the forces of hydro-at cost. In addition to the candidate, Mr. Fisher, there will be speeches by Roy Willett, Gordon Keith, Herbert Phillips, K. H. Smith of the Dominion Waterworks Branch of the Department of the Interior, and at least one other speaker of high reputation. There will be an orchestra. There will be several important announcements, and the Power Company-McKeean campaign will be thoroughly exposed.

TRYING HIS HAND AT GAME AS DETECTIVE

Raymond Searles in Police Court This Morning

Had Magnifying Glass and a "Secret Service" Badge Made from Piece of Alarm Clock—Working on the Tom Lee Shooting.

Another chapter in the story of the missing bullet which is suspected of being concealed somewhere in the person of Tom Lee was told in the police court this morning when Raymond Searles was charged with impersonating a police constable, wearing a badge and representing himself as a detective on November 7. Searles pleaded guilty.

Detective Bliddecombe said that yesterday he and Sergeant-Detective Power had gone to a house in Carlton street directly over the laundry of Tom Lee and there had found the defendant talking to a lady. They had asked him what he was doing and he had said that he was trying to help them out. When asked where he got the authority to act as a detective he had said nobody had given it to him. As to being in Tom Lee's place he had said that he was trying to get a description of the man concerned in the hit-up. The witness had asked him if he had a badge and had pulled aside his coat. Fastened to his vest was a badge, made out of the back of an alarm clock, of nickelled brass and bearing the words "Secret Service."

When searched for police headquarters his pockets were found to contain a magnifying glass and French dictionary and a note book with some notes relative to the shooting of the Chinese. There were also an identification card from some detective agency in the United States and some letters from a correspondence school. A piece of the back of an alarm clock from which the badge had been made was found in his hip pocket. The accused had told them that he was not getting any money for his work but had simply been trying to help them out. He had had a card with "R. H. Searles, Private Detective" on both sides, which he had shown to the witness. He had been in the laundry seven times.

The accused said he had taken a correspondence course in detective work in 1918 and finished in October 1919 for which he had paid $20. When the course was completed they had sent him a diploma and guides. When he received the diploma he had gone to Mr. Hayes, then mayor, and had obtained permission to carry on his work. He said Mr. Hayes had told him to get two references, which he had done, and then had told him to go ahead.

The magistrate said he was liable to a fine of $100 or three months in jail but that some inquiries would be made about him and the case resumed on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Two men charged with drunkenness were remanded this morning.

GOING TO HALIFAX

A. W. Covey, president of the maritime branch of the A. U. of C., announced this morning that an executive meeting will be held in Halifax tomorrow morning at which boxing matters, records, etc., will be dealt with. He will leave for Halifax tonight, accompanied by Charles Gorman and Harold LaPiere, who will participate in the maritime indoor athletic championships to be held in the big arena tomorrow night. Gorman will enter the fifty, 100 and 220 yards events, and LaPiere will compete in the 880 yards and the one mile.

Nevertheless I must say that we who have lived in New Brunswick for many years have faith in ourselves and when at the polls our people have approved of a policy of development, the progressive policy we are now engaged in carrying out, it is scarcely likely that we shall be turned aside by the dictum of even so distinguished an authority as this Mr. isn't it Scheidhelm?"

ENOUGH WATER IN THE DAMS AT MUSQUASH TO RUN HYDRO PLANT FOR FIVE MONTHS EVEN IF IT NEVER RAINED A DROP

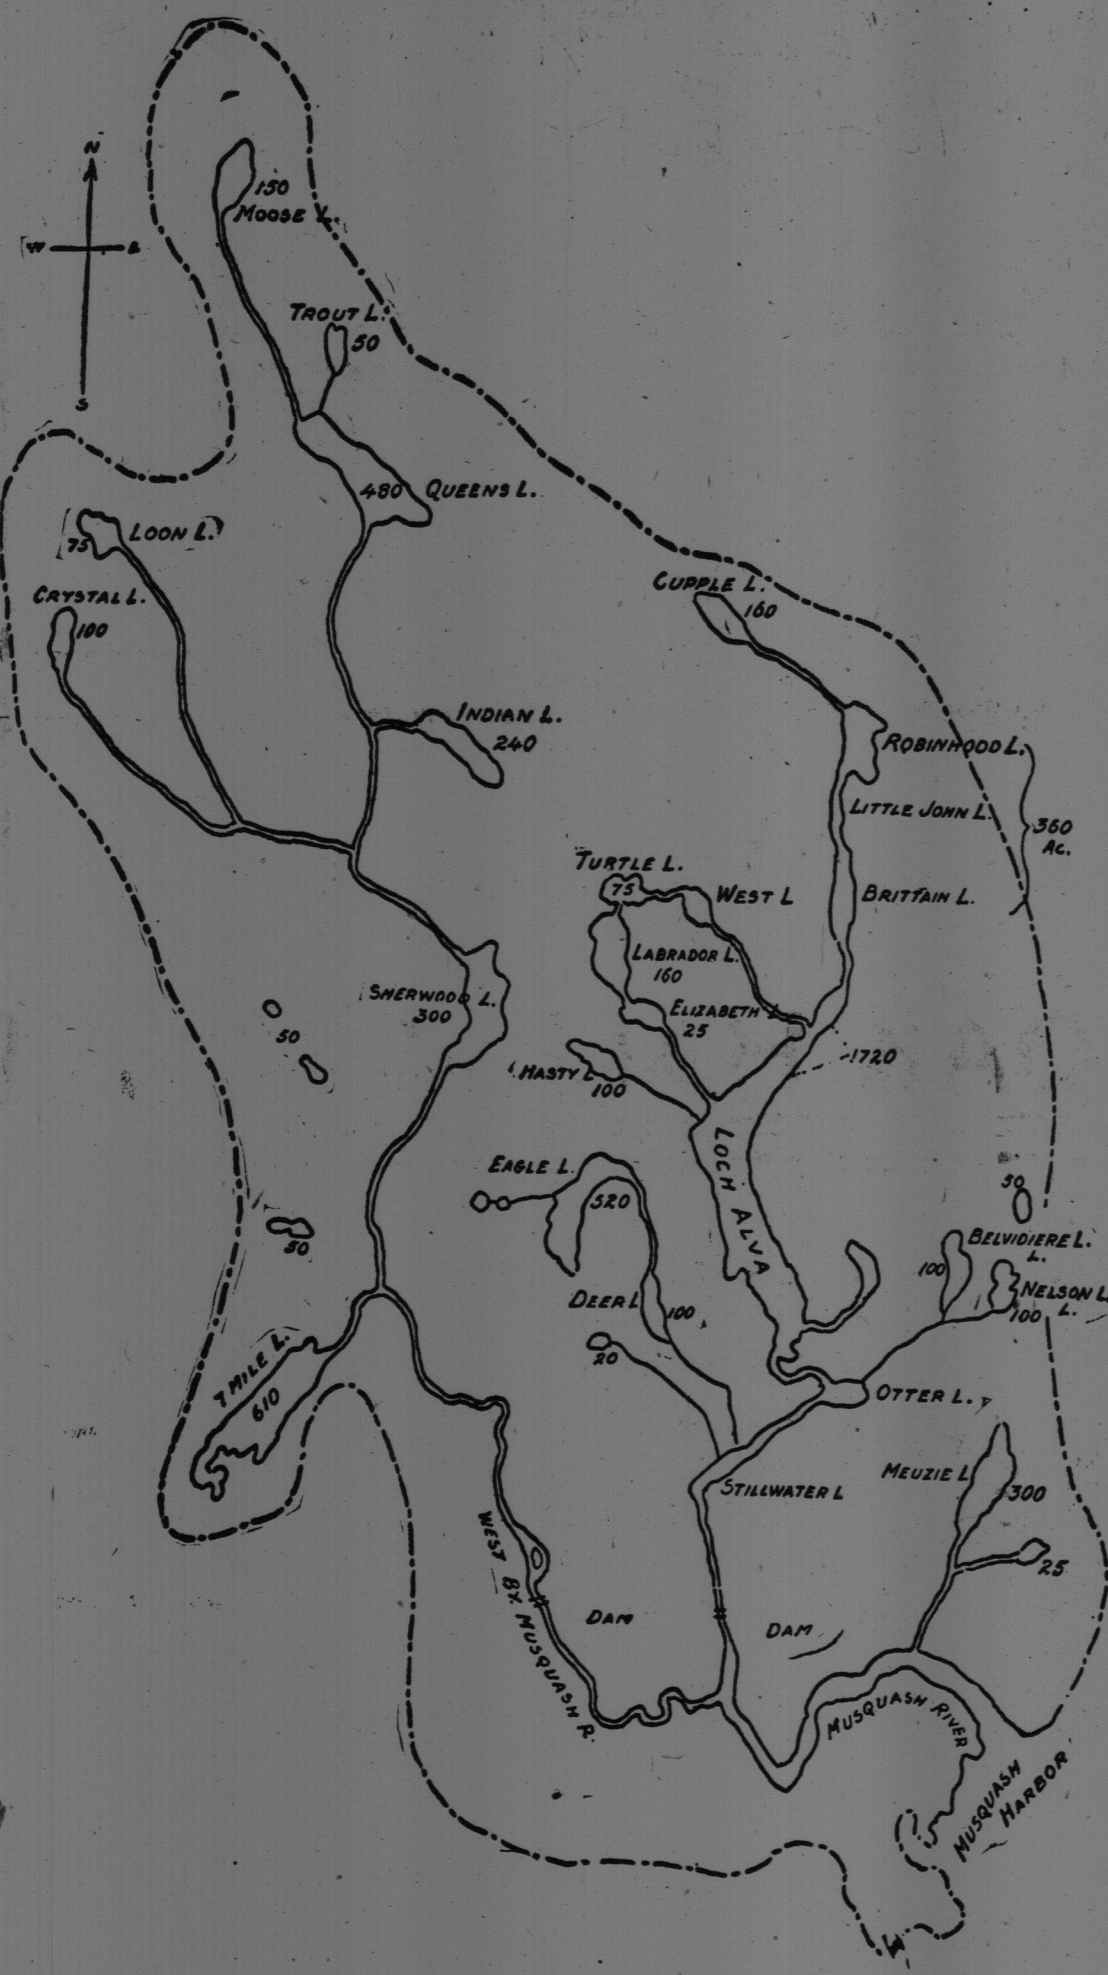

A Continuous Lake on East Branch; A Continuous Lake on West Branch; Miles and Miles of Stored Water

One Can Paddle For Nine Miles in One Place Over Tops of Trees, and Seven Miles in Another, to Say Nothing of the Large Number of Auxiliary Lakes—Total Storage Capacity 4,403,000,000 Cubic Feet of Water, Nearly 3,000,000,000 Cubic Feet of Which Already Developed—And the Water is There Now.

If New Brunswick should have, by any chance, another year as dry as 1921—the driest in seventy-five or one hundred years—there would still be enough water in the dams at Musquash to run the plant all summer, if it never rained a drop.

There are 7,880 acres or 12.3 square miles of surface area in the Musquash storage lakes, that is to say the lakes on which dams have been constructed.

THE POWER IS THERE

This map shows the great drainage area of the Musquash. The lakes referred to in the article accompanying this map are named. The figures on the map indicate the area of the lakes in acres. The dams marked are the big dams on the West Branch and East Branch above the power house. As Mr. Kribs, the Ontario hydro-electric expert points out, no citizen of St. John who may take the trouble to paddle over the miles and miles of stored water at Musquash will ever think of questioning the Musquash capacity. The whole plant and storage capacity, Mr. Kribs has declared many times, compare most favorably with the finest hydro-electric development he has ever seen.

Think this over: The total storage capacity at the Musquash is 4,403,000,000 cubic feet of water. There is already developed 2,898,000,000 cubic feet—and the water is there now. Let us see what this means. The guaranteed capacity of the Musquash plant is 21,000,000 k. w. h., and the water stored there is sufficient to develop the current guaranteed for five months if not a drop of rain fell.

The water now stored at Musquash is enough water to cover the whole of the city of St. John fifty feet deep—and the area of the city of St. John is 2,150 acres.

THE WEST BRANCH.

Take the West Branch alone. In this development 900,000,000 cubic feet of water is impounded at the Log Falls storage; 476,000,000 cubic feet at Seven Mile Lake; 415,000,000 cubic feet will soon be stored at Sherwood Lake and 300,000,000 cubic feet more at Queens and Indian lakes.

A CONTINUOUS LAKE.

Some idea of just what this great storage means on the West Branch alone will be gleaned from the fact that a visitor to the Musquash recently stepped into a canoe at Scott Falls, one mile from the main road leading to St. John, and paddled over a continuous lake of stored water seven miles long, and in places a mile wide, on his way to Seven Mile Lake. Where previously there was just the bed of the Musquash stream and the low-lying land on either side stretching out to the hills, there is now this extensive expanse of water held there by strong dams constructed in the low places.

No one would recognize the West Branch of the Musquash at all so complete has been the change, and on the journey to Seven Mile Lake one paddles over the tops of trees which already are becoming loosened from the soil below and rising slowly to the surface.

For instance, Hall's Lake, off to one side and connected with the West Branch has been raised twenty feet, the water completely submerging the old fishing club house there, long familiar to many St. John fishermen, and making it necessary to construct a new one. Old lumber camps along the Musquash stream are now under water.

And remember this: This seven miles of continuous lake is wholly in addition to the storage in Sherwood, Indian and Queens lakes, to say nothing of smaller bodies of water, connected with the West Branch.

THE EAST BRANCH.

So much for the West Branch. Now take the East Branch, a larger basin with much more stored water than the West Branch. In this development there is stored at Loch Alva 1,258,000,000 cubic feet of water, and in the power dam 264,000,000 cubic feet. To this is to be added Eagle Lake with its 242,000,000 cubic feet; Little John and Robin Hood Lakes with 247,000,000 cubic feet and Belvidere Lake with 200,000,000 cubic feet. On the East Branch one can put a canoe in the water at the East Branch power dam and paddle nine miles over a continuous lake without interruption except at the head of the regulating pond fowage where the canoe has to be carried 1,000 feet on land to Loch Alva.

And in addition to this nine miles, where the water is in many places very deep and very wide, there are smaller bodies of water. On the East Branch as on the West Branch one travels by canoe for miles over the tops of trees.

These are the two great bodies of water already developed at the Musquash, and as rapidly as a greater capacity is needed there other lakes connected with the East and West Branches will be developed in the same way merely by the construction of additional storage dams.

The immense drainage area of the Musquash territory is between 140 and 170 square miles in extent.

The drainage area of the two branches is practically the same—about eighty-five or ninety square miles each. But the certainty of the water supply lies in the run off records so carefully compiled and kept by the Dominion Water Powers Branch. The power house is only twelve and one-half miles from the Reversing Falls at St. John.

Following are salient features of the Musquash development:

The water from the West Branch is delivered through an eight-foot wood stave pipe 7,420 feet long to the power house under a static head of 118 feet above high tide, but as only the upper half of Bay of Fundy tide is dealt with there are twelve of each twenty-four hours of low tide, and meantime for the other twelve hours, so that the average static head is 125.5 feet.

The water of the East Branch is delivered through a ten-foot pipe 3,000 feet long to the same power house under a static head of 107 feet above low water, ninety-three feet above high tide or 100 feet above meandide, and for the reason stated the average static head for the full twenty-four hour period is 103.5.

THE WATER IS THERE.

One thing is certain: No citizen of St. John who goes to the East and West Branches of the Musquash and travels by canoe over the miles and miles of stored water will for a moment believe that there is the slightest danger of the minimum supply of water at any season of the year falling below the conservative estimates—and they are most conservative—made by the experts, and endorsed in every detail by Mr. Kribs, the Ontario hydro-electrical engineer, even supposing that not a drop of rain should fall for five months.

THE POWER IS THERE

This shows where the East Branch Dam was built. The big dam was constructed at the high bluff, and the water has been raised to the level of the white mark near the top of the bluff.

LABOR AND HYDRO

The Longshoremen's Association is ally do other than it did, since the first represented as opposing the action of plank in its platform is "The public the Trades and Labor Council in de- ownership of public utilities." It sim- clarifying for municipal ownership of hydro.

In the first place, the Association is not and has not been for some time in a position to criticize the action of the Trades and Labor Council in endorsing Mr. Fisher's platform on hydro; as it has for some time had no delegates representing it on the floors of the Council, as required by constitution. For failure to be so represented a local organization is liable to lose its charter. The Longshoremen's Association in this matter has been misled.

In the second place, the Trades and Labor Council could not constitutionally meetings, it becomes the constitutional duty of every local organization to support such action, in the interests of the people.

In the fifth place, the vote at the Trades and Labor Council last Friday night in support of Mr. Fisher's platform was unanimous, as the records will show; and among the bodies represented were the machinists, cigar makers, bakers and confectioners' workers, ship liners, coal handlers and trimmers, civic employees and the street railway men's association. It was largely attended meeting.

It is rather strange that at this time any man who is on record as in support of municipal ownership and worked in behalf of the government's hydro policy, should forget his own interests and those of the public and refuse to aid in getting public ownership of hydro and come out in opposition to the platform of his own organization.

The Longshoremen's Association as a body does not favor this course. It stands for public ownership of hydro, as set down in Mr. Fisher's platform and in the platform of organized labor.

Kansas City Man Got Loans From Banks in Eleven States.

Kansas City, Nov. 8.—"Frenzied finance outdone" might well be the title of the life story of R. R. Through his attorney he says he has $28.52 in a bank, he carries $30 in his pockets, owns $300 worth of furniture in a rented house, drives a Packard twin six and owes $1,709,461.01.

To the Electors of the City of St. John

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

Having been nominated by a large and representative body of citizens as a candidate for the office of Mayor at the coming election, and my platform on the Hydro question having been published, I respectfully solicit your support and vote.

This is a crisis in the life of our City. Cost of Electricity to the people must not include inflated valuation. Do not fall to vote for cheap Electricity, as provided for in my platform.

Sincerely Yours, G. FREDERICK FISHER.

St. John Folk Want What South Bay Already Has

Hydro Current At Four Cents Looks Better Than Power Company's Fifteen Cent Rate—Great Difference Also in Quality of Light, Says One of First Users.

Although no further South Bay homes have been connected for the Musquash current—the reason being that wiring of the buildings has not been completed as yet—it is expected that several will be receiving the benefit of the "juice" within a few days. This practical demonstration of Musquash power to the consumer at four cents per k.w.h., with a minimum charge of $1 a month, still holds the centre of the stage in hydro discussions. The opponents seeking to discredit the Musquash development, the workers said last evening, are having a hard time convincing thoughtful citizens that the power is not there, in the light of what is being done for South Bay and communities along the route to Musquash. "To appreciate the great difference in the quality of the light we are receiving," said Mr. Ferris, South Bay, "tells entered largely into the discussion."

SAYS HYDRO POWER HAS BEEN GODSEND

Manager of Sarnia System Declares City Has Profited Immensely By Cheap Current—Hopes People of St. John Will Get the Benefit Too—Not a Single Cent of Increased Taxes, He Explains.

To the Editors of the Telegraph and the Evening Times, Gentlemen:

At the municipal election of January 1, 1916, the ratepayers of the city of Sarnia passed a by-law authorizing the purchase of the electric generating plant and distribution system of the Sarnia Gas and Electric Company, also the signing of a contract with the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario for 1,500 horsepower.

On June 1, 1916, the plant of the Sarnia Gas and Electric Company was taken over by the city and was operated under a committee of the city council until January 1, 1917, when a Hydro Commission was elected by the citizens to operate the same, the writer being appointed manager.

The generating plant taken over by the city was one of the most economical plants for its size in the province, consisting of gas fired boilers, reciprocating engines run in conjunction with low pressure turbines, also Westinghouse high pressure condensing turbine, but in spite of this fact it was decided to scrap the plant, and although Sarnia is practically 250 miles away from Niagara Falls the way the line runs the wisdom of not maintaining a standby plant has been amply proven in the last six and one-half years of operation, as the shut downs have been of such short periods, that before a standby plant could have been put into operation the power would be on again. These experiences have been few and far between.

The following facts I am pleased to furnish you to show the benefits enjoyed by the citizens since advent of hydro in this city:

- (1) Domestic rates prior to hydro, 6c per k. w. h. net. Present rates, 3 1-2c per k. w. h. net.
(2) Increased use due to lower rates, 100 p. c.
(3) Average cost per H. P. per year to power customer 1917, $88.28; 1921, $22.02.
(4) We have sold hundreds of electric appliances to the citizens, such as washing machines, vacuum cleaners, irons, toasters, heaters, fire places, including electric ranges which number close to 300.
(5) Number of industries located in Sarnia since 1917, 21—due to hydro.
(6) The citizens have never been taxed one cent for hydro since its inception, the utility being self sustaining, and in addition has supplied enough revenue above all costs to increase its assets of 1917 amounting to $248,000 to $509,000 in 1921. The present liabilities of the utility are only 59 p. c. of the assets, so that in a very few years this will be wiped off and the citizens will own a very valuable plant free of debt, which has been properly maintained and is in first class operating condition, and in addition will have a paid up interest in the distribution system and power plants at Niagara Falls amounting to $500,000.

Hydro power has been a Godsend, not only to this city but to this province, as it has practically been the means of keeping our people and manufacturers independent during the coal shortage.

I hope the above facts may be of some service to the citizens of your city. I remain, Yours truly, (Sgd.) J. E. B. PHILP, E. E. Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 24, 1922.

LONE ENGLISHMAN WALKING TO CALAIS FROM SINGAPORE

Has Covered the First 2,100 Miles—Malays and Burmans Friendly.

Rangoon, Oct. 8.—(By mail.)—Charles W. Blythe, an Englishman, who is journeying on foot from Singapore to Calais, France, and London, recently arrived in Rangoon and is now on his way to Calcutta. He intends to pursue his way through northern India, Babochistan and Persia to Satal-Arab, whence he will follow the Euphrates to its source and make his way back through Asia Minor and Europe. He hopes to arrive in England by the end of 1923. Mr. Blythe, who has already covered 2,100 miles of his trip, thinks that his last 200 miles in Siam consisted as difficult a country as he shall ever encounter. He carries no firearms or weapons of any kind, and has not yet had need of any. His pack weighs from twenty to forty pounds, and consists of clothes, food, maps, notebook and simple camp utensils.

Malays and Burmans, the traveler says, are the most friendly people he has encountered so far. The Siamese he ranks last, although none of them have been definitely unfriendly. Describing some of the adventures he has had since leaving Singapore last May, Mr. Blythe says in part: "I wished to traverse Siam with all possible speed. From Kuen Nung my troubles commenced. Roads in the interior of Siam are non-existent. Even cart roads are termed by courtesy. For two days I traveled by earth paths, sleeping in farmers' houses, until I reached Potalung, which is a railway town not far from the coast. The place being infested with mosquitoes, I requested the station master to allow me to sleep in the waiting room, which request he granted. "Leaving Potalung I entered the jungle again, although farms and villages were frequent. All this time I was guiding myself northward by the sun, every day or two tracking across the railroad in order to keep the direction. There was but little fear of losing my way, as the mountains ran parallel to the sea, leaving between a strip or plain, varying from ten to

Saw No Wild Animals.

"It was remarkable that I encountered no wild animals, and very few snakes, which sometimes I killed and sometimes avoided. The natives were generally friendly enough, although our intercourse was limited owing to my defective Siamese vocabulary."

Some forty miles north of Chumphon I was very puzzled to account for the fact that large expanses of the hillside were cleared and used as grazing grounds for cattle, as I had not credited the Siamese with sufficient energy to clear large areas of hill jungle. I was told that some sixty years ago, a terrific tempest swept across the isthmus of Kra and destroyed all the vegetation.

From Prechup Kirikan the country became Siam of the picture books—pagodas perched on seemingly inaccessible crags, natives clad in brilliant colored clothing, quaint ox carts, priests and monks and monasteries, herds of vicious looking water buffaloes, and rice fields everywhere.

I entered Bangkok July 26, exactly two months after leaving Singapore. Bangkok, like most large towns of the east, is a curious mixture of west and east, the old and the new. Palatial reinforced concrete buildings are jostled by wretched hovels; foul smelling winding lanes lead from spacious boulevards. Pagodas stand a stone's throw from churches.

The old walls of Bangkok are a fine example of the fortifications as understood by the Oriental nations. Miles in length, averaging thirty feet in height by some twenty in thickness and built of massive blocks of granite, they present a fine spectacle. The government houses are built of stone and are imposing structures. About half a dozen of the fat-famed white elephants are housed there. The transports service in Bangkok is the most comfortable of all I have tested in Asia.

Exide BATTERIES

Long-Lasting Power

You have a right to a battery that is powerful not only when new, but that like the Exide keeps its power through a long life of service.

Do not think of Exide quality as a luxury, for it is dollars and cents economy. Give a serious thought to the battery when you select a new car and in replacing your present battery, insist on an Exide. If you have any trouble in getting one, write us or our nearest district distributor.

If you don't feel warranted in buying a new Exide Battery at this time, ask our Service Station—before you consider getting a substitute make of battery—whether your present battery cannot be rebuilt with genuine Exide parts. Go to an Official Exide Service Station for Winter Storage—it will pay you.

Burglars Get Only $10 in Brooklyn Church—Fall in Attempt to Open Safe.

New York, Nov. 8.—After they had attended benediction services Friday night in St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, Brooklyn, burglars remained in the building and passed a portion of the night there prying their way into the vestry, wrecking the combination lock on the safe and rifling seven out of eight poor boxes. The net results of their night's labor was not more than $10.

The theft was reported to the police of the Buttes street station by Mr. M. G. Flannery, rector of the parish. He said that when Sexton George Dugan unlocked the building at 3 o'clock Saturday morning he found that burglars had been through it. The molding and panel of a door leading from the aisle of the church to the priest's vestry had been broken so that a hand could be passed through and the portal opened. A 600-pound safe in the vestry had

Failing to make progress with the strong box, they removed the bronze knob from a closet in which they found two bottles of sacramental wine which they emptied before going through the poor boxes scattered through the building. The only clues left were a small black cap and part of a package of cigarettes.

INFANTRY PARADE LED BY TRIPLETS

Twins and Other Children Also Support Kiddies' Friend.

New York, Nov. 8.—Triplets made their first official entry into politics Saturday afternoon, when Patrick Thomas and John Hickey, aged three, led a column of infantry up Broadway in behalf of State Senator Nathan Straus, Jr. The brothers Hickey were closely followed by a half dozen sets of twins, twins six at it were, a big brass band, and a thousand other children of various ages and assorted colors.

Senator Straus was responsible for the law which makes it a crime for landlords to discriminate in the renting of apartments against families having children. He is now interested in the fight for purer milk for babies. The parade was an exhibition of gratitude on the part of the children and a major feature of the senator's campaign for re-election.

VISITORS INSPECT COURTNEY BAY

Visiting Engineer-Secretary is Guest of Dry Dock Manager and Local Engineering Institute.

Frank M. Ross, general manager of the St. John Drydock and Shipbuilding Company, Limited, entertained about twenty-five guests at dinner yesterday in the company cookhouse at East St. John. The dinner was in honor of Fraser S. Keith, general secretary of the Engineering Institute of the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Keith was the guest of honor of the St. John branch of the engineering institute last evening at Bond's, A. G. Tapley was in the chair and Frank P. Vaughan was toastmaster.

After dinner, the manager took his guests to the immense concrete structures and there, looking down a hundred feet into the basin, the party saw the framework of the great gates slowly being erected.

Proposing a toast to Mr. Ross, Alexander Gray, local engineer for the Federal Department of Public Works, took occasion to remind his hearers of the pains and care which the St. John Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Company, Limited, to construct a drydock second to none on the North American continent.

Careful tests were made of all the material used in the construction of the dry dock and it is said, nearly 60,000 yards of concrete had been placed in the gigantic structures, which is rapidly nearing completion.

In acknowledging the toast, Mr. Ross expressed his pleasure that so many had seized the opportunity to inspect what would soon be one of the St. John's greatest assets.

Mr. Keith, general secretary of the engineering institute, followed and during the course of his remarks expressed the hope that next fall, when the grand opening of the dry dock occurred, the annual meeting of the institute might be held at a time to coincide with this important event.

Mr. Ross informed a newspaper reporter that he was leaving for Boston this evening to inspect the plans drawn up by the Crandall Company for the new marine railway to be erected on the north side of the dry dock.

The superintendent of nurses reported sixty nurses on the staff. Two nurses, Miss Fraser and Miss Keith, had graduated in good standing, and the four nurses who had returned after their training in Montreal had stood highest in their class.

The financial statement showed receipts of $2,802.20, including paid receipts, $2,754.95; X-ray, $887.50; city, $7,060.62. Expenditures, $1,083.25, leaving a balance of $4,566.25.

The superintendent of nurses reported the medical staff of the General Hospital. The monthly report of the superintendent showed that 189 patients were admitted during the month, of which 119 were remaining at the end of the month.

The medical staff reported the typhoid cases occurring, but one typhoid case had died. Consultations of doctors had been arranged and there was more co-operation between the wards and out-patient department facilitating early discharge.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep their households free of the coughs and colds, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your household.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses or honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough, especially in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every membrane, loosen dry, hoarse, or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Specially good for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial pneumonia.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. In fact, it is the only cough remedy that has been analyzed and found to be safe and effective.

Mr. Keith was the guest of honor of the St. John branch of the engineering institute last evening at Bond's, A. G. Tapley was in the chair and Frank P. Vaughan was toastmaster.

The Engineering Institute was toasted next and C. G. Kirby, district engineer with the C. P. R., was heard in reply. He told of the progress being made by the engineering profession during the last five years.

Mr. Keith was next called upon and in opening his address said that although the institute had been in existence for many years, it had not taken any part in provincial matters.

He referred to the report of the committee on the subject of the development of the natural resources of the province, which had been presented to the legislature.

The remainder of the evening was given over to entertainment, with music and vocal numbers. Announcement was made that the next meeting of the institute would be held at a time to coincide with the opening of the dry dock.

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Eat Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World.

New, Mr. Keith, tonight your fast and clammy jaws. Tighten, now still tighter. As tight as you can. Notice how weak the tightest you can get. Vitamins and iron in your yeast made possible for you to do these two things. If you had still more vitamins, ironized, you could tighten your fast and your jaws all night long. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but it is yeast, which is a substance that contains iron, and iron, which is a substance that contains yeast.

Philadelphia Reserve Bank Reports Extension of Revival to All Trades.

The monthly report of the Philadelphia Reserve Bank takes an entirely hopeful view of the trade revival. That the movement of the trade is upward, it reports, "is no longer open to question. Unsatisfactory Situation in International Soccer Tournament—The Question of Players' Selection.

London, Eng., Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press)—The International Soccer Tournament threatens to become farcical, according to a sporting writer in the Daily News.

The Irish selectors have met with several refusals. Liverpool, because of injuries to players, intimated that the club could not spare its Irish players.

A victory for England under such circumstances would be no great accomplishment, the Daily News writer says, and the international championship is robbed of much interest as a result.

Clubs would not object to players being called upon for mid-week matches, and the Irish and the Welsh would then be able to command their best players and there would be real championship matches.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A renewal of the nineteenth ward feud which has cost a score of lives in the past two years, was seen in the assassination of John Scully, 60, a wealthy contractor, who was shot down in the street by two men with sawed-off shotguns this week.

Arrangements Made for a Game—St. Francis Xavier vs. Fredericton High.

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 8.—An agreement was reached between representatives of the U. N. B. and Dalhousie last night to play the game to determine the maritime intercollegiate rugby championship in Amherst on next Saturday afternoon.

The U. N. B. team plans to leave here on Friday morning for Amherst. St. Francis Xavier school rugby team will arrive here on next Saturday morning from Antigonish, N. S., to play Fredericton High School here that afternoon for the maritime intercollegiate rugby championship.

COINS MINTED BY GROESUS ARRIVE IN UNITED STATES

New York, Nov. 8.—Dr. George Horton, United States consul general at Smyrna, where he witnessed the burning and sacking of the ancient seaport and the evacuation of the 40,000 refugees in five days, arrived here Saturday on the America of the United States Lines, bringing with him a priceless treasure in the shape of thirty small gold coins which were minted in the reign of King Croesus in the Sixth Century, B. C.

On one side of each coin is a bull's head and on the other a lion's head. The outlines are quite discernible. They were evidently cast in a die of pure gold, he said, and then trimmed down by hand. The coins are very crude but round. They will be turned over to the American Archeological Society, more than from the safe in the consulate at Smyrna.

GENL. HARRINGTON FIFTY YEARS OLD

Hero of Constantinople Has Had Noteworthy Career—Rapid Advancement.

London, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press)—Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Harrington, commander of the allied forces at Constantinople, upon whom the eyes of the world, particularly the eyes of the British Empire, were turned during the recent crisis in the Near East, and who was largely instrumental in saving the situation and preventing a war with Turkey, is just fifty years old and a true type of the modern British general staff.

General Harrington had other adventures. He was not only a good athlete, excelling at cricket, but he possessed a pleasing personality and the gift of popularity. Wherever he went, he made friends, and at the same time gained the approbation of his superiors.

During the Great War he passed from one good appointment to another. Beginning on the Third Army Corps staff he was soon selected as chief staff officer to the 40th (West Riding) Territorial Division. Next he became chief of staff of the Canadian Corps. Then in June, 1918, he was chosen to support Sir Herbert Plumer as major-general, general staff, of the Second Army.

Six weeks later in April, Harrington was summoned to London by Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, who was murdered in London in June of this year, and was appointed to act as deputy-chief of the general staff, with a seat on the Army Council. This position he relinquished in November, 1920, in order to assume his present office in Constantinople.

A case against Samuel Sewell was started in the county court yesterday before Judge Armstrong. Testimony was given by the following witnesses: John B. Jones, Duncan Lingley, A. G. McMillin, Murray Latham, James Kincaide, W. Hawkins and Harry Smith. The trial is being resumed today.

New York, Nov. 8.—Raymond Collins of Brooklyn, convicted of a murder charge on Staten Island, has become the champion checker player in the Sing Sing death-house. Playing checkers in the death-house, where each player is locked in a separate cell and cannot even see his partner, is a difficult game.

The positions on the checker boards are all numbered. A player not alone moves his own checker when he plays but also moves his rival's checker according to the directions the rival calls out from his cell.

Collins, who is said to be a college graduate, gave his address as 1674 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, when convicted of the murder of Michael Connor, watchman of a liquor warehouse in New Brighton, S. I., on March 1 while Connor was defending $35,000 worth of liquor.

Reports of the various companies which reach him each day.

He gives twenty minutes to breakfast, ten minutes to the newspapers, half an hour to correspondence, and is at his office before nine.

Both breakfast and lunch are light meals. The former usually consists of tea, yeast bread and butter, jam or marmalade.

Lunch—taken in the office—comprises a couple of poached eggs, or a little meat, and a cup of tea.

After lunch, Lord Leverhulme indulges in a short sleep. He looks up on this as most important. From nine to one and from 2.15 to 6.30 he is busy at work, and when he leaves for home, business is banished for the day.

Dinner is at seven, the evening is devoted to social pleasures, and, when at home, he is in bed by ten o'clock. It is interesting to note that Lord Leverhulme likes walking, tennis, dancing. Does not care for golf, tennis, cards. While not a teetotaler, he rarely touches alcohol, and does not smoke.

ASSERTS SECURITY IS PREFERABLE TO GETTING PAYMENT

Loucheur Declares France Would Better go Without Indemnities Than to Run Risk of Danger of Attack From Revived Germany.

(Canadian Press Dispatch.)

Paris, Nov. 7.—France might better forego payment from Germany than to be endangered by a new attack from a resuscitated country across the Rhine, Louis Loucheur, former minister of liberated regions, told the Chamber of Deputies today.

"If by one of these plans," he said, discussing proposals for rehabilitation of Germany during the debate on the budget, "Germany is made strong what will become of France's security?"

"I tell you bluntly, that between not being paid and not being in security, I would rather be in security." This statement brought strong applause.

Premier Poincaré interrupted M. Loucheur's suggestions for a change in the administration of the Rhineland with the declaration that the territory would not be evacuated until Germany had fulfilled the treaty requirements. "These requirements," he declared, "have not been fulfilled; they will not be fulfilled for a long time, and so long as they are not France will continue the occupation. Preceding governments have said so and I repeat it."

M. Loucheur urged the chamber to get together and try to find a remedy for the country's financial condition, "or soon we will be at the brink of the abyss."

Foreign loans to stabilize French exchange were urged by M. Loucheur, who warned the country against the danger of the franc dropping. "Take care, gentlemen," he said, "exchange is a rolling ball which there is the possibility of not being able to stop if one does not act soon enough."

"What is really needed to stabilize our money is for the government to create a big reserve of foreign notes by loans abroad and by appeals to the patriotism of Frenchmen, for there remain in France billions in foreign securities."

SCIENCE POINTS THE WAY

MADE IN CANADA

To no one body of men does the present generation owe more for its good health than to dentists. The clean healthy mouths of people of to-day are a tribute to modern science. And Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream has played its part. Colgate's cleans teeth the right way—"washes" and polishes, doesn't scratch or scour. More dentists recommend Colgate's because it is the SAFE Dentifrice to use Every Day.

Van Buren of the United States Line, on her last westward voyage, brought in 100 passengers, all of them first class, and, according to the ship's surgeon, nearly every one of the 100 was afflicted at some time on the trip with colds, chills, flu, la grippe, ague or some other allied ailment until it became known definitely that a passenger must be near death before liquor enters into medical treatment. Then the health of passengers showed a surprising improvement.

TEST CASES ON MATTER OF SODA-FOUNTAIN TAX

The government has decided to institute proceedings against several local business concerns operating soda fountains in order to collect the five per cent tax imposed a few months ago on drinks made at the soda fountains, according to information received yesterday afternoon. It is said that none of the local concerns have been paying the tax and test cases are to be made of the act at once.

The tax was one which was imposed in the fielding budget and was supposed to come into effect on July 1 last and the act said that "On beverages, when containing not more than two and one-half per centum of proof spirit nor in cans, bottles or other containers, as follows: beverages derived wholly or in part from cereals or substitutes therefor, unfermented fruit juices and infusions thereof, carbonated beverages or aerated waters, all other compounded or mixed soft drinks, sold by a person conducting a soda fountain, ice cream parlor or other similar place of business, a tax of five per cent shall be charged."

The merchants all over Canada have been greatly wrought up over this tax, as it is declared that it is almost impossible without employing an expensive staff to keep correct records of drinks made at the soda fountain, when there is no tax on bottled drinks, milk and egg drinks and ordinary ice creams. They feel that they would have to have a special bookkeeper to keep track of this tax alone and that the profit is not even enough to pay for such a person.

The government is making test cases of the tax and it is said that the local men are determined to fight it through the courts. J. A. Barry is looking after the government's cases and he has not decided as yet whether they will come up in the police court or in the exchequer court. Meanwhile the local merchants are sitting tight and calmly awaiting developments. Thus far those to be charged with not complying with the act have not been notified officially to appear in court.

BUY 9-FAMILY HOUSE IN GERMANY FOR $99

New York Resident pays 162,000 Marks for Three-Story Building in City Near Berlin.

New York, Nov. 8.—Americans may find it profitable to purchase German real estate because of the low value of the mark. This is indicated by the announcement that a New York resident has just completed a transaction by which he purchased in a German city, near Berlin, a three-story apartment house, built of brick and accommodations for nine families, for the sum of $99.

Several weeks ago, according to officials of the S. W. Straus & Co. of Fifth avenue, they were requested by one of their customers to cable the sum of 162,000 marks to a bank in Berlin. The cost, $99 in American money plus $4 cable charges, was charged to the account of their client. Last week, they said, they received a photograph with a letter explaining that the sum cabled to Germany has purchased the apartment building.

Built of brick, prior to 1914, this three-story building originally cost 25,000 marks, at prewar exchange 85,000. The description says the building stands conveniently near a street car line and not far from the railroad depot in a city of 125,000 population. The house now furnishes homes for nine families, but owing to certain housing laws which have provided fixed rent charges for the present and make it impossible to oust the tenants, the rents coming in pay only a modest return on the investment. The owner stated that "time will remedy this condition."

The Value of Time

By Krinos
Painting by HAROLD DELAY

TO CHARLEMAGNE'S court from far-away Bagdad came an oriental water-clock. King of the Franks and Roman Emperor, the mighty Charlemagne was ever mindful of the value of Time. For his empire was vast, his government personal; he must needs make moments count. Education, brushed aside in his youthful fighting days, became his burning ambition. While he ate he listened to history. While he dressed he gave audience to pleas for justice. Wakeful nights found him struggling to learn to write.

Time made the unlettered monarch one of the greatest educators of the Middle Ages. Haroun-al-Raschid, caliph of Bagdad, read the secret of Charlemagne's power and paid it subtle tribute—a wondrous water-clock inlaid with gold. Proudest possession of a proud empire, eleven centuries ago—yet how crude a device compared to those marvelous timekeepers of our own day—
