Large Gathering at Banquet at
Bond's in Honor of Members
Who Went Overseas

Members of Marlborough Lodge No. 207, Sons of England, gave a banquet last evening in Bond's restaurant in honor of those of their members who had been overseas.

Following a tasty menu, F. J. Punter, who presided, read an address of welcome, saying in part: "It affords me a great deal of pleasure to extend to you on behalf of the lodge a hearty welcome home. I feel proud to be president of a lodge of true English fighting men. Out of a membership of 227 when the war broke out ninety-seven have been in active service, twelve of whom will never return. We deeply mourn the loss and our sincere sympathy goes out to the relatives." The president also referred to the fact that war claims amounting to $106,672 had been paid to dependents. He also said that the present financial condition of the lodge was gratifying. District Deputy H. C. VanWart proposed the toast to the "Supreme Lodge," which was responded to by T. H. Carter, supreme president; the "Soldier and Sailor Brothers" was proposed by Char-

ABOUT RHEUMATISM

What Thousands Have Found Gives Relief From This Painful Trouble. Rheumatism is a constitutional disease, manifesting itself in local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles. It cannot be cured by local or external applications. It must have constitutional treatment. Take a course of the great blood-purifying and tonic medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acid condition of the blood on which rheumatism depends and gives permanent relief. This medicine combines, with excellent alteratives and tonics, what is generally conceded to be the most efficient agent in the treatment of this disease. *If a cathartic or laxative is needed take Hood's Pills. A toast to department members was proposed by P. L. Griffith. Addresses were given by Wm. Hawker, Dr. L. M. Curran and John Walker. Mr. Carter presented to E. A. Darby a certificate of merit for securing new members.

A fine programme of entertainment was carried out. Among those taking part being Walter Brindle, S. K. Smith, W. C. Parker, Elmer Belding, E. C. Girvan, R. Carson, F. J. Punter, C. A. Cromwell and L. C. Cochrane, who directed the music, which was furnished by Bond's orchestra. About five hundred were present at the dinner.

EYE STRAIN.

This is usually due to a defective formation of the eye ball, and not to a diseased condition. White glasses do not cure this defect, they correct it by restoring normal vision without strain. Eyestrain causes loss of nerve energy and physical disability. If bodily comfort is desired, together with ease in reading, glasses to correct this defect should be procured. If you are suffering from eye strain let us examine your eyes and fit you with the right kind of glasses. Why not arrange an appointment today.

A PLEBESCITE

BEFORE BONE-DRY IN PROVINCES

The Prohibition Situation as it is Left by Action of Parliament

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 11.—Before each provincial legislature now extend two roads for bringing about bone dry conditions within its area. It can if it wishes prohibit not only the sale but the use and possession of intoxicating liquors within the province, in which case the Doherty Act, as amended at the session of the federal parliament just concluded, would make the manufacture and importation of intoxicating liquors for use in the province a criminal offence. If this action seems too drastic the legislature can avail itself of the Canada Temperance Act also amended on the last day of the session and petition the dominion government for a federal referendum in the provincial area to prevent the importation of strong drink. Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, has always taken the view that under the Doherty Act any provincial legislature could make its province bone dry if it were prepared to pass a law against the use of intoxicating beverages.

There is a strong sentiment among at least some members of the administration to the effect, that demobilization has taken place much more rapidly than it was ever expected to and that peace conditions practically prevail. According to this view it would be better to abide by the spirit rather than the strict letter of the powers conferred by parliament in the War Measures Act. If this in order to prevent the litigation and disputes that would ensue. Repeal of the order-in-council will probably occur in any case because of the fear that the prohibition order-in-council effective until one year after the proclamation of peace. A legal committee in Great Britain decided against the government in the case of a similar order-in-council under the Defence of the Realm Act and the situation is practically the same here. Therefore any province which desires to continue bone dry can no longer safely depend on the order-in-council but must avail itself of the machinery provided by the federal parliament in the Doherty Act by means of legislation or in the Canada Temperance Act by the legislature asking the dominion government resolution for a referendum.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

CHARLIE RAY AS THE "DREAMY DUB"

Tonight at The Imperial The Bashful Star in "The Girl Dodger"

Charles Ray's new photoplay, "The Girl Dodger," a Thomas H. Ince-Patnam picture, which is being shown at the Imperial Theatre this change of bill, is clean-cut entertainment from start to finish. It has the ingredients of a thoroughly fascinating tale of school days—or college days. The adventures of Cuthbert Trotman, a dreamy student, who is compelled to take the place of a lively associate when a dinner in honor of a chorus lady and her friends planned by the other conflicts with a more serious affair, is the basis of a plot that involves the hero in some of the most amazing adventures. He finally extricates himself by his astute prowess and despite his dreamy outlook and his studious tastes, wins the other fellow's girl. Needless to say, Charles Ray is the dreamy student. Doris Lee is the girl.

FEATURES OF HIGH CLASS AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Canada's Premier Danseuse And Prominent Cartoonist Who Did Much "Over There" For The Soldiers

Suzanne, Canada's premiere danseuse, and Lieut. Ernest Le Messurier, a well known Canadian cartoonist, are at the Opera House this week in a novel artistic novelty, "Studio Fancies." Suzanne was featured as the "Spirit of Danza" at the royal performances of the big Canadian revue, "Hello Canada," in London, and has danced at all the big benefit performances given for the war veterans in England and Canada. Lieut. Le Messurier will be remembered for his cartoons and portrait paintings while serving in France with the Canadian forces, spending his time while off duty in bringing amusement to his comrades with his "funny faces" and amusing cartoons on the happenings of the day. The two artists have a delightful offering—a novelty right through and are one of the odd features of the programme.

Cattle are reported as going into winter quarters in fair condition. The demand for mutton is good. Prices range from $60 to $100 for grade cows. Milk production has fallen off very rapidly, as is always the case at this time of year when changing from pasture to barn feeding. Butter prices are firm, creamery butter retailing for 67c a pound in Moncton. Twelve carloads of lambs have been shipped co-operatively to the Montreal market by farmers in the eastern part of the province. Six cars from the Port Elgin district netted farmers 10 1/2c a pound, live weight for lambs.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

The failure of the Boston policemen's strike, the steel strike and the coal strike, along with similar happenings in England, will doubtless be a warning to radical labor leaders that the third factor in all disputes—the public, as represented by the government of the country—must hereafter be taken more seriously into consideration. The labor organizations may also be moved to see to it that the leaders chosen are not remarkable for their radical tendencies. Organized labor is not the majority in any community or country. In its compact organization it possesses a very powerful weapon, which may be used with great effect, but when the pressure seems too great, and there is a suspicion that the overthrow of ordered government and the unleashing of anarchy is the actuating motive of any leader or leaders, the unorganized public closes up its ranks and asserts its rights and its convictions.

But if labor has learned a lesson the like is true of capital. Nothing is to be gained by standing aloof. The two must get together, and the public must see that they do so. Unless industrial strife can be reduced to a negligible quantity, the danger of an increase in the number of those who aim at the overthrow of all government will not be removed. Bolshevism is a real danger, to be faced most effectively by harmonious relations between employer and employed, based on the square deal on both sides.

SEVERING PARTY TIES.

One of the unpleasant results of an intense devotion to a political party is the wrench that is given to his feelings when a member finds himself no longer able to follow his party leaders. All his past thinking, the ties of comradeship and the force of habit combine to keep him in line; while a long-standing prejudice makes him hesitate to join the opposing party. His first impulse is perhaps to assert that they are all alike and that he is done with politics. A little clear thinking, however, impels him to change his mind. The affairs of government must go on, affecting his interests and those of his fellow-citizens. He must as a citizen exercise his franchise, and if he has no faith in his own party leaders there is no reasonable course other than to assist in their defeat. If he fails to do so in the party convention there is the obligation to do so at the polls.

A great many members of the provincial opposition are in this position today. They have come to the parting of the ways. They know that their present leaders were rejected by the people at the last provincial elections, when only a portion of the black record had been revealed. The reason it was not fully revealed was that investigation was refused; and it was not the other party assumed the reins of power and made a thorough investigation that the people were shown how shamefully their affairs had been administered. If the people defeated the old government when they knew only in part, what will they do to Mr. Murray and his supporters when they vote again, in the light of fuller knowledge? The members of the rank and file of the opposition party, as well as a number of their present representatives in the question, and realize where their thinking will lead them. Disasteful as it may be, they must reject the old leaders and pin their faith for the time at least to those of another party, which can at least claim fairly that it is making an honest effort to do better than its opponents did when entrusted with power.

SCHOOL AGE.

A correspondent writing from Sussex to the Times-Star relative to keeping children at school until eighteen years of age remarks that at this age children should be helping their parents; and refers also to the case of a girl of sixteen who has left school and is about to be married. So far as this paper knows, there is no proposal anywhere to keep boys and girls in school until they are eighteen years of age, and under any system special consideration would be given in cases where parents needed their children's help. What is urged, and in the interests of society should be carried out in every country, is that all children be compelled to attend school; and, whether they are sixteen at the age of fourteen or fifteen or sixteen, that they attend continuation classes until they are eighteen. These might be day or evening classes, so many hours per week; but their effect would be to give every boy and girl a fairly good school training.

This method has been adopted in England and Scotland, and there can be no doubt of the beneficial results, both to the individual and the nation. In every province in Canada the problem of illiteracy should be grappled with by the governments, and school attendance made compulsory.

Evidently the machinery must be put in operation to prevent the importation of liquor into this province. That is made necessary by the cowardice of parliament, which has passed the buck once more.

The Globe is not impressed by the Standard's explanation of Mr. Baxter's speech. It says:—"If Hon. Mr. Baxter was not referring to the resolution condemning Hon. James Murray when he accused his three St. John colleagues of disloyalty it follows as a matter of course that the party has another skeleton of even more serious proportions. Let us have all the facts. What is the official explanation of the ex-Attorney-General's characterization of his St. John colleagues as traitors, hypocrites, etc.?"

Last night's meeting at the Imperial emphasized the fact that unless the working people subscribe to this Victory Loan as they did to the last one the objective will not be reached, and St. John—instead of having a German gun as a trophy will wear the badge of failure. The response should be such as to remove all doubts about the interest of the people in the success of the loan. Applications for bonds should pour in for the balance of the week.

The playground movement received another impetus yesterday at meetings of the Playgrounds Association and the South End Improvement League. The campaign for organization of clubs and organizations under the A. A. U. of C. is also progressing. The Atlantic Recreations Club with five hundred members, and the active part taken by cotton mill employes in sport during the past season are unmistakable signs of a great coming revival in amateur sport in St. John.

The Prince of Wales received a hearty welcome in Washington yesterday, and it goes without saying that the American people will be charmed by his open and frank nature and democratic spirit. They have learned since the late war began that England is a true democracy, and that the old notions about kings and autocrat government in that country must be discarded. The Prince's visit will further cement Anglo-American unity.

Would you believe it? The Chatham World says of the recent assembly of political bear-cats: "It was the liveliest convention, with the largest percentage of strong men of independent views, ever held in New Brunswick." There were three independents, anyhow, and the Globe says seven—all members of the legislature.

The farmers give notice that there are now three parties in parliament at Ottawa, and that the third will have a leader and a policy. This will add to the worries of the government during the recess.

The situation in regard to Russia is such as to keep everybody at this distance guessing. It can hardly be believed, however, that the allies would negotiate with Lenin and Trotsky.

St. John people should buy Victory bonds for the soldiers' sake. The letter did their duty, 100 per cent. The people at home should do no less.

Have you bought as large a Victory bond as you can afford? Every purchase helps the country and will benefit St. John.

Moncton is mentioned as a station on one of the proposed aerial service routes in Canada. Enterprising Moncton will soon be a great city.

A Victory bond should be very attractive to every small investor who can afford to buy.

If you did not buy a Victory bond last night, do it today.

LEST WE FORGET.

Moved in the legislature by Dr. Campbell, St. John, seconded by Dr. Crockett: Strike out the words after the second recital (in the government resolution) and substitute therefor the following: And whereas, the house has heard the statement of the said Hon. James A. Murray in respect of the findings in said report that the purchase and disposal of the potatoes was attended with neglect of duty or incapacity on the part of the minister of the department of agriculture.

And whereas, the house has also heard the statements of George B. Jones and J. B. M. Baxter as to their connection with the matter contained in said report; And whereas, the house is assured that there was no intention of wrongdoing on the part of the minister of said department, or said George B. Jones, or the said J. B. M. Baxter, and that no monetary benefit accrued to any of them therefrom;

And whereas, it appears that improper returns in regard to said transaction were furnished by the said department to the auditor-general; Therefore resolved, that this house records its sense of regret that greater care was not exercised in the purchase of the potatoes, and deprecates the effort made to suppress the facts and circumstances surrounding the matter instead of the making of a full and candid statement in relation thereto.

The Premier of Italy has laid down the fundamentals for reconstruction in Italy in these words: "Maintain order at every cost; work more intensely; consume less; produce more. No other choice is open."

THE FROSTY MORNING.

The world outdoors is white with frost, at morning, when I leave the hay, and I, regardless of the cost, put up a glad and brave hooray. The frost is gleaming on the hills, and glittering along the vales; the dove should put it up in pills, the druggist weigh it on his scales. I praise it in the highest terms; it is more precious than our rolls; for it is the stuff that kills the germs, and makes the microbes hunt their holes. A mortal loses all his pep when blistered by a summer sun; he toils along with weary step, and feels as though he weighed a ton. A slight exertion makes him groan, he's always in a grouchy mood; in every sinew, every bone, he feels a heasty lassitude. But when the autumn frost appears, and eager winds his whiskers nip, he rolls his shirt-sleeves to his ears, and looks for some one he may whip. The labour of the summer time, the wiliness of razing heat, no more oppress him when he'd climb around the town on busy feet. In August I am beasty old, as old as graybeards ever are; but when the frost lies on the world, I'm younger than a movie star.

THE MIGHTY ST. LAWRENCE

Navigation on the St. Lawrence for the season of 1919 rapidly nearing its end and the big ships that have crowded its wide waters will go to the Atlantic ports for the winter. The river of Quebec has more than 2,500 miles of coast line on the gulf and river and the ocean tide is felt as far as Three Rivers—800 miles from Belle Isle. The river is estimated to pour 2,000,000 gallons of fresh water into the salt ocean every minute, yet the river water is salt within thirty miles of the St. Lawrence. Below Quebec the St. Lawrence is from ten to thirty-five miles in width and very deep. It is skirted on the north shore by the Laurentian Mountains rising in some places near the river to a height of 3,500 feet. On the south there are the Alleghenies. After passing Quebec the stream narrows much and becomes shallower. In fact it has been necessary to dredge a deep water channel from that point to Montreal—866 miles from Belle Isle—in order to bring to that city the huge ocean liners now plying in both passenger and freight trade.

The season of navigation on the river varies with the year. Ocean vessels have come up from the sea as early as March 30, but usually about the first of May before they appear. After Nov. 25 the task of removing the spurs and buoys with their navigation light is begun, but vessels usually make their last voyages from Montreal about the first of December. Above Quebec the stream freezes thickly and the ice begins to be made on the ice; below that point it seldom is ice covered, but navigation is prevented by the great masses of ice that are so common in the spring. Each year there is much delay and there is no little danger to shipping in the gulf through the icebergs that come from the north and the huge quantity of ice that floats in fields there.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

(Written for the Montreal Herald.) Singer whose songs are inspired by the life of our common humanity. Tuned to all chords of our being, brightened with laughter and love; Artless and instant as sunlight, simple and sweet in their sanity. Such as have power on the earth, to help, and make wise, and reprove.

There was the calling to banish despair from his dusky dominion Over the joy of the world, the hope and the faith of mankind; To lift to the sovereign summits, on song's irresistible pinion, The soul and its limitless vision, more wide in its scope than the wind.

Now art thou one with the voices whose music is ever abiding, Who sweeten the wine of our gladness, and bedew with the solace of song, The dust and the death of our journey, inspiring, uplifting, and guiding, Who strengthen the knees that are feeble, and make tender the souls that are strong.

THE FARMER-LABOR ALLIANCE

(Toronto Star.) Those who have a greater desire to understand than to misrepresent the new forces that have arisen in provincial politics, and which have united in the formation of a government, ought to perceive that the U. F. O. in the country and the Labor party in the cities form the right and left wings of a general movement.

Town and country are both dissatisfied with the politics and politicians they have had. The causes of dissatisfaction have been varied, some of them recent and some dating away back. If one makes an honest examination of the purposes of the U. F. O. and Labor uprisings, he will find that the two new parties have a great deal in common, in both their constructive and destructive plans.

The main demand of both agriculture and labor is a clear-cut one. They demand that the people shall recover control of public affairs. Both the new parties advocate direct legislation through initiative, referendum, and recall. What they want is that the elected member shall actually represent the people who elect him, and not become a mere pawn which a party leader can play as he chooses in the game of politics.

They want to see the legislature and parliament restored to that power and honor which has been lost. They want the people in the conduct of public affairs to be assured. It means that the elector shall have a transferable vote; he can vote for the man who is his first choice, and the man who is his second choice stands no chance of election, he has at least expressed his preference without utterly losing his vote in doing so. His choice among the other candidates is of value, and as many candidates would be in the running over larger areas than are used at present the result would be that while majorities would rule in all cases, yet minorities would be heard. The political parties have always dodged proportional representation.

The U. F. O. and Labor parties having seen both the old political parties are fond of holding conventions in days dark and drear with defeat, but when prosperous in office draw off and become remote from the people, desire to restore a close touch between the electors and their representatives. All sorts of interest are organized in such a way that the government has to be large and unorganized, and in the intervals between elections is too generally ignored and disregarded.

Both farmers and industrial workers feel that their concerns have been subordinated to those of the organized interests. The laborer knows that he is both a producer and a consumer, and the farmer knows that he has interests both as a producer and as a consumer. The coming together therefore of these two forces is the right and left wings of a general movement.

WHAT'S SWAT! (The Nation, New York.) Since mention in the Nation recently of the Island of Yap and allusion to the Akond of Swat, several persons have protested that it was George T. Langan who found in this potentate so irresistible a target for humor. They are right, but so is the Nation. (We refrain from adding "as usual.") The truth is that both Lear and Langan took a shot at Swat—indeed Langan took several. Whenever Swat got into the news he could no more resist another poem than a small boy can resist another dish of ice cream (if nobody knows it) at a churchy soiree. Probably Langan's best known effort is "The Akhond of Swat," which begins:

What's what, what's the news from Swat? Sad news, Bad news, Comes by the cable led, Through the Indian Ocean's bed, Through the Persian Gulf, the Red Sea and the Med.

Herrmann—Is dead? The Akhond is dead! Thus for several verses through to the succinct and sufficient concluding couplet:

The great Akhond of Swat Is not! Lear called his verse: "The Akhond of Swat" and began in this wise: Who, or why, or which, or what is the Akhond of Swat?

Is he tall or short, or dark, or fair? Does he sit on a stool or a sofa or chair, or squat? The Akhond of Swat After asking a score more questions, frank and direct as those attributed to Wu Ting-fang, when he was Chinese

THE REPORTED NEGOTIATIONS FOR BIG MERGER

Lord Beaverbrook Given Credit for Being Behind the Big Deal—Protect Coal Areas.

(Cor. Financial Post.) Montreal—The Financial Post learns that negotiations are being conducted for the consummation of by far the biggest merger ever attempted in Canada, and that these may be concluded in the next few weeks, well before the end of the year. This merger contemplates the consolidation of the following companies: Dominion Steel Corporation, Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co., Steel Company of Canada, and Canada Steamship Lines. As they stand today the funded in- debtedness and capital stock of these four companies exceed $150,000,000, and the total assets run close to $215,000,000. The merger would mean a gigantic concern for Canada, second only in proportions to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with its billion dollars of assets. Some months ago, following the de-

Should be loyally supported by every citizen. This Bank gladly furnishes full information, and is pleased to co-operate with intending subscribers.

Parture of Lord Beaverbrook, it was intimated in these columns that the father of big Canadian mergers was interested in a proposal to bring together the three steel companies. The article in question was scooped at in many quarters; today we reiterate it, and add the Canada Steamship Lines as a more recent development.

The connecting links between Lord Beaverbrook and the four Canadian concerns are, it is believed, Col. Grant Morden, M. P., who is a political and to some extent a business associate of the former Canadian financier, Roy Wolvin, formerly a director of Canada Steamship Lines and intimately associated with J. W. Norcross in various shippingboard enterprises at Collingwood, Kingston, Halifax (Halifax Shipyards), etc., and also lately appointed a member of the board of Dominion Steel Corporation, Sir Henry Pellatt is mentioned as a representative—at large, including the Dominion Steel interests of which he is a director. Then for Scotia, W. D. Ross, D. H. McDonald, president of Scotia, and late general manager of Dominion Steel.

It should be added that there has been some denial of this report.

Advertising Incomes Fairness of Prices According to the official statements of the fair price committee which has been investigating the cost of living in New York city, retail advertising will have a far greater effect in reducing prices than any attempt to eliminate competition by agreeing on certain "fair" prices.

Arthur Williams, federal food administrator for New York, in discussing this report stated that: "The publication of a daily price list arbitrarily fixed by this committee is impracticable and not the best way to handle this matter for the greatest benefit of the consumer."

"The continuous daily advertising in the daily newspapers and the constant engaged in handling clothing, shoes and dry goods constitutes virtually a daily competitive price list, the result of which is that the consumer shall obtain fair prices."

"It does not seem practical or feasible that the retailer dealer exhibit at the time of the sale his cost prices."

"The report points out that on the same day that an analysis was made of shoe prices in twenty-five different smaller stores in various sections and a price of $6.50 was established as a fair price for a certain grade of shoes, a large retail store offered exactly this grade to the public at $5.90. Competitive action of this sort exerts far more influence in keeping prices down, according to the report than any arrangement for price agreements among dealers."

To Limit Approval Sales, Abolish Them. The best solution of the problem of keeping approval sales down to a minimum is to abolish them. This is the opinion of Lillian C. Smith, a sales clerk of Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart, Reading, Pa., won a store prize. She wrote:

"Let the house adopt a rule: 'No approvals, all merchandise must be paid for or charged. If paid for and returned, have the customer get a refund check from the buyer and then go to the office and get the money. The trouble to get it will eliminate a lot of returns, and in many cases they will take an exchange."

"In the case of the charge customer, make them go to the office to get their credit when again the inconvenience will have a tendency toward making them a little more careful in selections."

"Perhaps we salespeople are often to blame as it takes hard work sometimes to close a sale and at a last resort 'an approval' is suggested and when the customer has no intention of buying, every 'looker' is not a buyer, nor are they all prospects. It is absolutely impossible to sell every person to whom you show merchandise."

DEATH OF JOSEPH W. PENERY.
The death of a former St. John resident, Joseph W. Penery, of late years well known in farming circles through the river districts, occurred this morning at his home in Hampstead. He had been ill about three weeks, though his health was seen to be falling for some little time before that. He was in his 68th year and was a son of the late Wm. Penery. Besides his wife he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Ruth French of Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Penery was active in shipping circles about St. John about a quarter of a century ago. He retired to a farm at Upper Hampstead about that time and lived there for some twenty years. About five years ago he retired from active life and took up his residence in Hampstead village. He was held in esteem by a large body of friends because of his kindly disposition and upright character. The funeral will be held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock from his late home in Hampstead to the cemetery at Upper Hampstead.

SCHOOL HOUSE FOR EAST ST. JOHN

Thriving Community to Have Meeting Soon to Discuss The Matter

The Times-Star recently told the story of the rapid growth of East St. John. One evidence of that growth was not touched upon. About a year ago a school was started there in a rented building where twenty scholars. Today there are fifty-five seats, and the place will hold, and quite a number of children of school age cannot be accommodated. The need of a school building is imperative, and a meeting will soon be held to discuss the question.

It is realized that a graded school is a necessity and that there will be a constant increase in the number of pupils. Hence the community must build for the future. A school house that would also be a community centre for a growing place with many matters to discuss from time to time would best meet the needs of present and future.

H. USHER MILLER AND MISS RUBINS WED

St. Luke's church, North End, will be the scene of an interesting nuptial ceremony this afternoon at 5 o'clock when Miss Emma G. Rubins, daughter of the late John Rubins, will become the bride of H. Usher Miller, prominent lumber merchant. The pastor, Rev. R. P. McKim, will officiate, assisted by his son, Rev. R. Taylor McKim. The bride, who will be unattended, will be given in marriage by her brother-in-law, H. M. Breen. She will wear a traveling suit of brown with hat to correspond, and seal furs, the gift of the groom.

The choir will be present, with Miss Bessie Irvine presiding at the organ and a solo will be sung by Miss Louise Knight. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom will leave on the Montreal train for a trip through upper Canada, on return from which they will reside for the winter at 38 Alexandria street. They were the recipients of many handsome gifts, including a cut glass vase from the St. Luke's Sunday school and a mahogany clock from the vestry. Both Mr. Miller and Miss Rubins have been active and popular members of the church for some time, and enjoy the best wishes of their friends there as well as a large circle of others about the city for their married happiness.

ROCKWOOD PARK AREA MUST BE DEVELOPED

Was Set Aside 20 Years Ago as Recreation Field—Interesting Speeches at a Meeting Yesterday

At the annual meeting of the Playgrounds Association yesterday very interesting speeches were made by Com. Fisher, Judge Ritchie and A. W. Covey, vice-president of the A. A. U. of C., on the question of a large public recreation field. The present area had referred to the hope that a portion of the Rockwood Park area would have been ready for use by this time.

Judge Ritchie referred to present conditions as compared with those in the early eighties, and described the recent football game on the old Shamrock grounds, when at the close every contestant was so covered with soft mud as to make it almost impossible to tell to which club he belonged. The judge recalled the fact that twenty years have passed since Joseph Allison gave the Rockwood area as a playground, and that it still remains undeveloped. He made a most vigorous plea for better playgrounds and also for the continuation of the Boys' Club, in which he has always taken a keen personal interest, with frequent visits and talks to the boys.

Com. Fisher pointed out that the city had put a man on the Rockwood field to spread ashes hauled there this year, but that it would take a long time to raise the surface by that method, while to get other material would cost a great deal of money. That was the only reason the council had not gone ahead with the work of development. The citizens must choose between a large expenditure and a slower process of development. The council was desirous of having the playground milled, but lacked the funds. He expressed himself as in hearty sympathy with the aims of the association.

The president expressed the view that if the best of the old creek were filled it would not be necessary to raise the surface of the field. This would greatly lessen the cost.

Mr. Fisher said it had been hoped to get the aid of the railway authorities and secure a large supply of ashes for filling purposes, but they had not been able to do so.

Mr. Covey recalled the fact that when he competed in Moncton in athletic sports in 1902 he was up against five in his class and three of them were from St. John. He pointed out that since St. John lost its former playgrounds a generation of young men had grown up without physical training and were that much less effective for their life work. If we wait another ten years another group will have come up with the like disadvantage. It is about time that a return in more efficient citizenship for every dollar spent. The city could not afford to wait. The three improvement leagues had done splendid work but there was still no great public recreation field. Mr. Covey said that the various organizations now affiliating with the A. A. U. of C. would appeal to the council for action on broad lines, and he felt the citizens generally would back them up and ask the council to provide the necessary funds.

SOUTH END LEAGUE GOES OVER PLANS

Skating Rink Work About to Begin—General Athletics, Baseball and Maybe Rowing Next Year

All members of the South End Improvement League and any others interested, are expected to meet at the South End Playgrounds on Saturday afternoon to lay out and put down the boundary of the skating rink. As a result of the large amount of grading done this year the ground is not only much larger, but more level and a much larger rink will be made. Special arrangements will also be made for a larger checking room than was available last winter.

The executive of the league met last evening at the home of Rev. H. A. Gody and reviewed the situation. There was a fairly successful baseball season and during the last few weeks of the holiday gift baseball was also conducted with great success. It is planned next spring to put down a running track and make arrangements for general athletics, as well as baseball. The executive expressed great satisfaction that the sugar refinery men had organized with 500 members for clean amateur sport, and it was felt that they would be able to cooperate in making the south end playgrounds of greater use.

A resolution was adopted in favor of affiliation with the A. A. U. of C. It was also decided to hold a large meeting two weeks hence, if the assembly hall of King Edward school can be secured for the purpose.

Because of the heavy expenditure on grounds during the last season and the small collections at ball games the season closed with a deficit; and as funds will be needed to wipe this out and to provide the skating rink and get off to a good start next spring the league will make an appeal soon to the people of the south end for funds.

The hope was expressed that the executives of the South End, East and West End Improvement Leagues might be able to get together and lay out next year's programme in harmony with each other, so that each might have a busy season in sport and wind up with a fine championship series at the end. There was also considerable discussion of the possibility of getting a boat or two for Courtenay Bay, and the view was expressed that the south end could produce one or two good crews to compete in aquatic sports.

Logic

When you pay a trifle more for merchandise advertised as unusual and of the better sort you naturally assume you are to benefit.

We've advertised apparel of the finer sort since 1859—to three generations—and each inquiry eventually makes a friend for us.

The Help of All Good Citizens Is Wanted

The Credit of St. John Has Never Yet Fallen Down And Must Not In This Victory Loan—Let's Get Over The Top

(Contributed.)
Men and women of St. John! Have you forgotten the thrill of pride and of joy which swept over this city and over Canada a year ago when the news was flashed across the sea that Germany through the sacrifice and bravery of the soldiers of the empire had been forced to her knees and had signed an armistice? Have you forgotten the vows that you made secretly and openly on that day that the men who had made those sacrifices and who had offered their lives for us should never be paid by through any omission on your part to recognize the debt that was owed to them by the nation?

If there are any who have, then it would remind them that there are still financial debts to be paid by Canada on account of her soldiers. There are pensions to be paid to the widows and orphans of those who made the great sacrifice; there are gratuities to be paid to the gallant fellows who have come back alive, there are monies to be paid for hospital services to the wounded, for the re-education and re-establishment of the soldiers who have come back into civil government. It is an obligation that must be met before all others. The government is now appealing to you to assist them in meeting these obligations by loaning such funds as you have at your disposal. For your country's sake, for your own credit's sake, for the sake of the city in which you live, you should come forward with these obligations.

The credit of St. John has never yet fallen down. I can recall—and it seems only yesterday—when a band of citizens gathered in the old court house to consider the future of the city. It was the day following the great fire which had laid half the city in smoking ruins, and which had formerly been in comfortable circumstances. The late Sheriff Harding was one of those who were present, and he appealed to his fellow-citizens. "Be not discouraged," he said, "your city is in ashes but it is still good, and with this credit and with the insurance that you have, let us go forth and build." And they went forth and built the city. Today the credit of St. John is stronger than ever, and the appeal that is made to its citizenship should have even greater weight. St. John must not be permitted to fall in its objective for the Victory Loan.

How can we expect the government to listen to our demands for harbor improvements when we do not lend our assistance to the government when it is asked for interest which will be paid, a loan upon which the security is the very best, therefore there should be no hesitation in subscribing toward it. Every man and woman, every boy and girl, with $50 or more at his or her disposal, can assist in this worthy effort, and it is their duty to do so.

Let us never forget the burning words of that gallant Canadian soldier who gave up his glorious young life for his country: "To you from falling hands we throw the torch—be yours to hold it high! If ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep, though our bones are in a thousand fields."

If we fall down in this last Victory Loan, not only will we be breaking faith with our soldiers, but we will be breaking faith with our own citizens, long since passed away, who for the sake of the credit of the city made such tremendous sacrifices in its rebuilding.

We cannot afford to do either; nor will we. St. John can be depended on to go over the top, now as ever.

PEAR IT IS THE LOHOLA.
An effort was made this morning by the local Press with a view to confirming reports that a derelict found near Portland, Me., is that of the schooner Lohola, bound for this port, with a cargo of molasses. From Portland was received word this afternoon that nothing further had been learned, but it is believed that the derelict is that of the Lohola. This schooner sailed from Portland on Sept. 15 for St. Kitts to complete loading a cargo of molasses for the Crosby Molasses Co., Ltd. of this city. She sailed from that port on Oct. 9 and was due here two weeks ago. Nothing is known here as to the personnel of the crew. She was bringing a large quantity of molasses in bulk and some in puncheons.

Willing to Take Management And Some of The Stock—Joe Page Makes Progress in Promoting Matter at Springfield

(Special to Times.)
Springfield, Mass., Nov. 12.—President Sexton of the National Association interviewed regarding the status of the New England League, said that while the league had closed up shop before playing out its full schedule in the last season it had not only paid its players in full but had reserved the territory for the coming year and down it would be up and doing this winter and would be a live and prosperous league next year.

Joe Page, Canadian baseball writer and scout of the Chicago White Sox, who drew this information from President Sexton, is here on several baseball propositions, one of which has to do with the possible admission of St. John, N. B., to the New England League circuit for next season. That city, it is learned from various sources, is one of the best paying propositions for its size in baseball to be found on the American continent.

Mr. Page also had quite a lengthy interview with Hugh Duffy, who not only looked with favor on the plan but said he would not be averse to acquiring some of the stock and might be induced to handle the management of the St. John, N. B., team should the New England League continue and admit the Canadian city. He further said he would certainly recommend the entrance of St. John to the league in the event of a league meeting being called this winter with proper guarantees, etc. There was a doubt that the city on the Bay of Fundy shores would be admitted.

MONTREAL STOCK OF LIQUOR LIGHT

"Wiped Out" by Toronto Demand Says Montreal Paper and Buyers' Checks Returned

(Montreal Star.)
Local shippers of alcoholic liquors are almost snowed under with orders from every point in Canada, following the announcement of new temperance legislation from Ottawa. Anticipation that the present order-in-council which prohibits the importation into "dry" provinces for personal use, and which went into effect on April 1, 1915, still holds was maintained automatically null and void when Canada officially signs the peace treaty within the next few days, has also produced a tremendous crop of orders.

"Dry" Ontario is in the van, with orders from every town and hamlet, a number, paradoxically enough from Walkerville. Cheques for advance payment are coming in by every mail. Every hour brings its quota of orders by wire. Apparently the heavy stocks laid out in April 1, 1915, by individuals were insufficient and cellars are obviously bare.

A sad surprise is in store for the waiting thousands all over Canada, Montreal included, at least, have not sufficient stocks on hand to supply the demand, nor do they expect to be able to obtain sufficient supplies until next summer. War-cut the export of whisky from Scotland down to 30 per cent of the normal amount. The effects of liquor in normal times are being felt. War-time conditions have curtailed the liquor output of the rest of Europe. Brandy is scarce, wine is almost impossible to secure from Portugal.

The result of it all is that many dry districts must of necessity remain very dry. The present liquor shortage will not be relieved in a day or two, and individuals will stock up at leisure. Shippers are issuing stock lists which will be in the hands of inquirers shortly. It will be some months, at least, before the ships, before the legal machinery provided for in the new law to prevent the importation of liquor into "dry" provinces (if such provinces so desire) can be put into force. In the meantime the right of transportation from province to province will be requested.

The provinces will have ample time to close their borders to the importation of liquor by legislation, before the distilled liquors can be brought in normal quantities from the other side, say the shippers.

WALL STREET WAS NERVOUS TODAY AT MARKET OPENING

New York, Nov. 12.—An undercurrent of nervousness pervaded the stock market at the opening today. Further selling based on the credit situation caused initial losses of one to four cents in stocks, especially high grade rails and U. S. Steel. Some early losses were fully recovered within the first half hour.

Rallies of the first hour were forfeited on fresh selling of speculative issues which forced many stocks under yesterday's final price. The general market interior centers. General Motors were again the central feature, extending yesterday's severe loss by 2 1/2 points to $29 from which it rallied to 380.

Other motors, oils, equipments and lowers, marked strength was shown by metals, especially American Smelting and the steady action of U. S. Steel was a factor in the general rebound at noon. Call money opened at 14 per cent, duplicating the year's initial rate.

Shipping Board steamer West Hematite, which left Havre, France, a month ago bound for New York, was towed into the harbor late yesterday afternoon by the American steamer West Harcourt, also owned by the shipping board. The West Hematite was completely out of fuel oil. She was off Cape Race when the discovery was made that the remaining fuel supply of 1,000 barrels of oil, taken on board before leaving this country, was of such poor quality that it would not burn. (New York Times)
Gary R. Miller, United States vice-consul to Stockholm, Sweden, killed himself in his apartments at the Waldorf yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the right temple. His wife discovered the body at about 6 o'clock on her return from church.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have lived at the Waldorf since January, when Mr. Miller came here from Sweden. It was said at the hotel that he had come here on official business. He had obtained passports for himself and his wife, and was intending to sail for Sweden tomorrow. Early yesterday afternoon Mrs. Miller left the apartments. Mr. Miller was packing at the time and was apparently in good spirits. Mrs. Miller was with him, and before it was time for the church services which she attended, she called Mr. Miller by telephone at the Waldorf. She asked him to join her for church, but he replied that he must finish his packing.

At 3:30 Mrs. Miller called her husband a second time, but she received no answer from the apartment. She did not return to the hotel until about 6 o'clock, and then went to her room. She saw Mr. Miller's body stretched out on the floor with a revolver in his hand and a bullet in his right temple. She notified Assistant Manager Frank Martin of the hotel.

Coroner Gonzalez was called and he said that Mr. Miller had died about three hours. The body was taken to an undertaker's and Mrs. Miller, who was prostrated, went to the home of friends in the city.

Mr. Miller left no note to explain his suicide, and it was said at the Waldorf that Mrs. Miller could give no possible reason for the act, except, perhaps, worry over his health. About six months ago he had a bad attack of pneumonia poisoning and lost about twenty-five pounds. He had worried much about his health recently.

Mr. Miller was well known among the employes of the Waldorf, where he had stayed at different times for the last twenty years. They said that he was always cheerful and the last man they believed would take his own life.

Mr. Miller was appointed vice consul

JEWS STAY IN PALESTINE.
N. Y. Times—On board the Royal George, in from Southampton yesterday, were 148 Americans, mostly from New York, who had served with the British forces in the war. Of them, 138 were members of the Jewish Legion, which fought in Palestine, Macedonia, and Egypt.

Philip Bloom of 270 Madison street, who was with General Allenby in Palestine, said that 80 per cent. of the American Jews who went to Palestine to fight had been discharged there and intending to settle in the country, recognizing it as their homeland.

"Most of them," Dr. Bloom continued, "have settled in Galilee and Jerusalem, the great grain country. Judea can be compared to Southern California, and produces wonderful oranges, grapes, figs, and almonds. The second largest winery in the world is at Richeon-le-Zion, where there is a native population of 100,000, who are friendly toward the Jewish movement to modernize and populate the country."

Connecticut Man Passes as Soldier
Killed in Action

Danbury, Conn., Nov. 12.—A remarkable case of resemblance was revealed here when a man arrested in Norwalk was brought here by O. J. Waite, an investigator of the War Risk Insurance Bureau.

Waite arrested the man as private Henry Bromley Jr. of Bethel, but yesterday he decided to report to Washington that the prisoner is Samuel Reddy of New Canaan, and that Bromley is dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bromley of Bethel received word about a year ago that their son had been killed in action in France. Mrs. Bromley committed suicide a few hours later.

Last May a soldier arrived in Bethel and was greeted as private Bromley. The young man went to the Bromley home, where the elder Bromley welcomed him as his son. After remaining in Bethel several days, during which his identity as young Bromley was not questioned, the young man disappeared, leaving word that he was not private Bromley, but Samuel Reddy.

The War Risk Insurance Bureau representative appeared soon after, to straighten out the tangle over the insurance money which had been paid to Bromley after his son's death was reported.

It was not until a few days ago that Waite got trace of private Bromley, who had been working in Norwalk under the name of Samuel Reddy. The investigator learned that Samuel Reddy had recently been at his home in New Canaan and that his parents and 11 brothers and sisters did not question his identity. After taking the young man into custody Waite examined him for scars, which Bromley said his son had suffered from shell shock and had deserted, finally reaching this country.

He said a man he met on a train gave him a draft board identification card made out for Samuel Reddy. John Reddy of New Canaan says his son was not in the army.

Gas Kills Family of Three.
Blood transfusion proved futile in an attempt to save the life of William J. Conery, a broker's clerk, of Brooklyn, who with his wife, was overcome by illuminating gas on Saturday afternoon, when their 1-year-old son, John, was found dead in bed.

Timothy Conery, a brother, offered his blood to save the life of William, and the transfusion was accomplished, but it was of no avail. William Conery died yesterday afternoon in the Kings County Hospital. His wife, Alice, 29 years of age, died during the night. A leaky rubber gas pipe in the kitchen of the house permitted the gas to escape during Friday night, filling the rooms, killing the child and rendering the father and mother unconscious.

THE GOVERNMENT OF ONTARIO TO BUILD 4,000
HOMES IN NEXT YEAR

(Financial Post)

By the end of November some 1,500 homes would have been completed by Ontario municipalities that have taken advantage of the provincial government's housing scheme. With the approach of winter, it is interesting to note that although conditions in the building trades have been anything but satisfactory, the Ontario Housing Commission has been able to get a good start on its way to a solution of the housing problem of the various Ontario municipalities. Plans for next spring are already under way and it is anticipated that 4,000 homes will be built in Ontario under government loans in 1920.

Information concerning the activities of the Ontario Housing Commission was given to the Financial Post by J. A. Ellis, director of municipal affairs for Ontario, who has been in charge of the municipal housing schemes. While 93 of the provisions of the act the government has assumed financial obligations, as yet, in only eighty-three of these, obligations amounting to $10,629,000. Actual cash advances have been made amounting to some $4,000,000; and plans already under way will mean a further extension of the provincial program to the extent of $12,000,000 by next spring.

Not a little of the success of the Ontario housing scheme is, according to Mr. Ellis, due to the fact that the widest possible choice has been given in the prospective builder in the selection of his style of house. This refers particularly to the exterior of the building. The interior may not vary to any great extent; but the government experts have prepared many plans for the exterior.

This avoids the danger of erecting a long line of houses identically the same in appearance; incidentally, it helps to keep up the value of the property, because prospective purchasers want something first a little different from his next door neighbor.

Questioned regarding the cost of the houses built under the act, Mr. Ellis said: "Our limit is $3,000 for frame, stucco or brick veneer; $4,000 for a house of solid construction, that is, solid brick, hollow tile, or concrete. These were the limits fixed by the act when passed last March. Since then it has been found that the cost of construction has increased at least ten per cent, and perhaps fifteen per cent all over the province. However, taking this into account, I think the cost of the houses will be about the same price."

BUILDING OUTLOOK

Will 1920 Be Biggest Construction Year in Our History

Labor Will Be Scarce and Costs Likely to Be Still Higher Than Today—Immigration of Skilled Workers Should Be Encouraged the cost for the same building as this year. I believe, however, that by a careful study of the quantity and kind of materials and careful designing, people may get the same service with very little difference in the cost. Start at Once to Forestall Scarcity. In any case my advice to anyone who is contemplating building would be to get started at once, even in the late fall and winter, if possible. The condition of labor shortage may not develop acuteness until late next season, but then with the scarcity of labor we may experience further difficulties, so that the sooner arrangements are made for building next year the greater the likelihood of these being carried out according to the wishes of the owner. Should Encourage Immigration. In view of the almost certain scarcity of laborers for next year, I think that encouragement should be given to the immigration of building mechanics such as bricklayers, masons, carpenters and others of all building trades. This is the best class of immigrant we can get, and an immigration of men like these would be in the interest of labor itself. Every building that is put up means more buildings. New factories mean more houses, and more houses mean provision for more workmen and an increase in factories, in office buildings and in every sort of construction. Building breeds building as a sort of contagion. I am not speaking to encourage immigration of building laborers because of any effect it would have in any struggle with labor, but simply because I believe the demand of the building industry will greatly exceed the supply.

By J. P. Anglin, President of the Association of Building and Construction Industries of Canada, in Financial Post.

POET WITHOUT HONOR IN HIS HOME TOWN

(New York Evening Post.) James Whitcomb Riley was born in an Indiana village which bore a fittingly poetic name, and his friend Marcus Dickey, assures us in "The Youth of James Whitcomb Riley" (Bobbs Merrill, pp. 425) that it was worthy of it: Greenfield was no mean village. Notwithstanding the neighboring Black Swamp and the marsh lands on Brandywine, it had a charmingly romantic setting. Looming trees and sugar maple saplings stood irregularly along the sidewalks. Beech, ash and walnut, left standing when the ground was cleared, gave variety and shade to backyards and byways. . . . It was a gathering place for life currents from the southern climes and from the farm lands and cities of the East. There were students with a record of things done under the elms at Yale, and neighbor to these, now and then a squire of birth and distinction, who pointed with pride to his huge Carolina wagon and four-horse team which he had driven from his plantation on the Great Pedee. This blending of the East and South ment in the next generation a population untrammeled by the artifice of fashion and formality. Riley's father was a lawyer of thirty when the boy was born, in 1849, and christened in honor of the governor. "The first thing I remember," Riley later said, "was my father's riding up to the woodhouse door with a deer hanging from the pommel of his saddle, and about the second thing I remember was the bugler who galloped west on the National Road with the news of the death of President Tyler." With nature and politics he was acquainted from the cradle. He associated with country boys and girls, went on frolics with other youngsters after nuts and melons and slept four in a bed afterwards, and in general learned all about farm life. However, he had the advantage of a village school, where he was taught to read in McGuffey's, and enjoyed some exceedingly early love affairs. He early took an aversion to some forms of unusual labor and in adolescent days had a sharp quarrel with his father over the task of keeping the garden in order. "You don't seem to like work!" said my father sarcastically. "No!" I thundered. Seizing the end of my hoe-handle with both hands, I flung it into a neighbor's lot, leaped the fence and walked down town, leaving my father white with rage. At about the age of twenty Riley learned the trade of house painter, and in the summer of the two years following he progressed to the more expert craft of sign-painting. From early childhood he had been fond of drawing on old scraps of paper and of decorating his school books with borders and clever tail-pieces. At the age of fourteen he had drawn some creditable crayon portraits. Having shown such a distinct bent, and having failed to take an interest in some of the essential studies at the local academy, he was sent to a private school, where he was taught arithmetic, he seemed to his discouraged father as well fitted for such a calling as any. Despite his father's education and ambitions for the son, the elder Henry took no interest in the talent that ultimately made James Whitcomb famous. "While waiting for the turn of fortune," said Riley, "I covered all the barns and fences with advertisements. All the while I was nibbling at the rhyme-maker's trade, and the source of irritation to my father. He thought I should devote my time exclusively to painting." These almost vagabondish days of early manhood played their part in making Riley, as had the poverty of his boyhood. Civil War wounds had rendered his father less capable of making a good living, but no country boy of those well-fed democratic times, Riley has written, could really be poor. What was the chief literary influence of the time on the young man? A five-volume work called "The Lives of Eminent British Painters and Sculptors," to be had in the township library. "Where Riley?" people would ask. "Oh," his friends would reply. "He's up there readin' them British books." But he also read lives of Boone and Washington and a long list of books of romantic fiction. For two years, 1872-74, Riley abandoned sign-painting at intervals to travel with a vendor of patent "Standard Remedies," one Dr. McCulliss of Anderson, Ind. When the doctor first asked Riley's services the father exclaimed with fervor: "My God, if you can make anything out of him, take him along." Riley, according to his friend, Dickey, often spoke in later life of the pleasure he found in bowling along from town to town, and it taught him much concerning Indiana.

But he had by no means yet found himself. He continued painting signs for a living, and for a time he thought that he was fated to be a musician. After months of hard practice on the violin an injury to his thumb ended that dream. He studied law to please his father, and threw it up when another itinerant medical enterprise, the Wizard Oil Company, offered him a position. After he left home a Greenfield wiseacre remarked: "Riley is out making a fool of himself somewhere—it is his one accomplishment." No man of future eminence ever had less of honor in his own country. Yet all the while the foundations of his real reputation were being laid. His friend's book carries his career only to 1878. In 1872 he published some verse in the Indianapolis Mirror. In 1874 a great deal of his poetry, unsigned, was printed in the Danbury News, and Riley was proud to have crossed the Hudson. In 1875 Donald Grant Mitchell paid him $8 for a poem for Hearth and Home. Some of his effusions he sent to Longfellow, who replied with a kindly word of praise. In 1877 was published (in the Kokomo Dispatch) his famous hoax, "hitherto unpublished poem of the lamented Edgar Allan Poe"—and he was fully launched.

closing hour last night in the voting contest for the most popular school student when John Roldron, of St. Malachi's school, took the lead over the young girl scholar from St. Joseph's school. This contest undoubtedly will have a very exciting finish on the last night of the fair.

The standing in the voting contest for the most popular scholar was as follows last night: 1st, John Roldron, St. Malachi's, grade 8, 1,641; 2nd, Madeline Dunlavy, St. Joseph's, grade 4, 1,616; 3rd, Helen Kane, St. Vincent's, grade 4, 605; 4th, Jessie Kendrick, St. Thomas, grade 4, 527; 5th, Ralph Broderick, St. Malachi's, grade 6, 458; 6th, William Williams, St. John High school, grade 10, 315. Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

To see the healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, back-ache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside bathing every morning for a week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges or whose skin is sallow or pallid, that one week of inside bathing will have them looking and feeling better every way.

What Experience Taught Her—

Mary Alden was home for a few days' rest. She had been nursing steadily for three months and was fagged out. It was foggy and sleety out—cold and influenza weather.

The door opened and her young sister, Helen came in from school. Two envelopes announced her presence. "If I don't catch a cold I'll be lucky," she said.

"It will be your own fault, if you do," Mary replied. "Two-thirds of the colds I nursed could have been prevented if people had paid attention to the colds that started them. That is the trouble, most people don't treat a cold until they are really sick."

"I have had the beginnings of several colds, but they didn't last over night, because I took care of them," Mary told me about Weeks' Break-Up-A-Cold Tablets six months ago, and I have used them ever since. They increase your cold resistance so that the system fights off germs naturally. They won't make you feel dull or dopey, either.

"Well, they sound good to me, Mary. I've had four colds already this winter," Helen said.

"Here's my box, start in now," Mary advised; then she went on: "Another thing I heard was that calomel is a mercury compound and must be taken very carefully. Weeks' Tablets contain a vegetable laxative instead. That's why you should always insist on Weeks'. They are only twenty-five cents, and I know they are dependable."

Ladies' bean board, fancy apron—Won by Mrs. Mealey. Gentlemen's bean board, pair of slippers—Won by Bert Dryden, Fairville. Tonight's door prize will be a barrel of apples, donated by O. S. Dykeman.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says: "Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful."

Mrs. B. D. Christie presided at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday at which arrangements were made for holding the annual county meeting of the union. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Christie and Mrs. Elizabeth Ellison was the first to lead in prayer. The superintendent for hospitals was asked to visit a friend who had returned to the hospital for further treatment. Mrs. McWha wrote that the year books would be forwarded at the end of the week.

MISS PICKETT OF ST. JOHN A REPR. ENTATIVE

Chosen by Kings College to Represent Co-Eds at Student Volunteer Movement Convention

(Montreal Standard.) Plans are now under way to have McGill send a representation of about twenty students to the eighth international convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, which will be held at Des Moines, Iowa, from Wednesday afternoon, December 31, 1919, and closing on the evening of January 4th, 1920. These conventions are held every four years, and the increase of delegates present at each succeeding convention indicates their popularity. The first convention met in Cleveland, O., in 1891, with 680 delegates present. The last in 1914, in Kansas City, Mo., with a registration of 5,061. It is expected that fully 6,000 students will attend this year's convention, representing almost every university in all parts of the United States and Canada.

The purpose of this convention is to bring together at Des Moines representative delegations of students and professors from all important institutions of higher learning of Canada and the United States, and leaders of Christian enterprise throughout the world; to consider together the serious situations in all countries today, and the problems for evangelizing the non-Christian peoples; to gain inspiration and a vision of the world-wide missionary responsibilities of the church; to unite in prayer and work for a great advance in the direction of extending the Kingdom of Christ among all nations.

Some of the ablest speakers of Christendom will address the convention at the five evening sessions. They will speak with first-hand knowledge of the conditions and movements described. The addresses will vividly picture and forcefully emphasize the moral, social and religious needs of the world today.

(Miss Lesley Pickett of St. John has been chosen by King's College, Windsor, to represent the co-eds at this meeting.)

Sidelights On Sport

A meeting was held in Sussex recently to consider the formation of an amateur athletic association. All seemed enthusiastic. They propose leveling the school grounds and laying out a quarter mile cinder track, together with a baseball diamond and a football field. Hockey will be encouraged this winter and if possible a place will be secured for basketball.

Battling Levinsky failed to put in an appearance for his bout in Montreal on Monday night against Eugene Broseaux and the feature event was postponed until Monday, Nov. 17. It was said that son was heard yesterday when E. P. Day, president of the Ottawa club, and owner of the Arena, received word from his solicitors that the appeal entered by P. J. Quinn of Toronto against Mr. Day had been dismissed with costs. This probably means the end of the suit, which threatened for a time to paralyze the National Hockey League last fall, and to result in the formation of the proposed Canadian Hockey Association.

NO ROOM FOR THIRD LEAGUE?

(New York Times.) The internal strife in the American League has reached the point where reports are heard that the anti-Johnson faction is discussing the advisability of breaking away from the parent body and launching a third major league. Some of the rumors have had such an organization in the process of formation, but it is not likely that the Rupert-Comiskey-Frazee combination is seriously considering any such move. There is no denying that the three are well equipped for third league purposes as any three club owners who might be picked in the two major leagues, but all three are business men, first club owners second.

Plain business sense teaches that there is no room for a third league, and the owners of the American League franchises in New York, Chicago and Boston realize this fact fully. The Federal League bloomer expelled the last doubt on this score, and it is not reasonable to suppose that shrewd business men will attempt to disprove the lesson taught by the war of that ill-fated organization against the two major leagues. There are not enough players to fill the teams of two leagues with the high-class talent desired, and until the supply becomes much more plentiful than at present a third league would be "major" only in the hopes of its promoters.

Further difficulties present themselves in the arrangement of a circuit that would be of major league proportions, the purchase of suitable sites for parks, the costliness of fitting up parks and in numerous lesser details. A war would be welcomed by the players who would profit in the battle for talent, with the resultant abnormal salaries. Such a war would entail the expenditure of millions by the anti-Johnson triumvirate and the other club owners and it is a certainty that the owners have had enough of this business. The men who have been reported as likely to start the big war now control franchises that are more valuable than any they

"Recently I took a New York salesman there for a visit, after he had expressed a great desire for the treatment, and we found the fisherman's snake booked up for six weeks in advance. The fisherman at present has no rivals in his trade, but it bids fair to start a new industry." PLANS AIRSHIP TO CARRY 150 English Company Maps Out Passenger Service to New York. Plans for an aerial passenger service which will exceed even the visions of a Verne are being made by the Northern Aerial Syndicate of Great Britain, according to a recent report to the U. S. department of commerce from Trade Commissioner Henry F. Grady, in London. Mr. Grady's report says the syndicate is said to be arranging an airship service to New York, the plans providing for craft that will carry 150 passengers, in addition to staffs of cooks, stewards, and crew. At Liverpool, passengers from America will be transferred to smaller aircraft and taken to their destinations. Moorings for the large ships, according to the plans, will be provided at leading hotels. The programme also provides for a service from England to Perth, Australia seven days being allowed in the calculations for the trip. Major W. T. Blake, writing in a London newspaper, gives the following specifications for what he considers would be ideal aerial cars for pleasure and for commercial purposes. His suggestions for the pleasure cars are: Length, 22 feet; span, 30 feet; height, 7 feet; engine, 50-horsepower, air-cooled, radial; accommodation, two abreast in partially enclosed cabin; top speed, 90 miles an hour; cruising, 75 miles an hour; landing, 40 miles an hour; range, 40 miles; duration, 4 hours; cost, $2,300; upkeep, 24 cents a mile. His specifications for commercial aircraft are: Length, 45 feet; span, 100 feet; height, 15 feet; engines, two 400-horse power, stationary, water-cooled; accommodation, 20; (plus 2 passenger accommodations); top speed, 100 miles an hour; commercial, 90 miles an hour; landing, 45 miles an hour; rising, 50 miles an hour; range, 350 miles; duration, 4 hours; cost, $25,000; upkeep, $1.80 a mile. At present firms are charging $100,000 for a machine of, roughly, these capabilities.

When a man deliberately misses the last car for seven nights in succession, when he attempts to learn the latest jazz steps just to please a fair maiden, when he tolerates the cheek and impudence of her rascally young brother, and constantly sniffs up his nostrils the hated scent of eau de cologne—to suggest the not a victim of Cupid's bow and arrow is a positive insult."

ONE GIRL SCOUT'S SUMMER

Barbara Schieffelin's Record at Organization Shows That the Future Annals of Scouting Will Contain the Names of Many Debutantes

(New York Evening Post.)
In connection with the nation-wide campaign of the Girl Scouts for funds and membership it may be of interest to call attention to the fact that quite a few of the debutantes of the winter in Manhattan, and even more in Philadelphia and Boston, are the products of scouting, a fact of which these girls are rather proud. It is a fact which impresses the parents and friends of these girls even more favorably than the girls themselves. And the beauty of it is that with each season's crop of debutantes will be an increasing number of trained Scouts. A large crop of them, so to speak, is coming on. The very best example of initiative and progress in scouting among the New York society girl is found in Barbara Schieffelin, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jay Schieffelin.

Girl Scout Handbook, and at once was filled with enthusiasm. She decided to be a Scout and went direct to national headquarters and began to learn the tenderfoot tests. She did not join any troop in the city because she was going up to the Schieffelin summer home at Ashville, Me., the first of June and intended to start a troop there.
It is a fair evidence of her enthusiasm and stick-at-iveness that by the time she was ready to leave for Maine she had passed all her tests under Miss Caroline Lewis, local director, and was a second-class Scout.
But we like best the way Barbara tells the story herself:
"As soon as I got to our farm at Ashville, I put up a home-made poster in the post office, telling what Scout activities were, and calling the girls to the first meeting. A patrol of eight girls was formed and met nearly every week all summer. At these meetings the general programme included opening exercises—drilling, flag drill, roll call, recitation of oaths and laws and calisthenics—of plans, learning requirements for tests and games. We did not have a captain the first half of the summer, because my sister, who was to be captain, did not come home from France till the middle of August.

"Early in July we went on our first hike. It was a great success. We started out in motors till we came to the trail, where we hiked a long way to a lovely woodland lake. There we cooked our lunch and afterward the "Rally" was read aloud, and we played games. Then we camped and waded in the lake before hiking home. This was after all the girls had qualified as tenderfeet.
"The work on second class tests was delayed in August because we were all working for the Girl Scout table at the Ashville fair. We sold fancy things—candy, grab-bag packages, and jam, and we made $45. This we gave to the Methodist Centenary Drive.
"We had been planning all summer to give an entertainment for the benefit of a little French orphan whom the troop had adopted. When my sister came home from France she planned it with us and was going to coach us, but it was given up owing to her illness. But we plan to give a corker next summer.
"We had another hike in September which was as successful as the first. By that time our captain had drilled us in many of the Scout songs, and we enjoyed singing them as we hiked.
"Once when my cousin was visiting me she got interested in scouting and started a flourishing troop of thirty girls in Bar Harbor. We are proud to think it is a result of the Ashville Troop.

"We feel that we have made a good beginning and that each girl has gained in a sense of responsibility and a desire to be helpful. I know that all are enthusiastic and are looking forward to another summer of work and service."
"BARBARA SCHIEFFELIN,
"Patrol Leader, Troop 1, Ashville, Maine."
Many of the qualities and requirements of a good Scout would come naturally to a girl like Barbara Schieffelin; for instance, in the matter of personal health, to be familiar with camping, a good skater or a naturalist or a swimmer. She was able to do many of these things without any great degree of special training. But what she did in the way of helping other girls of her own age is reflected in the letters from the mothers of these girls who have noticed in them an awakening to more alertness and helpfulness in their homes. Barbara had led them through the tenderfoot stages of scouting before her sister came home from France, and before said sister had time to do more than doff her A. E. F. uniform Barbara had her commissioned captain of her troop and she was putting them through the paces of home nursing, invalid cooking, baby care, fire drilling, life saving and all sorts of hikes and climbs and games of observation and headwork.
But the pleasant thrill that comes with

ADVENTISTS BUY CHURCH BUILDING

Elder W. C. Young Speaks of Denomination and Plans Here—Get Building Formerly Used by Reformed Baptists

The Seventh Day Adventists of this city have been making a long pull to get established in our city. For many years it has been uphill work with them, as they do not, like most other Christian denominations, employ resident ministers, but still follow the apostolic custom of itinerating from city to city and place to place. Their propaganda has been carried on very largely by dissemination of literature and renting halls for their public services in various parts of the city.

Recently they have purchased the church building formerly occupied by the Reformed Baptist people in Carleton street and are planning to repair and paint it so as to better fit it for their use in presenting their views to the public.
Elder Wm. C. Young, who came here in last June and has by his energy succeeded in securing this central location for their work in the water gate city of Canada, said yesterday that the denomination represented by him have added to their membership 65,000 adherents during the last five years. "When one stops to reason out," he said, "that this means that that number are giving up one-sixth of their time, or earning capacity, in a time marked by the high cost of living, it speaks well for their devotion to their conscientious belief."
When joked with about the possible danger of starving to death under conditions like these, Mr. Young replied that as a denomination and as individuals he thought they were pretty lively corpses.
His people, he said, devote much time to the study of prophecy, and profess to see in the present conditions in the labor world a mile stone, pointing out the last days of time. When asked when did the Seventh Day Adventist think that would occur, Mr. Young was very en-phatic in declaring that neither men nor angels could answer that question; it was given us only to "know it is near" and then to "watch."

The late world struggle had had its effect, together with the cry of "peace, peace, when there is no peace," of giving the public mind a larger confidence in the nearness of the end and had consequently helped establish more surely the Bible exegesis of this people.
It is their plan, he said, to occupy the church building acquired by them in Carleton street at once and not wait until the contemplated renovations were complete.
Mr. Young is a genial man to meet. He has decided to occupy the tenement connected with the church building and there be close to his work.
PERPETUAL CALENDAR SAID TO HAVE BEEN MADE.
Rome, Nov. 12—Rev. Francesco Scatigna of the town of Locorotondo, in the province of Bari, claims to have discovered the "perpetual calendar," which has baffled scientists for centuries. His calendar consists of two discs, one superimposed upon the other, by the turning of which the correct day, week and month may be obtained. The great Astronomer Herschel predicts that a perpetual calendar never could be devised.

Up To The Small Investor Now

Victory Loan figures show that while the city total is considerably more than one-half of last year's mark, four days before the closing of the campaign, that the number of applications is scarcely one-third of last year's figures. Why is this?

Has the average citizen, the man of moderate means, lost interest in Canada's big war job, not yet completed? Does he no longer take pride in seeing his city and his district at least achieve its objective? Will St. John and New Brunswick fall down while the rest of Canada is over-subscribing its portion of the loan?

The man who must sacrifice to buy a $50 bond has the same responsibility as the man who must sacrifice to buy $100,000 in bonds. The Armistice Day Rally speeches bring this home to every citizen. Every application is needed, no matter how small, to swell St. John's total. Many counties in the province are still far below their objective. Whose fault is this?
