William Watson, Brave Boy Who Caught Little Chap Who Fell From High Window

The heroic part played by William Watson in saving the life of a child who fell from a window in Erin street on June 24 is thought to be the cause of an illness with which he has suffered since the day after the incident.

On the following day the Watson boy, who is fifteen years of age, complained of feeling ill and was confined to his bed, where he remained for nearly a month, suffering, it was thought, from nervous prostration.

GREATER CARE NECESSARY.
The morning papers today record several automobile accidents within the boundaries of the province. It is too much to expect that all such could be eliminated but it is certain that a good number of these occurrences could be avoided, and it is equally certain that they should be.

Continuity of Mackenzie King's Career So Marked As To Look Like Destiny

Devotion to Industrial Problems and to Canada's Public Service.

TWO THREADS FORM ONE STRAND

Fusion of Sociological and Political Interests—He's a Fighter, Too.

one, that Mackenzie King graduated from the University of Toronto... These component strands are a natural and insatiable interest in sociological and industrial problems...

Chicago Studies... "The Settlement," he says, "and its surroundings and my studies brought me into contact with such concrete problems as those presented by the tendency of foreign populations in large cities to be grouped into 'colonies'...

When fifteen years later, he was asked by the Rockefeller Foundation to undertake a world-wide survey of industrial relations, Mr. King accepted only on condition that part of his time should be his own...

From time to time, after offer has been made to Mr. King by the Rockefeller Foundation... It is the linking of the sociological and political motives that gives so much significance to Mr. King's new place as leader of the Liberal party in Canada...

Consistent Preparation... The net result of the remarkable story is that a man, not yet forty-five years of age, after an unusually consistent preparation, emerges into the center line of a dramatic gathering...

Early Activities... It was in 1895, at the age of twenty-two...

with his department. He said he would see that matters were so altered as to give to labor conditions a place in existing and all future contracts of the post office department.

Report to Gov't... A day or two later, I received from Ottawa an official communication asking if I would make a report to the government upon the methods theretofore adopted in Canada in the carrying out of government clothing contracts.

European Studies... To revert, however, to Mr. King's trainings his educational days were not finished when he left Chicago University in 1897.

Toronto Survey... His second venture into journalism, in the form of these articles written for the Mail and Empire was connected with his sociological interests.

Big Changes Pending... "It is altogether probable," he thinks, "that the control of labor and the community will consider it to exceed the control that management and capital have exerted in the past."

Executive Responsible... Such a system in industry, according to Mr. King, "would be one in which all those who contribute to the nature of the effort towards production, who make investment, either of life or possessions, would have a voice in controlling the conditions under which the labor services are given, and to whom the executive authority, however it might be constituted, would be answerable for the manner which executive functions are discharged."

BRITAIN'S MONSTER GUNS

Armistice Day a Lucky One for Berlin—Northcliffe and Ireland; Lloyd George and the General; and His Speech at Dinner to Sir Henry Wilson

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, England, August 18—Goodwood rings down the curtain on the London season—this year on the most notable London has ever known.

The equipment of the London season was turned to good account in the years from 1900 to 1911, when Mackenzie King, first as deputy and then as minister of labor, had the reputation of adapting theories to facts and situations.

Our Monster Guns... Many people have no doubt forgotten that at the time of the great sermons caused by the news that the Germans were making guns of a similar range by the military point of view, the killing in Paris of a few people by long-distance freck shell fire was negligible.

What the Germans Escaped... Berlin was lucky in the date of the armistice. Another few weeks, or even days, and we should have been dealing with destruction over the German capital.

Executive Responsible... Such a system in industry, according to Mr. King, "would be one in which all those who contribute to the nature of the effort towards production, who make investment, either of life or possessions, would have a voice in controlling the conditions under which the labor services are given, and to whom the executive authority, however it might be constituted, would be answerable for the manner which executive functions are discharged."

terms which like those offered by the Northcliffe plan, would be utterly unacceptable to Nationalists, without mentioning the Sinn Fein feeling, which is still less susceptible of conciliation.

There is an unprecedented boom in the motor industry. One famous firm whose engines received an immense advertisement over the first Atlantic flight is charging £200 for the favor merely of putting intending clients on their waiting list, which is "miles" long.

A good many people interested in rowing have been puzzled to account for the fact that the Cambridge eight, which was defeated by the Australians at Henley after knocking out the Americans in good style, should have reversed the result in the Paris race.

Selection of Viscount Grey Received With Pleasure

NEWSPAPERS ALL CORDIAL

His Great Record of High Achievement in Public Life Only One of the Reasons

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
 Not even James Bryce's appointment as British Ambassador to the United States was received with such expressions of pleasure as have followed the announcement that Viscount Grey is to go to Washington, for the time being at least. Practically every American newspaper of prominence gives him a cordial welcome, and expresses gratification at the compliment to the United States involved in Great Britain sending such a man. It is, as one of them remarks, as though Elihu Root were to be sent to Washington. There are no more honors for him to reap. His name is imperishably inscribed among his country's immortals. He would greatly have desired to spend his remaining years at his ancestral home of Falloden, a beautiful spot, and peculiarly dear to Lord Grey because of its associations. But he has put aside his natural inclinations because he believes he may do his country a service by going to Washington, and the American people appreciate it.

A Unique Position.
 We are inclined to believe that Lord Grey will occupy a position there such as no other diplomat ever filled. The position of Great Britain's representative is slightly different from that of any other ambassador, because of the peculiar relations between the two countries. In addition to being upon a slightly different footing, the new ambassador is a personal friend of both President Wilson and ex-President Taft, besides being intimately acquainted with other noted Americans. He was also a great friend of Theodore Roosevelt, and the latter once said that the most delightful days he spent in England were those with Grey when they walked through the New Forest discussing the bird life of the place and seeing which of them could identify the most varieties. Further, and most important, Lord Grey will be admitted to know more about European politics and European peoples than any one in the American State Department. Knowing him to be the soul of honor and candor can it be doubted that the American government will frequently avail itself of his vast store of first-hand knowledge and seek his advice?

The Soul of Honor.
 His profound interest in the League of Nations will make his appointment particularly gratifying to the present administration. It is known that no foreign subject interested him so much in the thirty years he spent in the House of Commons as the development of friendship between Great Britain and the United States. It is also known that not coming to Washington to obtain advantages for the country he represents at the expense of the United States, that he has no axe to grind, and that he is always, just exactly what he appears to be. That he did more than any other man to avert the great war is also everywhere admitted. Perhaps no state documents have been read with such profound interest and by so many Americans as those contained in the British White paper which record the communications between the British government and the other interested European governments in the weeks immediately preceding the war. These have made the name of Grey a household word for simple honesty and good faith.

Many Private Troubles.
 The many misfortunes of the new ambassador have not been without their appeal to the American people. It is recalled that he lost his wife, a beautiful and accomplished woman to whom he was devoted, in a carriage accident. This tragic accident cast a cloud over his life which has never been entirely dispelled. His favorite brother was killed by a lion when big game hunting in British East Africa. Still later a fire destroyed part of Falloden Hall, and many of his greatest treasures were lost. Finally there came the blow of falling eyesight. This was the result of his great conscientiousness in perusing confidential despatches, many of them in almost illegible handwriting. The result was that he had to resign to the capable hands of Arthur Balfour his post of Foreign Secretary in 1916. The rest has done him good, and though he cannot see to read, his eyesight is improving and may yet become normal for a man of his years and habits.

The fact that this is the first occasion when Great Britain ever sent to any nation an ambassador who is a former foreign secretary is commented upon by several American newspapers. It is the next thing they observe to sending a member of the Royal Family, and is itself an unprecedented compliment. The all-round character of the new ambassador is also well known. He is the author of a work on fly fishing that is a standard. His gifts as a speaker are well known. Formerly he was one of the best tennis players in England. He was also a cricketer and oarsman of renown. It is pretty generally understood that when he was raised to the peerage and offered an earldom most declined and took instead the slightly lower dignity of a viscountcy, in order not to embarrass the other Earl Grey, his kinsman, and son of the former governor-general of Canada. However, he is a Knight of the Garter, the highest order of chivalry in the realm.

Robert E. O'Connor, a Chicago broker, bought 100 six-cent tickets of the L. about a month before the eight-cent fare went into effect. When he tried to use one to pay a fare after the change was made he was required to add two cents, which he paid under protest. Now he is suing the road for the two cents, declaring that the ticket was a simple contract and was good for one ride regardless of any changes in fares succeeding its sale. He declares that if necessary he will carry the case up to the United States Supreme Court.

SIR BARTON NOT YET IN DISCARD

One Defeat by Purchase Does Not Give the Hildreth Horse the Title

New York, Aug. 28.—It seems that the patrons at Saratoga have already donated the three-year-old crown to Samuel Hildreth's good Ormondale—Cherryola colt Purchase. Hannibal, they say, is the only youngster of the same age that has a chance to dispute the title claims of the Hildreth horse.

While on the subject of pretenders to the three-year-old throne, let it not be forgotten that the Montreal owner, J. K. L. Ross, owns and races a certain colt named Sir Barton. In this same identical season, Sir Barton tucked away in rapid succession the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, the Withers and the Belmont Stakes, which constitutes no mean effort.

While it is true that J. K. L. Ross' colt was beaten once by Purchase, it is also a fact that on that occasion he was giving away a deal of weight to the Hildreth horse, and it is also true that Sir Barton was in poor shape as was mentioned at the time and which has since been proven. Taking these factors into consideration how, then, can Sir Barton be tossed unceremoniously into the discard when three-year-old titles are being issued? Surely this one defeat cannot detract materially from his championship merits when it is recalled that Purchase

Why 4 out of 5 Motors are Champion Equipped

Your best assurance that, in selecting Champion spark plugs, you are combining the greatest degree of dependability, service and economy, is contained in the fact that Ford, Overlands, Studebaker, Maxwells, and over two hundred other makes of gasoline motors and engines made in North America, leave their factories equipped with

Champion Dependable Spark Plugs

The reasons for such widespread preference are obvious—we make only spark plugs, and have concentrated our efforts on studying the peculiarities of every type of motor and in producing a spark plug that enables it to maintain its highest efficiency at lowest cost.

Champion 3450 Insulators have been developed to such strength that renders them practically indestructible even in the hardest kind of service. Champion asbestos lined copper gaskets, an exclusive patented feature, absorb cylinder shock and heat expansion. Every Champion is guaranteed to give "Absolute satisfaction to the user or full repair or replacement will be made." Be sure that every spark plug you buy has Champion on the insulator—it's the mark of satisfaction and "plus service."

What Canada Thinks of Her New Liberal Leader

Every Canadian will be keenly interested in the timely article in THE LITERARY DIGEST of August 30th, giving the opinions of leading Dominion publications of all political shades on the choice of W. L. Mackenzie King as leader of the Liberal Party by the recent National Convention at Ottawa.

Enthusiastic adherents of Mr. King see progress under his leadership, while his opponents consider his election a sign of reactionary domination in Liberal party councils. The Regina Leader calls him "a leader whom the younger element of progressive Liberalism will be proud to follow and fight under," whereas the Edmonton Journal does not believe that "he is the type of a successful party leader, but, again, in politics you never can tell." The Montreal Star, while admitting that "he has unquestioned ability and some useful political experience" adds that "he has not hitherto displayed qualities that excite enthusiasm, like Laurier, or that compel confidence, like Borden," and the Saskatoon Daily Star opines that "the Liberal party in this Dominion is at a low ebb when its strongest candidate for the premiership is a man who owes his election as leader to the fact that he opposed conscription."

Motor Cars

Main Office and Factory, Toronto

Now Completely Built in Canada, By Canadians, For Canadians

THE thousands of Canadian owners of Willys-Overland cars and the Canadian public generally, will be interested in this announcement—

Overland cars will be manufactured, not merely assembled, in our completely equipped Canadian Factory.

The public appreciation of the Overland product and policy has built up a Canadian demand which makes this necessary.

During the war the great Willys-Overland Toronto plant was devoted to the production of munitions and aeroplane motors.

Today these complete facilities and resources are being devoted exclusively to the production of Overland Motor Cars.

This modern institution is largely financed by Canadian capital and is managed by men widely experienced in Canadian industry. Not only does the Toronto factory offer the Canadian public the facilities, resources and advantages of a complete Canadian institution, but back of it are all the tremendous resources and experience of the great Willys-Overland organizations in the United States.

Since the cessation of war-time production, which absorbed the whole efforts of the Toronto factory, plans have been formed for Overland achievements in Canada far greater than those of pre-war days.

Processes of manufacture, co-ordination of departments and new materials have been studied—

Personnel has been strengthened by the addition of expert executives and many skilled workers—

The floor space of the present factories is 280,000 square feet and is to be increased by more than 100,000 square feet—

To adequately manufacture the Overland 4, we have invested more than one million dollars in special equipment and tools, in addition to large sums in raw materials and parts. The larger part of this material is of Canadian origin. More than a thousand skilled workmen are being added to our force,—all with a view to placing the entire organization on a stronger, more highly efficient basis than ever before so that complete Overland cars can now be built entirely in Canada by Canadians for Canadians.

The Canadian factory, with the co-operation of the complete Willys-Overland organizations, will specialize in the production of a wonderful New Motor Car—The Overland 4.

It is the product of the ripened experience of the great Willys-Overland organization.

After ten years of experimenting and 250,000 miles of testing, this new Overland 4 is being manufactured by the Canadian organization in Canada.

See Overland 4 at the Canadian National Exhibition

This remarkable new car, with exclusive improvements and advantages, will be exhibited for the first time in Canada at the Automobile Show of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, August 23rd to September 6th.

The Overland 4 introduces a new standard of riding comfort made possible by its exclusive new Three-Point Cantilever Spring Suspension, the greatest improvement in riding comfort since the introduction of pneumatic tires.

No motor car ride you have ever had serves as an adequate comparison to the greater road comfort of the Overland 4. You must see and ride in this car to fully appreciate what a new era it introduces in motor car history.

The problem that has engaged the efforts of automobile engineers for years has been solved. The combination of the driving-ease of a light weight car with the riding-ease of a heavy, long wheelbase car, has been achieved in this new Overland 4.

In addition to its great comfort, tests show great economy. It is a quality car throughout, fully equipped, beautifully finished.

The introduction of Overland 4, a motor car completely built in Canada, marks a distinct forward step in Canadian manufacture.

Labor Expert Commission Report on Mining Industry—Coal Levy Hits Industry

Essen, Aug. 28.—A commission of experts has been appointed by the German bureau of labor to investigate economic conditions and working hours in the coal pits, and has completed its examination of the Rhenish district, having visited six mines and twelve workmen's colonies, cross-examining owners, directors and workers.

Peter Kloeckner, one of the leading Rhenish industrialists, informed the commission at the hearing held in this city that the nation was facing an economic collapse. He said that, even if the Eschscholtz levy of 40,000,000 tons of coal was reduced one-half, Germany was heading toward ruin, as the country cannot dispense 20,000,000 tons annually.

"If the Eschscholtz powers enforce this provision," he said, "we must extinguish our blast furnaces, which is tantamount to a cessation of all production. What little coal there would be left is would barely suffice to operate railroads and lighting plants."

Herr Kloeckner opposes a further reduction in working hours and disputes the assertion that a miner can produce as much coal in five and one-half hours as in seven. He believes the reduction in working time in all industrial lines had proven disastrous to the nation's economic revival, and with the abandonment of peace work, has greatly curtailed output in all branches of industry.

In discussing living conditions among miners, Herr Kloeckner told the commission that a workingman's home, which cost 5,000 marks when built in peace time would now cost 25,000 marks. Nevertheless, mine owners are building homes for their men, but if they build all that are needed the cost will be 3,000,000 marks. He pointed out that the mines cannot stand such a drain, and that the government cannot be expected to grant a subsidy. In view of present demands upon the national exchequer, he, therefore, proposed that the government approve a price increase of ten marks per ton, the proceeds to be devoted to the building of workmen's homes.

An appeal to miners was made by Herr Kloeckner, who asked that the men drop their demand for a six-hour day for the present and contribute the maximum production which the domestic and foreign situation demands. One of the miners who attended the meeting attempted to refute Herr Kloeckner's conclusions, declaring the miners had not yet recovered from the physical privations of the war sufficiently to permit them working more than seven hours. Herr Kloeckner suggested that the miners take a patriotic view of the situation and work overtime for the next three months. He recommended that the commission try to enlist able-bodied students in an effort to divert 100,000 men to the mines to help overcome the present crisis. He believes workmen are gradually overcoming the hysteria born of revolutionary conditions and are showing a more reasonable interpretation of their duties to the nation.

GERMAN RADICALS'
OFFICES RAIDED

Gustav Noske Head of Industrial
Balloting Scheme—Were Planning
Uphaval

Berlin, Aug. 28.—A sensational raid by Gustav Noske, secretary for Military Affairs, on the premises occupied by the Ultra Radical Executive Committee of the Workingmen's Councils of Greater Berlin threatens to precipitate another general strike.

The raid was a result of trouble between Noske and a "rump" board of the councils dominated by Richard Mueller and other independent Communist agitators. The struggle grew out of an attempt by Mueller to force elections of "shop councils" in advance of the issue by the government of a writ for the elections.

Fearing the defeat of their radical Soviet programme, the Ultra Radicals proceeded to make extensive arrangements for balloting in the big industrial plants, when the government stepped in and informed the workers that the elections would be invalid, and urged them to abide by the decision of the National Assembly on the issue of the Workingmen's Parliament.

"A Joan of Arc Machine"

SHE withstood everything in the field and above all was, and still is, the last and only car to survive until the cessation of hostilities"—Extract from letter received by Ford Motor Company from a British Soldier, in Africa.

Over shell-torn roads, through water soaked fields, second only to the tanks in its power to climb debris and crater holes, the Ford car made a world famous record in the fighting area of the great war. In press despatches, in field reports, in letters, in rhyme and song the praises of the Ford were sounded.

- In France - 700 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
- In Italy - 850 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
- In Egypt - 996 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
- In Mesopotamia 999 cars out of 1,000 were Fords

The Radicals immediately accepted the challenge of the government and proceeded to perfect a plan for elections to be held under their direction. This resulted in Noske's ordering the raid on the executive offices of the councils. A minute search of the premises was made, and Noske is still guarding the place. The documents seized included much material which is said to prove that the Communists were planning an extensive political upheaval.

Oldsmobile
SETS THE PACE
22 Year

THE "THOROBRED"

Conceived by master builders of automobiles, the lithe, sleek and spirited Oldsmobile "THOROBRED" does worthy honor to a long line of distinguished ancestry.

For twenty-two years the Oldsmobile has "set the pace" in style, in comfort, and mechanical excellence. On the same points the "THOROBRED" is characteristically Oldsmobile.

Straight and clean lines are relieved by smart, distinctive Oldsmobile touches—a beveled edge body rail, nicked door handles, and beaded door panels.

Beautifully upholstered, with wide doors and roomy tonneau, the Oldsmobile was always a comfortable car. In the "THOROBRED" easy riding qualities are enhanced by an improved method of spring suspension.

Powered with the famous Oldsmobile 8-cylinder motor, the "THOROBRED" will walk or race at the driver's whim; yet fuel economy is a dominant factor.

The "THOROBRED" is designed to comfortably seat seven, and is moderately priced. Permit us to send descriptive literature or arrange for a demonstration.

DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood. In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Trouble; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain in the Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular, and that Pimples, Rash, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

TWO HELD FOR TRIAL IN CONNECTION WITH SMUGGLING CASE

Bangor, Aug. 29—Probable cause on a charge of smuggling eight Chinamen into the United States from Canada was found in the case of Frederick B. Canada and U. S. to Join in Fight Against High Prices

Ottawa, Ont., August 29—The following statement was handed out this afternoon by the Secretary of the Board of Commerce for Canada:

"Co-operation has been established between the Board of Commerce of Canada and the United States authorities in a continent-wide campaign against high prices. This results from the visit of W. F. O'Connor to Washington. Mr. O'Connor has been there for over a week and returns to the city on Sunday. The intimation is made that the Board will shortly commence an itinerary, one of the objects of which will be to trace those who, since the enactment of the combines and fair prices act, have been guilty of overcharging, which is now a criminal offence. Any unreasonably large quantities of goods held in cold storage will be ordered out for sale at reasonable prices and profiteering and price-rigging generally will be given short shift."

The Board of Commerce, it is announced tonight, has taken action to control sugar prices by restraining and prohibiting certain parties from disposing of sugar in such a way as is calculated to unfairly enhance its cost. They are particularly restrained from exporting sugar out of Canada. It was stated at the office of the Board today that this action was taken in view of the excessive and unfair prices charged for sugar, and also because large quantities are being or are threatened to be exported from Canada notwithstanding the urgent need for it in the Dominion.

The Board will hold an investigation in Montreal early next week to consider generally the supply and prices of sugar, and the effect on the community of the threatened export of this commodity.

IMAGINE a spider's web which only the shining dew makes clear—then imagine a silkworm's thread as fine.

Imagine a mesh formed by thousands of such gossamer-like threads contained within a single square inch. Conceive this weave to be so fine, so fine that only dust of flower-bloom, or powder as microscopic, could sift through it.

Through so incredibly minute a filter Colgate's Talc is passed. By what other means could come its delicate, breath-like quality—its airiness lighter than thistle-down, lighter than gossamer?

To the tender, sun-sensitive or wind-whipped skin what can be more gratefully cooling, what be gentler or more fragrant than Colgate's Talc?

What talc, while adding its charm to the complexion, merges with it as does Colgate's Talc?

So fine, so very fine it is.

And perfumed to your liking.

PENMANS have put a world of character into knitted coats of all sorts.

Sport coats with their charming—if perhaps bizarre—color contrasts open up new avenues of expression for artistry in dress.

When these clever creations bear the Penman label all doubt as to their holding shape and fit is at once dispelled.

In buying, it is a simple precaution to remember the name—Penmans.

"The Standard of Excellence"

his cold acknowledgements of Haig. Perhaps it is temperament that most intrigues our temperamental Welsh prime minister. This Irish diablerie of Wilson, minister as it may sometimes be, effects Mr. Lloyd George more gently than the dour reserve of the Scottish soldier. The premier waited Wilson to be commander-in-chief on the western front, and did not conceal the fact in his speech, proposing the new field marshal's health at the dinner. That Wilson is an able man and a splendid soldier, no one doubts who knows the man. A friend has called him "a spider of a man." Tall, spare, almost emaciated, with the physiognomy of a Richieu, and the eyes of an Italian medieval condottieri, the chief of staff is no mediocre personality. Caesar would have found him fit for stratagems and spoils. By good fortune Lloyd George found him fit for the coveted baton. He is popular personally. He has plenty of good humor as well as a mordant wit. And he is a jovial companion as well as an ambitious worker. Contemporary history is frequently baffled by the real stature of his heroes. But good judges say that Wilson was Lloyd George's deus ex machina.

What Soldiers Think.
The speeches at the dinner have not passed uncriticized. What the soldiers want to know is this: The prime minister told the company how Sir Henry Wilson, with almost miraculous divination, unrolled a big map before Lloyd George's admiring eyes, in January of the year 1918, and accurately foretold just what the Germans would do in the following March. The intelligent chief-of-staff predicted that they would hurl 100 divisions against our front with the object of breaking between the French and British armies. That was undoubtedly very clever of the chief-of-staff. But it only increases the perplexity of the fighting commanders, especially those of the unfortunate Fifth army, who bore the brunt of that terrible assault, as to the reasons why no suitable precautions were taken to meet the foreseen event. Surely it would have been the obvious thing to do, and the most humane, to anticipate the rushing across of those 300,000 men from England who were sent over in March and April. There can have been no special object in letting the Hun leaders make all the headway they did, and incidentally practically "narrow" our Fifth army of 100,000 men. On the strength of the Wilsonian revelations, Lloyd George might even have used his persuasive powers on the United States to get their waiting legions hustled over earlier.

Autobiographical.
There were two passages in the premier's speech at the Wilson dinner which were obviously autobiographical. One was that in which he congratulated the field marshal on having conquered the British official prejudice against any man who possessed wit and imagination. Lloyd George has suffered from that tendency himself, he thinks. He knows how difficult it is for a man to get people to take him seriously if he sometimes fails to give the impression of always taking himself seriously. The other passage, in which undoubtedly the premier was thinking of other great men besides the military guest of the evening, was that in which he claimed that the test of a man's character was whether those most attached to him were those who best knew him. In other words, whether his friends found him a friend in ultimate issues. On this test, Lloyd George has no need to fear trial. Few men are more thoroughly liked and cherished by their intimates than L. G. As I said, he is a great partisan, and his friends are partisans, too.

More Batons to Come.
If military rumor is correct, and it is usually much more accurate than the political gossip, we are shortly to have more field marshal's batons bestowed. The number of such military dignitaries is arbitrarily limited. But nice customs bow to great conquerors as well as to great kings. And the soldiers expect to see a baton conferred on Robertson and Plumer at least. Other generals who commanded armies of unprecedented size in unparalleled fighting during the war are strictly eligible for the honor by all past criterions. But as most of them are fairly young men as high modern commanders go, it may be that they will have to "bide a wee." It is possible that Allenby will receive his baton, however, and he certainly earned the highest awards by his work out east. He was not quite so successful always on the western front, according to the soldier
