

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1903.

The Evening Times

ST. JOHN, N. B., OCTOBER 28, 1903

The St. John Evening Times is published at 27 and 29 Canterbury street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion.

A NOTABLE TRIUMPH. If one moment were more pleasurable than another for the minister of public works since the result of the campaign in this province was announced it may well have been that when he read the telegram from Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressing congratulations and stating that New Brunswick bore the palm in the great contest.

A POPULAR VERDICT. Later returns appear to give the government a majority of fifty-two, with seven constituencies yet to hear from, which will probably all go Liberal. Thus Sir Wilfrid will have a majority of about sixty.

SMALL CONSOLATION. With a fine spirit of resignation the Standard quotes a Conservative writer who contended before the elections that it would be better to let Sir Wilfrid run his course for another five years and bring the country to the verge of ruin, when the opposition could step in and be hailed as the saviors of Canada.

It is true that the Standard did not share this view prior to Monday last, but if it now finds comfort and a degree of compensation in the thought there will be no serious objection on the part of the supporters of the government. They in turn will be consoled by the memory that two years ago the Conservatives predicted immediate ruin under Sir Wilfrid Laurier's leadership, and that the prophecy has not been fulfilled. But is it true that any Conservative would be consoled for defeat by the thought that his country would five years hence be on the verge of ruin? Rather he should refuse to be comforted, but mourn deeply. This assumes, of course, that he is a patriotic gentleman.

As if it were almost a matter of course the cables tell us that Prince Henry of Prussia spent several hours in the air yesterday, as the guest of Count Zeppelin in his new airship. The Prince stated afterward that he felt as safe as if he were on board his own flagship. The next few years will doubtless witness a great advance in the solution of the problem of navigating the air, and a new source of pleasure will be made available for those who have the time and money.

A subject that will now command general attention in this province is the general effect of the sweeping Liberal victory upon the fortunes of the Hazen government. The Premier has greatly weakened himself by the course which he pursued in connection with the Mayes affidavit. His opponents, on the other hand, are flushed with recent victory and eager to try conclusions with him in the by-elections. Provincial politics assume an entirely new aspect.

On the day of the elections the Frederick Gleason said: "To-day there has been a lot of betting on the results of the election, some bets being made at even money that the Laurier government will be defeated, and a bet of $500 that Crockett will have 800 majority in York also being made at even money."

The Cuban market for New Brunswick produce is said to be one that will repay development. Every new outlet that is profitable is so much gained for provincial agriculture. The Cuban experiment will be watched with interest. The province has gained much from the opening up of a market for potatoes in the upper provinces.

Emperor William of Germany has been renewing his assurances of friendship toward England. This will not convince the majority of the people of England that there is not in Germany a deep-rooted jealousy of their country. The belief may be ill-founded, but it is firmly held.

The Standard should not permit itself to develop wrinkles through fear that Dr. Pugsley will not redeem his promise. St. John was never in so favorable a position to have its just claims recognized at Ottawa. This is conceded by Conservatives as well as Liberals.

The chances in the campaign in the United States are generally conceded to be in favor of Mr. Taft, and there is less excitement than is usual in a presidential contest. There is no great outstanding issue such as has marked so many previous elections.

It is unfortunate that there is not to be a floating elevator on the west side this winter. The port should have complete elevator equipment at all the west side berths before another year has passed.

Mr. Brown, of York, did not defeat Mr. Crockett, but he gave him the scare of his life, and kept him so busy at home that he had no time for outside campaigning.

With 27,000 specimens in its cabinets the National History Society Museum is a place of interest that should be greatly appreciated by all the citizens of St. John.

The Bulgarian government has decided to compensate Turkey and avoid hostilities. The Balkan situation is therefore less strained, and the chances of war reduced.

The question of a garbage incinerator is revived at city hall. The chief objection will be the expense of installing one and systematically collecting the garbage.

The petition of the New Brunswick Temperance Federation for a prohibitory law is being largely signed. Will Premier Hazen give it sympathetic consideration?

President Roosevelt is only fifty years of age. What a volume of strenuous activity and achievement has been compressed into those fifty years.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes Can Be Cured It's a pretty bold statement to make, but when you come to consider that 87 per cent of serious kidney trouble (long standing cases) have been cured by "Fulton's Renal Compound" it's a pretty safe one, isn't it? We have proofs and would be only too pleased to show you them if you'll step in.

WALL STREET King of the Bull and the Bear. Of palaces brilliant and gay, Of women most lovely and fair, The luring rewards of the play, I chant of the market to-day.

Where thousands are seeking to climb, Though Bear change to Bull in the fray, A Lamb is a Lamb all the time.

Like wolves, they are ready to tear, And rend each other for prey; The other end of the rope in the air, Makes friends of this sad human clay.

With these reputations they slay, And stoop to all manner of crime; A Bull in a Bear when at bay, A Lamb is a Lamb all the time.

Most desperate risks they will dare, And laugh while the ruined ones pray For even a pitiful share of the gain; Of what has been stolen away.

The youth of the land goes astray, Fair names are dragged down in the slime; The Bear goes the way the cards lay, A Lamb is a Lamb all the time.

Or anon in their gold-getting way, They palm off a dire as a chime, The Bear-but, lo! how they may, A Lamb is a Lamb all the time.

—Charles S. Barnes.

IN LIGHTER VEIN THE REAL THING. "And did you have a good run in Aulonsa?" asked the privileged friend.

"The other end of the rope in the air, storming portrayer of Hamlet, "Fifteen miles in one night with a mob behind you is going some, isn't it?"

CHICKEN RARE. The little child of the slums was enjoying her first visit to the country and was sitting in her dining-room at the farm.

"Just look at the chickens!" she exclaimed in ecstasy. "They're all running about raw." —London Opinion.

SIS HOPKINS SAYS: "Ma says that the man who is entirely doesn't live in any better house, or wear any better clothes, or smoke any better cigars, than the man who isn't. So what is the use?"

THIS FUNNY WORLD. "Why do you read the literature of both parties?" You always vote the same way. "And how are you going to arrange your every summer, don't you?"

"Yes, I am going abroad." "And how are you going to arrange your winter?" "Oh, pompador, I think that will be the most suitable for travelling." —Washington Herald.

JUST CLEAN PLUM DISGUSTED. We offer this paper, duff and good will—everything and appurtenances thereto belonging—for sale. Reason: Thereof abundant and satisfactory—to ourself.

We have enough—not of this world's goods, but of experience—after 24 years of continuous service. We are simply tired of the ceaseless grind and work and worry—that distract if it does not kill. Life is too short and the game is not worth the candle—to us.

We want to quit, to have ourself from being driven to drink and desperation or, forced into an untimely grave or lunatic asylum, any of which would be preferable to continuing with unreliable and incompetent help and various tools.

A bargain may be had by somebody who wants to engage in the newspaper business in a good newspaper business in a good town. —Hinsinger (N. C.) Old Leaf.

HOW TO BE LUCKY ALWAYS. George Salisbury, mining operator, returned from Hawaida yesterday, convinced that advice is not always worthless. He told about it to the St. John Press last evening.

"Talk about advice being cheap," he said, "I'll tell you a man's advice is worth a fortune, and from entire strangers, too. It shows we're all a little bit of human kindness is ever ready to flow if we hold a pall for it."

"The man was Turner—ever hear of him? He's a prospector at Hawaida. We were sitting in his hotel dining-room, when along came a fellow who knew Turner slightly, but gave him the best advice in the world, and next week Turner struck it rich."

"Then having said that, the fellow asked, 'Turner replied, 'Oh, good enough luck one day, and the next day a lick at all.'"

"Then work every other day only," said the fellow." —San Francisco Chronicle.

ST. GEORGE MAN IN THE POLICE COURT

George Finnigan the Central Figure in a Peculiar Case Heard This Morning.

In the session of the police court this morning the examination of George Finnigan was taken up. Finnigan was accused of assaulting and pursuing Mrs. Margaret Butler, on Broad street last night. Mrs. Butler testified that Finnigan attempted to seize her as she was proceeding to her home at half past nine and after she eluded his advances he followed her across Broad street, smiting her with a fist and making gestures, being apparently under the hallucination that he was a deaf mute. He retreated after being threatened with arrest by an elderly woman to whom Mrs. Butler fled for refuge. Later he re-appeared and was captured by the husband of the witness who gave him into the custody of Policeman Ross.

On Monday night shortly after eleven o'clock Mrs. Butler and her little daughter were alone in her house on Sydney street, near Broad. The mother had occasion to send the little girl to the yard and in a moment the latter burst into the house in terror declaring that she perceived the figure of a man creeping up her hands and knees toward her. She escaped to the house by a narrow margin and both mother and daughter succeeded in repelling the attempt of the marauder to enter by the door until the bolt was pushed into its socket. Investigation by her husband and neighbors later revealed no trace of the man. Mrs. Butler would not swear that the prisoner was the same individual.

Policeman Ross was examined regarding the arrest. The shrieks of the women brought him to the scene.

Finnigan said he was desirous of communicating with several citizens here who could vouch for his character. He claimed to have arrived from St. George when he is employed as a stone cutter—on Tuesday at half-past six and if he accented Mrs. Butler he did not intend to stay as he had always respected the weaker sex. He intended to resume his journey to Halifax on the late train last night and positively denied Monday night's episode. He was remanded.

THE BOSTON '08 CLUB

This Organization Will be Wound up Soon but Knights may Form Another One.

The St. John Knights of Pythias Boston '08 Club, which was organized for the purpose of attending the big Pythian convention in Boston in August last, will be wound up shortly, owing to the fact that the club has not been able to raise up the affairs of the club. At the club has a neat balance on hand in the treasury, it will be necessary to decide what use it will be put to, and several of the members are in favor of using it in organizing another club for the purpose of attending the next Supreme Lodge meetings, which will be held in Milwaukee in 1910. This suggestion will probably be considered at Monday's meeting.

HE WANTED HIS BED BUT GOT SOMETHING ELSE

Albert Alberts Tells a Tale of Woe in the Police Court.

In the finale of a dispute which Magistrate Ritchie was called upon to adjust this morning, the contesting parties were a fluent dandy, and a equally fluent West End dame, and naturally, the latter was victorious.

Albert Alberts, the complainant, alleged that a woman named Kay assaulted him on Sunday at her house while he was inquiring for his bedstead. Alberts mounted the hustings like a true orator and assailed the judge with a battery of words and cross fire of sentences in an inimitable manner. He said: "Well! an' life a bed in fath's woodshed last summer an' on Sunday mornin' she hit me with a broom an' a dish pan, and when ah fell down stairs she trow a poker at me, sah, which jes' missed mah ear. Ah've been married only a yeh. I ro member dat, becuz ah had pendicets just befo' ah got hitched, but ah don't sure want to 'sgrate, youah honah, so kaint say exactly ah would go on Sunday, sah, but ah had to go to Gaspereaux in de nex' mornin'. An', sah, she spat right in mah face without warnin'."

The woman admitted meeting Alberts as he knocked at her door, with a full set of boards, broom, household utensils, poker and profanity, but said she had no knowledge of the whereabouts of the bedstead.

The case was dismissed and the complainant informed that he should not approach the woman on the Sabbath.

Alberts married a young white girl from the West Side. The Kay woman has received the attention of the court on previous occasions.

LETTER FROM THOS. ROBINSON

To the Editor of The Evening Times:

Sir:—With reference to article recently appearing in the Times about a horse belonging to me I may say that I keep four or five horses all the time in my stable on Dorchester street. I have never at any time had any intention of keeping a dog in my case among my horses, and have none now—or any sign of such a thing. My horses have the best of care, are well fed and taken care of and show it in their appearance on the street.

As to the recent trouble I have had about a horse, the dry mare in one front foot only and that only when shoes were tight. I had him down time to time and he, as soon as he got off the rocky streets, was all right. Thinking he would be better in the country, I sold him to a farmer on the St. John River.

THOS. ROBINSON.

A "TOUCHING" TALE

A stranger, who said his home was in Hampton, told I. C. R. night watchman Patrick Gorman last night that he had been robbed of $15 by a friend, who also belongs to Hampton. Night Detective Marshall and Patrolman Scott kept with the man to a Smythe street boarding house, where the pair had been staying, but found that the "friend" had gone.

POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning Maud Lester denied having accumulated within her system an over abundance of liquor. "I wasn't drunk. I was that weak me limon wouldn't stand under me," was her vain plea for mercy. She will be confined to jail for two months to join her sister, where at present there are two brothers, and two sisters, all incarcerated separately.

Oliver Lewis was the acme of dejection. He imbibed spirits yesterday and was seized with "ghostitis." His vivid imagination pictured a spirit on the rampage and seeking to devour him, and to escape he lay in the mud on Union street. The apparition proved realistic, for it was in the guise of a policeman. Lewis and Benjamin Benson were fined $4, or ten days.
