Another Year Rolls By

This 31st day of December, 1924, ends the fiftieth year of my business association with Hartland. Of those who were in business here when I opened store about all "have gone to that bourne from whence no traveller returns." Many changes have taken place in Hartland since that time. The little village has passed into a prosperous town. During these fifty years, some thirty or forty firms have done business here, most of them retiring after short operations. But there are now good, well-conducted stores in the town where goods can be had at reasonable prices. Don't forget your old friend, who sold to your fathers and grandfathers.

Wishing all a prosperous and happy new year, I am

Sincerely Yours

John T. G. Carr

LAST MEETING OF RETIRING COUNCIL

Reports Given Monday Evening in Council Chamber Relative to Year's Work of Various Committees.

The January meeting of the Hartland town council was held Monday night in the town hall. The Mayor was in the chair and all the aldermen were present. The usual routine business was carried out. On motion the treasurer was authorized to pay to the County Secretary the amount of the Town of Hartland's indebtedness to the County of Carleton. This to be based on the actual default plus six per cent interest.

The Mayor gave a report reviewing the work of the past year, dealing with lighting quite thoroughly. He said the town had a splendid lighting system which was owned by the town. He spoke of the settlement the Town had about completed with the county, which will make our county assessment considerably less in the future than it has been in the past. He referred to the bridge being lighted and said that he was largely instrumental in having this accomplished. In the two years in which he had been in office the council had only missed one regular meeting and he had been in the chair at every meeting. All had received courteous treatment at the hand of the council. He had always welcomed fair and honest criticism and hoped the citizens of Hartland would co-operate in helping to exalt the town and make it a desirable place to live in. This could not be done by spreading broadcast a tale of woe in private conversation or in the press either, without knowledge of the facts or else regardless of them. He liked to see the citizens of the town have some civic pride and that meant more than keeping your own front and back yards clean. He hoped the next Council would have a survey made of the hill back of the reservoir with a view to finding sufficient supply of water for the town so that we could do away with the pumping thereby saving a large expenditure.

Sec. Treas. report was read and adopted.

The marshal reported that he had been on duty three nights of each week and on all public holidays during his term of office. Twenty men under the influence of liquor had been taken care of and six of that number were fined. Sixty-one dollars in fines and licenses had been collected. In addition to the above he stated that he had been called out in the night many times to look after men under the influence of liquor and unable to care for themselves and who were a menace to others. He wished to point out that 20 men was a small number compared to those that should have been arrested and lodged in jail for drunkenness had we such a place to confine them.

The fire and water committee reported as follows: On May 8, we installed a 20 horse-power electric motor for pumping at a cost of $408.20. We wish to point out for the benefit of the 1925 council and to the rate-payers of the town our object in buying an electric motor. It was necessary to procure something for an auxiliary engine in case of a bad fire if anything happened to the one we had. We would find ourselves in straightened circumstances from the insurance Companies' viewpoint. Secondly, in trying to get an agreement with the Hartland Electric Co., as to rate we were advised by an expert in the employ of the Utility Commission to buy a motor as it was cheaper to operate than a crude oil engine, and also promised the town a substantial reduction in rates in 1925, as the motor would utilize a large per centage of the line loss. Instead of the motor being cheaper it has been much more expensive and we would recommend that the 1925 council take up the matter of getting a better rate as Mr. Milldrum has promised which if not successful, would recommend using the crude oil in engine in 1925 by which a saving of $300 can be effected.

Other reports were given and voted on. A large number of the citizens were present and much discussion was held over a number of important questions.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Little and family of Buffalo, N. Y., who have been spending Christmas in Caribou and New Year's with Mrs. Little's parents Mr. and Mrs. Allbright Belyea are leaving today for Davidson, Maine, where they will visit for a few days before leaving for home.

TO CORRESPONDENTS

Will our correspondents please get their communications to our office on Monday. Every week we have more or less arriving too late for the current issue, which has to be carried over to the next week if it is published. We go to press on Wednesday and if much matter comes on Tuesday afternoon it is apt to be crowded out.

There is always some correspondence arriving on Wednesdays mail also which, of course, is too late for that issue.

But if any very important news of general interest arises, send it along on Tuesday or even Wednesday morning, as we always give preference to late news of this character.

We thank you all for your good and continued work and wish you a most happy and prosperous New Year.

R. B. Sunday School Gives Musicales—
Mr. A. Plummer Gives Account of his Travels in Europe

The musical given by the Reformed Baptist Sunday School on New Year's night was largely attended by an appreciative audience. The music was well rendered and all the numbers on the program well given. Following is the program as carried out:

Women's Institute Entertainment.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Women's Institute in the Assembly Hall on Friday night was as far as the entertainment was concerned, a very great success. The music was excellent. A quartette composed of G. W. Birmingham, Chas. Sykes, Rev. W. P. Haight and Dr. Coyle gave two fine numbers. Mr. Birmingham favored the audience with two solos. Miss Irene Barter and Miss Alice Keswick each gave a reading, both of which were well received. Mr. Amasa Plummer's address describing his European travels was most interesting. An hour went all too quickly while the speaker was talking, his audience in imagination over the lands lately traversed by him visiting cities from Glasgow to Rome, back to Paris, giving glimpses of the many wonders which it was his good fortune to behold.

There was just a fair-sized audience. The generous ladies of the Institute have reason to feel a disappointment that there were not more. The entertainment alone was worth a good deal and the purpose for which it was given—to raise funds to help pay for the piano the Institute ladies presented to the school might have brought out a very full house. Of course there being so much illness from lagrippe in town may have been a cause of there not being a fuller house. The proceeds of the evening amounted to about $14.00.

COLDS & BRONCHITIS

As you dissolve a Peps tablet on your tongue, certain healing fumes are released which are immediately taken with the breath down into the furthest recess of the lungs where liquid medicines cannot penetrate. These Peps fumes on their way form the whole of the breathing passages with their healing power, soothing the throat, allaying inflammation in the bronchiae, and relieving the most distressing symptoms simply by passing into the stomach and carrying with them this direct Peps ray.

While Peps are a very effective remedy to produce, the demand has become so great that it has now been found possible to have the

MRS. B. H. HART SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cornwall, Ontario.—"I am now giving your medicine a fair trial and it surely is doing me good and I am going to keep on taking it. I used to feel so tired in the morning that I didn't want to get up, but that feeling is leaving me now. I also sleep better and feel more like working. For seven or eight years I have had headaches, tired feelings, pains in my back and across my body. I read letters in the newspapers saying what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done others. My husband says I quit too soon, but I am not going to stop taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine until I am better and haven't an ache or a pain. Isn't that the right way? I have great faith in your medicines. They must be good when those who take them speak so highly of them. I am recommending them to my friends and I will gladly answer letters from women asking about them."—Mrs. BURT H. HART, Box 1081, Cornwall, Ontario.

Mrs. Hart wants to help other women and is willing to answer letters from sick women asking about the Vegetable Compound.

HOCKEY PICTORIAL

The second edition of the Hockey Pictorial is on the market, more complete and up-to-date than the original edition, which was received with such acclaim by followers of the great winter sport. Most favorable comments have been passed on the publication by sport writers the continent over, and the general opinion as expressed by players and scribes is that no more comprehensive or handsome book in the sporting line was ever printed. A feature that should possess a marked appeal not only to puck-chasers of the present, but old timers are the many group pictures of champion teams dating back to the early history of hockey. The new edition not only contains the history of hockey in Canada, but covers the history of the game in the United States, also, with 300 handsome engravings of Canadian and American teams, and is right up to the minute in every respect. Any further information pertaining to the book can be obtained by writing to the Hockey Pictorial, 84 Victoria St., Toronto, Ontario.

To See What Other Half Is Doing.

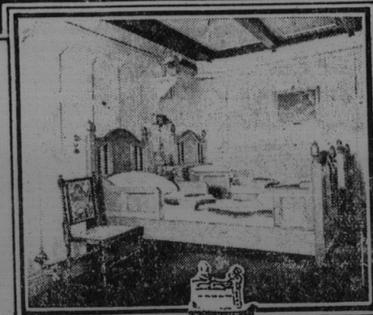

Above—The Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of France chosen to carry the Canadian flag round the world in 1925.
Right—The bedroom of one of the suites aboard the vessel.

One reads almost daily that so many automobiles have been shipped to foreign countries, that Canadian agricultural implements and other manufactured articles are finding foreign markets, and now one reads that there is an increasing demand in China and Japan for Canadian wheat and that thousands of bushels of grain are being shipped to Oriental ports. Of vital importance is this news to the Canadian, because the growth of Canadian exports means that new industries are being created, that more employment is guaranteed, that more money is placed in general circulation, and that there are more opportunities for the workman, manufacturer, and commercial man, and a larger home market for the farmer.

But it means more than all this. The increasing demand for Canadian, American and European goods, which is apparent, means that the other half of the world—the world itself—is changing. The automobile is gradually replacing the mule and the ox, and the gateway ports of the world, and the way inland, not so slowly as it is surely. Fields that once knew only the primitive agricultural implements are being filled with up-to-date machinery, and on the busy streets where people thronged in picturesque and native garb, the occidental costume does not strike a strange note. Customs are changing even in respect to foodstuffs. Outside the little restaurants one sees "English Speak Here", and knows that inside it will be harder to procure a native dish than a European one. Everywhere there is change. The Turks abolish their caliphate and their harems. The Greeks proclaim a republic, education for women appears in India. The Chinese are erecting modern factories.

Yet the world of romance still exists. Foreign countries still hold an attraction, and always will, but as the occidental civilization spreads, the Oriental atmosphere which, after all, is what the tourist goes to find, disappears before it, and the man of today has opportunity which those who come later will never see. Opportunity to see and come in contact with old customs, costumes, crafts and civilizations which are entering or about to enter a transient stage. Opportunity to experience the picturesque life of the other half of the world and to absorb it with the colorful atmosphere of strange lands; for the traveller may still feast his eyes upon the barbaric splendors of Peking and experience the thrill of shopping in the tumultuous market place at Cairo. The auto has not yet replaced the sledge, which taxis through the steep and cobbled streets of Madeira.

January 14th next will see the palatial Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of France leave New York on a globe encircling tour which will extend over 130 days. It will be a cruise which will embrace twenty-seven "Gateway Ports", and give the passengers opportunity of coming into contact with more than half a hundred different races. Madeira, Monaco, Naples, Haifa, Padang, Shanghai, Taku, Hilo, Balboa and Havana are but a few of the interesting ports of call, and inland excursions will be made to Jerusalem, Cairo, Agra for the Taj Mahal, Peking, Nikko and other places. Last year another Canadian vessel, the Empress of Canada, made a similar trip—a very successful one—and the first to be operated under Canadian auspices throughout. A Mediterranean cruise is also planned this year by the Company, the Empress of Scotland being scheduled to leave New York, February 9th on a 62 day voyage, and, in addition, the Montroyal, formerly the Empress of Britain, will make two cruises, one between New York and the West Indies, one on January 20th and the other on February 21st. So it is seen that there is demand not only for Canadian goods, but for Canadian vessels, these last having won for themselves an enviable reputation on both the Atlantic and Pacific waters as seaworthy and comfortable ships.

THEATRE BURNED AT VAN BUREN, ME.

The Star Theatre building a brick structure erected six years ago at a cost of $100,000 was burned early Monday morning.

The interior and roof were burned. Only the outside walls remain standing.

The fire which was discovered at 2.30 by the night watchman, was thought to have started from the furnace below William Cyr's lunch room. Firemen in 15 below zero temperature had a hard fight to confine the fire to this building which is owned by Steve Michaud of Van Buren and G. G. Bernette of Grand Isle.

The rear was used as a picture theatre while the front was occupied by the pharmacy of Carl A. Richards and the Cyr lunch room with the Knights of Columbus hall above them. Damage to the pharmacy was mostly by water. There was some insurance on the building and contents, the loss being estimated at $90,000.—Victoria County News.

For the Kidneys

OBSERVER OFFICE

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

"Ashes of Vengeance," one of the big pictures of the year, was brought to the local theatre by Mr. Teddie on New Year's night. A mediocre picture would have been made a good one with all the stars which this production embraced among them Norma Talmadge, Conway Tearle, Betty Blythe, Wallace Beery, and others. The story was based upon the intrigues of the time when the trouble was rampant between the Royalists and the Huguenots in France. Much sword-play was evident throughout. The costumes and stage properties were of the extravagant type of play or picture, and all the scenes most beautiful. Bryant Washburn starred in a substitute film "Try and Get It" on Saturday evening, a story founded on the trials and tribulations incident to the collection of a small account amounting to 25.11. A Lloyd Hamilton comedy in two reels held a good many hearty laughs to the square inch. This week's programmes will be found in the paid advertising on page seven.

Mrs. J. H. Jameson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Graham at Grand Falls.

Lee Clark of Woodstock who has been conducting the Estabrooks barber shop, for the past six weeks, discontinued business on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray and children of Good Corner visited Mr. and Mrs. G. G. London on Saturday.

Estabrooks' Hardware has been sold to J. Quinn of Riley Brook, who will assume charge after the necessary inventories have been taken.

Miss Alice Niles is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John W. Niles at their home in Andover.

On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lee entertained at eight tables of bridge at their home on Main st. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lee; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy T. Lee; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sullivan; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. London; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stevens; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wildman; Mr. and Mrs. Bridgewater; Messrs. Dickison, Andrews, Bruce, McClintock, F. M. Brown, Cyril Brown, Page, Misses Marion White, Faye Burt, Damey Burt, Helen Ritchie, Elma Flewelling Dora Lee, and Mrs. Alice White. Delicious refreshments were served at eleven o'clock, after which play was resumed, the merry party breaking up later.

Mrs. James B. Lee spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gartley in Houlton.

A short time ago a petition was circulated and signed by Centreville citizens, praying for the attention of the postal department to the need of a public building in Centreville. On Monday evening, T. W. Caldwell, M. P., called a meeting of ratepayers in the Kennedy Hotel Office for a discussion of the situation. He had with him Architect Allingham, St. John. Ways and means were discussed, suitable lots for erection of building were viewed and other statistics obtained. This project will be brought before the Department by Mr. Caldwell and championed by him.

On Sunday, January 11, Rev. E. Bridgewater will hold service as follows: The Good Shepherd, Florenceville, matins, 11 a. m.; St. Barnabas, Greenfield, evensong, 3 p. m.; St. James, Centreville, evensong, 7.30 p. m.

THE NEW YEAR

We have entered the New Year, 1924 has gone to join the countless years that have been and are no more. A New Year with all its possibilities has been born. To prophecy what the year will bring were useless. To make vain regrets for the past year were useless too. To make provision in the beginning of the year to make the year its measure of success were wise, to look back over the past year, and from its experiences and mistakes plan to make the present year more free from mistakes and better for our experiences were wise also. We all of us learn from experience—not the experience of others—but our own experiences. The man who goes through life without learning, without learning the vital lessons which life teaches, is a fool.

Knowledge, after all, is not gained from a text book, or within the walls of a great school or university. Some of the greatest fools of history have graduated with honour from a learned institution, and some of the wisest men in the world have wrested the secrets of life and living from the stern experiences of life and never had the privilege of going to the classes of a famous college.

That the present generation needs to learn to view life aright, no one will deny. That the problems facing the world at the present time are colossal every right-thinking man recognizes.

That there is a need for real sanity on the part of statesmen and leaders is likewise abundantly clear.

But that the need of sanity and clear-thinking is as needful on the part of every person holding the privilege of the franchise is not so clearly recognized.

The profound philosophy of "letting George do it" is very easy, because if George does not do it to please us, we can blame George so much easier than we can blame ourselves.

We have blamed the war for everything wrong in the social system for the past six years. The highway robbery in the big cities, the prevalence of youthful crime, moral misdemeanour on the part of young people, the divorce evil which is spreading in Canada at an alarming rate, the jazz music and the jazz dancing, the, in some cases at least, questionable dress of young girls and women who would be young, the lack of thrift on the part of those with moderate incomes and the lavish expenditure on the part of the newly rich, the drinking amongst men and women and boys and girls, the erotic literature which pollutes the news-stands, the collapse of banking institutions, the scorn for established law and order, and standards of society which can be seen on every hand—these and dozens of other things have been laid to the door of the Great War. We speak of the reaction and the revolt of the young, and it is easy to say, "it was the war." But is it not about time we stopped making excuses and got down to old-fashioned methods of looking at things? Whatever the reason for the present situation is, is it not about time we looked to see where we are drifting?

Is it not time for parents to assume a little more the responsibility of their parentage—for if the father and mother are jazz hounds, the sons and daughters will assuredly follow in their parents' stead.

Is it not time we respected the law to the extent of not trying to evade it, even if the Government winks at our so doing?

Is it not time for us to exercise our faith in the ordinances of Religion to the point of sacrifice? The man or woman who does not attend a church or fulfill the duties of their religion, or show any interest in the teaching of the Christ, is neither Catholic or Protestant whatever he may claim—he is nothing.

We need today more of faith—more of common sense in dealing with existing evils, more old-fashioned home teaching, more heart to heart talks on the part of fathers and mothers to their children. We need better examples on the part of the older people. We have read during the past year or two of two or three strikes in different high schools on the part of the young people who disagreed with a teacher or with the trustees. We are not sure that we do not need a return to the sterner methods of our grandfathers when they applied the strap to a vital part of the anatomy of the young people when they showed signs of rebellion. We need a greater thrift on the part of the whole population. The question should be asked by us all, not how much can I spend, but how wisely can I spend, and how much can I do without?

But the remedy lies not in one or in all of these things, but in the whole nation—we might say the whole world returning to a saner, healthier, and simpler idea of life, and when that happens the things we deprecate today will pass away.

And we cannot have a sane, or a healthy, or a simple ideal or idea of life unless we have a consciousness of God—a consciousness of God in the human life, and in the movements of history.

The town was absolutely dry for a few days recently in so far as the water system was concerned. The supply was cut off by reason of a freeze-up at the intake, but thanks to the energy displayed by the water commissioners and staff, assisted by public-spirited volunteers, possibly moved by the fear of a strike of their respective cooks, the obstruction was removed and the water is now flowing freely in its usual channels.

HARTLAND'S FUTURE.

The following is the response given to the toast "Our Future," at the Mayor's banquet last week, and is being published by request of several who think it well worth reading by all our citizens:

Mr. Chairman, Mayor McFarland and Fellow Citizens of the Town of Hartland:

I have been requested to respond to the toast "Our Future," and before passing on to my subject I just wish to echo the sentiments expressed by the preceding speakers as to the sterling worth and character of our good friend and fellow citizen, Mayor L. E. McFarland.

If we all strive to pattern after his mode of living, character and fine citizenship, I feel justified in predicting that we need not fear as to our future place of abode, neither fear for the future welfare of our town, and my earnest prayer is that as we are about to be ushered into a new year that Providence may deal kindly with him and his good wife, and that they may long be spared to enjoy good health, prosperity, their family circle, and the companionship of their friends and fellow citizens.

Now in regard to the future of our town. I think you will all agree with me in that it will be just what we make it. Socially, spiritually, materially, educationally, and from a standpoint of progress and advancement.

There are three ideals which if we will all practice will make a future for our town of which we may be justly proud. Possibly it might make for us a niche in the hall of fame that might be hard for the future to eradicate. They are "Loyalty," "Patriotism," and "Co-operation."

The word "loyalty" is considered one of the most wholesome words in the English Language. It is best described as "faithfulness" and "allegiance." Loyalty should first apply to the individual citizen. To be loyal in its truest and fullest meaning it is essential that we first possess sterling principals of character.

Without character there can be no foundation for loyalty.

We must so build and mould ourselves that we may be placed in an invulnerable position to withstand all attacks that might distract from or weaken us, thereby tending to destroy the spirit of loyalty to ourselves or others.

Devotion to our town, submission to its laws, the maintenance and extension of its sound principles, and a moral obligation of fidelity to those in authority over us and an obedient subject of our gracious Majesty the King, are true essentials to loyalty.

In dealing with loyalty as applying to ourselves and to our town, let us deal with it as it applies to business and commercial life. No matter what our station in life may be, unless we possess "loyalty" in the fullest degree we are doing an injustice to ourselves and to those around and about us.

The best precedent is example. If you are loyal your example to others will be superior and higher. Therefore be diligent. Be watchful. Be constructive. Be modest. Loyalty therefore does bring its own good reward and growth. Turning the lime-light on ourselves. Do we possess the "loyalty" to our town which it rightly deserves? If so then the natural result will be advancement.

Patriotism

Hartland will be as great as her people but no greater.

Natural resources and material possessions do not measure Hartland's greatness.

Hartland's greatness can only be measured by the sincerity and morality of her people plus education and culture and lastly by her possession.

The word "patriotism" is loved by all true patriots and the world is defined as love of country.

The true citizen of the Town of Hartland's patriotism is the love, the appreciation, the devotion we pay to God, our country, our neighbor and lastly British justice and fair play.

Coming up through the years of time we have made very satisfactory progress. Our water works system installed about 20 years ago, at an initial cost of about $20,000 is worth today from $80.00 to $100,000 replacement value.

It was the patriotism of our town's people who formed the company which floated the bonds and raised the $35,000 which built the first river bridge at Hartland. Our churches, our business blocks, our post office, our residences and lastly our beautiful school building—all constructed largely through the patriotism of our citizens and to some of these achievements we are indebted to our late citizens who have joined "that innumerable caravan," who have passed on "to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns."

And following their example let us continue with the self-same torchlight of ideals that has headed that caravan of toll and progress.

Three institutions are absolutely necessary for the future well-being of our town. The Church, the Home and the School. Let us strive to make each one count.

Let each one of us appreciate the progress the Town has made and strive to greater and better things and may this be the source of patriotism.

May each of us understand and appreciate the purchase price paid for the liberties and commodities we now enjoy and "serve" that we may hand down to posterity a still larger and more enabled and inspired patriotism not diminished by selfishness but made greater by our own individual and unselfish efforts to be of greater service to our fellowmen.

Lately we need co-operation. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, neither is co-operation.

To promote unity of purpose, unity of action, and a successful result there must be a genuine and consistent desire from the heart of one to the other to accomplish this end. This desire must be actuated from right motives—the act of working together and thereby promoting jointly the same end is true co-operation.

Co-operation in the business office brings about higher efficiency and happier working conditions.

Co-operation in the factory brings greater production.

Co-operation in the Church spells practical Christianity.

Co-operation in our Town means a bigger, brighter, better town—a town to be justly proud of.

The town possessing the right principles of co-operation is striving on life's highway with an asset placing it on a higher level than those towns which do not possess it. It is on a plane that leads to success and in the race for commercial supremacy that town is bound to succeed.

Has Hartland that co-operation. I fear not. Let this co-operation get its incentive from this pleasant little social function.

Now, gentlemen, if we have the well-being of our town at heart, let us combine these three ideals into the making of our town, and its success is assured.

It may be folly for me to predict the future of this Town of Hartland. Here we are located in the very heart of the garden of the province. Nestled on the banks of one of the most beautiful rivers in the world. Where the wild and wayward Beacumic tumbles its turbulent waters into the peaceful St. John, co-operating loyally and patriotically in their journey to the sea. "Beautiful for situation."

"The joy of the whole earth," and tonight as I look into the future—possibly far into the future, but I would not like to say—"as far as human eye can see." I think I see a new 500,000 gallon-capacity reservoir or standpipe. The extension of our water system to its southern boundary—pavements, north, south, east. An efficient sewerage system—a greater use made of our hydro-facilities thereby operating an efficient flour mill and well-organized furniture factory.

ENGLAND ADOPTS A POLICY OF PROTECTION

(Written for the Boston News Bureau from London by Herbert Casson.)

A new "safeguarding of industries Bill," will be introduced into the British Parliament next February. This proposal was carried by a majority of 188.

This means that in spite of her haggling over words and party phrases, Great Britain is now committed to a policy of Protection for British industries.

It is now 21 years since Joseph Chamberlain made his attack upon Free Trade and was defeated. Since then, the English people have held fast to Free Trade through thick and thin. They held fast until the last week in 1924. Then they let go.

There are two of Chamberlain's sons now in the Cabinet. Lord Derby who is a Free Trader was left out.

Free Trade has no champion now in the new Parliament, except the little remnant of the Liberal party, now reduced to 43 members. Even the Liberals are divided, and Mr. Lloyd George himself is not at all an orthodox Free Trader, of the old Cobden-and-Bright sort.

As Lord Rothermere says, "the whole Liberal Party can now go to Parliament in one bus, with a dozen seats to spare." They are the only friends that Free Trade has left; and they do not take their friendship very seriously.

New Slogan "Safeguarding of Industries."

The political problem was to escape the word "protection," which is not popular in England. So, Mr. Baldwin has taken up the phrase—"safeguarding of industries." This phrase was invented by Mr. Lloyd George during the war, and means the same thing as protection.

The only difference is that no industry is to be safeguarded unless it can prove three things:

- (1) That it is a large and important industry. (2) That it is efficient. (3) That it is being injured by exceptional competition from foreign nations, such as depreciated exchange, subsidies, lower wages, longer hours, or lower taxation.

As practically every industry in Britain could easily pass these three tests, there is no vital difference between the "safeguarding of Mr. Baldwin and the "tariff reform" of Joseph Chamberlain.

As Lloyd George pointed out, this is only an indirect way of putting on a general tariff; but Parliament voted in favor of it by a majority of 188.

The fact that England is still at heart a Free Trade Nation. But she cannot maintain Free Trade in a world of high tariffs. She has made a heroic effort to do this, and she has failed.

Baldwin Changed—The Actual Leader

England is now taking Protection with a wry face, precisely as a man would take a dose of castor oil. She is trying to give a pleasant taste to the oil by adding raspberry juice. That is the reason for the phrase—"safeguarding of industries." But it is a big dose of castor oil, nevertheless.

In introducing this new national policy, Mr. Baldwin made the ablest speech of his whole political career. He is a changed man since election. He has now a force and decisiveness that is making him the actual leader of his party.

He was clever enough, too, to push Mr. Churchill forward to defend the new policy. It was Churchill who led the attack upon the free traders, although he has himself been a Free Trader for 20 years.

Baldwin has also found a way to avoid levying any duties on food. He has proposed to subsidize the food imports from the Dominion and the Colonies. This is evidently the thin end of the wedge and may enable food duties to be levied without directly increasing the price of food.

England has been compelled to abandon Free Trade because she is losing her own home trade. Her new slogan is—"British markets for the British."

Compeled to Abandon Free Trade

The income of the British people last year was about $18,000,000,000. This is the buying power of Great Britain, and Mr. Baldwin's aim is to conserve this buying power for the benefit of the spenders.

Then, too there is the standing army of 1,200,000 unemployed. This host of workless people, now being supported as paupers, must have first consideration, in preference to any theory of tradition.

This new policy, which, it is hoped, will bring at least $500,000,000 more into the treasury, may also provide jobs for half a million of the unemployed.

At present, only one-eighth of the revenue of the British Government comes from customs. More than two-fifths of it comes from Income Tax. And the payers of this Income Tax are being crushed. Even Mr. Snowden, the Labor Chan-

At the conclusion of play delicious refreshments were served.

An old resident—perhaps the oldest resident in Edmundston, died last Sunday, in the person of Pierre Ringuette. The late Mr. Ringuette had for many years been a resident of this place and had seen Edmundston grow from a small village to a large town.

The deceased was just two years short of the century mark and kept his faculties right up to the last. He was the father of eleven children, seven of them still living. He was predeceased by his wife who passed away 15 or 16 years ago.

The funeral was held at St. Basil on Tuesday. The following are the children now living of the late Mr. Ringuette: George of Edmundston, Mrs. Paul Dube of Edmundston, Antoine of St. Basil, Mrs. Midas Belanger of St. Basil, Fred R. of Green River, Irene of Garviner, Mass., and James of Bonner, Montana.

A visitor from Edmundston to Cabano a day or two before Christmas Day brings to us a splendid report of the Christmas tree and entertainment held in that place. The various items on the program being of a very high order. The drills, songs, recitations and the 3-act play reflecting a great deal of credit upon the performers and giving a great deal of enjoyment to the large audience present.

Amongst those taking part were Master Ross, recitation; Miss Brown recitation; a dialogue by Mrs. Ross and Mr. George Dunbar. A fine Christmas tree with a visit from His Majesty Santa Claus, and a delicious lunch brought to an end a very enjoyable evening.

WANTS BELLS PUT ON PROWLING CATS

Pittsburgh, Pa., December 30—Prolongation of bird life by means of a tiny bell attached to the neck of that night prowler—the cat—is advocated by Anna Moody Browne, a prominent Pittsburgh citizeness, in a letter to a local newspaper.

She suggests that some progressive business concern put on the market an inexpensive strap and buckle with a good bell attached.

"It's a shame," Miss Browne says, "that something cannot be done to preserve bird life. Cats in my neighborhood have destroyed many number of bird nests and they all ought to be properly 'belled,' so that birds are warned of their coming."

Miss Browne points out that in Massachusetts there is a state law that cats must be belled.

Here and There

Of the 20,000 harvesters who went west this summer over Canadian Pacific lines, 14,000 are known to have returned east, according to C. B. Foster, Passenger Traffic Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, and it is thought that many others have returned, while several thousand are believed to have accepted positions in the west for the winter.

An indication of the increase in the value of effects being brought into Canada by settlers from the United States is shown in the latest report to the Department of Trade and Commerce. From April 1 to September 30, effects so classified were valued at $3,129,333, as compared with $2,666,467 in the same period last year, an increase of $462,872.

A feature which will add greatly to the attractions of Vancouver, B.C., as a winter resort, to say nothing of increasing its summer allurements, will be the new golf course to be laid out there at a cost of $120,000, exclusive of land. Work on the course will commence next spring. Fees will be merely nominal, fifty cents being charged for an 18-hole round, $2.50 for a month's play and $20 for a year. Play will be open to any member of the public.

Immigrants entering Canada during the 12 months ending October 31, 1924, totalled 134,189, as compared with 126,744 in the corresponding period of 1922-1923, according to the Department of Immigration and Colonization. These figures are more encouraging in view of the fact that the number of Canadians emigrating to the United States has to some extent decreased, while the number returning from the United States is on the increase, according to the department.

On November 29th, Hon. Marguerite Shaughnessy, daughter of the late Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, performed the launching and christening ceremony at the Clydebank yards of John Brown and Co. when the new Canadian Pacific S.S. Princess Marguerite, named in her honor, was slipped into the water. The Princess Marguerite is the second of the two vessels recently ordered by the Canadian Pacific for the company's British Columbia coastal service.

An entirely new service between Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, operating on the fastest schedule yet established for these cities, was instituted by the Canadian Pacific Railway on December 4. The new train, leaving Montreal at 6.15 p.m. daily, and Toronto at 9.45 p.m. daily, reaches Winnipeg at 9 a.m., 39 hours, 45 minutes after leaving Montreal and 36 hours 15 minutes after leaving Toronto. Express shippers are especially benefitted, as shipments reach the terminal cities in time for delivery on the second day after leaving, instead of on the third as formerly. Passengers gain a business day and earlier connections for more distant points, on reaching their destinations. As the eastbound train of this service connects direct with the Frontenac for Quebec city, passengers and express bound for that point also gain greatly by reduced time.

WOULD HAVE PUBLIC AT POTATO PROBE

Hon. W. P. Jones, K. C., will represent Porter, Hatfield and Gallagher, potato dealers, who have been summoned to appear before Commissioner Hereford, of Ottawa, for investigation under the Anti-Combines Act.

The investigation is expected to be held in Woodstock during the month of January, according to information given The St. John Telegraph-Journal, by Guy G. Porter, of Andover, president of the Guy G. Porter Company, Ltd., and one of the shippers whose operations are to be investigated.

Mr. Porter also announced that Mr. Jones had been employed as counsel to look after the interests of the Porter, Hatfield and Gallagher organization.

"We still maintain that this inquiry should be open to the public and not behind closed doors as proposed by the commissioner," said Mr. Porter. "My associates and myself are quite willing and anxious to submit our contracts showing the profits we have made on our operations this season, but we want the public to be fully informed."

"Some nasty insinuations have been made relative to this inquiry and Mr. Hatfield, Mr. Gallagher and myself are ready at any time to present our case."

Mr. Porter declares that the investigation coming at this time will have a tendency to curtail the potato shipments from the Upper St. John. He adds that the potatoes are begging for a market but a long drawn out enquiry will engage the attention of the shippers who cannot be expected to look after their own business and the same time be present at court.

HARTLAND INDUSTRIES

Hatfield and Co. of Hartland have installed new machinery in their lath mill here and have begun their sawing operations for the winter season. This industry gives employment to about 25 men working in the mill and outside.

F. E. Sayre Co. started sawing lath in Hartland at their lower mill this week. This mill gives employment to about 15 men. This firm also operates lath mills at County Line and at Indian Brook, employing about 15 men in each.

These mills besides affording employment to a large number of men create a local market for the nearby farmers who have lath wood for sale.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Elva Fern, who departed this life January 8, 1922. "Let us be patient, these severe afflictions,

Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benediction
Assume this dark disguise.
We see but dimly through the mist and vapors.

Amid these earthly damps;
What seems to us but sad funeral tapers.
May be Heaven's distant lamps."
