NUMBER 46.

The stone generally pointed out, as marking the spot where the gallant Dundee fell, is in the park immediately adjoining Urrard House, and easily discernible from the high-road. Local tradition, however, says he was mortally wounded at the back of Urrard House, and the circumstances attending it have thus been handed down:—Mackay, although obliged to retreat, had left a number of his men shut up in Urrard House, from

Analysis of Soils.—The following is a method of analysing soils for ordinary agricultural purposes:—Weigh a convenient quantity of the earth to be analysed, say 100 grains dried in the open air, dry the same before a fire on paper, so as to not name and his reputation? Has there nothing passed for the last thirty years? And has any great event which restored us to the first rank of free nations, which raised us up again in the eyes of Europe? The Revolution of July—is that nothing? England sends her most illustrious citizens to meet the King, and it is an insult, forthwith, to the Revolution of 1830! We say that it is an honour. It is precisely because England sends representatives by the King, or rather sends in the King the country over which he reigns, and the revolution from which he springs, that the reception which he gives to him honours the nation which he represents. The men who are at this moment about to receive the King of the French, are those who they first recognised and adopted with enthusiasm the Revolution of July. The Ministers who at present govern England are the very same that held the direction of public affairs in 1820, and who, in the midst of the alarm and doubt of the rest of Europe, hailed without hesitation the triumph of liberal and constitutional principles in our country. We perceive what are the tactics of the Opposition journals; it was easy to foresee them. They want to separate the King from the nation; they wish to turn the honours which will be done to him into so many insults to France. The country will not be thus led astray; it will be proud of the testimonies of respect and admiration of which its august representative will be the object, in the midst of a people so long free; it will take its share of them, and behold in the reception made to the King of 1830, a striking and sympathetic homage rendered to its revolution.

A violent storm has swept over the Irish channel destroying life and property in its ravages. The "Island" near Cointarf was overflooded; and a wooden cottage, containing a man and a boy who attended upon others was carried away. A steamer under repair at Kingstown, was driven against the wooden jetty, and through the watchman's house, which was divided into two: the man escaping just in time! At Skerries fishing boats dismasted and injured, bedges and pailings blown down, and houses unroofed were amongst the most prominent features of the storm. A vessel belonging to Halifax was wrecked off Rush, and the captain, his wife, and one of the crew, were drowned. At Dundalk, Belfast and other places the storm was more or less violent. The gale is described as being nearly equal in violence to the memorable hurricane of January 1839.

Between Holyhead and Dublin, the Ocean Queen and the Nymph—the former a steamer, the latter a schooner belonging to Wisbeach—came in contact, when the schooner immediately sank, drowning the master and two of the crew. On the same night a boat on the Mersey was swamped by the paddle wheels of the Iron Duke Steamer, when two boatmen and three seamen belonging to the Hesperus pined a watery grave. Worse still

The storms, it seems, has not been unfelt in Scotland. The coast of Argyshire experienced its fury. Several vessels were wrecked. Amongst others, a steamer called the Victor was torn from her moorings, and seriously injured.

An Adventure with a Steel Whisk.—A traveller belonging to Todd and Burn's establishment, having occasion to leave London, took his seat in one of the railway carriages for Liverpool. One of them was a female of lady like appearance, and the other four were apparently gentlemen; and looked as if accustomed to move in the first classes of society. The elder of them appeared not to know any language save French, and the others seemed to be amused at his awkward attempts to speak English. After some time the attention of Mr. Wilson (the name of the traveller) was attracted to a species of dumb language which appeared to be passing between them, and, feigning to sleep, he heard the person who appeared to know English, conversing very fluently in it, and using several slang terms. Mr. Wilson immediately became alarmed, and the train stopping at a place of refreshment, Mr. Wilson, he withdrew to a private place to change his money from one pocket to another, as he had observed his companions frequently pointing at the pocket which contained it. He had not entered above a minute when one of the party followed him and watched his movements. They returned to the carriage, and Mr. Wilson, again feigning to sleep, observed the individual who had previously followed him point out to the companion the pocket to which he had transferred his money. Becoming more alarmed he determined not to sleep, and remained awake until he had arrived in Liverpool. There the lady remained, pretending that she had come to wait for a servant of her's who she expected to arrive by the next train. Mr. Wilson, from her air, manner and accent, believed that the lady was a man in disguise, but who, as her was, she was evidently a confederate of the other individuals. Mr. Wilson parted with the company at Liverpool, but on going over in the packet to Dublin he recognised them there again.

HARDNESS OF WATER.—Dr. Thomas Clarke, Professor of Chemistry in Marischal College, Aberdeen, in his evidence in June last, before the commission for enquiry into the sanitary condition of large towns, states that there is no single quantity of water to which he would attach more importance than softness. He expresses the hardness of water thus:—16 degrees of hardness means that hardness that would be caused by the presence of 16 grains of chalk per gallon;—and he adds, it is of no consequence in what the combination the earthly salt may be. To test of hardness correctly, The pipette at Aberdeen stands at only one degree hardness—equal to that produced by the presence of one grain of chalk per gallon; hardness of the Glasgow water is about 2 degrees, that of Edinburgh 5 degrees;—of Newcastle-on-Tyne about the same;—the pipe-waters of London range between that of 11 deg. and 16 degrees, and the pipe-water of Manchester is 12 deg. of hardness.—The Doctor thinks that a water used to be Capture and Discreance of an English Captain on the Coast of Africa—Captain Northwood, who was captured and detained by the Moors of the Island of Arguin, on the coast of Africa has reached England. It was believed he had perished. He sailed from London in the barque Margaret, for Arguin, in April last, taking with him his wife and family. Whilst in search of guano, on the Island of Arguin, the Moors gave chase to them, and shot a young man named Sims thro' the head. The boat capsized and sunk, and they were all made prisoners, with the exception of one man who was drowned. After ten weeks' captivity, they were ransomed by Captain Isenmonger, of the brig Africainus, whose humanity and zealous exertions saved them from being sent into the interior where in all probability they would have been slaves all their lives. Mrs. Northwood and the remainder of their crew proceeded with the ship to her destination, believing the captain to have been drowned. Letters have been received from her, dated Angra Pequina, stating that they were loading rapidly, and expect to be in England about the latter end of next month. She is still in deep affliction, believing Capt. Northwood to be drowned.

A Poor Man—It is possible that the accumulation of wealth may add to the sorrow of the possessor. I know an individual, with whom I was very intimate when a youth, and I remember very well, at that time, whenever I wanted relief for the poor he would give a £10 note, and say, "Richard, never pass my door: always come to me when you want assistance for any deserving object." He was then comparatively poor, having purchased a fortune of from £50,000 to £60,000; but now he is worth nearly £1,000,000. One would have thought it ought to have made its possessor happy: but no. I know not a more miserable man than that. Richard is, it was but the other day that he ordered his men to cut the beautiful trees in his park to be felled, because he had no money to pay the income tax with. It was but the other day that he lost £100,000 in America, that made him mad. He has another £100,000 which he does not know how to invest, —that makes him miserable, and he is now under the impression that he will die a poor man.—Oastler's Speech.

A Vessel Struck from the Gibraltar Battery.—A Spanish vessel, passing Europa Point, Gibraltar, without showing her colors, two shots were fired to remind those on board of their neglect. Paying no attention to the intimation and believing themselves to be out of the range of gun, a gun of a larger calibre was fired, which struck the vessel & immediately sunk her. Fortunately for the crew, a Portuguese vessel was near, into which they got and saved their lives.

A Determined Man.—The patient perseverance of some of those who have been determined to see the Queen in it once more, was ludicrous and effecting; one man in particular, a few days ago, took his post on the road side, opposite the grand entrance, and there lounged for about twelve hours at a stretch, with no other amusement than noticing the passers by, or observing the periodical change in the relief of the guard, whose me of watch fell so far short of his.—Nothing could, however, divert him from his purpose, and he finally took his seat on the grass, and, taking out his pipe and cheese, commenced eating, allowing observation and refreshment to go on together, till at last he was rewarded, as perseverance and determination are always sure to be, by two excellent views of the Sovereign he had come to see, as she went and returned from her afternoon drive.—(Scotch Paper.

TO MESSRS. ROWLAND AND SON, 20, HATTON GARDEN, LONDON.

HUMPHREY HOTEL, COVENT GARDEN February 16, 1842

GENTLEMEN,—In announcing to you the following corroboration of the efficacy of your Macassar Oil, if by your making it public it will be of any service, I shall consider myself but returning in a very small degree the great obligation I feel I lie under to you, and shall be most happy during my stay in London to satisfy any Gentleman who may be interested in the truth of the following—In the year 1774 I went to India, and shortly after my arrival there my hair fell off in considerable quantities, so that I soon became entirely bald. In which state I remained until my arrival last year in America, and at Boston was induced by reading one of your Advertisements to make trial of your Macassar Oil, though I could not with but little hope of success. After the use of one bottle, I found my hitherto bald head covered with a sort of down, continuing the use of the Oil, much to my gratification, I have now the pleasure to inform you, without exaggeration or vanity, that I can boast of as fine a head of hair as any one need to have.

I am, Gentlemen, Your grateful Servant, W. A. MACKENZIE

GENTLEMEN—I take the liberty of addressing my thanks to you for the great benefit I have received from your truly valuable Macassar Oil. Having had the misfortune to lose my hair at the age of five and twenty, in consequence of a fever, I was lately induced, at the instance of a friend, to make trial of your excellent specific, and can only say that the effects were most surprising, for in a very short space of time, my head, which was before entirely bald, was soon covered with thick and strong hair. I am now fifty years of age, and could scarcely have expected, after that having worn a wig for five and twenty years of my life, I should now be enabled to throw it entirely aside. I think it but justice to yourselves and the public, to add my testimony to the virtues of your truly inestimable Oil, and you have my permission to make this letter public, and to refer any one to me for proof of the merits of this invaluable discovery.

I am, Gentlemen, Ever your obliged and obedient Servant, LINCOLNSHIRE, March 21, 1812.

Extract of a Letter directed to Mr. Oldroyd, Merchant of London, from a friend at Naples, dated May 6, 1825.

I must turn your attention to the following—Captain Kraushair of the 4th Regiment of Line, in the service of His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, aged 44 years, has been bald ever since the age of 18. He was recommended to try "Rowland's Macassar Oil" by a medical friend who had already experienced its good effects; he bought some of me of the last quantity I received from England, and persevered in applying it. In less than two months his hair began to grow on the bald part, and is now very thick. I made the Captain is highly pleased and has spread its fame I assure you, the demand for that article is very great, and must beg you to send me a fresh supply without loss of time.

GENTLEMEN—Having derived essential benefit from the use of your Macassar Oil, I am induced to send you the particulars, which you are at liberty to make known as you may think proper. Rather more than twelve months since, I made trial of the Oil, though I confess with not much faith, as I had been bald eighteen years. It was near three months before any effect was perceptible, but the slight down appeared; at the expiration of five months hair had grown on the bald part full half an inch long. I then had the whole of my head regularly shaved once a week for a considerable period, constantly using the Oil, night and morning; the result is, that I have this day discarded my wig, my hair being quite restored and as strong and great in quantity as when I was twenty years of age.

I am, Gentlemen, Your obedient servant, C. P. DRIFFIELD. 32, Broad Street, Brighton, April 19, 1832.
