tinued through the winter and the passing summer. It is with us yet. It is one of those healthy booms and does not suffer from cold in winter or wind colic in summer, but, like the baby that feeds on a much advertised food, it thrived and grew apace. It was not affected by current hard times, either, and was fanned into a steady glow by the savings of mechanics, clerks and tradesmen. "London, the beaut ful," the name strangers know it by, is fast becoming a city of cottages. From Jan. 1, 1894, to date, according to the permit book in the city engineer's office, 117 dwellings have been erected or are in course of erection at the present time. Of these, 78 are cottages and 39 more pretentious residences. Of the 78 cottages 42 are brick, or brick veneer, and 36 frame. The results of this industry is more especially noticeable in the East End and the south side. In East London that portion lying north of Dundas street and south of the C. P. R. has improved wonderfully. The old Abbott survey on Quebec street is no longer a cow pasture, but a cluster of nearly a dozen beautiful brick residences and cottages. Further up, beyond the track, and nestling on the brow of the hill, is a cluster of houses, and the inhabitants of "The Highlands" only need an electric road in that direction to make it one of the pleasantest locations the city affords. Ontario street has been beautified by the erection of a row of five red brick residences. a brick cottage and a two-story brick house. Then, along Elias street, towards Adelaide, homes of railroadmen have appeared. What was once English survey is being built upon until soon there will not be a vacant lot. The old English plantation on Queen's avenue is now adorned with several handsome residences. South of Dundas street in the same neighborhood, Hewitt street, York street and King streets have progressed favorably. Rectory street sout, where so much depression existed when the manufactories of that neighborhood collapsed some years ago, is fast assuming a thriving appearance, and empty houses no longer totter against each other with every blast of wind. Instead trim, painted, frame cottages and neat brick houses appear, and wall kept lawns and boulevards adorn the fronts. In the suburban portions of South London cottages have appeared in sixes and sevens, while costlier residences are also springing up. Queen's avenue, down townthat means west of Adelaide streethas had its share of the boom. Several handsome residences are in course of erection and others were finished during the year. On Waterloo street opposite the High School and on Wellington street near the park some of the most costly residences that London can boast of are being erected. And soon the new free library and Y. M. C. A. buildings will rear their shapely roofs to the sky at the corner of Queen's avenue and Wellington streets. The brick houses erected in the city since New Year's cost upwards of $118,550. In ten instances no figures are given with the permit, and as some people vaguely imagine the figures in the permit book in some mysterious manner regulates the assessment, the figures given are not by any means an outside limit. The cost of frame houses during the same period was $23,475, with the prices of four not given. While many citizens have been engaged in building, many more have been engaged in alterations and repairs to already existing dwellings. The alterations ranged in cost from $7,350 to $50 and amounted to $26,750. Sundry workshops, stables, offices, etc., have also been erected at a cost of several thousands of dollars. Lumber merchants state that collections are good. With the boom has come a steady increase in the value of real estate. Owners seem to think that it pays to open up their vacant

ARMY ENTERPRISE IN LONDON As Outlined and Commended by Commandant Booth.

Commandant Booth, in the last edition of the War Cry, has some interesting things to say of London and the army's work here. Among other extracts are the following:

"In no city in the Dominion is the Salvation Army more splendidly and advantageously entrenched than behind the walls of our new Citadel in London. The corps is new established in its new quarters. The Switzer & Son, 3 Jos Charlton. barracks, surveyed by me the other day, I give it -w deliberate opinion, is not to be | ton, 3 H A Switzer & Son. outmatened for its size by any building in the army in any part of the world. Perhaps the crowning victory of the whole lies | Hord & Son. in the fact that we have a barracks, seating 600 people, with a beautiful week-night hall, with rising seats on the most approved style, accommodating 300, right in the heart of the city on one of the principal thoroughfares, and all at a rental of $8 a week. The popularity of the hall is attested by the fact that since it was opened, the corps has had larger congregations than for years gone by, and I confidently bespeak

a magnificent winter campaign for the city. "Nor is this all. Not only has the corps reaped the advantages of this transaction, but the Salvation Army as a whole. In addition to finding quarters for the Provincial assistant, the field officers, and the janitor, besides renting off other portions of the building, we have accommodation for what comprises, now it is fitted out, one of the neatest and best ordered food and shelter depots in the world. On the top floor there are elegant quarters for the officers in charge. Then come the airy and spacious dormitories for poor men. Then a commodious restaurant with its appurtenances and roomy kitchen, to say nothing of reading and lounging rooms, and commodious lavatories. Alongside we have our woodyard with every convenience for employing the poor and for pushing an active little business. Truly, the experiment of a shelter in a place like London is to be tried under the most happy conditions, not the least of which is the appointment of Adiutant Miller and his wife to the command of the undertaking. They leave the city this week to prepare for the opening, which she commandant hopes to carry into effect at the end of October. Meanwhile will tveryone pray for this undertaking, which has been launched solely for the glory of God, that it might be used for the salvation

GLADSTONE AND LIQUOR CON-TROL.

Liquor law reform has been slow in Great Britain, because, on one hand, of the immense vested interests that have grown up under sanction of law for hundreds of years, and because the social habits of the people have, to a considerable degree, made change difficult. These are probably the reasons why the British people are away behind the new countries in this respect, and accounts for even Mr. Gladstone having doubts about the efficacy of so mild a measure of reform as local option-a right now enjoyed to the full in this Province and in most of the other divisions of the Dominion, but found to be but a partial relief at the best.

The Scotch have for years had their Forbes Mackenzie Act, passed as long ago as 1862, by means of which the public houses are closed to all but bona fide travelers from 11 o'clock on Saturday night till 8 o'clock on Monday morning. Ireland, too, has Sunday closing. But in England the "pubs" are open for a considerable period every Sunday, and in London and the

To us in Canada this does not appear to be a very radical demand, but in Great Britain, where in the past the traffic has been so buttressed with legislative kindness, the proposition has caused much excitement and opposition. Even Mr. Gladstone appears to be afraid to trust the people to home rule in this respect. and is inclined to fall in with one branch of the Gothenburg system as a substitute-a law, by the way, which is also supported by Mr. Chamberlain. The Gothenburg law makes the State the saloon-keeper, puts civil servants in charge as liquor dealers, and doles out the liquids as the people ask for them! While Mr. Gladstone leans to this idea, which has hitherto been chiefly championed by the Episcopal Bishop of Chester, apparently under the impression that it is the antipodes of local option, he seems to forget, or he does not know, that with this system Norway also has local option, and in such constituencies as prefer it no liquors are sold. The contrast, we are told by close observers, is decidedly against the State-officered saloons.

What effect Mr. Gladstone's attitude may have on the Parliamentary efforts now put forth in favor of securing a local option law remains to be seen. It may be that, tentatively, Great Britain will elect to try the Gothenburg system. But it will be a more difficult task to get the sanction of the Imperial Parliament to a transfer of the retail sale of intoxicants from private individuals to State officials than to secure the passage of a local option law. The adoption of the Gothenburg system will be opposed by progressive temperance men as well as by the publicans and wholesale dealers, whereas the local option system has at least the enthusiastic support of temperance leaders both in and out of the Imperial Parliament, We in Canada will look on the British struggle now imminent with much interest. But the result-even if the Gothenburg law is given a trial-will not affect the views of Canadians. They will never consent to any proposal that will have the effect of making the law-makers the saloon-keepers as well. The State even now is too much a partner in the business, for is it not a fact that the great bugbear always raised against prohibition is the question of revenue derived from the sale of intoxicants by the Government? Those who raise that outery, however, ignore the fact that the man who spends his money on whisky is by that act debarred from spending it on other dutiable goods. The revenue cry does not frighten anyone who has faith in the right and in the future of a sober and industrious race engaged in the development of a natu. ally rich land.

"THE DEAD LINE OF FIFTY." There is a note frequently sounded in the Canada Presbyterian which may be a true note or the opposite, but which is worthy of being tested by the tuning-fork of examination.

The Canada Presbyterian has apparently got it into its head that elderly preachers do not, to use a colloquialism, get a fair show, and that the age of 50 is too often regarded as "the dead line."

We want to be fair, and will admit that there may be something in what our contemporary says-something possibly growing out of an age of railways and telegraphs and of general education; but we are convinced that it exaggerates the tendency of which it complains, and that there are other points of view.

Men of power, like Spurgeon, Henry Ward Beecher, Canon Farrar, John Wesley, Guthrie, are not wearied of any more after 50 than before it, and the same thing is measurably true of humbler men of comparative power. Is it not true that many men of the pulpit, like men in other walks of life, fail through their lack of energy and concentration, or through frittering away their time on things only moderately important, and thus do not keep up with the

Take the habit of many ministers of 'turning the barrel"-i.e., preaching old ermons, with old illustrations, instead of preaching new sermons, with new illustra-Who can really vitalize his old sermon? And if it cannot be made vital to the preacher, how can it be made vital to the hearer?

Then, every change of pastorate is not necessarily a thing of evil, as our contemporary seems to infer. Sometimes a man is not a success in one place who would be a distinct success in another. Sometimes both preacher and congregation get into a rut from which it is better that both should

CUSTOMS UNION.

The London Times holds that any customs union scheme which is suggested will be incomplete unless Great Britain, the colonies, and the United States is included, A union for trade purposes of the Englishspeaking race would certainly be a powerful aid in the promotion of peace and prosperity. Besides, the United States and Great Britain now trade more largely together than do almost any other two nations in the world.

The principal difference is often presented of a number of country between the two men lies probably in the gentlemen granting tavern licenses in fact that while Hill is full of push and towns and cities to which the majority of energy, and is only a man of moderate the taxpayers are absolutely opposed. He, however, minimized these very much by his praise, while in the chair, of the general policy of the President and his Cabinet and by his strong plea for unity of all sections of the party in the coming campaign. If Hill carries New York State by a reasonable majority in the pending election, he may realize his strong desire to be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1896. -It is announced in the Court Journal that her Majesty the Queen has been graciously pleased to issue the following "orders for all persons who appear at her Majesty's Castle of Dublin to put on mourning for his late Royal Highness, the Comte de Paris, cousin of her Majesty: The ladies to wear black dresses, white gloves, black or white shoes, feathers and fans, pearls, diamonds, or plain gold and silver ornaments. The gentlemen to wear black court dress, with black swords and buckles. The court to change as follows: The ladies to wear black dresses, with colored ribbons, flowers, feathers and ornaments; or grav or white dresses, with black ribbons, flowers, feathers or ornaments. The gentlemen to continue the same mourning." There is a good deal of red tape in this world. What kind of sorrow can such bedecking as is here suggested betoken?

DR. DEWART TAKES IT CALMLY.

Rev. Dr. Dewart in the Christian Guardian re the change of editor: "Still, it must be borne in mind that no one has a vested right in any office of this kind, No matter how fair or efficient he might be, it is scarcely possibe that any man could edit a church paper for 25 years without displeasing a good many people, and, of course, such persons have a right to embody heir feelings in practical action. There vore one or two times in the past when a probability of a change in the editor seemed greater than at this conference. The present editor's fate is fitly described by he poet Moore as one

"'That stood the storms when waves were rough, Yet in a sunny hour fell off, Like ships that have gone down at sea, When heaven was all tranquility.' "As to the present editor, he can adopt s his own the words of Milton:

"'I argue not
Against heaven's hand or will, nor bate a jot
Of heart or hope; but still bear up and steer Right onward.'"

DAIRYING DOINGS. Now that the severe drought experienced during the summer months has been broken, an ADVERTISER representative called upon Mr. J. W. Wheaton, sccretary of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, to learn the effect it had upon the industry, and the prospects for dairying during the coming winter. Mr. Wheaton stated that the product in Ontario had been materially decreased by Ontario had been materially decreased by in your blood for years, may be thoroughly exthe dry weather—in many places fully 50 pelled by giving Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. per cent. place since the rain broke the monotony. Fields presented a spring-like appearance, the flow of milk had increased and so had the make of cheese. As to winter dairying, Mr. Wheaton thought if the dry weather had not been so severe more factories would have gone into this branch of the industry during the winter. The quantity of feed was greatly diminished, and farmers had to use a lot of their surplus, prepared for winter dairying, for summer feed. Two or three new factories in Western Ontario have stated their intentions of going into dairying this winter. The number would have been larger but for these drawbacks.

Important Statements Regarding City Sewage.

Dangers Arising From Contaminated Soil and Foul Water.

[Special to the ADVERT ISER.!

MONTREAL, Sept. 27 .- The American Health Association is meeting here. It is well attended, members being here from Mexico and all the principal cities in the States and Canada. H. F. Mittal, of Johns Hopkins University, read a paper on the water supply of some of the Italian cities, and incidentally drew attention to the fearful results which followed soil contamination by sewage. He also referred to the over-crowding of Naples, and told about the manner in which maccaroni is made in the most filthy quarters of the filthiest city in the world. How it is hung out to dry in streets reeking with sewage and every other abomination. In Rome, he stated, enough water was used in the fountains of the city to supply another as large. There is not enough used on the citizens to take the tan off. More for the body and less for the fountains was what he wanted. The State authorities of Italy, he said, had spent many millions in widening the streets, raising the ground, and putting proper sewerage and waterworks in some of the worst cities, and the result is a lessening of the death rate and immunity from cholera, which at times scourged the country. "The Cart Before the Horse," was the title of a paper read by Benjamin Lee, of Pennsylvania. In it he referred to the folly of having a good water supply without an adequate system of sewerage, and drew attention to the danger of soil contamination with sewerage; also of the unfairness and folly of one person pouring out his refuse on his neighbor's lot, farm or stream, and how it is sure to react on ourselves.

Wyatt Johnston, of the Quebee Board of Health, read a paper on "The Sedimentation of Water." The conclusion he reached was that it reduced the number of bacteria, although it did not destroy all.

A. N. Bell, of Brooklyn, described the water basin of Long Island, from which he wanted the city to draw their water sup-

Frank T. Shutt, of the Dominion Exportant paper on the water supply of our farm homesteads, and drew attention to the danger to man and beast of farm wells being polluted, either by being too near privy pits or barnyards, and low they ought to be annually cleaned out.

Dr. Shuttleworth, of Toronto, described how the leak in the main at the island was found out by bacteriological investigations, and told how Toronto attempts to dish up sewage-contaminated water to her citizens, and of some of the effects. But he did not tell us that it would be much more along the line of common sense to keep the bay pure than to spend millions in seeking for

THE WHEEL.

LONDONERS DO WELL AT ST, THOMAS. The bicycle races in connection with the Elgin County Fair at St. Thomas yesterday proved very successful. All the events were well contested, and a large crowd witnessed them from the grand stand. The track was in good condition, but a very strong wind blowing against the riders on the lower stretch prevented faster times being made. Members of the London club secured five prizes, Radway getting three seconds and Bernard a second and a third. Bernard surprised his many friends in the splendid showing he made in such fast company. Next year with proper training no doubt he will develop into a fast rider. Most of the Londons remained over for the late train, and were hospitably entertained by the St. Thomas club. Following is a summary of the races:

One mile, novice, final heat - C. S. Smith, St. Thomas, 1; C. E. Bernard, London, 2; J. W. McKay, St. Thomas, 3; Time, 2:391.

yards), 3. Time, 8:12. The officers of the day were: Referee, Dr. Balfour, London. Judges, P. T. Carroll, London; S. H. Eby, St. Thomas. Scorers. James McCormick, London; H. M. Allison. S. Thomas. Secretary of meet, E. E. Weldon, St. Thomas.

LONDON NOT IN IT. Mail: The five Toronto teams entered will be the only competitors for the Dunlop trophy. The London Bicycle Club telegraphed yesterday that they were unable to make up a complete team, and accordingly will not be represented on Saturday. F. F. Radway, therefore, will not be a starter. The Stratford Bicycle Club also cannot get a team together.

CYCLING THROUGH THE DESERT. CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The fears that Frank Lenz, the Pittsburg bicyclist, who is making a tour of the world, has perished in the Persian desert, has been dispelled by the receipt of a letter from the young adventurer yesterday from Teheran, Persia, April 14. The cyclist was then about 1,200 miles from Constantinople and reported that he had made 14,041 miles and had met with universally kind treatment; Out of 28 nights spent in the desert he was compelled to sleep sixteen without shelter, but reported himself in excellent health.

THE RAILWAY HANDICAP. LONDON, Sept. 26 .- At the Newmarket prostrated; so much October meeting the great railway handicap of 10 sovereigns each, with 300 sovereigns added, for 3-year-olds and apwards, was won by Baron de Rothschild's 6-year-old black horse Amandier; Jennings' 4-year-old black colt William second, and Capt. Michael's 4-year-old bay filly Erin third.

THE GREAT STALLION RACE. Boston, Sept. 26 .- The big stallion race, for which the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association offered a purse of $15,000, and which brought together Directum, Arion and Nelson, was trotted this afternoon at Mystic Park in the presence of fully 20,000 people, and Directum won in three straight heats. Orrin Hickok sat behind Directum, while "Hod" Nelson, as usual, piloted his own horse. Arion, who was looked after by Budd Doble, was suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Directum won the pole for the first heat, with Arion second and Nelson third on the cutside. At the second time of scoring they settled down to business. Down to the quarter they went at a 2:14 clip, with Directum and Arion neck and neck, Nelson half a length behind, and this relative position was main-tained to the half, with Nelson, however, creeping up a little. To the three-quarters Directum was unable to shake off Arion, whom he led by only a nose, and into the stretch they came. There Arion fell off alightly, and Nelson was close at his wheel. Directum, trotting steadily as a clock, gradually opened up the distance between himself and Arion, until it showed about an even length, and in that position he crossed the wire a winner. Nelson was a scant length behind Arion.

Time, 2:12. For the second heat an elegant send-off resulted in the first trial, and a blanket would have covered the three. To the quarter Directum had a slight lead, with Nelson first gaining on him and Arien holding his own in good shape. Around the turn Nelson kept steadily pushing ahead and finally overtook Directum, so that at the half he was leading by a half length and Arion ap. Here Nelson's driver tried to force aim a little, but with poor result. Arion showed his gameness at the three-quarter post, and in coming around the upper turn into the stretch, pushed bimself into second place. Down the stretch the three closed up and made a pretty race for the wire, but Directum could not be overhauled, and cleared the wire about a length ahead of Arion. Time, 2:10.

The third heat was started with one scoring, and the flyers went to the quarter in a group. Then Arien seemed to draw ahead for a few seconds, but his lead was very slight, and Directum swiftly put himself in the van. Along the back stretch the three kept well together, all trotting steadily, in fact there was not a break made during the whole race. As they came down the stretch, Directum, under a slight lash, opened up a gap in front of Arion, which was increased to two lengths at the finish. Nelson was a length farther in the rear. Time, 2:111. Directum was announced to be winner of first money, $9,000; Arion second, $4,500, and Nelson third, $1,500. Summaries:

Senator Hill Selected by the New York Democrats

To Oppose Morton in the Contest for the Governorship.

Lockwood, of Euffale, Takes Second Place on the Ticket-"Tariff Reform" the Watchword-Cleveland's Course Approved.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26. - The Democratic State Convention has nominated Senator Hill by acclamation for governor, Congressman Daniel Lockwood, of Buffalo, for lieutenant-governor, and Judge Gaynor for judge for Court of Appeals. The convention adjourned at 3:45 p.m.

Senator Hill was not given a chance to accept or decline the nomination, but all the other party leaders declared that he would obey the will of the convention. The Democratic State Convention today placed in nomination a notable ticket. For governor United States Senator David B. Hill is so well known that further reference to him is not necessary. Daniel N. Lockwood for lieutenant-governor is at present a member of Congress from Buffalo. He it was who made the nomination speech for Cleveland in the convention wherein the President first became a candidate. Judge Wm. Gaynor, named for the Court of Appeals, is the man whose candidacy for his present office sent the Grayesend boss to the petitentiary and broke up the Brooklyn political ring which has been such a menace to desent politics in this

As to the trade question the platform says: "We rejoice that by the repeal of the Sherman law for the purchase and storage of silver bullion all fear of a depreciated currency has been allayed and faith has been restored in the ability of the Government to maintain a constant parity between its gold and silver coinage; that by the repeal of the McKinley tariff law the inordinate taxation of the many for the benefit of the few has been notably diminished, and in the place of inequitable and monstrous enstoms duties which have starved some industries and overfed others, the tarifi schedules have been adjusted so that while affording ample safeguards for American labor, they reduce the price to the people of the necessities of life and encourage the promotion of industry by cheapening the cost of many raw materials used in manufactures, and by the reduction in expenditures wherever possible, and by pre vision for additional revenues, the legitimate demands upon the Federal treasury will no longer exceed the Government's income and necessitate an increase in the public debt. The beneficial effect of the adoption of the sanitary measures of public policy are already plainly apparent. Each day gives evidence of returning prosperity, Mills closed by the effects of Republican legislation are reopening and their eperatives are returning to work. Merchants report a largely increasing volume of business, and manufacturers are 147, 149 and 151 DUNDAS preparing for that period of prosperity which the readjustment of the tariff and cheaper raw materials certainly assure. We concur with President Cleveland that the new tariff law does not embody the full measure of tariff reform, but with him also we indorse its provisions for cheaper and free raw materials and lower taxes as a substantial recognition of Democratic principles, and we bespeak for the law an impartial trial, confident that its successful operation will convince the people of the wisdom of the Democratic policy and induce them to demand its proper extension. While favoring, therefore, such wise modification and readjustment of particular schedules by the enactment of separate bills as future conditions and the fulfillment of Democratic pledges may require, we deprecate, pending a fair trial of the new law by actual operation, any further general tariff revision, which, under present conditions would be likely to retard improvement in business and thereby

Cranium of the Great Bruce on View.

Legends of the Liberator-His Melanchely Death by Leprosy-Story of the Heart of the Hero of Bannockburn.

After 465 years Edinburgh has, says the Chicago British American, been enjoying the peculiar sensation of gazing on the skull of King Robert the Bruce, The relic, it is true, is not the actual cranium of the hero of Bannockburn, but merely a cast from the original, which we trust, for the honor of Scotland, may be permitted to lie forevermore undisturbed in the Abbey of Dunfermline. For it was there that in the year 1329 the King was laid beside his second wife, Elizabeth de Burgh, daughter of the Earl of Ulst and mother of David II. Even the cast, however, is of interest. Apart from the fact that it was actually taken from the King's skull, the story of how it was obtained is not wholly without some of the elements of romance.

That King Robert was buried in Dunfermline, then a famous residence of the Scottish sowereigns, admits of no doubt. But the tomb which he had planned with such care appears to have been lost sight of the church which followed the iconoclasm of the Reformation. But in 1819, in clearsame spot, the King's bones were discovered and duly re-interred with the ever live in the national memory as one of the greatest of heroes.

At the time some interest was naturally taken in the discovery, and it would seem that the celebrated Dr. Gregory, professor of medicine in the University of Ediuburgh, who bears the incongruous repumixture abhorred by three generations of occupied by the eminent physician, and of George Buchanan, occupy an honored place in the University museum.

Bruce, history affirms, died abandoned by him. expected the exhibition will eclipse all of leprosy, after leading the secluded life necessitated by his fearful malady, in Cardross Castle, on the northern shore of the Forth of Clyde. The physicians who examined the cast of the skull declare that it bears unmistakable evidence of the fourcentury-old legend being truer than trasyrup the pair can be allayed and the dition often is. The King is said to have danger avoided? This Syrup is pleasant to contracted the malady about ten years before it carried him off. He had just returned to Scotland from a campaign in Ireland in aid of his brother Edward, to besiege Berwick-on-Tweed, then notorious for the number of its leper population. Doven, Dol., April 10, 1893 .- In answer | Memories of these still exist in Spittal, the sea-bathing place on the English side Pond's Extract in my community, can of the river, the lazeretto to which the frankly say it stands at the head of all sick were taken being established there. medicines of its kind. absolved by the Pope for the sacrilege of slaying Red Comyn in the Minorite Friars Church in Dumfries, he charged Sir James Douglas to carry his beart to Palestine and bury it in Jerusalem. Douglas-as a score of ballads have immortalized-fell fighting against the Moors in Spain. After the battle was over Douglas was found lying over the enshrined heart, which was carried back to Scotland and interred by Sir Simon Locard, under the high altar of Melrose Abbey, where possibly it still lies, But, though Locard changed his name from this incident to "Lockbart," as the modern Lockhart was then spelled and bore in his arms a heart within a fetter-lock research, more difficult to satisfy than tradition, is inclined to credit Sir William Keith with actually recovering the King's heart. The history of Bruce rests so much on the metrical panegyric of Barbour that it is satisfactory to know that the most material part of this story is true. For when the corpse was disinterred in 1819 the breast bone was found severed to admit of the removal of the King's heart. Thus after more than four centuries two salient facts in the King's biography have been confirmed.

Local Market.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son. LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 27. There was a tame session today: receipts were mostly confined to oats and wheat. The demand was steady and from all quarters—millers, speculators, feeders and shippers. The millers, speculators, feeders and shippers. The bulk of offerings were block, consequently the milling interests did not take as many as usual. Sales were 820 to 85c. Wheat was steady, and we see no change in values and little prospect of any. All the foreign markets are again weaker, No. 1 wheat having touched the lowest prices yet reached. Hard red sold at $5c to 87c for good quality and 83c for soft. White ranged from 87c to 90c, Barley sales were few and made on the basis of 80c to 85c per 169 lbs. No really nice samples So per 160 lbs. No really nice samples there offered, and the feed trade absorbed the atire stock. Maltsters are inquiring for lines fit for their use, but little is coming in yet. Our quotations on peas, corn, rye and buckwheat are based on the latest deals in each line; in the case of the two last they are fully two weeks old. In the provision trade the main interest was centered in eggs: receipts continue light, and the demand keeps up, so that anything in the shape of a new-laid egg gets hardly time to breathe until it is snapped up; sales today ranged from 13c to 14c for strictly new-laid; 16c to 12c for packed and store lots, in quantities only. Butter was in good demand, thatis choice makes were. Recoipts of first-class sales today ranged from 18c to 14c for strictly new-laid; 10c to 12c for packed and store lots, in quantities only. Butter was in good demand, that is choice makes were. Receipts of first-class were not very heavy, and poorer qualities benefited to a certain extent by it. Sales of pound rolls in large lots were made at 23c to 25c; crocks, 20c to 23c; tubs, 18c to 22c, the latter for creamery. Pountry quiet and no change in price. Meats steady; the only change occurred in dressed hogs; they were not quites so keen and prices fell off about 25c. Skins, hides and wool unchanged. Fruits dull, with the exception of grapes and peaches: there were good receipts of both, and a heavy business was done at reduced values in both lines; grapes brought 2c for Concord. 2½c to 3c for Warden and Niagara, 3c for Catawabas, 3½c for Delawares; peaches sold from 50c to 31 per basket. Tomatoes very plentiful and sales slow, at 65c to 70c by the load. Hay steady; 38 to 39.

"We were talking about going to tea," explained Miss Simpson, "when these young men overheard us and asked us to go with them. I said 'No!' They stopped and started to talk. We moved on and they kept following us. We sat down near the merry go round. So did they. Smith sat at Miss Laming's right and Heyward at my left."

Did he kiss her? No, he did not. He merely pursed up his lips as he shook hands.

Mr. McKillop-Didn't you point to Hey-ward and say that he had "swiped" a dollar from you?

Witness (indignantly)-Swiped? I never used such a word. Mr. McEvoy, counsel for Heyward, also cross examined the witness. Miss Laming was called into the room and said she and Miss Simpson were stopped on the grounds by Smith and Heyward, who commenced talking. Miss Simpson suggested it would be better to sit down. They did so and laughed and talked for awhile.

Mr. Meredith-Did you put your arms around each other? A .- Oh, no ! Q.-Suppose Bolton and Davis were angry at seeing other fellows with their girls? A.-I suppose so. (Laughter.)

into your eyes? Mr. McKillop objected. This was very sentimental, but not material. Mr. Meredith-I merely wanted to show that the other two young men were in a position to put their hands in the pocket. Smith went into the box in his own defense. He said he ran between Toronto and Fort Erie, but in London made his home with his sister, Mrs. Webb, John street. He made good wages and had over $60 with him when he was at the Fair that day. "The girls smiled at us and Heyward spoke. Miss Simpson suggested that we festivities and closes the holiday season for sit down. Then a young man came up, sat on her knees and kissed her. I thought it was time we went. (Laughter.) I didn't see Smith's hand in her pocket.' G. T. R. Constable Logan and Mr. Nash, neighbor, testified to Smith's high character. Heyward also went in the box. He correborated Smith's story fully and said a young man kissed Miss Simpson and she kissed him. "She leaned back on me and I put my arms around her, but not for long. I deny utterly having put my hand in her pocket or having stolen anything. I had over $20 of my own at the time." Mr. McKillop-Do you want the court to believe that when she said she found your hand in her pocket she was telling what was untrue? A-Yes. Then the defense called a former employer of Smith, who gave him a good character. The magistrate commented on the contradictory nature of the evidence. He knew Miss Simpson's family to be highly respectable, and had no doubt she was a respectable young girl. Perhaps it would have been just as well if they had not allowed these young men to talk to them. He saw no other course open than to dismiss the cases. John Smith, alfas Young, John Wood, alias Cusick, and Fred Miller, three young Hamilton toughs arrested on the Fair grounds, were further remanded for a week. gang of thieves occurred this morning about 3 o'clock. Mr. Charles Graham, of Graham Bros., gents' furnishers, retired last night efter seeing that overy window and door in his house was securely locked, but when he was aroused in the middle of the night Mr. Graham found the front double doors wide open, the bath room window pried up and some of his clothes gone. The first evidence of any wrong-doing which Mr. Graham noticed was a light shining in his room from the hallway upstairs. Mr. Graham then heard footstep He jumped out of bed and started for the stairway, but the inthe ground floor blew out the lamp which he carried in his hand. An exit was made by the front door, and nothing further was seen of the marauder. Mr. Graham went back for his clothes, but $7, had been taken. TANGLED -

"It is just this," answered Mr. Dale; "I don't see how it was possible for any one of them to have learnt it; and yet at the same time, I see no other way in which it could have transpired. That's the caudid truth. I lay awake one nightfor half an hour, turning the puzzle over in my mind. Alexander says he never opened his lips about it; I know I did not; and poor Edmund North went into his fatal passion thinking Alexauder wrote the letter, because he said Alexander alone knew of it; a pretty sure proof he had not talked about it himself

"Which brings us back to your clarks," remarked Richard North. "They might have overheard a few chance words when the bill was renewed."

"I'm sure the door was shut," debated Mr. Dale, in a tone as if he were not sure, but rather sought to persuade himself that he was so. "Only Wilks was in, that morning; the other two had gone out."

"Rely upon it that's how it happened."

The door could not have been quite closed."
"Well, I don't know. I generally shut it myseif, and carefully too, when important clients are in here. I confess," honestly added Mr. Dale. "that it's the only explana-tion I can see in the matter. If the door was unlatched, Wilks might have heard. I had him in last night, and taxed him with it. He denies it out and out; says that, even if the affair had come to his knowledge, he knows his duty better than to have talked

"I don't doubt that he does, when in his sober senses. But he is not always in them." "Oh, come, Mr. Richard North, it is not

Richard was silent. If Mr. Dale was satisfied with his clerk and his clerk's discretion, he had no desire to render him other-

"He takes too much now and then, you know, Mr. Dale; and he may have dropped word in some enemy's hearing; who perhaps caught it up and then wrote the letter. Would you mind my questioning him?"

"He is not there to be questioned, or you might do it and welcome," replied Mr. Dale.
"Wilks is lying up today. He has not been well for more than a week past; could hardly do his work yesterday."

"I'll take an opportunity of seeing him then," said Richard. "My father won't rest until the writer of this letter has been traced; neither, in truth, shall I."

The lawyer said good morning to his visitor, and returned to his desk. But ere he recommenced work, he thought over the chief subject of their conversation. Had the raitor been Wilks, he asked himself. What Richard North had said was perfectly true—the young man sometimes took too much after work was over. But Mr. Dale had hitherto found no reason to complain of his discretion; and, difficult as it seemed to find any other loophole of suspicion, he finally concluded that he had no reason to

Meanwhile Richard North walked back to Dailory - it was nearly two miles from Whitborough. Passing his works, he continued his way a little further, to a turning called North Inlet, in which were some houses, large and small, chiefly tenanted by his workpeople. In one of these, a pretty cottage standing back, lodged Timothy Wilks. The landlady was a relative of Wilks's, and as he paid very little for his two rooms, he did not mind the walk once a day to and from Whitborough.

Good morning, Mrs. Green. Mrs. Green, an ancient matron in a mob-cap, was on her knees, whitening the door step. She rose at the salutation, saw it was Richard North, and curtsied. 'Tim have just crawled out to get a bit o sunshine, sir. He's very had today. Would you please to walk in, Mr. Richard?" Amidst this colony of his workpeople he was chiefly known as "Mr. Richard." Mrs. Green's husband was timekeeper at the North Works.

"What's the matter with him?" asked Richard, as he stepped over the threshold and the bucket to the little parlor. "Well, sir, I only hope it's not low fever; but it looks some uncommon like it."

"Since when has he been ill?" "He have been ailing this fortnight past. The fact is, sir, he won't keep steady," she a ded in deploring tones. "Once a week he's safe to come home the worse for drink, and that's pay night; and sometimes it's oftener than that. Then for two days afterwards he can't eat; and so it goes on, and he gets as weak as a rat. It's not that he takes much drink; it is that a little upsets him. Some men could take half a dozen glasses a'most to his one."

"What a pity it is!" exclaimed Richard.
"He had a regular bout of it a week or so ago," resumed Mrs. Green; who once set off on the score of Timothy's misdoings, never knew when to stop. It was so well known to North Inlet, this failing of the young man's, that she might have talked of it in the market place and not betrayed confidence. "He had been ailing before, as I said, Mr, Richard; off his food, and that; but one night he caught it smartly, and he's been getting worse ever since.

"Caught what smartly?" asked Richard, not posted up in North Inlet idioms. "Why, the drink, sir. He came home reeling, and give his head such a bang again the door post that it knocked him back'ards. I got him up some how — Green was out — and on to his bed, and there he went off in dead faint. I'd no vinegar in the bouse; if you want a thing in a hurry you're sure to be out of it; so I burnt a feather up his nose, and that brought him to. He began to talk all sorts of nonsense then, about doing bills,' whatever that might mean, and old Dale's money boxes, running words into one another like mad, so that you couldn't make top or tai! of it. I'd never seen him as bad as this, and got frightened."

She paused to take breath, always short with Mrs. Green. The words "doing bills" struck Richard North. He immediately perceived ; that hence might have arisen the report - for she had no doubt talked of this publicly that Timothy Wilks was the traitor. Other listeners could put two and two together as well as he.

"I thought I'd get in the vinegar, in case he went off again," resumed Mrs. Green. "And when I was running round to the shop for it — leastways walking, for I can't run now — who should I meet, turning out of Ketler's but Dr. Rane. I stopped to tell nim, and he said he'd look in and see Tim.

He's a kind man in sickness, Mr. Richard."
Did Dr. Rane come?" asked Richard. "Right off, sir, there and then. When I ot back he had put cloths of cold water on Tim's head. And wasn't Tim talking! You might have thought him a show man at the fair. The doctor wrote something on paper with his pencil and sent me off again to agents. evens the druggist's, and Stevens he gave a little bottle of white stuff to bring The doctor gave Tim some of it in a cold water, and it sent him into a

"Ay, that I do, sir. For the foolish girls was standing by twos and threes, making bargains with their sweethearts to go a maying at morning dawn. I told 'em they'd a deal better stop indoors to mend their stockings. 'Twas the night afore the 1st of May, Mr. Richard.

"The evening of the day the bill was renewed, thought Richard. He possessed the right clew now. If he had entertained any doubt of Wilks before, this set it at rest.

"Did any of the neighbors hear Tim talk-

"Not a soul but me and Dr. Rane here. sir. But I believe he had been holding forth to a room full at the Wheatsheaf. They say he was in part gone when he got there. Oh, it does make me so vexed, the ranting way he goes on when the drink's in him. If his poor father and mother could look up from their graves, they'd be fit to shake him in very shame. Drink is the worst cuss that's going, Mr. Richard — and poor Tim's weak head won't stand hardly a drop of it.'

Brantford council voted to superannuate City Treasurer Wilkes. He is 85 years of age, and has held the office for 23 years. He was voted three years' salary, and ex-Ald. Bunnell appointed to the vacancy.

Fifteen years ago a man keeping a store on Front street, Brantford, had a quantity of staple articles taken. Nothing more was heard of the stuff until a day or two ago, when the police paid a visit to the house of a former employe, since deceased. Here nearly 100 of the missing articles were found and restored to the rightful owner. The members of the family are highly respectable, and knew nothing of how the goods were obtained in the first place.

A part of the first floor of the Brantford canning factory gave way recently, and about 15,000 cans of tomatoes found their way into the cellar, without being labelled or cased. The damage was not great.

The man who fired the shot at the Ellerbeck brothers on Saturday night on the highway in Raleigh township and wounded William Elierbeck, has been discovered to be Charles Bevins, the victim of the colored highwaymen. Bevins, after returning to town and reporting the robbery, secured a revolver, and had it all ready to use as he drove home. It is thought he fancied the Ellerbecks were the robbers who had attacked him a few hours before. The injured man is in a critical condition at the hospital, and may lose his leg. It will de-pend on him whether Bovins is prosecuted for felonious wounding.

He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, 63 years ago, and came to Canada in 1844, locating in Ayr. A miller by trade, he established what has grown to be the second largest milling busiess in Canada. His trade with the farmers of Waterloo, Oxford, Perth and Brant has always been large, but in former years he did nearly all the milling business of the district. Mr. Goldie was also a member of the Goldie & McCulloch Company, Galt. He was married 25 years ago to Miss Isabel Easton, and had ten children, all of whom survive him and are living at home—John, George, William, Herbert, James, Crosbie, David, Annie, Ettie and Teresa. Mr. Goldie was a well-known temperance worker, and was solicited by the South Waterloo temperance men to allow his name to be put in nomination as a candidate for the Local Legislature at the last election. He had for rears been a prominent member and elder of Knox Church, Ayr, Politically, Mr. Goldie was a staunch Reformer, and was for years president of the South Waterloo Reform Association.

A BIG CHANGE.

For Some Years Back John Riley Didn't Work on His Farm—Re Does Now -The Reason Why.

MILVERTON, Sept. 24.—John Riley a farmer living near here, is able to do his farm work right along now, something he could not do for years. The reason was he had a bad form of kidney disease which set in about ten years ago and gradually grew worse, Latterly Mr. Riley was at times unable to lie in bed or stoop to the ground because of his kidney troubles. Now he can make hay in the meadows, follow a plow or handle a reaper with any man in the country. The cause of the wonderful change is nothing more than Dodd's Kidney Pills. Four bottles effected a complete cure of Mr. Riley's kidney disease. These pills always cure.

Dear Sirs,—After suffering for a long time with pains in my back, extending to my lower parts, also no ambition to do my daily work, I was induced by Mr. Bickell to try Royal Crown Resnedy. -Edward James, a Lobo township farm laborer, was again arrested yesterday by Constables R. W. Ward and Luke Jeffrey, the charge being similar to one on which he was a few days ago discharged. James worked for a Lobo farmer named E. T. Caverhill, but it is alleged he admired his employer's $40 silver watch so much that he carried it off on the 19th inst. Coverhill had James arrested, and, when the two met before Squire Lacey, a plea of guilty was entered, the difference was settled and James was allowed his liberty. As the offense was of a criminal nature the crown took the case in hand and had another warrant issued. The case comes up today. London's Lake Port.

Against the Free Library Board's Action

In Accepting Herbert Matthews' Plan for the Building-The Deeision Stands,

The Free Library Board was met last night in the City Hall by Mr. Herbert Matthews, the New York architect who submitted plans for London's new library building, which were recently accepted. Mr. Matthews came here on hearing of his success, and in three weeks will return to London again and personally superintend the work on the building. The members present were Chairman Macklin, Messrs. Robert Reid, James Egan, E. R. Cameron, Joseph Marks, George Burrell, R. H. Dignan and Secretary Keene. Preliminaries were discussed to a great extent. The perspective; of the new building was such as made the board doubt whether it could be built for the estimated amount, but Mr. Matthews gave the assurance that it could be done. He expected to bring the cost greatly within the mark, which would give him an opportunity to have a more ornate building than was originally intended. Mr. Egan was in a hurry to have the enlarged plans for the contractors prepared within two weeks, which would allow operations to be begun before Nov. 1. This, it was stated, was impossible, but the promise was made to have them ready in three weeks, tenders called for and work under way by the above date. Messrs. Moore & Henry objected to the action of the board in accepting Mr. Matthews' plans, giving their reasons as "We were instructed to make the size of the building 50 by 80 feet, and the conditions were accompanied by a sketch drawn to a scale, and showing the building to be of those dimensions. All the designs submitted, with one exception, were made to comply with that condition, whereas the only one which ignored that portion of your instructions was awarded first place, notwithstanding the fact that it has a frontage of 100 by 80 feet. There is a vast difference between 4,000 square feet of floor space within walls of given dimensions and the same space covering an unlimited area. Therefore, if the conditions were allowed to be altered for one competitor all others should undoubtedly in common justice be given an equal opportunity. We therefore respectfully beg to submit that we have been led by your advertisement into the expenditure of considerable time and money, and that in justice to all the architects who submitted designs you should reconsider your decision at the earliest possible date, and that the award should be made to the best design conforming to the condition." The plans had been accepted and the board did not feel inclined to reverse their decision. The general opinion was that the successful architect had not overstepped the specifications, and the letter will be answered by the secretary and the views of the board set forth. An adjournment till Oct. 23 was made.
