VERY IMPRESSIVE OBSEQUIES OF THE LATE DOWAGER EMPRESS

Large Military Force Participates, as did Also the Highest Clerical Dignitaries—England's King and German Emperor March Side by Side.

Potsdam, Aug. 13.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning the bells of all the churches in Potsdam were tolled, with two intervals of rest. Shortly before half-past ten Emperor William, the other members of the Imperial family and the visiting princes, assembled in the royal hall at the Wild Park railroad station. The high court of military dignitaries, Count Von Buelow and other members of the cabinet, the Knights of the Black Eagle and the members of the Reichstag assembled at 10.45 o'clock in an adjacent hall.

Soon after 10 o'clock the special ordered by the Emperor to bring the invited guests from Berlin reached Wild Park station. Among the guests the foreign ambassadors made a striking figure, wearing their highest official uniforms. At 10.30 the signal was given, for the funeral train was approaching. Conversation, which had hitherto been carried on in suppressed tones, entirely ceased, and an air of great solemnity prevailed throughout. The train rolled in slowly and noiselessly. Twenty non-commissioned officers of the Dowager Empress Hussars, regiment number 2, came forward and bore the coffin to the royal hearse, which had in the meanwhile arrived on the new palace. Chamberlains and courtiers with the royal insignia participated in the transfer of the coffin from the car to the hearse. Slowly and solemnly the procession formed. Eight staff officers seized the reins of the eight splendid black horses attached to the hearse, and four Knights of the Black Eagle took hold of the points of the pall-cloth, while twelve royal chamberlains held the support of the canopy covering the hearse, and four other courtiers held the cords from the corners. Flanking these, to the right and left, were two staff officers, each bearing a pike, although immense, crowds had assembled upon the streets intersecting the road at right angles, and the people strained their necks to get a glimpse of the cortege. The funeral also captured 24,000 rounds of small-arm ammunition, 254 wagons, 5,680 horses, and over 35,000 cattle. Most of the captives were made in the Orange River Colony.

GEN. FRENCH ON THE WARPATH. General French is gradually driving the enemy's scattered bands northward. There have been several skirmishes, with indefinite conclusions. GEN. WESTON'S COLUMN AT BLOEMFONTEIN. Bloemfontein, Aug. 13.—Gen. Weston's column arrived here from Klerksdorp yesterday, bringing in 19 prisoners, 500 Boer refugees and 1,000 natives, mostly all young children. The column had continued skirmishes from the Modder River to the Vaal. The British only had one man wounded. They captured a number of horses, cattle, wagons and cattle. The men arrived in excellent health. The column took the horses to pass through the town, and is now encamped on the outskirts, where it is refitting.

BOERS ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE. Jameson, St. Helena, Aug. 13.—Two Boer prisoners (Hollanders) made a desperate attempt to escape Sunday evening. They swam to a floating boat far out in the harbor, captured her and set sail. All their clothing was lost, and they were recaptured by the British war sloop Blanche. They were returned to the prison camp clothed in coffee bags.

HELD AS A PRISONER. Cape Town, Aug. 13.—News has been received here that the Hon. Mr. Van Ryn, a member of the Legislative Council, has been captured by the Boers, and is held as a prisoner. It has been known by the officials that a party of Boer commandos Van Zuydam, a couple of days ago, and shortly afterwards disappeared.

(Van Ryn) is about 60 miles to the northwest of Cape Town, and about 160 miles from Cape Town. CLAN-WILLIAM MAY BE ATTACKED. Cape Town, Aug. 13.—Three Boer commandos are marching in the direction of Clan-William. (This town guard has been called out.) DISTRIBUTE THE PROCLAMATION. London, Aug. 13.—A despatch from Edinburgh, Orange River Colony, says special patrols are distributing Lord Kitchener's proclamation in regard to the banishment of burghers who do not surrender by September 15 throughout the country.

BIG FORCE OF BOERS STILL IN THE FIELD. Brussels, Aug. 13.—Mr. Kruger's friends here say he has received a report that there are now 17,000 burghers and 12,000 rebel Afrikaners under arms and well supplied with weapons and ammunition, although provisions are very scarce.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN LONDON. London, Aug. 13.—A memorial service was held to-day in the Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, simultaneously with the funeral of the Dowager Empress Frederick at Potsdam. Among those present were the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, Lord Salisbury, the United States Ambassador, Mr. Choate; Sir William Vernon-Harcourt and Lady Harcourt, Lord and Lady Walsley, Lord Lansdowne, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Mr. A. J. Balfour and many members of the diplomatic corps. As the opening sentences of the services were chanted, a royal salute was fired in St. James's Park, followed by the firing of sixty minute guns.

SHOT IN COLD BLOOD. London, Aug. 13.—The Colonial Office announces that under date of July 8 the resident magistrate and clerk of St. George's reported to Sir Hely-Hutchinson, Governor of the Cape Colony, that while they were out about with a native constable named James Mkhelaka they were surprised by Boers, who shot the constable in cold blood, though he was not armed.

CHIEF CANADIAN SKIPPER OUTDOES HIS YANKEE RIVAL. The invader yesterday defeated both the Cadillac and the Milwaukee—Now Looks as Though the Canada's Cup Will be Lifted—Americans are Blue.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—To-day's race was awarded to the invader on a foul and the Canada's cup is in very great danger of being lifted. The Detroit and Chicago crowd have a serious case of the blues. The defender must take the last two races with the weather bureau promising an invader wind for to-morrow. Gentle easterly winds are expected and what the Cadillac needs is a blow.

FAKE PAUPER

Well Known Police Court Character Makes False Representations to Charitable Ladies.

Thomas Gilles, a well known character round town, appeared before Acting Magistrate Seape at the Police Court this morning charged with getting goods under false pretenses. Gilles had been working a very unique game. A few days ago he approached Mrs. Ferguson, one of the ladies at the Home for the Friendless, and begged for some food. He said his name was Pat Murphy and that he lived in Hamilton. He had heard that the laborers in Chatham got $1.50 a day. He and his wife and three children had come to Chatham but he had failed to find any work. He said he and his wife and children were forced to sleep on the commons. As a matter of fact he has no wife or children, but his story sounded plausible to Mrs. Ferguson, who did not know him. He got a lot of stuff, including victuals and money, but he was soon detected and arrested. He was remanded this morning until the 21st.

"Colonel" Stafford, a well-known character around town, was seized with a fainting fit on Sixth St. at noon yesterday. He soon recovered, however.

ECHOES OF LONG AGO

I haven't seen a katydid since I was one and twenty. I like those that in the maples hid. Then I had time a plenty. Their dress coat tails a-draw; Gals said they sang; they only saw them when they weren't a-sawing.

At least, that's the tradition; At things are regulated some. To suit the disposition. Of Madame Katy and the law. That tries to rule the weather. And they don't regularly draw. Like things that draw together.

I used to lie upon my bed. When quite a little fellow. And wonder who the chorus led. That made the moon look yellow. For, over here and over there. "Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee." This one would use a crescent where That one would use a ripper.

Close to my window there was one. Whom others seemed reviling. Whose saw, it seemed to me, had run. Too long without a fling; But pluckily he kept at work. At intervals erratic. And when he gave his saw a jerk. Its tone was quite asthmatic.

At length came gentle, dreamy st. Her curtains round me drawing. And all the constant sawing. And when, at early morn, I woke. So solemn was the stillness. I thought a paralytic stroke. Was the prevailing illness.

But youth departed with the years. And boyhood left behind it. Like something missed that disappears. And Echo leaves to find it. But memory kindly comes when bid. To me in dreams a plenty. But comes no more the katydid. I knew at one and twenty!

—W. S. S.

The Mystery Explained.

It was the day before quarter-day when my cousin Peter Post came into the office, threadbare and shabby as usual, with the nap worn off his hat, his garments threadbare with much wear, and excessive brushing, and pair of fingerless gloves upon his hands.

I cannot say that I was glad to see him. My cousin Peter Post was one of those luckless fellows who are always losing property, making unfortunate investments, and borrowing small sums of money which are to be repaid without fail at the expiration of precisely one week from the date of the loan. But he was a good sort of fellow, too, in his way. He had made a love match with a pretty blue-eyed girl without a penny, and had half-a-dozen children, and how they lived nobody knew.

"Going to move next quarter, Jacob?" said he beamingly. "I suppose so," said I. "So am I," said Peter. "Rent's getting too high—landlady has raised it—all that sort of thing. So we're going to No. 11 Smith street."

I looked hard at Peter Post and made no remark. Was he going to ask me to lend him five pounds, or to demand that I should become security for his rent? I resolved in my innermost mind to say "No" to either proposition at once.

"And, as we're pretty low for furniture," said Peter, "it occurred to my mind that perhaps you'd send us any old odds and ends you've got lying around. For children's cribs, chairs, tables, washstands—anything, in fact, with a comprehensive wave of the hand which seemed to embrace the whole subject."

"Peter Post," said I wrathfully, "do you think I've nothing to do but to buy furniture to give away?" "Any old thing, you know," interposed my cousin, with imperturbable good humor. "We aren't particular."

"I shall do nothing of the sort," said I. "I have no 'old things.' My furniture is all substantial and excellent. 'Wish mine was!' interjected Peter, rubbing the palms of his fingerless gloves together briskly.

"And I do not propose to part with it. So I wish you a very good morning." "You aren't angry, I hope," said Peter. "Good morning!" I repeated frigidly; and just then my clerk came in to tell me that the van driver was waiting outside for orders as to the moving ceremonial of the morrow.

I went home after business hours and told my wife about it. "I'm sorry, Jacob," said she, a slight shadow coming over her face. "Sorry!" I echoed. "Because, dear, there are plenty of little odds and ends we could have spared just as well as not," said my wife. "Furniture does accumulate so when one has been keeping house a long time; and I do feel so sorry for that poor little Nelly Post, with her flock of children."

"That's all nonsense," said I stoutly. But I won't deny that my conscience did prick and sting me when I looked round at my own abundance of stuffed easy chairs, Brussels carpets and springy chintz lounges, ready picked for transportation, and thought of poor Post and his six little Posts, with their humble plea for a few sticks of cast-off furniture.

The morning came—the cruel quarter-day, with its raw wind and the inevitable showers which come down as if by malice prepense just as the mattresses and the sliver sofas are being carried into the huge vans. I was compelled to be at my office but my wife

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The stomach is the vital center of the body. It is the organ from which all other organs are fed. A weak stomach means a weak man. There never was a strong man with a weak stomach. What is called "weak stomach" is in general a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, which prevents the proper digestion of the food which is taken into the stomach, and so reduces the nutrition of the body.

When all food is taken away the body starves. When the food eaten is only digested and assimilated in part it only nourishes the body in part, and so the body is partly starved. And this starvation is felt in every organ of the body dependent on the blood which is made from food.

The great variety of the cures performed by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its remarkable power to heal diseases of the stomach and allied organs. It cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote, but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition.

"Weak" heart, lungs, kidneys and weakness of other organs is cured with the cure of the weak stomach. "Weak" heart, lungs, kidneys and weakness of other organs is cured with the cure of the weak stomach.

Dr. Thomas A. Swartz, Box 101, Substation C, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I was a very sick man with severe headache, cramps in the stomach, and food would not digest, then I knew I was in a bad way. I had been told that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would cure me, and I bought a bottle. I took it and found it had gained twenty-seven (27) lbs. in about six weeks. I have been more healthy than I have been for years. I am as stout and healthy today as I think at ever was."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Recently a bent old lady entered one of the Salina street stores and upon being asked what she wished to see made her request in a broken and feeble voice. "I couldn't rest quietly without coming to see what all this could mean," said she. "Oh, Jacob, shall we be left without a pillow to lay our heads on this night?"

"If the worst comes to the worst, we can go to an hotel," suggested I. "But it's the most mysterious example of an unaccountable disappearance that I ever heard of."

Just then there came a loud ringing at the door bell, and in tripped cousin Peter Post's blue-eyed little wife. "Dear, dear cousin Jacob," she cried, running up to me in tears. "I must thank you with my own lips."

"Thank me! For what?" I demanded. "Wonderful! It troubles and impedes me! I have had the little creature mad."

"I could hardly believe my own eyes," said she breathlessly. "And I'm sorry I called you a 'hard-hearted flint' last night when Peter came home and told me how coldly you had repulsed him. How was I to know that you were all the time meditating this delightful surprise?"

I turned to my wife. "Speak to her, Alice," said I, in a whisper. "Do contrive somehow to soothe her. I'm very much afraid she's going insane."

Mrs. Goldleaf, who has always been partial to my cousin Peter's wife, went up to her with outstretched hands. "Don't you know?" said Nellie. "Ah, he's so good! He never lets his left hand know what his right one does. It's the way with all our philanthropists. It's the beautiful furniture, Mrs. Goldleaf—chairs, sofas, tables, mattresses, a lovely set of china all packed in barrels, carpets, engravings—oh, everything that you could possibly think of! Our little house is furnished completely. And oh, we did so need it!"

"Stop!" said I huskily. "How did you know all these things came from me?" "I asked the van driver," she said; "and he said Mr. Jacob Goldleaf had sent them. As he showed me a card with 'No. 11 Smith street' written on it in your own handwriting."

This then explained the mystery. In my angry preoccupation of the day before I had written the address of the house which my cousin Peter Post had told me he was about to move into, instead of my own!

My wife looked at me with sparkling eyes of love and admiration. "Dear Jacob," said she, "I knew—I knew you could be noble and magnanimous when you chose!" "Oh, how—how can I ever thank you sufficiently for what you have done for me!" sobbed Nellie, her pretty blue eyes overflowing with grateful tears.

I said nothing. What could I say? To this day the Posts believe that I had a spontaneous burst of generous sympathy that day before quarter-day. But I had to explain matters to my wife, and I checked the career of the van driver at once.

"Never mind, dear," said Mrs. Goldleaf. "We can buy new furniture. And your cousin Peter Post needs it so much, and Nelly was so grateful!" And that was all the consolation I had.

Texts for the Troubled. If you are down with the blues read the twenty-third Psalm. If there is a chilly sensation about the heart read the third chapter of Revelations. If you don't know where to look for a month's rent read the twenty-seventh Psalm. If you are lonesome and unprotected read the ninety-first Psalm. If the stovepipe has fallen down and the cook gone off in a pet put up the pipe and wash your hands and read the first chapter of James. If you find yourself losing confidence in men read the thirteenth chapter of Corinthians. If people tell you with hard words read the fifth chapter of John and the fifty-first Psalm. If you are getting discouraged about your work read Psalm xxv and Galatians vi. 9.

If you're out of sorts read the twelfth chapter of Hebrews. If you are troubled about what you ought to say to some one who is seeking salvation read the fifty-first Psalm. —Uplook.

THE AVERAGE MAN

His face had the griminess of granite; It was bleached and bronzed by the sun. Like the coat on his poor narrow shoulders. And his hands showed the work he had done.

His dim eyes were weary and patient. And he smiled through his pale and tan. A wisdom and smile, as if saying, "I'm only an average man."

I can't be a hero or poet. Nor a dictator wearing a crown. Of those set above me, I'm down. And I'll not be a queen and a plan; I'll get along the best way I can, And one of these days I'll come morning And rest for the average man.

He wages all battles and wins them. He beats all turkeys that tower. Over walls of the city to tell. Of the rulers and priests of the hour. Without him the general is helpless. The earth but a place and a plan; He moves all and clothes all and feeds all. This sad smiling average man.

Then I lifted my hand in a promise. With teeth set close, and my breath held. And I said to the builder no longer. I swear that the builder no longer. To me shall be less than the plan; Henceforth an equal and story. And hope for the average man.

AUSTRALIAN ELECTIONS. Parliamentary Contents in the Land of the Kangaroo. Melbourne witnessed the extremes of expenditure during the contest for seats in the Commonwealth House of Representatives. The candidate headed in the constituency, and 125,000 copies of four-page circulars. It is utterly impossible that this amount of work and literature can fail to have its effect. Alas! it was only too possible. The candidate who tramped, printed, and published on this colossal scale found himself at the bottom of the poll when the numbers were up. —London Chronicle.

Royal Tenderheartedness. Englishmen with sporting convictions have been loudly condemning King Edward for the abolition of that time-honored sport known as "the royal hunt." As if to justify the King's action, a startling example of the cruelty of this sport occurred recently in the heart of Windsor and under the very shadow of the castle.

A stag, hunted by a pack from a distant district, rushed through the centre of the town, leaped over fences into the Long Walk, and then essayed to jump the gateway at the sovereign entrance. The gateway was, however, too high, even for a frantic stag with a howling pack and hunters (and women) at his heels, and he fell back, lacerated in the chest by the spiked railings. Dismounted back, the animal cleaved the six or seven foot fence enclosing Frogmore, and so made its way into the Home Park, panting, terrified and bleeding.

King Edward, returning from a drive round old Windsor, came upon particulars of the incident, and then went on to the castle, after giving instructions as to the treatment of the hunted stag when it was caught. What His Majesty exactly said we do not pretend to say, but from remarks subsequently dropped by some who were present, we are quite entitled to say that the King realized in this occasion the stoppage of "the royal hunt," and an argument for the abolition of time stag hunting. —London Express.

Entertaining Squirrels. Alive in his native woods the squirrel is an amusing little fellow, and he will entertain you by the hour if you will let him. You probably become first aware of his presence by his dropping things on your head. Then he plays hide and seek with you as he zigzags up a tree. While he pauses for thought, or possibly to wash his face, another squirrel comes scudding along the branches of a neighboring tree, and away they go, one chasing the other, jumping from branch tip to branch tip, racing up and down the trunk and making the bark shiver. Sometimes one loses his footing and falls headlong 20 or 30 feet to the ground, landing there with a force that makes him bounce. You think every grain of sense must be knocked out of the small body, but he only blinks a bit, and after a moment spent perhaps in letting the stars not that must have suddenly risen before his eyes, he streaks it up the nearest tree after the other fellow. Long after they have disappeared from sight you hear them chattering together up among the leaves like two watchmen's rattles.

Miss Nellie Clements spent yesterday with friends in Detroit.

WILL JOIN WESTERNERS

Maple City Cricket Club Will Send Representatives on the Touring Team.

Local trip will probably be postponed until next season.

At the meeting of the Cricket Club held on Saturday evening at the Garner House it was decided that it would be impossible to follow strictly the outline of the proposed tour. Two very important questions were considered, viz., the ability to get the outside men, which were being depended upon, and the advisability of sending a purely Chatham team, or uniting with the Aylmer team in the "Westerners for Toronto."

Letters of regret were received from Messrs. Stuart, Maroon, Grylls and T. Bamford, but none of them were to the point in definitely refusing to go.

The idea of sending a purely Chatham team would be suicidal to cricket, for the simple reason that a good showing would be expected and the batting is not of the highest order, while the Toronto team are stronger in this respect than in bowling.

It would also be necessary to play the Toronto and Parkdale teams, which are considered stronger than the Gordon McKays, although the honors were evenly divided between the Chatham and the Gordon McKays teams, still it is generally conceded that they are superior to our team in batting.

These matters have been fully considered by the club and it was the general opinion of the meeting that for the present year it would be advisable to send representatives on the team "Westerners for Toronto" instead of a purely Chatham team.

The prospects are bright for an encouraging trip next year, which will do honor to our good old city and not reflect upon the time-honored reputation of cricket in Chatham.

It is a matter for congratulation that so many of the young men are gradually developing into cricketers of repute, and it is getting to be an every-day question not the least unimportant to know who is the latest "phenom."

With the natural advantages which Chatham possesses, the parents should make it a point to see that cricket is part of the son's education.

It is the associations connected with the game that will brook anything but good conduct and gentlemanly behavior on the field, where other games bring out so forcibly a determining influence in this respect.

Messrs. Kenny, Richards, Aitken and others have been invited to play on the Westerners. The interest in this team will, no doubt, be more general, as the team will comprise the best players of the west, and it will bring out the comparison of the relative standing of the east and west, and possibly representatives will be chosen on the International from the west.

THE RACE.

To-day's Contest Between Invader and Cadillac.

The Challenger's Stock is Now Going up—A Brisker wind to-day.

Special to The Planet.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The fourth day of the international yacht races for the Canada-cup broke clear and warm, with all the weather signs favoring light sailing breeze, and an almost smooth sea.

Although both boats were built for just such conditions it was generally conceded they suited the Canadian challenger better than Cadillac; and there was considerable apprehension that Invader might win again to-day and lift the cup.

This feeling was not altogether founded on a belief in Invader's superiority in anything but heavy weather, because it had come to be realized that the Canadian yacht has the better crew.

However, the great uncertainty which enters so largely into yacht racing was not overlooked by shrewd sailors, who by no means were ready to concede ultimate victory to the Canadians.

To-day's course is nine nautical miles to windward and return or just the opposite.

If the wind holds as at present the rival yachts will start with a light beat to weather out into the lake with a spinnaker run for the return trip; but a shift of the wind may make it necessary to sail to leeward along the shore and beat back.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The challenger and defender of the Canada-cup started on their fourth race at 11 a. m. to-day, with an off-shore wind, blowing 12 miles an hour in the southwest.

George Wilds says a southwest wind off shore has been blowing since the Cadillac with scarcely any wind at all out in the lake.

Weather bureau says the wind will blow toward the sun, but there are no indications of increased velocity.

Invader, having two races, gets the cup if it wins to-day. Off short wind is uncertain, but more apt to be puffy, which is to Cadillac's advantage, as Invader is more tender. Shaw did not sail on the Cadillac.

AMUSING CHILDREN.

Old Fashioned Ways of Amusing Children When Oranges Were Luxuries.

When I was a little girl oranges and lemons were great luxuries in the little town where I lived. I hardly ever had an orange unless I was ill. I remember having some nice ones when I had the measles and my little brother and sister standing beside my bed and wishing that they had the measles, too, so that they could have nice things like Betsy.

We never had ice lemonade when ever we wished it on hot summer days, as people do now; ice was a luxury, too, and we very seldom saw any except in the winter; then it was so cold that water and milk and about everything else froze in the house over night, and we didn't want ice at all. I was quite grown up before I ever even saw a banana, and I never learned to like them, and when I see little girls and boys eating great big bananas one after another as fast as they can, I wonder at them.

But when I was a little girl we had many kinds of apples on our place, and I could eat just as many as I wanted every day all winter, and there were some that got ripe very early in the autumn, too. I can't think of all the names now, but some that were very big were called "round pipin," because they weighed a pound apiece; and there were some others that were called "pound sweets," and we had some funny little apples that we called "balls of yarn," and some long formed dark red ones that we called "pig noses."

We children used to do a great many things with apples. We liked to see them by their stems to stout strings and hand them before the open fire to toast. We kept them twined round and round, and pretty soon they were all soft and juicy, and how nice they did smell and taste, too!

Sometimes we sewed with a strong thread all around the apples just under the skin, putting the needle into the same hole it came out of, each time, and having the two ends of the thread hanging out of the last hole; then we held the ends together and pulled very hard till the thread came out; this cut the apple in two under the skin, and we would give it to some one to eat, and when the apple opened it fell apart, and was a fine surprise—"surprise apples" we called them.

Sometimes we took small apples and stuck them very full of cloves, and they made nice spicy smelling balls to put in bureau drawers, but they were not so good to eat. We liked to make what we called "elder apples;" we would take a big "greening" apple and go out of doors and pound the apple against the side of the house until it was very soft all over, being careful not to break the skin. When the apple was just as soft as could be made a small hole in it and could reach out all the apple but a little about the core.

Then we generally ate some of the core, too, and if the seeds were nice fat ones, we dried them and played with them. You see we did not have any playthings as children have now, so we made the most we could of what ever we did have that we could play with. We sewed the seeds edgewise on cards for mice making the tails and ears with fine brown cotton; sometimes we put on the card a tiny little bag, stuffed with sawdust to look like meal, and had the apple seed mice gathered about it and some of them going up on the bag.

Handball With a Dog. This game is a very good one for a rainy day, but should be played in an empty room, where there are no ornaments to be knocked over and broken. It is even better to play it out of doors, but there are some other things to play out of doors, when the weather is clear and the other little boys and girls can go out and play with you.

A small, solid rubber ball is the best to use, but an old glove stuffed very full of rags and wound very tightly with twine will do very well.

Show the ball to the dog and then roll it on the floor once or twice. He will run after it all over the place, then throw the ball against the wall so that it will bounce low enough for the dog to catch it in his mouth. After he has done this once or twice he will be so pleased at his success that he can hardly wait for you to throw it again. Now the real game commences. You must strike the ball with the open hand so that it will bounce back too high for the dog to reach, but just high enough for you to strike it and knock it against the wall again. This is not at all easy, as you will see when you try it, for the dog will jump into the air and often catch balls that you had no idea he could reach; besides, the ball will frequently bound back so near the ground that he can get it a great deal quicker than you can. In fact, if the dog is large he will beat you every time.

When the dog strikes the ball without catching it he scores a foul, but three fouls score him one point. When you strike the ball without knocking it against the wall you count a foul, and three fouls score you one point.

FEW PEOPLE ESCAPE PILES

And Dr. Chase's Ointment is the Only Positive and Guaranteed Cure for this Torturing Disease

There is usually very little satisfaction in consulting a physician regarding a case of piles. In nine cases out of ten he will recommend a surgical operation, forgetting, it may be, the risk, suffering and physical as well as financial expense which this treatment entails. For this reason very many people are going about in misery with piles, believing that they cannot be cured except by means of the surgeon's knife.

It is to such persons that this advertisement will bring good news of great value. Dr. Chase's Ointment has grown in popularity until today it is recognized the world over as the standard ointment for the cure of itching, burning, skin diseases, and it is absolutely the only preparation that can be relied upon to cure every form of piles.

It seems strange that anyone should suffer the pained uneasiness and acute tortures of burning, itching piles when it is so easy to procure Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nearly every dealer in medicine keeps Dr. Chase's Ointment, and you can apply it at home without any inconvenience. The first application is usually sufficient to put an end to the itching, and it is rarely that more than one box is required to make a thorough cure.

Mr. F. Stokes, 116 Dundas Street, Barrie, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with itching piles for years, and could get nothing to stop the constant itching. I was always in pain until a friend of mine told me of the wonderful cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made among his acquaintances."

"I only used one box, and an entire cure. In gratitude for this marvelous cure, and for the benefit of others suffering as I did, I send you this record of my case."

Mr. George Thompson, a leading merchant of Benham, Ont., states: "I was troubled with itching piles for fifteen years, and at times they were so bad I could scarcely walk. I tried a great many remedies, but never found anything like Dr. Chase's Ointment."

"After the third application I obtained relief, and was completely cured by using one box." Hosts of cases which Dr. Chase's Ointment has actually cured serious and long-standing cases of piles have been reported in the Canadian press. Should you want to know more about this cure, or to get your own supply, there are few people in Canada who are not familiar with the record of this famous preparation. If your dealer does not have Dr. Chase's Ointment, it will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, by Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Occurrences that Will Interest Irish and Other Canadians.

Ireland just now enjoys an enviable position so far as the absence of contagious diseases amongst her flocks and herds are concerned. It is doubtful if any other country in the world is at the present time so free from disease or disorders of an infectious or contagious character.

In the report of a ball in Sligo a reporter thus picturesque describes the ladies: "They wore no diamonds except what shone from their brilliant eyes; no pearls more beautiful than the healthy adornment of their own cheeks."

The Earl of Cork, who was 72 recently, is descended from one Richard Boyle, who, born in 1566, studied law at the Middle Temple. Despairing on account of his poverty of being able to pursue his studies, he embarked for Ireland as an adventurer, and having obtained the favor and protection of Queen Elizabeth became the "Great Earl of Cork."

In the Exhibition Hall, Royal Botanic Gardens, Belfast, a special meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Masons, brotherhood, for the purpose of installing the Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury as the Grand Master of the Province of Antrim. It is almost ten years since a similar ceremony was performed in Antrim, the occasion being the installation of the Marquis of Hertford.

The Hon. Edward Blake, M. P., when speaking at a meeting at Longford recently, mentioned the experience of a long sitting in the Canadian Parliament, which beats any record held on that side of the Atlantic. He had himself, he said, been present during a debate which started at 3 o'clock on Thursday and ended at 10 o'clock on Saturday—57 hours in all—and he himself closed the debate, so we must set him down as a veteran of the "long sitting."

For the first time in several years Sir Henry Irving is playing a part in which it is necessary for him to disguise the number of his years. "King Arthur" was the last play in which he faced the same end, and in it his effort to convey the illusion of robustness was not altogether convincing. The requirement of a smooth-shaven face in that case was the obstacle over which the art of make-up could not mount. In "King Arthur" it was the friendly aid of a short black moustache.

The Rome of the day of the haughty Coriolanus was a barbarian Rome in which it was not altogether surprising that the mark of the beardless face. Had he cared to the actor might have worn a heavy beard, but with the line of black upon the upper lip he evidently was content. The effect of the moustache, the black wig, and the darkened eyebrows is to make the picture of the actor resemble the present-day portraits of his son, Henry B. Irving. The flowing robes also tend to the hiding of the signs of age, and it is said that at no time during the performance does the player throw the opening of the robe he wears a long, soft robe, in color a dull red. Later he invests himself in a war tunic of a golden hue, and in several scenes he wears the senatorial toga of white.

Of the acting of the play, full reports of which are at last available, something will be said at another time, but it may be set down here that in general the actor has been deemed inadequate to the robustness of the role, and the role beyond the sympathy of this generation of playgoers.

First King Ed and coinage. The first issue of the coinage of King Edward VII. will be made in a few weeks' time. The designs have been settled, and the dies sunk, and the coins will be ready for issue.

It is understood that the first to be issued will be silver coins, then the bronze money, and later in the year the sovereigns and half-sovereigns will be ready for issue. The new coins will be made of a metal which will prevent their being passed as sovereigns when gilt. Sixpences and half-sovereigns are also to be altered. One coin will probably bear the head of the Sovereign, and the other the full figure.

Under the Union Jack. British lifeboats save, on an average, 550 lives a year. On an average nine per cent. of an army of the field are constantly in hospital.

Ireland sends to England yearly 200,000 pigs, 55,000 cattle and 120,000 sheep. A factory at Port Dundas, near Glasgow, has a chimney 50 feet higher than St. Paul's cross.

Only 80,331 British subjects out of the 700,000 who died last year had anything to leave by will.

By the Australian mail force act, passed in 1887, a fleet of five fast, cruisers and two torpedo gun boats was equipped for service in Australian seas.

Curious Loss of Memory.

A singular case of complete loss of memory is reported from Tunbridge Wells, in the case of a girl about 17. She was riding a bicycle along Forest Road, when she was observed to dismount and stand in a dazed condition. A gentleman spoke to her, but she had forgotten her name, her residence, in fact everything concerning herself. The gentleman conveyed her to the police station, where she was unable to give an account of herself.

THE ONLY ONE.

The man who says that all patent medicines are worthless is a fool. For Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure has no equal. W. C. Switzer, Harrowsmith, O., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for ten years. He tried every known remedy recommended for the cure of rheumatism without obtaining relief. Six bottles of Dr. Hall's completely cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

A MENTAL VACUUM. "Haven't you any positive opinions on any subject?" "No; by not having positive opinions you see, a man doesn't have to wear himself out bawling them up."

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption," presided over by the Prince of Wales, was re-addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited consumption. There may be local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in that weak spot before consumption can ensue. This ought to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or "weak lungs." They are not foredoomed victims of this dread disease. All that is needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this need is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health.

People given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding from the lungs, with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

The Hospital, And Give Knew She was a Chippy Bird of Paradise.

ONE Day a Beauty Doctor sat in her Pink Reception Room hoping that she resembled her Libbygraphs. Her income was a dollar every time she took a Full Breath. She got it by selling Freckle Food and a Preparation for getting rid of Moles called Moline. Her hot Specialty was to Calcimine the Has-Beens and feed them a little Ginger and send them into the Arena looking like Vassar Girls unless the Rain happened to wash it off. It did not take her long to put an Extension on an Eye-Brow, and she could provide a Bush for those who had been going to Card Parties so long that they had forgotten how to brush. When she got after a Wild Hair the Hair simply threw up both Hands and quit. In a little Folder entitled "How to Fool Everybody except those who live in the Same House," she had proved that there was no Reason why a Girl of 60 should not look like 19 if she put on enough Shellac and kept out of the Light.

The Beauty Doctor had seen many a Perilous Foot in for a new Coat of Armor Plate, but the Nobody's Darling that waited in this Day established a Record. She was something like Poultry. That is, if she carried any Adipose, it did not show in her Face or Feet. And she wouldn't have torn under the Wing. She had a Bird's Eye Maple Complexion and wore one of these Gowns that you get by measure.

CANADIAN SKIPPER OUTDOES HIS RIVAL

the spinaker run home on the third leg.

EASILY BEAT MILWAUKEE.
It was said to be her best wind, but on the second leg the Invader increased her lead on the Milwaukee from two minutes, 13 seconds to over four minutes. The Invader turned the second buoy at 1:29:12; the third buoy at 1:36:5, finishing at 2:49:01. The triangular course was covered leaving buoys to port.

Commodore Shaw refused to make any kick on the decision of the judges, but Skipper Thompson was wrathful. "The Invader was not on the wind and close hauled," he declared. "We had filled out on the Starboard tack, have come close to the buoy on the port tack, and have crowded us right on the buoy. We were both on the starboard tack."

Skipper Thompson declares that the Invader should have been disqualified under the rule provided against any yacht compelling another to foul a buoy or causing another to luff or bear away to avoid fouling. Skipper Pynson of the Illinois, admitted that there was a question about the foul, though having at first been against the Invader. The consensus of opinion was that the Cadillac's skipper had taken a long chance that would have been considered a very bad trick had it worked successfully, but had failed in it. The judges said that their decision against the Cadillac had been unanimous without any discussion whatever. They were positive that Jarvis was sailing close hauled, and decided in his favor on the ground that he had the right of way because of being on the starboard tack. They considered the Cadillac as being on the port tack at the time of the foul, as the Cadillac approached the Invader on the port tack and only came about at the last minute.

Tom Chivers expects to return to Detroit tonight, and his place in the Cadillac's crew is to be taken by Harry Higginbotham.

THE RULES.
Chicago, August 13.—If Captain Thompson, of the Cadillac, enters a protest against the Invader on account of the foul that occurred as both yachts were crossing the line for the start, it will undoubtedly be on the grounds that the Invader was crowding him on the buoy and that he had gone about on the starboard tack to avoid the collision, he would have fouled the buoy himself. The authority for this would be section 12 of racing rule 26, which states that the Yacht Racing Union of the Great Lakes, under which these international races are being sailed. This rule provides that, when two yachts, both without tacking, are about to pass each other on the required side, then the outside yacht must give the inside yacht room to pass clear of the mark.

The judges, however, may apply section 12 of rule 26, instead of this rule applies to a yacht approaching shore shoal, rock, etc., and cannot go clear by altering her course without fouling another yacht, then the latter shall upon being hailed by the former, at once give her sea room by tacking or bearing away, and the former shall also tack or bear away, as nearly the same time as possible; but, should such obstruction be a mark of the course, a yacht shall not force another to tack, under the provisions of this rule.

JARVIS' COMMENT.
Capt Jarvis of the Invader probably will have his protest on section 2 of rule 26, which provides that "when both yachts are close hauled, the yacht with the wind on the port side shall keep clear."

It is a rather complicated case and will undoubtedly bring out strong arguments on both sides, especially as, if the race is given to the Invader, it greatly lessens Cadillac's chance for the cup. The Invader has two races to her credit and but one more to win would have nearly a certainty with the present weather outlook for tomorrow.

Capt Jarvis said after he got ashore that he felt no satisfaction in getting a cup race in this way, but that he was pleased that his boat had had an opportunity to beat the Milwaukee. Judge Warner, speaking officially, gave it out that the unfortunate incident was Capt. Thompson's own fault and that the judges had no course open to them but to disqualify the defender.

Commodore Gooderham of the Royal Canadian Yacht club said he regretted sincerely that such a thing had happened, and he added, "More particularly, as I think the Invader would have won anyhow."

NORTH BUXTON.

Monday was a lively day with the Baptist people here. Rev. Penick, pastor of the Baptist church here, is making an effort to build a hall and shade in connection with the church which is a long felt want.

It was rainy day and Rev. Penick undertook to raise $150. that day. Everything seemed favorable to the project. The day was fine and there was a large gathering of people, and on the platform around this altar, which Rev. Penick, of Dresden, Baptist church, Elder Bradley, of Chatham Baptist church, and Elder Jones, of Buxton B. M. E. church. Among the visitors were Mrs. (Rev.) Thompson and deacons J. Jones and Wm. Thompson of Dresden, Mrs. Elder Bradley and Miss Hammond of Chatham, and several from Ross and other places, whose names we did not get. Rev. Penick said to the congregation that he wanted to raise $150 that day to help the building committee. The B. Y. P. U. immediately came forward with $20, and the Ladies Aid came forward with $20, and when the money from all sources was counted it amounted to $172.80. A prize of a silver pitcher was offered to the one bringing forward the largest purse, which was won by Mrs. A. Robbins, the purse being $30.77. The pitcher was a beautiful one, purchased from Mr. Jas. King, agent for the Imperial Silverware Co., Windsor.

Among the visitors of this neighborhood is Mrs. Bradley, and daughter, of Chatham, Ont., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jones.

Mrs. S. Jones, of Buffalo, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jones, at Mrs. Travis's, confined to her sick room.

NORTH BUXTON.

Monday was a lively day with the Baptist people here. Rev. Penick, pastor of the Baptist church here, is making an effort to build a hall and shade in connection with the church which is a long felt want.

It was rainy day and Rev. Penick undertook to raise $150. that day. Everything seemed favorable to the project. The day was fine and there was a large gathering of people, and on the platform around this altar, which Rev. Penick, of Dresden, Baptist church, Elder Bradley, of Chatham Baptist church, and Elder Jones, of Buxton B. M. E. church. Among the visitors were Mrs. (Rev.) Thompson and deacons J. Jones and Wm. Thompson of Dresden, Mrs. Elder Bradley and Miss Hammond of Chatham, and several from Ross and other places, whose names we did not get. Rev. Penick said to the congregation that he wanted to raise $150 that day to help the building committee. The B. Y. P. U. immediately came forward with $20, and the Ladies Aid came forward with $20, and when the money from all sources was counted it amounted to $172.80. A prize of a silver pitcher was offered to the one bringing forward the largest purse, which was won by Mrs. A. Robbins, the purse being $30.77. The pitcher was a beautiful one, purchased from Mr. Jas. King, agent for the Imperial Silverware Co., Windsor.
