Nine-finger was a little better in coming forward to help out and another young fellow stepped in and started home with the light haired lady of the White House.

But he had not gone far when the required courage came back to him. No. 1 and taking in the situation of the affair, he struck off as though he had come in contact with the business end of a humble bar, and overtook his opponent, made him give up. But property, and turned him back. His boy No. 1 left her at the town pump to go the rest of the journey alone, and then made tracks for his mother, as fast as his lower branches would take him.

Look out, Kelly, you're taking in the white mission. Don't leave you with less than nine-fingers the next time.
