Adam and Eve.
What is probably the most remarkable and strongest of all alleged Bible tombs is that which marks the supposed resting-place of Eve, the mother of the human race. It lies about a mile to the north of Jeddah, the port of Mecca.
The tradition that Eve was buried here is older than Mohammed. Adam is believed by some to rest at his own peak in Ceylon, but that is debated by Oriental scholars. There had been a difference, so the Mohammedans say, between our first parents, and Eve spent the last years of her life at Jeddah, where she was buried, not far from the great temple in Mecca which Moslem tradition ascribes to the hands of Adam himself.
A common legend attributes to Eve the height of 18 ft, but this does not correspond with the dimensions of her tomb, which is nearly eight feet high. She must have been of a somewhat strange shape, as her grave is only 10 ft. or 11 ft. wide. In the middle of the grave is a small building containing a curious witness to the devotion of the Moslems. On the whitewashed walls of this little temple are hundreds of thousands of pencilled names, as far as the hand can reach.

Our Lesson.

We have gone backward many a weary mile since the blight of battle overshadowed the world, to learn that the ways of ease and greed and indifference have made for the weakening of the race, and the blotting out of the principles beyond reproach. We have encouraged within us the elements that have always heralded the destruction of nations, and laid even to the dust, the civilization of that particular time. Within our day we have seen corruption making gigantic strides, and the very souls of men with those who give praise unto the miserable creatures in their successful efforts. The two thousand year old message from Palestine, of peace on earth, to men good will, and brotherly love, with its approach, for even at this time, within the presence of the world's first Calvary, and its lone Gethsemane, in the confused noise of warriors, and of garments rolled in blood. Continually cometh the bitter weeping of those mourning for the best of mankind—butchered that the lust for blood may prevail, sacrificed as an atonement for the misdoings of the earth. It cometh our duty to gather together the threads of our sorrows and weaknesses, to weave them into a worthy garment that shall be our protection in the further days of our advent.

The Kitten Was Some Good

He was a self-satisfied mortal inso far as himself was concerned, a doer of no bad deeds, a believer in no sinful habits, yet he was never able to get to his room before midnight. He was the possessor of a kitten, which he carefully tended and which became unto him as a comrade. It had always a warm welcome for him when he came home, would climb upon him, and purr all about him, which created an interest in him towards the animal. Coming home one night he was surprised to find it upon the door-step meowing pitiously and very cold. He quickly gathered it up, brought it to his room, wondering how he had forgotten to leave it in the house. The next night he arrived at his abode just as the moon was going down, and he found the kitten awaiting him. He knew that here was a mystery, for he had certainly left the cat in the house. He went to bed and dreamt of big and little cats attacking him, of hungry and well fed cats falling over him, of blue cats and green cats holding an inquest over him, and that his faithful kitten was beseeching him to come home earlier. He awoke late the next day, and thoughtfully pondered the vision, and that evening came home at nine o'clock. The kitten was just coming from a window that had been open unknown to him, and was making its way to the usual place of waiting for its master; the creature bounded to wards him, perched upon his shoulder, sang many favorite airs, until he felt that the riddle was solved. Now he is to be found at his room every evening at nine. The kitten sits upon the table while he reads, and rolls him a match now and again with which he lights his tobacco and has the enjoyment of beholding the "fourfooted friend attempting to catch the smoke. He feels that the future will bring him an abundance of honor, a portion of which will be bestowed upon his room-mate.

America's Oldest Pear Tree.

There is a wonderful pear tree still flourishing and bearing fruit which was planted nearly 500 years ago in a village of Salem, Mass. At that time Governor Endicott, being very interested in horticulture, sent to Dorchester for an English pear tree. After some considerable time the tree arrived in a somewhat dried condition, but being very carefully planted and watched over by Governor Endicott himself, it survived the long journey, and became, after some years, a most noted fruit-tree. It is carefully tended and surrounded by a fence. Every visitor to Denver, Mass., sees the opportunity of seeing this remarkable tree, which grows upon the Denver river. When Governor Endicott died, in 1665, he left the tree to his daughter's care, making special mention of it in his will.

First Doctor in Canada Was in Montreal.

Of the early history of medicine in Canada very little is known. The first medical man of whom there is any record is Dr. Bouchard who was born in Paris 1622. As a master surgeon he signed his engagement with the 'Company of Montreal,' in 1653, and four years later married Marguerite Botele, at Quebec, by whom he had nine children. His residence in Montreal was in Notre Dame street near the site of the present City Hall. By a contract dated March 30th, 1655 he agreed with twenty-six heads of families to treat the husband, wife and children 'born and to be born.' for one hundred sous each, either party to have the right to withdraw at will. He died at Montreal on July 20th, 1676, at the age of fifty-four years.

Courtesy at Home.

The little courtesies of life are too often forgotten where it is most important that it should be remembered, in the home and with one's own family. Polite attentions cost but a thought, but often are worth more than money. Some boast, hardworking, good people appear to think politeness is for the 'stylish' only. Yet no home is so humble that the practice of courtesies will not add to its comfort and happiness. A habit of politeness, of paying little grateful attentions to one another goes far to prevent discord. The guest comes only for a time into the family. The wish to make him comfortable and at ease is expressed in polite attentions. More much more important that the few desires should be expressed to the family on whose happiness and good will your own depend.

Black Leg in Potatoes.

The testimony is forthcoming that owing to the work of the Dominion plant pathologists, the disease of Black Leg in potatoes has decreased. Black Leg causes considerable destruction to the potato crop, particularly in the Maritime Provinces. In continuation of the good work that has been done, Circular No. 11 has been issued by the Division of Botany at Ottawa, entitled, 'The Black Leg Disease of Potatoes caused by Bacillus Solanaceae,' which can be had free on application to the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Free Milk Record Forms.

Two five-year-old cows in a dairy herd where cow testing is practiced made two widely divergent records in 1916. One gave 6,616 pounds of milk and 204 pounds of fat, the other gave 8,370 pounds of milk and 288 pounds of fat. A request to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa, for milk record forms should state whether you want them for daily or three days weights per month; they are free for asking.

Nearly Twenty-Six Thousand Volunteers in Two and a Half Months.

Some persons appear at times to take pleasure in creating the false impression that Canadians are not doing their share of war work. The object of such persons is to cause prejudice against the federal government. One subject frequently used for the purpose is recruiting. The fact is that Canada has done well. Men are steadily joining the colors, notwithstanding the assertions that disgruntled persons make to the contrary. Between January 1st and March 15th, of this year, 25,628 men were enlisted, and when we bear in mind that we have been drafting out our men for thirty months we must agree that a total of 25,628 recruits in the last two months and a half is far from being discreditably.

Pointed Paragraphs.

The road that runs to ruin is kept in good repair at the expense of those who travel over it.

There is no reason why the spirit of the age should be great, unless his class should be great.

Have a Garden This Year.

That the majority of people have overlooked or forgotten the value of gardens in recent years is indicated by the slowness with which the idea of vacant lot and back yard gardening is catching on. The possibilities of the garden are almost inexhaustible. Good crops, and especially high priced goods, are usually high in care, and gardens will do more than to cut down the cost of living. Properly cared for, the small plot of garden will supply enough vegetables for the average family. Good seed, proper cultural methods, plant food, either in the form of manure or fertilizers, and a few garden tools are all that are needed to make a start in the gardening industry for home use.

'Health and Efficiency.'

W. Earl Flynn, of California, is making a living just now by conducting 'health and efficiency' campaigns in cities. He lectures on what to do in St. Louis, Mo., the other day he said: 'Never jump out of bed when you wake up; first, say a prayer, puff out your jaws to flush the blood vessels in the head, lie on your back awhile and raise the abdomen several feet. Raise your legs and kick a few times. Then roll over and fall out of bed. Dress, drink a glass of hot water with lemon juice in it. Take a little walk. Go to work without breakfast. Lunch lightly at noon. Drink no coffee. Eat no pickles.'

Boy—Yes, sir.
Dealer—And suppose he should want to see a lily?
Boy—I'd ask him to wait until you come in, sir.

Saves Eggs

Royal Baking Powder makes it possible to produce appetizing and wholesome cakes, muffins, corn bread, etc., with fewer eggs than are usually required.
In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced and excellent results obtained by adding an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, for each egg omitted. The following tested recipe is a practical illustration:

Royal Baking Powder

3 eggs
1 teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup cold water
1 teaspoon lard

The old method called for six eggs and no baking powder.
Beaten with mixer, then add egg whites alternately to white of egg mixture, stirring each addition. Add lard and flour, and flouring. Mix lightly and bake in moderate oven one hour.

Booklet of recipes which economize in eggs and other expensive ingredients mailed free. Address: Royal Baking Powder Co., 6 St. Lawrence Boulevard, Montreal.

Wouldn't Be Hanged.

Mr. A. E. P. Weigall, who has spent many years in Egypt, tells an amusing story of some native officials.
A well-known robber was arrested at a small station in the Sudan, and was promptly sentenced to death. The solitary English officer in charge of the post refrained from attending the execution, but the arrangements for which were left to the discretion of his Egyptian colleagues. A gibbet was erected, and about nine o'clock on the next morning the condemned man was driven up to it in a male cart. The rope was passed around his neck, the male was whipped up and the gibbet was left swinging in mid-air. The officer, however, had forgotten to tie the man's hands, and he promptly jumped up the rope to the cross-beam there seating himself comfortably in the piping hot sun, while the troops stood gapping around him, the officer mopping his forehead in an ecstasy of heat and vexation.

Health and Efficiency.

No one knew what to do. They could not shoot the man, for their orders were to hang him, and on the barren sandy ground no stones could be found to throw at him in order to dislodge him. The Egyptian officer thereupon entered into friendly conversation with him, begging him to come down and be hanged like a man. This the robber totally refused to do. The officer therefore endeavored to appeal to the man's better feelings. 'Look here,' he said, 'none of us have yet had our breakfasts, and we are feeling extraordinarily faint and uncomfortable. Please do come down and be hanged properly, or I, for my part, will most certainly be sick.'

Pretty Cold.

A city laid from the densest temperature district was taken to the country by a farmer. A few days later he was called early one freezing cold morning to harness a mule. The lad was too lazy to light a lantern, and in the dark he didn't notice that one of the cows, was in the stable with the mule. The farmer, impatient at the long delay, shouted from the house: 'Billy! Billy! What are you doing?' 'I can't get the collar over the mule's head,' yelled back the boy. 'His ears are frozen.'

You will make no mistake in employing this food cure, for acting as it does hand in hand with Nature, it is bound to do you good.
Mrs. Jas. Jensen, Wynne, Alta., writes: "About ten years ago I was troubled with severe attacks of neuralgia and nervousness, and was for several months so bad that I could not get a night's rest. I used several medicines recommended by the druggist. My doctor also prescribed, but nothing he gave me brought any relief. Instead I got worse and worse until I could scarcely do anything or bear the least bit of noise. My nerves were all upset."
"My husband read about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and got me some. Although I had no faith in it, I began its use, and after a few doses began to sleep well and the neuralgia left me entirely. I used six more boxes and have never had any troubles from neuralgia or the nerves since."
"This is to certify that I know Mrs. Jensen and believe this statement to be true and correct. Fred Freshman, J.P."

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., MAR. 30, 1917.

Huns at Home.

The provincial government at Halifax is evidently following similar methods to those employed by Germany in the conquered territory of Belgium and France. Everything is gripped that comes to its mill, and every industry is put under heavy tribute to furnish money to provide for its wastefulness.

One of the latest devices is a bill now before the legislature which has for its object direct taxation on the owners of all ranks, rich and poor alike, for the purpose of adding to the revenue of the province. The act provides that every person attending a theatre will be obliged to pay an extra tax to the government. On a five-cent admission fee, a tax of one cent will be levied. On a ten-cent fee, the tax will be two cents, and a fifteen-cent fee will have a tax of three cents, and so on.

This will mean that the ordinary working man who desires a little recreation after a hard day of labor, and wishes with his wife and say two children to attend the movies, at a ten-cent fee, will be obliged to contribute eight cents towards the Halifax government. The bill provides that the tax shall be collected by the theatre owner by means of tickets issued by the Board, and that the work of collecting be forced upon the owner, whether he like it or not, without remuneration of any kind.

The act is drastic and autocratic in the extreme, and if it becomes law will resolve itself into nothing more or less than class legislation of the meanest kind.

Just at the time when everybody is being unburdened seems to be a most inopportune time for such actions of the government as tends to make it harder for the people. Here in Wolfville our civic rulers have put forth every endeavor to raffle on town affairs as usual without an increase in taxation. Such action is very laudable and in marked contrast to the doings of the legislature.

If it was the wish of the government to be of real use there are many ways in which retrenchment might be made and the people benefited. Is there any reason why that useless upper chamber should be continued at a time when unnecessary expense should be curtailed? Numerous other ways, which are familiar to all acquainted with governmental conditions, are open to the legislature if they were consistently laboring for the public interest.

If the money to be thus raised were to be applied to patriotic use or devoted to carrying on the war or providing in any way for conditions resulting therefrom, there might be some excuse for the imposition of the "grip," but such is not the case. It seems to us that it is about time for a taxation revolt in Nova Scotia.

What Modern Warfare Means.

We take these extracts from an article contributed by Mr. Frank H. Simonds to the New York Tribune: "I do not know any way that one can give any slight hint of the desolation of the battlefield of the Somme. There it lies, ten miles deep, one shore touching the furnace which is still burning up and destroying the surface of the earth and all animate and inanimate things thereon. At the other shore there begins sharply the countryside of France, and between the two shores is an infernal region in which at least a million and a half of men, British, German and French have been killed or wounded. Perhaps half a million men lie buried in the shattered folds and turns of the scarred hillsides or in the flats beside the little brooks.

And when the armies are gone and the war ends (for even this war must end some time), it is interesting, if tragic, to think of what will be the emotions of all the little people who inhabited these regions, people who, faithful to the French love for the land, will return to their old homes. And of their old homes they will find not even a fragment: the fields that they cultivated and that their fathers cultivated will have disappeared; the subsoil will still be honeycombed by the corridors of mines or the mole-like burrows of the dugouts.

I do not think one can get any conception of the real terror of this war who has not seen the country of the Somme or of Verdun, who has not seen the fashion in which this war, like a malignant war spirit, has not alone destroyed all that there was of homes of human habitation and of the fields of human effort, but has swept the earth with fire and sown it with salt, as if in the determination that there should never again be life, that men should not exist or fruit and foods grow in the fields over which it had passed.

That is a vivid picture. But doubtless it falls short of the dreadful reality.

Sickly Babies.

Sickly babies—little ones who are troubled with their stomach and bowels; whose teething is painful; digestion bad and who cannot sleep well—can be made healthy and happy with Baby's Own Tablets. Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Wilfred Damons, Val Brilliant, Que., writes: "Please send me a box of Baby's Own Tablets as I would not care to be without them. I have used them for constipation and vomiting and am well pleased with the result." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

A Sketch of the "Nova Scotia Highland Brigade."

As the month of February passes by and we behold the incoming of the month of March, instinctively the memory of every man of whatever rank, who was formerly a member of the "Nova Scotia Highland Brigade," turns to recount the happenings of his life in the army. Many will recall when the idea of raising a brigade in the province whose capital city is the front door of a mighty overseas Dominion, whose future will depend on the men who will return from the far-flung battle line in Europe, that many shook their heads and said it could not be done. But the flame started and for three or four weeks raged through the Blue-nose province, and the results exceeded the expectations, let alone the hopes, of those who had set their hearts on helping the Empire in every tangible way. At the end of the four weeks the little Blue-nose province had raised the full complement of men for the brigade and the Dominion looked on in admiration at the record the eastern province had set. The smoldering fire of patriotism blazed forth in all its glory and the little province which gave the man to guide the greatest Overseas Dominions in her time of stress, showed herself capable of raising in a remarkably short time a host of noble men who were willing to forego the luxuries and indulgences of their happy homes when the mother country was in danger; and the call came for every man to do his duty. Great was the sacrifice of these men, but the greater the sacrifice the more the glory that will be theirs. Some one has said that the great British empire was a mere fabric of the imagination. Surely this, and other no less notable sacrifices in other quarters of the Empire, will forever still the voices of those who would dare intimate that this Empire is not something more—for is not the tie of blood the strongest claim that can hold individual nations together?

If any such thought did exist in the mind of any Britisher, it has long since been dissipated by the marvelous way in which the Empire from the centre to the circumference has rallied 'round the grand old flag which stands for the principles of liberty and democracy in their truest forms. But we must get back to our subject.

After the brigade was recruited stated the mighty work of organization. None will forget the mobilization of those 5,000 sturdy sons, drawn from the college, the workshop, the office, the farm and the fisheries—all pervaded and involved with but one motive—that of serving humanity. The little station near Aldershot could record much if it were allowed. It was not until June 2nd, 1916, that the brigade settled down and began the work which was to cost for something in the struggle then so far away. Day in and day out from morn till night they worked, each man doing his level best to uphold the reputation of the battalion to which he belonged.

It would certainly be invidious here to draw distinctions as to which was the best trained and most highly disciplined of the units. A spirit of eagerness urged each man forward and when a competition was held every one sought to do his best. Thus, probably, is explained the fact that so many favorable remarks were heard from the men whose privilege it was to inspect this gem from the province by the sea. They had the honor of having Lady Borden present the colors to the different units. It was most fitting that the 'first lady of the land' should do so as she is a daughter of the fair province.

Among those who inspected the brigade at various times were the Governor-General, the Duke of Connaught, the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, then Minister of Munitions, Sir Sam Hughes. The last to inspect that mighty mass of noble men was one of Canada's great soldiers, Major-General Leasard. The brigade having passed the test of his crucial eye is a sufficient recommendation of its training and any comment would be highly injudicious.

The voyage across the ocean and the trip across the country to the training camp are fresh in the minds of all and need not be recited here. We regret that the exigencies of the military situation have made it necessary that this brigade should be disbanded, but higher authority than ours and the men who understand the necessities of the moment have so decided and we must accept this view. We are proud ourselves that the senior battalion will go as a unit to France and the remaining units will furnish reinforcements to the Nova Scotia battalions now in the firing line. We have no doubt whatever that when in the line the boys will furnish as fine a record as has been furnished by the brave Canadians who have gone before.

Owing to the fact that it would be useless from a military standpoint to give any details, we refrain from doing so. Suffice it to say that the moving spirit in all this mighty work was one Lieut.-Col. A. H. Borden, formerly a major in one of the regulars. In him the men had every confidence. To-day he is at the head of the senior battalion and will lead it into action Good luck and God bless him and his brave men as they face the fearful foe, in the wish of every true-hearted man. There have, no doubt, been mistakes made and there have been misadventures, but it is not ours to reason why. It is ours to do or die.

So the famed Nova Scotia Highland Brigade came into existence on the first of March, A. D., 1916, and passed away in all its glory with the passing of the year; but its memories will long remain in the minds of the men who made it up; and in years to come, on the fifty night as we sit by our fireside, memories will bring back to us some of the fragrance and glories of the old Brigade. We will be glad that we formed a part of the cosmopolitan army that fought and conquered for democracy, for humanity and for civilization—everything that was worthy and just—and that we were able to do our duty. Great was the sacrifice of these men, but the greater the sacrifice the more the glory that will be theirs. Some one has said that the great British empire was a mere fabric of the imagination. Surely this, and other no less notable sacrifices in other quarters of the Empire, will forever still the voices of those who would dare intimate that this Empire is not something more—for is not the tie of blood the strongest claim that can hold individual nations together?

Hands Off Ireland.

Friends of Ireland in Canada, and their number is legion, will view with apprehension attempts that are being made in certain quarters to interject the Home Rule controversy into Dominion politics. Resolutions calling upon Sir Robert Borden to champion the cause of a section of the Irish people can hardly have the effect of doing good. We can conceive on the other hand, how they might be productive of great harm. First of all Canadians, whatever their views in respect to Home Rule should remember that the question is one which, under the constitution of the Empire, can be finally dealt with exclusively by the British Parliament. Intference by Canadian statesmen would in itself be a denial of the primary principle of self-government with which the Irish controversy is concerned; it would be resented by a portion of Irish public opinion, it would set a precedent in Imperial relations which might not be a good thing, and in the end be a use of the very nature of the Home Rule problem could only be in harmful utility.

Then there is the question of Sir Robert Borden's mandate to deal with such a subject at all. We do not know what is the personal opinion of the Prime Minister in respect to Home Rule. We do not even know that he has formed any permanent opinion on the question at all. We do know that he has no mandate from the Canadian people to interfere in such a controversy, and having none should not reasonably be expected to interfere.

Nor can any sensible person doubt the wisdom of introducing such an issue into our domestic politics already too heavily burdened with strife. In Canada to-day the men of the Union and the men of Munster work side by side for the common good of the country. By showing that it is possible for the Irishman of the North and the Irishman of the South to live in concord and harmony they are helping to remove one of the greatest of all obstacles in the way of Ireland's unity. Surely he would be a false friend of Ireland who would take such a step as might endanger the continued existence of that example of Irish harmony so capable of working good.

Mr. Tracey, of Halifax, Inspector under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, visited a store in Halifax on March 29th, and captured liquor valued at $100. The King Edward Hotel, North street, was visited the same evening and three cases and a basket of liquor was obtained. On Thursday, 22nd, he seized on one of the wharves an incoming shipment valued at $18,000.

Serve Save Produce

EVERY ONE CAN do something for his country

Some can bear arms
Some can produce food
Some can make munitions
Some can give money

It is the privilege of all to help.

YOU CAN SERVE by Fighting—Working—Saving—Giving

This is NATIONAL SERVICE
Are YOU doing your part?

ALL EYES turn now to the Canadian Farmer, for he can render the Empire SPECIAL SERVICE in this sternest year of the war.

But—our farms are badly undermanned—25,000 men are needed on the land.

With insufficient help, the Man on the Land fights an uphill fight to meet the pressing need for Food.

CITY and TOWN can help.

Municipal Councils, Churches and Schools, and other organizations, both of men and women, can render National Service by directing all available labour to the Land.

Farmers themselves can exchange labour. School boys can assist.

Were you raised on a farm? Can you drive a team? Can you handle fork or hoe? If you can't fight, you can produce. Spend the Summer working on the Farm.

Let every man, woman and child in the Dominion who has access to Land, no matter how small the plot, make it produce Food in 1917.

Provincial Parliament.

The House has been in session four weeks and there remains much to be done. The Opposition have done everything to expedite business, but the Government appears very slow in bringing down their legislation.

The 'good roads' bill has not come to hand yet. It is said the Cabinet are very much divided on the subject. Evidently much hard feeling exists between the Attorney-General and the Commissioner of Works and Mines.

Today the former moved the second reading of a bill affecting trust companies. Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Wickwire took exception to it, and on a vote being taken the Attorney-General's bill got the three months' postponement.

Mr. Daniels' only supporter being Mr. Faulkner. The latter is President of the Maritime Trust Corporation, while the Attorney-General is President of the Nova Scotia Trust Company. The Premier is on the Directorate of the Eastern Trust Company. In other words the Government is simply a big Trust Company.

When Sir Robert Borden became Premier of Canada, he resigned as Director of several Trust Companies.

Sir Thomas White at the same time got so the members of the Nova Scotia Government.

Several delegations have been before the legislative committees this week, many of whom were from Cape Breton. Delegations from the P. W. A. and U. M. W., of Nova Scotia, had a conference to agree, if possible, on a basis of union satisfactory to both parties. I understand no agreement could be arrived at.

The first vote took place in the House yesterday, when the Government had a majority of six.

Several questions were placed on the order paper. One was to determine how many soldiers are in the employ of the Government. Many men were given employment by the Government lately, and so far as can be ascertained not one was a returned soldier. All were men who had simply rendered valiant service for their party at the last local elections.

The Public Accounts Committee was organized yesterday with Mr. Finn as Chairman. Hon. Mr. Faulkner introduced a resolution in favor of some Rule. Just why the Home Rule question should be discussed in the Legislature of Nova Scotia is hard to understand, as in my opinion the Government better attend to the business that comes within its jurisdiction. Home Rule is a problem that is puzzling the minds of great men like Lloyd George and Mr. Asquith.

Mr. Kinley, Lunenburg, introduced his resolution, asking that Dominion Government employees be placed under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Mr. Margeson submitted an amendment and in an able speech pointed out that the Local Government had never placed its own employees under the Act. The Premier admitted this and urged Mr. Kinley not to press his motion. The Workmen's Compensation Bill is in committee and will probably pass the Lower House, but is slated for slaughter in the Legislative Council. 'ONLOOKER.'

Halifax, N. S., March 23rd.

Map of Aldershot.

On Monday morning a surveying party of twelve arrived at Kentville for the purpose of taking surveys and making a large scale of manoeuvring map of Aldershot and surroundings. The work will require several weeks to accomplish, and over thirty square miles will be included in the survey.

The party commenced work at once on arrival, starting from the post-office. All the necessary work for a large camp will be performed.

The surveying party consists of M. F. Phelan, C. E. S. B. Stephens, C. E. K. Bell, J. C. Hay, M. A. Gunter, M. J. Tobin, S. J. Brown, C. R. Harris, N. David, K. R. Sommer, D. Bellefontaine and A. S. Priest.

Germany boasts of having destroyed, in three years of war, eight hundred and fifty thousand tons of Russian warships. The further boast is made that this represents a tonnage greater than the pre-war navies of Russia and Japan, and only sixty thousand tons less than the United States Navy in 1914. This boast is the loudest kind of a confession of Germany's weakness, for notwithstanding the achievement, Germany keeps her great navy in hiding while the Great Britain controls the sea. Should the United States enter the war, as now seems wholly probable, there will be added to the Entente a more powerful navy than Germany has destroyed, and the prospects of a great sea fight made even more doubtful.

Change in Health Act.

Among the sections of an act to amend the Public Health Act, which is before the local Legislature, are the following:

Section 50 of said chapter 6 is amended by striking out subsection 2 thereof, and substituting therefor the following:

(2) The tenure of office of such medical health officer shall be during a good behaviour, and he shall be paid a salary of not less than one hundred dollars a year by the municipality or town.

Section 30 of said chapter 6 is further amended by inserting immediately after sub-section 4, the following:

4 (b) Two or more incorporated towns may, with the approval of the governor-in-council, by agreement provide for the appointment of one medical health officer for the towns thus combining. A medical health officer so appointed shall devote his whole time to the duties of his office.

Do Your Best.
Francis Willard often used to say, "Understand this first, last and all ways, the world wants the best thing it—wants your best. Not your 'good enough' or even 'better than the average' but your best." Even in the smallest details of life our best should be given. For what is worth doing at all is worth doing the best. Everything we do in a 'good enough' way weakens, and to set our standard no higher than 'the average' is to court feebleness. Then—in life's small things be resolute and great

To keep thy muscles trained: for knaghest thou

When Fate thy measure takes, or when she'll say

"I find thee worthy, do this thing for me."

Are we as W. C. T. U. members living up to this standard set us by our noble leader? If not, why not? If our Union is not doing its best work in our community then we are not doing our best and the standard is being lowered.

Let us exampel ourselves and get where the fault lies, then set resolutely to work to mend matters. Let each member ask herself the following questions:

Have I done my best to be present at each meeting?

Have I done my best to make the meetings interesting?

Have I done my best to help in the different parts of the program?

Have I done my best to interest those who are not already interested in W. C. T. U. work?

Have I done my best in visiting the sick and the shut-ins?

Have I done my best in getting to the different calls for the extension of the W. C. T. U. work?

Have I remembered to pray earnestly for the work?

Have I made any sacrifice for the work's sake?

Happy is that member who can say, "Yes" to all these, and happy also will that member be who, when she finds her failings sets to work to do her best.

Dr. Ingram on England's Drink Bill.
Dr. Ingram, the Bishop of London, made a stirring and characteristic speech at the annual meeting of the London United Temperance Council, held recently in the British metropolis. The Bishop referred to the great increase in the strength of the temperance cause which had come from what he termed the conversion of the doctors. Mr. Pearce Gould, St. Thomas' Berlew, and Sir Frederick Treves were said the Bishop, good enough for him. "People may not notice us so-called fanatics," he said, "but they do begin to take notice when the medical men of European institutions feel as the alcohol is actually harmful, and prevents us doing our work as well as we can, or living as long as we might do."

"Totalitarians," said Dr. Ingram, "used to be called 'bad lives' by the insurance companies. Now they were coming into their own, and the insurance companies were running a sure thing and bribing them on to per cent. better terms. I am not going to talk politics," the Bishop continued "but I would draw your attention to the fact that all this excitement about the budget is over a matter of £160,000,000 a year in drink. I say that is a monstrous fact when you have this tremendous outcry about the Government spending another £17,000,000 a year."

Dr. Ingram referred to the fact that the nation's drink bill had been decreased by 5,000,000 pounds in two years, and he hoped it would not be long before it was reduced by another 10,000,000 pounds. Curtailment of the huge expenditure on drink was the first thing to be done in curing the moral mischief of the country. All the authorities agreed that the hospitals might close half their wards, that half the lunatic asylums might be closed and that magistrates and judges would have their duties considerably curtailed. I speak with a wonderful feeling of hope," said the Bishop. "I do not think we can exaggerate the help that has been given us by the conversion of the doctors. In the universities there is a great change for the better. In the army, too, there is a much more hopeful state of affairs. If we hold together I believe we are on the winning side. As for legislation, I shall continue to back up all temperance legislation in the House of Lords—if there is to be a House of Lords in the future—as I have done in the past."

March Weather Rheumatic Weather.
VICTIMS CAN CURE THEMSELVES WITH DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

With the coming of March people who are afflicted with rheumatism begin to have unpleasant reminders of their trouble. The weather is changeable—balmy and springlike one day, raw, cold and piercing the next. It is such sudden changes of weather that set the pangs, and tortures of rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica going. But it must be borne in mind that although weather conditions start the pains, the trouble is deeply rooted in the blood and can be cured only through the blood. All the lotions and liniments in the world can't cure rheumatism. Rubbing may ease the pain while you are rubbing, but there its value ends. Only through the blood can you cure rheumatism. That's why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have so many thousands of cures of this trouble to their credit. The new, rich blood which they actually make drives out the poisonous acid and rheumatism is vanquished. Among many sufferers from rheumatism who have been cured by this medicine is Mr. C. H. McGee, freight shed foreman for the G. T. R., at Peterboro, who says:—

"In the course of my work I am naturally exposed to all kinds of weather, with the result that about two years ago I contracted rheumatism which settled in my legs. At times I could scarcely walk, and often had to quit my day's work owing to the stiffness and the pain. I tried different remedies without getting any help until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used six boxes of these and can say that I am about as well as ever I was. I still take the pills occasionally, and I hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other rheumatic sufferer."

If you suffer from rheumatism, or any other disease of the blood, begin to cure yourself today with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No Names.
Little Beale was sent to school for the first time, and the teacher asked her the name of her father. The little girl sat very thoughtful but seemed unable to think what it was. Finally the teacher decided to help her out, if possible, and asked,

"What do you call him, dear?"

"Why," replied the child promptly, "I call him father."

"Yes," smiled the teacher, "of course you do. But what does your mother call him?"

"For a moment the child was silent, and then she answered,

"Why, she doesn't call him anything—she likes him!"—Harper's Magazine.

"Disappeared."

No clue has yet been obtained as to the whereabouts of the child of Ruth Croger, aged 17, who disappeared from her home in New York city in February. The police say that the case of Miss Croger is no different than that of the 1,000 or 1,500 girls who drop out of sight in New York every year. In 1914 there were 4,035 men, women and girls reported missing, of whom 3,240 were found and returned to their homes or otherwise accounted for. The number of men who disappear every year exceeds the number of women and girls by fifty per cent. In 1915, 1,430 women and girls were reported missing. At the end of that year 1,220 of that number had been accounted for. During the same period, 3,000 men were reported missing.

Plan for the Assistance and Encouragement of Urban Poultry Keepers.
The present year will see a great increase in the number of urban poultry keepers. The almost prohibitive prices of eggs and poultry during the past winter have caused many consumers to seriously consider the home production of these very necessary and useful commodities. It is important also that any efforts put forth in this direction result satisfactorily.

Many difficulties present themselves in attempting to rear chickens successfully on a small city lot. Experience has shown that the best way for urban poultry keepers to enter the poultry business is by the purchase of pullets in the fall. Well-mated pullets are the most desirable winter egg producers and will rear their young for the best at least table but also return a reasonable profit on the expenditure entailed.

It is suggested that the city health department should issue a pamphlet to the effect that it is the duty of the city to encourage the production of fresh eggs and poultry for the consumption of its citizens. The health department should also issue a pamphlet to the effect that it is the duty of the citizen to encourage the production of fresh eggs and poultry for the consumption of his family. An Interesting Relic.
A missal, or altar book, printed in 1722 and in use in Annapolis at the time of and for many years before the expulsion of the Acadians (the book was written by the Rev. John Mass) is now to be seen on one of the tables in St. Thomas' library. It is still in a very good state of preservation and its price is clear as the day it came from the press. The book was lost for a time after the expulsion but was recovered by the first Archbishop of Halifax, who wrote his name in it, and it has now found its way back to the community in which it was originally owned and used, to be as a relic of the past—Annapolis Royal Spectator.

First to Adopt Conscription
Switzerland was the first European country to adopt universal military service. The original founder of the Swiss Confederation enacted that whoever shirked military training was declared 'devoid of honour and persecuted,' and his house vowed to destruction.

Should a man assumed to take part in a military expedition unable to respond, owing to illness or some other valid reason, he had to furnish a capable substitute at his own expense.

From the earliest days of the Confederation, too, the military authorities made special provisions for tending the wounded. In this respect they seem to have been in advance of their times.

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the change of life I had a terrible time. I was as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city by some one. Of course I could not go to him, so my sister-in-law told me to try your Compound. It helped both the change of life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedy until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it." —Mrs. E. H. Bean, 555 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Small Irrigation Projects are Successful

1) Irrigation flume near Kamloops, B.C.
2) Irrigating Small Farms.
3) Small Irrigated Farm.

SPEAKING before the annual convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association at Kamloops, B.C. A. B. Dawson, chief engineer of the Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway, expressed the faith that is in him in the irrigation projects for which Western Canada is becoming famous. Although Mr. Dawson has been connected mainly with the big irrigation enterprise of the C. P. R. in Southern Alberta, he does not overlook the advantages of small projects operated by a community of farmers, or even by an individual.

"I have had fifteen years' experience on what are the largest irrigation projects in Canada," said Mr. Dawson, "but I am willing to admit that the small projects such as you have in the immediate vicinity of Kamloops are quite often more interesting and worthy of fuller consideration than are the larger projects. These schemes, though small, should be considered as one of your greatest assets."

"The benefits of irrigation show their results in better farms; improved living conditions; improved social conditions and better citizenship. If conducted along proper lines it improves agriculture, saves the soil, facilitates industry, produces a surplus and should provide for posterity."

Mr. Dawson's reference to the small irrigation schemes is of particular interest to the farmers of Western Canada, where there are hundreds of thousands of acres of land which could be used in a small way for irrigation purposes. According to the opinion of an officer of the Western Canada Irrigation Association the day is coming when irrigation in Western Canada will be limited only by the amount of water available. The increasing interest in irrigation is indicated by the fact that the annual meeting of the association in 1915 will be held in Saskatchewan for the first time. In the past it has always been held in Alberta or British Columbia, but this year the association will meet at Maple Creek, Saskatchewan.

The LONGEST TUNNEL IN AMERICA OPENED

Its mileage is 18,533, via C. P. R. 1,600 miles of canals and ditches 1700 miles worked, 18,577, with controlled flow, and 10,000,000 acres of land has been completed.

The great irrigation dam at Banana, Alberta, built by the C. P. R., was opened April 25, 1914. It is 7,000 feet in length and contains more than a million cubic feet of earth and concrete.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has spent Canada's increase from 1906 to 1914, 1915, on the irrigation projects. It has spent $111,768,373. It has seen scientific farming produce million dollar crops, tremendous strides in medicine and surgery and a transformation in social conditions.

It has seen the trade of Canada develop for 12 months in 1914 to $2,884,690,739, an increase of $81,344,351 over 1913.

Canada has seen eight Governors-Generals since the Canadian Pacific Railway began operation. They were the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Stanley, Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Minto, Earl Gray, Duke of Connaught and Duke of Devonshire.

The following promoters have held power since the inception of the project: Sir John Abbott, Sir John Thompson, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden; and the great railway company has seen Canada come third in the world's wheat production in 1915, with 378,503,600 bushels and 731,884 acuplers take farms and holdings.
