Little child, close to my heart,
See, I press you closer still,
For your dear weight heals its smart
Even I have known life's ill.
What dream you of tears and sighe
While you gaze in mother's eyes? Baby mine, my bonny lad,
Do you guess your power, dear?
Earth cannot be dark and sad
To this heart while you are near.
How can life be aught but sweet
When child-love makes it complete

A Mother's Song.

Hush, my baby; sweetly rest!
Mother's boy feels no alarm;
Pillowed soft upon her breast,
He knews naught of earthly han
What though life be dark and sad—
Mother's love can make it glad.

Vould you see the beautiful vision, That the Father has in store or his chosen ones--His faithful, Who serve Him evermore? Would you hear the grandest music-The swelling strains divine— The heavenly melodies surging Around that soul of thine?

Would you like the gift that's promised
To His children here below-To His children here below-ver to live in the sunlight And joy immortal know? Vould you have the life eternal, Ever with him to be, covingly serving the Master Who gives such gifts to thee?

With their soil made by nature for the feet of flying cracks;
You may brag about their home stretch and their undulating swav.
And swear that every single one is down hill all the way;
But the fastest track that mortal man in fancy ever wove,
Is in the village grocery, and it runs around the stove.

When old Boreas on his steed comes charging from the North,
And other tracks are closed up as he stalks in glory forth,
Tis then the track around the stove is ready for the fray,
And the breaking of the needs may be heard a mile away;
For the magic of this matchless track is like Aladdin's grove,
And the horse just flies that hits it this track around the stove
