The "Short Lobster"
Boy.
"I don't care—it's law-breaking!"
cried Dan.
"Who says it's law-breakin'?"
"My father. And he says the summer visitors that buy short lobsters, when they know they're "shorts" are as much to blame as those that take them."
Frank Bailey looked at the group of boys surrounding him when he said this, his breath coming quickly.
There was complete silence for a moment, the eyes of all, including the speaker, going involuntarily to Dan Martin's eyes. Dan Martin was a boy of the light-house keeper at the neighboring island of Startmouth and acknowledged leader in the fishing village of Windhaven.
"You're afraid the revenue man will nab you," Dan said tauntingly, his eyes turned on Frank.
"I'm not, but—"
The blood rose, tingling, to the young lad's cheeks. Dan, suddenly throwing aside his assumed listlessness had sprung off the upturned barrel on which he was sitting, and towered above him.
"Look here!" he cried, "you come round this wharf again tellin' me what's right an' what's not, you you short lobster, you—an' I'll show you in that pickle barrel till your own mother won't know you from a salt mackerel! Now be off!" Frank had stood his ground unflinchingly, looking the older boy squarely in the eyes during the tirade.
Some what taken aback at his lack of fear, Dan lounged off down to Frank as he, too, left the group.
Frank Bailey made his way slowly home, and at every step a different part of paying Dan Martin back surged unformed through his brain.
His throat felt dry and choking, his hands closed and unclosed at his sides. And, as the days went by, it grew no better, for the name "Short Lobster," clung to him as though it had the claws of the living fish.
Even the men of Windhaven, not knowing its origin, and finding it appropriate enough to Frank's bright-hued hair and face, tossed it at him jokingly, never suspecting the storm of indignation that would be raised in the boy's breast.
That was a hard summer for Frank Bailey. Left practically to himself, he would sit for hours on the rocks, while the other boys went off fishing with Dan, often spending a whole day on the island, and coming back laden with the results of their sport.
He was perched on his usual rock one day, feeling more lonely than usual, for, before the light breeze, Dan's boat, the "Widgeon," with several of the village boys on board, was dancing out to trawl for pollock, when his attention was attracted by a "lady" and little girl, apparently summer visitors, who sat near him.
"So you see, dear," the lady had turned her head in his direction, "that it always pays in the end to do the right thing."
"No, it don't."
The boy had sprung to his feet, his chest heaving, his breath coming quickly.
"And why not?" His new acquaintance was looking at him pleasantly.
"Cause I told Dan Rogers and the other fellows that 'twas wrong to take short lobsters, and—"
The smarming, cruel tears were in his eyes, though he winked them back. He stopped, swallowing hard.
"Well?"
"And they've scarcely spoke to me since!"
His whole sense of loneliness and injustice came out in a choking burst.
But not even in this kind face, in which he read such ready sympathy, could he tell about his nickname.
That lay too deeply sunk in sensitiveness to be dragged forth.

NEURALGIC PAINS ARE THE CRY OF THE NERVS FOR BETTER BLOOD
ENRICH THE BLOOD AND NEURALGIA WILL DISAPPEAR—IT IS ONLY THOSE WHOSE BLOOD IS POOR AND WATERY THAT SUFFER.

No part of the human system is more sensitive than the nerves.
Many of the most excruciating pains that afflict mankind come from weak, shaky, shattered nerves, and among the nerve pains there is perhaps none causes more intense suffering than neuralgia, which generally attacks the nerves of the face and head, sometimes causing swift, darting, agonizing pains—at other times a dull, heavy aching feeling which makes life miserable. There is only one way to get rid of neuralgia—enrich the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, through the blood. Poor, watery blood makes the nerves shaky and invites disease. Rich, red blood makes the nerves strong and banishes all nerve troubles. No medicine in the world can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and nerve tonic; every dose helps to make rich, red blood, and every drop of this new blood feeds and strengthens the nerves and banishes all nerve aches and pains. Among those who offer strong proof of this is Mr. John Mc-Dermott, Bond Head, Ont., who says: "A few years ago while working as a carpenter in Buffalo I got wet. I neglected to change my clothes and next morning I awoke with cramps and pains throughout my entire body.
I was unable to go to work so called in a doctor. I followed his treatment, but it did not help me. As I was unable to work I returned to my home at Bond Head. Here I consulted a doctor who said I was suffering from neuralgia, but though he treated me for some time, he also failed to help me. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so decided to try them. I had not used more than three boxes before I felt they were helping me.
From that time on I gained day by day, and after I had used some ten boxes I had fully recovered my old-time strength and have since been able to work at my trade without any trouble. The pains and aches no longer torture me and I have gained in weight. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an invaluable medicine and shall always have a good word to say for them."

Neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, St. Vitus dance, and the many other blood and nerve troubles all vanish when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are used—but you must get the genuine bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by druggists or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

As a Convalescent Food
Mrs. WYMAN N. THOMAS, Omaha, Addington Co., Ont., writes—"My wife had congestion of the lungs along with other troubles, and became very weak and ran down. By the use of Dr.
Chase's Nerve Food she was made as strong and well as ever. Of course I had a doctor, but she was weak, and it was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which built her up."

That is very hard," she said kindly.
"That's them now, Dan and the crowd, out in the 'Widgeon.' He pointed to the white sail.
"Face, and it is lonely for you, left by yourself; during the vacation, Frank looked down. Somehow he ready sympathy made him feel alone. The lady had risen and put her hand on his shoulder.
"Don't," she said earnestly, "would you have been happier if you had left and the other fellows believe that you thought law-breaking no crime, even though you could go sailing in the 'Widgeon'?" Frank rubbed the top of one well worn shoe upon the other.

"Wouldn't he have been unhappy here,—she laid her hand upon her breast—"which is the only real unhappiness, in a way that would have spoiled every pleasure for you?"
The boy nodded.
"Then she held out her hand, and Frank was amazed to see that her kind eyes were wet.
"I am glad—proud—to meet so manly a boy," she said slowly. "It will pay in the end, son. And if ever it comes in your way to do Dan Martin a kindness, do it."

That day was the dawn of a new era for Frank. He never saw the lady again, but he never forgot her.
She had been proud to meet "so manly a boy." He would try to live up to what she thought him.

Frank rarely saw Dan Martin. It was early fall when he heard that Mr.
Martin was going to a neighboring city for a few days on business, and that, in his absence, Dan would have charge of the light-house. The latter had come on shore, strutting through the village with the sense of his new importance; but, beyond a contemptuous sneer, he had taken no notice of Frank.

The younger boy was coming from school the next afternoon when he saw the "Widgeon" sailing before a light autumnal breeze. Somehow the sight did not hurt him now as it had once done. At his mother's request he took his rod and went down to the rocks to catch some perch for supper.
When two hours had passed, he looked up suddenly from his engrossed occupation. The breeze had died away. A dim, hazy light shone sun was setting. Far out, a mere speck, lay the "Widgeon," absolutely becalmed.

Frank drew in his line, and, even as he did so, the first, almost imperceptible shadow of coming night began to fall.
He stood up. In half an hour it would be time for Startmouth to show his warning gleam, and Dan Martin was a good four miles from shore in a becalmed sail-boat. The boy knew also that there was no one on the island but Dan's mother, a delicate workman, to whom the mounting of those hundred stone steps might mean death.

"If ever it comes in your way to do Dan Martin a kindness, do it." He turned his head quickly, as though someone had spoken. Then, with a bound, he went up the rocks to the cottage above, calling out to his mother that the fish were in the kitchen table, and was off again like a deer.

It was a good two miles to the little strip of sandy beach which lay just beyond the point of mainland nearest to Startmouth, but he never slackened his pace until he reached it. Unloading one of the dories which lay moored there, he pushed off, rowing with all his might. It was almost dark now but he managed to make out the landing slip, and as the boat touched it jumped out, mooring her hastily.
Then, off again, stumbling up the steep path to the keeper's house.

"His hand was on the latch when a feeble voice reached him.
"Oh Dan, I thought you would never come! The lamp should have been lit before this!"
"It's me—Frank Bailey—Mrs.
Martin's Frank panted. "Where are the matches? Dan's becalmed out in the 'Widgeon.'"

He felt along the wall as he spoke, and found the light-house key on its usual hook. A moment later, almost exhausted from his run and rowing, he was climbing the steep stone steps, and soon Startmouth Light sent its cheery gleam across the water.

"Not to Dan, straining, rowing, in the effort to get to shore his heavy boots, whose flapping sail seemed to mock his efforts, the sight was as a knife through his heart. Who but his delicate mother could have lighted the lamp? The moisture poured in streams from his body, as, in imagination, he followed her up every separate step, and his breath came in heavy, dry sobs that tore his throat.
Alone there in the night, Dan Martin realized that the shiftless habit of his life, of yielding to what was easiest and pleasantest, regardless of right or wrong, had led to this—that in the hour of responsibility and trust, of which he had been so proud, he was found wanting; and a groan, that was an unspoken prayer, went up through the silence to God.

Frank, sitting with Mrs. Martin, heard the running feet and heavy breathing as Dan drew near, an hour after, and was out on the moonlit path in a moment.
"It's all right, Dan! I lighted her up for you!" he called, cheerily.
"You!" Dan Martin leaned panting against the house. His face worked as he drew his coat sleeve across his forehead.
"—he began, and stopped, choking.

The people who thought that this boy could shed tears would have found out their mistake in that moment. With the baptism of a new manliness glistening in his eyes, he stepped forward, and the hands of both lads met in a grip that was the beginning of a lifelong friendship.
Then Frank sped away for the boat that had brought him.
"Glad to have done it for you, Dan, even if I am a 'short lobster'!" he called back, gayly. And, in his gladness of heart, he actually laughed at the once hated nickname.—By MARY L. CUMMINS in Young People's Weekly.

Its object was to reach the thousands of fishermen connected with the fishing fleets in the North Sea. These fleets are permanently at sea, summer and winter. Exposed to terrible accidents, cut off from all the blessings of the land, thousands of men and boys lived with no effort made to help them, until this Mission commenced its operations.
It commenced its work by sending out one small fishing vessel to labor among the fishermen.
To-day, the Mission fleet consists of eleven fine vessels. Four of these are hospital ships, with a properly qualified staff of medical men. These ships are the churches, temperance halls, club rooms, and floating hospitals of the North Sea. Beds at the London Hospital are also secured for special cases sent home from sea, while branches are at work among the Scotch, Irish, Maux, and Dutch fishermen.

The results are evident to-day in the improved fishing vessels; the improved regulations of the Board of Trade for preventing loss of life in the prosecution of the calling; improved assurance schemes for the benefit of widows and children of men lost at sea, the number of which averages 300 able-bodied men each year; the abolition by international law of the grog vessels, so well named the "Pirates of the North Sea," from the rates they continually entailed to the bodies and souls of fishermen; the closing from want of custom of numbers of low-class saloons along the quaysides, where crimps formerly snatched from the toiler of the sea his hard won earnings; and thus the better housing, clothing, and feeding of the wives and children, until the chief magistrates of the seaports have repeatedly testified to the improvement in the whole of the fishermen's quarters of the towns.

A social revolution has, in fact, been quietly accomplished. Ignorance, prejudice, lawlessness, irreligion and cruelty have given place to the peaceable fruits of the Gospel of Christ, and now from the little cabins of hundreds of fishing vessels (thousands of vessels are regularly engaged in the fishing), where oaths and coarse jests were once heard, daily hymns of praise and earnest prayers ascend from hearts second to none in their simple loyalty to HIM, who, when Himself on earth, loved the company of fishermen so well.

CANADIAN BRANCH
In 1891 the needs of the Labrador fisherman came before the council of the Mission, and one of their number voluntarily visited Newfoundland to gather information, with the result that in the summer of 1892 the Mission Hospital vessel, Albert, sailed to Labrador under the charge of Dr.

Greenfield. The report of the Chamber of Commerce of Newfoundland of that year thus alludes to the event:
"A new feature worthy of mention in this report, affecting as it does, more or less, the comfort of 20,000 to 30,000 of our people, was the appearance on the Labrador coast of the Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen's ship Albert, outfitted by a philanthropic society in England, non-sectarian in its lines, and intended to afford skilled medical aid, and to provide to some extent for the mental and material wants of fishermen. This essay has been an unqualified success, and has evoked from the recipients of its bounty expressions of deep gratitude, while at the same time it has engendered in the hearts of all who are interested in the welfare and prosperity of the colony, feelings that must strengthen the bonds which bind this comparatively neglected dependency to the Mother Country." The report of the first year showed that 300 patients were treated, while manifest blessing rested on the simple gospel services held on sea and land.

The following year, 1893, two small hospitals were erected, 200 miles apart—one at the entrance to the Straits of Belle Isle, at Battle Harbor, the other at Indian Harbor, on an island in the mouth of Hamilton Inlet.
These sites were chosen as being the centres for the fishing industry.
Drs. Curwen and Bobard, with two trained Christian nurses, joined the staff, and took charge of these hospitals, while Dr. Greenfield visited all along the coast in a new steam launch, which was added to the Mission fleet and called by special permission.

Consumption
There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Mil-health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They

The Elections.

The federal elections on Thursday resulted in a sweeping victory for the Liberal party. In this province every county returns a supporter of the government, the leader of the opposition being defeated among the rest by a substantial majority. Kings County has returned Sir Frederick Borden by over two hundred majority, and other counties in the province gave correspondingly large votes for the Liberals. In the new parliament it looks as though the government would have a majority of about seventy-five members, although the complete returns are not yet in.

The results may be summarized as follows:

	Libs.	Cons.
Nova Scotia	18	0
New Brunswick	8	5
P. E. Island	3	3
Quebec	54	11
Ontario	40	46
Manitoba	5	4
N. W. Territories	8	2
British Columbia	7	0

The returns to hand for the county are as follows:

The election of Hon. Geo. E. Foster in North Toronto, returns to parliament a man whom every well wisher of the country will rejoice to see again in the house.

Town Council Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Council was held on Wednesday evening, with the Mayor, Coss, Tingley, Fitch, Duncanson and Wallace present.

The chairman of the Streets Committee presented a verbal report of routine work done during the month. The Mayor called attention to certain complaints made by him of needed repairs on Highland avenue and Pleasant street, and requested the committee to attend to same.

Written reports were presented by the Poor and Sewerage Committees. The Mayor stated, on behalf of the chairman of the Police and License Committees, that during the week one license fee of fifty dollars had been collected from business in the town.

The committee on public sales reported, recommending that a site for a school be selected on the north-west corner of Highland avenue and Main street. The Mayor stated the cost of schools as $62 landed in Wolfville, and probably $25 would cover expense of installation. A communication was read from the secretary of the Law and Order League, enclosing resolutions passed at the last meeting of the League asking the attention of the Council to the need of more efficient police of the town, and that action be taken to provide efficient police service for Thursday evening.

The League also called attention of Council to the apparent prevalence of incendiary fires in the town, and asking that a proper investigation be held.

Rev. A. Coburn, on behalf of the League, addressed the Council in support of the resolutions.

Mr. J. D. Chambers, who with quite a number of the other members of the League were present, also addressed the Council, along the same line, as did other members.

A resolution was passed authorizing the Police Committee to engage as many extra policemen as is necessary to maintain good order in town during Thursday evening.

Resolved that the Council authorize the Police Committee to engage an extra policeman to assist in keeping order in the town for such time as they deem necessary.

The following resolution was passed: Whereas fire has occurred in certain buildings in town from time to time, and in the opinion of some of the citizens these fires have been of incendiary origin; therefore

Resolved, that a reward of $20.00 be offered to any one who will give evidence that will lead to the conviction of any of the guilty parties, if such there be. The same reward to apply to any fire that may occur in the future from incendiary origin.

The following accounts were read and ordered to be paid:

Miss Jones	$10.00
Acadia Electric Light Co.	12.12
Town Clerk (posting)	2.02
James Anderson	2.50
Joe Starr	15.00
Geo. Wood	12.75
J. A. Park	11.25
Hampshire	8.75

Executions and Elections.

Up to a quite recent period there was a general impression abroad in the county that the Municipal elections of this month would result in the return without opposition of the greater number of the members of the last council. Within the last few days however, an organized movement has been made to effect a change in the personnel of the council, and to that end, nominations have been made in a number of the wards in opposition to the retiring councillors. To this action, viewed by itself, no one has a right to object. There are whippers however, of a purpose which should be known to the electors before they poll their votes.

Since the recent execution in Kentville a demand has been continuously made for an investigation into the disorderly conduct said to have taken place on that occasion. It was felt that, if the charges were true, the blot on the fair fame of our county might be in part removed by the exposure and punishment of the guilty parties. If not true, an investigation would relieve the county, as well as the persons charged with the disorderly conduct, from the stigma resting upon them.

The persons whose official duty it would seem to be to initiate proceedings for such an investigation seemed strangely unwilling to take action. Recently it began to be whispered that when the accounts against the municipality for services in connection with that execution came before the council in January, an investigation would be demanded by that council before those accounts were passed. This report was immediately followed by the announcement that strenuous opposition would be made to the return of some of our most active of the former councillors, and the nominations of Tuesday confirm the announcement.

If the people of the county desire an investigation of the truth of the charge that the death of Robinson was more like a yanking than an execution, they should demand from the candidates for the councilship a pledge that, if elected, they will see that, so far as the council has power, such investigation will be had.—Register.

Obituary.

EDISON PURLEY FLETCHER, B. A. The death of Edison Purley Fletcher a former graduate of Acadia and at one time well known in Wolfville, occurred at his home in Debert on Oct. 16th, in his 43rd year.

When eleven years old he entered the Halifax School for the Blind, and in due time graduated. He then taught music for a few years in Yarmouth, Digby and Lunenburg. After two years at Acadia College in the class of '89, he returned to the School for the Blind, and taught for two years. Resuming his college course he graduated with the class of '91. His superior abilities rendered study a delight and his many and genial qualities as the College men of that day will bear witness. Secured the love of all who knew him. After receiving his B. A. he again returned to the School for the Blind, and for about three years had in charge the literary department. In the meantime he had not neglected his musical studies and now in preparation for a long-cherished purpose he left the School for the Blind and placing himself under the distinguished Prof. MacLean, then teaching in Truro. For a year he gave himself unreservedly to music, practising from seven to ten hours daily.

On New Year's day, 1894, he had married Miss Christie A. McKenzie, of Pictou, who was then residing in Halifax, and at the close of his studies under Prof. MacLean, Mr. Fletcher and his wife removed to Brandon, Man., where he taught music for a living, and did his utmost in the furtherance of his great ambition, the establishment of a School for the Blind in that Province. He gave an object lesson by teaching a blind girl, who when Mr. Fletcher died the cause of the blind before the Cabinet Ministers of Manitoba able to read in the second book, to the astonishment and admiration of the legislators. By untiring efforts he demonstrated the need of a School for the Blind in Manitoba, and removed prejudices and misconceptions in regard to it. But the time was inopportune for government action, owing to the bitter conflict concerning the separate school question. He remained five years in Brandon but in the last year his health gave away and in hope of improvement from a change they went to Victoria, B. C., where Dr. Hall, the specialist, performed an operation for appendicitis. After two years in Victoria, and still suffering from a complication of the diseases, which gave no hope of relief he returned to his old home at Debert. Though he suffered constantly his admirable courage and patience never took him, nor that cheerfulness that made him the ideal companion. In the home of his boyhood, surrounded by kind brothers, cared for by a loving mother, who was so justly proud of her gifted son, ministered to by his devoted wife, the end came. This a career of no ordinary promise was closed at its mid-day.

HERB W. EDWARDS INJURED. Herb W. Edwards, of Dan Meines, got a fall on a log walk at mother of the deceased, lives at St. Martins.

MRS. JOSEPH L. MCKENNA. On Sunday morning last, at her home at Kingston, passed away from earth Mrs. Joseph Lovett McKenna. She had been in failing health for some time but not until the last few days did her nearest friends suspect that her end was so near.

Eunice Selome Felch (for that was her name) was born at Nictaux, Annapolis, February 7th, 1824, and was, therefore, over eighty years of age. She was a granddaughter of the late Major Nathaniel Parker, a United Empire Loyalist. She was married to Joseph Lovett McKenna in 1843. A year ago last June they celebrated their diamond jubilee amid the congratulations of a host of enthusiastic friends. For many years Mr. McKenna has been a deacon of the North Kingston Baptist church, and his hospitable home has ever been a trying place for leaders in denominational life—a rendezvous for kindred spirits in the service of his King. Besides her husband, who is now eighty-three years of age, deceased leaves five sons, fifteen grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Of the five sons, two are abroad. The three at home are: H. W., a graduate of Acadia university, at Parrsboro; Dr. A. J., one of the board of deacons in the Wolfville Baptist church, and E. J., on the old homestead at Kingston.

Mr. Edwards' wife and youngest daughter. "The next day," he says, "they were so sore and stiff I was afraid I would have to stay in bed, but I rubbed them well with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications all soreness had disappeared." For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

On Saturday afternoon Messrs. Munro and Wallace and Professors Haley and Sawyer, of Acadia, drove to Windsor, and about two o'clock began playing gentlemen's singles with four members of the Windsor's Golf Club.—Messrs. Paulin, Raymond Smith, J. C. Geldert and Rev. S. Weston-Jones. The game was a most interesting one and resulted in a score of 7 holes for Windsor. When Mr. Paulin played Mr. Wallace the score was 3 up in favor of the former; Mr. R. Smith vs. Mr. Munro resulted in 4 up for the former; Rev. S. Weston-Jones vs. Prof. Sawyer, score 1 up in favor of the latter and the result of the game between Mr. Geldert and Prof. Haley was 1 up for the latter. When the Wolfville team played a previous game here of gentlemen's singles the result was a draw, but had game been decided by holes the latter would have won. The visitors were entertained at the Y Rooms before returning home. A return match will probably be played in Wolfville this week.—Hants Journal.

Croup Absolutely Cured. There is no remedy in my opinion that cures more promptly than Dr. Chamberlain's Croup, Croup, Croup, it cured my son of croup, absolutely, in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cured.—Wm. McCreas, 40 Wright Ave., Toronto, Ont.

This is to make room for a more complete line of Ladies' Furnishings. Great bargains will be given in Suits, Overcoats, Reefers, Pants. Everything must be closed out by the first of January. At an early hour on Tuesday morning the old American House was discovered to be on fire. The firemen promptly responded to the call of the alarm, but before discovered the fire had made good progress and all that remained of the building was consumed very soon. The firemen did good work in saving the outbuildings, and preventing the spread of the fire. The building was a worthless old hulk and had long been an eyesore to all Wolfville people.

THE ACADIAN noted a few weeks ago that Mr. W. W. Robson was making some alterations in his building on Main street. These have now been completed. An addition has been built on the west end of the building, affording a neat and convenient entrance and tasty show window. Quite a commodious hallway is provided, with a well-arranged stairway leading to the studio. This has been considerably enlarged, and newly painted and carpeted, and presents a fine appearance. The waiting room has a large extra window, and an increased accommodation. A well equipped ladies' dressing room has been provided, which will no doubt be much appreciated by Mr. Robson's many patrons among the fair sex. Taken together the studio is a decided credit to the town. We have no doubt but that an increased patronage will result from the enterprise of the proprietor.

The marriage of Mr George T. Bendeler, chief of THE ACADIAN'S mechanical department, and Miss H. Patrick, of Everett, Mass., took place at the home of the former in Windsor, on Thursday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Mosher, in the presence of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The happy young couple arrived in Wolfville by the evening train, and will take up their home for the present at the Royal. During his residence in Wolfville Mr Bendeler has made many friends, who wish him and his fair bride much happiness and prosperity. Many handsome and valuable presents were received by Mrs Bendeler.

The cooperation and out-buildings and dwellings, at Canard, belonging to Mr. J. E. McEwen, were totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday afternoon. The fire originated in the cooperage and spread to the adjoining building. Some of the contents were saved. The dwelling, which has been occupied by a tenant since Mr McGowan removed to his farm, was insured, but the rest of the property was uncovered and the loss is pretty heavy.

THE EXACT THING REQUIRED FOR CONSTIPATION.

"As certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that gripping so common to most purgatives," says R. S. Webster & Co., Ufers, Ontario, Canada. For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

Although Election time draws so near, our little village seems quite undisturbed. Every one interested, of course, knows just how election will turn out. Some of them, unmistakably, will be disappointed. Which ones Nov. 3rd will tell.

The appearance of snow flying in the air again reminds us of the approach of winter, although we look forward to its coming with dread, yet when the grim monster sets in its dead earnest, we enjoy it thoroughly. We will harness up Tom to a one horse sleigh and drive rapidly over the coast.

The friends of Party Davison, of Avonport, are glad to see him again among us. He has been for seven years in Boston, and is at present visiting his aunt, Mrs. J. D. Martin.

On Monday evening, Hallowe'en, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Benjamin were surprised by the arrival of about forty of our young people. A very pleasant evening was spent, enjoyed in various kinds of Hallowe'en amusements. At half past eleven the party broke up. Returning home, they made a very pretty procession, each one carrying a lighted Jack-O-Lantern.

Mrs. Freeman Coldwell returned on Friday, the 22nd, from Mass., U. S., where for the past month, she has been visiting her sisters and many friends.

Great interest is being shown in our Temperance Division at present. It has been enlarged by the addition of several new members.

The paper is now being issued, with Miss Gladys Rockwell as Editor. So far, the paper has been a marked success, and we do not doubt but that it will continue to be.

Miss Clara Martin, who is in attendance at the Truro Normal school, spent last week at her home. While here, she was a bridesmaid in the wedding which took place between her brother, Mr. Renford L. Martin, and Miss Flora L. Benjamin.

On the evening of Nov. 2, a political meeting was held in the hall. The house was packed and Dr Borden and his party were present. The evening proved rather dry, as there was none of the opposition to get up an argument, and the meeting broke up shortly after ten.

Mr Melvin Reid, of Berwick, spent last Sunday with his aunt, Mrs D. D. Reid.

We are all glad to know that Melvin D. Benjamin, who has been laid up for the past month with inflammatory rheumatism, is again able to be out.

U. S. Colonel Cured of Rheumatism

So Crippled He Couldn't Walk - Absolutely Helpless Till He Took The One Sure Cure FERROZONE

RELIEVED AT ONCE CURED PERMANENTLY WELL EVER SINCE
Colonel H. M. Russ of Edwards, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., is one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War. After being permanently cured by Ferrozone, the Colonel wrote: "I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty. Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs. The suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield. When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone. Then came a quick change. Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles. I am well to-day. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago." No matter how long you have suffered Ferrozone will bring you prompt relief. It will increase your strength, renew your vitality, drive out every trace of rheumatic pain. Never known to fail; 50c per box, or 6 for $2.50, at all medicine dealers, or Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

Japs Are Silent Bridge Builders.

Near the camp of the correspondents I watched the pioneer company erect a bridge some two hundred and fifty feet long and seven feet above the water at the center. There was no apparent hurry or bustle, no shouting of orders, no wrangling, no noise. The battalions worked like a silent, well-oiled machine, and it took just four days from the time the men entered the sacred pine forest of deceased Chinese ancestors and began to fell the trees until the last plank was laid, and the guard rails placed and the bridge ready for traffic. The largest timber used was about eight inches in diameter. Axes played a very little part, and broad one-man Chinese saws and a linked or sectional folding crosscut saw took their places. The two-man folding saw is particularly interesting, consisting as it does, of sixteen lengths of thin spring steel, half an inch wide, linked or riveted, end to end. The saw-teeth are some size and set as in the ordinary crosscut saw. By girdling a tree with this saw and grasping a handle in each hand, one can easily cut down a tree, but usually it is used by two men. In one day all the piles, cross timbers and brace pieces are cut in the forest.

A Pleasant Occasion.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. extended an invitation to the Canning Union to meet them at a parlor meeting at the home of Mrs L. W. Sleep, on October 20th. The Canning ladies were unable to be present but a number of friends in the town joined the W. C. T. U. ladies and spent a pleasant evening. A dainty supper was served soon after six o'clock after which a programme was given. A hymn was sung and was followed by prayer by Mrs Geo. Fitch. The object of the meeting was then referred to by the president, 'The Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen.' Mrs Hammon then gave a resume of the mission and the President read letters from grateful sailors for the help they had received from the Canadian branch of the mission. Mrs Little and Miss Sleep followed with a piano duet, which was much enjoyed. Mrs DeWitt then tried to interest the ladies in making warm clothing to send to these poor fisher-folk, a box to be sent them in April. The evening was pleasantly and profitably spent. Two ladies present signified their desire to become members. The meeting closed with singing.

You May Have Kidney Trouble.

If your back aches and you suffer from dragging pains it is an evidence of diseased kidneys. Get Ferrozone at once and take it regularly. Ferrozone makes kidney sufferers feel better at once. I was bothered a great deal with my kidneys last year writes F. G. Denton of Everett but got quick relief from Ferrozone. My trouble manifested itself by pain in back, dull heavy feeling and constant headache. I quite recovered after using a few boxes of Ferrozone which has given me more strength and better health than I ever had before. I can recommend Ferrozone as a positive cure. Price 50c. at all druggists.

The letter of Miss Merkle, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well. My heartfelt thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me.—Sincerely yours, Miss MARGARET MERKLEY, 37 1/2 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$1000 reward if signed copy above letter proving genuineness cannot be obtained."

"In addition to the spiritual and medical work, much other work had to be done. Among many families the poverty was so great that they were forced to face the inclemencies of a long Arctic winter in miserable hovels, both naked and hungry. Owing to the precarious nature of their sole source of revenue, to the wretched 'truck system' which everywhere prevails, to the isolated condition of the people with the consequent high price of goods, and to the relentless barrenness of the soil, most pitious cases of absolute destitution were continually being met with.

To cope with this terrible state of things Christian friends, interested in the work, have, each year, collected bales of warm clothing, and these have been distributed by the nurses and doctors. To avoid encouraging a pauper spirit, work at cutting wood for the langes and hospitals has, wherever possible, been exacted in return for clothing. In this and other ways, many who, at this moment, would otherwise be suffering cold and hunger, if not facing absolute starvation, have been enabled to help themselves, and are clothed and warm. Beyond this, also, healthy literature has each year, been distributed broadcast along the coast, while the nucleus of a lending library has been formed at each hospital. Thus, in no small degree, have the cheerless lives of our brethren 'who do business in great waters' been cheered and brightened.

THE ROYAL NATIONAL MISSION TO DEEP SEA PEOPLE:
In 1894, through the generosity of Sir Donald A. Smith, who had spent many years of his early life in the Hudson Bay Company's service in Labrador, a small steamer, the Sir Donald, was presented to the Canadian Branch, while Dr T. G. Roddick, of Montreal, and formerly of Newfoundland, presented a sailing boat, the 'Grelia McKinnon,' for the use of Battle Harbor hospital.

It was now decided for the first time to keep one hospital open all winter, and Dr Willway was left in charge of it. From that day to this the doors of Battle Harbor hospital have never been closed.

In 1895 a new department was made by leaving one of the nurses also at the hospital all winter, while the doctor, Dr F. Robinson, travelled up and down the coast. In this way he visited all the stations from Blanc Sablon to Nakvak Inlet, near Cape Chidley, covering with his komatic and dogs some 2,000 miles during the winter.

"In addition to the spiritual and medical work, much other work had to be done. Among many families the poverty was so great that they were forced to face the inclemencies of a long Arctic winter in miserable hovels, both naked and hungry. THE COUGH IS THE EVIDENCE THAT the lungs are irritated and inflamed and need the influence of some soothing, healing, curative medicine, such as a medicine that not only heals and soothes the bronchial tubes and lungs, but also effectually clears the air passages by its power to loosen and throw off the sticky mucous secretion called phlegm. Devoid of opiates and injurious substances, it is the ideal treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, and all ailments of the throat and lungs.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limeseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.
