Your money back if Purity Flour does not prove entirely satisfactory in the baking.

DON'T simply buy flour from the dollar and cent side of it. Buy high-quality flour. That means PURITY FLOUR. The first little extra cost is more than made up by the extra number of loaves of bread it makes—by the superiority of the bread and pastry in sweetness of flavor and nourishing qualities. Buying Purity Flour is a safe investment. You get large returns, not only on account of Purity's ability to produce more, but because Purity contains the greater nutriment and the rim of a strong hard wheat flour. Food made from Purity Flour gives the consumer health, snap and force, which cannot be gained from the use of the weaker soft wheat flour.

"MORE BREAD AND BETTER BREAD" PURITY FLOUR

You can buy as little as a 7 pound cotton bag or in 14, 24, 49, and 98 pound sacks. Also in barrels and half-barrels.

Purity may cost a little more than some flours but you'll find its difference worth the difference. To be sure must bear the trade mark.

Sunshine After the Storm.

CHAPTER III.

Every Fate Has Its Hour.

MRS. Shepherd was not deceived by this pretended interest in Uncle Madison; and Ambrosia knew she was not deceived. But the wonderful thing in this tacit understanding between women is that such bits of deception are universally accepted and, if necessary, defended. Both women were well aware that Ambrosia wished to discuss Dr. Carter; but both tacitly agreed that the discussion should be called 'Uncle Madison and an Ocean Voyage.'

Ambrosia dressed herself with as much care as if she were going to a matinee. Doctors went into all parts of the city; besides, she intended to return by Broadway; and the possibilities and probabilities of Broadway are beyond even a woman's divination. It was also a lovely morning, and the sunshine tempted her to put on her newest spring costume. Amber never reasoned away such enticements: 'What are really nice temptations for you if you do not give way to them?' she asked herself, softly, as she smoothed down the perfectly fit-

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—'For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends.'—Mrs. W. S. FORD, 1838 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that leaving-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, and for all other ailments that are peculiar to women.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has aided thousands to health, free of charge.

'But it must be uncomfortable. Take it off. Here is a nice wrapper. We are going to have something to eat, a long talk. Where! I know how delicious is that long sigh when the last button is loosed. Take off your boots, too, Amber. They are lovely, but I fear say they pinch; mine always do.'

'They are a little tight.'

'Then take them off, and make your feet happy also.'

As Ambrosia leisurely obeyed these directions, Bessie struck a small hand-bell, and a girl answered it.

'Daly' she said, 'we will have lunch here; some chicken salad and two sherbets and chocolate. Be sure to whip the cream; and, Daly, some fresh strawberries and plenty of cream for the berries.' Then, turning to Ambrosia, who had slipped into a large soft chair: 'Isn't it nice to be natural? No wonder the Greek women were graceful and elegant. Theo did not have to wear corsets.'

'I wonder if they ever grow stout?'

'Of course not. The idea is an impossible one. They would never think of such a thing. But I have heard of course, I do not credit it—but I have heard. Really, that Miss Long view sleeps in her corsets.'

'Who told you, Bessie?'

'Lemarque told me. She said: "There is some pleasure in making dresses for Miss Longview. She is so anxious to do her customer justice that she sleeps in her corsets. As for Miss Madison!" Then she sighed and gave me one of her hatefulest shrugs. "Are you having many new dresses made?"'

'No. I expect to go to France with the Martynes, and of course—'

'O course!' with an understanding nod. 'But I never dreamed of your going abroad with the Martynes. Why do you not send me word?'

'It was only decided last night. I wrote once, you know, father, dear father, so opposed to me going to Europe without him. I believe he has an idea that Frenchmen and Germans and Austrians and especially English men go about like roaring lions seeking American girls to devour. At first father said he would go, and then he could not go; so I am to be attached to Mrs. Martyne's party.'

'Well, she knows the world—that is, the best society on the planet. I suppose Ella Martyne will be your companion.'

'Yes, she is going.'

'Do you like Ella?'

'She is a nice girl, if she would not sing such fine music; but when she tries the "Jewel Song" or "Casta Diva" I just shiver. I can't help it.'

'They are not easy things to sing. Then why should Ella try to sing them? It would be so very easy no to. Still, I like Ella; and she is so clever. Did you know that she has published her poems?'

'I did not know that she had written any poems.'

'Quite a bookful. Her mother is very proud of them, though she says: "Nonsense! Nonsense! Only the overflow of little Ella's heart. The child is very emotional!'"

'Where can I get a copy?'

'At Brentano's, of course. They are published cheaply at a dollar and sweetly at two dollars—white and gold and vignettes and so on.'

'Have you a copy?'

'No, I did not buy one. I thought Ella would be sure to give me one. It does not seem like wasting money to buy books, unless it be a very nice one.'

'You are thinking of the dog in the fable, Bessie. He supposed that man had been invented to take care of dogs. It is a very common way to look at life. Lemarque thinks you and I and sundry others were invented for her to dress. Greasers think of humanity as stomachs to be filled. Teachers, as pupils to be informed. Managers, as fools to be amused. So perhaps, doctors do regard us all as patients to be cured. Sometimes, however, a doctor may think of a probable patient as a probable wife.'

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I want to talk to-day, firstly, to my young friends, and secondly, to anyone else who cares to listen, about a very interesting slang.

In the first place, I want to safeguard myself against the local person who insists that I live up to what I preach, by admitting that I always do and always shall use some slang.

You see I don't think there is any harm in a little picturesque slang. As a spice, it's all right. It's when you come to putting it into the cake in the same quantities as you do the sugar and flour that the harm is done.

But the especial indictment that I want to bring against slang to-day is this—that with many of us it is a sort of crutch which used too often results in atrophying the muscles of the limbo whose place it takes.

I suspect that isn't so clear as it might be.

Let me illustrate with an example. I have a young girl friend who has recently become deeply attached to the slang expression "Good night!" with the accent on the "good."

This expression I will explain for the benefit of those who have not yet met it—it seems to be nearly equivalent to a sring of the shoulders. It means something like "Oh, very well!"

Now the young person in question is a very bright young person. She has a good command of English and usually expresses herself well. But when she gets hold of an expression like this she uses it on all occasions and forces it to explain what she ought to put into her own words. In this way you see, she weakens her vocabulary and her command of English.

In the same way "Some class to that!" "What do you know about that?" and all the similar expressions that have had their day and ceased to be have the same effect of atrophying natural powers of expression.

Slang is the lazy man's language. It is the speech of one who is so indolent that he prefers to use someone else's long coined expression to new mintage his own.

In itself slang isn't so bad. (With the exception, of course, of vulgar slang.) Some slang expressions are very bright and amusing when you first hear them. It is the mental laziness which they encourage which is so objectionable.

If you think this is all far-fetched, nonsense please try an expression to me.

The next time you open your mouth to say your favorite slang expression, close it and make yourself explain the thought or feeling you were about to make to cover, in your own language.

If you find this the least bit difficult you can't say that my thesis is all far-fetched nonsense, can you?

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and cleans healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Peppermint Cure is. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Fads and Fashions.

For evening frocks select satin, chiffon, beaded net, lace, velvet. Trim with bead bandings, lace, hand embroidery, fur, ribbon, bead fringe, etc.

The empire skirt, with its almost straight waist seams and its extra broad peasant waist, is the foundation stone for almost all indoor gowns.

The raglan sleeve predominates in the evening coat, the kimono sleeve is next in favor and after that the orthodox coat sleeve of generous size.

Effective trimmings figure on nearly all fashionable sleeves, gimp, galon, velvet and embroideries or gold lace. Russian colorings being greatly in favor.

In the more elegant varieties of buttons are many with jewel effects. Mosaic and enamel patterns, engraved and studded, and a host of carved designs.

It is a color year as well as a black year, and royal blue, peacock green, mauve, violet, myrtle green and old leather brown are still fashionable tones.

In opera bags some very pretty ones are of tarnished gold or silver, crocheted in Irish lace style, and made up over colored silk to match the costume.

Bands that hold in fullness are disappearing from the bottoms of skirts, and bandless skirts are not in the newest expression, fitted in toward the ankles from the hip down.

For evening coats seal plush and other fur fabrics are in great demand, and they are also used as linings for coats of chiflon, satin, lace, etc., according to information from Paris.

Wide braids are used in perpendicular bands and panels and in circular rows on skirts and in fancy sections here and there on both coat and skirts and for cuffs and collar on coats.

We have now some Empire gowns many Directorate, some inspired by the garb of the Garde Francaise, some Byzantine and Russian colorings, and there is a touch of Oriental in most.

Paris has a sensation in the launching of the trouser skirt, a daring idea, but not so daring in appearance as it is reported to rather closely resemble the well-known divided riding skirt.

Many buttons, braided covered, covered with bits of embroidery, fur, tapstry, Persian fabrics, satin and silk are used in connection with braids, of which buckles and slides are also made.

Metal tunic draperies at the back flexible and glittering, are a marked feature in dressy gowns, falling from between the shoulders. Gausse and small metal discs on this fabric give much style to a gown.

Pleats are being introduced sparingly here and there in some of the new skirts, but the methods employed keep the skirt closely fitted to the knee, and the straight cut of the sections prevents the flare at the foot.

The long coat is seen for general day or travelling use in heavy tweeds and fancy coatings, raine, cheviot and similar goods, either plain or fancy. General style points to narrow effects, straight lines, deep collars.

Vests vary from light tints in the middle to the darkest brown at the edges.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as if I were retching when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden. Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at—

Dangers of Blood-Poisoning.

The best and simplest way of insuring against blood-poisoning is to apply Zam-Buk to a cut, burn, cold-sore or any other wound or diseased part as soon as sustained.

Of all the myriad forms of germs which set up blood-poisoning not one has yet been found that can live in Zam-Buk. A thin layer of Zam-Buk over a wound or sore acts in two ways. It prevents all harm coming into the wound or sore from the top side. On the underside it stimulates the cells to renewed activity, provides just the healing, tissue-building material needed by causing the blood to deposit this more rapidly, and thus brings about rapid healing. Apply it to that cold-sore, those chapped hands, that frost bite or that eczema. Sold at 50c box, all stores or druggists, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price.

Change Island Notes.

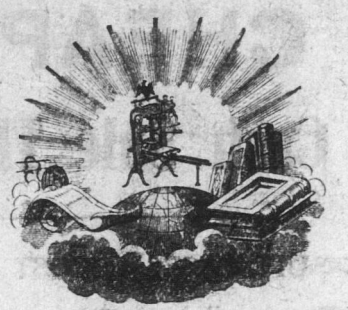

The annual entertainment and distribution of prizes and diplomas of the pupils of the High School was held in the S. U. F. Hall, on Monday evening, January 2nd. The Hall was nicely decorated for the occasion and a very large audience was present. The programme was a most delightful one and each item was loudly applauded.

The following prizes were presented by Mrs. N. S. Stacey:—A beautifully bound volume of Scott's poems to Ida Parsons as a reward for leading the Intermediate Grade in the School. She had taken a place in the honours division in June, winning the $4 prize for top place in school management and gaining several other distinctions. John Scammell, who came second was given a book of Burns' poems. Gertrude Oake also received a book of Longfellow's poems for third place. Lizzie Earle, who headed the list in the Preliminary Grade, won a gold medal. Ida Oake, a very close second, received a silver medal. Arthur Earle won a silver medal for leading the candidates of the school in the Primary Grade. Gertrude Oake, Walter Scammell, Ida Oake and Lizzie Earle won prizes for good conduct. A prize for regular attendance was presented to Mina Earle. A number of good books was presented to other pupils of both departments. In the lower department the conduct prize was won by Winnie Porter.

The medals were given by Miss Earle, a former pupil of the school. Prizes were also given by Rev. N. S. and Mrs. Facey, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Garle and Mr. George Elliott.

The Chairman, Rev. N. S. Facey, in his remarks, spoke of the help and encouragement which should be given to the children by their parents in their studies. Mr. Earle also addressed the audience. The principal, Mrs. Facey, and her assistants, Miss Reeves and Miss Oakes, are to be congratulated on the splendid performance of the pupils.

The EVENING TELEGRAM.

THE advertiser who puts his Advt. in the EVENING TELEGRAM never complains of results. It is read and believed by the people who buy goods. That is one reason why the TELEGRAM'S advertising columns Carry More Advertising Than Any Other Newspaper in Newfoundland.

That fact "speaks for itself," and it is not our intention just now to emphasize it further. What we want to do is to bring home to the business men (if there are any who have not availed of our columns in the past) the advantage to be gained through a liberal use of the TELEGRAM, in bringing before the people what they want the public—the great buying public—most to know:

- 1st. It has the largest circulation, and
- 2nd. Consequently it is the most widely-read newspaper in Newfoundland;
- 3rd. Naturally, then, it must be THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM in Newfoundland;
- 4th. Therefore, the advertiser has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by availing of the services of the EVENING TELEGRAM during 1911.

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor. . . W. F. LLOYD, Editor.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Jan. 10, 1911.

Nothing for Nothing.

We are glad to learn that the answer of the Government yesterday afternoon was in accordance with our editorial. The Government declined to accede to the request of Capt. Corkum to permit him to export herring from non-treaty waters to America. The Daily News says this morning: "To the request of Capt. Corkum for permission to take herring in non-treaty waters, only one answer is possible, and that answer was, we understand, very promptly given yesterday afternoon by the Government. When Newfoundland fishery products are assured free entry into the United States, it will be time enough for the American fishermen to be given free entry to the Newfoundland fishing grounds. The genial captain may know how to play a game of bluff—but there are others."

And so said we yesterday. Last Thursday in Boston Premier Morris set forth the hostility of the Gloucester fishing interests to Newfoundland in these words, according to "the Boston Herald": "In the course of time, United States fishermen have come to desire more extensive rights than were granted to them by the treaty of 1818. Newfoundland conceded these for many years, and meanwhile proposed reciprocity arrangements. The United States Government, both through Mr. Blaine and Mr. Hay, signed the Newfoundland treaties, but they were thrown out by the Senate, the Gloucester fishing interests having had sufficient influence at Washington to effect this result." It is very clear that Newfoundland is still ready to give concession for concession but is unwilling to give something for nothing.

Capt. Corkum's Visit.

This morning we were favored with a visit from Capt. Corkum, an American citizen, who came to request the Government that officials on the non-treaty coast should not interfere with him in exporting herring he might purchase as a commercial man in parts of the island where treaty rights do not prevail. He takes exception to our characterization of his request as colossal gall, and is not pleased that the Daily News should make a reference to his ability in the game of bluff. Capt. Corkum is a pleasant, mild-mannered man, with a strong vein of determination. He declines to believe that the Newfoundland Government can or will interfere with him as an American citizen. In pursuing this commercial intercourse, he says he purchased herring in Fortune Bay last year and exported them, and he does not see why he should not do so this year in Green Bay or Placentia Bay. He declares, in spite of the failure of his mission, he intends to do so. We intimated to him that we were prepared to object to his doing so, and he declared he would let us know when he did so. We also tried to point out that Newfoundland would hinder him and his countrymen, so long as they slammed the American door in the face of Newfoundland by prohibitive duties. If America will open the door to Newfoundland, Newfoundland is prepared to reciprocate. The Premier is at present offering them the glad hand in return for a like welcome.

America must remember that this party is a national one now, and not a party issue.

Grand Entertainment at Catalina.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Would you please allow me space in your valuable paper for the following item, regarding an entertainment here, and for so doing, please accept my many thanks and kindly oblige yours, etc., X

The opening of the New Year of 1911, was hailed with pleasure by the people of this locality, when on the 2nd inst., about two hundred of its members assembled in the R. C. Hall, and a beautiful entertainment was given there, by the bank-party. At 7 p.m. the young ladies assembled with their baskets, and at twelve, each basket was disposed of separately, and brought an overvalue, till finally the round-sum of seventy dollars was realized within a few hours. This money is in aid, and quite a help to the new hall, and church here. This annual treat is very interesting, whatever, as each lady is anxiously awaiting, to see the value and purchase of her basket, and also as she will have the pleasure of sharing its contents with the latter. The leading members of this entertainment were, Mr. J. Joy, acting as auctioneer; and Mr. V. Guy, collector of the money, but all did quite a share, and to all much praise is due. One feature was missing, and that was the Rev. Dr. Murphy, P. F., who was absent, bringing action in the matter.

Young St. Bon's Hockey Team.

The present pupils of St. Bonaventure's College held a meeting of their Hockey Team yesterday afternoon, and balloted for an executive to conduct the affairs of this season. Rev. Bro. Culhane, after speaking encouragingly to the boys on their prospects in the hockey arena, conducted the election, which resulted as follows:—
Capt., Master P. Haller, Vice-Capt., Master F. Knight, Secy., Master C. Keneally.

Herring at Fortune Bay

Curling to-day reports herring fairly plentiful in Humber and Middle Arms.
St. Jacques reports that herring are very plentiful there and of large size, and that they are also plentiful at Rencontre, Lally Cove and Corbin. Three big hauls were made at Rencontre, and one each at Lally Cove and Corbin.
Boxey and English Harbor report 3 to 4 hrs. per net. One Canadian vessel is loading at Rencontre.

Newfoundlanders Making Good.

Mr. Wm. Grimes, nephew of Sup. Grimes of the Constabulary, is a young Newfoundlanders who is making good. He has been studying at Mount Allison College the past three years. He is a very clever young man, and on the death of a professor recently, who had the chair of Professor of New Testament Greek, he was advanced to this position, at least for the time being, a testament undoubtedly to his ability. The Nova Scotia papers recently gave him a flattering notice. Norman Guy, also of this country, is a teacher of English at the Academy attached to the College.

Howley, of the legal firm of Howley and Herder, represents them, and Sir Jas. S. Winter, K.C., prosecutes, acting for Crosbie & Co., who are taking action in the matter.

Angela's Kitten.

About a month ago when Mr. B. McGrath moved his family from King's Cove to St. John's, it was found that the pet kitten "Fluffie" had to be left behind. It was given to her uncle there to keep and treat well, but even then Angela, who is 5 years old, shed bitter tears when going on board the s.s. Dundee. The kitten pined and Angela, though she saw all the sights of the grand shops on Water Street and was well treated by Santa Claus, did not spend a happy Xmas. She missed her "Fluffie" and never expected to see it again. What was her surprise and joy when the Prospero arrived last evening to hear the news that "Fluffie" was one of the passengers. The mail officer, Mr. Bishop, having been told of the mutual grief and pining, undertook to bring the kitten from King's Cove, and Angela is happy once more.

Queen Alexandra Has All the Letters of Condolence in Connection With King Edward's Death.

Queen Alexandra has carefully preserved all the letters of condolence Her Majesty received on the death of the King, and these are now numbered among her most treasured possessions. The letters have been divided into categories, those from Royal families and intimate friends, and those from thousands of the late King's subjects not only in England, but in all parts of the Empire, many of them being quite poor people, and from little children. The letters have been carefully bound in plain, dark red calf, with a small crown on the cover. Queen Alexandra specially prizes those letters of sympathy which came from poor people, and though it was obviously impossible for Her Majesty to reply to them all, during the first few months she wrote to several of these correspondents, thanking them for their kind sympathy.

The Latest Move in Wrestling Mix-Up

Chicago, January 5.—A despatch from London, Dec. 30, says: Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world to-night declared he resigned the honor in favor of Yousef Mahmoud and said he would back Mahmoud against Hackenschmidt for $20,000, part of which was posted to-night. The announcement was made by Farmer Burns, from the ring in which Hackenschmidt and Jess Westergard were preparing to wrestle. Burns stated that $1,000 had already been deposited by Gotch and that the remainder would be posted at any time the challenge was accepted. Mahmoud and his manager appeared in the ring and the Bulgarian offered to wrestle Hackenschmidt on the spot for nothing or for any amount. Hackenschmidt worked an hour in an attempt to throw Westergard twice, but failed to secure one fall, the Dane being awarded the match. It is generally believed that the announcement referred to is only another move in the game which will finally end in Gotch returning to the mat.

His audience was composed of leading bankers and business men of Montreal, as well as Senators and Members of Parliament who cheered his sentiment to the echo.

Shipwreck Relief.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Will you kindly give me space in the columns of your paper to state a few facts concerning Thos. Clark of Bolster's Rock. Mr. Josiah Gosse says the money was of no use to Mr. Clark at that time; the season, as there was nothing there for him to purchase. The Invermores was going north again and he could have got down what he wanted. The butter and pork Mr. Clark had for the winter was consumed by the wrecked crew, and it was just as easy for Mr. Gosse to have given Mr. Clark his money or sent him butter and pork as promise to send him two barrels of flour. Mr. Gosse says that he was not always fed with a silver spoon, neither was I. I have been a fisherman for thirty years, and I would like to do to others as I wish to be done unto. I think Mr. Clark should have got his money, as he was not the only one on the Labrador with poor relief. I heard the conversation between Mr. Gosse and Mr. Clark. Mr. Gosse offered to send him two barrels of flour. Mr. Clark said he would rather have the money as he wanted to buy other provisions than flour for the winter. Thanking you for your paper. Mr. Editor.

I remain, yours truly, THEOPHILUS HART, Lady Cove, Random Island, T. B. Jan. 4th, 1911.

Formal Opening of L.S.P.U. Hall.

A large number of the members of the Longshoremen's Protective Union assembled at their newly acquired Hall (the Old Temperance) on Victoria Street, last night, on the occasion of the formal opening of the Hall by Hon. Mr. P. Gibbs.

The building has been thoroughly renovated as to its interior; a new heating and electric lighting system has been installed. There is a suite of recreation rooms on the first floor; on the second floor there is a spacious hall and committee room which will be used for the purposes of meetings and social gatherings.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs delivered an address in which he reviewed the history of the Union. He spoke of the harmony that prevailed now between the employers and the employed. They coming into possession of the building that they were now assembled in was an evidence of the benefits that were to be derived from organization and union. He concluded by wishing the Union increased prosperity the ensuing year.

The following resolutions were then passed after the question of the doctors' medical fees had been discussed:

Whereas the members of the Longshoremen's Protective Union view with alarm the scale of fees adopted by the Medical Society to be paid by persons requiring medical attendance;

And Whereas, owing to the very large powers given the Medical Board by law, whereby the Board is enabled to prevent reputable medical practitioners of other countries from engaging in the practice of medicine in this city, thus vesting in the doctors now practicing here a monopoly, and thereby enabling them to fix a scale of fees which practically precludes the average workman from availing of their services;

Be It Therefore Resolved that the Government be asked when the Legislature is in session, to amend the present medical act so as to prevent a continuance of a monopoly which is highly detrimental to the interests of the members and citizens generally.

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Premier, Sir Edward Morris, Kt.

Religious Profession.

Last Saturday was made memorable by the joyous yet solemn ceremony of religious profession which took place in the Chapel of the Presentation Convent, Cathedral Square.

The privileged ones who entered by the gates of religious profession into the broad fields of active life and made the irrevocable consecration of their lives to God in the sweet seclusion of the cloister were Sister Mary Carmela Finn and Sister Mary Alcega Goff, of Carboneau. The ceremony was conducted by His Grace Archbishop Howley, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Roche, V. G., and Very Rev. W. Finn, P. P., Whitbourne.

At the conclusion the Ecce Inam Bonum was sung by the Convent choir, and made all present realize how good and pleasant a thing it is to dwell together in unity.

We congratulate the young ladies who have taken upon themselves the obligations of the religious life, and we wish them many years to wear worthily the habit of Presentation Nuns, and to labour for the welfare of the children of St. John's.

Trying to Reach a Settlement.

Special Evening Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. The Commissioners representing Canada, Newfoundland and the United States are at work trying to reach a basis of settlement regarding the enforcement of local regulations imposed on all fishermen in Newfoundland waters.

The first Conference to-day lasted about two hours, and was only sufficient to open up the far delayed consideration of the complex subjects covered by the Newfoundland regulations.

Chandler Anderson, councillor for the State Department, who leads the American delegation in the Fisheries Conference, is also one of the United States Commissioners.

It has been found necessary to have alternate hours of meeting, and consequently the second session of the Conference, held in the State Department, lasted until a late hour to-day. It is apparent that a number of sessions will be required to reach an agreement upon the issues pending.

The fact that the people of Newfoundland are reluctant to permit the special board of experts, created under the Hague Award, to fisheries cases to pass upon the legality of the Acts of the Newfoundland Legislature, is however held as a basis for expectation that they are prepared to recognize a very liberal construction of the existing laws concerning the American fishing rights in Canadian waters.

The questions to be settled at the outset is the application of the Fishery Vessels Act of 1906, which imposes on American fishing vessels certain restrictions, in addition to those that were imposed by the Act of 1905. There is also a question of the right of Newfoundlanders to board American vessels and bring them into port under certain conditions.

The Newfoundland law prohibits the shipment of Newfoundlanders as members of crews of American fishing vessels. The prohibition is also extended to Newfoundland waters. It also prohibits Sunday fishing and the use of purse seines. All of these prohibitions are obnoxious to Gloucester fishermen, with possible exception of Sunday law. They are not now in effective operation, having been suspended by the Modus Vivendi reached last year between the British Foreign Office and Ambassador Ridd as a preliminary to the adjustment of the fisheries disputes by the Hague. But the decision of that tribunal has now been rendered. The Modus Vivendi served its purpose, and old fishing regulations would apply in full force unless something is done by the present conference to reach a better understanding.

AUNT POLLY'S REMEDIES ARE MUCH CHEAPER AND MUCH EASIER TO SECURE.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—

Well, my laws, I have been amused lately, reading the accounts of the doctors' doings at St. John's and the letters commenting on the same. It is the people themselves who are to blame for this state of affairs. The people in my opinion are living above their means in many cases, trying to get too many luxuries, not the least among the latter being that of having a doctor's automobile stop at the door, and have a gentleman with gold-rimmed eye glasses, walk in over the door step to see little Tommy, who is complaining of a pain in the stomach. But, my folks alive, when I was a youngster, and later still when I was a young woman, the only doctor we knew was a common dinner plate. The one and only remedy for a pain in the stomach was a plate applied as hot as possible and repeated until the pain could stand the heat no longer and would leave. There was a good old woman in the neighborhood we called Aunt Polly, and when it was a burn or a scald, a cut or a bruise, a death or an arrival to the household, Aunt Polly was always at hand and her charges were so low that she never could afford to even get a dog sleigh in winter, not to speak of an automobile. But to go back to the doctors and their unior rates, Tom says he believes the Government should regulate a scale for them, if they cannot do it themselves. And he says what is very true, there are laws in this and other lands regulating the killing of seals, beavers, musk-rats, lobsters, etc., and he thinks the same power should now step in and protect the poor people who are likely to get under the lash of the doctors. Of course our doctors are all right. Our own doctor, Will, is too humane to do anything in the same way the St. John's medical men do it, and I am afraid he never will be rich if he has to wring it out of the poor; but what would happen if we had doctors who put their rates up here as they did in St. John's? Why, my man says to call a public meeting at once and protest strongly, and if that did not do, then invite new doctors to come and stand by them, so long of course as they were not inclined to overcharge. Let us get back to the old dinner plate and Aunt Polly's remedies. Tom told me the other day he knew a good thing to make men live to great age. I asked him to tell me and going towards the door, and holding it half open he said: "The secret is to let his wife get up every morning, and give him a cup of good tea and some toast in bed." He was going to say more, but he didn't.

Yours etc.

Mr. Grace, Jan. 7, 11. MARY.

Harbor Grace Notes.

W. A. Munn, Esq., of St. John's, was in town yesterday visiting his mother and sister at Braebach. We understand Mr. Munn shortly goes to Montreal on a business trip.

Miss Fraser, of Bay Roberts, is in town, staying at Gordon Lodge.

Mr. James A. Peddie, of Bristol Hope, died there last week after a long illness. He leaves besides a mother and father, a wife and one child to mourn his death. He was only 26 years of age.

The S. S. Mary left for Bell Island yesterday evening with a number of workmen and other passengers.

Misses Flora and Annetta Makinson who had been spending their holidays with their parents at the Goulets, and who took a run to St. John's last week to see friends, returned by Saturday night's train. They visited Victoria Street school, which opens to-day.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Walsh, of Water Street West, last week.

The lads of the C. C. C. are going to have an "At Home" at the Academy Hall on Thursday evening next. It is not necessary to predict a good time, as that is a foregone conclusion.

Miss Flynn, of St. John's, is in town, the guest of Miss Cody.

Miss Grace Trappell, Methodist teacher at Glenwood, who spent the holidays here with her sister, Mrs. Robert S. Munn, leaves by to-morrow's train for the scene of her duties.

Mr. Austin Parsons whom we reported some time ago as being seriously bitten by dogs at Brig Bay, St. Barbe District, is now able to be about again. Mr. Parsons owes his life to the promptness with which H. Constable Sheppard and the owner of the dogs came to the rescue, when he called for help. Eight of the savage beasts were on him at the one time; and there were fifteen different wounds in his back where they attacked him.

Mr. Warren has just finished a beautiful race boat for the Orange Society. Those who have seen her claim her to be all, and a hard boat for the Magpie to beat.

We have lately received a calling down from several people for not reporting one or two semi-private gatherings and functions that have taken place. We would gladly report such, but as we cannot see through the side of a house or hear through stone wall, and being anxious to be accurate in all our remarks, we will have to be pardoned for not reporting things we get by hear-say. We just want to keep up the Telegram's reputation for reliability.

Budget of News

FROM NEWTOWN and VICINITY.

The C. E. W. A. of Pinchard's Island held their annual sale of work on Dec. 21st, and 22nd. In spite of unpropitious weather, the sum of $72 was raised, which will be utilized in resinsing church property.

Wedding bells are often heard ringing of late. Among the very large number of weddings celebrated since last budget, has been that of John Jefferson and Len Norris, two popular citizens of Newtown. At Pinchard's Island on Thursday of last week, Mr. Harold Blackmore and Miss Laura E. Gill were united in the sacrament of holy wedlock. In each case Rev. J. J. Hiscock officiated.

Mr. W. F. Coaker, founder and president of the Fishermen's Association, has visited the vicinity since last report, and has infused fresh life into the movement, organizing new branches, and encouraging existing branches. At Greensend, where previously the movement had met with hostility over seventy members were initiated by Mr. Coaker at one meeting. At Badger's Quay he formed another branch. And he started yet another promising branch at Newtown.

We regret to announce the death at Pinchard's Island on December 28th of William Howell, a venerable citizen, who had been an invalid for many years.

On Xmas Eve at Newtown a mid-night celebration of the Holy Nativity was held by the Rector in St. Luke's Church. A fair congregation occupied the church. The sermon opened with a procession, including the crucifer, bearing the processional cross, the robed choristers, and the celebrant in full Eucharistic vestments. The Rector preached forcibly on the Nativity. Precious to the service, the choir, supplied with torches and lanterns, paraded through the streets of the town, halting at the houses of the sick to sing a Xmas carol.

The new Church of England school at Newtown will be opened for use after the Xmas holidays. The day school is situated on the lower flat of the building, the upper flat being occupied by the Parish Hall. The school consists of two rooms, but only one will be opened at present, owing to pressure of circumstances.

OLD COMMON SENSE

Change Food When You Feel Out of Sorts.

"A great deal depends upon yourself and the kind of food you eat," the wise old doctor said to a man who came to him sick with stomach trouble and sick headache once or twice a week, and who had been taking pills and different medicines for three or four years.

He was induced to stop eating any sort of fried food or meat for breakfast, and was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, leaving off all medicines.

In a few days he began to get better, and now he has entirely recovered and writes that he is in better health than he has been before in twenty years. This man is 58 years old and says he feels "like a new man all the time."

Orphan Boys Remembered.

Last night a number of young men repaired to Mount Cashel Orphanage and gave a delightful concert of popular music and songs. It was very much enjoyed. The pianist was Mr. E. Deveraux, the general Mr. J. H. Dece acting as chairman. A well prepared programme of popular songs and choruses was rendered by Messrs. M. Aylward, T. Keith, J. I. Stacey, A. P. Ryall, M. Donnelly, J. P. Grace, A. Cornick, J. Fox, P. F. Moore, N. Murphy, W. Harris, T. Halley and Rev. Mr. Doer. By request a class of orphan boys sang the Flag of Newfoundland, beautifully harmonized. The rendering was creditable to their musical teacher, Rev. Mr. Egan. At the close the Rev. Mr. Ennis paid a high tribute to the talented performers and their associates for such a feast of music and song, and also for the supply of fruit and sweetmeats. He assured their benefactors that the progress of the children would be offered up to Him who said "Suffer little children to come unto Him for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Bridget Kelly, of Kilbride Road, is missing, and though her friends have been searching for her the past 12 hours they have heard no tidings of her. She came to town yesterday morning, with her horse and carriage to sell her milk. She was last seen at 1 p.m. yesterday on New Gower St. When the police were informed that she was missing two men were sent out on the search. Late in the night they found the horse and carriage at J. B. Ayre's stable on New Gower St., but though they made a careful enquiry at all the resorts of the city where she was accustomed to frequent they could get no tidings of her. She is about 60 years of age, and lives on a farm by herself at Kilbride.

Mr. Dan Kidney met with an accident about a month ago in the Glacie Dockyard in Cleveland, which resulted in his death. It is not known how the accident occurred. He died before his wife reached his bedside at the hospital.

True Story of the Helen Isabel
Related by One of Her Sailors.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Allow me space in your valuable paper to tell a true story about an iron barque, called the Helen Isabel, on a voyage from Balne Johnston's to Pernambuco with a cargo of fish in drums. The captain's name was Olsen, a Swede, one of the most experienced sea captains sailing out of Newfoundland, and the barque was one of the largest. We had 12 men all told, there being seven different nationalities on board. We had a pleasant passage out and discharged our cargo, and then put in ballast for Sydney, Cape Breton. We put on board a cargo of coal and a number of quarters of beef in the long-boat and left for home. Our fore-scuttle had no sliding hatch nor doors; it was all open. All went well until the second night out; about three bells in the morning watch, I was asleep in the lower bunk right under the scuttle on the starboard side when a heavy sea boarded her and I got the contents of it.

My Chest Was Broken in Bits.
I jumped out and was hauling on my boots when the mate roared, "All hands on deck!" "All right," I said, "I am hauling on my boots." He said, "I've got no boots on." "I don't care," I said, "if I cannot get time to put my boots on, I may just as well stop here and go down in her"—twenty or thirty miles from land. I got on deck where they were clawing up the lower foretop-sail. She was over on her beam ends on the port tack and down by one of the upper bunks, got hold of me by the waist, and wanted to know if she was sinking. I said, "Let go, man, you will be drowned here in less than ten minutes." When I looked at him I was more than astonished to find it was the ex-captain and owner that made the twenty-eighth hard voyages coming on the Newfoundland coast. So I came on deck with the blankets and and sometimes I would say, "Whoever that poor man is, he will not be much when they get the topsail sheet clear of her." Every heavy sea that would come on board would rush down the fore-castle. It was nearly one-third full, so I went and cut a small sail that was covering the best draft, and I hung it over the scuttle hatch. A Swede sailor by the name of John Jackson came to help me. "It's no good, Bill," he said, "she is gone." "Well," I said, "I will give her about twenty minutes at this rate, but won't give up

Until She Sinks From Under Me.
I just had the word out when she shipped a sea and washed us away, sail and all, down in the lee fore rigging. I clung on to the shrouds above the steer pole, and the Swede clung on to me; but we lost the sail. We climbed up on the weather side again by the scuttle, and Jackson left me. The captain came along and wanted to know from me what was to be done. I told him to get another sail, and he told me to get one. "Why, man?" I said, "you must be off your head. How can I get one when it takes all hands to get me wet, and with the first sea that comes, I am shoved under and drowned." "Well," I said, "I will go and try blankets." So I went below, and the first thing I knew a man leaped out of one of the upper bunks, got hold of me by the waist, and wanted to know if she was sinking. I said, "Let go, man, you will be drowned here in less than ten minutes." When I looked at him I was more than astonished to find it was the ex-captain and owner that made the twenty-eighth hard voyages coming on the Newfoundland coast. So I came on deck with the blankets and man'ship. "Well," he said, "you are out of your mind." "Well," I said, "that is the very time I am always in it. What did you want down in the fore-castle?" He said, "To keep the sharks from eating my body." He belonged to the West Coast. He was only another adopted son, but not a Newfoundland champion. I was the only

Genuine One in Her.
I went below, picked up my bed and blankets, hung them into my bunk and slept in them ten days. Off and on we got four and a half and five knots out of the vessel under jury masts. Five or six days after we came across a steamboat bound to Halifax. The captain offered to tow us into Halifax for fifteen hundred pounds sterling. Our captain would not accept it. He said it was more than she was worth in her present state. "Well," he said, "captain you will meet another gale before long." All hands came to me and wanted me to force the captain to take us with them, but would say nothing, because I wanted to get to St. John's at all hazards. The name Greenock was on her stern. When the steamboat got to Halifax they telegraphed there instead of St. John's, so they told me when we got on shore, that they gave us up here. I was one day at the wheel from ten to twelve in the forenoon. The last day out, the wind about southeast, we were just going along our course between Petty Harbour and Bay Bulls, and the mate getting the anchor catheaded, the wind veered ahead and the captain roared out, "Hold on that anchor, don't you see the wind is heading her?"

All hands got downhearted, and myself I looked all around, and I bless the Duke of Macaboyach. I said, "Captain, there is a steamboat right under the land." He jumped off the deck and roared out "wear in." "There," I said, and she's waiting for us." We braced up sharp and ran in towards her and she came towards us and hailed us and said that we were seen from the Cape about eight o'clock that morning, and "Mr. Grieve sent me out for ye, but I can't tow ye into St. John's; I will have to take ye into Bay Bulls." The wind was freshening, I did not like that I wanted to get to St. John's. She towed us in towards the land, and after that she altered her course to the northeast for home, and it took all she was worth to drag us around the Cape. We got into St. John's that night. I left her and I was laid up for four weeks. After that I went down town and I met a man by the name of Ashman, that worked on the premises, and he said, "You were capable of it?" "Of what?" He said, "Saving the ship." "Yes," I said, "there was more than me in her." He said, "The mate says you were the Best Man in Newfoundland only for your arm." Three days before I shipped on her, I went to the captain, one of my own countrymen and asked him for a berth. He said "All right, come along." I went with him. When we got to the Queen's gate, close to the Shipping Office, he turned around and said to me, "Where do you belong to?" I told him I belonged to St. John's. "O," he said, "I think I have got all my hands." A lie from the word got I said, "All right captain." I went down to Goodridge's wharf when he was ready to get on. I had a man instead of a cat that did not know how to loose the topsails properly. He loosed the upper ones first. The next day I shipped on the Helen Isabel. I have seen it reported in the Telegram that we should be patronized. Who knows that if I was on the Regulus the same may occur. I often was on the field of battle. I assisted my fellow creature as well as at sea, especially those that were lying wounded on the floor. I gave them my last drop of water from my canteen and did without it myself. I never drove a bayonet into one, like I read in one of my papers, because I was never brutal or cowardly, and then put my foot on the corpse to drag it out. All I want now is justice—bless the mark. There is only two of us on the edge of life with cares and sorrows worn. A leather medal will do me. The honest man though ever so poor is king of men for all that.

At the Synod Hall.

The C. of E. Temperance Society held a lantern lecture in the Synod Building last evening. A large gathering assembled and the lecture given by Rev. Mr. Bell was very instructive. He gave a description of every path. The last heart blessing that she gave to me. The admonitions that all went amiss, And what God ne'er can give—her farewell kiss; The fadless picture as she knelt to pray That she might meet me up above—some day.
"Your mother died to-night," is all it said, As on the throbbing wire the tidings sped From that old, happy home, from which I came, To strive anew for honour and for fame, To toil with will to win a golden store, To lay a solemn supplication at her door, But shattered are the hopes, unnerved the might, By that sad message, "mother died to-night."
O stars that glide through Heaven's unathomed sea, May I not meet her in Alysone? Oh, let me know as oft in childhood's harms, That peace found only nesting in her arms! Gone the grey hair, the eyes that wept in vain, Gone the sad smile I ne'er shall see again, Gone the true heart, the soft, love-laden breast, Gone the one mother to her last long rest.

Mother Died To-Night.

Worst Case Of Eczema

Cure only came when doctors gave up and DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT was used.
Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that had ever come under my notice, and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend her all to no purpose. Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and to my surprise she immediately began to improve and was completely cured of that long standing disease. That was four years ago when we lived at Cornwall, Ont., and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent."
The record of cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment has to its credit have placed it alone as the standard cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease. Do not be satisfied with imitations or substitutes, 60 cents a box at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co. Toronto.

I went to the mate and told him to cut the spars, and he told him to tell the captain; and I said, "You go," and the second mate went and told him and came and gave me an axe. I cut the spars out of her and she came within six or seven more points to the wind, and that saved her bacon. Instead of going down the fore scuttle the water rustled in over the weather bow and over the lee quarter. It took us all that day with a hand pump and buckets to get the water out of the fore-castle. Then we commenced trimming cargo and rigging a jury mast. Then I met the ex-captain, owner and hard voyager, and I said to him, "This is one more of the hard voyages, and what good did you do? If I was like you we would be now on bottom. Very well," I said, "you would have two words longer than my one about sea-
