The Old Marquis

OR,

The Girl of the Cloisters

CHAPTER XXIX.

A NYMPH OF THE WOOD.

"It will be a long drive?" says Edith.

Lord Combermere shrugs his shoulders.

"Not too long. If Mrs. Drayton pleases she can go inside. Very comfortable inside, you know."

"Oh, don't think of me!" says the patient lady. "I shall enjoy it!"

"Then we shall say 'done,'" asks Lord Combermere, smiling.

"Yes, we will come," replies Edith, languidly. "What time?"

"The general will call for you at eleven," says Lord Combermere.

"Horribly early, I'm afraid, but if we are to get back by eight, we must start in time."

"We shall be ready," says Edith, gazing out at the square.

"Thanks. I'm awfully grateful," remarks his lordship. "I had doubts of the success of the thing, but I am confident now. I shall tell the rest of the people I mean to ask that you are coming, and shall meet with very few refusals."

He takes up his cane, and looks around with that expression of innate relief which men assume when they are about to take leave; but Edith Drayton brings him to a pause.

"Nearly everybody is out of town, I suppose?"

"Seeing that you are still in it—" he commences, gallantly, but she interrupts him.

"Have you," she says, turning the rings on her finger, and speaking in the most languid of tones—"have you seen Lord Fane lately?"

"Lord Fane?" he says, thoughtfully.

"No. By the way, I heard—"

Then he stops short, as if he had been on the point of committing himself.

"You heard?" she says, calmly, her dark eyes fixed upon him with languid interest.

Lord Combermere stretches on the left glove with delicate care.

"Oh, mere hearsay," he says, apologetically; "but I heard that he was in Spain."

Her face blanches for a moment, then resumes its ordinary color.

"In Spain! This is not the season in Spain—it is too early!"

"Yes," he says, staring at his boots—"yes, I know; but that is what I heard."

He shuffles—actually shuffles—with his patent-leather-clad feet, and holds out his hand.

"To-morrow, then, at eleven," he says, cheerily. "And don't be nervous. Although the general can't drive, you'll be quite safe. The horses are as quiet as cows."

"What did he mean by Lord Edgar being in Spain?" demands Mrs. Drayton, as soon as the door had closed on their visitor.

"I do not know. You heard him."

"Yes, and saw him. Edith, mark my words—there is something wrong about Lord Fane."

The crimson flushes the girl's face for a moment, then she says, coldly:

"Very likely. At any rate, it is no business of ours, mother."

On the morrow the general arrives in the square with the four-in-hand. It is a nice coach, and the horses look quiet, if not quite as quiet as cows. Lady Debenham is outside, in a pretty autumn costume, which has a touch of the sporting character in its double-capped dust protector. There are one or two other women—all known to Edith—Lord Combermere, and a young marquis who is just fresh from college, and who regards the expedition as an elaborate spree spoiled by the presence of ladies, of whom he is immensely afraid. The two grooms drop down and adjust the ladder, and Lord Combermere gallantly assists Mrs. Drayton to ascend, but not until she has feebly suggested that she should be allowed to travel as an inside passenger.

"Impossible, my dear Mrs. Drayton; full of hampers and wine-boxes, to say nothing of a collection of waterproofs and umbrellas that would set up a second-hand clothes-shop. Claxtone, will you make room? I know you'd like to sit where you could see the horses, Miss Drayton."

The bashful young marquis, smitten dumb and crimson by the apparition of Edith's loveliness, scrambles out of the way, and after some minutes of shuffling they are all "packed," as Lord Combermere calls it; one of the grooms blows a horn, with some difficulty, and they start.

It is a lovely morning; the general doesn't manage the horses so badly when he gets them off the stones; and Edith would enjoy herself but for the haunting care, the demon of unrest and jealousy that forever reigns in her bosom lord.

If he—Lord Edgar is always "he" in her thoughts—were but by her side, and that other girl whom he loves was at the other end of the world, or dead—yes, dead—she, Edith, could be happy.

But as it is, she plays her part; her sweet lips are set in a peaceful smile, her dark eyes flash now on Lord Combermere, and now on the boy marquis, with every sign of pleasant enjoyment, and when she speaks there is no touch in her tuneful voice of the never-ceasing ache which fills her heart.

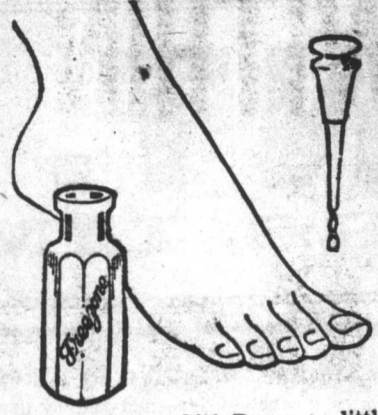

"Going along first-rate, eh, Comby?" says the general, inwardly delighted that he has been able to bring them thus far without a direful accident. "Pretty good pace, too? Do you like going fast, Miss Drayton?" he asks, without turning his head, because he dare not take his eyes off the horses.

"Very much. But isn't this fast enough? What time shall we get to what is the name of the place?"

"Pangley. About half-past two. Al-

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Apply few drops then lift sore, touchy corns off with fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic!

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Frezzone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.

most as fast as the train, don't you know, because the line wanders about so, and we are going nearly as the crow flies. Pretty place, Pangley, eh, Claxtone?"

"Oh, yes, awfully jolly," stammers the lad; then he summons up courage to address Edith for the first time. "Hope you are comfortable, Miss Drayton?"

"Yes, thanks," she says, turning her eyes upon him, so that he wishes he hadn't spoken, so completely has the serene glance overcome him. "I am ashamed to have turned you out of your seat."

"Don't—don't mention it. I like sitting behind the driver; always used to sit there on Fane's coach."

"On whose?" she says, quietly; she can not hear the name without a thrill and tremor.

"On Fane's, young Farintosh, you know. He used to keep a four-in-hand at college. First-rate whip he is too. But he's first-rate all around. Never saw such a fellow to ride: take anything, good or bad, stick on or fall!"

"Claxtone's got on his favorite topic," said Lord Combermere, with a laugh. "He'll talk about young Fane all day, if you'll let him, Miss Drayton." Lord Claxtone blushed, and would have retreated into a silence lasting for the remainder of the drive, but Edith smiled encouragingly at him, and said, softly:

"It is pleasant to hear one friend speak so admiringly of another. Besides, Lord Fane is a friend of mine."

"Is he?" said the lad, delightedly. "I'm glad of that. We used to be great chums at college—at least, he used to be good to me, as an old hand to a freshman. I called upon him yesterday, but he's out of town."

Edith's heart beat fast; perhaps she would now hear where he was.

"Yes," she said, encouragingly. "Come abroad, I suppose?"

Lord Claxtone shook his head.

"I don't know. His man didn't seem to know, either. Neither did Clifford Revel, whom I met and asked. He said he thought Fane was yachting, but wasn't sure. At any rate, he—Lord Fane, I mean—must be in town in a fortnight, because he is entered for the gentleman's race at Badmore."

"Oh!" said Lord Combermere, leaning forward with an interested look. "Going to ride in the steeple-chase, eh? How do you know that, Claxtone?"

"Saw it in the lists a week ago," answered the lad, proud of his knowledge.

"Strange," said Lord Combermere. "I fancied Fane had decided to cut the turf."

"So he had," said the general, without turning his head. "But Clifford Revel persuaded him to enter for this. I heard him at the club. Fane stood out for a time, but gave in eventually—Revel can always persuade him into anything if he sticks to him long enough—and he consented."

Edith listened with the same smile on her face, but a troubled perplexity in her heart. She never saw Clifford Revel, never heard his name mentioned but she experienced a sudden chill of fear. She fancied she saw a motive in everything he said and did; she fancied that nothing he did but had some subtle scheme in it to advance him nearer to his coveted prize. Why should he be so anxious for Lord Edgar to ride in this race? She listened, her face slightly sheltered by the sunshade.

"Hem!" said Lord Combermere, thoughtfully. "I wonder what horse Fane means to ride? I'd back him for a hundred or two if I knew the horse; Claxtone is right, Fane can ride."

"Well, I can tell you," said Lord Claxtone, with a little air of gratified importance. "He's going to ride Assassin—"

"Assassin!" said Edith, flashing her eyes upon him with a faint shudder. "What a fearful name!"

Lord Combermere laughed.

"Isn't it? Fact is, almost all the names are getting used up, and men are at their wits' end for a good name."

"I don't call Assassin overgood!" said Lady Debenham, languidly.

"No, not very pleasant, is it?" assented Lord Combermere; "but, by George, it fits the brute!"

"Why?" asked Edith, sharply, with a little catch in her voice.

"Because he kills anyone who comes within reach of his heels," said Lord Claxtone, decisively.

"Steady, Clax!" laughed Lord Combermere. "He's not so bad as that! He has won the name because he kills all the other horses—that is, outruns them, if he gets a good start."

HARDEST ON THE INCOME CLASS.
The high cost of living bears hardly upon industrial workers, but it bears and fixed incomes are in many cases as low as they used to be before the Legislative Council.

(Yesterday.)
The Council met at 3 o'clock.
An hour was spent by Select Committees on different Bills, after which the Committee Stage of the Bill respecting Newfoundland Notes was taken up. There was some discussion on the Bill, in which Hons. Goodridge, Grieve, Mews, McGrath and Ellis took part, but it passed without amendment.

The Select Committee on the Exportation of Timber Bill submitted their report which was adopted, and the Bill passed with the amendments recommended.

The Committee Stage of the Nfld.
Products Bill was taken up, and evoked considerable discussion. It was more or less of a friendly character and with a desire for information as to the work already done by the Company. The Bill, which is to extend the contract for two years, ultimately passed.

The Election Act Bill was opposed by Hon. Mr. Mews, on the ground that it was interfering with a Statute of long standing, and was introduced merely for political reasons. There was no other opposition offered, and it went through.

The Industrial and Provident Societies Bill was read a second time and passed.

The report of the Select Committee on the Telephone Service Bill was adopted, and it passed with the recommendations offered being incorporated.

The St. George's Coal Fields Bill passed with certain amendments. The Company is given certain rights for a period of five years, a bonus of not to exceed a dollar a ton for the amount of their coal consumed in the Colony for a period of ten years, and in event of the Company failing to operate for a full year, their rights would revert to the Government.

All the business on the Order Paper having been gone through adjournment was taken until 3.30 this afternoon, and it was intimated by the leader of the Government that the House would prorogue at 4 o'clock.

Singular Freak.

One of the strange freaks of nature that are heard of occasionally happened to a lady of Sydney, recently, says the Post. Five years ago she awaked a haddock bone which stuck in her throat, and which she could not dislodge. Recently her husband removed it from her arm. The woman felt a sore sensation in her arm for some time, but could not think what the trouble was.

The Crystal Gazer's Vision

A Romance of a Princess's Mock Burial.

(Pearson's Weekly.)

"I see you," said the soothsayer, as he gazed into his crystal, "standing before the altar in a great cathedral, a tall handsome man by your side; he is a prince, and heir to a great throne. Now the scene changes. I see a churchyard. It is night, and a small knot of people are gathered round an open grave under the flickering light of a torch. The coffin is lowered, and the mourners walk sadly and silently away.

"Again the scene is changed. What I now see is a low, rambling house in the heart of a far-stretched level expanse of country. It is a land far away across the sea. In front of the house I see you walking, holding a little girl by the hand and chatting gaily to a soldierly, middle-aged man who walks by your side."

"Oh, please stop!" at last broke in with a silvery laugh, the closely-veiled young lady, who had listened to these strange prophecies. "It is all too ridiculous, too impossible!"

First Part Comes True.

Well might the Princess Charlotte Louise laugh as, with the companion of her midnight adventure, she made her light-hearted way through the dark Brunswick streets to her father's palace, for there was no maid in Europe before whom life spread more full of golden promise.

She was the idol of her father's Court and people, whose hand had already been vainly sought by many of the greatest of Europe's princes.

A year had passed, and the soothsayer's gloomy predictions had almost ceased to be an amusing memory when to Charlotte Louise came her "Prince Charming," in the guise of the heir to the Russian Crown, a man handsome as a young god, of giant stature, and gifted with rare courtly graces.

And so speedily was his conquest that within a few weeks Charlotte Louise was "standing before the altar in a great cathedral," a radiant and happy bride.

And never did bride seem more assured of happiness. For a few weeks, indeed, she dwelt in paradise, her Prince the most devoted of lovers and slaves. But her dream was fated to an early and cruel awakening.

Scarcely had the honeymoon waned when he began to show himself in his true colours as a man of grossly immoral life and of violent temper, a degenerate with the taint of insanity in his veins.

Thought He'd Kicked Her to Death.

His ardour gave place to coldness, and coldness to cruelty.

Without provocation, he would lock her for days in her bedroom. Three times he tried to poison her, and each failure fanned the flame of his hatred. And the climax came when one day she implored him with tears to stay with her, not to leave her for the company of his low associates. With a torrent of oaths and vile abuse, he knocked her down, kicked her violent-

Telling Time by the Glass

The years now flew by on wings of gold; and when a child came to bless their union her cup of joy and gratitude was full.

Crystal Glass Didn't Lie.

One day, a few years later, when, with her husband and little daughter, she was pacing to and fro before her low, rambling homestead the words of the soothsayer flashed into her mind—"In front by the hand, chatting gaily to an elderly middle-aged man who walks by her side." Thus the third of the prophetic pictures had come true.

Happiness, however, was now not long to be hers. The husband who loved her so devotedly was attacked by an internal disease, which rapidly proved fatal; the daughter, who alone remained for her to love and live for, was soon taken from her; and in her grief and loneliness she decided to return to Europe to spend the remaining years of her life.

She went to one of the poorest quarters of Brussels, surrounded by humble neighbors, poorer even than herself, and spent her days in unostentatious acts of charity and kindness.

But none ever knew that the sweet-faced madame of the quietly carriage was really a princess who might have worn the crown of an empress, and who long years ago had been mourned as dead in the great Courts of Europe.

Lascar Seaman Puzzles Sydney Medicos.

An Indian, a native of Calcutta who for the past two years has been a patient of the Marine hospital is proving a source of great puzzlement to local doctors as well as the officials in charge of the institution.

The man, one of the crew of the transport Clan-Ughart, was left at the Marine hospital in 1918, when she called at this port. His condition much puzzled the physician who examined him before he left his ship and the nature of his malady cannot be ascertained by local doctors who have since examined him. The man is of middle age, and apparently quite healthy. He has an enormous appetite, eating everything that comes his way, yet he cannot move without assistance. The nurses of the hospital wheel him about daily, in a wheel-chair, and, although he cannot give expression to his sentiments, being unable to speak, or write the English language, he appears very happy and contented. The condition of the man has shown slight improvement during his long period of confinement. When first admitted to the institution rice and other food eaten by men of his race was given him as nourishment. Later his daily fare of rice was changed, and the food eaten in this country substituted. The experiment proved a success, his condition improved as a result of the change of diet.

The seaman, according to marine laws, must be held here and supported by the government until such time as his condition improves, enabling his return to India.—Sydney Record.

Hawk No Match for Crows.

Travellers in the Orient have much to say about the Indian crow, a bird that for uncanny knowings and pranks and audacity has perhaps no equal.

Corvus splendens—thus have ornithologists labeled him; but a famous naturalist who knows the breed at first hand has called them "shreds of Satan, cinders from Tartarus." To give these impish creatures their due, however, it should be said that life in India is not a little enlivened by their presence. Here is a characteristic incident in this relation:

A small hawk had seized a little bird and perched on a leafless branch to devour his prey. The spectacle drew two crows to the spot. They hopped and flapped from branch to branch, noisily discussing the strategy of their intended raid.

Then one of them quietly slipped away through the surrounding foliage. At the same time his mate flew in front of the piercing hawk, and hovering steadily within a foot of his beak maintained a bustling meance of snatching the titbit.

That effectively compelled the attention of the hawk. His prey grasped firmly between his feet, he angrily hissed and lunged at the hovering nuisance. So lively was the skirmish that the human onlooker forgot the existence of the second crow. But now that wily bird reappeared some distance in the rear of his destined victim.

With stealthy sidings and short, noiseless flights he drew near. Then he made a swift dash, seized the hawk's long, barred tail by the tip, hung on with his full weight and toppled the luckless hawk in a complete back somersault from the branch. The released titbit was instantly seized by the first crow, and the clever pair bore off their booty with much triumphant cawing.

When Printers Wore Swords.

Straw hats, which will shortly be coming into vogue again, are worn all the year round, winter and summer alike by the salesmen in Smithfield Meat Markets.

This curious custom originated some twenty years ago, when the tall hat was discarded. Up till then no self-respecting salesman was ever seen at his post minus his topper, which in some mysterious way was supposed to counteract the social stigma of his professional white apron.

Until quite recently, too, the silk hat was the recognised working headgear of certain trades—notably, french polishing. And even to-day, in the neighbourhood of Tottenham Court Road, one may still find here and there an ancient polisher who clings to the old tradition.

A quarter of a century back, again, toppers were common wear in printing offices. The old-time compositor never forgot that he was the aristocrat of the labor world, entitled, as he was fond of reminding outsiders, to wear a sword in days gone by.

As he could not very well wear a sword while at work over his "case," he compromised on the topper. Nowadays he mostly wears a cap!

Dried fruit and vegetables should not be soaked in cold water. Wash them in many changes of water and put them on to boil in cold water, placing them on the back of the stove where they will come to a boil slowly.

France Suffered From Huns.

Forty-Five Times Invaded.

One hundred years before Christ 300,000 Germans invaded France, murdering, burning, pillaging as they went. At Aix-en-Provence they were stopped and defeated. They sued for peace and swore they would never do it again. Sixty years afterward 240,000 Germans invaded the Jura districts of France. Six years later 400,000 Germans invaded the territory between the Meuse and the Oise. They were beaten. They swore they would never do it again.

Sixty years before Christ the Germans invaded the left bank of the Rhine. Two hundred and thirty years after Christ the Germans invaded France. They were beaten. They swore they never would do it again; twenty years later, another invasion, another defeat, another solemn pledge "never again." In 274 A. D., the Rhone basin was invaded by the Germans; in 275 northeastern France; in 501 Langres was pillaged. The invaders were beaten and they swore "never again." In 351 they reconquered the left bank of the Rhine; in 354 they devastated Lyons; in 360 Besancon; in 384 they invaded and plundered Belgium.

Here is the chronology of the subsequent invasions: 372, 382, 400, 410, 413, 800, 858, 978, 1124, 1214, 1513, 1521, 1523, 1536, 1544, 1552, 1558, 1567, 1569, 1576, 1587, 1636, 1674, 1675, 1707, 1708, 1744, 1792, 1793, 1814, 1815, 1870, 1914. Thirty-three invasions in a little over fifteen hundred years, an average of one invasion every fifty years.

TOOTON'S, THE KODAK STORE, 320 WATER ST.

Whenever they were successful the Germans celebrated with unspeakable atrocities. Whenever they were beaten they swore they would never do it again.

Le Matin which prints the above statistics, recalls that three days before the outbreak of the world war Herr Haase, the German Socialist leader, solemnly declared that he would oppose war to the death. Three days later Herr Haase voted the war budget.

Four and a half years ago the Germans again invaded France. Again they were beaten. And now we swear they will never do it again. New York Tribune.

NOT SO OFTEN QUOTED.

William Tecumseh Sherman observed once that war was hell. This also of war: "A man may be born into the world and live in an ordinary way of life until he is 50 years old, then he goes through one campaign, or even a single battle, and the stamp of war remains on him to the end of his days." It is worth keeping this in mind before us in our dealing with our boys who have been through this hell of war.—Financial Times.

CHEAPER COAL.

The announcement that it is the intention of the Government to grant a bounty on coal mined in Newfoundland for home consumption, should be an incentive to local coal companies to proceed with the development of their areas as quickly as time and conditions will permit. That the coal exists in the various sections now undergoing preliminary workings, in large quantities has been proven by minute and exhaustive surveys, and the burning and heating properties of the few samples submitted for demonstration leave nothing to be desired.

We have then within our own borders a supply of fuel which if not inexhaustible, is sufficient, at least to cover the consumption for a very considerable period, and the need for encouragement in developing these valuable deposits is both obvious and instant. With such vast quantities as shown by the surveys, at hand, the quality of which is said to be second to none, the one thing to do is to get at it, and give the people all the advantages that can be obtained from a cheaper and superior grade of coal than is being imported into the country at present. To bring this desideratum about, however, there must be some guarantee, and perhaps that can best be given by the proposed bounty, though that, of itself, is not sufficient to bring about the supplying of the local demands with the native article. Other steps have to be taken ere householders can have Newfoundland mined coal delivered at their doors. The transportation problem has to be solved, and that involves the building of a railway line to some convenient seaport, where at all seasons of the year, ships can enter to receive cargoes. In order to construct such a line there must be popular support given to those who undertake it, otherwise to engage in it would neither be feasible nor sensible business. Added to a favourable popular sentiment, there must be certain encouragement given by the Government, in addition to that already being provided in the form of a bounty. The great difficulty in the way of supplying the local market with cheaper coal, even if millions of tons were in readiness for shipment, is haulage and haulage charges. Even if a light railway were built from any of the areas on the West Coast to the trunk line across country, the cost of freight would be so considerable that by the time the coal reached the consumer its value would be equal to, if not greater than, the imported article. Hence if the West Coast deposits are to be worked for the benefit of the dominion, the only hope of cheapening the transportation rates will be the building and operation of a line of railway from the pit heads to some annually navigable port on the South Coast. And to do this much financial assistance must be given.

The coal question is one which affects every one of us, be we city or outport dwellers, and it is therefore our prime duty to help by every means in our power the development and operation of our own coal deposits. Lack of enterprise in the past, to which may be added hostility in certain quarters to the opening up of our natural resources, retarded progress, and we have been obliged to import and pay dearly for every lump of coal consumed for manufacturing and domestic purposes. The future must witness a change. Wealthy in bituminous fuel, Newfoundland should possess herself of all the advantages to be derived from the early placing of native coal on the local market.

A New Purchase.

The schr. Herbet and Ruby, Capt. Charles Hollett, of Burin, arrived from Halifax via Burin, on Tuesday with a cargo of flour to Messrs. Campbell & McKay. The Herbet and Ruby is a new ship having been launched in March last, and was built by Wm. Brooks, of the Freeport Shipbuilding Co., Digby County, Bay of Fundy. She was towed from that port to La Have, N. S., where she was rigged. The schooner is 122 tons nett, well and substantially built, rigging and running gear of the best material and the spars and main boom are of pitch pine. Her sailing qualities were fully demonstrated during the voyage and proved all that could be looked for, running of twelve knots during a part of the trip. There were two other new vessels on the voyage in company for a short time, but the Herbet and Ruby showed them her heels and kept them well in her wake. Capt. Hollett is one of our youngest master-mariners, being only twenty-seven years of age, but has considerable experience, taking charge seven years ago, and employed as master in our foreign trade for the past three years. Mr. E. M. Hollett, of Burin, is the owner of the new ship, and Messrs. T. H. Carter & Co., are the agents.

Father Casey, son of Mr. John Casey, J. P., Harbour Grace, also ordained about the same time, is expected to arrive in Newfoundland in a fortnight or three weeks. Both the young priests will be attached to the Harbor Grace diocese.

Royal Arch Masonry.

Mr. W. A. Ellis left by to-day's express for the purpose of attending the 50th Convocation or Golden Jubilee of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masonry of Nova Scotia with jurisdiction over Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. Mr. Ellis had the distinguished honour in June last at Halifax of being elected Most Excellent Grand High Priest of this grand body, the first Newfoundlandier to receive this distinction.

The Grand Convocation takes place on the 10th inst., at New Glasgow, N. S., and great preparations are being made by the brethren and companions for the reception, as the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia holds their annual meeting this year on the 11th inst. at the same place.

The Masons of New Glasgow are highly honored by those two grand bodies, holding their annual conventions in their city this year, and will have another opportunity of showing their loyalty to the craft.

We extend to both assemblies our hearty felicitations and every blessing upon their deliberations.

Odd Fellows

Enjoyable Banquet at Smithville Last Night.

The past few days the Oddfellows of the city have been celebrating in honor of the visit of the Worshipful Grand Master, Bro. W. H. MacKay, and Past Grand Master J. A. Craig. Yesterday the distinguished visitors were the guests of Colonial Lodge No. 135, and last night a banquet was tendered Bro. MacKay and Craig at Smithville by the members of that lodge. At 7.30 the party left Oddfellows Club, Lyon Bldg., in about 15 autos, and after a "joy ride" out the South Side road by way of the Marconi station and Toppall road, proceeded to Smithville where one of the most enthusiastic and successful banquets in the history of the poplar resort, was held. The long line of automobiles with their freight of happy Oddfellows attracted much attention and the fact that the whole bunch were out for a right royal good time was clearly evident. On the arrival at Smithville, and after the dust covered members of the party had removed as much of mother earth from their clothes and smiling countenances as possible, all sat down to a beautiful repast of which the following formed the menu:

- MENU.
- OLIVES.
- SOUP
- Mock Turtle Soup
- FISH
- Fillet of Cod with Anchovy Sauce.
- JOINTS
- Round Roast of Beef
- Boiled Ox Tongue
- Boiled Ham
- VEGETABLES
- Riced Potatoes; Green Peas
- Dinner Rolls, Cheese and Crackers
- SWEETS
- Ginger Apple Tarts
- With Cream
- DESSERT
- Apples, Oranges, Nuts, Tea and Coffee

After the inner man had been amply cared for, a toast list was gone through, which was interspersed with musical items which stimulated the fraternal feeling that existed to a marked degree. The speeches of the various participants in the toast list were happy, eloquent and showed unusual talent on the part of the speakers; being thoroughly enjoyed and loudly applauded. Each of the whooping toasts was handled in a masterly manner by the speakers and Oddfellows will profit greatly by the results of last night's celebration. Following is the toast list:

- TOAST LIST.
- "The King"—Prop. Chairman, F. G. Bradley, D.D.G.M. Resp. "God Save the King."
- "The Empire"—Prop. Bro. H. Ford. Resp. Bro. H. M. Modell, P. G. Song—Bro. D. Pelley.
- "The Grand Lodge"—Prop. Bro. J. Moore. Resp. Bro. R. M. MacKay, C. G. T. Resp.
- "Our Guests"—Prop. Bro. W. T. Quick, P. G. Resp. Bro. J. A. Craig, P. G. M.
- Song—Bro. G. Parsons.
- "Sister Lodges"—Prop. Bro. W. Gaulton. Resp. Bro. Hon. P. Templeman, P. G.
- Duet—Bros. H. Chaplin and W. Gaulton.
- "Absent Friends"—Prop. Bro. A. Rooney.
- Double Quartette—"The Vacant Chair."

In the course of his remarks Bro. Craig made reference to the Home Scheme Fund, which is to provide an asylum for aged Oddfellows and orphans of this jurisdiction. The response was immediate and generous, over $400.00 being donated in a few minutes with prospects of much more to follow. Among the guests were Capt. Hicks and Capt. Cooper of Grand Falls, Bro. E. D. Spurrell, of Atlantic Lodge, Bro. McLean, who though a resident of St. John's for many years, still holds membership in Caledonian Lodge in Nova Scotia, and Hon. Philip Templeman, who represented Bonavista Lodge, Mr. Fox, who recently returned from Canada, and who has been on active service, was also a guest and presided at the piano during the evening. The visiting brethren must certainly have been impressed more than ever with the characteristic good-fellowship of their Newfoundland friends last night and the event will prove a memorable one for all present. At an early hour this morning after the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem, the jolly party came citywards in clouds of dust, fully determined to make the next visit of Bro. MacKay and Craig as memorable or more so than that of last night. The visitors are staying here until Sunday, and on Friday night, under the auspices of Colonial Lodge, an exhibition degree will be put off by a joint team from the two city lodges.

W. M. S. Annual.

The fourth annual meeting of the Mtd. Branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church opened at George St. Church at 3 p.m. yesterday.

The President, Mrs. E. G. Hunter, was in the chair. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Storey who reminded the Branch that George Street was the Mother Church of the W. M. S., the first Auxiliaries being organized there with Mrs. Steer as President. Mrs. Duff, of Carbonear, responded, thanking the ladies for the hearty welcome given them. Miss Marjorie Hutchings and Miss Sadie Soper rendered solace adding very much to the interest of the meeting. The Memorial Service was conducted by Mrs. Eugene Lindsay, and most touching references were made to the promoted sisters. Greetings were also read from our own missionaries in West Canada, Miss Wagg and Miss Hickman, and from Mrs. Vigus, of Burin, also Miss De Wolfe who visited our branch two years ago.

Mrs. Pineson our missionary on furlough from Shimokawa, Japan, was introduced as the guest of the Branch. A quiet half hour was conducted by Mrs. Hunter after which the social hour was very much enjoyed by a large number of friends.

The evening service opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. Macdock of the Canonized District, the Scripture lesson being given by Miss Ethel Penney. Organizers reports then followed, which gave reason for deepest gratitude as from all sources the objective of 20 per cent. increase had been reached. Solos were also rendered during the hour by the Eastern Nations women and Miss Pike.

A most helpful address was then given by Miss Bradbury. She referred to the great war as being over and now being the very best time to hear the call of the Prince of Peace; 1,000,000 people have never heard the Gospel; heathen children have no Xmas; heathen women no Easter, but in their hearts is the great longing for something higher and better. After this most stirring address Mrs. Pineson addressed the Branch in her most cheerful style, speaking chiefly on the kindergarten work in Japan and the wonderful results by the faithful staff of missionaries there. Mrs. Pineson has spent 13 years in Japan; she is to give other addresses during the Branch sessions and those who can attend themselves of the opportunity of hearing her will be greatly helped. Meetings will be continued during Thursday and Friday.

Says the Morning Chronicle. Newfoundland may best Canada out in establishing an air service for commercial purposes. The proposals now before the Colonial Legislatures for the inauguration of a mail and passenger lines from Newfoundland to Canada and the United States should be well left at the post.—Morning Chronicle.

McMurdo's Store News

THURSDAY, June 5, 1919. You cannot beat Excelsis Shaving Sticks. The Excelsis is manufactured by one of the largest English soap makers, and is of the finest British quality of a superfatted soap. Excelsis makes a quick, thick, white, creamy lather, a lather which does not dry quickly on the face, and which is perfectly bland and non-irritating. It is pleasantly, though not obtrusively perfumed. In fact in all the qualities which make for a good shave—so far as the soap has to do with it—Excelsis Shaving Sticks are very decidedly in the front rank. Price 35c. a tin.

Vessels Ashore.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries received the following message from Trinity this morning: "Dyke, of Salvage, here, reports that there are three or four schooners ashore inside of the ice near the Horse Chops. S.S. Cachalot here available. Send immediate advice."

Personal Mention.

Miss (Nurse) Elizabeth Croucher, who has very successfully passed her final examinations and graduated from the training school for nurses at Verdun Hospital, Montreal, has taken up private nursing, and has accompanied her patient abroad. Nurse Croucher and patient sailed on the s.s. Minnedosa on Tuesday, on a visit to England and Wales, and later to Scotland. Nurse Croucher will probably visit her parents in this city before returning to Montreal.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

MAKING THE NEWSPAPER REAL.

RUTH CAMERON

Do you ever visualize news items?

That is, does it ever come over you that these people you read about in the paper aren't just names, just printer's ink, but real flesh and blood folks that are feeling and living these experiences somewhere or other? And do you ever visualize their reactions and their emotions, and thus make for yourself a little drama out of the printed page?

It has long been my habit to do this, partly perhaps because I was once behind the scenes in the great business of making a newspaper and so had it brought home to me that these names were real folks.

The Thing That Hit Me Hardest.

Let me give you an example of what I mean. The other day as I read in the paper the story of the first leg of the airplane voyage across the ocean I came to this paragraph:

"The NC 3 soared swiftly toward the city and planed down with roaring engines. As it struck the water a great cloud of iridescent spray shot up. Still proceeding at tremendous speed it rushed toward its moorings leaving great furrows of foam in its wake. Here a fishing smack crossed the course necessitating a detour but the NC 3 picked up its moorings off the former American naval air station."

Can't You Hear Those Fishermen Telling Their Tale.

Now of course the whole thing is wonderfully dramatic but you will be surprised when I tell you what hit me the hardest. The line—"A fishing smack." I could just picture the importance of the men, how they went home and told how they were nearly run down by the wonderful new invention and how quick they had to act to get out of the way. I even projected myself into the future and imagined them telling to their grandchildren in the days when over ocean flights will have become a commonplace, their tale of the first ocean flight and their part in it.

What a Dramatic Moment It Must Have Been.

Here is another example. The morning after America entered the war, I read that a certain big life insurance company had held a council and decided that they would not ask any extra premium from the men insured in their companies who went to war but would give full benefits. Can't you visualize the drama, in that? Can't you see the head men of that company gathered about a big mahogany table. Can't you see the head accountant presenting his figures to show if the thing could be done? Can't you imagine the battle between the men who were against it and those who were for it? Can't you hear the argument that it would be a splendid advertisement being advanced and don't you hope you can hear at least a word or two of idealism, and share with those men some thrill of fine excitement when the big decision is made? That is what that announcement meant to me.

I once heard of a woman who slipped the newspaper reports of all cases of attempted suicide that occurred in her city and wrote to the people involved and tried to find out their trouble and do what she could to help. Wasn't that a beautiful way of visualizing the news?

The Honey-moon Up-to-date.

A housemaid who had been a long time in her situation recently gave notice because she was going to have "the banns put up."

Her month had almost elapsed when the girl who was engaged to take her place wrote to say that she would be unable to commence her duties until a fortnight after the date her predecessor had arranged to be married. "The maid was asked by her mistress whether she would agree to postpone the ceremony, and stay on that length of time.

"Change the date, change your fate, ma'am," answered the girl. "It's like dying in the face of Providence to alter wedding arrangements; but if 'Erbert is agreeable, I don't mind getting married and then come back here for a fortnight."

The young man offered no objection, and half an hour after the ceremony the bride was busy at her usual duties. "And has your husband gone back to work too, Mary?" asked her mistress. "Oh, no, ma'am!" answered Mary, proudly. "Erbert's gone to 'Astings for 'is 'oneymoon."

Just Folks

I THOUGHT IT WAS TROUBLE.
I thought it was trouble, it looked disaster. The heart in my breast, beating faster and faster. Excited my blood till it throbbed in my veins. And sometimes kept saying: "Look out! when it rains! Look out when it rains! For nobody knows Where your fond hopes will be when the whirlwind goes by. It will scatter And scatter The fortune you've made in the wink of an eye."

I thought it was trouble, I fretted and stood still in despair, and then wildly I hurried. Ran this way and that, and talked loudly as though I could keep back the wind that was starting to blow. Then all that I'd feared From the distance appeared. The storm came and went and it wasn't so bad. It rumbled and tossed me. But nothing it cost me. And now I can laugh at the scare that I had.

I thought it was trouble. It was for a minute. I was heartsick and sore all the time I was in it. But I've learned that the cares and the burdens we borrow Are things that we sit back and laugh at to-morrow. So stand to the blow. And the oncoming woe And wait till you're hurt ere you whisper and cry. Just see the thing through. Soon the skies will be blue And you'll laugh at yourself when the storm has gone by.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen,—Theodore Dorais, a customer of mine, was completely cured of rheumatism after five years of suffering, by the judicious use of MINARD'S LINIMENT. The above facts can be verified by writing to him, to the Parish Priest or any of his neighbors. A. COTE, Merchant. St. Isidore, Que., 12 May, '93. Jade green is no longer in fashion. A sailor of tan pineapple straw, mushroom shape, is very smart. A hat made entirely of organdie will complete the summer outfit.

Hatless Women Next.

Fair Sex's Very Latest Craze.

Are women going without hats in the near future? Already it is a craze which is rapidly increasing. Of course, in many theatres for a long time it has been compulsory for ladies to remove their hats, and because of that many go to the theatre wearing only a net over their heads. Lady Rhondda, Miss Mary McArthur and Miss Susan Lawrence, among famous women speakers, have joined the no-hat brigade when speaking on public platforms. In many of the law courts women witnesses now give their evidence hatless, while at picture palaces, at race courses, and at other places of amusement, both indoor and outdoor, more and more women are taking up the new craze and going about hatless. There's one place, however, where women must wear their hats and that is in church. This is, of course, because of the word of St. Paul, and very few clergymen indeed would let a woman come to church without her head covered.

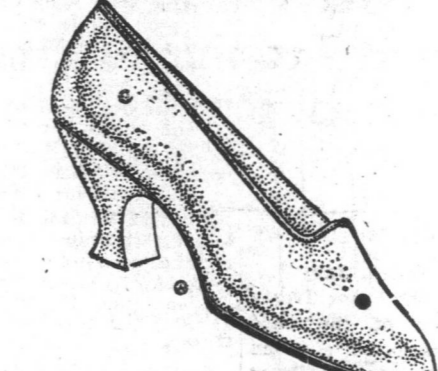

Nothing Doing There.

Noislessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged away at the dressing-table drawer. In vain. It refused to open. He tugged again. "Give it another jerk," said a voice behind him. The burglar turned. The owner of the house was sitting up in bed, and looking at him with an expression of the deepest interest on his face. "Jerk it again. There's a lot of valuable property in that drawer, but we haven't been able to open it since the damp weather began. If you can pull it out I'll give you a handsome royalty on everything that's—"

But the burglar had disappeared through the window, taking part of the sash with him. FULL VALUE DEMANDED. The sum of 100,000,000,000 marks which Germany must pay the Allies for losses and damages caused in the war is based on the pre-war value of the gold mark, which was about 23.32 cents. The latest quoted valuation of the German mark at Amsterdam and at Zurich was about 8 1/2 cents, so that to the Germans this portion of the indemnity means nearly three times the sum demanded.—Toronto Globe.

VIENNA TAKES TREATY QUIETLY
VIENNA, June 4. The first news that the Peace Treaty reduced the frontiers of the mighty empire of Austria came at 11 o'clock last night to Vienna by way of Amsterdam in a news agency despatch and the official text of the treaty was received this morning. The news filtered through the city but made scarcely any impression on the people. The newspapers to-day scarcely commented on the treaty. Editor Benedik of the Neue Presse received the news at his country home shortly after it arrived in Vienna but did not come into the city to write on the subject. The editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung, however, wrote an editorial on the treaty and then went to bed at midnight as his custom.

SPARTACANS AGAIN ACTIVE.
BERLIN, June 3. The political situation brought about by increased Spartacan activities has become more tense since the discovery of the body of Rosa Luxemburg and the manner in which Gustave Noske, the Minister of Defence, ordered it taken to Sossenheim, two miles south of Berlin. In giving the order it is claimed the minister ignored the law which requires that the coroner be notified and the body be placed in a municipal morgue.

DOMINION REPRESENTATION IN LEAGUE.
LONDON, June 4. (Via Reuters.)—Replying in the House of Commons to Mr. Norton Griffiths, Right Hon. Bonar Law, Govt. leader in the House, stated that the Government intended that representation of the Dominions in the League of Nations should be as full as that of the smaller sovereign nations. Representatives of the Dominions would be eligible for appointment to the Executive Council on exactly the same terms as other members of the league who were not permanently represented thereon. Mr. L. Lyle asked has provision been made against settlement within the Empire of our four thousand Austro-German prisoners now in Japan? Mr. Law replied, "They would come under the regulations regarding admission of aliens, which vary in different parts of the Empire."

NEW AVIATION FIRM.
LONDON, June 4. Col. Bishop, V. C., and Col. Barker, V. C., have registered the Bishop-Barker Aviation Company to carry on business as aviation consultants for business chiefly in Canada and the United States.

AUSTRALIAN TROUBLES.
MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, June 4. (Via Reuters.)—The seamen of Victoria, New South Wales, are ignoring the ballot on whether they should man ships. Pending decision of the Arbitration Court on the matters in dispute the Commonwealth Government is restricting and in some cases prohibiting the use of coal, coke, gas and electricity. This will probably result in closing many factories and throwing fifty thousand hands out of employment to-morrow.

GETTING READY FOR FLIGHT.
LONDON, June 4. Final preparations for the flight across the Atlantic of the British airship R-34 are being made at North Berwick, according to the Evening Star, and it is expected that the ship will leave next week. A squad of skilled mechanics already have left England on the way to Atlantic City, N. J. where it is expected the ship will land.

OFFER TO MCGILL MAN.
LONDON, June 4. The post of Vice-Chancellor of Liverpool University, is being offered Colonel Adams, professor of Bacteriology at McGill.

KING'S WEATHER.
LONDON, June 4. (Via Reuters.)—The King's Birthday yesterday was Empire wide and most enthusiastic. The chief feature of the official celebrations in London was the Trooping of the Colors by the Guards in Hyde Park. The occasion was graced by fine weather and enormous crowds. The Queen, Princess Mary and ladies of the Royal Family occupied the pavilion near the saluting base. The King accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught followed by Field Marshal Haig and other notables and the King's Indian orderlies rode to the park where the massed bands played anthems and the Royal Standard was hoisted. After the trooping ceremony their Majesties watched the troops march past Buckingham Palace.

DE ROBECK TO SUCCEED CALTHORPE.
LONDON, June 4. (Via Reuters.)—A despatch from Malta says that Admiral De Robeck will succeed Vice-Admiral Sir Somerset Calthorpe as commander in chief of the Mediterranean fleet. It is understood that Vice-Admiral Calthorpe will remain as high commander at Constantinople and will eventually become first British ambassador under the new regime there.

WILL COME TO CANADA.
LONDON, June 4. Sir George Perley sails early in July for Canada. Paragraphs have been appearing in the press here recently suggesting that Mr. Huntley Drummond may succeed him.

FREEMAN'S CASE.
SYDNEY, N. S. W., June 4. (Via Reuters.)—The United States has now twice refused to permit Paul Freeman, an American deported from Australia, to enter America. When the Sonoma returned to Australia with Freeman for the second time he decided on a hunger strike. This lasted a week when his condition became so serious that a public outcry was raised with the result that the lumpers refused to work and the crew threatened to leave the ship. An attempt was made last night to rush the ship. The position was becoming serious when news was received that Acting Prime Minister Watt had decided to allow Freeman to disembark so that his case might be inquired into. Freeman denies that he belongs to the International Workers of the World, and that his parents are German.

To-day's Messages.

PARIS AFOOT.
PARIS, June 4. All Paris walked to work this morning, owing to the strike, and there is no present change in the situation.

GERMANY'S SURPRISING OFFER.
PARIS, June 4. The German counter offer of one hundred billion marks as indemnity surprised the whole of the entente financial experts, who believed the chances of getting much more from Germany were not good, but who now think that with some concession as to payment of interest, not included in the German proposal, this offer is perhaps acceptable. These experts argue that from the viewpoint of a world credit arrangements, it might be better to base the future financial plans of the Entente Governments upon a definite sum of hundred billion marks, voluntarily offered, than upon an indefinite assessment, which Germany might accept only under protest.

CHARACTERISTICALLY GERMAN.
BERLIN, June 4. German experts at Versailles have drawn up a long memorandum in reply to the question to an impartial commission for investigation and denies there was a secret plot between Berlin and Vienna to destroy Serbia. It says that the German Government could not accept the efforts of Sir Edward Grey, because it doubted his powers to check the warlike aspirations of Russia, and the proposal of the Czar to refer dispute to the Hague failed, because mobilization of thirteen Army Corps was ordered the same day. The memorandum says Germany was against France was one of defence, and admits that Germany's naval policy was of such as to arouse distrust of Britain.

COSTA RICA REVOLUTION.
SAN SALVADOR, June 4. American marines have been landed at Punta Arenas and Port Limon Costa Rica, because of a revolution against the Government.

DOES NOT WANT TO.
MEXICO CITY, June 4. The Mexican Government has not been asked and will not be asked by the League of Nations, says a statement given out by the Department of Foreign relations.

Foolish Rumor.

In order to add to the anxiety of many, some of whom had relatives on the steamer Sagona, a report was foolishly started in town last Sunday, and widely circulated outside of town, to the effect that the good steamer Sagona, with the prince of master mariners in command, Captain Taverner, had met with disaster during the heavy gale that prevailed at the time. It was a malicious report, and absolutely without any foundation. True it was stormy; but, thanks to Captain Taverner and his able officers and stalwart ship, the trip to Placentia from North Sydney, which is under the best of conditions made in about thirty hours, was on this occasion under adverse circumstances, made in thirty-two hours. There might have been a few seas sweep over the vessel, but not a single man of the one hundred or more reservists on board missed a meal, or a portion of a meal throughout the entire trip. —North Sydney Herald, June 4th. The Sagona is now in this port and will be leaving to-day or to-morrow for Port aux Basques to resume Cabot Strait service.

Fed Up With Homeland

More and more people are realising that the best country in the world to belong to is Britain, and the worst is Germany, with the result that many well-known foreigners are attempting to change their nationality. Mr. Thornton, the famous American railway expert, has become a Briton, and during the two years before America came into the war many famous Americans applied for naturalisation as Britishers, because they thought their country ought to have fought sooner. Prince Nicholas, of Greece, a son of King "Tino," the pro-German King who was forced to fly, has obtained permission to become a Danish subject, so that he will not be mixed up with any intrigues in his own country to put him on the throne. Sometimes hundreds of people suddenly get sick of their own country and want a change. In 1914, for example, two thousand Dutch villagers, living near the border of Belgium, wrote to the King of the Belgians beseeching him to take them under his protection because they were neglected by Queen Wilhelmina. It is a curious fact that the average Briton is far more reluctant to change his nationality than the average foreigner.

Football League Meeting

The annual meeting of the Newfoundland Football League was held last evening, with the largest number of delegates present for many years. Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., Vice-President, occupied the chair in the absence of the President, Mr. Mark Chaplin. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read and adopted. The latter's report was a most pleasing one, showing the result of last year's business to be far in excess of what was anticipated. The election of officers then took place with Mr. J. P. Crotty in the chair, and resulted as follows:

President—Mr. M. Chaplin, re-elected.
Vice-Pres.—Hon. W. J. Higgins, re-elected.
Treasurer—Mr. F. C. Brien, elected.
Secretary—Mr. B. B. Harris, elected.
Auditors—Messrs. Jas. P. Crotty and J. H. Jardine, re-elected.
Messrs. Plinsent and St. John, Treasurer and Secretary, respectively, refused nomination.
The Cadets were admitted to a place in the League, and it is hoped to have a favorable reply from the B.I.S., Collegians and Fellidians by the night of next meeting. The drawing of the fixtures was left over till the 13th inst., so as to enable these teams to notify the League of their intentions. It is probable the first game will be played on or about the 20th of the present month. A committee was appointed to deal with the matter of the presentation of trophies which will take place shortly, at which all footballers will be invited to attend.

Sank a Hun Sub.

George McDonald Tulk, son of Mr. B. Tulk, of St. George's, is one of our heroes in blue who distinguished himself while doing duty with the R.N.R., by sinking a German submarine, for which act he won the D.S.M.

Reservist Tulk, at the outbreak of hostilities, volunteered for the army but being under age was not accepted. He thereupon put in an application for the Navy, and by adding a couple of years to his age, which was 15, succeeded in passing.

His first training was on a battleship, which was sunk, he being afterwards transferred to a trawler and put in charge of a gun. Falling in with a sub. he put her out of business, standing to his gun when all the others had given up hope of escape. This exploit won for him the medal for distinguished service as before noted.

Reservist Tulk is now, we understand, on leave to visit his parents, who are glad to have him back again safe and sound. Congratulations to the heroic young sailor and may he long live to wear the D.S.M., so meritoriously bestowed.

Wedding Bells.

At St. Joseph's, on June 1st, Mr. John Conway, of Renew's, was united in matrimony to Miss Annie Foley of this city. The bride wore a pretty dress of apricot silk with hat to match, and was attended by Miss Annie Nash, who wore a dress of V. Rose silk. The groom was supported by Mr. J. Power. After the ceremony was performed the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's mother where an enjoyable evening was spent. The groom's present to the bride was a gold locket and to the bridesmaid a gold brooch. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Conway many years of happiness.

PATIENTS WAITING.—At present some 150 patients are in the city awaiting admission to the General Hospital, while the total number of applicants is over 300. All the wards at the institution are filled, and only those needing immediate treatment are being taken in at present.

The Failure of the Tyre Guarantee

The only outstanding and unalterable fact about the definite mileage guarantee is that it must be paid for even by the careful driver who does not need it—like yourself.

The Goodyear Service Station Dealers know this well as you tyre users should know it.

The cost of such a guarantee, like every other cost of production and marketing, is included in the selling price of the tyre.

Thus the presence of such a guarantee in a tyre of normal price can mean only that some other quality has been slightly sacrificed.

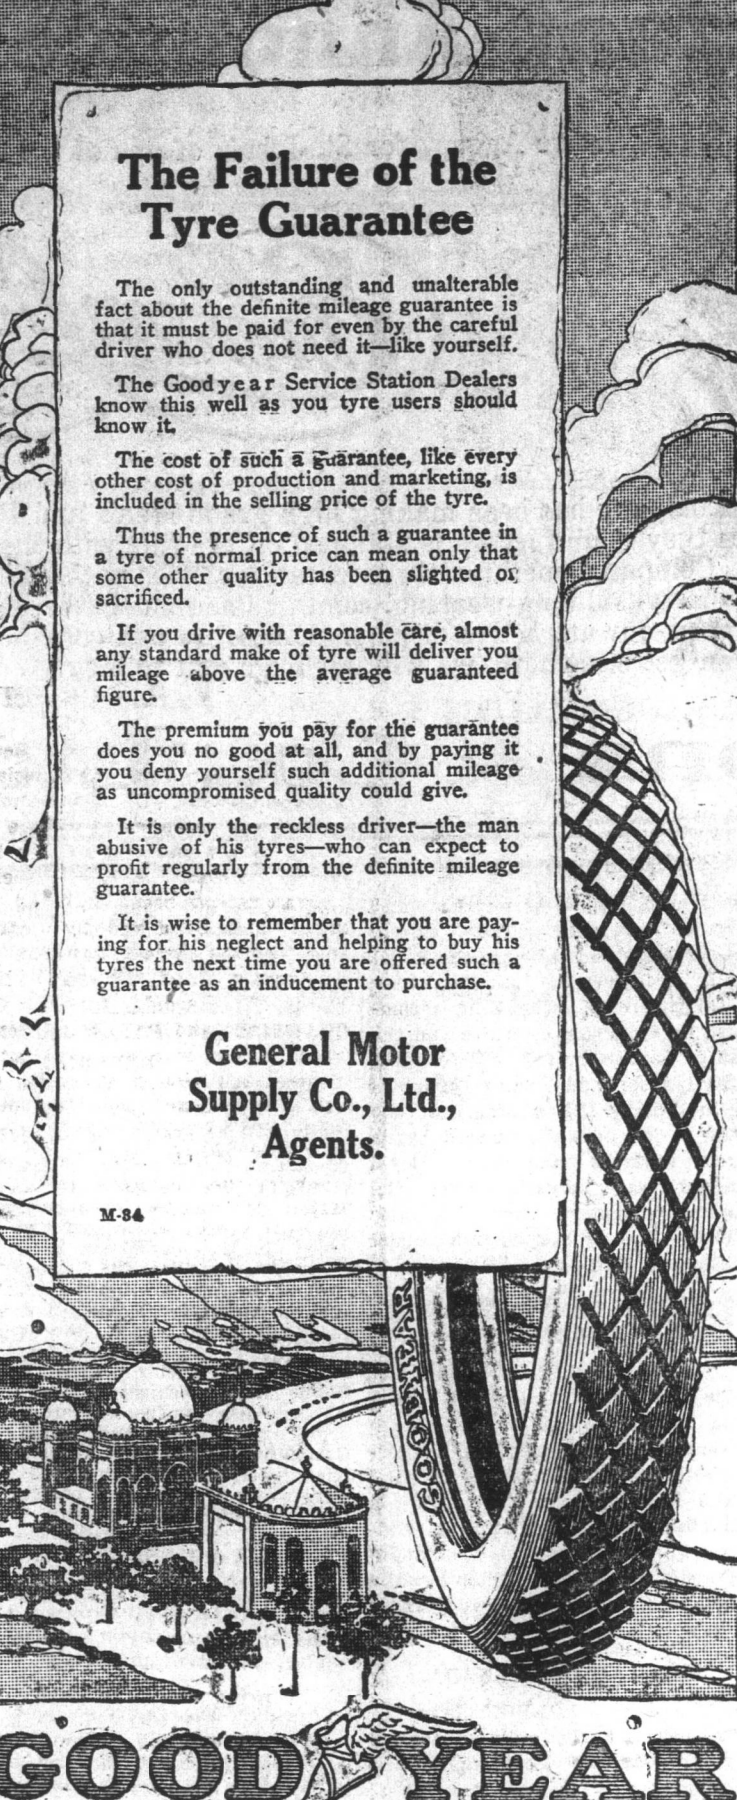

If you drive with reasonable care, almost any standard make of tyre will deliver you mileage above the average guaranteed figure.

The premium you pay for the guarantee does you no good at all, and by paying it you deny yourself such additional mileage as uncompromised quality could give.

It is only the reckless driver—the man abusive of his tyres—who can expect to profit regularly from the definite mileage guarantee.

It is wise to remember that you are paying for his neglect and helping to buy his tyres the next time you are offered such a guarantee as an inducement to purchase.

Last Night's Fire Alarm.

At 10.40 last night an alarm was sent in from box 147 calling out the Eastern and Central firemen to Military Road. A few minutes earlier some soot in the chimney of the house occupied by Capt. J. Snow, had ignited. The firemen's services, however, were not needed, as the blaze was extinguished by a few pails of water before any damage was done.

Supererogatory.

The legal writer of the Star spread himself over several columns yesterday, in an attempt to answer a reporter's item, in our issue of Monday, that the Aerial Mail Service was not a monopoly, and after tortuously wading over all the phases and clauses of the Bill itself wound up by admitting that "there is not so very much wrong with this new contract" after all.

Schr. Becomes Prize.

The schooner Klondyke which was abandoned off Cape St. Francis yesterday morning, was boarded later in the day by three fishermen from Flatrock who tried to get her to land. They succeeded in attracting the Cabot Signal Station, which signalled for a tug. The Ingraham went outside and came up with the schooner about eleven miles from port, taking her in tow and reaching here at 5 o'clock last evening. The Klondyke, which is undamaged beyond her steering gear and rudder being out of commission, is a valuable prize for the Flatrock men.

VESSELS LEAVE.—A number of schooners which had been detained here owing to adverse winds and ice conditions in the north, got away for their respective homes yesterday morning.

THE ECONOMY CAR

Looks Good, Doesn't It?

And the Picture Doesn't Begin to Do It Justice—But Most of All, ECONOMICAL

It is graceful in design and beautiful in finish—smart and stylish in every detail. Nothing lacking for beauty, comfort, performance or endurance. Drive all day and you won't be cramped or tired. In fuel economy this car is almost without an equal—18 to 22 miles to the gallon of gasoline are the rule rather than the exception. The steering is the easiest; the control the simplest. Easy riding whether fully or partially loaded; remarkable in this respect. Abundant power for hard pulls—fine driving qualities at all speeds—and all the speed you want.

Reliable quality is a certainty in the Elcar. Its builders learned to put in quality years ago when building cars selling up to and above $3000. It is a quality car at a popular price—good and large enough to fulfill any motor car requirement. Don't think of choosing until you have seen the Elcar.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—May I ask you to allow me the courtesy of your columns to enable me, on the eve of my departure from Bay Bulls, to perform what is at once a duty and a very great pleasure. It is to express my deep appreciation of the infinite kindness and hospitality which have been shown me on so many occasions since I arrived in Newfoundland. The number of those in Bay Bulls, alone, who, out of pure goodness of heart, have gone out of their way to do all they could to make my stay so pleasant as possible are legion, and I feel I cannot depart without asking them to accept my grateful thanks for all that they have done.

Yours truly,
TERENCE P. FAGAN,
Newark, N. J.,

Bay Bulls, June 2, 1919.

G. W. V. A. Smoker.

To-night, at the Casino Theatre, the Great War Veterans Association of Newfoundland will hold a smoking concert and reception to all the returned sailors and soldiers who have served overseas. A most excellent programme has been arranged and the C. L. B. Band will be in attendance. Among those taking part will be Captain J. J. O'Grady, Lieut. Woods, Mr. Harold Mitchell, Capt. Leo Murphy and Mr. Esau Penney, whose famous song has been featured in press and lectures for some time, will also be heard and the opportunity will be availed of to present Mr. E. R. Morris, who is a great friend of the Regiment, and Sergeant Major M. Mackey, with suitable souvenirs of Newfoundland. The Department of Militia has given permission to all soldiers to wear uniforms and as the entertainment is free we predict that the Casino will be filled to overflowing for the smoker to-night.

Closing of Legislature.

All sessional business having been completed yesterday afternoon, the Legislature will be formally prorogued by His Excellency the Governor at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It is but little over two months since the opening, and during that period many startling changes have taken place politically. The business done has been of a nature to improve certain conditions, and altogether the session of 1919 has not been barren of results.

Fishery Report.

A report to the Board of Trade gives the catch of codfish between the South Head of Keels and Knight's Cove Point as 300 quintals up to the present. The first cod was taken on Monday week. Prospects are good, but no bait is obtainable. Eleven traps are in the water and some are getting good hauls, but others are hindered by the ice in the vicinity of the grounds.

Commercial Rumour.

There is a rumour gaining currency about town that the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company are negotiating for the purchase of an extensive waterfront premises, which will be used as a shipping point for the Grand Falls products. It is also reported that overtures for the taking over of a large transportation concern are being made.

Another Bluebeard.

Henry Landru, who was arrested in April in connection with the disappearance of twelve women who he had either married or promised to marry, was given a hearing recently at Paris. He said he did not know anything about the disappearance of these women and declared it was up to the authorities to prove that he had any connection with them. The judge told the prisoner that experts had reached the conclusion that the bones found in Landru's villa at Gambaix were human bones. Landru replied by protesting against the authorities searching his villa without his being permitted to be present.

Limb Lost; Life Lengthened.

Other conditions being equal, a man who had lost one leg was likely to live longer than if he had not lost it, and if both legs were amputated, he would probably live longer still, declared Col. Openshaw, when the Princess Royal opened Church Army Hospitals for Limbless Men at Kensington. The physiological reason advanced for his statement was that the heart had to carry the blood to the extremities, and would continue to work longer if the legs were taken away. He added that it was demonstrably true that a legless man could be a better swimmer than before his loss.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, May 12th, 1919.
SPANISH ORDER FOR THE PRINCE.

When peace is proclaimed, it is the intention of the King of Spain to bestow the Order of the Golden Fleece upon the Prince of Wales. It is hoped that the ceremony will take place on the occasion of the birthday of His Royal Highness next month. In former days this decoration ranked third in importance among the Orders of Europe, being surpassed only by the Garter and the Black Eagle of Prussia. Until the recent deposition of the Emperor of Austria this monarch, as well as the King of Spain, claimed the right to create Knights of the Golden Fleece, as both monarchs are descended from Philip the Just of Burgundy, who founded this Order. The decoration is a very handsome one. The full dress of the Order is very striking, though it is many years since last this was worn even in Spain. Like our own Garter, the Golden Fleece is reserved entirely for royal personages and nobles of the highest rank. Later in the year it is expected that the Prince of Wales will receive the Order of the Danebrog from the King of Denmark.

THE NEW SPORT.

Flying is obviously going to be a very popular sport this summer. Already the Saturday and Sunday "flips," as the short £1 sky excursions are called, are taxing the resources of the aerodromes round London. At Hounslow, where the Avro Company opened their civilian joy-riding season last week-end, there was a steady queue waiting all Saturday afternoon and four machines, some of them five-seaters, were kept busy from noon until sundown. Curiously enough, most of the trippers were ladies. If they had any qualms before going up they showed no timidity, and they came down bubbling over with enthusiasm. A "flip" is certainly a wonderful experience, and after half an hour spent "stunting" over the western suburbs anyone who desires a little adventure can have a surfeit of thrills in quite a short time. A first air trip rather upsets one's preconceived notions of what it would feel like. Climbing is hardly noticed at all. It comes as a surprise to find that the earth has receded, and diving to earth has not even so much sensation about it as coming down in an ordinary lift. It is when rolling and looping and tumbling that the passenger finds himself apprehensively wondering whether flying is really as safe as motor-ing. To see the "planes tilt up until they stand vertical, and find the sky where the earth ought to be, produces much the same sort of eerie feeling as one remembers having had when machine gun bullets used to zip unexpectedly through the grass around one. The outstanding impression made during a flight is the beauty of the earth seen from above. It is so indescribable and so unexpected.

RETURNED TO THE OWNER.

When Sir Reginald Tyrwhit hauled down his flag on the Caracosa a few days ago he left behind him a relic of the Saucy Arethusa, the remainder being a lifebuoy which belonged to her which a considerate tide brought into Harwich Harbor almost twelve months after the mishap in which the Arethusa was mined and sunk. Sir Reginald was in command of the Harwich Squadron, and so the relic of his old ship came back to him. It now stands at the entrance of the Admiral's cabin on the Caracosa.

FANTASTIC CLOTHES FOR CHILDREN.

The dress of the little boys of Mayfair (London's fashionable residential quarter) and of those one sees with their nurses in Kennington Gardens become ever brighter, and, in many cases, more suitable. Sailor suits belong to an older generation, and the tunic and the Jersey have taken their place. The tunic is often made of wonderful, futuristic material, with many colored designs. I saw two little boys the other day dressed in blue and yellow—with square necks and short trousers. They wore bright blue little overcoats with these, and no hats. The bobbing of little boys' hair adds greatly, of course, to their picturesqueness. But I wonder what the little boys have to say on their mother's futurist taste in their clothes?

MEDIAEVALISM IN DRESS.

Women's clothes also show more and more of picturesque medieval fashions revived. Waists are no more save that a line round the hips or under the arms remains to show that feminine dress once was cut with a waist. Save for that the latest dresses are quite straight, generally with a very narrow skirt and tunic, having panels or pockets as the only decoration. To set off this severity of line embroideries are very rich and small. Very ornate caps or toques are worn, long loose veils floating out behind or hanging from the face. Stuffs are richer, and satin frocks are worn and full satin cloaks with beautiful fur collars. Feathers are coming into fashion and steeple hats, made of satin, are seen worn with clinging silk stockinette tunic dresses and the inevitable cloak.

PEACE EPIGRAMS.

At the dinner to Edward Price Bell, the well-known American journalist, several epigrams were related about the peace terms. The Americans described it as "a peace with a punch." An English speaker said he had heard it described as "a peace with a vengeance!" I may add as the expression of the feelings of the ordinary man who has had to work through the ten thousand words, that it is a peace that passeth understanding.

PADEWESKI'S TOP HAT.

The declaration of war sounded the knell of the top hat, and although it shows some signs of reviving in London, the Peace Conference has interred it so far as Paris is concerned. No longer does the diplomat regard the top hat as an indispensable part of his attire. The democratic bowler and the soft felt hat are worn by all the Allied Peace Plenipotentiaries, and, as was to be expected of them, the Hun Peace delegates do not scruple to wear a bowler hat as the complement to a morning coat, a fact that was much commented on by Parisians watching their arrival at the Trianon. Paderewski (once the world's star pianist and now President of a re-vivified Poland) is one of the very few statesmen who defy the change of custom. He clings to his "topper" in lonely splendour.

RUSH TO THE MEDICAL SCHOOLS.

A doctor tells me that the shortage of doctors is bound to pass within a few years, because the rush to the medical schools is greater than anyone ever expected. Glasgow, for instance, has had to close its doors and refuse to matriculate more medical students. Meanwhile the Army is releasing doctors fairly rapidly, but, on the other hand, many of the retired practitioners who returned to work have suffered under the strain, and are not able to carry on much longer, and it must not be expected that all the doctors will return from the Royal Army Medical Corps miraculously adept in surgery, and much less in the diseases of women and children. Generally speaking, the young doctor who has served through the war did little but rough-and-ready bandaging when in the line, or only treated one kind of case when in hospital and he returns with less knowledge than he would have collected in four years' general practice. The war has vastly increased the sum of medical knowledge, but the ordinary practitioner has still to get into touch with it.

RUBBER AND THE BUTTON-HOLE.

Wearing flowers in one's button-hole is a disappearing custom, as the nurserymen and florists know to their cost. The London flower girls are now a more remnant of the picturesque crowd of twenty years ago. If you see a man with a flower in his coat in the City nowadays you may be sure he has a garden beyond the London grimes. During the war very few people felt equal to sporting button-holes; perhaps with the peace this is one of the innocent kinds of display that will relive. This is to be a color year, and fashion experts say that already the streets are gay with women's bright tints that they have been for many a year. The markets will be full of imported flowers again this summer, and the prospects are good for the return of the pre-war "Nub" button-hole and all. The Rubber Growers' Association has views on buttonholes. It is pointed out that the old-fashioned glass and metal holder was ugly and obvious. The Association has brought out, to take its place, a new device calculated to keep the morning rose-bud fresh through the day. This is a little rubber tube which does not show. By way of popularising it the Association is presenting five thousand roses, each in the new rubber tube, to the organizers of Alexander's Day on June 25. The tailor is asked to co-operate by providing a real button-hole in one's coat, with a small elastic band at the back about two inches below the hole.

Death of Capt. W. J. Gesner.

WELL KNOWN MASTER MARINER PASSES AWAY.

Word was received here Thursday night of the death of Capt. William J. Gesner, which had just occurred at the Halifax Infirmary, caused by several shocks following the amputation of his right leg. Capt. Gesner was born at Bellisle, 73 years ago, and had followed the sea from his youth. In his early days he was engaged in foreign voyages but during his later years operated a packet service between Bridgetown and St. John. He had a host of friends wherever he was known, was a kind and affectionate husband and father and highly respected. He leaves a widow, five sons, Wm. E., of Bridgetown, John H., of Halifax, George D., of Everett, James N., of Somerville, Mass., and Abram at home; four daughters, Mrs. Frank B. Mils, and Mrs. A. L. Bent, of Grandville Ferry, Mrs. Harry Dunn, of Springfield, N.S., and Agnes at home. He is also survived by one brother, Horatio, of Bellisle, and four sisters, Mrs. Albert Munro, Mrs. Sylvester Bent and Mrs. Alfred Benf of Bellisle, and Mrs. Norman Roop, of Annapolis. He was a member of the Episcopal Church, of Crescent Lodge of Oddfellows, and in politics a conservative. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from his home in Bellisle, Saturday afternoon. After the services at the house, church and grave, being conducted by Rev. E. Underwood, the Oddfellows paid their last rites to their deceased brother in a very impressive manner, conducted by the Noble Grand, Mr. Angus Ramey, and the Chaplain, Rev. M. S. Richardson. The pall-bearers were C. L. Pigott, S. L. Marshall, A. F. Hiltz and A. C. Charlton. The Oddfellows' parade was marshalled by O. S. Dunham, Past Grand, and the entire funeral under the direction of Undertaker W. D. Reid. The floral tributes were beautiful including three links from

An Absent-Minded Prelate.

The Bishop of Stepney, who was recently so greatly troubled at the loss of his engagement book, tells the following story as illustrative of the fact that bishops are notoriously absent-minded.

A colleague of mine (he says) was one day, not long ago, making a journey by rail, and was unable to find his ticket when the collector asked for it.

"Never mind, my lord," said the ticket-collector, who knew him well,

"I'll get it at the next station we stop at."

However, when the train drew up at the next stopping-place the ticket was still missing.

"Oh, well, bishop, it will be all right if you never find it," the collector assured him.

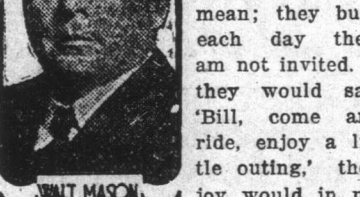

"No, it won't, my friend," contradicted the bishop. "I've got to find the ticket; I want to know where I am going."

QUITE WILLING.

The millions of men under arms in Allied countries are only too anxious to complete the job originally assigned to them. The armistice was a disappointment. The escape of the brutal German fighting force a tragedy in their war service. If peace terms are refused there remains but one thing to be done—to take up where we stopped off and carry on to the red finish.—Buffalo News.

NEGLECTED.

Said Old Bill Jinx, "I'm poor, I ween, and so I'm always slighted; I think my neighbors pretty mean; they burn each day their am not invited. If they would say, 'Bill, come and ride, enjoy a little outing,' then joy would in my soul abide, enlarge my heart, expand my hide—I would not sit here pouting." Said I, "At six o'clock I'll come, and take you for a journey; be ready then, you good old bum; through woodland scenes we then shall hum, by meadows lush and ferny." And just at six I toiled my crock to old Bill's lowly dwelling; my promptness seemed to give a shock;

Just wait ten minutes by the clock, I heard this William yelling. Ten minutes then I waited there; I waited more than twenty; and I was sorer than a bear, for I had no cheap time to spare—I thought I'd waited plenty. Old Bill would like to have a ride, and breathe the evening zephyrs, and see the babbling streamlets glide across the verdant country side, where grow the sprangled heifers. But he's too dense to realize that folks object to waiting; and so he stands around sighs, and beefs about us money-guys, and does a spell of hating.

Newfoundlanders and British Fish Prices.

Thirty Newfoundland fishermen who, as guests of the War Office, are on tour of the chief fishing ports of the East Coast visited Scarborough on Saturday and Flew yesterday their arrival arousing much interest, especially amongst the fishing portion of the population. They are being shown everything of interest in the British fishing industry, including net, fish meat, and oilskin factories. They expressed surprise at the high prices in this country.—Dundee Courier, May 5.

LIKED PA TO SUFFER.

"Thomas," said pa sternly, as he braced his arm to the elbow, "you know what I am going to do and you know why I am doing it. Bend down." And the frightfulness went on for five minutes, and then pa paused for breath.

"This hurts me more than it hurts you," he remarked sadly to the weeping Thomas.

"Then," said the bad lad, grinding his teeth, "keep on with it, dad. I can stand it!"

Nfld. Scotch Cured Herring.

Although a hand-to-mouth business in Newfoundland Scotch cured herring has been under way in New York since last reports, importers and merchants report that the demand has been exceedingly disappointing. In spite of the decline in prices, there appears to be only an occasional order in the market, and the regular trade is not inclined to contemplate future requirements. The depression in the market here may be ascribed to the extortionate prices being asked by retailers, in a measure, and to the fact that there are stocks of Scotch cured herring from Newfoundland yet to be marketed. Packers and shippers in St. John's continue to make offerings, while from Canadian points offers of consignments continue to come to factors here. In spite of these conditions the quantity available in the local market is not heavy, and in view of the short spring pack, the market will doubtless see some improvement within the next few weeks. According to private telegraphic advices from one of the large handlers of Newfoundland Scotch herring in St. John's, the spring herring catch resulted in an exceedingly small pack. It is pointed out in these advices that there is little herring yet to come forward. This would indicate that the large producers have sold or consigned most of their herring, but the fact remains that much of this that has gone to markets out of New York is seeking a market here. A few lots are reported to have been shipped in export, but the quantity is relatively small. The generally inferior quality of the Newfoundland Scotch herring which came to New York this season has limited its ready sale in the local trade. The prevailing prices show a range from $18 to $24 here, but there is comparatively little fancy stock that could be marketed at the higher prices.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, May 24.

This is the Old Reliable Office. Established 27 years.

DISEASED GUMS AND TEETH.

Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by the diseased gums and teeth are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.
