THE TIME OF DELIVERANCE

MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE.

For six thousand years the Human family has been in bondage—slavery to selfishness, superstition and death—the result of sin. All have suffered some on account of their own sins and many for the selfishness of others. There has been no escape but "Lift up your heads and rejoice for your redemption draweth near."

The signs of Christ's Kingdom are with us. "This generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled."

Mr. O. E. Bown will deliver a lecture giving clear scriptural proof of these facts, under auspices LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER OR THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XVI.

Locksley's smile gave way to a look of consternation, and his thoughts at once flew to Dora.

"To watch me!" he ejaculated. "Rogers, come to my private room; I must have this explained, and I will take you into my confidence if you show me good grounds for what you have stated."

When they were safe from interruption, the young detective related the actions of his employer immediately after Locksley's departure.

"When he cried out that you might be the man," Rogers said, "I remembered a commission coming in the previous day, and that somebody of your name was in it. I hurried away upon the pretense of shadowing you, but, instead, went to the haunts of Hancox and his spies, and found out quite sufficient to convince me that you were in some sort of danger."

"You are right," interpolated Locksley.

"Let me finish," Rogers went on. "I accepted Mr. Burton's dismissal much against his will, and have been working for you the whole of the day, or should have been here two hours earlier."

"The charge against you amounts practically to one of abduction; but the young lady's friends—who are at the Langham Hotel—do not want to create any unnecessary sensation, and the only orders issued are to recover the girl."

"Great Heaven!" exclaimed Locksley, a cold perspiration breaking out all over him. "The young lady's friends! Rogers, do you know that they are her bitterest enemies? Have you any idea who they are?"

"Yes, sir; there is a big gentleman, and a sour-visaged old woman. I have seen them, and interviewed them—on behalf of Mr. Hancox, of course."

He laughed merrily at the recollection.

"And although they have located you, the whereabouts of the lady are still now a mystery, or were, two hours since."

"Marlowe and Esther Marsh," muttered Locksley, through his teeth. "I must now act with prompt decision."

Then he turned to Rogers, and continued:

"You have rendered me a service which I shall never forget, and I will tell you everything. It all leads up to the business that I mentioned this morning, link within link, and I give you a free hand to work in your own way. If you are successful, it will mean a permanent position for me in my household, Rogers, if you prefer it to that of detective work."

"This will be my first and last case, sir, whether I fail or succeed."

Locksley rapidly acquainted him with every phase of the story, even giving him the address of Madam Bell.

"I am not well up in the law upon the matter," he concluded, "and I expect this scoundrel, Marlowe, is armed with some instrument signed by Captain Deene, under which he can claim Miss Deene. My only course is to marry the lady immediately, and then I can defy her persecutors."

"Yes, sir," assented Rogers. "I shall not rest until I have consulted a legal friend this very night, so I think that you had better see me early in the morning, Rogers. Say six o'clock!"

"I will be here, sir, to the minute," Locksley pressed upon him a five-pound note, saying:

"You must draw upon me whenever you need money, and spare no expense in the prosecution of the task before you."

It was nearly ten o'clock now, and here was a drizzling rain falling that chilled the air, and rendered the pavements as slippery as glass.

"You are thinly clad," observed Locksley, as they emerged from the hotel. "I will give you the address of my tailor. Get what you require, Rogers. Nay, I insist! You are in a measure my property now, and you must make a respectable showing. Your services already are of unaccountable value to me, and to the lady who is soon to be my wife."

"I am so happy," Rogers said, with glittering eyes, "that I feel warm all through. I told you that I had a mother to support, sir, but I did not tell you that she was starving under my eyes, and that I was powerless to do anything to obtain that nourishment that invalids require to support life. I can do it now—I can do it now!"

Locksley shook him by the hand, said "Good-night. Remember to-morrow morning. Six o'clock prompt," and jumped into a cab that was crawling past.

"Pill Mall!" he shouted to the driver, and as the cab started away he thought: "I will find one of my hair-dresser friends somewhere, even if I visit every club in London!"

Rogers stood on the pavement, and watched the receding cab, his eyes full of gratitude. Then he buttoned his shabby coat closely about him and crossed over to the opposite corner, where the Hammersmith omnibuses pulled up for passengers.

As he stood, with his back to the darkened window of one of the large shops in the busy thoroughfare, he had a good view of the smoking-room of Greely's Hotel, and was a little surprised to see the deaf old gentleman in earnest conversation with one of the ostlers belonging to the establishment.

Rogers could see no omnibus in sight at present, so he crossed over to the hotel and with a nod passed the red-coated porter in his box at the entrance.

As he had already had business with one of the guests, the porter did not challenge his right of entry.

Fortunately, the soles of Mr. Rogers' boots needed repair, and were so thin that they gave back no sound when with some instrument signed by Cap-

He paused at the door of the smoking-room, and heard the deaf gentleman say:

"I hope that there is no mistake about the address, and here is a sovereign for you."

"Mistake!" grunted the ostler. "An't I drove the gentleman there twice? I don't make mistakes like that; but what I want to know is why you didn't ask the gentleman himself?"

"Because I have a wish to surprise him," smiled the old gentleman.

"I don't believe much in your deafness, anyway," grunted the ostler, "and I don't want your dirty sovereign, neither. Look here, ole man, I shall tell Mr. Locksley your game the moment I see him."

"Dear me," smiled the old gentleman, "how very provoking you are. Still, it does not matter. If you will not have the sovereign, I will say good-night, as I am very tired."

"And don't you send to me out of my regular work again, with your false pretenses!" the ostler muttered, as he walked indignantly away. "It might mean the sack for me, telling what is no concern of mine, but he caught me fair with his artful smile!"

For a minute Rogers was rooted to the spot. He knew not what to do. Then he walked quickly out into the street, where he could think without being noticed.

While he was deliberating, the deaf old gentleman issued from the hotel, enveloped in an ulster.

He paused, irresolute, looked up at the lowering sky, and halted a cab.

Rogers did not hear the order to the driver, but he went cityward.

This was a relief, at any rate, but it might be merely a blind. Perhaps he would alight half a mile away, to return in a fresh disguise.

"What am I to do? What am I to do?" Rogers questioned himself. "The hiding place of Miss Deene is no longer a secret. When Mr. Locksley returns, she may be gone! What a misfortune that he did not tell me of his movements! I could then have followed him, and informed him of this new danger."

A sudden thought seemed to strike him, for he walked toward Greely's stables, and asked for the ostler who had done the mischief.

For five minutes they were engaged in earnest conversation, then a fast horse was harnessed to a light cab, and driven rapidly away, with Mr. Rogers seated inside.

CHAPTER XVII.

Five or six clubs were visited before Locksley found what he wanted.

"If I wished to avoid my old chums, for any reason, I should find them at every turn. In a case of urgency, however, they are nowhere to be found."

At the Albemarle he saw the familiar face of a man on whose judgment he could rely, and the first greeting over, promptly buttoned-him.

"What the deuce is up with you, Locksley?" demanded the barrister. "I never knew a lawyer who pleaded his own cause with any success, and it strikes me that the same rule applies to you doctors!"

"I want to consult you, Fairfax, upon a very important, and, I may say, upon a very delicate subject. I have been hunting for a legal luminary for the past hour, and must be satisfied with the best I can get."

"Thank you," grinned Fairfax. "Very complimentary to me, I must admit."

"Come to yonder table," proceeded Locksley, "and let us have done with joking."

Fred Fairfax obeyed, and heard Edmund's story with many little gasps of surprise.

"It doesn't take much thinking out," he said, at length, "and you have placed yourself in no enviable position, old man, unless you can find the father—a chemical compound, by the way—and get him to condone your offense. The other side can claim the lady, and if they are not content with that, you may find yourself in Queer Street. You haven't a leg to stand upon, and may have to defend a very serious charge."

"Well," demanded Locksley, feverishly, "what do you advise?"

"You must marry Miss Deene, and they will be satisfied. It is your only course, and the longer you delay, the blacker is the case against you."

"Thank you, Fred! I am satisfied, and shall probably ask you to marry to be my best man."

"And you have my best wishes, old fellow. Of course, I will be on hand whenever you wish it."

THE EXECUTIONERS.

WALT MASON

Some one, in a city, viewed the anguish of his wife, and then, moved to depths of pity, gave her hope and took her life.

"Oh, she begged me and implored me," said he, "for the final peace; it's beseeched me till she bored me, and I gave her soul release. It is better far to perish if your health cannot come back; better slay the one you cherish than behold her on the rack." He established quite a fashion when this logic he expressed, and a dozen, without passion, shot the ones they loved the best. It's the sort of manly chatter that inspires the mildewed brain; law and justice do not matter to the morbid and insane. Now the courts, our social pillars, must get busy right away, and discourage all these killers who through love and mercy slay. If the practice keeps on growing, by such crazy talk inspired, we may all be found bestowing death on those who make us tired. Some day I'll be heard remarking, "I will shoot my Uncle Jim; his ignition isn't sparking, he has spavins on each limb. It is sad to see him pouring liniment upon his feet; it is fierce to hear him roaring so he jars the village street." Law is getting vague and hazy, morals are upon the run, and the old gray world is gray when such things are said and done.

Flavor apple jelly with a tiny bit of vanilla. Hot onion sauce is delicious served with hot beef. Slice tomatoes on coleslaw are nice with fish. Serve apricot custard sauce with sliced bananas. Add a pinch of black pepper when making spice cakes. The eyes of freshly caught fish are still quite bright. A slight grating of nutmeg improves Waldorf salad. Add a little crushed pineapple to creamed sweetbreads. When scalloping eggs, cover the top with grated cheese. Croquettes of macaroni are nice served with tomato sauce. When mixing cornbread, try adding a cupful of canned corn. Use brown sauce as a foundation when making lamb croquettes.

Passengers' Accounts of Attempts to Rescue Crew Vary

France's Security Will be Discussed in London by French Ministers.—Confessions of Sirdar's Assassins Show Pre-meditated Plot.—Bishop Farthing Will Appeal for Aid for U. S. Miners.

ARMY AND PRINCE EQUALLY RESTORED.

NEW YORK, April 23. Passengers who arrived on the liner, after seeing the Japanese steamer Raifuku Maru sink with its crew and men, expressed widely differing views as to whether every effort had been made by the liner to save the seamen.

ANOTHER BELGIAN TERRORIST SHOT.

SOFIA, April 23. Revolutionist Tchountouloff, one of the principal Terrorists under Ninikov, the alleged Communist leader, met death today in much the same manner as his chief. Discovered by the police, he refused to surrender, they declare, and was shot down.

ARMSTRONG STILL HOPEFUL.

HALIFAX, April 23. When asked to comment this morning on the report that the Government had in contemplation a plan to bring about a settlement of the coal strike by direct intervention, Premier Armstrong said he did not wish to discuss the matter apart from emphasizing he was still hopeful of a settlement by mutual negotiations, and was directing all his efforts in the direction of such consummation.

A SENSIBLE RULE.

OTTAWA, April 20. A special committee of the House of Commons has under consideration a rule which will limit speeches to thirty minutes, except the speeches of leaders. Exemption is also made in case of a motion of non-confidence. The mover would not be limited nor the Minister speaking in reply. The committee has not yet completed its work and its recommendations will have to be approved by the House before becoming effective.

CAILLIAX RE-ENTERS SENATE.

PARIS, April 23. On the fifty anniversary of the day that the senate, sitting as a high court deprived him of his civic rights and banished him from Paris for wartime commerce with the enemy, Joseph Caillaux made his re-entry into the Senate Chamber to-day as Minister of Finance to follow the discussion of

ST. LAWRENCE NAVIGATION OPEN.

MONTREAL, April 23. Navigation between Montreal and trans-Atlantic ports opened officially yesterday, when the White Star catboat Welshman entered the harbor. With sirens from the tugs and launches in the harbor blowing a welcome, and escorted by two tugs, the steamer was ushered to her berth and was officially welcomed by representatives of the harbor commission, and officials of the White Star Line who went aboard and greeted her commander, Capt. W. R. Rolleston. He now is eligible for the gold-headed cane awarded the master of the first vessel to reach port after having crossed the Atlantic direct.

CANADIAN VETERANS FOUND ORIGINAL ASSOCIATION.

WINNIPEG, April 23. An original dinner, presided over by Brigadier General R. W. Paterman, was attended last night by survivors in this vicinity of the first thirty thousand Canadian men to rally to the colors during the great war. At the close of the dinner, and at the suggestion of Colonel R. M. Dennis' own, an original association was formed. It will be open to all ranks but confined to men who went over with the first contingent.

A COSTLY SERVICE.

OTTAWA, April 23. The Canadian Government Merchant Marine had an operating loss last year of $1,440,850, which is $432,413 less than the loss in 1923, according to the annual report of Sir

TO APPEAL FOR MINERS.

MONTREAL, April 23. An appeal for relief for the distressed people of Nova Scotia is to be issued immediately by Bishop Farthing to the church people of the Diocese of Montreal. This was decided at a session of the Synod of the Diocese of Montreal this afternoon.

ASSASSINS CARRIED OUT REARRANGED PLANS.

CAIRO, April 22. Judicial authorities have published a summary of the confessions of the men accused in connection with the assassination last November of the Sirdar of Egypt, General Sir Lord Darnley, and the failure of conversations between the Egyptian and British Premiers in London, on the same and other questions, he met Dr. Shakti Manur and Mahmud al-Husseini at the former's house, when he decided to commit a series of political murders with the Sirdar as the first victim.

The declaration says the trio believed the independence of Egypt could only be gained by political murders. All the persons mentioned in Abdel's confession have been arrested. Mahmud Ismail was an official of the Ministry of pious foundations.

Henry Thorton, tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon. If to this operating loss is added interest accrued amounting to $4,468,144, and depreciation amounting to $3,929,884, the loss for the year comes to $8,836,602.

CANADIAN PRESS SUPT. DIES.

TORONTO, April 23. F. A. MacDonald, Supt. of Traffic of the Canadian Press, who was stricken on Good Friday and has since put up a gallant fight for life, passed away at the Western Hospital early this afternoon.

IRISH TARIFF CHANGES.

DUBLIN, April 23. Income tax in the Irish Free State has been reduced from five to four shillings on the pound, duties have been abolished on tea, raw cocoa, rugs, chicory and duties have been placed in clothing, blankets, rugs, wooden furniture, empty glass bottles. The duty on toilet soaps has been doubled. Imperial preference on sugar has been abolished, reducing the duty of sugar from 2 1/2 d. to 1 d. per pound.

MERGER OF C.N.E. AND C.P.R. DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, April 23. A merger of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, declared Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, before the House committee on railways and shipping this morning, would result in enormous savings, and would be sufficient in net earnings to meet the fixed charges on both railways. Sir Henry's declaration was made in reply to a question from W. D. Bator, chairman of the committee, on the subject of economy. Sir Henry said he and E. W. Betty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had decided to appoint a joint committee of officers of the two roads to consider the suggestions made.

COLLINS' BODY RECOVERED.

CAVE CITY, April 23. Floyd Collins' body to-day was freed from the underground trap where he met a slow death two months ago. Instead of encountering the mammoth rock supposed to be pinning the body, the diggers found a stone of but 75 to 100 pounds weight across his ankles.

JARVIS FREE AGAIN.

TORONTO, April 23. Having satisfied the end of justice for his part, together with Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, in connection with the Ontario Government Bond scandals, Aemilius Jarvis, prominent Toronto financier and yachtsman, was early this morning released from the Municipal Jail Farm at Langston, near the city, on expiry of his sentence of six months' imprisonment imposed upon him by Chief Justice Meredith last October.

$600,000 FIRE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 23. The nationally known salt air resort on the shore of the Great Salt Lake, twenty miles from here, was gutted by fire late yesterday, and the loss is estimated at upwards of six hundred thousand dollars. The flames were fanned by a 25 mile wind and spread rapidly.

Red raw raspy throats

SORE throats are dangerous—as you well know. The danger increases if you delay treatment until you can get home to use a gargle or spray.

Give your throat continuous treatment. Every half-hour or hour wherever you may be, dissolve one of the pleasant-tasting tablets in the mouth.

Formamint releases in the throat a powerful yet safe antiseptic that destroys germs as no spray or gargle can do because:

It keeps up its action long enough to kill germs. It can be taken at frequent enough intervals to make the treatment continuous.

To prevent sore throat, and infection from influenza, grippe, tonsillitis—many dangerous diseases—take a Formamint tablet about every two hours. Ask your druggist.

Send four cents in postage for metal pocket case filled with Formamint. Address: Gerald S. Doyle, St. John's, Newfoundland.

An Easter Letter

FROM DR. WILFRED T. GRENFELL.

PERSIAN GULF, Jan. 15, 1925.

I have not sent a line to you for a long while. It has been almost impossible to do so, owing to continued movements. But here, resting for a short while, I want to send a letter which shall be in time for your next number.

The Late Sirdar.

My last letter was from Calcutta, written just as we were leaving for Khar-toum, where the late Sir Lee Stack, the murdered Sirdar, had invited us to be his guests on the site of the old palace, once the home of that great Christian hero and fearless knight, General Charles Gordon, of whom even the gutter-book says, "He thought of everybody's safety but his own."

On arriving at Luxor we heard of the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, but later received a wire from the Deputy Governor at Khar-toum telling us to come along, as all was quiet. On the way we heard nothing until, on landing from the train at Khar-toum, we found that all the British residents had been ordered into the old palace—now renovated and enlarged—owing to a mutiny of two platoons of a Sudanese regiment. The trouble had been engineered by Egyptians, so the native people told their friends and ours. Both in Khar-toum and Omdurman, they said that the Egyptians had deceived them. This was best attested to by the fact that to the verdict only three Sudanese lieutenants were made to suffer for the craft of others—a very, very common experience, and not limited to the East by any means.

Settling A Dispute.

From Egypt we crossed the Suez Canal. It was a perfect moonlight night, and almost sacreligious, as it seems to say so, we slept soundly in our Pullman carriage through Sinai as far as Lydda, the ancient Lud, where we were met by a friend, the Governor in these parts. The country around Ramleh, the old Crusader town where we stayed, is really rich, and is largely communally owned. The next morning the Governor took us to see how he settled a land dispute between two villages. These two villages had met and fought over the matter before, but now they agreed to accept the decision of the oldest and wisest men, selected from each village, who were to meet us at mid-day. It was decided that the oldest man, ninety-five years of age, should ride around the boundary line on a donkey, while the rest walked, and two solemn men, armed with grubsticks, marked the line. Mounted on a white ass, with his red-centred turban, his fine old face and long gray beard, the old patriarch looked a perfect picture. Of course, there was endless talking. Eventually all four talked at once, and twenty or thirty witnesses joined in. But as we drove away, the affair was settled.

Fishermen Of The Holy Land.

A visit to Joppa, where one of our old Labrador boys, or volunteers is now head of the British Graves Commission for Palestine, and a further visit to the seaboard to watch the fishermen fishing, so differently from ours, for the first time brought our minds how conservative is the East, and how slow the people are to advance in labor-saving devices. I tried to get the fishermen to understand how we in the North would handle their problem, and how they could, with far less difficulty and loss of time, catch ten times as many fish. Probably I was wrong, at least they all seemed to think so. But I am equally certain that if we had to rely on their methods and only realize their results, there would soon be no fishermen left alive in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Social Conditions.

We have been trying to understand social conditions ever since we started, and every step of the way we go makes us more satisfied with the potential conditions of life as we see them in the North. The poverty in these places is far and away beyond that with which the man in our country need put up. Here hardly one man in a hundred has a pair of socks, and during this whole week past it has frozen hard at nights in Iraq. The men wear the scantiest and oldest garments, and though of course many have been able to put away money, the vast majority have not. The conditions of housing, clothing, draining, feeding and child mortality are infinitely worse than with us. The only thing that makes life in the least easier is that it is hotter in this country; but that brings malaria and all sorts of pests from which we are free in the North, in spite of our mosquitoes.

In Sacred Places.

Jerusalem is a dream to a Bible lover. To be the guests of the American Colony, and have the help of their specialists in the archaeology and science of the country, men whose knowledge is gained by years of personal study on the spot, and who are living in the Colony to try, as they work at some trade or other occupation, to further the Kingdom of Jesus Christ on earth, is to enjoy the best that Jerusalem has to give. One cannot go into the vexed question of sacred sites; but at least the Mount of Olives, the village of Nazareth, the Temple site, the walls and gates, the marvellous subterranean water passage built by Herodkiah from the Pool of Siloam into the old city, and many other places are genuine Solomon's quarries are wonderful and the old Kedron Valley, and Jehosaphat's, and Hinnom, just bring back the old days, when I learned about these places at my mother's knee. We loved every one of them, and our swim in the Dead Sea, near Jericho, our visit to the Jordan, to Nazareth, Capernaum, Christmas Eve spent at Bethlehem, a swim at Gana of Galilee in the best-known lake in the world, a night at Tiberias with Dr. Torrance, and at Nazareth with Dr. Bathgate—all are never-to-be-forgotten memories.

Saving Young Lives.

Mr. Blatchford, the able and unselfish head of the Near East work in Palestine, showed us, in their orphanages, many of the splendid young lives which it has been, and is being, and, please God, will yet by their immense privilege to save. There were fine boys in those orphanages, and such economical management. There were no bedsteads, only mattresses on the floor, the same huge hall was being used for bed-room, dining-room, drill-room, class-room and games-room, and efficiently run at that. All the clothing was made by the boys, who were learning the trade, the same applied to carpentry, weaving, shoe-making, baking, iron work, etc. It was a reminder of Labrador and our own efforts.

Problems.

Here are some questions that all our friends will want to know how we would answer:—
What about Missions to Mohammedans? Well, that stone wall to progress has got to go before real advance can be made. Labels may not go—alas! anyhow they are a handicap to progress. But the thing itself must be so altered by examples of the spirit of Christ in people's lives, "read of all men," living amongst the rest, that the old genus will no longer be recognizable. The wall must be, and is being, undermined by deeds of love and lives of sacrifice.

What about medical missions? They are valuable, but to my mind they do not possess any patent. Still, it was good to hear a man tell us that as he walked along a road near Samaria recently, he met a man trudging beside a donkey, and holding on to the animal his frail and terribly sick wife. When he asked where the man was going to carry his wife, he replied, "To see the great Hakim that lives in Galilee." Have no lack of faith, friends at home. No deed of love done in the Master's name is lost. It is hard as yet for anyone of any religious label to change it, and still to remain among the folk where he has lived. In fanciful pages, it is even dangerous to do so. The danger is not confined to one religion or another, however, but is common to all to a lesser or greater extent.

Sir Herbert Samuel, High Commissioner for Palestine, told me that in his time no one has obeyed the law and registered his change of religion as a convert. But there are many who have reason to believe that the true conversion, not of label but of nature, has been registered in higher and more searching Courts than any man will set up in Palestine for many a day to come.

Christmas in Bethlehem.

On Christmas Eve we went down to Bethlehem and sang carols "under the wide and starry sky." On either side of us frowned the big churches of the Latins and the Greeks. The Armenian corner in the Church of the Nativity was not tenanted, for their Christmas is twelve days later than ours. We thanked God that it fell to our lot to have to sing praises for this fateful night out in the open air. Amongst the singers was the Church of England Bishop of Jerusalem. Later on a great door in the wall opened, that is a hole in the great door did (for the opening has been cut down so as to make it too small to allow The Turks to drive their cattle in to shelter when they wished). In the door appeared a fine old bearded face, and an invitation was extended to us to come in and finish our singing in this place of worship—the Greek Church. In we went, and the evening ended with a whole herd of the marvellous garbed clergy praying for us, and giving us their blessing.

During the day we had walked in the Shepherd's Fields, and as we passed a cave in an overhanging rock, one of our party was told by the shepherd who was guiding us that he drove his sheep in there at night to keep them safe, as many jackals and hyenas were about. "But where is the door?" asked my friend, very naturally. "I am the door," he replied, just as simply.
Palestine is filled with happy incidents for the man who loves Christ. We find incongruities if we look for them in every rank of society, any in every walk of life. Even in our Lord's little body was not born into the world in the exact spot where men have let a silver star into the rock, and even if the intentional purpose of God has resulted in our not being able to locate, exactly any of sacred sites, Palestine is a joyful dream for those who increasingly look upon Christ as the hope of the world.

TWO FACES—OR MORE.

How many different ways there are of being good and bad!
 How many different men one man can be in his relations to the world.
 A Letter Friend wants me to write about two men she knows. "One is a hard boiled business man," she writes. "He will not allow children in his tenants' apartments. He is very keen on the dollar sign. Yet his oldest daughter said to me: 'If people knew my father as I do, everyone would love him!'"

"The other is a man of charming manners. Most of the people with whom he comes into contact like him. He has a reputation for generosity (as he is not in business for himself so one doesn't know what his dealings as a business man would be), always contributes generously to any neighborhood scheme, always insists on paying at least his share of any party, and tips generously. He seems to be exceptionally good tempered and everyone remarks on his wonderful disposition."

His Daughter-in-Law Saw A Different Man.

"But when we were praising him one day and regretting that his wife was not more like him, his daughter-in-law said: 'Well, I'm glad she isn't. She's three times as pleasant to live with as he is. You think he has such a lovely disposition. I wish you could see him when he gets up in the morning and when he comes home from business. . . . And as for his being so generous, he isn't generous to her, and she has to scrimp to make it possible for him to throw money around the way he likes to.'"

"I wish you'd warn people that lots of people have two faces and that you can't tell everything about a person by meeting him in one capacity."

Of course that ought to be a suspicious warning.
 But I suspect it isn't.

More Than Two Faces.

I suspect that she also puts the number of faces too low.
 If a man's daughter, his old childhood friend, his stenographer, his office boy, his favorite waiter and his business rival were each to describe his character, I don't very much if we should know by reading the description (being otherwise uninformed) that it was the same man.

Of course the two strikingly different faces are often the two a man shows to his family and to outsiders.
 The house devil who undergoes a startling metamorphosis into a street angel as he slams his front door and walks down his steps is just as familiar and interesting a phenomenon as the worm who metamorphoses into a butterfly.

Hazlitt wrote of him many years ago:
 "I conceive it possible that a person who is going to pour oil and balm into the wounds of afflicted humanity at a meeting of the Western Dispensary, by handsome speeches and by a handsome donation (not grudgingly given) may be thrown into a fit of rage that morning by having his toast too much buttered, may quarrel with the innocent prattle and amusements of his children, and cry 'Pish' at every observation his wife utters."

There is nothing antique about that picture is there, except the word "Pish."
 As for the man who is harsh outside and gentle within his home, I think he is a much rarer personage, but I know he exists.

He is like a coat plain and rough on the exterior and lined with the softest fur. An unusual but not an unprecedented phenomenon.

"Happy days are here again,
 Golden sunshine, gentle rain,
 Emerald grass begins to grow
 Where but lately lay the snow.
 Birds are singing in the trees,
 Kites are flying in the breeze,
 Violets with purple eyes,
 Watch the cloud ships in the skies."

sang Bobbie Redvest one morning, oh so early, while the dew lay on the grass and Pussy Willows by the brook smiled in their looking glass. Yes, sir, the Bubbling Brook in the quiet places was just as good as a mirror.
 All of a sudden the little robin flew down from his treetop and hopped along the Sunny Meadow. The next minute he was pulling away at a big worm.

"Pull, pull, pull!
 Tug, tug, tug!
 That's the way to get a worm,
 But not a crawly bug."

shouted Professor Jim Crow from his Pine Tree Bungalow.

Bracing his feet, Bobbie Redvest pulled with all his might, but the worm, who had half entered the hole in the ground, swished out the front end of his body, getting such a good grip on the sides of the hole that tug as he could, the little robin couldn't pull him out until, snap! the worm parted in the middle, almost causing Bobbie Redvest to topple over on his tail.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Professor Crow. "Half a loaf is better than no bread. Swallow your breakfast, Bobbie Redvest."

"Dear, Oh dear," sighed Little Jack Rabbit, who happened along just at that moment, "now what will the poor worm do—I mean the part of him in the ground."

"Listen to me for a minute or three, while I hasten to take a look."

Answered Professor Crow as he turned with his toe
 The leaves of his Wisdom Book.

Then, placing his great spectacles on his beak, he began to read aloud:
 "The front end keeps on crawling into the hole and by and by, after eating enough dirt, grows itself a new tail."

"You don't mean it," exclaimed the little rabbit.

"I certainly do," replied that wise old bird, "and, what's more, if Bobbie Redvest had just pulled off the worm's head, the tail would have grown a new one. Yes, it would, provided, of course, that the piece left in the hole was longer than the part that was pulled off."

"Dear, dear, dearest me," cried the amazed little bunny, "I'll tell Mother all about it when I get home," and away he hopped to find a new adventure. And in the next story, Little Reader, you shall hear what happened after that, if Father brings home the paper, or leave it for you to read the stories which your Uncle Dave writes for boys and girls who have never visited Rabbitland.

he pulled with all his might.

Contravention of the Old Age Pension Act

An interesting debate, which threw considerable light upon the manner in which the Old Age Pension Act had been infringed in recent years, took place in the Legislative Council on Wednesday afternoon.

Both the Leader of the Government and the President of the Council expressed their strong disapproval of the manner in which the law had been disregarded, and the latter remarked that the Chamber would be justified in making a vigorous protest against a system under which certain persons were sent to prison for violating laws that others could flout with impunity.

- 1. The person must have attained the age of seventy-five years;
2. The person must satisfy the Governor in Council that for not less than twenty years before the receipt of any sum on account of a pension he has had his residence, as defined by regulation under this Chapter in this Colony.

Section 8 of the Act says: "If, for the purpose of obtaining or continuing an Old Age Pension under this Chapter, either for himself or for any other person, any person knowingly makes any false statement or false representation, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months."

In view of the abuses that have been practised in this connection, can it be said that the President's remark was a mere figure of speech? Surely the time has come when representatives ceased to be the patrons of the districts which they represent! The system is iniquitous from whatever point it is viewed. It gives them an influence which, in many cases, they are unable to exercise by their personality or ability. It destroys the whole effect of the vote; leads to the grossest corruption; tends to undermine the public morale, and reduces the importance of a district in an election contest to that of a rotten borough which existed in England before the Great Reform Act placed the power in the hands of the people.

We do not doubt that the desire to relieve poverty has largely influenced those who have recommended unqualified persons for this pension, but they seem to have overlooked the fact that their sympathy has been the cause of depriving others in other districts, who were fully entitled to the relief, of receiving their due.

Engineer's Report on Bonavista Canal

Hon. W. S. Monroe, M.H.A., Premier, Newfoundland.

Sir,—In accordance with your verbal request I visited Bonavista on the 19th inst., and have the honour to report that I inspected the Harbour and the works already performed on the projected canal from the Table with 4 columns: Description of work, Rate, Quantity, Cost. Includes items like Excavation for Canal above High Water, Water, Excavation for Canal in Pond, etc.

The unit prices given appear to be very low particularly for making the entrance from the sea to the canal. In the event of the work being completed as planned, I have very grave doubts as to the efficiency of the scheme as a boat refuge. The Harbour is fully exposed to the seas from the North West to South West, from which direction the littoral drift travels.

In order to be assured of a safe entrance from the sea to the canal, it would be necessary to extend the canal by the construction of walls well out into deep water. My opinion is that the canal would require continuous dredging, as the storms would pile up a shingle at the entrance. In addition considerable silt is likely to be deposited in the canal brought down from the pond above. I respectfully recommend that this work be abandoned and consideration given to the building of a Breakwater along the site of the remains of the present Breakwater to follow along the reef of rocks from Shoal Point to Squary Island.

After I return to Canada I will give the matter some further consideration and will report.

I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant, A. GRAY, M.E.I.C., M. Am. Soc. C.E., Engineer Public Works, Canada. St. John's, Nfld., April 21, 1925.

Private Bills

Dear Sir,—In Wednesday's issue of your paper Mr. H. A. Winter claims that there has been a compliance with the Rules of the House of Assembly in connection with the Nfld. Power & Paper Co. Bill.

Before I wrote my last letter I saw this notice. All that it says is that an Act "to confirm certain titles to land in the parish of Brook" will be introduced. I understand that titles to certain rights are also sought to be confirmed. No mention is made of this in the notice.

Whilst on the question of Private Bills, might I ask if it is correct House of Assembly practice to have a shareholder in the Company seeking concessions on the Select Committee connected with his Company's Bill—a judge in his own cause.

A Tribute to Capt. Little

Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned seafarers from Port Cove who were aboard the wreck of the S. S. Stella Maria and were put aboard the S. S. Sagona for the rest of the voyage, desire to express through the columns of The Evening Telegram, our thanks to Capt. Lewis Little, M.H.A., for his great kindness to us while we were aboard his ship and also after landing at Harbour Grace at the close of the voyage. We gratefully recognize that Capt. Little did everything he could for us and feel that in making public our sense of gratitude to him for his considerate treatment of a body of distressed men we are giving a gentleman only what is due.

St. George's Day Parade

SOCIETIES ATTEND SERVICE AT C. OF E. CATHEDRAL.

The annual St. George's Day Joint Parade held yesterday was most successful. At 9.30 a.m. four Societies, viz.—Newfoundland British Society, the Royal Orange Association, Society of United Fishermen and Sons of England Benefit Society, assembled in Cathedral Square and in the order named ranks were formed.

The parade continued the march east along Duckworth Street to the site of the Newfoundland Memorial where Chairman C. W. Bowden and Secretary A. Wright, placed wreaths in memory of the members of the Societies who had paid the supreme sacrifice. As the wreath was being placed the C.L.B. band played "Nearer My God to Thee." The parade then moved on to Government House where a call was made on His Excellency the Governor. Mr. C. W. Bowden, Chairman of the Joint Committee, tendered greeting to His Excellency, and asked him to convey their expressions of loyalty to His Majesty the King. In reply, His Excellency expressed his pleasure at meeting such a large number and said he would be very glad to forward their message to the Secretary of State.

On leaving the Government House the parade continued on up Military Road to Rawlin's Cross, along Queen's Road to Cathedral Square, where the different Societies marched off to their respective Lodge Rooms, after one of the best parades had been held to celebrate St. George's Day.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

April 23rd.—This day do set myself again about the business of writing my Journal, since I am beset by my friends since my return to the city, who wish me to continue my poor writings. But Lord, what a great deal of pleasure it do give me to know how well my poor scribbles are thought of, and makes me nigh burst with pride. This morning did visit the club for the first time in many weeks, and meeting Squibbs there, he do give me a hearty welcome and would hear all the news of my journey. In his turn, he do give me the series of public affairs and tells me, among other things, how the tariff is like to be somewhat altered before it passes the House.

I did try a game of billiards with him yet do find myself as little skilled as ever I was. This afternoon, my wife would go abroad in her new Easter clothes which I have not seen yet, but fear more to see the bill for them. But Lord, it coming on to rain, the poor wretch must needs leave the showing of her finery for a later day. At night, to the Boxing contest in the C.L.B. Armory, mighty interesting, albeit some more mauling than boxing and divers contestants badly battered. Anon home, where I do join my wife at bridge with the Povey's, that are come to see us.

Cannot Participate This Year

A sub-Committee of the Empire Exhibition Committee consisting of Sir M. G. Winter, Hon. Geo. Shea, R. B. Job, Col. Rendell and Sir Michael Cashin met the Board of Trade Council to-day, and discussed the matter of participating in the 1925 Toronto National Exhibition. It appears that owing to delay in taking up the matter here that reservations which were made, when an invitation was issued to the Government in March have been passed over to the Canadian manufacturers, and as no space is now available we cannot participate until 1926.

Cunard Liner Andania Lands Her Captain

The Cunard Liner Andania, which had advised that she was making for this port on Wednesday forenoon owing to the illness of her captain, arriving off the Narrows at 6.15 p.m., and by 6.45 was moored in the stream. She was met off the Heads by the Furness Withy tug, and Pilot Malone brought her safely into port. Dr. Arch Tait, the Port Doctor, and Dr. Fox of the General Hospital staff immediately boarded her, and were followed by the agent of the Furness Withy, in the tug Mouton. She immediately returned to the King's Wharf in order to take off the stretcher bearers, but it was not until 10.20 p.m. that Captain F. E. Storey, R.N.R., was conveyed ashore. The ambulance was waiting and he was immediately taken to the General Hospital, where all arrangements had been made for his admission.

Leaving Halifax on Monday night the Andania ran into the storm off Halifax in which the Japanese steam-ship Ruffuku Maru and her crew went to their doom, and Captain Storey, who was all night on the bridge, contracted a chill which resulted in a severe attack of diabetes, from which he had been suffering for some time. Everything possible was done for him by the ship's surgeon, Dr. Morrin, but unfortunately no insulin was available and it was not until late in the afternoon that Dr. Frazer, Professor of Medicine of Bart's Hospital, London, who was a passenger, and who had also been in attendance on the captain, found a supply of insulin in his effects and was able to relieve his sufferings. After arrival in port, and with fresh insulin available, it was hoped that Captain Storey's condition would improve, but as there was no indication of this, it was decided to bring him ashore. The ship sailed again at 7 a.m. yesterday for Hamburg via Plymouth and Cherbourg. She is loaded with wheat for the former port and has on board 292 first and 108 second class passengers.

Captain F. E. Storey, R.D., R.N.R., is a member of the Royal Naval Reserve and holds a Captain's rank in the service. Only 48 years of age, he is one of the youngest captains holding this rank in the service. He has previously commanded several steamers of his line.

The Chief Officer of the steamer, who is now in command, C. G. Hingworth, R.N.R., is also a member of the Royal Naval Reserve, holding the rank of Lieut. Commander. He will be in charge during the captain's illness.

Llewellyn Club

ANNUAL FLIPPER DINNER.
The annual flipper dinner of Llewellyn Club, was held at Canon Wood Hall on Wednesday night, and proved to be one of the most successful in the history of the club. Rev. Mr. Elliott, President of the club, was in the chair and by his genial manner made everyone feel perfectly at home.

The flippers were cooked and served in a splendid manner and this was best known by the hearty manner in which they were partaken of. Flippers are always considered a choice dish, but flippers cooked as these were, are a delicacy. The ladies who were responsible for them, were well deserving of the praise showered on them, by those present.

The guests of the evening included Hon. W. S. Monroe, Prime Minister; Hon. W. J. Higgins, Minister of Justice; His Honor Mayor Cook; Mr. J. C. Puddister, M.H.A., Vice-President M.C.L.L., and many others.

After the inner man had been fully satisfied, the Chairman opened the toast list, expressing his pleasure at such a large gathering and bidding everyone welcome. He read a letter from Mr. C. E. Hunt, Vice-President of the club, who was unable to be present owing to have to go abroad. Rev. Mr. Godfrey was also regrettably absent, suffering from a cold.

The toast list was one of unusual merit, and the speeches were of a splendid character, breathing a fine spirit of patriotism and good fellowship. Many things of public interest were discussed very interestingly, and those who had the privilege of hearing them derived much good as well as pleasure from the addresses.

The musical programme was excellent, the singing of the male quartette of the Cathedral Choir, being a particular attraction. Mr. Delmar's songs brought much deserved applause, as did the recitations of Mr. McLeod.

An Enjoyable Re-Union

On Wednesday night, the eve of St. George's Day, the annual reunion of the employees of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., was held in the Galety Hall. The event, which had been carefully planned, was a thorough success from every standpoint. The hall and supper room was tastefully decorated, the firm's colors, Red, White and Blue, predominating. The catering was taken care of by the Sterling Restaurant and the menu and service was all that could be desired, which reflects great credit on the management of that popular restaurant. The Prince's orchestra furnished the music for the dance programme and measured up to the usual high standard for which they are so popular and widely known. The attendance was large and included the Hon. C. P. Ayre, Miss Dorothy Ayre, Fred W. Ayre, Miss Holloway, J. Ross, the veteran buyer, L. and Mrs. Mewa, K. and Mrs. Menzies, Philip Hudson and J. C. Collier. To say that the Reunion was a huge success would be putting it mildly as it was voted by all to be the very best held under such auspices. The Dance programme was splendid and every detail was a credit to the floor manager, J. Nunn. Special features of the evening were the remarks made by L. C. Mewa, who paid a high tribute to the firm of Ayre & Sons, Ltd. for their co-operation in making it possible for the employees to have such a social hour, also his reference to the absent members who graced such previous occasions by their presence and support. Mr. Fred W. Ayre acknowledged this tribute in a fashion peculiar to himself, and undoubtedly his remarks will be effective. The Elimination Dance was won by Miss Stella Bolger and James Murphy. Miss Bolger will be leaving for the land of Uncle Sam shortly and we wish her every success. The prizes were presented by F. W. Ayre amidst much applause and approval. This social event terminated in the wee sma' hours of the morning, and the writer is voicing the sentiments of all present in saying that the 1925 annual Reunion will long be remembered by those present.

Secret of Happiness

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the tortures of displacements with consequent pains, aches and nervousness—the middle aged woman to the unfortunate conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.

TOILET GOODS

That privilege of "looking your best" all through the hours of shopping and business, motor and sports, is Armand's gift to women (in world over). For, in Armand soap, powders, rouge, creams and talcum lies the secret of lasting dauntiness. Armand toilet requisites are different from others. Not only is Armand Powder prepared with a cold cream base, but this same adroit touch of cold cream has been introduced into the rouge and talcum as well. This skilfully blended-cream base is the reason for the smooth denseness of Armand, the velvet adherence which has made these powders, rouges and talcums so famous. The confidence that you are "looking your best" is yours from the time you use Armand until you bathe it off.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

THE GREAT SOULS.

There are great souls which tower above the throng
And lead the way to glory and to fame;
They seem to rise above our petty shame,
And sense more surely what is right
And wrong;
They have more patience when the day seems long,
They see more clearly truth's white torches flame,
Have finer feelings than a nobler aim
And where we break or falter they are strong.
The bitterness of life disturbs them not,
By our temptations they're not lured astray;
A glimpse of God's high purpose they have caught
And willingly they serve and show the way.
Fortune and selfish pleasure drag us down,
But these great souls press on and gain the crown.

Britain's Idle Mines

£100,000 A WEEK LOST IN WAGES.

TREBORCHY, Rhondda Valley.—This busy mining district is threatened with a plight similar to that which has overtaken the Monmouth mining town, Blaenavon, where 3,500 of the 4,000 wage-earning males have been thrown on the dole by the closing of the Blaenavon pits owing to heavy taxation, high cost of production, and German competition.
It has been decided to close down the Abergorchry pit here, and 14 days' notice has been given to 1,200 men. At the same time 900 men have been given similar notice at the Lady Lewis colliery in the neighbouring district of Ynysyhir. This means that another 2,000 men will come on the dole in the Rhondda Valley.

One in Five Out of Work.

In the upper part of the valley from Ystrad to Blaenau more than 3,000 men will be drawing unemployment pay. Practically one in every five will be out of work—and this in a district world famous for its coal.

Colliery owners and managers with whom I have talked have but one explanation of the unprecedented situation in the coalfield—abnormal trade depression consequent upon German competition, high cost of production, and overwhelming taxation. There are to-day more than 50 pits closed in the South Wales area through economic causes, and between 25,000 and 30,000 colliers drawing the dole. These men are losing approximately £100,000 a week in wages, while the output lost to Britain is roughly 1,000,000 tons. The men, and I have spoken to many of them, are fretting to get back to work. Some of them have not touched their tools since last August, and their leaders seem powerless to make any useful suggestions which might enable the pits to reopen. Every man in South Wales knows what the German menace to his livelihood means.

German Methods.

The Germans are attacking the British coal market in a scientific manner. They obtain an analysis of the British coal. They know they cannot produce coal equal to British, but they have discovered that by careful washing, screening, and a scientific mixture of various coals they can produce a coal they can sell to Britain's customers as something nearly approximating to British coal.

Offered at 3s. a ton cheaper than the British product, it has proved an irresistible lure to the foreign buyer. But even so, if British coal could be reduced by 1s. 6d. a ton it would still, on economic grounds, be a better bargain, and regain its old position in the favour of buyers.

High Taxation.

Colliery owners cannot, under present conditions, see their way to get that 1s. 6d. off. Wages alone account for more than 70 per cent of the cost of production, and then there are the crushing burdens of rates and taxation.

Here are figures showing the increase of local taxation in the South Wales coal field as compared with 1918:—
Merthyr 134%
Swansea 80%
Neath 154%
Aberdare 117%
Bedwally 70%
Blaenavon 45%
Bryn-mawr 180%
Mountain Ash 134%
Ogmore and Garw 109%
Rhondda Valley 150%
In addition Neath Board of Guardians has just increased its poor rate by 6d., having had to budget for parish relief at the rate of £120,000 a year.—Daily Mail.

Last Wolves

The Duke of Portland has erected a memorial at Lochgry to mark the spot where the last wolf of Sutherland was killed, about 1700. Other parts of Scotland have rival survivors; a noble tale is told of the last of the race, slain by Sir Ewan Cameron in 1680, and those who prefer that story suggest a wolf-dog when confronted with the rival account of the Macquena of Pal-Chro'ain, who diked what he called the last wolf in 1748. Wolves were so plentiful in Ireland in Cromwell's day that a bounty was put upon them and the exportation of wolfhounds was forbidden; but there is no record of an Irish wolf after 1766. In England they died out centuries earlier; there is no note of them after the reign of Henry VII, who gave up the ghost in 1509, and from Wales there is no record after 1166.

Why the wolf should have kept so cannily to the north of Scotland so many centuries after he left England and Wales is a mystery. England is small, and Canadian wolves of virtually the same stock as the European, are great travellers. They cross Bering Strait; they reach Greenland over the ice; they run thirty or forty miles in a night, and appear at intervals where they had not been seen for decades. Wolves survive in France, which is more thickly settled than Scotland, and in Spain and Italy, and every winter produces a crop of horrible yarns of man-eating wolves in Russia and the Balkans. France, indeed still appoints honorary officials, known as "lieutenants de l'ousterie" who wear the chamouis breeches and sky-blue coats, with wolf heads on the gold buttons, of the old official wolf-catchers. There is a theory that the wolf had long died out in western Europe, but that packs followed Napoleon's straggling army back from Russia and made themselves at home again.

Sunken Continent of Atlantic No Myth

Says Archaeologist Who Claims to Have Found Proof in Spain. BERLIN, April 15.—Trace of the Utopian continent of Atlantis, of which Plato and other ancients wrote and which archaeologists have sought for centuries, has been found in Spain, according to the claims of Dr. Adolph Schulten of Erlangen.

This continent supposed to have been occupied, is a spot in the Atlantic ocean between Spain and Central America, and to have sunk beneath the surface due to volcanic disturbances. Dr. Schulten says he believes that the ancient culture city of Tartessos, Spain, which was the biblical city of Tarsish, was part of Atlantis.

Extensive archaeological excavations by Dr. Schulten, which is continuing, shows that Tartessos had a rich trade, and culture 3000 years before Christ.

The city, with the archaeological remains was once a connecting link between the continents of Europe and Atlantis, lay at the mouth of the Guadalquivir, it was conquered by the Phoenicians in 800 B.C. and given by them a wonderful culture, including work in bronze and other metals.

It is from the lost continent of Atlantis that the Gro-Magnons, a race of supermen, are supposed to have sprung. The Scots are claimed to be descendants of these former inhabitants of Atlantis.

Many attempts have been made to bring up from the bottom of the Atlantic ocean evidence that a continent existed there.

FIRST AND PARAMOUNT, ABSOLUTE SECURITY TO POLICYHOLDERS

"INSURANCE money is just something for relatives to quarrel over," you say.

Perhaps it is. But all their quarrelling will do them no good. They can't defeat your wishes. You direct that the money be paid to whom you choose, and that settles it.

The proceeds of an Imperial Policy can be paid in one sum at your death, or in monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly payments.

And if you outlive your family's need for protection, the cash value of your policy can be used to provide comforts for your own old age.

Further particulars are given in our booklet, "The Creation of an Estate." Write for a free copy—to-day—while you are insurable.

while the demand for ringside seats called for extra chairs. The programme of events, eleven in number, comprising the various class weights, in both wrestling and boxing, were keenly contested, two of which were by knockouts, and of course the drops of claret had to fly to make the night all the more thrilling. A feature of the performance was the clean manner in which each bout was fought.

The Tournament commenced at 8.15, and the audience were first treated to a snappy wrestling bout between W. Brady, 87lbs, and J. Parsons, 81lbs, of the Paperweight Class. Brady, with a 5 pound advantage, proved the stronger of the two, and by clever maneuvering, he pinned his opponent to the mat twice, earning the first fall in 1 min. 20 1-5 sec, by applying a double arm hold; the second in 4 min. 17 sec, by a body and bar hold.

The featherweight match, between T. Hall (126lbs.) and R. Reid (120lbs.), proved to be an easy bout for the former. The decision was to wrestle fifteen minutes with two minutes rest between falls. Hall remained on the defence in the early stages, allowing his opponent to work all the holds, which brought no result. After six minutes of grappling, however, Hall gained the advantage and won the first fall by a body hold, and in less than 59 seconds he earned a second fall by using the same hold, thus winning the title.

B. Chancey (132lbs.) and R. Dwyer (132lbs.), contested for the title in the lightweight class. Chancey proved his opponent to be the canny getting to be the aggressor, but it took him 8 min. 24 seconds to register the first fall. After a brief rest the bout was continued, and in 16 seconds Chancey secured an easy fall and was declared the winner.

BOXING.
Thrills aplenty were provided in the boxing, but it remained to C. Janes and J. Bishop, of the bantamweight class to provide the best bout of the evening, whilst a typical slugging match between Young and Garland, in the welterweight class, also took the fancy of the crowd. In most all bouts the blows were landed with telling effect, particularly the right hand punch of both LaFosse and Phelan, who put their opponents asleep for the full count.

There were no bouts in the middleweight (Wrestling), or middleweight (Boxing). H. Adams and F. Stamp won the respective titles unopposed. During the evening the C.L.B. Band was in attendance and rendered several appropriate selections, which were greatly appreciated by the gathering. The tournament was well handled and proved a financial success. The N.A.A.A. officials, Announcer Captain L. Stick, and particularly Mr. Stan Cullen, who refereed the bouts with entire satisfaction to all concerned, in making the tournament the success that it was, every congratulation is due.

Cello Recital at Synod Hall

The Cello Recital by Mr. Bernard Mayers took place in the Synod Hall last night before a goodly gathering. The recital was attended by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardice, with Capt. Goodfellow, and much pleasure was derived out of the musical programme which followed. Besides the selections by Mr. Mayers, the programme included songs by Mr. W. A. Tucker, by Miss M. Ryan with pianoforte accompaniment by Mr. F. J. King; by Mrs. H. Small, with violin obligato by Mr. Hugh O'Neill and pianoforte solo by Mr. H. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M.

During the interval Dr. V. P. Burke reviewed the work of the S.P.A. in aid of which the recital was given.

British Soiree

The annual British Soiree took place last night in the Grenfell Hall and was attended upwards of 150 couples. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardice, accompanied by Capt. Goodfellow, were present, and were received by the officers. After they had been entertained at supper, the society dance was proceeded with. This was an old-time quadrille the music played for it being "Queen of Scots" and Lady Allardice gracefully participated in the dance. The programme consisted of twelve dances.

Star Ladies' Sale

The annual Sale of Work of the Star of the Sea Ladies' Association, which was opened on Tuesday afternoon continued on Wednesday and yesterday and concluded last night with a card party supper and dance which was an entire success.

Columbus Ladies' Dance

A most enjoyable dance was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Association on Wednesday night. Mrs. Jardine's orchestra supplied the music and the large gathering present voted the affair as one of the best yet held.

Future Receiving Tubes

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The next, and most logical step in tube development will be the receiving tube which operates entirely from a 110 volt alternating current lighting system. Sooner or later a tube of this type will be placed on the market. It will probably be supplied with an adapter so that existing radio sets will not have to be radically altered either in design or hook-up.

Alternating current cannot be used on the present day tube filaments for receiving purposes on account of the hum which is always more or less present no matter how carefully designed the filtering system is. It is true it is possible to rectify the alternating current and by means of all sorts of balancing condensers and resistances get good enough direct current to operate the filaments. This is expensive, unhandy and only a makeshift arrangement.

The purpose of the filament in a vacuum tube is to shoot off electrons, or particles of negative electricity. ANY incandescent metal emits electrons. If the metal is coated with certain oxides it emits more electrons of the same number as an incandescent metal except the coated metal can operate at a temperature below incandescence. Witness the "X-L" type of filament in the UV-159 and UV-201 A. Due to the thorium oxide in the filament of the tube, the filament is operated only as a yellow red as compared with the uncoated filament of the UV-200 and the old UV-201 tube.

So to get electrons we must have a highly heated metal element enclosed in a vacuum tube. Look at our sketch shown above. Here we have the ordinary grid and plate elements of present day tubes. We also have a filament. Note that the filament is not connected to any part of the radio circuit. The filament is lighted from the 110 volt house current system. This filament is inside a thoriated coated thimble. The thimble is connected into the radio circuit just as the filament in our present tubes is connected. If this thimble emits electrons, it gets us necessary heat-supply from the alternating current filament. The filament merely acts as a heater unit to raise the thimble to the proper temperature necessary to cause electrons to flow from the thimble. As there is no electrical connection between the filament and any part of the receiving circuit, the filament causes absolutely no hum in the receiving set. Thus you see we have a true alternating current tube.

This is not mere dreaming—this tube will come eventually. And we bet it won't be different in principle to the tube we have been talking about. Wait and see!

Moscow Men in London
LUXURIOUS HOTEL SUITES.

The Bolshevik trade union delegates who arrived in London from Moscow recently to take part in Monday's conference with a committee of the Trades Union Congress general council have lost no time in making themselves comfortable.

The delegates are: Messrs. Tomski,
Mikhailoff, Yarotsky, and Makarova.
Mr. Yarotsky is the inspector, Mr.
Makarova the technical secretary, and the party includes a shorthand-typist,
Miss Olga F. Chernychova.

They are installed in luxurious suites of rooms at a hotel in Ebury street, S. W. Apart from a visit to the offices of the Trades Union Congress parliamentary committee in Eccle-stoft square, S. W., they remained indoors.

The conference will be held at the Trades Union Congress offices. Its purpose is to discuss a resolution of the Amsterdam conference of the International Federation of Trade Unions inviting the Russian unions to join the federation. They are already affiliated to the Red International of Labour Unions, which is a revolutionary Communist organization, and they have come here ostensibly to seek the "advice" of British trade union leaders.

Talks With Extremists.

Some of the delegation visited a club near Fleet-street, the membership of which includes some of the staff of Arco, Ltd., the British trading agent of the Soviet Government.

It is gathered, writes the Political Correspondent, that preliminary private conversations are taking place between the delegation and extremis-tist trade union leaders, these being directed to reciprocal soundings as to the best method of setting the Russian unions into the Amsterdam International.

During the past few days M. Jan
Oudageest, secretary of the Amsterdam International, who opposes unity with the Russians, and his colleague,
M. Sassenbach, have been in London, but they have not visited 32, Eccle-stoft-square. Mr. Eddo Pimpen, secretary of the International Transport Workers, has also been in London.

I gather that the Russians will also meet the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Socialist Parliamentary Party for discussion of political and diplomatic relations.

Mr. Gallagher and the Reds.

MOSCOW—At a plenary sitting of the executive of the Communist International, Mr. Gallagher, the British representative, declared, according to the Press News Agency, that the situation in Great Britain was especially favourable for the unification of the trade union movement. The bureaucratic tendencies of some of the leaders of the trade unions, however, hindered the development of this movement.

The sitting unanimously passed a resolution emphasizing the importance of a conference of British and Soviet trade unions.

VETERAN POLE RECAPTURES WORLD TITLE.

Stanislaus Zbyzsko, 53, Defeats Wayne
Munn, Youthful Giant, in Straight Falls.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Stanislaus Zbyzsko, 53-year-old veteran of the mat, again rules the world as champion of wrestlers. He regained the title he lost several years ago by conquering Wayne (Big) Munn last night in two straight falls and in less than fourteen minutes of actual wrestling. A cleverly executed forearm earned the first fall for the veteran, while he scored the second and deciding fall with a forearm and hammer lock.

Zbyzsko exhibited the same mat prowess against his more youthful opponent that brought him the chamionship years ago and clearly demonstrated that Munn's great strength was no match for the science of the master grappler. Reaching only to the shoulders of the giant westerner and weighing about 50 pounds less, Zbyzsko wriggled from his grasp every time that Munn tried to obtain his favorite crotch hold and easily broke away when he attempted a ju-jitsu.

Then, watching his opportunity, Zbyzsko gained a body hold, lifted his opponent high in the air, and hurled him to the floor, pinning his shoulders to the mat a few seconds later.

After the intermission he repeated the performance and soon had Munn on his back in the grip that restored to him the heavyweight crown.

After the bout club physicians who examined Munn said that he was suffering from acute tonsillitis and that he had fainted during the intermission between the first and second falls.

Doctors said he had no fever when they examined him before the match.

Zbyzsko is 53 years old, and weighs 210 pounds.

The former Nebraska athlete weighs 280 pounds and is 6 feet 4 inches in height.

House of Assembly

WEDNESDAY, April 22.
The report of the Select Committee on the Avon Telephone Co. was submitted. On motion for the adoption of the report MR. DUFF raised objection, and urged for delay in order that the subject matter of the bill could be more fully investigated by the people concerned.
THE PRIME MINISTER pointed out that the Select Committee had nothing to do with the Bill and only dealt with the petition. It was the province of the Select Committee to determine if the rule of the House had been complied with. Mr. Duff was on the Committee and the report showed that the rules had been complied with. It was a matter for the House to determine whether they would pass the Bill or not.
MR. SPEAKER said in reference to this matter that the Select Committee was required to enquire and report as to whether the rules of the House were complied with for the acceptance or rejection of the petition in question. Pursuant to Rule 303 if the Bill is permitted to be introduced, after its second reading it is referred to a Select Committee, to whom also is referred the petition in its favor as well as any petitions that might be made against it, that Select Committee meets, after a week's notice has been given of the convening of such meeting, to consider how the rights or property of the people are affected by the proposed measure. In that way outside the rights or interests of any parties who might be prejudicially affected matters relevant might be thoroughly canvassed and discussed. Concluding the Speaker intimated to the House the absolute necessity of complying to the rules.

Mr. Gray's report on Old Day's Pond and the St. John's Dry Dock were tabled as was also the Royal Commission appointing the following Tariff Commission:—The Hon. Henry J. Brownrigg, Henry W. LeMesurier, C.M.G., C. P. Arre, M.B.E., John V. O'Dea, Fred F. Harris, Fred W. Angel, M.B.E., James J. McKay, Mortimer Green, The Hon. Harris M. Mosdell, M.D. The Commission issued at the command of his Excellency Sir Alexander Harris was signed by Sir R. A. Squires, Colonial Secretary, April 23, 1922.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.
The Newfoundland Hotels Facilities Bill passed third reading, and was ordered sent to the Legislative Council for concurrence therein.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.
MR. WARREN took occasion to question the authority by which the Minister of Finance reduced the duties on certain articles after the resolutions were tabled in the House. He congratulated the Minister on the financial showing, but took exception to the manner in which the faults and failings of the late Administration were featured in the Budget speech. He thought it unfair as they were at that time up against conditions that would try the best administrators. The charges of negligence and criminality made in connection with the fish and salt purchases failed when investigations were made. He admitted that there were abuses, but contended that all possible was done to check them, especially during his nine months' term of office. No credit was given the past administration for starting the Humber industry which brought millions of dollars into the country. The tariff, which was the work of the late administration, was adopted by the Government practically hot from the oven. In view of the large amount of relief which was being given in St. John's and other parts of the Island, he felt it his duty to oppose extra taxation being placed on the people of his district. The financial policy of the Government precluded any encouragement to the fisheries by way of bounty on fish, and he felt that had a small tax been placed on pork, beef and flour, etc., a more equitable tariff would be possible. In contradiction of the Finance Minister's estimate of an increase of $450,000 in revenue for the year 1925, Mr. Warren claimed that the increase amounted to about one and a quarter million dollars. He enumerated a number of articles which showed an increase of duty, and estimated that on 28 of the 200 items in the Blue Book the increase in revenue amounted to $648,000.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE interjected to point out that one and an eighth million dollars in taxes had been removed, and that Mr. Warren was drawing unfair inferences in alleging that taxes were increased by one and a half million dollars.

MR. WARREN, continuing, claimed that the industries had no right to the protection they were receiving, unless it were a case of being forced out of business or that they were to provide increased employment. In regard to the resolutions he hesitated to vote for the retaliatory measures against the Fordney tariff, as he did not know how it would work out especially with reference to the export duty on herring. In conclusion he announced that he would introduce an amendment to the resolutions.

Total average Collections for 1921-22 and 1922-23	$4,056,486
Total Collections New Tariff based on collections for these years	4,683,267 $ 601,781
Additional increase from Sales Tax 5% on Invoice Value only	1,000,000 $1,601,781
Deductions as follows:—
Free entry on flour, pork, beef, kerosene etc.	466,161
Estimated loss on 5% Sales Tax on Duty - Freight, etc.	350,000
Estimated loss by abrogation of income and Bank Tax	649,000 1,510,161
Net gain to the Colony as a result of increases and decreases of revenue	91,629

SIR JOHN pointed out that when the Tariff was made up by the Squires Government it was intended to continue the income tax and all other duties now abrogated in addition to the increases under the new tariff just brought into force.

MR. DUFF expressed his disappointment because the tariff had not been reduced, and made some comparison of prices that prevailed in the long ago with those ruling to-day. He was pleased to hear that the excess duty on tobacco had been increased and the protection given thereby reduced.
THE PRIME MINISTER took occasion to correct the Leader of the Opposition in regard to some erroneous comparisons of duties as made by him at a previous session. He regretted that the Government after less than one year in office could not see the way clear, after taking off more than a million dollars taxes, to get sufficient revenue without increasing the duty on some items. With regard to the Cordage Company and the Tobacco Company he explained that for the past thirty years the lines and twines from Norway enjoyed tariff privileges which the Ropewalk did not, as the latter had to pay as high as 40% on their glass wrappings and paper and other articles that went into the manufacture. The Norwegian lines and twines came in duty free. The Company now receives a protection under the Tariff commission recommendations of 6 1/2% nett. The Norwegian government paid a bounty on the manufacture of lines and twines. As there were industries in the country engaging from 40 to 50% protection he thought it not unreasonable that the Ropewalk should receive the small percentage of 6 1/2%.

In regard to the Tobacco Company he did not think like Mr. Warren that if a company is about to go out of business it should be given protection, nor did he believe in the principle that because a company was being well managed and was earning some money that advantage should be taken of the fact to increase its taxes. He agreed that every concern should be taxed a reasonable amount. The Imperial Tobacco Company pays into the revenue every year $450,000 in excess duty. In regard to cigarettes, he said that on every package that goes out of the factory three-fourths of its value goes to the revenue of the colony.

He claimed that the Cordage Company and Tobacco Factory are the most valuable concerns in the country. The former employs 500 people and the Tobacco Co. pays out $100,000 per year in wages. He challenged the statement of the leader of the Opposition that the Clothing Factories were paying out $250,000 per year in wages. Regarding the increases in taxes the Premier said it was the regret of the entire party that this had to be done. They tried to reduce expenditure and the whole country was crying out for improvements that will take a lot of money. Had they time a good deal could be done by way of decreasing expenditure, but at present there is no help for the tariff. He believed that when time permits considerable reductions can be made in some of the institutions and he estimated that more than $400,000 could be saved in the Public Charities Department alone. He did not think that the country should judge the government as yet, as he claimed it will take four years at least to clean up the matters brought before them. Before concluding, the Prime Minister assured the House that the Colonial Cordage Company would not increase the price of lines and twines by reason of the protection, unless the raw materials considerably advanced. In regard to the Tariff on tobacco he said that when he first saw the report of the Tariff Commission, he noticed a difference of four or five cents between the excise and the local duty on tobacco and $1.50 extra protection on cigars. He immediately insisted that these duties be taken off and no protection be given the Tobacco Factory. Further investigation showed that a difference of one and a half cents in favour of the Company existed on plug tobacco and this was likewise being taken off. This means removing two cents on the imported article and thus giving the Company less protection than it had before. Capt. Winsor had a few words to say in reply to Mr. Warren on matters relating to sending the Government ships to the ice. Mr. Hallyard followed and made some criticisms of the government's policy after which committee rose, reported progress and was given leave to sit again. The remaining orders of the day were deferred and the House adjourned.

Dry Dock
The present source of leakage. The floor would have to be raised and the timber and side walls would require about forty per cent. timber renewal.

The total cost of putting the Dock in a first class safe condition in its original design with the entrance width increased, is estimated at $500,000 and to maintain in a safe condition periodic expenditures would be required for maintenance.

The present dimensions of the Dock are:

Bottom	Top
Length . . . 528ft. 4in.	569ft. 6in.
Width . . . 49ft. 10in.	132ft. 6in.
Entrance wdt. 49ft. 10in.	82ft. 3in.
Depth over sill . . . 25ft. 2in.	H.W.O.S.T.
Depth over floor . . . 26ft. 11in.	H.W.O.S.T.

It is readily seen from the above figures that there is considerable waste space both in length and width on account of the slope on the side and end walls.

The present width between the Dock opening and the machine shops is very restricted and it is most essential that increased room be provided. The Dock design is such that it is adapted to modern working conditions, the depth on sill and the entrance width should be increased.

The side walls should be vertical so that a light travelling crane could easily handle materials from end to end of the Dock. In view of the above disadvantages and the large expenditure required to make adequate repairs, I have no hesitation in recommending that the only scheme commending itself is the immediate construction of a new Dry Dock to be built on the side of the present Dock and designed in accordance with latest practice consistent with the requirements of your port and the trade likely to accrue through being able to afford adequate facilities for repairs to vessels on the main trade route between Europe and Canada.

The Dock should be of concrete construction and of the following dimensions:—Length 575 feet, width at entrance 70 feet, depth on entrance sill at High Water 28' 0", depth of Dock floor below high water 31'. The width of Dock at coping would be about 88 feet, which would give on top additional 44' 6" of space which is most necessary for trackage and handling materials. The present pumps can be used but as recommended by Col. Mitchell a new pump would require to be erected and the pumps set at a lower level. At the entrance to the Dock a lay or fitting out wharf about 500 feet in length should be erected on the Southside. At a convenient place on the wharf the present pier should be re-erected, this is to be used for taking heavy lifts such as boilers, etc., out of steamers. No additional equipment is required for the Dock with the exception of a travelling crane of about 10 tons capacity. Electric Capstans, while used in larger Docks, are not essential.

In order that repairs to vessels may be carried out economically and with the minimum of delay, it is necessary that a well equipped machine shop be maintained. I have examined the present machine shop and find the building is in a good state of repair but in order that all repairs likely to be required, (with the exception of heavy castings) may be carried out expeditiously, the following, which should not exceed in cost $30,000.00 should be added:—One fifteen ton travelling crane; large plate roller, which, I understand, is already purchased; Electric Arc Welder; lathes, radial drilling machines and a few smaller machines. Several important docks are not equipped for turning out heavy castings, for example, both the St. John, N.B., and Halifax, N.S., Docks, are obliged to send to New Glasgow, N.S., for castings and the delay occasioned by your Dock sending away for such work is not much more than is experienced by the docks mentioned. Attention is called to the present pattern shop which is located at some distance from the Dock premises in a wooden building, the lower storey of which is used as a public garage. A new building should be erected in close proximity to the present shops, as considerable loss would result in the event of a fire breaking out in the garage.

The construction of the Dock will require the building of a suitable pier-ferham outside the entrance. If barges discharge suitable materials with sufficient penetration, interlocking steel sheet piling should be used. I do not consider it necessary to completely surround the Dock with this piling it being considered quite sufficient to connect up with the existing sheet piling which encloses the present Dock.

During the past few days I have had several borings made in the floor of the Dock and rock had been found at a depth of from five or ten feet below the present floor level. You may therefore be assured of a good foundation for the Dock walls at a reasonable expenditure for excavation and concrete.

The Dock walls should be of gravity type and four altars each about 30 inches wide provided. For access to the Dock four concrete stairs are required two at each end and for emergency exit three sets of ladders on each side should be incorporated in the Dock wall.

The floor of the Dock is placed 3' below the entrance sill in order that keel blocks of sufficient height may be used to enable ship's bottoms being repaired and accessible economically. Two entrance sills should be provided so that in the event of the inner sill being damaged repairs may be made, this also has the advantage of giving an additional 25' to the length of the Dock should occasion arise to dock a larger vessel. The whole construction of the Dock will be concrete with the exception of the caisson sill and top wharf, will be galvanized. The Dock will be flooded through openings provided in the entrance walls, these openings being closed by electrically operated gates or valves. The Dock will be closed by a gate or caisson similar to the present caisson. Clay puddle and concrete roadways are not necessary around the Dock as the type of construction recommended will make the Dock practically water tight and any water entering the Dock can easily be handled by the drainage system in the floor leading to the drainage and sump pumps.

The dredging required in the entrance channel to the Dry Dock amounts to about 10,000 cubic yards. This will give a depth of 30 feet below High Water which depth is necessary so that any vessel can enter the lay to berth at any stage of the tides.

In order that repairs to vessels may be carried out with as little delay as possible, it is necessary that a Dry Dock maintain or have available a large force of skilled mechanics and labor. In this connection your Dock is most favorably situated in having your Marine Plant work in conjunction with railroad repairs.

The type of shipping entering your port to a large extent depends upon the facilities you afford to this account together with your economic labor conditions. I respectfully recommend that due consideration be given to this phase of the question when deciding upon the need of a Dock.

A Dry Dock built and equipped as above outlined will, without the building of any additional structures give ample accommodation for the prompt and efficient repairs to vessels, entering your port. The removal of cargo, whether it be grain, coal or general packages, should be carried out with the facilities the port now affords as any of the privately owned docks.

be well within the estimate. With the completion of this work your Government will have an up to date Dry Dock capable of accommodating any ordinary type of vessel using the port or likely to require assistance, and I have no hesitation in respectfully recommending that you proceed with the construction of this work at the estimated cost of $1,059,000.00.

I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) A. GRAY,
M.B.I.C., M. Am. Sec., C.E.
Engineer Public Works, Canada.

BUICK Leadership.

BUICK leadership is no mere boast. It is an established fact. Even during the past year, in which many companies felt depression, Buick enjoyed an increase in business, as shown by the deliveries of Buick cars into the hands of owners during the year 1924, compared with the deliveries during the two previous years.

For instance, from July to December 31st, 1924, there were more than 60,000 new Buick automobiles delivered to owners, and during the corresponding period of 1923 there were more than 75,000 new Buick cars delivered to owners and during the same period 1924 the deliveries of new Buick automobiles to owners numbered 82,000.

Annual Sale of Work

M. G. C. A. LADIES' AUXILIARY.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the M.G.C.A., held their annual sale of work in the M.G.C.A. Club rooms yesterday afternoon, and it proved a decided success. The sale was opened at 3 p.m. by Lady Crosbie, who paid a very fitting tribute to the work of the Association and the splendid help given by the ladies. The stalls were very artistically arranged and during the afternoon a large gathering of people patronized the sale. The goods on display brought many fancy prices, and the amount taken realized a handsome sum. A special feature of the day's work was the receiving of donations from friends of the Association. Mesdames C. Post, H. Fraser and J. Crane, were in charge of the stalls, while Mesdames C. R. Ayre, H. J. Wyatt and Misses Ida and Alma Whiteway had charge of the teas. The ladies did a rushing business with the tea tables and served their usual delicious teas.

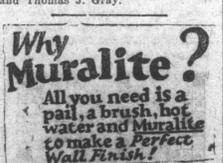

In-Laws Get Hubby Into "Hot Water"

Harold Lloyd's Newest Is Five Reel Domestic Comedy.

Hubby! He was just an everyday young fellow, who loved his wife and his home and everything. But one day his mother-in-law, and his two brothers-in-law walked in on him, and then the trouble began.

Briefly, this is the theme of Harold Lloyd's newest fun creator, "Hot Water," which he finished after five months of intensive work at the Hollywood studios and which will represent his second offering as an independent producer. It is the attraction, Monday, at the Nickel Theatre.

It is a theme which offers all kinds of possibilities for mirth, because it is human and Lloyd, ably assisted by one of the best casts ever seen in his support, has taken advantage of every possibility for laughs. "Hot Water" is a wholesome comedy of the type for which Lloyd has become famed, and the picture is certain to be ranked high with the best of the Fall productions. Sam Taylor and Fred Newmeyer directed "Hot Water" from a story by Taylor, Tim Whelan, John Gray and Thomas J. Gray.

Nothing Like These Results A Year Ago or Now

It is no trick to build a car that will go 65 or 70 miles an hour and has a power plant big enough to haul a freight train.

It's a great achievement to get over 70 miles an hour out of a motor of 3-inch bore and 4 1/2-inch stroke, with gasoline mileage fifty above 20 miles per gallon.

Isn't that the wonder of the Chrysler Six--a wonder so different and so superior that Chrysler was forced to build over 25,000 cars to meet the first-year demand.

Of course you don't want to drive your Chrysler over 70 miles an hour. In fact you may never go that fast. But there is something you do want that only a speed-ability of 70 miles can give.

That something is sure, steady power for steepest hill or deepest sand, a pick-up to flash you out of a traffic tangle, sturdy, dogged pull so you can throttle to five, even two miles an hour, on high without "bucking."

That's Chrysler performance in a nutshell. You surely must drive the car. It's the only way you can fully appreciate that it is the best built car you ever rode in. We are always eager to demonstrate the Chrysler.

"Hello Bill" an Avalanche of Laughs

Arle Marks Company Score in Great Comedy.

They came, they saw and they were captivated, conquered and sent into hysterics. The time was last evening, the place was The Casino Theatre, and the reason for all this excitement, was the opening of "Hello Bill," by the Arle Marks players. The audience was kept in laughter throughout the whole performance. The play is a comedy with a different twist. It contains no nonsense or suggestion, but is brimful of real mirth and fun from beginning to end. Anyone not acquainted with the mirth-provoking ability of Lindsay E. Perrin, would have thought that a free-for-all fight was taking place inside the theatre.

But, as usual, Mr. Perrin's side-splitting situations are very original and not at all like anything that he has done before. The dainty and charming Arle Marks is seen in a character that fits her like a glove, that of Dorothy Dare. In this role Miss Marks gives a strikingly realistic performance. Paul Brady, as Chris. Cutting, plays a good character, and in this role possesses the happy knack of faking things. W. L. Phillips plays a strong part, that of General William Fuller, Ray Wasmund, as Ned Hemmingway, is particularly good. Walter DeLuna appears as Dr. Hastings, and gives a good account of himself in a role that displays characteristic interpretation. Agnes Stutz gives an impressive performance of Matilda Fuller. Others in the cast give excellent performances.

Last night's vaudeville consisted of songs and dances by Clarence Kane; Wee Scotty Allison, in popular numbers; DeLuna and Adell in their novelty act; Princess Abdi Hamid in grand dancing; the great Andrews in New Magical Act and last, but not least, The Scotch Lads and Lassies, in their new and snappy Review, including a localized number which took

Magistrate's Court
Several drunks arrested over the holiday were released on deposit. One drunk was fined $1.00 or three days.
Two men, charged with a second offence, under the Alcoholic Liquors Act, were convicted and fined $200, or in default three months' imprisonment. They both went down.
A drunk and disorderly was fined $2.00 or 7 days.
A labourer, upon being called to the bar, stood charged with the larceny of a revolver, the property of John T. Dooley, on the 23rd of April, and a second charge of maliciously breaking a pane of glass in the shop window of John Clouston, valued at $5.00. Owing to the Crown not being ready to proceed, the accused was not asked to plead. On motion of Supr. O'Neil, the case was postponed for a week. The prisoner, who has a very bad record with eleven convictions against him since 1920, was later removed to the penitentiary.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.
GREEK ARMY MOBILIZING.
LONDON, April 23. A Bulgarian despatch to the Daily Mail from Brindisi, Italy, says a report is in circulation that a portion of the Greek army is mobilizing. The correspondent says the reason is not clear, but one theory is that it may be a demonstration against the increase of 7,900 in the Bulgarian forces sanctioned by the Council of Ambassadors, Wednesday.

NO SIGNS OF THE BODIES OF THE CREW.
HALIFAX, April 24. The Dominion Government steamer Arlex, despatched from Lockport, N.S. on Wednesday, to the scene of the foundering on Tuesday of the Raffuku Maru for the purpose of searching for bodies of the 35 men who were drowned, reached the locality this morning, but found no bodies yet, according to a report from the local agent for the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

ROD AND GUN
THE MAY ISSUE.
Featured in the May issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, the Special Quebec Tourist Number, are the delights and possibilities of this province for the tourist and sportsman. An editorial message from the Hon. J. F. Poirault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries, introduces the province to the tourist and points out the many charms it holds for him. In "Remember the Time" Harwood Steele recalls in the account of one fishing trip the good times enjoyed in many such and which may be enjoyed by any fisherman who so wishes this summer. "Idylls of the Spring," by Mason B. Woodard, reveals the delights of canoeing and "Daylight and Dusk" by A. R. Douglas is an entertaining story of a duck hunt in the early hours of the morning. William MacMillan, in his usual interesting and masterly manner recounts the story of a pair of eagles on "The storm swept crags of the Jacques Cartier," in "The Eagles of the Pine," "The Wicked Fleeth" by Harry M. Moore and "The Greenhead" by Frank Young complete the list of interesting stories with a Quebec setting. The regular contributors are also represented in this number. The stories from Bonnycastle Dale and Martin Hunter and the various departments, Fishing Notes, Outdoor Talk, Guns and Ammunition, Kennel and The Trap, all come up to their usual mark of excellence. Published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

REPORTS DEATH OF SEAMAN.
The schooner Gordon T. Tibbo has arrived at Grand Bank from Cadiz, salt laden. The vessel reports the death of Reuben Ralph, single, when fourteen days out from Cadiz.

CORRECTION.—In giving an account of a Card Party held by the Sergeants' Ladies' Auxiliary on Tuesday night, we inadvertently stated that the affair was held by the St. Andrew's Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Best Advertising Medium
in Newfoundland

Mr. Wm. Wrigley, Jr., the chewing gum king, of Chicago, in explaining the rapid growth of his company, said it was all due to advertising. "But," interrupted one of his friends, travelling with him to the Pacific Coast, "you have already built up a remarkable business. Why not save some of this advertising money and run along on momentum for a while?" "Well," Mr. Wrigley said, "we have had a fine, fast trip West from Chicago so far. How much progress do you think we would make if they took off the engine?"
