PREFACE.

In submitting the Guelph Directory to the public, the publisher is desirous of returning his thanks to those who, by their liberal advertising patronage, have afforded him material assistance in the enterprise.

Although he cannot claim originality in publishing the first Directory of this thriving town, he does claim originality in publishing the first complete FREE DIRECTORY in the world, and distributes free one thousand three hundred copies of this work, depending solely on the advertising patronage for remuneration.

The correct compiling of a Directory, even one of this size, is an undertaking of considerable difficulty, and let one be ever so careful, errors, both of omission and commission, can in some instances be discovered by persons who are disposed to look for them. Entire accuracy, in a book of this class, has never yet been attained, and owing to various reasons which need not be specified here, it is more than probable, never will be. Such being the case, indulgence is claimed for any mistakes that may be found in this work, more especially as it is confidently believed that they are as few in number as those that occur in other books of the same description.

In fact, the greatest possible care has been taken to render the work thoroughly reliable, and in spite of the few errors that will creep in, in spite of the utmost vigilance, if it can be depended upon as being, in the main, perfectly correct.

TOWN OF GUELPH.

GUELPH is the County Town of the County of Wellington, Province of Ontario. Situated in one of the most fertile portions of the Dominion, about midway between the great lakes, its climate is at once moderate and healthy. The Grand Trunk railway runs through the centre of the town, and the Wellington, Grey and Bruce extension of the Great Western railway runs about half a mile west of the centre. Guelph is forty-eight miles west of Toronto, and thirty miles north of Hamilton. It is surrounded by a magnificent agricultural and stock-raising country, being celebrated far and near for the superiority of its products. In its manufactures, the town has a celebrity scarcely equalled by any in the Dominion, and as a commercial town it has perhaps no superior outside of the cities. It has every advantage for the shipment of its products to any part of the world. There is also quite a large wholesale business done here, especially in groceries, liquors, hardware and crockery—the dealers along the line of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce railway and other northern points finding it to their advantage to procure their supplies here. The lime-stone quarries of Guelph give her ample building material of the best quality. Large quantities of lime and building material are annually exported, and are of considerable commercial importance.

The town is situated among several hills, with two branches of the river Speed, which give it something of a picturesque aspect when viewed from a distance. The public buildings and churches compare with any in towns of far larger size, both for taste displayed in their erection, and for capacity. The business is all on the west side of the river Speed, the East being ranged with beautiful private residences, rising from the river bank, upon a series of hills 800 feet above Lake Erie. The Town limits are three miles square; thus affording ample room for expansion.

The original plan laid down by the projector of the town has not been adhered to in the more recent additions. Tradition has it that this individual laid his hand upon the stump of the first tree cut down, and made all his streets diverge from that point, in resemblance of the five fingers. As viewed from the Grand Trunk passenger station this tradition holds good, for here we have, first, the streets each side of the Market Square, then Macdonnell street, Quebec and Woolwich streets, all centering there. Although the town is somewhat irregularly laid out, her streets are wide, clean and picturesque.

EARLY HISTORY.

Guelph can boast of an honorable descent. Her title deeds are clearly made out, for there is extant a description from the pen of the talented founder himself, John Galt, of the first blow struck at the first monster maple upon the site of the present thriving town. The land, as most local readers are aware, belonged to the Canada Company; and, of a block of 40,000 acres submitted to inspection, the present site was unanimously agreed upon.

On the 23rd of April, 1826, Mr. John Galt, Dr. Dunlop and Mr. Prior, Agents of the Canada Company, awoke the echoes of the wilderness by a sturdy stroke, whose effects yet reverberate and will until the grand visions of its founder are amply fulfilled. The gifted author of our good town and of the very interesting sketches to which we are indebted, recounts how he chose St. George's day for the operation referred to, in order to give additional solemnity thereto.

"The founding of a town," says he, "like the launching of a vessel, was an era of which the horoscope might be cast. I accordingly appointed a national holiday for the ceremony; which secretly I was determined should be held in remembrance."

The historic spot where the first tree was felled is to be found near the present Grand Trunk Passenger Station. The embryonic "city" was there and then christened GUELPH with due solemnity.

"The tree," writes Mr. Galt, "fell with a crash of accumulated thunder, as if ancient nature were alarmed at the entrance of social man into her innocent solitudes with his sorrows, his follies and his crimes. I do not suppose that the sublimity of the occasion was unfelt by the others, for I noticed that after the tree fell, there was a funeral pause as when the coffin is lowered into the grave; it was, however, of short duration for Dr. Dunlop pulled a flask of whiskey from his bosom and we drank prosperity to the city of Guelph. The name was chosen in compliment to the Royal Family, both because I thought it auspicious in itself and because I could not recollect that it had ever before been used in all the king's dominions. After the solemnity, we returned to the shanty which had been erected for our shelter. It may appear ludicrous to many readers that I look upon this incident with gravity, but in truth I am very serious; for although Guelph is not so situated as ever to become celebrated for foreign commerce, the location possesses many advantages, independent of being situated on a tongue of land, surrounded by a clear and rapid stream. In planning the city I had an eye to futurity in the magnitude of the parts. A beautiful central hill was reserved for the Catholics in compliment to my friend Bishop Macdonnell; for his advice in the formation of the Canada Company; the centre of a rising ground, destined to be hereafter a square, was appropriated to the Episcopal Church for Archdeacon Strachan; and another rising ground was reserved for the Presbyterians. In planning the town, I stipulated that half the price of the building sites should be appropriated to endow a school. The school-house was thus among the first buildings undertaken, to draw settlers. Before the foundations of the town were laid, land was valued by the magistrates in quarter sessions, at one shilling and three pence per acre, and the settled townships around at seven shillings and sixpence."

The enterprise manifested in our good town was at a very early date, the admiration of visitors, who even journeyed hither from Edinburgh to indulge their curiosity. "The glory of Guelph was unparalleled, but, like all earthly glories, was destined to pass away. It consisted of a glade opened through the forest, about seven miles in length and 130 feet wide, forming an avenue with trees on each side."

Considerable difficulty was experienced in settling upon a name for the place, and it was the cause of a protracted struggle between Mr. Galt and the Canada Company. Long after the celebration of the baptismal rites, the contest was maintained, with the object of changing its name to Goderich. Fate being propitious, Mr. Galt gained and held his point.

For several years there was no baker in Guelph, the residents being thrown upon the charity of a woman who "did for them" once in a while. There was a grist mill belonging to the Canada Company, but it was imperfect, so that people had, for over nine years, to get their flour from Waterloo. An enterprising English baker (Mr. S. Wright,) at length purchased the Canada Company's office and turned it into a bakery. His first attempt, however was only a partial success. The oven was built of limestone, on a foundation of cedar wood, and was in the open air. It belonged to the Canada Company. Being unused to wood-fires, our baker solicited counsel; unfortunately listening to the witching voice of the female baker, who directed him to make the oven white-hot. In consequence, the oven crumbled to powder before his eyes, while a greedy multitude helped themselves to the loaves. It is recorded, also, how a person paid $36 for the carriage of eighteen barrels of flour from Mr. Ewart's of Dundas, to Guelph.

The founders of our town were ambitious. Having provided for the erection of a school, while scarcely a tree was cut, they erected a Market-house and a Bank. The former was a frame building, and was more designed to furnish occupation to the carpenters who might migrate hither, than from any immediate need of such a building. The Bank was of stone. The old schoolhouse, for a long while did duty as a church, being common to pastors of all persuasions. Yet, despite of her imposing public edifices, Guelph, for a tedious duration of time, was little better than a bush settlement.

The noble iron structure that to-day spans the river Speed, and known as the Eramosa bridge, was supplied by a cumbrous affair known as the "Break-neck bridge." Some of the early log houses yet stand, to testify to the substantial character of our old pioneers' architecture. Of these, Mr. David Allan's and Dr. Herod's houses are examples, being built of squared timbers, and nowise discreditable to our modernized ideas of taste and comfort. It is not long since the Market Square was a sandy desert; Wyndham street an eyesore, and a stumbling block. Then, wolves sung chorus to the sighing of the sear maple-leaf in the autumn air. The forest was full of game, which Indians constantly brought in to market. "A change came o'er the spirit of my dream;" the woodman's axe is hushed; the armies of blazing stumps, startling the twilight wanderer, have ceased to glow; the hum of factory and workshop stifles the subdued sobs of nature regretful of her departed glories.

During the years of the Rebellion of 1837-8, Guelph, in common with the entire Province, suffered from trade depression. The equanimity of the town authorities was disturbed by the rumored presence of a rebel body in Eramosa, who were believed to entertain the sinister design of sacking the infant town. A period of scarcity, little short of famine, in the adjoining townships, materially affected the development of our town, which, for some years, was subject to extreme fluctuations.

The period inaugurating what may be termed the "New Era" is marked by the successful establishment of a newspaper; in 1845. Previous to that date there were two separate efforts to publish a paper, but each failed after a trial of a few weeks. The ADVERTISER was then commenced, under the management of Mr. John Smith, (now publisher of the Flora Observer.) and successfully conducted by him until 1857, when it was purchased by Mr. P. Clerihew. In 1858 it again changed hands and for the succeeding twelve years was published by Mr. J. Wilkinson. The HERALD was established in 1847, by the late Mr. Geo. Pirie, and successfully conducted by him until his death, a few years since. The MERCURY was commenced in 1854 by the late Mr. G. M. Keeling, and was also conducted by him until his death.

1850 saw the opening of the Mechanics' Institute, which, though small, proved the increasing growth of a taste for literary culture. In 1854-5, the Toronto and Guelph line of railway, the first link of the Grand Trunk, was built, giving a marked impetus to material prosperity in Guelph. The Galt and Guelph branch followed, enhancing the beneficial impulse. This first enterprise had the effect of diverting the growth of the town westwards, the portion east of the line, formerly the business centre, remained almost stationary. The period of the Russian war was marked by reckless land-jobbery, the re-action of which for some time impeded the growth of our town. Lands at this time acquired a fictitious value, and town lots were sold at very high prices. In 1855, the Catholic Convent was established upon the historical hill set apart for the Catholic community by John Galt.

Guelph was incorporated as a town in 1856.

MODERN HISTORY.

Guelph of to-day is rapidly rising and, as is the case with young cities, tending westward. The steady growth of the town will be at once apparent from a glance at the census returns for the past few years:

The population for 1867 was	5,357	The population for 1871 was	6,689
" " 1868	5,901	" " 1872	7,189
" " 1869	5,799	" " 1873	7,798
" " 1870	6,470	" " 1874	7,998

The population this year, 1875, as returned by the assessors is 8,584. It will no doubt number 10,000 in 1877. Distance from Toronto 48½ miles, and from Hamilton 30 miles.

The town derives a certain importance from the fact of its being a port of entry; Mr. M. O. Macgregor officiating as United States Consular agent. Mr Edward Carthew, Collector of Customs. Mr. Walsh is Customs officer.

Guelph is the centre of a rich farming district, whilst stock-raising is largely and profitably carried on. Foremost in this department is Mr. F. W. Stone, who went to much trouble and expense in the importation from England, of thorough-bred stock. The stock raised here has a universal reputation, cattle being shipped from Guelph to all parts of the country. He with others are to-day reaping the rewards of their very praiseworthy enterprise, the proofs of which we have just to hand, in shape of the numerous laurels carried off at the Provincial Exhibition at Ottawa by the stock raised in Guelph and vicinity. Notwithstanding the Toronto Globe sneered at our cattle which took first prize at our Central Fair here in September, the very same animals beat the whole country at Ottawa the following week.

The river Speed, by which Guelph is partly engirdled, is a most picturesque and winding stream, whose banks, redolent of scenes of quiet pastoral beauty, afford ample material for the tourist's sketch-book. At the Dundas bridge it forms a junction with the Eramosa branch, itself a pretty stream. At certain points of the Speed is to be had excellent trout-fishing. Both streams are much frequented by oarsmen, whose boat-houses form a compact mass on the commons near the Dundas bridge.

The Eramosa branch is specially admired by pleasure-seekers. Some distance up is an island, known as "Rice Island," and higher yet, a spot that from its beauty has been christened "Paradise." The approach to this spot is very fine, especially within half-a-mile of Victoria Bridge, where the long straight watery avenue, thickly clad with shrubs, and the bridge seen in the distance, has a really artistic effect. Another place of resort is "The Rocks," where good duck-shooting is to be had. Here commence a series of shallows, beyond which boating is impracticable. In winter time, the bay near Dundas Bridge affords excellent skating.

The progress of the Town within the past ten years has been very marked, and nowhere within the Dominion will there be found one so thriving and prosperous. Its stores vie with those in the cities in appearance and splendour; its wholesale establishments are palatial in their proportions; the private dwellings, especially in the suburbs, are handsome and commodious; its Churches are for the most part models of architecture and elegance, and the same remark will apply to its public buildings. To the stranger on first seeing it, the impression given is one of stability and steady growth, and the more he sees of it, the more is this impression strengthened.

Guelph enjoys excellent railway facilities, and the gravel road system of the county, of which it may be said to be the centre, is unequalled in the Province. These radiate to all parts of the County, and connect with other leading roads from Lake Ontario on the south, to Lake Huron and the Georgian Bay on the north. No inland town in Canada is better situated for trade, and no one enjoys more of it in proportion to its population. It is also in the centre of a rich farming district, and the fame of the stock raised in that district has extended over all this wide continent.

TOWN HALL.

This building, situated on the Market Square, is a fine substantial stone structure. In this building is situated the town offices, comprising Mayor's office, Police Court, Clerk's office, &c., the meat and vegetable market, and a magnificent new Hall, now about completed. The original cost of the building being $60,000 and the new Hall just added $20,000.

THE LORETTO CONVENT OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION, in affiliation with Loretto Abbey, Toronto, is beautifully situated on the Catholic Hill, and with the Church and College is one of the first objects that attract the eye when approaching the town. It consists of a large and spacious building particularly convenient to the town and yet remote enough to secure the quiet and seclusion so necessary to an institution of its kind. It is conducted by the Ladies of the Loretto, is open to young ladies of all denominations, and is carried on in precisely the same system and equally as well as the Loretto Abbey of Toronto, both as regards the efficiency of teachers and comfort of pupils. DIOGENES REDIVIVUS.

"Traveller—see Guelph and die."—

Not in virtue of spiritual revelations to the olfactory sentient organism from Allan's world-renowned Distillery, for our townsman's spirits are high, genial and up to proof, as is easily capable of proof. The whiskey is good. Nothing bad ever left Guelph.—Have we not a vigilant "chief?" Many bad things enter our town but are straightway converted; thanks to the Temperance league who prosecute everything upon two legs, or four, that breaks the law "after hours." To those whose pure perceptions see in whiskey nothing but the fetid ichor of Infernus be it known, at any cost, that Allan's whiskey is excepted. It gives strength to the weak, courage to the craven, inspires a butcher with poetry, sweetens the prosaic grocer's sands of life as benignly as he ever sanded his sugar. Glance with me through yon open doorway.

"A young voice rises upon the breeze Singing a merry nursery rhyme."

"Halt, traveller, or you step upon the bones of a tailor!" There he lies in the plenitude of exultant manhood, blinking up at the table which knew him but knows him not. There he lies, cross-legged, sewing imaginary coats with a threadless needle, singing

"I'm afloat, I'm afloat on the deep rolling sea."

"Dear, dear me, wot a specterle. Lost—lost!"

It is a Temperance leaguer, who having stealthily neared the spot, pauses undecidedly. He recognizes a patient, but for the life of him doesn't know whether to fetch the doctor, the parson, or the "chief."

"I'm afloat, I'm afloat on the deep rolling sea"—

Ugh!—ugh! ua—ua—ue—ui—uo—ua—ah!

Reader, please fill up the blanks yourself, as our tailor did for himself. Reflect, if you list, with me, upon that solemn passage in Ecclesiastes, which, misplaced as it may be, is not inapplicable—"Who knoweth whither goeth the life of the Beast."

"Afloat you are, but where, oh, where will you land?"—queries the Leaguer, with lengthy visage.

"Guess he's landed, friend"—we venture—"on the floor." The Leaguer replies by a solemn head shake, then hurries away.—When he reaches home he will down on his marrowbones to thank the Lord he is not as you poor sinner!

"Here!—hold!—stop! turn back! we shout to the retreating figure.—

The Leaguer turns. "Why is Allan's whiskey like sin?" "That's no riddle"—responds he moodily—"it is sin." "That's begging the question, friend, as you and those of your kidney are apt to do:—because its odour is worse than its taste. Now, go home and stick the champagne labels I see peeping out of your pocket upon the soda-water bottles you ordered last night for the morrow's Temperance banquet.

Now, onward.

This is the Railway Bridge, a noble structure, spanning the valley through which tumbles over dam and race the laughing Speed—

"I pass thro' ranks of houses stern
With many a dilly-dally,
To join the Eramosa branch
'Way yonder in the valley!"

You may stand under the bridge, if you will, your hat drawn over your closed eyes, and listen to the rippling plash of the waters, and dream of woodlands wild, and Indian canoes and tomahawks and catfish, and sniff from afar the exhilarating steams of

"barley-brae"—but keep upon the sidewalk and dodge passing teams, as you love your toes. Hark!

"The ghosts of days departed come thundering down the slopes, clad in pale moonbeams"—no: Ossian never wrote that—crinoline and Grecian bends, deerskin and wampum, breeks and homespun—anything that is poetical.

Softly: it is only the 2:30 express. Stand still, keep your head down and be galvanized gratis. What! a cinder down your back? Never mind; set up for a martyr; it pays now-a-days. This railway bridge is remarkable as being the famous location of trial by ordeal, an institution yet believed in, in Guelph. Parliamentary voters suspected of corrupt practices are caught up by the heels and tied to a plank beneath the bridge, their persons muffled up in blankets, except the nose, which is bare and rubbed with whisky. By and bye comes thundering past the 2:30 express, and he upon whose nose rests a cinder; or which is seen to burn with a lambent blue flame, is known not to be the miscreant. Quite simple, my dear sir; it saves lawyers' fees. The custom seems to explain a certain ruddy appearance peculiar to the nasal extremities of our public men and which slander might easily wrest to its own interpretation.

Here we have the gas-works. A gassy people we. Witness the immense meter, which recently burst, to the great horror of many innocent folks, whose later end rose awfully into view at the intimation.

"Will she burst, Dick?"—queries an artless urchin of his mate. "Guess not," is the dubious reply.

"If she do, we'll all go up, Dick," pursues the young inquisitor. "Guess you won't," is the curt rejoinder. "How—why?" "See any green? Seat, you soft warmint!"

"We are a gassy people—we,
We light our streets so gaily, O.
We are as proud as proud can be
So we scrub our meter daily, O.

(Chorus) O wouldn't I like to meet her, to meet her, to meet her,
O, wouldn't I like to meet her at Victoria Bridge alone!

We light our streets and warm our feet
With gas that costs us dearly, O.
Yet this meter's the first that ever burst
And we pay the piper cheerily, O."

(Chorus)

This is the Custom House. From here we send Jews harps, bodkins, and bananas over the lines, which run away along the Waterloo Road. Enter, gentlemen. Here are to be found the amenities which supply a lustre to the civilization of the day. It is not in the heart of society that you must look for true courtesy, but upon the border-line where Brother Jonathan and Young Canada shake hands in polished amity to negotiate pork. Enter—be seated; take a cigar.—Of course we have customs of our own. What people of enlightenment have not? Do not our St. Andrews' Society meet once a year at the Queens' to grasp just sufficient of the skirts of sin to remind its members of their humanity? Oh, brother 'I' and brother 'M'—don't you remember?—arm-in-arm, you know, a moonlight night, and a sufficiency of cracks in the sidewalk to make the trail certain and—

"In the wee sma' hours o' the mornin'
We'll a' gang toddlin' hame!"

Of course we have customs! Don't we ennoble our superannuated taverns by converting them into Collegiate Institutes, governed under strictly Temperance auspices?

We teach the young idea how to shoot
On boards where aged vice oft shot the cat.

This delightful ditty contains no malice, gents; it was not aforethought, gents; it came currente calamo, gents, like the Pope's Athanasian Pastorals.

Still undoubtedly we have customs.—Don't we leave our drains uncovered and dig pitfalls outside our doctors' surgeries, to draw custom for our respectable citizens? But why quarrel with the paternal dispensations of our City Fathers? To do evil that good may come is nothing new. And it is within the range of probabilities that the Town Council may have in their possession some secret recipe for the Balm of Gilead that is seen put up in green boxes, so neatly, in our flourishing drug stores. Perhaps they get a percentage on the amount sold—wem geht es an?
Besides—

What, tho' we revel in open drains,
Since, they can dodge, who have the brains?

En avant mon ami! Before you looms a vast structure, ever being augmented, never to be finished—like the celebrated Cathedral of Cologne in that respect—but whether through a like violation of his compact with the arch-fiend, by the architect, is uncertain. You view our Town Hall! Originally, an unassuming building, it has, at irregular intervals, given birth to parasitic excrescences, until, to-day, it resembles a warty toad. Ah, but hath not even the toad a precious jewel in its eye? The front windows of our Hall still dispense light and beauty to the loungers at the doors of the taverns opposite. And now devolves upon the chronicler a duty of supreme pleasure. The fountains form, ever, a poetical adjunct to the aesthetic display of a city. In connexion with a fountain, one thinks of nightingales, dark-eyed lasses with brown pitchers upon their heads—and such ankles!—mocking-birds and clean linen. Alas; our Town Pump hath no such glories. Sooth, it hath lost its ladle, and looks decrepit and dejected. Of all the feathered songsters, only the mocking-birds remain: the only strains of melody—"Say, Bill, be that a stranger? let's shy half a brick at him!" Vade retro, Sathanas!

You stand, now, at the corner of the Bank of Commerce. Your hands clasped behind your back, your extremities grandly diverged to include the sidewalk, you look a veritable colossus of roads (excuse the pun), as you gaze down the majestic length of Wyndham Street. Through the Bank window you see sleek, well-fed, be-oiled and be-starved young men fingering dollar bills so glibly that you wonder they never miss their touch, or that none of these bits of flimsy paper ever stick to their fingers. Taking a few majestic paces forward, you pass an Ossianic Tailor-hero's establishment, then a veritable Horsman, upon the sidewalk, until passing by Chance over the crossing, you meet a Hewer, and a Drawer—of Guelph beer. Away at the other end of the street, bristles a wonderful Boar, a learned Hog, religious, and a ladies' pet. You shortly come upon Heffernan's clothing store, over which Britannia sits frowning, and ruling the waves, it is to be presumed, of pants and overclothes. In her hands is a toasting-fork, which so many of her foes have cause to rue. From her position and attitude, the designer evidently meant to post her up as a warning to pretension, so decidedly does she threaten to transfix Dishonesty in high places. This is Rutherford's. But, up aloft, what monstrous growth of preadamite ages is this?

Be it the great Leviathan
That once did roam the deep,
Whom Noah h'isted from the ark
'Cos he cost too much to keep?

No, no, it bean't Leviathan,
Nor don't he cost no keep;
He's just as harmless and as kind
As ere a new-killed sheep.

It be the mighty Mastodon
What lodged in Puslinch Swamp,
He took a Bronkeel trouble onct
Jest of the frightful damp.

O dear, O dear—to hear him wheeze—
It shocked the country side :
It shook the apples from the trees ;
'Twas lucky that he died.

The crowner sot upon his corpse.—
They stuffed him up with straw ;
And hung him up agin yon board,
Where still he laughs—ee—aw !!

" Ille dolet vere, qui sine teste dolet : requiescat in p̄cc."

How are your grinders? Rayther abrupt question, I grant, but Dr. Campbell will ask you the same, if you meet him on the street or at the opera—we cultivate the acquaintance of La Traviata occasionally at the Drill Shed. See : above you grins a full set of molars—the envy of many a toothless one. Go inside ; he'll pay fifty cents a piece for sound front teeth. Don't require so much persuasion, avoid bashfulness ; suffer yourself to be " drawn out," my dear Miss —!

By the way ; speaking of the opera, we must not pass unnoticed such an important personage in our midst as a veritable type of Sims Reeves—Alas, I knew him well." Yes, we all know this one, especially the lady patrons of Russell & Anderson's store. He comes from the old country, you know, and asserts (upon his honor as a gentleman) that with his highly cultivated, powerful and pleasing (!) voice he fairly enraptures the most fashionable audiences at classic concerts and small tea-parties, but more frequently a mixed crowd at Anderson's Hotel ; they have no piano at our house, you know, besides Hiram draws a fair " sized " glass of beer for this country.

If this limb of the opera is not a sprig from Sims Reeves himself, then Spriggins must have sprung from some still greater artist.

He does not like this blawsted country, and repeats this more often in one day than he does his prayers in a whole year,—of course the great trouble is the weather again, " up to your — eyes in snow, &c., &c.

Mr. S. prefers London—not that miserable village in Canada, but old London where the weather is simply delightful, between the rain, smoke and dense fog. Why, hang it all, I tell you a man can go out doors armed with a cheese-knife and carve such weather to suit himself.

We might add, for the information of Mr. S. and others of his ha ! ha ! stamp, that the fare across the Atlantic is now fixed at the small sum of £5 10s., and it would be a difficult matter for them to find friends enough to join the parting chorus of " Come back, Jack."

Over the way—we must not altogether ignore our neighbors over the way—scowls down upon you Mr. Magregor's monster boot, as if it would crunch all creation beneath its heel. Ha ! ha ! typical of some despotic little men, but no great ones. Is it a cribbed trophy of Jack the Giant-killer's, hung up there in evidence of the truth of the nursery tale, as the friars in continental churches show you the real toe-nails of a saint in confirmation of certain miraculous cures wrought by their patron? Is it Goliath's worn-out shoe leather, left to undergo repair, pawned for expense of keep, and finally stuck here as a warning to forgetful customers? Can't say : it is amongst the unfathomable mysteries of things, "Est modus in rebus," but this rebus defies our humble intellect.

And this is Day's bookstore. Have no fear to enter ; it is a favorite place of resort for all who are out at elbows. Wrapped in the depths of the mighty minds long dead—pardon the lapsus,

" Die menschen-Seelé stirbt doch nie, Sie wachst zwar immer mehr zum licht"—

you will forget all your cares, besides, it costs nothing and is respectable. Soft drap eries o'erhead keep out too much of the peering light; musical boxes discourse harmony by your side, and such visions of female grace as come tripping in at the door might tempt a saint to linger.

"But the good St. Anthony kept his eyes firmly fixed upon his book, Shouts nor laughter, yells nor cries, could ever win away his look."

Good, good! clap that! Be amongst the saintly ones, my friend. Ah, but we hear further how the saint had been tempted with—

"Devils with tails and devils without, devils great and devils small,
But the lovely woman with two black eyes was the greatest devil of them all."

Alack, poor humanity!

To Cynthia.

Tell me, if to sin be sweet,
Can it be so bad to fall?
Better perish at thy feet,
Than, loving not, live scarce at all!

In thine eyes, if devils live,
There's a fiercer at my heart;
Half my life I'd freely give
To be blest, the other part!

Tho' perish inch by inch,
Till my heart be lost to me,
It is the stake—I will not flinch,
Yet, may I find my all in thee!

Vamos from these hospitable portals! Have we any lawyers in Guelph? Lots, my friend. They are omnipresent, and, if not omniscient, it isn't their fault, poor creatures! They are here, there and everywhere, wherever they are wanted, and in many places where they are not. Their dens are all over the town. When not doing worse, they are to be found sitting upon heaps of skulls and moth-eaten title-deeds of once broad acres, singing "fee, fi, fo, fum," only they always stop at—"fee."

What else have we of notice in the town? You are in a hurry to be off, eh? Why, lots of things—lions, lions, all of 'em. The foundations of the Catholic church, for instance—a grand idea, if only it had been carried out. How few of us but have such, only they can't be dragged out with anything short of a logging chain. But no bishop, however heated with religious fervor, would ever sit perched in a puddle upon twelve feet of stone wall to preach, and no congregation would climb a board fence to attend service, and that ends the matter. There's our new school building, that looks so majestic from afar, and might mislead a stranger into over-estimating the intellectual calibre of our townsmen. Would you credit it—there's not a foot of play-ground! Ah, that was a miserable subterfuge of feudal times, got up by a bloated and selfish aristocracy, to cramp the naturally free mind of the people. Nous avons change tout cela. The mind of the people shall be unshackled—the mind of the people shall soar eagle-free—the minds and bodies of the children of the people shall be enlarged, Christianized and released from the depressing thralldom of centuries by a discipline of slack-rope walking. We will put up a cable for the rising youth from the apex of Mr. Torrance's church to Mr. Wardrope's steeple! "Pshaw! I've see'd a rope afore," says one. Ah, yes, but that must have been the tight-rope. Now, don't be angry—keep your temper, my good man; you forced me to do it: you shouldn't sulk so.

The glories of Guelph are by no means exhausted. Yet, in order to heighten the effect, a few more artistic touches should be given in rapid succession. Then the full contour of the beautiful image will be apparent.

We boast a Royal Hotel, whose winged reptilia and ten-cent cigars testify to the justice of its claims to blue-blooded patronage. Two mammoth ledgers used to occupy the counter. We understand the present manager is one Book-less. We have a chair, in common with all towns of high scholastic attainments, and it hangs up above Hazelton's store. Here the talented principal of the High School sits on Saturday mornings to expound the Platonic philosophy to his followers of the peripatetic school:—11 A. M. sharp; bucolics invited to attend. The chair was offered to Hon. A. Crooks, as professor of Gnostics and Oriental Prestidigitomancy, but was declined. It is now kept for the use of such members as may have the misfortune to be unseated in the fracas of the coming election. It was painted green, for moral purposes, viz., that envious candidates for the "See" might see themselves literally in the color in which others see them. We have a jail, as becomes a polished people. We are all polished, and as for the inmates of the jail some seem fairly greased, they are so slippery. O'Donnell was one. He slipped over the wall, stopped to black his boots, then, "folding his tent, like the Arab, he silently stole away." Still, there are many inside who have the best right there, but far from all.

We have an Agricultural Farm, outside the peaceful purlieus of our town. We are strong upon Rhubarb. The farm belongs to Government, and the soil is good, although it was once all Stone's.

Then comes the Temperance Hall, whose motto might be "Semper Eadem," referring not so much to the unreasoning arrogance of the supporters of the movement generally as to the stability of the foundation walls which, the reverse of Hannibal's soldiers, never advance. How should they, being built upon a rotten foundation of dirty water, instead of the glorious element with which Dr. Dunlop and Mr. Galt* helped to cement the original foundations of our then infant town? We have a Macdonnell street, which is no street at all, but a Rosemond's bower kind of labyrinth planked with drays and offal, where the ghastly gums of moribund caninity lie turned back to give defiance at the moon! We have a Post Office, where we receive our letters, and whose boxes are ever under examination by the letters for cheques that have all mysteriously gone astray through the Post Office. Now and again the Post authorities let us have a letter; usually they let us cool our heels outside longer than Dante was kept at the gates of the Inferno, and then let us go minus. The verb "To let" is, in fact, used in a Shakspearian sense throughout. We have an English church, built conveniently upon the river's brink, with a herd of lean swine kept ready for emergencies in an adjoining meadow. We have, also, a new Canon, armed with hyper-Pontifical authority, to whom the exorcism of unclean spirits is a bagatelle; the healing of a leg or the blacking of an eye, a snap of the fingers. We have an Imperial Roman Consul, next door to a pork-butcher's, who sits with his toga tucked between his knees, like Crassus of old, smoking a never-ending cutty-pipe. He hopes, by judicious fumigation, to scare away the mosquitoes, the ladies, and other dangerous creatures, which should not trench upon the dignity of the Roman empire, or aspire to sting the core of an Imperial Roman Consul's heart, or the tip of an Imperial Roman Consul's nose. We have Raymond's hurdy-gurdy factory, that was burned down some months ago. During the conflagration, the proprietor, hearing that some score of his employees were roasting in the building, ordered 500 hurdy-gurdies, placed higgie-piggledy amongst the salvage, to be arranged in rows upon the sidewalk, then, like Nero with his Christian martyrs, ordered Vale's cornet band engaged for the purpose, to grind away, until the shrieks of the victims were drowned in unhallowed revel!! This, ratepayers, is he whom you have elevated to the lofty height of School Trustee! this he who will, yet, be Mayor of the town, and "monarch" of this peaceful community! We have the Osborn hairpin factory, founded upon wind, maintained upon water and driven by steam. They have taken so many prizes, that no wonder proprietors and employees wear a uniformly surprised look. Perhaps the meagre abstinence diet has affected the intellects of these unfortunate men, which often lies entirely in the stomach. We have a Crowe, who occasionally crows in Council, but his crow is worse than his bite. Where all crow their loudest, it is hard for any particular bird to make himself heard. We have a big Bell, whose clang is heard all over the Province, and the notes are very melodious. He "knows the wires," he does! We have Arms' machine shop: enter. Have you seen to-day's paper? There's a file to hand. You are ashamed to enter because of your notorious ugliness, eh? Never mind: be you ever so plain, cross his threshold, and I will show you a planer. If you feel awkward, why here's a drilling machine, pat to the purpose. Here, human arms, urged by Arms, turn out steam arms, to arm the disarmed armories and factories of the Dominion. We have a Grammar School, where the higher classics are taught the young idea for fifteen cents a lesson; a raw turnip thrown in, at noon, to stay the youthful appetite. When the cramped little intellects of pupils and tutors make it necessary, we whistle out our tamed trains of rats, who, following directions, grasp, each, his predecessor's tail in his mouth, the Principal taking up the rear, and march round the classic Rotunda, to the lively strains of "Good-bye, John." ad obligatum by the scholars.

We have a resort known as 'Kate's Hole,' the undeniable true entrance into Purgatory. Several Mayors and Councilmen, and a dozen School Trustees went missing, and were sought for, to no purpose, until one night, after a famous oyster supper, when a councilman dreamed a dream, revealing the whole dismal truth. The result was, a deputation, a conference, minutes passed, resolutions proposed, seconded, carried, and, after these brief preliminaries, a pilgrimage to Kate's Hole. A protracted attempt to rescue Les Miserables from Styx, filled the chasm with briny tears, but devil a one came back! There they sticks!

We have public baths, upon the ancient classic model, with draperies in front, reaching below the eyes of the bather when standing. Public, public, altogether too public. Yet, what a blessing it is, that we live in the times we do! Were it otherwise, that glorious statue of Venus Aphrodite rising from the sea, might never have been chiselled, and we should have been 'chiselled' out of a noble work of art. Had the goddess, paying a flying visit to Guelph, by the 2:30 express, conceived the laudable design of bathing in the classic Speed, her doom must have been sealed upon entering our Mansions of Natation, for, taking the first 'header' a side-glance from those lovely and vigilant eyes must have comprised the iron structure of the Eramosa Bridge, and dozens of unholy eyeballs bulls-eyeing her neighbourhood. She would never rise.

We have a descendant of the immortal hero of Trafalgar—a Nelson—inheriting some of his illustrious predecessor's coloring, bodily, mentally, but, let's trust, not morally. O, no; we modern, thrice distilled, methodical, select sectaries have outgrown all the lusts of the flesh, all the devils which cost man so much to conquer, of old. We are ultra refined, scarce flesh and blood, not at all human. Catholicity is rubbish, Christ's Church is of the elect and those are we, the salt of the earth. If any man say the salt has, will, or can, lose its savour, let him be anathema!

But our Nelson leads no forlorn hope to "choke the deadly breach" with human bodies, nor does he guide close ranks of wooden three deckers or iron turret-ships through the stormy sweep of Biscay, or over the voluptuous swell of Egyptian waters. He is our washerman, child of Afric, and very decent man. He's the boy to turn out clean shirts. Try him! Judge of our malice, kind reader, when we advertise men gratis. Thought fails, memory flags, a brief breathing space must be vouchsafed us, ere, in measured, solemn cadence, we conclude the enumeration of the glories of our beloved town.

hourhood. Here we bring all the honest men we can find, and seal them up in glass cases for the admiration of a less favoured outside world. We had one and a half this year; the doctors, in consultation with the parsons, coming to the determination that the exhibition in public of two full grown perfect specimens of physical and moral manhood might precipitate the Millennium. They resorted to amputation. Then, this must not be overlooked, the river Speed, down by the Dundas Bridge, with its picturesque windings and warpings between hazel-clad banks, and over gleaming pebbles.—Here resort the love-sick and the life-weary, some of whom have cast themselves into the treacherous fluid embraces of the chief-syren of the waters. Others have returned with braces broken, or waterfalls dripping—as the nature of the case might determine—to live and chew the beneficial cud of sober reflection. Here the bull-frogs do congregate in the ‘Spa’ season, and muskrats scratch their sleek backs upon the pendant thorn. Here, along this devious, serpentine channel, the Argonauts pass, laden with many a ‘Golden Fleece’—to that blest spot, ycleped Paradise, whence, having disposed of lots of biscuits, cakes and soda-water, they embark for home.

Ah, lovely Speed! How often, looking down into thy glassy depths of waters, laden, as I was, with care and travail, have I felt like Prometheus bound to the rock, from which a harsh creed forbade him release. How often turned from the contemplation of my petty troubles to the solemn silence of thy lucid breast, till syren and nereid grew into being before my gaze, and I muttered, with him of old—

“Ho dios aither kai tachupteroi pnoai
Potamon te pagai!” &c. &c.

TO SPEDA.

Flow, River, flow ;

Like the leaf o'er thy calm breast sailing
Is the soul that is wedded to trifles below
When honor and duty are hailing.
For the leaf floats along in full view of the shore
With never an effort and never a goal,
Till its fibres be torn and the combat be o'er :
God grant that so craven be never my soul !

Flow, River, flow ;

Like the weed thro' thy soft vest peering
Is the soul that stands firm when the north winds blow,
Whilst storm-steeds around it are rearing,—
For the weed bows its neck just enough to the blast,
Yet suffers no power to rivet control ;
Then, proud in its courage, it stoutly holds fast :
To the good, to the true, so hold, ever, my soul !”

We have a literary office, above Herod's drug store, where “Looking Glasses” are electrotyped, and “Horsetamers” broken in, to suit the fickle public. Mr. Megaffin, proprietor, is an enterprising young man, and promises well—for the Lunatic Asylum. He lives upon blue-pills, courteously carried upstairs into the editorial sanctum of the “Family Journal,” by the junior druggist below. Since the recent development of alarming symptoms, caused by the sloughing off from the editorial brain of that famous article, headed—“I'm going to be a Millionaire!” chloride of gold has been added to the regimen, upon the principle—similia similibus curantur. However : his books sell, and the symptoms may abate, as the sales decrease. May he have a long illness.

And now, dear reader, by way of redeeming the character of our tete-a-tete from the charge of monotony, we interpolate the standard staidness of our text with some choice flowers of poesy.

DAVIDSON'S FOLLY.

A POEM, IN ENGLISH VERSE.

There's just a little bit of fun
To do with Charlie Davidson,
Who, "blows his horn"—true councilman—
When decent folk are slumbering.

So came it that, on Monday last,*
Bluff Charlie wagged his tongue too fast,
Declaimed, with fire too hot to last.
The By-Law for House Numbering.

Because no Town Plan had been fyled,
This cholery councilman was "riled;"
His virtuous breast with fury biled
Against the Guelph Directory.

Quoth he—"My chums, who'd be the fool
To crouch 'neath Charlton's iron rule?
I never will be slave or tool,
Nor let that cock crow ' victory ;

"I'll have no number to my door,
I'll keep my sidewalks clean no more,
Tho' the Law's myrmidons should pour
Like locusts from Poughumperry.

"I— I— I— gentlemen, I'm riled,
And, tho' in H—I for it I'm briled,
Yet never be my house defiled
With Charlton's licensed trumpery.

"As for the Institute Mechanic, ■
It is a fraud, vast and Titanic,
And asinine, if not Satanic,
As bad as this Directory.

"I move we turn it out of doors,
That none who spell shall walk these floors.
In short, we want no learned boors,
To crow at Charlton's victory!"

The last word spoke, the Council rise,
Each man with horror in his eyes,
And pity battling with surprise,
In view of such insanity.

Each awe struck member, as he rose,
Coughed thrice, spat twice, and blew his nose,
Then grandly from the Hall he goes ;
So ends this dull inanity.

*See Council proceedings for Oct. 4th.

Refreshing, is it not?—Truth always is. We hope Mr. Davidson may find it so.

The Guelph Mercury

AND ADVERTISER

is the Largest, the Best, and most widely circulated Paper published in the County of Wellington.

Guaranteed Circulation FIVE TIMES LARGER than that of any other Paper published in Guelph.

IT ALSO CIRCULATES EXTENSIVELY IN THE COUNTIES OF

WATERLOO, HALTON, GREY AND BRUCE.

To the Merchants and Business Men of the County, as well as throughout Canada,
THE MERCURY AND ADVERTISER is an invaluable Advertising medium.

RATES VERY MODERATE.

THE MERCURY gives a third more reading matter than any other paper published in the County, and is the leading and most influential journal west of Toronto.

JOB PRINTING

We possess unrivalled facilities for doing all kinds of

PLAIN AND FANCY JOB PRINTING

Having lately added to our already extensive facilities two new Improved Wharfedale Presses, manufactured in Otley, Eng., making in all six first-class jobbers; also, an immense assortment of Plain and Fancy Job Type, we are enabled to turn out work equal to any done in Toronto, and far surpassing anything hitherto attempted in Guelph. All orders promptly executed, and prices reasonable.

Orders from the country by mail promptly attended to, and work securely parcelled and sent either by mail, express, or stage, as ordered.

Those requiring Job Printing should call and see specimens before going to any other office.

We give "SUNLEY BOY" credit for having numbered his house so promptly when requested, but think he might have had a little more style about it. Just look at these numbers! He actually split a shingle to save wood, and then gave them a coat with a whitewash brush, on which he further exercised his artistic skill with a shaving dipped in coal tar. Just look at them!

WELLINGTON HOTEL
65 and 67 Wyndham St.
JOHN HAUGH, PROPRIETOR.

In compliment to the genial landlord of the Wellington, we insert this card. We always speak of a man as we find him, as a reader of this work will plainly see. The Wellington is kept in first-rate style, and the accommodation is good in every respect. The ramrod has a staid, kind word and a hearty welcome for every one, and Tim, the bartender, is a handsome and obliging young man. Stop at the Wellington by all means; if you are not treated as we say, then go for us—PUBLISHERS.
