AGRICULTURE

Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY.

Cleaning of Interest for Our Country Readers.

All butter makers should have a thermometer.

It is the scrub and runt that are hard to get rid of.

The most expensive, disastrous scrub is the pedigreed one.

Giving charcoal to the hogs acts upon the blood as a purifier.

Let the sow be eight or nine months old before breeding her.

Churning at the right temperature saves lots of time and work.

When the pastures dry up the cows need green grass or fodder.

A dairy writer says a slow milker will soon ruin the best of cows.

It is said that Massachusetts has 45,000 sheep and 68,000 dogs.

It is better to remove limbs which are broken by the winds.

The hen that is too fat is the one that is laying the soft shelled egg.

If fruit trees are to be planted in the yard put them in the back yard.

The Delaware peach crop is estimated at four million baskets this year.

There is less shrinkage in canned berries than any other kind of fruit.

Better get rid of the chicken-killing dog before he gets rid of the chickens.

The milk should be cooled down to 40 deg. as quickly as possible after milking.

Many cattle are starving on the ranges of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Increase the rations of the pigs as they grow old up to the time they are weaned.

In the majority of cases it is the early price of pork that is most profitable.

Dig the potatoes early, but do not put them in a cold cellar when they are warm.

The brood sow will not need more than one half the feed if given good pasture.

The average weight of beef steers in England 180 years ago was but 370 pounds.

There are about 25,000 horses in London engaged in the omnibus and tramway traffic.

Good sheep, fully as much as good stock of other kinds will sell at fair prices.

A great many horticulturists advise not to prune grape vines after the sap has started.

Feeding to the pigs is one of the best ways of disposing of imperfect fruit and potatoes.

Let the late crop of white clover ripen its seeds on the lawn and about the dooryards.

Cattle and hogs are the mainstay of the farmers where grass is the principal product.

A small piece of ground will produce enough fruit to supply any ordinary family.

The farmer's turn with respect to practical application of electricity is yet to come.

To determine the value of a cow her cream should be churned separately occasionally.

Running a poultry farm on borrowed capital is as bad as borrowing money to get married.

South Carolina is the largest producer of phosphates in the world, leading with 600,000 tons.

The wide-awake dairyman keeps his best cows and sells those that do not make him a profit.

Plunging into hot water immediately after picking will often make the hens look more plump.

More than half the apples shipped from America to Europe last season were Canadian apples.

It is necessary to exercise common sense in working, feeding and watering horses in hot weather.

The man who tells farmers to wash potatoes by turning the hose on them is evidently a city farmer.

By a little liberal feeding now the hogs can readily be put into a good condition for fattening early.

For many a long year pedigree and "registering" have meant too much and individuality too little.

Feeding liberally with nice slops is one of the best ways of helping the sow to give plenty of rich milk.

It is best at all times to keep the pigs and hogs so divided into lots that they cannot pile up in their beds.

Women succeed in the poultry business because they are mindful of small matters; men are more careless.

Giving the pigs good pasturage with midlings and feeding less corn will improve the quality of the meat.

Cuthbert raspberries and Fay currants took the honors at the Massachusetts Horticultural society's exhibition.

The sheep business is a good one, but no beginner should expect to make a fortune the first year or two.

While corn can be made the principal ration in fattening hogs, it is rarely a good plan to depend on it alone.

One of the best times to commence feeding hogs to fatten is when the new corn is in the milk, feed stalk and all.

More than any other class of stock it is important that pigs should be fitted for market when they are farrowed.

Pouring potatoes or other vegetables through a long spout with slats for a bottom will let the dirt drop out.

Sow white clover and orchard grass in moist orchard lands, and you will have a good pasture for sheep and pigs.

During the first five months of 1893 Chicago received 107,471 carloads of live stock compared with 129,370 last year.

It is said that the turkey was domesticated by the Indians long before the discovery of this country by the white men.

Many farmers have tried to increase their income by increasing the size of their farms, but it will not maintain the ratio.

A well constructed silo has more to do with the good keeping qualities of its contents than does the artistic packing of the fodder.

Dogs kill sheep for sport as men kill game, and the well-fed dog is as bad as the hungry one. It is the disposition and not the appetite.

If the cellar is warm the potatoes should be warm when put in. In a cold cellar they will keep in the dirt as well as they would in the ground.

Feed all the cows well, and if they are good milkers they will show it, and if not, they will be making beef, which is all they are good for.

If you have no pigs or sheep in the orchard get a rake with wire teeth to collect the wormy fruit and feed it to stock or destroy it in some way.

It is estimated that of the 26,000,000 acres of land within the bounds of Tennessee, one half are improved and cultivated farms and the other in forest.

The work horse will relish a mixture of wheat bran and soaked corn—say three quarts of bran to six ears of corn. Horses become tired of corn alone.

On many farms sheep should be looked upon as auxiliaries in keeping up the fertility of the land rather than as a direct means of large profit.

In 1892 there were 4,404,010 acres of land in France given over to the cultivation of the grape, and the average yield per acre is fixed at 145 gallons of wine.

Do not keep more fowls than you can readily feed without depending too much on the income from the business. Keep within the limit of your capacity.

The Dairy.

The average yield of milk per cow in England for one year is about 2,000 quarts which is an excellent average, but which should be larger.

In a recent dairy convention in Canada butter that had been put up air tight in tin cans fast-jane was opened and expert tasters pronounced it quite as good as new. They said it was "sweet with an old flavor."

The New-York Condensed Milk company recently sent to California from its Elgin, Ill. factory a trainload of seventeen cars of condensed milk, equal to 578,000 one-pound cans, or over 2,000,000 pounds of fresh milk.

Prof. Cook, of Vermont, does not find any difference in results whether his cows are watered once or twice a day provided they get all they want once a day. John Gould says that most of his cows refuse to drink but once a day and that their performance at the milk pail is quite satisfactory.

Director N. E. Wilson of the Nevada experiment station says in bulletin No. 18: "Dairying is no longer an experiment in this state. The industry is firmly established. Nevada butter is unsurpassed in quality and there is no good reason why we cannot make an equally good quality of cheese."

Dr. Hoskins says if you will wipe off the cows each morning with a cloth wet in a weak carbolic acid water, the flies will not bother them to any extent. If this prescription holds good in every case you can take some pride this summer in saying truthfully that "there are no flies on your cows."

Are You Nervous.

Are you all tired out, do you have that tired feeling or sick headache? You can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives nerve, mental and bodily strength and thoroughly purifies the blood. It also creates a good appetite, cures indigestion, heartburn and dyspepsia.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy in action and sure in effect. 25 cents a box.

After an inexperienced man has rowed a boat for about three-quarters of an hour almost any kind of scenery is good enough for him to stop and admire.

IMPORTANT NEWS.

Something the People of Canada will Appreciate.

A Word from Halifax in the Right Direction.

Annapolis Speaks with no Uncertain Sound.

The late Hon. W. F. DesBarres was for more than 33 years, a Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, and the name of Des Barres is held in the highest estimation by the people of the Maritime Provinces.

Samuel W., son of Hon. W. F. DesBarres, is Registrar of the Admiralty District of Nova Scotia, having held the office for 23 years. In conversation with our representative, a short time since, he made the following statement:

"I have used SKODA'S DISCOVERY and SKODA'S LITTLE TABLETS, for a few weeks, with the most gratifying results, and am of the opinion that they are of a high medicinal quality. I have no hesitation in endorsing the Skoda line of Remedies, and recommending them to the people of the Dominion, as articles of superior merit, and well worthy their confidence. I fully believe these Remedies to be all their proprietors claim for them."

The people of Nova Scotia are justly proud of their Institutions of learning, and their educators rank among the finest in the country. At the head of many of the Universities in the U. S., are placed men, who hail from the Dominion, and whose methods of teaching and discipline are regarded by the American people, as the finest in the world. For 15 years Mr. S. C. Shaffer has been one of the leading educators in the Province of Nova Scotia. At present he is Principal of the Public Schools in Annapolis. In speaking of SKODA'S REMEDIES he says:

"Having used two bottles of SKODA'S DISCOVERY with the LITTLE TABLETS, I have formed a very favorable opinion of these remedies. For Diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Kidneys, I believe them to be most excellent Medicines. I am so thoroughly convinced of their curative properties, that I shall take the full course of these Remedies, as recommended by the Company."

JINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading.

Mabel—I suppose you heard of sister Lou's marriage? She's taken a flat in Kennington. Miss Jellies—Yes, I heard she had a flat, but I didn't hear where she had taken him.

Schoolmaster—Now, Robert, can you tell me how many pints there are in a quart? Publican's Helpful—Why, yes, sir. One and a half, and the froth!

The people seldom recognize merit, and this is the reason the sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are continually increasing. Try it.

She—There is a wonderful fascination about the stars; don't you think so? He—Indeed there is. She—I've forgotten most of my astronomy, though. That, I believe, is Venus, but which is Adonis?

If it be true, as alleged, that a deceased member of the Reform Club has left £2,000 in legacies to some other members for having amused him with legal circuit stories, it is evident that the market for chestnuts is showing a rising tendency.

Missus—Not going to marry that sweep after all, Jane? Why, I thought it was all settled. Jane—So it was, mum; but the fact is I saw him with a clean face for the first time last night, and I can't marry him. You've no idea how ugly he is when he's washed; mum.

Man (to swell): Will yer gimme fourpence for a night's doss, mister? Swell (disgustedly): You don't mean to say you sleep in a common lodging house? Man (sarcastically): Oh no; when the 'rval family' ain't in town I sleeps at Buckingham Palace, or Marlborough 'Ouse.

Little Boy—I met Mr. Jones on the street and he said he wanted to see papa about something and he called papa a walking encyclopedia. Mamma—Indeed, and what did my little pet say to Mr. Jones? Little Boy—I called him an old centipede and threw a stone at him.

Wise men hesitate; only fools are certain, remarked a man to his wife a few evenings ago, when she was arguing a point with him. I don't know about that she said, testily. Well I'm certain of it, he replied, so emphatically that she laughed in his face, and he has been wondering ever since what she thought was so funny about it.

Magistrate—I am told that you have already been convicted fourteen times on this charge. Aren't you ashamed to have to acknowledge that? Prisoner: No, yer worship. I don't think no man oughter be ashamed of his convictions. Magistrate: Two months without option of a fine.

Now, make haste an' give up your ticket! exclaimed a railway guard to a bandman in a Northern Volunteer Corps returning from a review. Didna I tell ye I've lost it? Nonsense man! Feel in your pockets; you cannot have lost it. Can I not? was the drunken reply. Man that's naething; I've lost the big drum!

Johnny—Father this paper says that many prominent citizens are ill with pneumonia and kindred diseases. What is a kindred disease, father? Father: Why, my son, a kindred disease is—why yes, yes, a kindred disease is one that runs through an entire family—kindred, relatives you know. Surprised you didn't know that, Johnny.

POOR DOCUMENT

HORSE NOTES.

Overman 2.19½ is dead.
 Haverhill this week.
 Woodbine is working well.
 Ned Window 2.12½ is lame.
 Phoebe Wilkes is a great mare.
 Fitchburg's meet opens Aug. 29.
 Goldsmith won $7,500 at Detroit.
 Alcyon, 2.25 has put two in the list.
 New Hampshire records are drooping.
 J. B. Benson has Abbot Wilkes 2.24½.
 Martha Wilkes acts like a back number.
 Buffalo's two-week meeting was a success.
 Recent rains have improved the pastures.
 Angelina 2.24½ came out good at Buffalo.
 Belleflower has lowered her record to 2.12½.
 Old Hal Pointer won a mighty victory at Buffalo.
 Woodshed 2.13½ is a fast one for J. R. Shedd 2.19½.
 Don't let horses drink from stagnant pools.
 Johnson the bicyclist, wheeled a half mile from a flying start at Chicago in 1.11.5.
 Rigby park, Portland had an opening this week.
 Hal Dillard 2.09½ is another flyer in the Tom Hal family.
 Rub a horse with tansy leaves and it will keep the flies off.
 Nellie F. and Lambert B. have been matched for $250 a side.
 Brooks paced a fast race at Syracuse getting a record of 2.16½.
 Flying Jim by Happy Day, has shown a half at the pace in 1.04½.
 Hulda 2.08½ and then not at her limit.
 What trotter can beat her?
 Hamlin's Nightingale is not fast enough to win the money this year.
 Harrietta 2.14 is about the best of the Alcyones out this year.
 That old-fashioned high-wheel record of Maud S. is still good.
 The Maine State Fair program comprises nineteen races for four days.
 Eastern Vermont breeders held their annual summer meeting at Newport this week.
 Myrtle's $17,600 meeting opening Sept 12 will be the banner one of the year.
 W. T. Pierce owner of Sir Walter Jr., 2.18½ has leased the track at South Framingham Mass.
 Up to the end of last week nine trotters and twenty-nine pacers had taken records below 2.13 in 1893.
 Kremlin has been having too heavy a stud season to be placed in training for a race this season.
 Race horse qualities coupled with speed, bring and win money no matter what the pedigree.
 Mambrino Wilkes has two good young trotters knocking at the door—Dan Wilkes 2.30½ and Homer Wilkes 2.30½.
 Nelson holds the New Hampshire trace record—2.14½. The New Hampshire race record 2.18½ however belongs to B. B.
 Evidently the track at Berlin N. H., is fast. At the recent meeting held there ever heat winner but one lowered his record.
 Saladin 2.05½ will try to lower his own and the world's pacing record (2.04) Aug 25 the second day of the Belmont midsummer meeting.
 McCarthy of St. Louis does the starting at the New England Breeding meeting. He and Walker are called the best in the business.
 Hamlin's Almont continues to lead the stires of the year with Electioneer, Onward, Sidney Strathmore, Jay Bird and Chimes next in order.
 Whalebone Knox, owned by H. F. Fairbanks, Winthrop, Me., died Aug. 1, of pneumonia. He was foaled in 1864 and has several in the list.
 Hulda's average in her great race at Buffalo was 2.10-5.12, a fraction below the 2.10½ race which Martha Wilkes scored at Independence last fall.
 Baron Wilkes is showing up lots of extreme early speed. The three-year-old colt Margrave, by him, got a winning race record at Buffalo of 2.15½.
 J. H. Manter was fined $50 for "pulling" Hortense at Concord, and Chas. Yapp was awarded that amount by the judges for driving her to the front.
 Will Kerr, by Ethan Wilkes, is a new phenomenon in the racing ranks. At his first race this season at Sturgis he covered 2.29½ in the 2.30 class and showed ability to go in 2.20.
 May Marshal, 2.13, the bay mare that won the 2.20 race at Cleveland and Buffalo, is a full sister to Mary Marshal, 2.12½, being by Billy Wilkes, out of Bessie Snyder, by Mambrino Abdallah.
 The New Hampshire Trotting Horse Breeders' association has opened a $500 free for all, pace and trot, Bunco, Jr., and Subscriber barred, to be contested at its September meeting. Entries close Aug. 25.
 George M. Stevens, Lancaster, N. H., who recently returned from a visit to Kentucky, pronounces Constantine the handsomest and most perfectly finished horse in the stud in the blue-grass region.
 Johnny Taylor of Pensacola has a colt entered in the New Hampshire Breeders' stake, which he calls B. B. B.
 Allerton got a two-year-old in the list at Sturgis. The chestnut filly Fala by him out of Cypress by Strathmore, won the two-year-old stakes in 2.27½, 2.28½. And why shouldn't the Allerton's trot!

The immense barn of ex-Vice President Levi P. Morton at Ellerslie, in Dutchess Co., N. Y., was destroyed by fire together with a number of valuable horses and other live stock. The loss is estimated at $100,000.
 Mask, by Thought, is under a cloud. The stiff work he received early in the season seems to have "knocked him out." He was easily beaten by Highland L., by Highland Grey, in their second match race at Hydeville, Vt., recently, in 2.19½, 2.22, 2.24.
 Wm. T. Withers, the well known Kentucky breeder, is suffering from a severe accident. He was breaking a colt at Fairlawn farm, Lexington, Ky., when he was thrown out and severely kicked by the colt, breaking his leg in two places.
 Half mile tracks are the only hope of drivers afraid of the watch and upon some of these the mags are going record breaking miles. The full mile rings are being improved as never before. Roadbeds are pined and brushed to perfection, and too many horses are out for a slice of the good things to allow loafing around the flag waiting till good horses are tired out.
 The bicycle tully is the great element in the increased speed of the modern trotting horse remarked an experienced driver the other day. They have been crediting the "bike" he continued with from two to five seconds' gain on old-time standards. Very few have acknowledged the latter figure but it is nearer the truth. Directum's attempt at Cleveland against Maud S.'s great record with the old fashioned sulky shows what a handicap the big wheels were to the trotter. He could not touch the great mare's mark, and it is doubtful if he or any other horse for a few years to come, can equal or surpass by many seconds the time made by Mr. Bonner's queen of campaigners.
 D. E. Larrabee, proprietor of Wilkes Stock Farm in Dover Me., was badly injured recently by one of his horses. He was in the stable with his stallions, one of which Bavarian was in a box stall, the upper door of which was open while another stallion was near by. It is supposed Bavarian seeing the other animal near him struck for him in a vicious manner, observing which Mr. Larrabee threw up his arm, which was seized by the animal between the elbow and the wrist and held firmly with the tenacity of a bull dog, fairly crushing the bones with his teeth. After a severe struggle the horse was compelled to release his hold. Physicians dressed the wound and set the arm which was badly mutilated and broken, some of the bones being splintered in such a way that it was found necessary to remove them.
 The history of breeding trotters is full of instances where the merits of stallions were not appreciated in their own time. This is in a measure true of that great race horse Viking 2.19½ who, was withdrawn from the stud this season on account of lack of patronage and placed in training. Viking is one of the few high-bred stallions living that can earn money in his class in the best company. Several of his get entered the list last year and others will go in this season. C. G. Blanchard of Concord N. H., has two sons of Viking that are fit to go upon any stock farm. They are four and five years old respectively and finely finished, full of substance and handsome are out of a producing dam and are both trotters. Mr. Blanchard's business cares have largely increased and these grand young horses are placed upon the market at reasonable figures. Bred as they are, individually good as they are they ought not to be long for sale. They are out of the dam of Daisy Lambert 2.29½ and will both beat 2.30 in training.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rejoice Because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Rescued Their Child from Scrofula.

For Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all other foul humors in the blood of children or adults, Hood's Sarsaparilla is an unequalled remedy. Read this: "We are so thankful to Hood's Sarsaparilla for what it did for our little girl that we make this statement for the benefit of other anxious parents and

Suffering Children
 Our girl was a beautiful baby, fair and plump and healthy. But when she was two years old, sores broke out behind her ears and spread rapidly over her head and forehead down to her eyes, and into her neck. We consulted one of the best physicians in Brooklyn, but nothing did her any good. The doctors said it was caused by a scrofula humor in the blood. Her head became

One Complete Cure
 offensive to the smell and dreadful to look at. Her general health waned and she would lay in a large chair all day without any life or energy. The sores caused great itching and burning, so that at times we had to restrain her hands to prevent scratching. For 3 years

She Suffered Fearfully
 with this terrible humor. Being urged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla we did so. We soon noticed that she had more life and appetite. The medicine seemed to drive out more of the humor for a short time, but it soon began to subside, the itching and burning ceased, and in a few months her head became entirely clear of the sores. She is now perfectly well, has no evidence of the humor, and her skin is clear and healthy. She seems like an entirely different child. In health and general appearance, from what she was before taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

L. W. FREDERICK, 211 Glenmore Ave., East New York, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This Testimonial
 is an illustration of what Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing for the sick and suffering every day, from Maine to California. In the light of these facts who can say that the work of an immense concern like ours is not beneficent? HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

CONVICTED BY MACHINERY.
 The emotions of a Murderer on Trial Registered by Electricity.
 A remarkable case where science was called to the aid of justice in a criminal trial is thus recorded by an electrical journal:
 The murder had been one of unthought atrocity, and the prisoner appeared absolutely indifferent. In fact, it was impossible for the keenest eye to detect any change in his countenance or attitude during the examination of the witnesses who gave the most damaging evidence against him. The prosecuting attorney, noticed that he never once relaxed his hold on the arms of the chair in which he sat, but seemed to support himself by the pressure which he brought to bear on them.
 Knowing that under intense mental excitement, no matter how outwardly calm an individual may be, the hands will involuntarily contract and relax according to the intensity of the emotion and the susceptibility of the person effected, the counsel here saw a chance of securing evidence of great value.
 He called an electrician to his aid, and during the absence of the prisoner from the courtroom the arms of the chair were split in half, and in each was placed a hard carbon plate which served as a variable resistance. Wires were run from metal placed on either side of the carbon through the legs of the chair and under the floor to a telephone receiver and battery placed in an adjoining closet. The arms were again upholstered and the chair replaced.
 Every increase in pressure on the arms of the chair now affected the carbon, which, acting as a transmitter, caused sounds to issue from the mouth of the receiver. On the resumption of the trial a court official was placed in the closet, and by a series of signals arranged beforehand signified the feelings of the prisoner as they were betrayed through the muscles of his hands.
 The main points against the prisoner were thus determined. They were presently formulated and read to him in privacy, and he was overcome that he made a confession of his crime.
Carbon Callings.
 In Norway persons who have not been vaccinated are not allowed to vote at any election.
 There is said to be an oil well in Venango county, Pa., which spouts on Sunday and doesn't any other day.
 Spanish Hebrews always pour out all the water contained in the vessels of a house wherein a person has died, fearing that the angel of death may have washed his sword in some of it.
 In South Africa the Kaffir servants have formed a union to which the members have to give a character to their mistresses. No member is allowed to enter upon a situation unless the registered character of the mistress of the house is satisfactory.
 In an American 25 cent piece there are 13 stars, 13 letters in the scroll held in the eagle's beak, 13 marginal feathers in each wing, 13 tail feathers, 13 parallel lines in the shield, 13 horizontal bars, 13 arrow heads and 13 letters in the word quarter dollar.
 Christmas and the Fourth of July are the only holidays which are alike legal in all the states and territories.
 When the thermometer registers 100 deg. cels, the cable which draws the cars of the East river bridge, New York, is 7 feet 6 inches longer than when the thermometer is at zero.
An Execution in Siam.
 The execution of a murderer in Siam is thus described: A temporary altar was erected, and before this the seven superbly built executioners, with drawn swords, made offerings of bear's head, fowls rice, etc., and lighted large tapers. Then the swords were anointed. The condemned meanwhile remained on the funeral barge where Buddhist priests gave him the last rites. He smoked and chattered after the ceremony and never showed any signs of weakness.
 At last he was brought out in front of the altar and placed on a freshly cut plank laid across the executioners' heads. The executioners asked his pardon for killing him after they had wound red kerchiefs about their heads. A snow white cloth was wound around the condemned man's loins; his ears were stopped with clay so that he should not hear the headman's footsteps as he came behind him. His neck chain and handcuffs were removed, and his elbows were secured to a bamboo post, while he was forced to a sitting position. Then a white line was marked on his neck as a guide to the swordman.
 The executioner, a lusty young Samson, now approached from behind, advancing with many fancy steps and moving his sword like the baton of a bandmaster. His six associates formed an attentive group and watched every movement. For a moment the large sword gleamed in the air. Then it descended exactly upon the white line. The body fell slightly to one side, the head dropped but hung by a bit of skin, and the man's lifeblood leaped forth upon the sand. One of the attendant executioners severed the head completely and another neatly placed it on a pole and exposed it to the crowd.
True Philanthropy.
 TO THE EDITOR OF THE GLOBE:
 Please inform your readers that I will mail free to all sufferers the means by which I was restored to health and many vigor after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness. I was robbed and swindled by quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thanks to heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong. I have nothing to sell and no scheme to extort money from anyone whomsoever, but being desirous to make this certain cure known to all, I will send free and confidential to anyone full particulars of just how I was cured. WANTED--A WIFE
 Beautiful and with a Clear, Healthy Complexion

Of course every man wants his wife to be beautiful; but how can she be beautiful if her face and hands are disfigured by rough skin, freckles, tan or eruptions? Nothing will throw such a damper on love as a blemished face.

By the use of "GEM CURATIVE SOAP," an article which combines the best known remedies for the cure of all cutaneous diseases, a refined healthy complexion is assured.

When GEM CURATIVE SOAP is used according to directions the effects are marvellous and gratifying. Time has proven this to be true, as thousands of the most flattering testimonials are on file from customers in England, Scotland, France and Germany, in which countries the Soap is a staple toilet article.

For Thirty Days Only

Write this sentence on a piece of paper

POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Chief Secretary Morley Extends Pardon to Three Fugitives.

DUBLIN, Aug. 15.—Joseph Walker, an Orangeman, who was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment in 1887 for shooting a soldier and head constable during the riots in Belfast that followed the introduction of the Home Rule bill, was released Friday from Mountjoy prison, in this city, on a petition presented to Mr. John Morley, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, by Mr. Arnold Foster. The event has occasioned great rejoicing in Belfast, and will be celebrated by a fine display of fireworks. It is thought that the action of the government in this case indicates the early release of all the Irish political prisoners. The Delahanty brothers who were sentenced at Cork in 1882 for a white boy outrage, have been released from Mountjoy prison here and have left for their homes in Clare.

A WOMAN BURNED TO CRISP IN A FOLDING BED.

Caught in a folding bed, without a chance to escape, Mrs. Sarah Dorman, of New York, was the other day burned to death. The burning bed set fire to the room and to the two floors above it, gutting them. Two other women were severely burned in making their escape from the blazing house. Mrs. Dorman lived at No. 62 Bank street. She was cleaning house and undid the folding bed to put it in order. The bedroom in which the bed was is dark and she took a lamp with her, laying it on the foot of the bed. In some way the spring of the bed became jammed and closed on the woman, upsetting the lamp which exploded. No one in the house knew anything of the accident until smoke began to fill the stairs. Then the alarm of fire was sounded and a rush from the buildings made by the tenants. The burning oil had done its work well and the Dorman apartments were like a roaring furnace when the firemen arrived. They devoted their attention to saving Catharine Collins and her daughter, Ellen, who were yet in the house. Both were badly burned about the face and arms. They were sent to St. Vincent's Hospital. When the fire had been extinguished the firemen made an examination to ascertain the cause of the fire. It was then that they found Mrs. Dorman. She had been burned to a crisp. The charred body was held fast in the warped iron work of the bed, the wood having all been burned away.

A DEADLY COMBAT.

The Conrads, Being Destroyed, Shot and Killed.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 15.—William and Sam Conrad, after shooting five of the white-cappers who had come to lynch them, crossed the river into Kentucky. William Conrad said they would be willing to give themselves up to the authorities if they were allowed to retain their weapons, but if they were disarmed they feared the mob would lynch them. In telling of the midnight battle with the "savagers" William says they were expecting the mob and were lying in the cornfield. The mob battered down their house door, dragged their mother and sister out, putting a rope about their sister's neck. One of the men was carrying a lamp. William fired at two men standing between him and the lamp, and all three fell. The fire was returned by the mob, but the men had changed their position. The mob carried Mrs. Conrad to the creek and threatened to throw her in. One of the men who held the rope about Mr. Conrad's neck was shot by Sam. The Conrads finally emptied both barrels of their shotguns into the crowd. This broke up the mob and they fled. The Conrads were also frightened and ran in an opposite direction. They returned to their home at daybreak, and found the five men whom they had shot lying there.

Mrs. and Miss Conrad went to Muldrough, and after hiding in the woods all morning the boys were rowed across into Kentucky. William Conrad says that many of the mob must have been wounded as their shotguns were heavily loaded when they fired several times directly into the groups of men. Both declare that they were born in Indiana and they propose to live there in spite of white-cappers.

BURNED TO DEATH.

A Hotel Burned at Chicago—Guests Caught in the Burning Building.

A fatal fire broke out at 6.30 Monday morning in the Senate Hotel, Chicago, a three story structure on Madison avenue. The building was an old, cheap one, and afforded no resistance to the flames. The hotel was filled with guests but at the early hour the fire started many of them were still in bed. Soon after the alarm was given many of the guests fled and some were caught in the building and ran affrighted about the corridors while the steadily increasing flames cut off their retreat. In a very short time the building was a mass of flames, which the firemen were powerless to control. The falling floors and walls caught a number of the inmates, five of whom were burned to death, while some were fatally and others badly injured. The city ambulances were called to the scene of the fire and two were conveyed to the hospital. Three guests were so badly injured that they can hardly recover. At the Cook County and Mercy Hospitals others are moaning with pain in the wards, so badly injured as to be unable to tell their names. The list of the killed and injured is: Harry Godfrey, of Little Rock, Ark.; Edward Short of Chicago, gambler; an unknown woman and two unknown men. Among the injured are Jay Godfrey, Little Rock, Ark., will recover, Grace Godfrey, aged 18 will probably die, an unknown man supposed to be Wm. Kronberg, will probably die, an unknown man about 25 years of age will probably die. An unknown man, about 24 years of age, will die. Will Merry, aged 17, will recover, F. A. Coon, Lake City, Minn., will recover. Mrs. F. A. Coon, will die. Flora Coon, aged 15, recovery doubtful, R. L. Mortin, Syracuse, N. Y., will recover. Mattie Aherns, Chicago, aged 18 will recover, L. M. Rogers, Chicago, burns serious. The loss on the building and contents is practically total, but as the structure was old and the furnishings cheap, the loss will not exceed a few thousand dollars.

IS JACK DEMPSEY INSANE.

He is now in a St. Paul Hospital and is in a Bad Way.

St. PAUL, Aug. 12.—Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, is at St. Paul. He came here about a week ago to await instructions from Gus Tuttle, his manager, to join him in the East. During his stay his match with Dick Burge was consummated, despite the fact that Dempsey expected it would be Smith that he would fight at his next battle. His heart was almost broken when he was defeated by Fitzsimmons. He brooded over this for months, and likewise he is now brooding over the opinion which is claimed the sports in the East have of him.

The result is that his mind has become temporarily unhinged, and he is now at St. Joseph's Hospital undergoing treatment. He has been there since Monday and is pursued by the idea that his friends, or some of them are trying to make away with him. Other vagaries also run in his mind, and it will require perfect rest to straighten out the tangles in his brain. The house physician at St. Joseph's thinks that eventually Dempsey will be all right again, and Dempsey's friends concur in this belief, but for a time it looked rather serious.

Dempsey has been drinking hard ever since he has been in Portland, where he has a wife and two children, and it is thought that the excess of liquor may have had some cause in bringing about the trouble. Dempsey has been a little queer ever since his defeat by Fitzsimmons and at the time his friends and intimates though his heart would break.

ALCOHOL AND COLD.

Science Proves That Liquor Weakens the Resisting Power of the Body.

From an article in The Irish Ecologist. Record we gather the following scientific testimony on this subject: Dr. Davis of Chicago tells us that from extensive experiments made by him in 1850 he found when alcohol is taken into the system "the temperature of the body begins to fall within half an hour and continues to decrease from two to three hours. The extent and duration of reduction were in direct proportion to the amount of alcohol taken."

Professor Binz tried experiments with the lower animals with the result that he found there was a fall of between 4 and 5 degrees after a fatal dose had been administered.

It is a fallacy, says Sir William Gull, the famous English doctor, to say that a man ought to take a glass of brandy on a cold morning to keep him warm. You had better give a man food.

Dr. Burton says that it is quite a delusion to imagine that alcohol causes warmth; it lowers the temperature of the whole body.

We can point to other practical proofs of this important point. During the Russian campaign of 1812, so fatal to the interests of France, it was found that almost all the soldiers who used alcohol sunk under the cold and fatigue, while only very few abstainers fell victims to these rigors. The Eskimos, Greenlanders, Laplanders and other inhabitants of the coldest countries in the world testify that alcohol would unfit them for enduring their severe climate.

The soldiers in the Russian army when on the march in cold weather not only use no ardent spirits, but no man who has been lately drinking is allowed to accompany them, as his drunken debauch would render him quite unfit to withstand the cold. The same strict abstinence has been found by actual experience in the arctic expeditions to be the best preventive against cold.

Here at home it is known that old and experienced drivers of stages, who sit on the box for hours in the coldest weather, are in the habit of drinking hot coffee, which keeps them much warmer than any form of alcoholic drink.

There will be no change in the color of our naval vessels after all, and they will continue to plow "the dark and deep blue ocean" in their pristine white beauty. An order has been issued by the Navy Department prescribing that hulls of all iron and steel vessels of the navy, outside, above the load water-line, and the bulwarks inside shall be painted white. A slab, painted to match the standard color, will be furnished to each navy yard and station and to each vessel in commission.

SPORTING NEWS.

ANOTHER NEW RECORD.

This Time the Tandem is Ridden a Mile in 2.20 2-5.

Four thousand persons witnessed the bicycle champions battle for supremacy at the South Side Ball Park, Chicago, Friday afternoon of last week. It was the fourth day of the international race meet of the League of American Wheelmen. One new record was created. Dirnberger and Bald of the Press Cycling Club of Buffalo made a new world's competition record in the one-mile tandem championship. Their time was 2 minutes 20 2-5 seconds. The previous record stood at 2 minutes 26 seconds. Lumsden and Tuttle, the Chicago men had a close race with Tyler in the half-mile national championship. Tyler won after a very close finish. Lumsden surprised every one by defeating Tuttle. G. L. Gary of the Press Cycling Club of Boston is doing some noteworthy riding. In the two-mile national championship he defeated Arthur Lumsden and C. T. Kniesley, the Chicago tracks, and Hayland Smith of the New York A. C.

There were only teams in the one mile tandem championship. 'Birdie' Munger and Frank Waller, the long distance riders, competed against a team from the Press Cycling Club of Buffalo. The latter team took the lead at the half mile and won easily. Montey, the South African, had 100 yards in the two-mile handicap race, but was unable to overhaul his field to secure a place. Johnson romped home an easy winner in the one mile open, while Tyler had all he could do to defeat Taylor. The officials placed a time limit of 2 minutes and 40 seconds in this event, which was ridden in 2 minutes 41 2-5 seconds. It was evident that the men did not try to ride inside the limit so they had to ride the race over.

In the second trial the Eastern riders, Messrs Tyler and Taylor, rather unexpectedly sprang away from the crowd and beat Johnson easily.

Dixon Signs to Fight Solly Smith.

New York, Aug. 12.—George Dixon said last night that he had already signed to fight Solly Smith before the Coney Island A. C., on Sept. 25, for a $10,000 purse. Smith has not as yet placed his signature to articles of agreement, but will in all likelihood do so to-day. Dixon leaves for Boston this afternoon.

MR. FOSTER'S VISIT.

The visit of the Finance Minister to Fredericton was ostensibly for the purpose of making enquiries into the state of public feeling here regarding the tariff; but while on the ground Mr. Foster took occasion to visit Marysville, and have a conference with Alex. Gibson, whose support is so necessary to the success of a political candidate in York County; he addressed a large number of electors of the city and county in the city hall on the public question of the day, taking care to make as strong a contrast as possible between the governmental and the liberal policies, and putting clearly before his hearers what he considered to be the real issue between the two; he visited Sunbury and addressed the electors there and he promised them that next summer himself and some other cabinet ministers would visit Queen and Sunbury, and hold a great political picnic there. All these things may not mean much, and yet they may mean a very great deal. If the cabinet ministers make a public visit to Queen and Sunbury next year, they will inflict their presence upon York County as well. The Finance Minister's movements while here show that he thinks it worth while to bestow a good deal of attention upon this part of the country. It is well known that he can never again succeed, by any means except simple stealing of votes, in his native county, and it is believed that he has his eye upon York. This belief is further strengthened by the knowledge that Mr. Temple has the strongest feelings in favour of a senatorial chair at Ottawa. If Mr. Foster runs in York County, the liberal party here must be up and doing, or suffer heavy defeat. The county has of late been too much neglected. There has not been an able liberal speaker, with the single exception of Mr. Blair in the capital city for some time past. Now that Mr. Foster has opened the ball by a public address of a campaign nature might it not be just as well for the liberal party to have some one or more of their leading orators visit York County in the near future, and treat the electors here to an honest, disinterested account of the doings of the ministerial party since they last assumed the control of public affairs? The speech of the Finance Minister was a dreadful distortion of the facts from his own side of the house, as well as of the liberal party's platform as adopted at the Ottawa convention. His statements regarding the tariff, taxation, Canadian trade and relations with the United States, the effect of a revenue tariff and the record of the liberal party were so far misleading as to be worthy of serious consideration from the liberal party. So far as we remember, York county has never been honored by a visit from Mr. Laurier as leader of the opposition in Canada, and we are of opinion that such a visit would have the effect of removing many of the wrong impressions left upon the minds of the people by the Finance Minister's speech, and would very much strengthen the liberal cause in the county.

THE BEHRING SEA DECISION.

The report of the arbitration appointed to establish a decision between the claims of Great Britain and the United States in regard to seal fishing in the Behring Sea, has been handed in; and a full summary of the same is to be found in our news columns to-day. It will be remembered that the United States claimed the exclusive right to kill seals in one half of the Behring Sea, and the right to prevent others from so doing, on the ground that when they purchased Alaska from Russia dominion in one half of the Behring Sea was purchased also. Failing to establish this claim they sought to prove that the Russians had always claimed and exercised rights of property in the seals which come to breed at the Pribyloff Islands, and had enforced these rights against all the world, protecting the seals even in the high seas, on their way to or from these islands, and that the United States had purchased this right. On the strength of this claim the United States had seized and confiscated certain Canadian sealing vessels found killing seals on the high seas. On this point as well as upon all the legal points involved, the decision of the arbitrators is favorable to Canada, and makes the United States liable to pay compensation to the owners of vessels seized. But while it is satisfactory to Canadians to know that the arbitration has upheld them in their claims, the decision of the arbitrators in other respects is practically adverse to Canada. Pelagic sealing (or sealing on the high seas) is very nearly put an end to, and pelagic sealing is the only kind in which Canadians were ever allowed to indulge. The decision establishes a close season for pelagic sealing extending from May 1st to July 21st. Now in April, May and in July the seals are met with in the greatest quantities on the high sea, going to or returning from their breeding grounds; and at these times pelagic sealing is the most profitable. But the decision goes further, and establishes a protected zone of sixty miles in extent around the Pribyloff Islands, which are owned by the United States and prohibits the use of firearms altogether in sealing. Thus we have the Canadian sealers in the following position. They cannot approach within sixty miles of the breeding islands where seal fishing is, of course, easy and profitable; they cannot kill seals in the open seas except at the seasons when the seals are scarce and the business unprofitable; and finally they are debarred from the use of firearms, which were the main stay of the pelagic sealer.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

It has been suggested from a certain influential quarter that Chief Engineer Lipsett should resign his office on the ground of incompetency, as evidenced during the late fire on Westmoreland Street. We do not think the suggestion worth the trouble of discussing, neither do we believe that the Chief Engineer will feel bound to act in accordance therewith. But we do think that there is some little ground for censuring the manner in which the fire was handled on that occasion. The blame does not rest entirely on the shoulders of the Chief Engineer, who, as usual, worked actively, while the firemen obeyed orders and did their duty. The greater part of the fault lies at the door of the fire committee of the City Council, whose duty it is to provide serviceable hose for the use of the fire department. There is no doubt that the work of arresting the progress of the fire was seriously retarded by the bursting of the hose at two or three critical points, a fact, which, though small in itself, increased the net loss by the fire. Such state of affairs should not be allowed to continue. Of course the chief reason of it is the infrequency of fires during late years. The hose was not needed very often, and consequently was not tested as it ought to have been. We are glad to observe that the fire department are now fully alive to the danger of allowing this state of affairs to continue, and have taken the proper steps toward providing good hose for providing good hose for the future. With that requisite fulfilled the firemen will be found ready and better able to cope successfully with the fierce element on future occasions.

REV. A. F. THOMPSON.

Rev. A. F. Thompson was invited during the absence of the pastor on his vacation, to occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here last Sunday. The invitation was tendered him out of pure courtesy, and not because of his eminence in the pulpit, nor on account of his fanatic connection with the Bathurst School question. The people of the city turned out in large numbers to hear a man who has acquired a questionable notoriety in connection with the matter, and accorded him a civil, courteous hearing. Nevertheless, the Reverend bigot felt it his duty to drag the Bathurst school question into his discourse in the most offensive manner. He did not merely refer to the matter in an accidental manner which might have been forgiven, but he took an opportunity to indulge in some pretty severe criticisms of the sisters of charity, and the Catholic orders in general, remarking of them that they were composed of individuals too cowardly to face the temptations of the world. Such an unfair and unchristian reference to religious bodies in whose sincerity intelligent people believe, might, perhaps go down with the Reverend gentleman's congregation, but it did not take in Fredericton, where people have developed view more in keeping with the advance of modern civilization. The best people of the city unhesitatingly condemned the sermon, and we believe it has done more to exhibit the narrow mindedness of the agitators and complainants in the Bathurst School investigation than any amount of political or editorial denunciation.

HELPLESS IN OLD AGE.

A Resident of Irishtown Refused a Landing at Boston.
The story told by James Anketle of Irishtown, to a Transcript representative is not without public interest. Mr. Anketle, who is over 70 years old, is very decrepit, and has lost the use of his right arm and leg through rheumatism. Forty years ago he purchased a farm in Irishtown, which he cultivated until disease seized him. He had three sons and three daughters. Part of his land he divided with his children retaining the house and 130 acres of land. Misfortune and disease overtook Mr. Anketle to such an extent that he determined recently to follow his children to the United States, one of whom the old man says has not treated him well, and holds a deed of his farm, on condition he should keep his father during his natural life. After this son left for the States, the old man succeeded in selling a truck wagon and some minor farm articles with the proceeds of which he purchased a ticket for Boston. He left St. John in the steamer Cumberland three weeks ago, unacquainted with his proposed destination. He, however, was in search of one of his daughters, who resides in Madison Place, a suburb of Boston. He was accompanied by one of his sons, who resides in St. John. Upon their arrival in Boston Harbor the customs authorities prohibited his landing as a presumed helpless pauper until his daughter for whom he searched could be found. His son went ashore and was given two hours to find a home for the old man. The son went to Madison Place but his search proved futile as his sister had a short time previously moved to some other place. Quite dejected he returned to his father who again asked for permission to land but they refused, stating that should they grant his request they would be under a penalty of $2,000. He was accordingly brought back to St. John. Mr. Anketle was quite profuse in his praises of the steamer officials. He said they were kind to him both going and coming and assisted him in any way they could. Mr. Anketle, Sr., who has now returned to Moncton, is well known in this vicinity. He was one of the first men engaged on the railway construction from St. John to Point du Chene and was always an industrious, sober and hard working man. He occupied a position in the I. C. R. shops for some years but turned his attention to farming. Legal proceedings are being taken to recover control of his little farm for him.—Moncton Transcript.

The Salvation Army's Latest Scheme for Raising Money.

The Salvation Army has hit upon a new idea for raising funds. Last year, Commandant Booth inaugurated a plan for clearing poor corps and officers of debt, by instituting annual Harvest Festivals throughout the Dominion. This year, the dates will be as follows:—North-West and British Columbia, August 26th, 27th and 28th; Ontario and Maritime Provinces, September 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

In Toronto, there is to be a great Central Thanksgiving Exhibition from September 10th to the 15th, or the same dates on which the Toronto Industrial Exhibition is being held. Great efforts are being made by the local officers and corps to canvass the town (or city) for contributions in kind of all description. Fruits, vegetables, grains, barley, oats, wheat, and even straw for the Circle Corps horses, all are solicited. A special point is being made too, to secure contributions of live stock, which will be sent forward to the Toronto Exhibition to be used in supplying the Social Institutions of the Army with meat. Last year, three thousand dollars were netted in this way to assist the poor corps, and there is every prospect of a far larger sum than that being raised on this occasion.

The Toronto Exhibition promises to be a most attractive affair. Gifts of all kinds will be forwarded and tastefully exhibited there. The Salvationists of the far West propose to contribute wheat, cattle, and canned goods; whereas Newfoundland is being asked to contribute tinned and dried fish. Wood, oil, and coal are also solicited, and manufacturers are being asked to give some of their wares. Commandant Booth hopes, by this means, to replenish the store houses of the Social Institutions and Homes for sick officers, so that it will be unnecessary to spend money on household goods. His contention is that, while the dollars are scarce, the land is overflowing with good things, and he calls upon those who have enough to eat and to spare, to remember out of their plenty their more unfortunate fellow-creatures.

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters Political Parliamentary or Other wise.

Some Touch-and-go Notices of All Mentionable Matters of Things.

The "Prentice" boys turnout last Sunday evening gave the citizens a delightful surprise. They made a fine appearance.

If the Marysville ball team, composed principally of small boys, had allowed the picked team from this city who played them at the Forrester's picnic to defeat them, it is just possible that they could have arranged for a return match, but instead of that they treated the Fredericton boys to such a drubbing that it will be difficult to get any of our boys to again mention "ball."

The Star Social Club's moonlight excursion, Tuesday evening, will eclipse all former excursions. The committee have completed all arrangements, and should the weather prove favorable the success of the excursion is assured. The music will be furnished by the R. R. C. I. band, and during the sail the committee intend making a beautiful display of colored lights. Tickets can be procured from members of the club. Everybody should go.

The Admiral of the French fleet completed the captain of the gunboat who steamed down upon the British man-of-war, "Pallas," at Bangkok; with the crew at their quarters, and the guns run out, to make an unreserved apology to the Englishman. It is said that only the prudence and coolness shown by the latter averted a conflict. The thread was indeed very slight which upheld the sword between England and France during the Siam difficulty.

The fire which broke out in Lee's stable early last Saturday morning proved to be the most disastrous that has occurred since the introduction of the present water system. The following buildings were consumed: John Palmer's Tannery, Lee's Livery Stable and Opera House, Gaunce's Stable, now used as a store house by Mr. W. T. Estay, Dunphy's Hotel, dwelling house occupied by Mrs. Linforth, Robert Winters' dwelling, occupied by Wm. Haining, and Parsons' Hotel and barns. The total loss is estimated at $20,000, covered by the following insurance:—

John Palmer, $1,000 on tannery building in Etina, and $1,750 on stock in Hartford; J. A. & W. Vanwart, $1,000 on Dunphy's hotel, in British America; $1,200 on Gaunce's stable, in British America; W. T. Estay, $1,000 each in the Keystone and Quebec, on stock of flour, Robert Winters', $400 in Fire Insurance Association; J. J. Ex, $500 on grocery stock; Charles Parsons, $900 in Manchester on hotel furniture. McCaffrey building, $1,000 in Phoenix. There was no insurance on the Lee Livery Stable and Opera House, and Mrs. Linforth's dwelling. It was fortunate indeed that there was no wind, for despite the fact that our water system is unsurpassed, had a fairly heavy breeze been blowing, the city would have been literally swept away.

The fact of the fire spreading and destroying such a number of buildings on such a perfectly calm night, would lead any uninterested party to suppose that the fire was not handled as well as it might have been, and although the firemen, no doubt, worked well, something must have been radically wrong with the judgment of the chief.

TREASURY BALANCE SMALLER.

It is the Lowest Now for Many Years.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—The treasury balance seems to be growing smaller and smaller day by day, and its condition is an effective barrier to any help by the treasury to the money market. The general balance to-day was $112,206,430, including the gold reserve of $101,123,650. This is the lowest balance for many years, and if the bank deposits of $12,269,105 and the subsidiary silver in the treasury, amounting to $12,456,682 were deducted from the balance, there would be less than the required gold reserve in the treasury. The use of the money which is set aside against default liabilities keeps the case from being as bad as it looks, but does not afford any working margin.

The actual currency in the treasury without deducting any liabilities stood to-day at $17,009,413, of which $9,981,809 was in United States notes, $4,729,069 in Sherman notes, and $2,298,535 in silver certificates. The amount might serve for ordinary purposes if there were not such a disposition to hoard money, and if there were no liabilities to be deducted.

The treasurer and sub-treasurers are endeavoring under the circumstances to hold on to the currency as tightly as possible, and are paying out gold on current applications in preference to paper. This accounts for the fact that the gold reserve more than $2,000,000 during the past few days.

Secretary Carlisle still refuses to authorize the issue of gold certificates again, and is likely to persist in his refusal while the treasury is so low and while the gold balance is below $110,000,000.

No appeal has yet been made to Congress for relief in the way of additional funds, and the hope seems still to be entertained at the department that the receipts at the New York Custom House will begin to increase when the financial situation improves.

PLUNGED TO DEATH.

A Passenger Train Falls Sixty Feet Through a Trestle.

REICHMOND, Va., August 16.—A special from Danville, Va., says: "An accident occurred at the county line trestle, just east of Milton, this morning at 2.50 o'clock, by which two passenger coaches and a sleeper were precipitated into the creek below, a distance of sixty feet, killing seven passengers outright and wounding a number of others. The train left here at 1.35 this morning, and was the regular train bound for Portsmouth. After passing through Milton and going over the trestle, the engineer, Peyton Tansall, who says he was running at the rate of ten miles an hour, felt the bridge giving way. He threw open the throttle, and the engine and tender and box car got safely over, but the passenger cars were too late, and the span went down under its weight, the second passenger car and the sleeper following. The cars were shivered into kindling wood and the escape of any of the passengers was a miracle. The following are the killed and wounded:

Killed: H. H. Morris, conductor, Portsmouth, Va.; J. G. Davies, a farmer of Baskerville, Va.; W. P. Elm, of Durham, N. C.; James S. Lowe, a railroad conductor from the West, who was a passenger, Thomas Lee, colored, of Winston, N. C.; Francis Jenkins, colored, of Salem, N. C.

Injured: Mrs. Harvey Gierach, of Salem, J. L. Seley, of Richmond, Va., Pullman conductor, foot smashed and hurt inside, S. R. Townes, colored, porter on Pullman sleeper, slightly bruised about the body;—Davis, flagman, hurt about head and face and foot sprained.

Tells of His Fearful Sufferings After Gastric Fever and His Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla

All who know Mr. W. D. Wentz give him the best of recommendations for honesty and integrity. For many years he has worked for Mr. D. P. Wilson, the harness maker and member of the Geneva Board of Health. He says:

"I was taken sick last October with gastric fever and my chance for recovery was considered almost hopeless. After 7 weeks the fever slowly left me, but I could not eat the simplest food without terrible distress. It seemed that I had recovered from the fever to

I happened to think I had part of a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and had been in the house for two or three years, that I found had benefited me previously for dyspepsia. I began taking it and soon began to feel better. I have now taken a little over two bottles and can truthfully say I feel well again and can eat anything without distressing me, even to

BRITAIN WINS.

Behring Sea Award Given in Her Favor.

The United States May Have to Pay Damages.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The anxiously awaited award in the Behring Sea arbitrations was made public to-day.

The award was handed down at 11.07 this morning.

The first five points favor Great Britain.

A series of regulations is proposed, which also on the whole favors Great Britain.

On the question of fact regarding the seizure of sealing vessels, Great Britain is favored by the decision of the arbitrators.

A close season is established, to begin May 1 and to continue until July 21. This close season will be observed both in the North Pacific Ocean and in Behring Sea.

A protected zone is established extending for sixty miles around the islands.

Pelagic sealing is allowed outside the zone in Behring Sea from August 1.

The use of firearms in sealing is prohibited.

The American arbitrators express their satisfaction with the text of the decision.

I saw Sir Charles Tupper to-day and ASKED HIM HIS OPINION regarding the decision.

He said the award was about as expected. It was natural that the arbitrators should reach in the nature of a compromise. The facts made the position of Canada on the question of rights impregnable. Outside of this the general desire to preserve the seals from extinction enabled the court to meet the protests of the United States on this point.

The United States were now liable to pay damages to the Canadian sealers which they have seized.

The opinion here is that Great Britain and Canada have every reason to feel pleased at the result of the arbitration and the award, and general satisfaction is expressed that the matter is finally settled.

What the Regulations Were.

The regulations suggested by Great Britain to govern pelagic sealing in Behring Sea, and which were under consideration by the arbitrators, are as follows:

1. All vessels engaged in pelagic sealing shall be required to obtain licenses at one or other of the following ports:—Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia; Vancouver in the province of British Columbia; Port Townsend, in Washington territory, in the United States; San Francisco, in the State of California, in the United States.

2. Such licenses shall only be granted to sailing vessels.

3. A zone of 20 miles around the Pribiloff Islands shall be established within which no seal-hunting shall be permitted at any time.

4. A close season, from the 15th of September until the 1st of July, shall be established, during which no pelagic sealing shall be permitted in Behring Sea.

5. No rifle or net shall be used in pelagic sealing.

6. All sealing vessels shall be required to carry a distinguishing flag.

7. The masters in charge of sealing vessels shall keep accurate logs as to the times and places of sealing, the number and sex of the seals captured, and shall enter an abstract thereof in their official logs.

8. Licenses shall be subject to forfeiture for breach of above regulations.

THE POINTS AT ISSUE.

These are the points that were contested before the Behring Sea Arbitration:

UNITED STATES' CLAIMS.

1. Dominion and right to legislate against foreigners in two thirds of the Behring Sea.

2. A right of property in wild animals which resort for a certain season of the year only to United States territory, derive no sustenance therefrom, and during the greater part of the year live many hundreds of miles away from that territory in the ocean.

3. The right to protect the alleged right of property by search, seizure and condemnation of the ships of other nations.

4. Failing the establishment of the right of property, the United States claim a right to protect the seals in the ocean, and to apply, in assertion of that right, the like sanctions of search, seizure and condemnation.

5. Failing these assertions of right, the United States claims that rules shall be framed in the interests of the United States alone, which shall exclude other nations from the pursuit of fur seals.

BRITISH CLAIMS.

1. Freedom of the seas for the benefit of all the world.

2. That rights of property and rights in relation to property be confined within the limits consecrated by practice and founded on general expediency in the interest of mankind—the three mile limit.

3. That, apart from agreement, no nation has the right to seize the vessels of another on the high seas in time of peace for offences against property, excepting piracy.

4 & 5. That any regulations to be established should have just and equitable regard to all the interests concerned.

The Court met February 22 at the French Foreign office and formally opened proceedings, but as a very large proportion of the members had not yet arrived, adjournment was taken to March 23, when the court was organized by the election of Baron de Courcelles as president.

The debates of the Court, it was decided, should be held in English, and the journal of proceedings should be kept in French, with an English version.

After these preliminaries had been arranged, another adjournment was taken until April 4, in order to examine the printed arguments presented by Great Britain and the United States.

Both sides filed claims for damages—the United States for losses to its revenue and on account of the Alaskan Commercial Company, because of the reduced number of skins taken, owing to the diminution of the herd by the pelagic sealing of British vessels; and Great Britain on account of losses to the owners of the vessels seized by the United States.

An incident of the early stages of the sessions of the court was the introduction of a claim by the British counsel that a large part of the case presented by the United States was based upon fraudulent translations of Russian documents, the work of one Ivan Petroff. It was found on examination by ex-Secretary Foster, who had prepared the case for our government, that these charges were true, which made it necessary to prepare a new presentation of the case.

The Arguments Began.

The arguments were begun April 12. It was arranged that James C. Carter and Frederic R. Conder should make the opening addresses for the United States that they should be followed by the British counsel, and that Mr. Phelps should have the privilege of closing in behalf of the United States. Article VI of the treaty, by which it was agreed to submit the questions at issue between the two Governments to arbitration, was as follows:

In deciding matters submitted to the arbitrators, it is agreed that the following five points shall be submitted to them, in order that their award shall embrace a distinct decision upon each of the said five points to wit:

1. What exclusive jurisdiction in the sea now known as the Behring sea, and exclusive rights in the seal fisheries therein, did Russia assert and exercise prior and up to the time of the cession of Alaska to the United States?

2. How far were these claims of jurisdiction as to the seal fisheries recognized and conceded by Great Britain?

3. Was the body of water now known as the Behring sea included in the phrase "Pacific Ocean" as used in the treaty of 1825 between Great Britain and Russia; and what rights, if any, in the Behring sea were held and exclusively exercised by Russia after said treaty?

4. Did not all the rights of Russia as to jurisdiction, and as to the seal fisheries in Behring sea east of the water boundary, in the treaty between the United States and Russia of the 30th of March 1867, pass unimpaired to the United States under that treaty?

5. Has the United States any right and if so, what right, of protection of property in the fur sea's frequenting the islands of the United States in Behring sea when such seals are found outside the ordinary three mile limit?

Article VII went on to state that, if the determination of the foregoing questions as to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States should leave the subject in such position that the concurrence of Great Britain is necessary to the establishment of regulations for the proper protection and preservation of the fur seal or of habitually resorting to the Behring Sea, the arbitrators should then determine what concurrent regulations outside the jurisdictional limits of the respective Governments are necessary, and over what waters such regulations should extend and to aid them in that determination the report of a joint commission, to be appointed by the respective Governments, should be laid before them, with such other evidence as either Government might submit. The high contracting parties furthermore agree to co-operate in securing the adhesion of other powers to such regulations.

The Arbitrators and Counsel.

The president of the arbitration tribunal was Baron Alphonse Courcelles de Conzel.

He was born in 1815, and, after having had conferred on him a degree in a German university, entered on a diplomatic career, and made his debut as an attaché to the French Legation in Brussels. In the embassy in St. Petersburg, where, in 1869, he was promoted minister plenipotentiary of the second class.

In 1877 he was nominated director of political affairs, and in 1880 he became a minister plenipotentiary of the first class, and finally a state councillor. From 1881 to 1886 he filled the situation French ambassador in Berlin, and was elected a member of the French Senate last year. M. de Courcel, though the title of Baron was granted his ancestor by Napoleon III, is a sincere Republican, and was an intimate friend of Gambetta. He is the president of the Paris and Orleans Railway and enjoys a high position in the financial, as well as in the diplomatic world.

His European associates were Viscount Venosta, on behalf of Italy; M. Gregers Gram, on behalf of Sweden; and Lord Hannen on behalf of Great Britain. To these must be added the Americans Justice Harlan and Senator John T. Morgan. Sir John Thompson, the Premier of Canada was the seventh arbitrator.

The American arguments were put forth by Messrs Carter, Phelps and Conder, as counsel Great Britain was represented by Sir Charles Russell, Sir Richard Webster and Chris Hobbs; son, Q. C., of Toronto, and Hon. C. H. Tupper and General John W. Foster supplied, respectively, to Great Britain and the United States the data upon which the arguments were based.

STOLE HORSES IN MEN'S DRESS.

"Tommy" King is a pretty girl with a splendid time-keeping record.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Aug. 16. "Tommy" King is a pretty girl of scarcely 20. She donned male attire and engaged in horse stealing with an organized band.

Now she is in the county goal.

"Tommy" has quite a crime record. Twice she has broken jail. The first time she cut a hole in the goal roof and slid down the conductor. The next time she sawed out an iron bar of her cage with a corset stay while the other prisoners in the goal were holding religious services. The hymn, "Hold the Fort" drowned the noise of her sawing. She waited until but one guard was on duty and got a fellow prisoner to call him to a rear cell. Then the nimble Tommy re-entred the bar and slipped out the front door.

When arrested the other day she denied her sex, but her ways and voice soon betrayed her. Tommy can play any kind of instrument, is a pianist of considerable ability and a splendid conversationalist. She is also a crack shot with a rifle and can ride the wildest Mexican broncho. She beats Belle Starr's record.

Theatrical Coup.

Alice Harrison will return to the stage this coming season.

Anna Allen, of the Allen sisters, has been engaged for Leavitt's Spider and Fly company.

"Senator" Frank Bell has been engaged to create the leading comedy part in The Engineer.

Marion Booth will play Rosalind, in an out-of-door performance of As You Like It at Asbury Park, Sept. 2.

Lotta has reconsidered her determination to return to the stage 'his season and will wait another year.

Hart Conway has been re-engaged for another year to teach elocution at the Auditorium Conservatory in Chicago.

Byron Douglas takes Emmet Carrigan's part in the cast of The Girl I Left Behind Me.

Wilton Lackaye has been engaged for A. M. Palmer's stock company next season.

A cable from London says that Miss Ellen Terry will retire from the stage after her American tour.

The two Bostons finish their long and successful engagement at the American theatre roof garden in a fortnight, and sail for England.

Marguerite Daly of the Daly sisters, the dancers, and Harry R. Vokes of the team of Ward and Vokes, were married in Boston last week.

Edward Temple, last year with the Manola-Meson combination, has been engaged for Francis Wilson's Opera company next season.

Educational Echoes.

The Danish government has voted a sum to be used for scholarships for young women who intend to become teachers.

The faculty of Kentucky university has forbidden all college sports on account of alleged gambling connected with them.

Ex-Senator Dawes of Massachusetts has been elected professor of United States history since the civil war in Dartmouth college.

The school board of Auburn, Me., has decided that it takes six children to make a school, and they intend closing up all schools having less than that number.

The indications are that '97 will be the largest class that ever entered Princeton. It is estimated that in the academic and scientific departments there will be fully 350 freshmen when the term opens.

Circus Conversations.

"Hello" cried the Chimpanzee to the Elephant, as he was eating his breakfast, "going away?"

"No," returned the elephant. "Why?"

"Cause I saw you had your trunk packed just now," chuckled his tormentor.

"What makes the tiger so angry this morning?" asked the Polar-Bear.

"Oh," laughed the hyena, "I saw him walking up and down his cage this morning and asked him if he was going far, and he got mad."

Say, called out the Batson to the Giraffe, next time you go to watch your neck let me know will you, please, so I won't think it's a boa-constrictor, and get scared into its again.

That Leopard and Panther tire me with their quarrels, said the Silver Fox; they dispute every day as to who has the best fur for a rug—just as though there was any choice in the matter after people have seen me.

Of course, returned the Moose; he's among the first animals in natural history.

How is that inquired the Elk.

Pooh you stupid, was the answer. Doesn't his name begin with A?

Why isn't that poor Hyena popular inquired the Sacred Cow.

Because explained the Camel, he laughs at his very best friends and they don't like it.

Carol Richmond

— OR —
THE MAN WITH THE BLACK GLOVE

CHAPTER XXXIII.
FLESH OR SPIRIT.

Captain Grant—as we may still call the man of many names, in order to distinguish him from his cousin, Roger Darrel—had proved his boldness by remaining in the vicinity, when everything seemed to indicate that hasty flight would be most beneficial to his interests.

He seemed completely environed by foes, and no matter which way he turned it did seem as though he was bound to meet some enemy; but he only shut his teeth the harder and determined to beat them all yet.

There were several important things that menaced him about which he knew nothing.

The first of these was the escape of New Water for the second time from the mill-house, and the fact that she and brave Jack who loved her so well that he was ready to die in her service, were even then sleeping in upon the man upon whom both had sworn a mighty oath to be avenged.

Then, again, there was another little fact of which the Captain was ignorant—the restoration of the Russian detective to life.

He had not the least idea in the wide world but that fellow had been dead in the chimney for days, and not knowing that the old mill was occupied, and haunted by a fear lest his secret should become known, should anyone by accident discover the body of the man-tracker, who might really be recognized as the person with whom he had left Richmond Terrace on the night when his marriage had been so abruptly broken off by the flight of Carol, assisted by Valiant Roger, he was even now on his way to the old mill with the full intention of forever hiding the body of the slain detective—for he was absolutely positive the man was dead—from the view of mankind.

He had started out with a trowel and some lime, intending to make some mortar and brick up the hole in the chimney in which he had dropped the body, but when he came to think it all over, there were several objections to this plan.

In the first place, any parties visiting the mill through idle curiosity—as they were liable to do any day, and this it was that had urged him on to the step he was about to take—could not but notice the difference in the mortar; the patch would be plainly seen, and their curiosity so excited that nothing would do but an examination; when the truth would be speedily disclosed.

This had so disgusted him that he had hurled the trowel and little sack of lime into the bushes, and with a curse was about to turn back, when he suddenly became seized with a brilliant idea.

So stuporous was this new thought, coming after his late defeat, that he became excited, and, being no time, at once recommenced his walk toward the mill.

It was far into the night, and the bright stars looked down from above as though rebuking the dark thoughts that had been engendered in his brain.

His new scheme, which had appeared to him as one well calculated to bring success, with it was to tear down the chimney, remove the body to some other part of the mill, where it would get the full benefit of his further actions, and then gathering combustibles about the dead man, set fire to the old mill.

The great structure would burn like tinder, and his secret would be well kept, if only his idea, he hurried along the path, he had taken on that other night, when, with much heroic strength he had borne the body of the detective from the spot where he had struck him down to the denser forest where he had afterward brought his horse to bear the body to the mill.

If he could dispose of the detective's body, one great object would be accomplished. He felt that when he struck the man-tracker down to death he had accomplished much, for in spite of his nonchalance in his presence he had fearful this man like poison.

When this work was accomplished he could turn upon his other foe one by one and demolish them.

Filled with these thoughts he hurried on through the gloomy forest.

The mill was quite a distance away, and yet he took no note of the passage of time, and was so engrossed in his various schemes that almost before he was aware of the fact the old building loomed up before him.

To the surprise of the Captain, he saw lights in two different parts of the mill, one on the lower floor, remote from the place where the body had been concealed, the other higher, up in a sort of loft, formerly used by the miller for some purpose.

The first he could comprehend, for he remembered hearing that an old woman had been known to inhabit the wing of the mill for some years past, but what the other meant he had not the remotest idea.

Then a sudden fear assailed his heart—what if the evidence of his crime had already been discovered?

Whatever lay in his past, this man was not a coward, so far as brute courage was concerned, as has been already proven on different occasions, but this was the first time his soul had been stained with actual murder, and he quivered with horror at the thought of the doom awaiting him should his crime be detected and brought home to him.

Soon the reaction came, and with it a determination to climb up and see who it was occupied the strong rooms of the dead miller.

This was easily done, for a tree grew beside the building, and all that was necessary for him to do was to draw himself up among the branches of this until he came on a line with the little window from whence the light proceeded.

No sooner had this idea entered his head than he hastened to put it into execution.

To climb the tree was an easy task, and in a very few minutes his head was on a level with the window. When his eyes fell upon the occupant of the little chamber his form seemed to turn into ice, such was the cold wave that shot through his frame, and from his lips, trembling with a sudden fear, fell the words:

My God, it is his spirit!

He was gazing upon his last victim, the Russian detective, whose head his murderous knife had sought.

CHAPTER XXXIV.
LIKE BATS IN A TRAP.

Perhaps the man in the tree may have, in his sudden alarm, uttered the words that indicated his surprise a little too loud; at any rate the detective turned and looked toward the window, and would have discovered the spy but that he had dropped behind a limb and was hidden.

He knew not at first whether it was the detective in the flesh, or his spirit returned to drag him down to Hades, and in either case it was bad enough to make him shiver.

Fancy his feelings—so close to this Russian blood-bond who was on his track, doubtless armed with all the papers necessary to take him across the water to the most terrible doom that could befall a man, and beside which, death at the gibbet or guillotine lost its terrors—a life in the salt mines of Siberia for tremendous political offenses against the Czar.

Satisfied, apparently, that he had been mistaken in thinking that he heard a noise, the man resumed his work of writing, and Captain Grant gradually raised his head again.

For ten minutes those tiger eyes were gazed upon the detective.

Then the soldier began to descend the tree with the agility and noiselessness of a cat. Once upon the ground he stood and shook his fist upward muttering low words which contained terrible threats.

Turning he vanished from view among the trees beyond the mill, and in about the same place where the two women had seen him disappear on the other evening, when they could not tell whether it was Roger Darrel or some one else, the two men being of the same build and the atmosphere deceptive.

A couple of hours later Captain Grant once more appeared upon the scene. In his hand he carried a large can of coal oil, stolen from some neighboring farmhouse. His object was apparent—he intended to destroy the mill after all, and, if the thing were possible, to get rid of the detective at the same time.

For some time he gazed about in the lower part of the mill. Not a light was to be seen, for Carol had returned to her room in the dwelling, and her mother had closed the blinds in the lower story, so that she might be undisturbed in her occupation of reading old letters from her husband.

The Captain used a dark lantern, and in a short time had everything arranged. A slow match was lighted that would take a certain length of time to burn, and during this time he meant to secure the detective in his room. Escape by means of the window was out of the question for it was only a small bull's-eye opening and even a much more slender man than the Russian detective would have trouble in passing through it.

Up the stairs, creep, the would-be-murderer with the stealth of a burglar. His ears were on the alert for any sound, but nothing was to be heard save the heavy breathing of the sleeper in the little room.

All this while the slow-match he had lighted down below was slowly creeping toward the oil saturated sags and chips, which once blazing, nothing could extinguish. Captain Grant knew what danger he was incurring, and the terrible trap he was about to enter.

Reaching the room in which the Russian detective lay sleeping, having shown himself upon the cot, without undressing, the man-devil looked in. The candle still burned, but dimly from want of snuffing, and as the door was open he saw that the key was on the inside.

To remove this to the outside was his first care. This he accomplished without awakening the sleeper, and then all was in readiness for the consummation of his plan, but he could not resist the temptation to creep across the little room and glare over his enemy once more before the fire cremated him.

Now his eyes gleamed as he glared down upon the man who hunted him so long, and whom his knife had failed to kill. His breath came hard, as though excitement reigned within and his hand unconsciously sought the weapon in his hip pocket.

At this instant, however, the right hand of the detective suddenly shot upward and clutched the throat of the soldier, and at the same time threw himself upward.

The two of them went over with a crash, locked in a deadly embrace, and upon the floor there ensued a terrible struggle. Each man put forth his best efforts, and had the detective been fully well, he would have had but little difficulty in mastering the other, for he was a man of wonderful physique; but the recent upward blow received from this selfsame man had weakened his frame considerably, so that he had all he could do to equal the fierce endeavors made by Captain Grant to overcome him.

They managed in some unaccountable manner to gain their feet, and like a couple of giants awaited to and fro, as if they were two weeds bending in the breeze.

All at once they went to the floor with a great crash, and each was the force of their fall that they were separated, each being hurled in an opposite direction.

When Captain Grant managed to gain his knees, it was only to hear a sharp snap.

The door had, moved by the violence of their actions, slammed shut.

Remembering that it was a spring lock, the man uttered a cry of horror, and, springing forward, attempted to open it, but the door remained fast. The spring lock had caught, and he himself had removed the key to the outside, thus sealing his own doom as it appeared.

When the full consciousness of their position broke upon him, Captain Grant uttered a low cry of horror, for his soul was overwhelmed by the magnitude of the doom he had thus cunningly brought upon himself.

Hearing an exclamation of triumph from his enemy, and recent adversary, he turned.

The angle still bared, feebly close at his hand, and he could see the detective half crouching on the floor, with a pistol in his hand.

Captain Grant was equal to the occasion, however, for with one blow of his hand he hurled the candle to the further end of the little compartment, causing darkness to ensue of such denseness that neither could see the other.

Hold, man! cried the Captain, hoarsely, of what use are hostilities now? We are bound to die together here like rats in a hole.

What's that you say, my friend? came from the Russian agent, who was panting heavily.

I mean that we are locked in here, and the old mill is on fire. See, under the door even now you can see an increasing light. Listen, and you will hear the voices of the fire-brands. We are doomed.

My God! This is your work, devil! ejaculated the detective, jumping up and vainly rattling at the door.

I acknowledge it, but I have been caught in my own trap, answered the miserable Captain.

To their ears now came a low, muttering sound, like increasing thunder. It was the savage flames eating their way upward, roaring, dancing, and shooting wildly, this way and that, as they rapidly enveloped the whole of the doomed building.

CHAPTER XXXV.
UNITED BY THE FLAMES.

Roger Darrel, walking through the forest and drawn by the hand of fate, stopped several times, as though to turn back, but on each separate occasion he found himself impelled forward.

At least I will not enter when I reach there. Let me look upon the old mill once again, and perhaps this mad fancy on my part will be satisfied. What it is I know not, but I cannot resist it. Ha!

He finished his words with a startled cry, for his eyes had suddenly caught a glow of light through the forest trees.

It cannot be the moon rising, for, unless I have lost my bearings, I am heading toward the west. My soul, see that flame dart upward. It is the old mill on fire! God help me, what if she should be lost!

He started on a wild run, leaping over holes and logs as though they were almost nothing, and rapidly nearing the blazing mill, which with every passing minute seemed to become more and more the victim of the flames.

Now he seemed to understand the subtle power that had drawn him on, and in his heart he prayed, oh, so earnestly that he might yet be in time to save his darling.

All thought of bitterness toward her had been swept from his heart as if by magic. He had the proofs of his innocence, but his words about throwing her love from him were forgotten.

On he dashed. It seemed as though he would never get there, and the old mill was now a perfect pyramid of flames, roaring and leaping upward as though in defiance of the destruction of the haunted building.

The woods were now lighted up, and he could see his way better, so that he made better time, but his heart was full of a terrible fear lest he should arrive too late.

Finally, like a mad deer, he sprang from among the trees and rushed into the open space. A terrible scene, full of awful grandeur, was before him but he heeded not its sublime splendor. The one thought before his mind was the harrowing uncertainty in regard to Carol. Was she safe, or Heaven, what if she were in that abyss of flame!

Almost mad at the bare thought, he rushed frantically forward.

A scream reached his ears—the scream of a woman—and for the first time he noticed a female figure close to the burning mill. The glare and smoke kept him from recognizing her, and with his heart leaping for joy, he bounded toward the woman, who was wringing her hands wildly.

When he reached her side he saw that it was Mrs. Richmond, not Carol.

Several other forms had darted from the woods, and were hurrying toward the spot where the lady stood. The leading one he recognized as Lawrence Richmond, but beyond that he did not spare the time to look.

Carol—where is she? he cried.

There was not a second to lose. The poor lady could not speak, but raising her hand she pointed to the blazing building it was enough.

God help me! fell from his shut teeth. Then bracing himself like a giant preparing for a mighty battle, he rushed forward, hurling himself through the barrier of fierce flames that crossed their angry tongues before the doorway.

He found the stairs more from instinct than sight, as the place was full of smoke. Up he went with great leaps. At the top he could see nothing, but groping his way along he cried aloud:

Carol, oh Carol my darling, where are you?

Oh, the bitterness in his voice! It spoke of heart-breaking, racking pain, but there came no answer save the roaring and crackling of the flames as they fed upon the dry timbers of the old mill.

He groped his way along a passage until he came to a door. It refused to give way at his touch, and rendered desperate by the situation, he raised his foot and sent it down with a crash.

Entering, he found the interior full of smoke, and yet it was more bearable than out in the hall, because of the closed door.

A slender figure arose and staggered toward him. With a cry he held out his arms for her.

Carol, my love, my life, thank God you are alive! he cried as he folded her in his arms and crushed her to his heart.

You—forgive me—Roger—I loved you—I believe in you now as I do in Heaven! the poor girl gasped her first thought at this time, when death seemed so near, being of the abyss that had separated them.

Hush, darling Heaven will forgive us both. I have forgotten all—everything but that I love you better than the whole world. As proof of it, witness me here to save or die with you.
