To THADY MCGROONEY McTOWLER McBRIDE,
Ballyragget St.
CORK.

My dear Thady,
I hope this'll find ye my old friend somewhere about the same place I last saw of ye and Bridget on the elvish childer, I don't care for say that I expect ye are standing on the Kay side for the last 3 months wid all yere eyes open, for I was told ye had parted yere self; but may be ye was havin' left the house that sent a hundred miles off that same, if it be standin' yet, an' the distance good to measure, at all events if ye get it alive in any place, ye'll be welcome to it anyhow. Me and my old woman who ye was her years in a middlin' sort of way, has been a thinkin on yers all iver since we lost the blessed sin on each other, however she was to me to day, see she, Dinis if ye don't be ather stein to poor Thady an' Bridget on the elvish childer; and maybe they've been blest wid another by now to make the round dozen, ye'll be hearin' from him in return, an' he want know wheriver ye are to direct to ye; but when friends partin Thady, be they as real as three gold rings, they often promises to do a carbon more for each other than iver their waken strain will let put hand to, and betwix me and you Thady, and the post, we both of us had a great shile about it, all thro the throop we had, more or less perhaps had we been a bit wather but the times is changed since then Thady, and better for both on us, for sorra a drop to be had here any time like it, for either ye nor money.—Well Thady, agrah hearin' there was a good job agoin on here, I naturally came to it wid some of my old foolins, for altho ye may call it Ameriky, ye know it ain't Ameriky, no more nor our own old country as Ingland; and this place belongs to both on em, but it ain't a bit like em neither, and how could ye think wid so much salt wather below em, the fish ain't the same no more nor the folks is, tho' there's a small taste of resemblance in both the natures; it's a damnish sort of place too, and they say 'ere Thady in spot some ten years ago; however, it was a spot ten years agoin, but ye was consen'tly given over rain to many on em now, they may be thinkin' it ain't so thrin as it was then, an' faix there is plenty of big childer to be seen in the streets at day time 'o' day—the town ain't so big neither but ye may say many make yerself at home in it in a short time, the folks is all a homely sort, for ye want see many on em out together at a time, and that's all the folks of me can go by; but there be something goin on in the shape of a general divarshun, such as a —, but comin to this, I must tell ye of the most dreadful flare up we had here tother night, a fortnite cum Thursday next: My old woman had rowled into bed for the nite, taken a pane in the stomach wid her, and she generally tumbles in first, by way of warnin' the straw up a bit by sich times as I'm redly to rowl in after, and I was sittin' formin' the bit of fire, stairin' at all the square faces it struck me I seed in it, and pullin' away at the old dudden ye gev me, and kep iver sense out of remembrance for ye, when the town bell started a ringin, like fury. May all the blest saints and marthurs be befine us an' harm, and preserve us sais Nelly, but what's the matter, glory be to goodness it ain't the wind that doin it see she, thinkin the bell was throbled wid the wind like herself. Begorras there's somethin in it any how see I and wid that it went on ringin harber, and faster and louder, and then another bell started and thried its best to make a bigger noise. Faix see I, there's never a nobdy goin to hev niver a nothin o' a wink ashleep nowhere if they mane to go on that way, and them same words kem thru enuff, Thady Up I bouted, and went to the door, and shure as me name's Dinis, the whole place wor in a dreadful circumstance, all owin to a fire an' no mistake, the only good it done, wor to take the pane clane out of Nelly's stomach, and up she got and out she went, an' by sich means it wor blazin away intendin' to make a nite on it, an' every body laked as how they nowed as much. Out kem the cold fire joggin as blue moulded as ye place, an' as dry as a blind well, and more like a garden whatsumdive ye calls it, for wath-er daisies an' buttercupps, ye kno their nothing anythin, and it made a bound stand nite forin' the devydrin illment, an' then the boys tek and fill wid wather out o' buckets, no bigger in a manner spakin' than the bowl o' your pipe, all events as sham as a Connock's man's hat; then an odd aquarres individual, not carin for danger, stud on top on it, an' lade hould of the spout, an' the boys lade hould of the ingis, an' were a bit of the rust off, and sent the wather flyin' slinky hi, so as to throop down agin wid as much ease as if there had been double the quantity, and so they thried to chace it, till the cold pump wor thro agin, and then they

war more wather to fetch, and no place to get at it, and they war all so fricened out of their wits, kno one could think where the wells wor.

The fire wor blazin away agin time, an' agin ated at the rate of 4 houses clane down an hour, for ye must be afther forgottin they're all on 'em wooden ones, an' first rate timber; an' when the boys thried to get on the roofs, thinkin to keep em cool a bit wid a few buckets o' wathers nor an thin, and so help the cold blue moulded ingin, 'pon my consience Thady, sorra a word a lie on it, but they cudn't lay their hands on a ladder if wor to save their lives, it wor mighty aisy to discover they wor used to sich fires not havin any profits for money a year, an' faix the flames had all the fun to themselves, in spite of ivorybody an' ivythin. Sorra anuff the gentlemen as they calls firewards, kem aftherwards, wid their spikin trumpets, an' they commenced a hollerin out all such things that nobody heard or laid anythin to attend to; an' it struck me, they ain't just as they wor bawled out to a lot of shootin' stars, an' tell 'em to mind, when they wor goin to. The devydrin illment grew mighty hot by the time it wor half way thro its work, an' for iverly drop o' parasharshun it tuk out o' me, it rased a blisder on the houses fermin' it an' all round, an' the most ingenuous thrick o' the night wor the dryin o' Blankets an' carpets afther a nasty washin which wor hung on o' winthers, and spread on the roofs, an' nailed up agin the houses.

Like every thing else that's too good, so last long the fire went out as the day light kem in, an' I everybody began a yawning, an' growin' shleepy, and quite content wid the shile that they got the likes o' which they never felt for 40 year, they all turned to bed as I suppose and got up aftherward to tuk upon the ruins of a fire, that commenced afther widout any body knowin' how, and wint out whin there war nothin more for it to burn up. At all eyes a Thady nothin but a bit of cold property, suffer'd for ther war no lives lost, or destroyed, barrin sich vamin as wad hev puzzled St. Patrick himself to banish. I might now consience myself Thady an' some to an ind like the iver immemorable fire. Ye know about such a rier and praps its just as well, for betwix me and you, I wad like to be axed to commit a forgery, or sign a dead warrant.

God luk to yees all,

that insolence which is apt to get into the minds of the fortunate.

FREAKS OF FASHION.—About a hundred years ago, a lady went about with shoes that raised her heels three inches above the floor, and threw her whole person out of proper balance; occasioning, of course, a severe strain upon certain muscles, attended by constant pain. A little later, a tower of hair, pomatum, flour, pins and pinners had been read on the head, such as an inquisitor have seen the entire sex submitting to torture in the waist, with an equal degree of magnanimity. Or, taking the monstrous proportion of skirts, the fair martyrs act as scavengers upon every street in which they promenade. In a form of bonnet for summer wear, the front comes out to about an inch behind the forehead, so as to leave the face fully exposed to the attacks of the sun. A great number find it absolutely indispensable to add to this abbreviation of a bonnet a sort of supplement of silk, called 'an ugly' A couple of inches added to the bonnet itself would serve the end; but such a thing is not to be thought of.

BIG BRINDLE
In Nashville, many years ago there resided a gentleman of great hospitality, large fortune, and though uneducated, was possessed of a fine intellect. Col. W. had been elected to the Legislature and had also been judge of the county court.

His elevation, however, had made him some what pompous, and he became very fond of using big words. On his farm he had a very large and mischievous ox, called 'Big Brindle,' which frequently broke down his neighbours' fences, and committed other depredations, much to the Colonel's annoyance.

One morning after breakfast, in the presence of some gentlemen who had staid with him over night, and who were now on their way to town, he called his overseer and said to him:

'Mr. Allen, I desire you to impound Big Brindle, in order that I may lay no more out on directions on his eternal depredations.'

'Allen bowed and walked off, sorely puzzled to know what the Col meant. Saunter Col. W. left for town, he went to his wife and asked her what Col. W. meant by telling him to impound the ox.'

'Why,' said she, 'the Colonel meant to tell you to put him in a pen.'

'Allen left to perform the feat, for it was no inconsiderable one, as the animal was very wild and vicious, and after a great deal of trouble and vexation he succeeded.'

'Well,' said he, wiping the perspiration from his brow and shaking his head, 'it is no poundin' it is! Now I am dead sure the old Colonel will ask me if I impounded Big Brindle, and I'll bet I'll puzzle him as bad as he did me.'

The next day the Colonel gave a dinner party, and as he was not aristocratic, Allen, the overseer, sat down with the company. After the second or third glass was discussed, the Colonel turned to the overseer and said:

'Eh, Mr. Allen, did you impound Big Brindle sir?'

Allen straightened himself, and looked around at the company and said—

'Yes, I did, sir, but old Brindle transcended the impound of the impound and scattered the hoscated all over the equanimity of the forest.'

The company here burst into an immoderate fit of laughter, while the Colonel's face reddened with discomfiture.

'What do you mean by that, sir?' said he.

'Why, I mean, Colonel,' said Allen, 'that old Brindle being prognosticated with an idea of the cholera, jumped and leaped, snored and pawed dirt, jumped the fence, took to the woods and wadn't be impounded no how.'

'This was no such—the company roared again, in which the Colonel was forced to join, and in the midst of the laughter, Allen left the table, saying to himself as he went, 'I reckon the Colonel won't ask me to impound any more oxen.'

FEED CATTLE REGULARLY.

We find that very many of our farmers feed their cattle more than they require, to keep them in good condition, particularly oxen which do not work, and horses that stand in the stable most of the time, except occasionally, when the owner takes him out to go on a short trip, or to do a night job. 'Keep 'em fat,' says the farmer, and the horse follows his injunctions implicitly, and his rack is replenished with hay as often as the farmer or sons pass his stall, till he thinks it a matter of course to have an additional amount of feed placed before him every time he hears any one in the barn, and if not attended to, he gives them a call to quicken their memory. Much hay in this way is wasted—the horse, after his appetite is satisfied and either pulling the remainder through the rack, under his feet, or else breathing on it so much as to render it unpalatable to him. Stock of all kinds should have their regular meals, at fixed hours, as much as a man, and be allowed to masticate and digest what they have eaten in the intervals. If they are continually fed at all hours and times, they will be continually expecting something, and consequently kept uneasy. They will thrive better, on a less amount of hay and grain, by the first method of feeding them than by the last, and with less labor of attendance from their keeper.—Middlesex Farmer.

LONG WINDS.—A good story is told of a preacher who delighted in long sermons, and who once exchanged with a brother who always delivered short ones. At the usual hour for closing the services, the people became uneasy and being inspired with the love of warm dinners rather than long sermons, went out quietly one by one, till the preacher was left alone with the sexton. Still he continued to blaze away, till that functionary, seeing no prospect of a close, walking deliberately upon the pulpit stairs, and handing him the key, requested him to look up when he got through, and leave the key at his house as he went along!

The New York Tribune gives the following account of a physical phenomenon, of which those of a similar character have been witnessed in various other places. Are these things, or are they not, proper subjects for inquiry and scientific investigation? We think they are—

'Singular results are obtained in this city, by a very simple application of the nervous fluid, animal magnetism, or whatever be the agency, to brute matter. Let a party of six or eight persons sit around a common pine table from twenty minutes to half an hour, with the palms of the hands held flat upon the top of the table; it is not necessary that their minds should pay any attention to the process, or the ordinary conversation be suspended; but presently the table becomes so charged with the mysterious fluid, that it begins to move—then rises from its push away your chairs, still holding your hands near, though it is not necessary to touch it, and it will turn round from end to end, and even proceed rapidly about the room without any visible agent on which excursions the persons must bear it company, or the current is broken and the movement stops. This simple experiment may easily be tried; it requires no faith, and no quality of physical or moral strength; and the result, with a table that is not too heavy, is pretty sure to follow; at least we have known of several instances in which it has been most astonishingly produced. The fact when scientifically established, must throw light on the obscurities of Mesmerism, Spiritual Manifestations, and all that unexploded class of phenomena.'

The following is an extract from the Quebec correspondence of the Pilot:—

'Mr. Hincks has announced that it is the intention of the Government to include in the Estimates for the current year an increase in salaries of the subordinate officials; but looking occasion to deny that any change was intended in reference to what he termed "large salaries".'

It is said that Mr. Killaly's well known talents as an Engineer having induced a handsome tender for his services from Railway parties, Government commissioners giving an addition to his salary, in order to retain him.

This is not the first case of competition of this kind, and I have no doubt that should the scale of increase to salaries just promised by Mr. Hincks not be liberal, that not a few of the present poorly paid employees of Government will find a more profitable investment for their youth and energy in connection with the Railroad interests every day developing.'

Not increase the large salaries, and yet increase them because Railway parties tender handsomely for the services of able men? What nonsense. His Excellency, unless the larger salaries are increased will be compelled to apply to the debating clubs for cabinet ministers.—[Quebec Morn. Chron. etc.]

GALCONADE.—There are few people who can exceed our Republican neighbors in big talk, which at times is highly amusing. The latest specimen is to be found in a speech delivered in the Senate on the 10th inst. by Mr. Douglas, while commenting on the Clayton and Bolser treaty. After stating that England would not fight with the United States, and could not do so without destroying her own property invested in that country, as she had given bonds to keep the peace, with mortgage on real estate to secure the bond, he added:—

In conclusion, Mr. Douglas, said when eight days after the treaty of peace with Mexico, England seized the river San Juan, it was done to cut us from the Pacific.

Knowing this, he did not sympathize in the expression of the Senator, Mr. Clayton, that we ought to avoid any difficulty with a friendly nation as England. She was not friendly, there was too much in the past to show friendly feelings to exist. We had humbled her pride, and mortified her vanity. Were it not for us, she would have been able to maintain her proud position as mistress of the world. She has no friendly feelings towards us.

She is jealous of us all. Where jealousy exists there is an end to friendship. Why else has she placed a cordon of fortifications along our coast? Why does she seize upon barren rocks upon which she can place a cannon? Why does she keep Gibraltar and her forts at the Cape of Good Hope, except to command our commerce? Why does she keep the Bermudas and Bahamas, except to keep up their constant sentimentality for the United States? He desired to foster no unkind feelings towards England as a great rival towards whom we should preserve good faith.

Gen. Pierce has no sympathies or aspirations in favor of Emancipation. He does not even regard human Slavery as an evil, differing in this respect not only with the gifted Statesmen of our Nation, but with Washington, Jefferson and Madison, his illustrious Predecessors. It is painful to see the President of the United States who does not, in the Nineteenth Century of Christian civilization, look forward with hope to a period when, by some just, wise and peaceful means, the great and glorious Republic will achieve Universal Emancipation.—Albany Evening Journal.

THE IRISH HEART.—One of the most admirable traits of the Irish character is the firmness of golden affection that runs through it. It is a perpetual truth to find in the newspapers accounts of how poor starving women, who have come from the old sod, and from day wages, have saved enough to bring over either an infirm father, a desolate and straggling mother, or a brother whose life was an eternal toil, with hardly a subsistence.—'These are noble traits of character, and may be found every where among the Irish peasantry. We see that even so far off as Australia, what is so common in this country is noted. An Irish paper states that as the Limerick post office letters are continually received inclosing from $50 to $500, sent by poor emigrants to their poorer kin, to help them onward from the desolate home of their birth to those far off golden fields.—Mahr's Tribune.

COUNTRY CLASSICS.—In a paper published in the northern section of this State, we find a curious evidence of classical knowledge doubtless on the part of the composer rather than on that of the editor. 'Scylla and Charybdis' are converted into 'Sculls and Charibous.' Oh! oh! oh!—New York Commercial.

A MOTHER'S LOVE.—Some of our readers may recollect a thrilling ballad which was written by Mr. (not Mrs.) Seta Smith, on the death of a woman who perished in the snow drifts of the Green Mountains of Vermont. That mother bore an infant on her bosom, and when the storm waxed loud and furious, she rent her own garments, and ran to a mother's love, wrapped them around her babe.—The morning found her a stiffened corpse, but the babe survived. That babe grew to manhood, and is now the Speaker of the Ohio Senate! How thrilling was his thought of that mother, if he be the true, large-hearted man! How deep a mother's love! How many a mother is there that would die for her son if called in providence to do so! Let us when far on the land or on the deep when the eye of a mother is upon them, remember her love and be restrained by it from entering the paths of vice. Let them say nothing—do nothing which a mother would not approve, and they will never bring down her gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.—Detroit Literary Miscellany.

Better to admonish a friend when he errs, than to magnify his faults.

Iron Starch Factory.—The Oswego Commercial Times gives an account of an iron frame building recently put up in that city, which that journal considers to be the largest of the kind on the continent.—The frame, which has its foundation on the rock, is five stories high, and weighs 300,000 pounds. The entire thing was made and put up by Talbot & Canfield, proprietors of the Lake Ontario Foundry in that city. The Oswego Starch Factory is now the largest establishment of the kind in the United States. The factory and buildings cover one and a half acres of ground, and are lighted by between 75 and 100 sky-lights, the buildings contain 600,000 lbs. weight of machinery, among which are three cast iron kettles, holding 1000 gallons each; eight lifting pumps, capable of discharging 80,000 gallons of starch an hour; five rotary and four force pumps, capable of discharging 5,000 gallons of water a minute over one mile in length of water pipe; 200 vats used in the manufacture of starch, holding 800,000 gallons, and four pair of cast iron rollers, weighing 10,000 pounds each.—This establishment gives employment to over 100 men, and consumes annually from 175,000 to 200,000 bushels of corn, 800 tons anthracite coal, and from 800,000 to 1,000,000 feet of lumber in the manufacture of boxes and other purposes, and makes 10,000 pounds of starch daily. The machinery is propelled by four water wheels combining 80 horse-power.

HONESTY IN BUYING AND SELLING.—Some are not honest in buying or selling.—Their rule is to buy at all times as cheap as they can, and sell as dear as they can.—This is a wicked rule. We often trade with those who do not know the worth of the thing bought or sold. It is cheating them to make the best bargain we can. Sometimes we trade with those who are in great want, and we fix our own prices, and make them much too high if we sell, or too low if we buy. There is a fair price for every thing. He who is just and true, and loves his neighbor as himself, will soon find out what a fair price is. Almost all men use too many words in buying and selling; and when too many words are used, there is almost always a lie somewhere.

DISTRESS.—The contemplation of distress softens the mind of man, and makes the heart better. It extinguishes the seeds of envy and ill-will towards mankind, corrects the pride of prosperity, and boats down all war more wather to fetch, and no place to get at it, and they war all so fricened out of their wits, kno one could think where the wells wor.

ARRIVAL OF THE MAIL STEAMER.

The Canada arrived at Halifax at 5 p.m. on Friday, with Liverpool dates to the 5th instant, 95 passengers, and a full freight.

COMMUNICATION.

For the Standard. Mr. Editor, Hon. Mr. Connell's reply to the address of the Municipal Council of Carleton, evinces the liberality of his views, and his fitness to be an official exponent, as he is, of popular rights.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the views thrown out by leading Senators, on public questions, at the present extra session.

Motion afterwards withdrawn, upon explanation given by Lord John Russell.

The Morning Advertiser announces that the Duchess of Sutherland places Stafford House at the disposal of Mrs. Stowe, to give receptions in, and that Earl Shaftesbury, Carlisle, &c., will meet her at Liverpool.

An Address with 40,000 Copies of England's signatories, will arrive next steamship. The Rev. John Jackson of St. James, London, is appointed Bishop of Lincoln.

Dr. Overweg, the African traveller, died in September.

It is reported that Govt. have refused to grant a Charter to the London and Liverpool American Steam Ship Company.

Eight members of Parliament have been unseated for bribery.

The Irish estates of Lord Fitzwilliam, producing 30,000 a year, are about to be sold in the Encumbered Estates Court.

200,000 ounces of gold have arrived from Melbourne, and nearly a million pounds are advised as on the way.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE.—The Committee to report a Co. Rail Road Bill have, we learn, agreed upon its outlines.

Stock to be in 75,000 shares of £25 each. As soon as £150,000 of stock subscribed and £26,500 capital paid up, Company may be organized; Province to loan £3,000 per mile for Trunk, £2,000 per mile for Branches by debentures, for which Company to give back bonds—Interest payable half-yearly. When Company shall expend £100,000, Province to advance £40,000 in debentures. If Company shall not pay up interest half-yearly on their Bank Bonds, it shall be deducted out of next instalment, and instead of debentures for £40,000, they will get but £37,500 in debentures, and yet have to give their Bank Bonds for £40,000, and so on. The Province to have a first mortgage on the Road, &c. for these advances, to be redeemable in 20 years. Government to appoint half the directors. Company the other half. If Government Bonds not used, or if returned the Government Directors to retire.

This is the outline of the Bill, and what we believe will pass. It will be regretted that one of its efforts is again to throw the country back some six months. This is a feature of the Company Bills which will make them unpopular and unpalatable. It will be September before we know whether they are to go into operation. The whole Summer will pass away, and we fear, that many of our people will pass away. But there is no use in repining. Then if the Sykes, shall have gone, as it is not unlikely they will, and no Company is formed we have lost another year. One's soul sickens at the bare contemplation of such procrastination.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY.—The Washington Correspondent of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, under date the 14th, writes: The state of our foreign affairs as connected with the present tone and temper of the people of this country, is becoming very interesting, and to some very alarming. The questions involved in present disputes with Great Britain, are precipitated upon the government by the tone of the inaugural, the speeches of leading Senators, and also an important portion of the public press.

The American ground is, distinctly, that in all matters relative to the American continents, (the British North American colonies excepted), Great Britain must give way to us; or, as Mr. Mason stated it last day, these continents must be free from British aggression. Now, if Great Britain will not abandon the Bay Islands, and the Mosquito protectorate, and the Belize, &c., will the government attempt to drive her out? Will they resort to war as a remedy? The speeches of Mr. Douglas and Mr. Mason look towards it.

Mr. Mason declared to day, that England had gone as far as she could go on this continent, consistently with our safety; and he referred to new aggressions on the part of Great Britain, of which we have advice to-day. Mr. Mason of course, represents the policy of the administration on the subject of Foreign Affairs, and his views, as expressed to-day, fall in with those of the Inaugural Address.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the views thrown out by leading Senators, on public questions, at the present extra session.

This is a feature of the Company Bills which will make them unpopular and unpalatable. It will be September before we know whether they are to go into operation. The whole Summer will pass away, and we fear, that many of our people will pass away. But there is no use in repining. Then if the Sykes, shall have gone, as it is not unlikely they will, and no Company is formed we have lost another year. One's soul sickens at the bare contemplation of such procrastination.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY.—The Washington Correspondent of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, under date the 14th, writes: The state of our foreign affairs as connected with the present tone and temper of the people of this country, is becoming very interesting, and to some very alarming. The questions involved in present disputes with Great Britain, are precipitated upon the government by the tone of the inaugural, the speeches of leading Senators, and also an important portion of the public press.

The American ground is, distinctly, that in all matters relative to the American continents, (the British North American colonies excepted), Great Britain must give way to us; or, as Mr. Mason stated it last day, these continents must be free from British aggression. Now, if Great Britain will not abandon the Bay Islands, and the Mosquito protectorate, and the Belize, &c., will the government attempt to drive her out? Will they resort to war as a remedy? The speeches of Mr. Douglas and Mr. Mason look towards it.

Mr. Mason declared to day, that England had gone as far as she could go on this continent, consistently with our safety; and he referred to new aggressions on the part of Great Britain, of which we have advice to-day. Mr. Mason of course, represents the policy of the administration on the subject of Foreign Affairs, and his views, as expressed to-day, fall in with those of the Inaugural Address.

The greatest importance is to be attached to the views thrown out by leading Senators, on public questions, at the present extra session.

For the Standard. Mr. Editor, Hon. Mr. Connell's reply to the address of the Municipal Council of Carleton, evinces the liberality of his views, and his fitness to be an official exponent, as he is, of popular rights.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE.—The Committee to report a Co. Rail Road Bill have, we learn, agreed upon its outlines.

Stock to be in 75,000 shares of £25 each. As soon as £150,000 of stock subscribed and £26,500 capital paid up, Company may be organized; Province to loan £3,000 per mile for Trunk, £2,000 per mile for Branches by debentures, for which Company to give back bonds—Interest payable half-yearly. When Company shall expend £100,000, Province to advance £40,000 in debentures. If Company shall not pay up interest half-yearly on their Bank Bonds, it shall be deducted out of next instalment, and instead of debentures for £40,000, they will get but £37,500 in debentures, and yet have to give their Bank Bonds for £40,000, and so on. The Province to have a first mortgage on the Road, &c. for these advances, to be redeemable in 20 years. Government to appoint half the directors. Company the other half. If Government Bonds not used, or if returned the Government Directors to retire.

This is the outline of the Bill, and what we believe will pass. It will be regretted that one of its efforts is again to throw the country back some six months. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1853.

PAYMENT OF REPORTERS.

This fruitful subject of discussion has been debated in both Houses of our Provincial Parliament, and cost the Province in the aggregate a large sum irrespective of the amount paid the Reporters. In the House of Assembly, during the present session, tenders were received, and after some little delay, one of the St. John papers, the "Morning Times," obtained the contract for £160, furnishing 2,000 copies of that paper, weekly, to the Assembly. Now, with respect to the amount, no one should grumble, unless it be the publisher, for the price is ruinously low, and inadequate to the expense incurred and labor expended. It must be admitted that Mr. Hill's reports are voluminous, generally correct, indeed as much so as the nature of the business will permit, and much as we desire to economize in the expenditure of public money, we are convinced that £200 would be little enough, taking into account the large amount of matter, and the rapidity and regularity with which it is published. We are led to these remarks upon reading a debate in the Legislative Council on the 10th inst., published in the Fredericton Reporter. Some Hon. Members of that body, argue strangely and inconsistently; they imagine that if Editors of papers were to go there, and as the Hon. Mr. Botsford says, "take reports in a proper manner, the public would patronize them as in England." Why make such a ridiculous comparison? There are papers published in England, the Editors of which receive double the salary of any public functionary in New Brunswick, if we except the Lieut. Governor, and their income in some cases exceeds the whole revenue of the Province; their circulation is greater than the population of the Province. The comparison then falls to the ground. The subject occupied the Council part of two days, and on motion of Hon. Mr. Stives, "that copies of the Reporter be taken," was lost, notwithstanding it was admitted Mr. Hogg's reporting was accurate and satisfactory.

THE ELBEION LAW.

From the speeches in the House of Assembly, we are happy to notice that something will be done to make a change in the present Election Law, and there appears to be a general expression in favor of "Vote by Ballot," which, if adopted with a registration of voters, will prevent in future such a loss of time and money as the present "Charlotte Scrutiny" has led to. We do not wish to be misunderstood. Had there been a registry of voters, the question could have been settled at the commencement of the first Session, and the constitution have had the benefit of the Representative's whole time and services, whereas at present it is not so.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL ON MONDAY LAST.

introduced his new Election Law. It repeats all previous laws relating to Elections; extends the franchise to persons holding building leases on which they have improvements to the value of £100, and to leaseholders for five years paying £10 rent. It does not introduce the Ballot; but contested Elections are to be settled by Commissioners, and there are besides various new regulations.

NEW SPEAKER.

From a telegraph despatch we learn, that the Hon. Wm. CRANE, Speaker of the House of Assembly, who has for some weeks been in ill health, sent in his resignation on Saturday last, and that the Hon. DANIEL HANINGTON was elected Speaker, 21 to 11.

WE RECEIVED A PAMPHLET, ENTITLED,

"The Annual Discourse, delivered by Edwin Jacob, D. D., before the Fredericton Athenaeum," of which the Doctor is President. It takes a glance at the proceedings of the past year, and is written in the learned President's beautiful classical style.

THE WEATHER HAS BEEN VERY FINE FOR the last week; and notwithstanding the late fall of snow, which made excellent travelling, the sun is melting it away so rapidly that many parts of the highway are bare, and carts are now used in town.

NO LICENSES.

The Magistrates in Session at St. John last week, decided by a vote 19 to 9, not to grant any more licenses for the County of St. John. All licenses from the present until 1st June were to be £10. At a subsequent meeting this sum was reduced to the original price, 30s.

NOVEL DIORAMIC EXHIBITION AT SAINT JOHN.

A very moving Picture, which was first publicly noticed by the Halifax Press, and since then rather passively alluded to by the St. John contemporaries, was recently opened to the eyes of the St. John public, and the Province of New Brunswick at large. One exhibition of the kind was all that was deemed necessary as an eye-opener; and it has had the effect it was so well calculated to produce. The artist, whose name we understand is Jackson, and who has evidently displayed more art than the St. John critics feel disposed to acknowledge; and we think unfairly, since the artist has not only pitched upon their City for leading points in his Picture, or, as it is modestly termed, "Pencilings by the Railway," but has also taken them in by way of enlightening the subject. Our notice must be brief, but we will endeavour to give our readers an idea on the subject. The Picture was presented in two parts, with a tedious interval between, during which strange to say, every one was kept in the dark; the darkness was, however, made visible during the exhibition of the second part. First—St. John was represented as it was, and as it will be, when the European and North American line of Railway is constructed, of which St. John was to be one of the great termini. The view changed on the dissolving principle, and next was presented the first of a first class Railway, with a View of the Provincial route of the Trunk line and branches, all exhibiting structures of the most costly character and architectural beauty; this line the artist said was to be superior to anything of the kind, the Nova Scotia lines being mere soap bubbles in comparison, and could be obtained for the small charge of only £6,500 per mile, perhaps £7,000, at all events no more than £10,000 per mile, and a cheap article at that price. The second part after the tedious interval, presented a great mountain: the artist here recalled to the minds of his audience, the fable of the mountain in labor, and its prodigious offspring, the mouse; but this was a more wonderful mountain; it contained a Railway, or the materials for such, and instead of showing them a mouse, he would show them something equally as small in its own way. It was not his intention to have done so at such an early period, but as Halifax had exposed the matter he would keep them no longer in the dark; he therefore begged to present each, with a copy of the specification, and as the mountain was in labor he would assist it by a Pyrotechnic eruption. The finale was a volcanic eruption, and a grand tableau of 63 lb. rails, wooden bridges, culverts and stations—shot out quite at the discretion of the artist and his assistants; and, truly, a most extraordinary Tree was exhibited, having attached to its boughs all sorts of railway waggons, wheelbarrows, pickaxes, shovels, &c. This tree was known as the "Railway Plant," not indigenous to this Province, except at St. Andrews, but the artist hoped to render it equally so in the neighborhood of St. John. He was ready on the shortest notice for the turning of the first sod. This novel Dioramic Exhibition has terminated; which is now generally pronounced to be, as a mechanical sham, exceedingly clever, as a successful take in, a dear-bought admonition; and, with respect to the painting, there is no denying that the artist has laid it on thick.

JUDSON'S CHEMICAL EXTRACT OF CHERRY AND LUNGWORT,

FOR THE CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, Asthma, Liver Complaints, and CONSUMPTION.

DO NOT NEGLECT IT. CONSUMPTION Can be and has been cured in thousands of cases by this only certain remedy.

JUDSON'S CHEMICAL EXTRACT OF CHERRY AND LUNGWORT, is a purely vegetable medicine, and is the only one that has ever been discovered that will certainly cure CONSUMPTION.

The most largely increased and developed cases of Consumptive Consumption where the lungs have become diseased and the system generally prostrated, as to have been cured by this medicine, and friends, to be past all possibility of recovery, and at times thought to be dying, has been cured by this wonderful remedy, and are now as well and hearty as ever.

It is a compound of Medications which are peculiarly adapted to and essentially necessary for the cure of COUGHS, AND CONSUMPTION.

Its operation is mild, yet efficacious; it loosens the phlegm which creates so much difficulty, relieves the cough and assists nature to expel from the system all diseased matter by excretion, producing a most desirable change in the breathing and chest, and this, after the exertions of the very best medical men and the inventions of kind-sorrowing friends and Nurses, have failed to give the slightest relief to the Consumptive sufferer.

THOUSANDS OF CONSUMPTIVE persons have been deceived in buying medicines which were said to be infallible cures, but which have proved only a palliative, but a cure for ulcerated lungs. It contains no poisonous Drugs, and one that will prove its astonishing efficacy by the curing of any person who has been cured in curing consumption and all diseases of the Lungs, such as Spitting of Blood, Coughs, pains in the side and chest, night sweats, &c. &c.

About 1000 certificates of almost miraculous cures, performed by this medicine, from some of the first Doctors, Clergymen and Merchants have been sent us. For this medicine, but the publication of the books too much like Quackery, [will show them to any person calling at our office]. This medicine will seek for itself and enough in its own favor wherever it is tried.

Caution.—This medicine is put up in a large bottle and you must find the name of Comstock & Brother, Proprietors, New York, on the splendid Wrapper around the bottle. All orders must be addressed to Comstock & Brother, No. 9, John St. New York.

TO OWNERS OF AND DEALERS IN HORSES.

CARLTON'S FOUNDER OINTMENT For the cure of Four-draw, Splinter Hoofs, Horned Hooves, and contracted and Fresh Galled Backs, Cracked Heels, Scratches, Cuts, Kicks, &c. on Horses.

CARLTON'S RING BONE CURE. For the cure of Ring Bone, Blood Spavin, Bone Spavin, Windgalls, and Spavin—a certain remedy.

CARLTON'S CONDITION POWDERS FOR HORSES AND CATTLE. The changes of weather and season, with the change of use and feed, have a very great effect upon the blood, and vitious fluids of horses. It is at those changes that require an assistant to nature to throw off any disorder of the fluids of the body that may have been induced, and which, if not attended to, will result in the Yellow Water, Heaves, Worms, Boils, &c. All of which will be prevented by giving one of these powders, and will at any time cure it when any symptoms of disease appear to be used in time. They purify the blood, remove all inflammation and fever, loosen the skin, cleanse the water, and invigorate the whole body, enabling them to do more work with the same feed. The action of these powders is direct upon all the secretory glands, and therefore have the same effect upon the Horse, thereby the Ass, and all Herbivorous animals, all diseases arising from or produced by a bad state of the blood, are speedily cured by them.
