A NEW BOER PROCLAMATION!

Colonists Who Give Information Must Pay $250 or Join Commando.

General Botha and His Commandants May Ignore Kruger---Boers' Desperate Attempt to Recapture a Lost Convoy---Severe Fighting---Gen. French Is Infusing New Life Into Operations.

Cape Town, June 19 .- Gen. French, who has been appointed to direct the operations in the Cape Colony, is incolony, and large, concerted movements are about to be executed.

DESPERATE FIGHTING. Sloden's Mounted Infantry, forming the advance guard of General Elliott's column, recently captured a Boer convoy. The burghers who were accompanying the convoy were speedily reinforced from their main body, and made a determined attempt to recapture the convoy. Gen. Elliott immediately sent forward a portion of Delisle's Mounted Infantry, and the Boers were then driven off, after desperate fighting, in which the losses on both sides were considerable.

An accident occurred to the Cape Mail train at Bloemfontein today, in which several of the passengers were injured. BOER PROCLAMATION. Molteno, Cape Colony, June 19.-Kritzinger and Fouche, the Boer command ers, are busy placarding Cape Colony with a proclamation to the effect that, in accordance with the powers assumed when the northern part of Cape Colony was annexed to the Orange Free State, 20 months ago, any persons reporting the whereabouts of any Boer command will be fined £50, or, in default, will be compelled to accompany the command on foot for three months. According to best information there are about 2,100 armed Boers in Cape Colony, and they continue to secure a

THE PASSING OF KRUGER. London, June 18 .- The Sun, which, however, has not heretofore been over-reliable on this subject, hears that Mr. Kruger has actually cabled to Gen. Botha, declining to concede anything, and in consequence of this decision Gen. Botha and the commandants agreeing with his peace views have decided to repudiate Mr. Kruger's authority, and a further consultation with Mr. Botha's representative and Lord Kitchener will be arranged for next week.

WILL BOTHA QUIT? The Times' correspondent at Pretoria says: It is some time since I hinted at the possibility that Gen. Botha, following Mr. Kruger's example, might leave the country at the time best suited to his own in-terests. The departure of Mrs. Louis Botha to Europe lends distinct color to the report. Takes Up the Matter of French Evangelization-Rev. Dr. Robert Jahnston Scores the Catholic Church.

PARLIAMENT

PRESBYTERIAN

Ottawa, June 18.—In the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon, Principal MacVicar, of Montreal, presented the report of the committee on French evangeliza-tion, and moved its adoption.

Rev. Dr. Johnston, of London, in seconding the motion, said that when Canada became Catholic the name of

Dr. MacVicar should stand in honor, for to him more than any other man the success that had attended this work so far was largely due. He recognized that this evangelization work was directed against a church which had given the world some of the noblest and best souls Christendom had ever known; which had furnished some of the best devotional works they had on their book shelves, which had produced some of the grandest and best defenses of many truths which Protestants regarded as essential, but their fight was against an oppressive, out-of-date system, not against individuals. The war in Africa was directed not against individuals, but against a system which was not in keeping with the progress and advance- staff consists of Majors D. M. Allen keeping with the progress and advancement of the age. They were deternined to oppose the consistent purpose of the Roman Catholic Church, which was to dominate the state. It was quite true that Rome had lost its temporal power, but this significant fact must be borne in mind: The Roman Catholic Church was the same as ever, but it had changed its attitude. It had leagued itself with the greatest democratic and labor movements, with the object of dominating, not monarchies, but the great democracy which was growing up in every land. Unless (Elora), Capt. A. Moir, Lieuts. D. M. was growing up in every land. Unless the democratic movement in labor and social organizations was to be under the control of that church it behooved who no longer believed in that system, and either never went to church or attended mass on state occasions, or attended mass on state occasions, simply to keep up appearances. These men would soon be in the ranks of Godless anarchy, destroying the fabric of the nation, while the Presbyterian terian Church was evangelizing the west, the east would become pagan unless the Gospel was given to them.

Rev. M. F. Boucheau, of Grenville, affirmed that there were signs of awakening throughout the Province of Quebec. The breath of the Gospel was being felt, and they rejoiced that no power was able to put it under the ban. The speaker in the course of his address made the charge that the French Roman Catholics of St. Hyacinthe, on the occasion of the relief of Ladysmith, tore down the Brit-ish flag which had been hoisted to celebrate the British victory and burned it.

Addresses were also delivered by Rev. S. A. Carriere, of Grand Bend, Lake Huron; Rev. E. H. Brandt, of Pointe Aux Trembles; Rev. Narcisse McLaren, of the Desert, and Rev. E. D. Seylaz, of Ottawa.
The report was then adopted

THIRD TRIAL

Emmeline C. Reynolds, better known as "Dolly" Reynolds, was found dead with her head crushed in a room at the Grand Hotel, Aug. 16, 1898, where she had gone with a man answering Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy's description, according to the testimony of witnesses. In the dead woman's corsage was found a check for $13,000 signed "Dudley Gideon," and indorsed by "Samuel J. Kennedy." The police theory regarding this was that it was in payment of alleged winnings at the races. The evidence showed at the trial of the case in the criminal branch of the supreme court in the spring of 1899 that the woman's skull had been crushed with a piece of lead pipe, alleged traces of which pipe on Dr. Kennedy's clothing was alleged to have been discovered by the police. Dr. Kennedy was convicted and sentenced to be executed at Sing Sing. is "Dolly" Reynolds, was found dead convicted and sentenced to be executed at Sing Sing.

The court of appeals on Nov. 20, 1900, handed down a decision granting a new trial to Dr. Kennedy, and he was prosecuted before Justice Fursman during the latter part of last year for the second time. This trial resulted in a disagreement. District Attorney Philpin referred the case to the general sessions and assigned Assistant District Attorney Osborne to prosecute it. The third trial began May 6, and resulted in the jury disagreeing.

MOLINEAUX'S CASE.

Buffalo, June 18.—The argument of the appeal in behalf of Roland B. Molineux, under sentence of death as the alleged poisoner of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams, was resumed this morning before the court of appeals. There was a crush for the limimted number of seats, and the bailiffs and door-keepers were forced to rope off a passage-way in the corridor. It is probable that the argument will extend into tomorrow's session. THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS. His lordship, in his annual address, first made grateful reference to God's der the head of obituary notices, referred to the death of our late honored Queen, the synod rising to their feet and remained standing while his lordship set forth briefly her many excel-lent qualities of mind and heart, and showed the results of her beneficent reign. The bishop then made reference to the accession of our new King, and invoked the sunlight of God's presence on his majesty. His lordship then referred to the death of the late Right Rev. Bishop Hellmuth, D.D., D.C.L., formerly bishop of this diocese, which event took place in England on the last day of May. The bishop sketched the life of the late bishop, and paid tribute to his high attainments, and superior abilities. The synod cheered this kind reference to its former chief pastor. The death of the late Rev. J. P. Curran was feelingly referred to as one of the early pioneers. His widow had also, since his death, been called to her rest. The new century was referred to as a suitable time for taking a retrospection of the past, and to contrast the position of the Church of England in 1801 with her present state in the year 1901, and to learn wholesome lessons as to the advanceed her missionary life, which, he said, was the great test by which alone the ing the Gospel, and the Church Mis-

The S. P. G. first sent living agents to the colonies, inwas pointed to as an evidence of the success of these societies; that of the C. M. S. amounting to $1,750,000. The church is now a missionary church, and casting off the torpor of the ages. The Indian famine fund was next referred to, and liberal offerings of the diocese had been of immense help to the bishop of that place. The sub-scriptions to the diocesan debt during the year amounted to $4,769 95, and it was an encouragement to see the work progressing so well. The self-denying labors of Rev. F. E. Roy were rewas the fact of his having declined to receive the $100 increase voted to him ance, and the steps taken by the pro-vincial synod committee, in conjunction with representatives from the Presbyterians and Methodists, in waiting upon the government in regard o religious education in schools were briefly outlined as being without practical result. The good work of Sun-day schools and the benefit derived from annual examinations were spoken of as very gratifying, as also was that of the Huron Lay Workers. A tribute of praise was paid to Principal Dy-mond, chairman of the Lay Workers, and to Rev. J. Downie, chairman of the Sunday School Association. The Women's Auxiliary Missionary Association had continued their excellent work and had rendered valuable help funds of the diocese as well as to the foreign missionary work of the hurch. An ordination had been held during the year, when Mr. J. M. Webb had been ordained deacon, and Rev. Auhyahkaosa Brigham ordained to the priesthood. Several new churches had been opened, namely, at Tilsonburg, Tilbury, Kirkton, Clarksburg, Brookholm and Sandwich. The corner-stone of a new church at St. Helen's had also been laid, and four churches consecrated to the worship of God as having been made free of debt, viz., Dundalk, Kelvin, Wingham and St. Charles', Dereham. The number confirmed during the past year had been 1,451, being an increase of 300 over the previous year. The bishop concluded his charge has commending the sympole.

The synod went into committee of the whole to consider the annual report of the executive committee. The report was considered clause by clause. The first showed the year to have been a prosperous one. The collections for synod purposes were less than last cluding the United States, to which the year, but the offerings for purposes well-known John Wesley was sent as an ordained clergyman of the church.

The large income of the past year toward the diocesan debt, the total contributions from the diocese show an increase of over $16,000 over the previous year. The details of the several accounts were set forth in the succeeding clauses, showing the position of the several funds. The invested funds were shown to have earned 5 per cent interest, which was considered gratifying. The synod was declared any kind. It was pointed out that the invested funds of the synod, amounting to over three-quarters of a million, have been safely invested during the past 40 years, without expense of the usual staff of assistants, as is customary in loan society offices. This was considered a very gratifying state-

The total number of families returned is 11,668, an increase of 55; sittings increased from 60,638 to 61,837 baptisms from 1,773 to 1,835; marriages Sunday ars from 16,696 to 16,928; and total con tributions for all purposes from $225,-172 95 to $241,492 59.

Considerable discussion took place with regard to what constitutes a communicant. According to the Rubric each member is required to communicate at least three times in the year. The chancellor was of the opinion that one who communicates even once a year should be returned as a communicant. The report recommended that a com mittee be appointed to revise and consolidate the constitution and canons of the synod, and that the list of subscribers be not included in the synoc journal, but be printed in an appen-

SLEEP!

The Importance of This Great Restorer-The Necessity of Regular Hours-Rest the Brain.

[Edward Everett Hale in Philadelphia Press.

People who sleep; they call sleep fickle or inconstant and in various ways abuse it. They make ridiculous proverbs which imply that there is something virtuous in short nights, as if sleep were to be kept at bay. All ing. But do not engage while in bed this is wrong. Sleep is the restora-tion of life—call it, if you please, the governor of the engine. With the governor of the engine. With the right sleep and enough of it the body comes up to its work every morning new born. In the first half of life it comes up to its work a little better able to do its duty than the morning before. But this is not so if the sleep has not been sound and steady.

Every one will find out how much sleep is good for him. Then he will make it his duty or business to take that amount regularly. The rules as I have found them are simple. They are well laid down in more than one book. Dr. Hammond's is as good as any: 1. Do not work the brain for six hours before you go to bed. Business men, so called, are apt to violate this rule. The agents of banks and other great financial trusts think they must give daylight to their employers and then spend their evenings in memoranda and calculations about their own personal affairs. All this is wrong. You may get out of bed as early as you please and work your brain then. But you are safest if after 3 or 4 in the afternoon you give it no hard work at all. Are there not the children to play with and novels to read and Joe Jefferson at the theater and the sofa to lie upon while Marion and Hugh play a duet on the piano? Do not work this poor old brain, then, which has stood by you so loyally since you got out of bed in the morning.

2. Remember always what the bed is for and why you are in it. You are there to sleep. Not to add up figures in your head. Not to think out a let-there to sleep.

3. If you have been working the poor old brain too late, or if you have been eating a Welsh rarebit just befor you undressed yourself, and if your head burns so that it almost sets the pillow on fire, crawl out of bed and spenge your head with cold water. At the worst soak the feet in as hot water as they will bear. You want to draw away the extra blood from the brain. In all natural sleep there is less blood on the brain than when you are awake. I have at many bedposts a long cord with a child's flat-iron attached to it. When my head is too hot I hold the smooth, cold surface of the iron against the forehead to drive the blood away. 4. People tell you to think of sheep jumping over a wall, to reproduce familiar strains of music, to hold the eyes open and fixed on some object opposite in the room. Recall the last ridiculous vision you had before wakin any such serious matter which will again exhaust and exasperate the

THE CANADIAN ORDER OF ODDFELLOWS

Grand Lodge Holds Its 57th Annual Meeting-The Society Is Prosperous.

Stratford, Ont., June 19 .- The 57th annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows convened in this city yesterday afternoon, nearly 100 delegates being present. The meetings are held in the city hall. Grand Master W. H. Shaw, of To presided, and Deputy Grand Master C. A. Lapp, of Brighton, filled the deputy chair. The grand lodge opened in due form. Rev. Bro. H. S. Musson, Toronto, was appointed grand organizer; Bro. W. Biggar, of Owen Sound, grand guard, and Bro. Schmidt, Stratford, grand warden.

The address of Grand Master Shave was exhaustive and eloquent, and and their relations to each other. showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition. In the year 1900, 53 new policies were issued, making a total of 3,294 insured members, representing $2.230,000 if insurance in force at the end of that year. general expenses have been kept with- eral officers commanding by providing in bounds, and in this respect the order compared favorably with other Canadian societies. A strong sentiment of loyalty to the order and a desire to inits popularity and usefulness is evident throughout the jurisdiction of the grand lodge. Grand Medical Referee Bingham's report showed that 24 insured members of the order had died during the year, and claims to the amount of $17,300 had been paid; 680 applicants for insurance had been received and 597 were accepted. The executive committee's report indicated the balance to the credit of the order on June 8 as $30,610 42. Trent Lodge won the Davis cup for having initiated the largest number of members during the year. Grand Organizer Turnbull presented a lengthy report of his work during the year. Bro. J. G. Schmidt, of Stratford Lodge, read an address of welcome to the grand lodge, and invited them to a supper in the evening.

General Advancement.

Falling Off in Cash Contributions-Resolutions Adopted by the General Assembly.

Ottawa, June 18.-At Saturday department of the church's work, and was followed by many others. The report, which was adopted, said:
There has been advance: (1) In the number of schools and the number of teachers and scholars enrolled. (2) the number who have come into full communion with the church. (3) In the number committing Scripture passages to memory. (4) In the sum contributed to the century fund. There has been a slight falling off: (1) In average attendance. (2) In the umber committing the Shorter Catechism to memory. (3) In the sums contributed, both by church and Sabbath School, to the support of the schools, and in the contributions of the schools to the schemes of the church. The latter, no doubt, can be accounted for by the large sums given to the century fund. For 1900 we report 3,049 schools-395 union and 2,654 Presbyterian—with 162 home departments. As 1900 is the first time that union schools have been classified as such, your committee cannot say whether the number of union schools has increased or decreased. The total number of schools increased during 1900 by 351, with an increase in home department

Govdecrease of $366. When one remembers the increased number of schools, it would seem as if in many places the equipment was so complete that schools need not spend so much on themselves. Seven hundred and sixty schools gave $23,373 to the schemes of the church, a decrease of $4,698. One thousand nine hundred and seventy of our schools do not report themselves as giving anything to the schemes. If an intelligent interest in the missionary and educational work of the church is necessary in our land, something more ought to be done to train the future church members and supporters now in our Sabbath schools. The resolutions were as follows: That for the securing of completeness and accuracy in the sta-tistical returns, and for the better promotion of the work generally, be a recommendation to synods and presbyteries to continue the Sabbath school conveners in office for at least three years in succession. That in view, especially, of the fact that so comparatively small a number of the Sabbath school scholars have ntered into full communion with the church during the year, the recommendation of last year be reaffirmed, with increased urgency. That parents and teachers be exhorted to more earnest and prayerful effort to bring the young, through the influence of the Holy Spirit, to a saving knowledge of the truth, and to a recognition of claims upon them of Christ and his church. That the General Assembly express grateful appreciation of the interest manifested by so considerable a number of the Sabbath schools in the twentieth century fund, as evidenced by their generous contributions to the fund during the two years now ended. That the General Assembly regret that, in so many of the Sabbath schools, no contribution is made to the missionary, educational and benevolent schemes of the church: and upon all concerned the extreme importance of heartily enlisting the sympathies and energies of the children and young people in these great enterprises.

That the General Assembly note with pleasure that an increasing proportion of the Sabbath schools are now using our own Lesson Helps and illustrated papers, and again commend these as thoroughly suitable to the needs of the schools and homes of the church, and urge the co-operation of ministers, superintendents and teachers in securing their introduction in preference to those from other

That the General Assembly commend to ministers, superintendents and teachers' meeting as a valuable aid to more thorough and effective Sabbath school work, and the portance of taking steps for the instituting of such meeting in connection with each school. That the General Assembly regard with much satisfaction the increased attention given in the colleges of the church to instruction in the principle of teaching and in Sabbath schoo methods, and strongly recommend to presbyteries the holding, where practicable, of local institutes to the same

HOW TO ENTER

Sabbath School Report Shows Former Canadian Gives Advice to Prospective Visitors.

> Lincoln Parkway Entrance Is the Best From Which to Get First View of the Grounds.

Mr. Wm. Scott, a former Canadian, morning's session of the Presbyterian now superintendent of floriculture General Assembly Rev. John Neil introduced the subject of work in the at the Pan-American, and to whose taste and executive ability much of Sabbath schools, and presented the taste and executive ability much of report. Principal MacVicar delivered the grandeur of the horticultural efa timely and weighty address in advocacy of greater attention to this writes as follows:

> Some of your readers may visit the Pan-American Exposition early in the season, and for that reason I write a few words of advice. Either from indifference, or some object not clearly known, the street cars carry 75 per cent of all the Visitors to what is known as the West Amherst gate. This brings one directly to the rear of some of the large buildings, also the noise and hubbub of the Midway; and it is probable you will never see the real beauty of the whole scene. If you do you have already received the impression that the Pan-American is a crowded place, and little different from any other big fair.

Now this is all wrong. I beg of you one and all to enter the grounds from Lincoln Parkway. To do this take the Main street cars that are marked "Forest Lawn" and never mind what the conductor says, get off at Lincoln Parkway. A walk of 200 yards brings you to the grand entrance, and then another 200 yards through the lovely old park brings you to the Triumphal Causeway with the four majestic towers. To the right or left the view is beautiful, but the view you are facing is one you will never forget. You are now entering the Grand Esplanade; ethnology, machinery building, liberal with its setting of magnificent architecture, its fountains, its trees and ed. This is the verdict of men who have seen all that is to be seen. Governor Roosevelt said so, and so do I and that settles it. There are sights enough to last you a week besides all this; but I beg you to take in the beauty of the scene first. There are the State Buildings, the Rose Garden, a beautiful 15 acres; the Stadium, the largest and best-built many more could stand without encroaching on the cinder paths, but its wonderful proportions must be seen to be realized. You will be sure to see

The next best entrance is known as If they will walk throught the Rose Garden they will then come to the Triumphal Causeway and take in the same grand scene that I have tried to describe, and you will. I am sure, exclaim as I have long journey to see." I am not writing this, reader, for the Pan-American, but for you. Feast your vision and, higher senses on the sublime and beautiful! Let the frivolous and commonplace be seen later.

United States—Canada—Great Britain.

The New York Journal boasts that the United States is

The richest country in the world; That it has more railway track mileage than all Europe;

Grows 80 per cent of the world's cotton: Manufactures, of various articles more than England, France and Germany combined: Produces one-fourth of all the wheat grown on the globe; Has now come into first place in silk production; With population increasing faster than that of any other country.

These are big facts. Our contemporary might have mentioned, incidentally, that the people of the United States have achieved most of these results, built up most of their cities, and improved most of their farms, out of the great free market of Great Britain: a fact for which we might be pardoned for thinking they ought to be a little more grateful.

However, we do not desire in the slightest to disparage the neighbor land. The United States is a great country. Big blemishes it has, such as its lynchings and divorce mills, but also big excellences. Marvelous has been its growth. Nor is it easy to set a limit to the expansion of its prosperity and power.

The progress of the United States must always be of interest to every intelligent son of Canada. It is so near; its methods of speech and thought and work so like our own; constant inter-communication goes on; like them, we deal with dollars, not pounds; and play baseball rather than cricket. A new potent influence within a very few years is the immense flood of United States capital coming into the Dominion for large investment in the development of Canada's resources.

This will have two effects. It will help the tendency in favor of freer trade relations, and lowered tariffs between the two countries; it will be a factor of considerable weight, making for a generally friendlier mu-

It is important that Canada should be on good terms with the United States; important for Canada, important for the Empire. It is not any mere flourish of rhetoric to say Canada is capable of being a valuable link between the United States and Great Britain. Canada is more "American" than Great Britain, while more British than the United States. Canada understands Britain pretty well; and understands the United States better than do the statesmen or people of Bri-

In different ways both Great Britain and the United States must have an immense indirect formative influence on Canada, the rising country of the twentieth century. Drawing on the capital, the skill, the enterprise, the goodwill of Great Britain and of the United States alike, and with no lack of latent resources in herself, in brawn and brain, and the material foundations of national greatness, it will be strange indeed if the twentieth century does not see Canada going forward with giant strides, as a country combining the best qualities of the two great English-speaking countries that necessarily must play most influentially on her destinies; and yet leaving Canada to develop an individuality all her

Mr. Tarte's Breadth.

The Owen Sound Advertiser, in an interesting editorial reference to Hon. J. I. Tarte's recent speech at Owen Bound, says:

Mr. Tarte made an eloquent and in spiriting affirmation of the desirabil-Canadian homogeneity. The accident of birth, he told us, race; but while he could not help being a French-Canadian, nor his fellows of different origin being English, Irish or Scotch Canadians, yet it lay in the power of us all to be true Canadians and loyalists, as firm in our allegiance to the British Empire and in the main-tenance of British institutions as we are of our common country, and anxi-ous to do all we can towards the establishment of the Canadian nationality and the achievement of a grand destiny for the Dominion. 'Racial mischief' has been wrought, it is only too but instead of his having had hand in it, this representative French-Canadian strongly deprecates and denounces the mischief-makers and utters an eloquent plea for cessation of hos-tilities and the burying of racial animosities forever out of sight."

United States.

There is a growing feeling in the United States that something should be done by way of securing trade privileges with Canada. This feeling has found expression in various ways. The the Boston Chamber of Commerce in a petition to President McKinley, asking him to reconvene the Joint High Commission that was appointed three years ago to consider reciprocal trade and other matters at issue between Canada and the United States. The Boston Herald, a most influential journal, comes out strongly on the matter of reciprocal trade, especially with the Dominion. It is being felt by many, particularly those more directly connected with commercial enterprise, that the future industrial development of the United States will depend, to a large extent, upon the willingness of foreign nations to buy their products. On the subject of encouraging foreign trade, the Boston Herald expresses itself as follows:

"Our nearest and best customer, considering the limited number of its people, is the Dominion of Canada; and, while it may seem that Canadian trade is free to a greater degree than trade with certain of the countries of con-tinental Europe from a possible loss by high tariff restrictions, the one who regards the economic condition of the world in a broad way must realize that we are in an age of transition, and that changes of tremendous importance may take place at any time.'

The fact that there is a growing sentiment among the colonies comprising the British Empire in favor of imperial unity, is causing considerable apprehension in trade circles in the United States. It means that Canada is to find increasing markets across the seas; that she is to become more and more independent of American mar-

The Boston Herald thinks it discerns in Great Britain, a tendency to recede from the policy of free trade as emanating from the Manchester School of Economics. The only circumstance likely to promote such a state of affairs is the possibility of self-governing colonies becoming able to supply the mother country with all the food supply needed by her. A measure of reciprocal trade with Canada is urged by the Herald, by which we will be able to find in the United States a larger market than we have at present. It is to be hoped that the action of the Boston Chamber of Commerce will result in spreading a contagion of commercial rapprochement among other boards of trade throughout the republic, that all may so influence the United States Government that it will lower its high tariff wall to Canadian exports. As it is, the balance of trade is in favor of the United States. There is no apparent reason why the two great countries on this continent, whose requirements are to a large extent similar, should not indulge in such an exchange of commodities as is consistent with geographical convenience and a revenue tariff.

Growth of Cities.

The census of the United States shows that 47 per cent of the people live in incorporated towns and cities as against 41 per cent ten years ago. The State of New York leads with 77 against 69 per cent ten years ago.

More than two-thirds of the people in six states live in the cities and towns. These are Illinois, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Colorado and Connecticut; while Mississippi has the least of all, only 15 per cent. The total of those living in cities and towns exceeds 35,000,000, as against 26,000,000 ten years ago.

There is something about the approach of death that reconciles men to it. The senses are dulled, the perceptive faculties are blunted and the end comes quietly, painlessly, like a gentle sleep. In this condition—I mean on the approach of death-those who retain their faculties to any degree become more or less philosophers.
They know that death is inevitable, it is only a question of hours, and they accept the verdict without any demonstration and in a philosophical way. In all my experience I have never found a case in which a dving man or woman complained against the inevitable attempted to fight its approach or even feared it. It is only in good health that we fear death. When we become ill, when we have sustained some injury of a very serious nature, the fear of death seems

Important Labor Decision.

[Chicago Journal.] Judge Waterman has followed the decision of Judge Baker, delivered a month ago, that employers have the right to "blacklist" or refuse to employ any persons they may choose.

Where there has been a strike and the employes have quit work, the employers may unite and agree not to re-employ any of the strikers, and in doing this they are strictly within their legal rights.

Judge Waterman's reason is unanswerable. If employes can combine among themselves and refuse to work for an employer, or quit work because he employs somebody with whom they are unwilling to work, so may employers combine and refuse to give employ ment to certain persons that are offensive or distasteful to them. Judge Waterman says: "The labor unions of the country continually insist that non-union me shall not be employed, and in thou-sands of instances have refused to work with non-union workmen. They are organized, they combine, and they confederate to prevent the employment of non-union workmen; they are re-solved that all who work shall become members of union societies. Yet the right of union laborers to quit work or refuse to work where non-union men are employed is established beyond controversy, and that without reference to how pitiful the consequences may be to him who is thus deprived of an opportunity to earn bread for himan opportunity to early bread for finite self and family."

The right of people to associate for the puropse of promoting their common interests, and to combine to carry them out in every legal and proper way, is a right that is guaranteed by the constitution and laws of the coun-But it is not confined to any particular class of people; it extends to all. for their conduct. On this point Judge Waterman remarks: "The consequences of a refusal to em-ploy any man may be deleterious and pitiful; so the consequence of refusing to work for another may be disastrous and ruinous; but the fact that one refuses to employ another because he wishes to see him come to want, or that a man refuses to work for another be-cause he wishes to see his business roken up, and him thrown into bankruptey, does not give a cause of action.' ions as this will be to bring employers and employes closer together and cause them to resort to arbitration before they resort to force. France Fears Money Panic—Six Hundred Million Dollars Said to Have Been Sent to Places of Safety in Two Months.

London, June 19 .- Craig-y-Nos Castle, the residence in Wales of Adelina Patti (Baroness of Cedarstrom), which was put up at auction in this city yes terday, was bought in.

Mme. Patti's reasons for trying to dispose of one of the most beautiful country seats in the United Kingdom are said to be that in the first place she desires to spend -a good part of each year in Sweden, with her husband's relatives, and in the second place, she finds that the Welsh climate does not thoroughly agree with her Her life in the future will be spent in the country of her husband's birth.

The auction room was packed with influential people and agents. Among those present was Baron Cedarstrom The bidding opened with an offer of $250,000, made by a prominent London to his daughter just before graduation auctioneer. No other was heard and Auctioneer Lumley declared the castle sold at that figure. Simultaneously the bidder rushed up and told Lumley he had meant his offer to be taker seriously.

Lumley went out and consulted Sir George Lewis, the well-known lawyer. Excitement reigned throughout the auction room. The bidder, who was very pale, remained in his seat, perspiring, with the eyes of all present

Lewis advised that no proceedings be taken and Lumley reopened the sale at $100,000. By thousands and five hundreds the bidding quickly advanced. At $225,000 a deadlock was reached and Lumley announced that he must buy in the property for Mme Patti, the reserve price being $250,000

Lions were constantly encountered, but they were so busy with heartbeests and zebras that they did not interfere with the caravan. It was here that the party found the new giraffe-zebra, known as the helladotherium, which was supposed to be extinct. Michigan Is an Insurance State-Does Not Believe in Handicapping Legitimate Enterprises With Vexatious Restrictions-No Police Surveillance.

[Detroit News.] The advance sheets of the report of Commissioner of Insurance J. V. Barry, covering the business of fire and marine insurance transacted in Michigan during the last calendar year, were issued yesterday. They show that during the year nine joint stock compa-nies were admitted to Michigan, and ten withdrew from the state. Since Jan. 1 three companies were admitted, making a total of 159 companies now authorized to transact business in Michigan. Three of these are Michigan companies, 111 companies of other

The fact that fire insurance companies contribute materially to the revenues of the state, entitles them to the protection of the state in all their proper undertakings. They give to the people of Michigan the most and best protection at the least possible cost, the people of the state are advised that this cannot be done if the state imposes unreasonable and expensive burdens upon the companies. The idea is expressed that there is always in the administration of the law an opportunity for a wise discretion that can frequently avoid vexatious restrictions and oppressive requirements that serve only to hamper and harass legitimate enterprises and sound business methods. So long as the com-panies are furnishing ample protection at the least possible cost, the commisioner says they will not be irritated by the police surveillance which is the

a legitimate field for organizations of insurance agents, field men and companies, and such encouragement be given such organizations when it is plain that they will bring about better practices in underwriting, and thereby enhance the interests of the insured and insurer alike. The condition of practically all of the stock fire companies transacting business in Michigan is declared to be excellent. The fact that the loss ratio in Michigan during the past two years conclusively proves that there no money in underwriting in state during that period at existing rates, should admonth the people that if they wish those rates continued they must treat the companies with fairness and decrease by all possible means the hazards of the business, thus encouraging the companies to decrease operating expenses in every Turtle Worship.

At a place called Kotron, on the French Ivory coast, the natives be-lieve that to eat or destroy a turtle would mean death to the guilty one or sickness among the family. The fetich men, of which there are plenty, declare that two years ago a man went to sea fishing. In the night his canoe was thrown upon the beach empty. Three days afterward a turtle came ashore at the same place with the man on his back alive and well. Since that time they have never eaten or destroyed one of that species, although they enjoy other species. If one happens now to be washed ashore, there is a great commotion in the town. Firstly, the women sit down and start singing and beating sticks; next a small piece of white cloth (color must be white) is placed on the turtle's back. Food is then prepared and placed on the cloth, generally plantains rice and palm oil. Then, amid a lot of more singing, dancing, and antics of the fetich people, it is carried back into the sea and goes on its way rejoicing .- London Express.

NEWSPAPER MAN'S DEVOTION. The Owen Sound Times has the following reference to Mr. M. W. Rossie. formerly of The Advertiser editorial staff: "The public rarely appreciates the difficulties and self-sacrifice which a newspaper man must undergo in order that his paper shall have the news. The pluck of the average newspaper writer was demonstrated on Friday night by the Mail and Empire representative, Mr. M. W. Rossie, who ceived the banquet here on Friday night as his assignment. Mr. Rossie had been occupied by his official duties till late Tuesday night, and had scarcely retired before he was notified that he must take the first train for Owen Sound. Having scarcely slept at all he arrived here, and his introductory matter went to the wires late afternoon. At the press table he 'caught' the speeches of Hon. Mr. Tarte and Mr. F. H. Clergue, only to find that it would be impossible at that late hour to send a complete report over the wires for the morning paper. Only a newspaper man can realize the excitement and forebodings that assail the writer when he is in this predicament. So Mr. Rossie had to do the next best thing-he commenced a synopsis. At 1:45 he fell over in a faint, but regaining his senses he got up and tried it again. With the utmost difficulty he controlled himself till he penciled the last line, and then fell over again in a dead faint. The result of his self-sacrifice was that the Mail and Empire was the only morning paper to have a report, however superficial, of the banquet.'

SECOND BRIGADE GOES INTO CAMP

Work Will Be Much the Same as Before.

Ald. Winnett Attempts to Get a Sham Battle for Springbank to Swell Old Boys' Fund.

Yesterday the corps comprising the second brigade went into camp on Carling's Heights, occupying the tents left by the men of the first. The corps composing the second brigade consists of the 22nd Oxford Rifles, the 28th Perth Regiment, the 29th Waterloo Regiment, the 30th Wellington Rifles, and Nos. 1 and 2 companies of the 16th Wellington Field Battery. The strength of the second brigade will be about the same as that of last year. The number of officers and men expected are 367 with the 22nd, 277 with the 28th, 277 with the 29th, 457 with the 30th, and 206 with the two companies of the field battery. Ninety-eight horses will be used by the battery, and arrival of the troops. The orders issued yesterday were in effect the same as those issued at the beginning of the last camp, and the routine work will be much the same as before. It is a question if there will be another tattoo. Some of the permanent force officers doubt the wisdom of attempting another because, they say, there is a certain amount of difficulty in providing a change of programme, and it would be better to have none at all rather than a fizzle Of the thousands upon thousands who were at the last one there would not be found many who would not enjoy a repetition of such a thoroughly enjoyable and inspiring affair.

THE ARREST OF EARL RUSSELL MYSTERIOUS

Preliminary Hearing of Bigamy Charge Takes Place in Private.

Mme. Patti's Castle in Wales Put Up at Auction-Death of a Noted Threadmaker.

London, June 18 .- The tab'eau enacted at Sir Franklin Lushington's private room, Bow street, yesterday, was not wholly screened from public view, because a few privileged journalists were allowed to stand behind the scenes. Earl Russell, bearing a name highly honored in English public life, was charged with bigamy in having married Mrs. Somerville (or Mollie Cooke), in Reno Nevada when he already had a wife in England.

This second wife, according to the Nevada law, was in court, having been hastily summoned after Earl Russell's arrest at Waterloo station, and a small group of friends gathered around her. They were spared the mortification of a public rehearsal of the case in the discrete spared that the discrete spared the mortification of a public rehearsal of the case in the dingy court room, where ordin-ary criminals and rounders are called daily into the priseners' dock, and where Dr. Jameson and his associates were arraigned after the raid into the

They were not disconcerted by the sudden turn of affairs, but seemed to enjoy the notoriety. The earl prompted his counsel jauntily, and she smiled cheerily, as though the law of divorce and marriage were a pleasing and amusing farce. Earl Russell was remanded until Saturday on his own recognizances, two sureties offering their services.

MAN-WOMAN

Ellis Glenn To Be Tried for

Was Known in Half-a-Dezen Ohio Towns as a Man-Her Curious Career.

New York, June 18 .- Ellis Glenn, the mysterious man-woman, is to be placed on trial for forgery today at Parkersburg, W. Va., a World's dispatch announces. The case is remarkable. Glenn is a woman, although for many years she was supposed to be a man, and was sentenced to the Illinois penitentiary as a man. In this instance she had been sentenced to an indeterminate term of from one to fourteen years, and for forgery committed in exactly the same way as was the forgery of which she is accused at Parkersburg.

Ellis Glenn declares that the forgery committed at Hillsboro, Ill., in 1899, for which she went to prison, was committed by her twin brother, E. B. Glenn, of whom she is the counterpart; that as her brother was on his way to prison she secreted herself on the train by agreement with him., and that they exchanged clothing. The brother made his escape, and she went on to prison where her sex was discovered. As there was no woman's depart-cent in the penitentiary at Chester, she was returned to the sheriff at Hillsshe was E. B. Glenn, wanted at Parkersburg for forgery. An officer from Parkersburg identified her as the suposed man known as E. B. Glenn, and the Illinois authorities surrendered her to West Virginia. Ellis Glenn declares that she was never before in the region of Parkersburg, and that she did not know that her brother, Elbert Glenn, was wanted there, or she would not have undertaken to go to prison

E. B. Glenn, presumably this very woman, was known in half a dozen Ohio river towns, where as a man she did all kinds of rough work, and finally, at Butler, Ill., built up a good business as a sewing machine and real ed to a Miss Duke, daughter of a prominent family, and even after her arrest for forgery the Dukes stood for her, the father going on her bond. She went to St. Louis ostensibly to purchase her trousseau, and caused a report to be sent to Butler, that she nad been drowned. This report aroused suspicion, and she was traced, caught and sentenced, with never a thought by anyone that she was not the man

 19. OIL MARKETS. Pa June 18.-Credit bal-

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 18.—Oil closed at $1 05. LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO, June 18.—Trade was not by any means brisk at the cattle market today, though there was a heavy delivery of cattle, and altogether a large amount of rusiness was transacted. Probably a few loads of cattle would be left over. Good cattle sold well, but there were too many of the ordinary, common and middling quality, and these made business draggy. Export trade was a little quiet today, the highest quotations bringing no more than $5 to $5 12½; mixed lots, butchers and shippers together, sold at $450 to $470; good butcher cattle were worth $450; there was no trade in stockers today, very few being offered. Sheep and lambs were a little quiet. There was a light delivery of hogs, and the price was advanced $6 to $7 12½, top price. The total delivery for the day was $4 loads, with 1,491 head of cattle, 546 sheep and lambs, 537 hogs and 32 calves. W. H. Dean bought 5 loads of exporters, 1,200 to 1,500 lbs, at $5 to $5 12½. S. Levack bought 8 butcher cattle, 1,050 lbs, at $4 12½. H. Maybee & Son bought 13 butcher cattle, 1,200 lbs, at $4 10 to $4 70, and sold other lots at from $3 50 to $4 65, seven or eight loads altogether changing hands. OLD COUNTRY PRICES.

OLD COUNTRY PRICES. London, June 18.—Prices are slow, at 10½c to 12½c per lb, dressed weight; yearlings are 13c; lambs, 14c per lb; refrigerator beef is 8½c to 9c per lb.

THE DAIRY MARKETS. CHICAGO, June 18.—Butter stronger; creameries, 16½c to 19c; dairies, 13c to 16½c. Cheese easier, 8¾c to 10c. CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., June 18.—The cheese board met today; 1,855 boxes offered; Brenton bought 200 at 9½c; Alexander, 525 at 9½c; Magrath, 230 at 9½c, 400 at 97-16c; balance refused.

INGERSOLL, Ont., June 18.—At the cheese board held here today about 500 cheese board held here today about 500 colored and about 100 boxes white were boarded; 9%c bid on board; no sales, salesmen holding for 10c. HIDES, SKINS AND TALLOW.

Toronto, June 18.—Hides—The offerings are light, there is no accumulation of stocks, the hides being kept pretty well cleaned up, there is a good demand and the market is steady; local dealers quote for green No. 1 cows 6½c, and for steers 7c, and 1c less for No. 2; cured are quoted at 7½c for cows and 8½c for steers. Sheepskins—The offerings of old wool skins are small and the market is unchanged, at 80c to $1; lambskins and plentiful and steady, at 25c. Calfskins—The market is lower in the United States and dull here; No. 1 are quoted at 9c and No. 2 at 8c; dekins are steady, at 65c to 70c. Tallow—The market is quiet; local dealers are offering 5c to 5½c, and asking 5½c to 5½c.

WOOL MARKET.

Toronto, June 18.—The finer weather has a tendency to increase the offerings in the country, but those who have wool for sale are not willing to accept lower prices, and exporters, in the absence of any demand from the outside markets, are indifferent buyers; the market is quiet, both fleece and pulled. Fleece—The offerings are fair, but the demand is slow; the condition of the wool offering, with the improvement in the weather, is much better; we quote for washed 13c, and unwashed 8c. Pulled wools—The demand for pulled wools from the home mills is light, and the market is dull; we quote 16c to 17c for supers and 18c to 20c for extras. WOOL MARKET.

HOW TO DO YOUR

a life in the woods it is of course necessary to be governed by the number of persons in your party. As a rule only plain, substantial food should be taken into camp. If you have planned to go into the wild interior, many miles from any base of supplies, ample provisions should be taken along. These had better be purchased at the last settlement where a store exists before turning into the woods. If camping under such conditions it will be necessary in making up your requisition to know just about how much to allow for a day's rations for each man and figure accordingly. supply boat. In any event it will not do to depend upon the fish you catch and the game you kill or the visit of the supply boat. Sufficient canned soups, meats, smoked hams, vegetables, condensed misk and dried or evaporated fruits to last a week should be carried with you into the forest. You will find it much more desirable and convenient to be provided with a folding chafing dish or with one of the camp kits of which there is so great a variety on the market. The chafing dish occupies little space when traveling, the stand, lamp, extinguisher, handle and dish being placed inside the hot water pan. A camp kit consists of various necessary cooking utensils and a stove which fit closely into one another, the whole going snugly into a camp boiling pot, the lid of which may be used as a wash hand basin, or into a basket which can be used for marketing purposes. Others again fold into a box, which can be carried easily and conveniently by a leather strap slung over the shoulders; the lid of the box may be used as a tray. The various pieces that make up the kit may be more or less elaborate, but if you procure an outfit consisting of a stove, kettle, frying pan, coffee pot, canister for holding flour, beans, etc., a sugar box, gridiron, pepper and salt boxes and a boiling pot you will have a very well appointed camp cuisine.

Keyser, w. Va., June 19.—An avalanche, unparalleled in the West Virginia mountains, occurred Monday night at Hopeville, Grant county. Great sections of the mountain side along the Potomac River for two miles rushed down in the beautiful valley. Thousands of tons of forest trees, immense rocks and earth came down, and the home of Mrs. Andrew Ours, a widow, was completely wrecked. MANY WOMEN IN THE POSTOFFICE.

Nearly 34,000 Now Employed in Great Britain-In 1871 Only 972.

A statement just published by the British postoffice authorities shows that there are 33,918 women employed in their employment date back to 1870. When the postoffice took over the tele graph system from the companies women were in the employ of these companies. In 1871, the year immediately following the transfer, there were 972 women employed as telegraphists. Their history in the companies dates back to 1853. Soon after the postoffice took them over they began to decrease in numbers, and in 1881 there were only 570 of them employed. Their average salary in 1871 was 17s 11d per week in London, and 18s 9d in the provinces. In 1881 it had improved to 23s 10d in London and 19s 11d in the provinces. In 1871 the clearing house branch the receiver and accountant-general office was established and staffed wit women. In 1875 a trial was made with women clerks in the savings banks department, which now employs about 1,500. This was followed in 1881 by the establishment of the postal order branch, which now employs about 750 girls. In 1881, with the advent of Mr. Fawcett as postmaster-general, a rapid recruitment of girls took place. The money order branch opened a new sphere, and now the telephone business promises to bring in a further number. So, from the small beginnings in 1870 a total of nearly 34,000 today is employed.

The postoffice is very reticent upon the question of the relative efficiency of male and female labor, but from non-official sources it is to be gathered, says the Chronicle, that they possess certain advantages which recommend them to administrative officers. These attractions are not confined to England. Thirty-five of the administra tions of the postal union employ wo-men. Belgium has confessed the experiment a failure, but all the remainder speak in favor. Mr. Havelock Ellis says that in English postoffices women are generally found to be more docile and amenable to discipline; that they perform light work at low pressure equally as well as the men; but that they suffer more from illnesses of they suffer more from illnesses of short duration, and exhibit less intelligence outside the ordinary routine, not showing the same ability or willingness to acquire techniques. that they are cheaper and more

"Oh! you are kind, and I have felt so—so alone," she murmured; and then she fell to weeping unrestrainedly, all the pent-up grief, wounded pride and delicacy dissolving in the first real flood of tears that she had shed since coming into that house.

Those few words betrayed a good deal to Annie; they told her something of the unkind treatment the young wife had received since becoming an inmate of her father's house, and how keenly her sensitive spirit had suffered on account of it, and she resolved that she would henceforth do all in her power to make life easier and brighter for her.

"There, there," she said, patting her caressingly on the shoulder, "I was imprudent to work you up like this; you have enough to bear at the best. I am afraid that I have been very thoughtless and unwise."

afraid that I have been very thoughtless and unwise."

Shirley lifted her head, smiling through her tears and looking all the brighter for the shower and the relief which it had afforded her overburdened heart.

"You have done me good,"she said; "I can never tell you how much, and I am very grateful for your sympathy."

"Who could help sympathizing with you?" I am sure you are lovely," Annie heartily returned. "And your name is Shirley. Clif told me; it is odd, but it is pretty. May I call you so?"

"Yes, indeed, if you like," replied Shirley eagerly, and feeling more and more comfortable beneath the girl's genial influence.

"And will you call me Annie?"

"And will you call me Annie?"

"I should be glad to," said the young wife, wistfully.

"Then, of course you will," responded Annie, giving her a friendly little hug, and when you are staying here alone with Ciff may I come and sit with you?"

Shirley hesitated before replying to this question, while a cloud fell over herease.

this question, while a cloud fell over her lace.

"If—you think that you—you may, I should be glad to have you," she remarked after a moment.

Annie understood her. She knew that Shirley feared her parents might object to her seeking the society of her brother's despised wife.

But gentle Annie Vining had certain ideas regarding right and wrong, and there were times when she was independent enough to live up to her convictions in spite of all opposition.

"Of course I may come here to wait upon my own brother whenever I choose," she said, with an emphatic nod of her pretty bright head. "But now, Shirley, my sister, I am sure I have stayed long enough, for this time; so give me a kiss and I will run away."

Shirley smillingly obeyed her, her lovely eyes lighting with tender affection for the sweet girl who had so comforted her with her warm hearted smypathy.

Then Annie stole softly out, but those fondly spoken words, "Shirley, my sister," rang like a strain of sweet music within the heart of her brother's wife throughout the day and for many days afterward. throughout the day and for many days

CHAPTER XLII.

Life was considerably brighter for Shir-ley after that. Annie went every day to Clifton's chamber, to share her vigil, while the nurse took his daily rest, and was so sweet and considerate that she grew to love her very dearly. Besides this, the thoughtful girl took it upon herself to look after the young wife's personal comfort, which until now, no one had appeared to consider of any importance. importance.
For instance, Shirley's meals had been served in the room where she slept, and direct from the kitchen by the servants, who, taking their cue from the attitude of their master and mistress, had assumed that almost anything would do for the despised and neglected wife, who was far too proud to complain of poor fare or inattention The day after Annie's first interview with Shirley, that young lady had intercepted the servant who was taking "What have you there, Robert?" she inquired, with her usual winning smile; "something very nice, I hope, for poor Clif's brave little wife needs the best of everything that is nourishing and appetizing."

The man flushed and looked embarissed.
"Well, you see, Miss Annie," he began, pologetically, "the cook is outer sorts, and I—I had to ketch what I could find

"Let me see what you have on your tray," said Annie gravely, as she lifted the napkin that covered its contents.

Then she raised a pair of indignant eyes to the servant's face.

"And is this a sample of the dinners you are in the habit of taking to the poor girl who is wearing her life out caring for my brother?" she cried, pointing, with scorn, at the two thin slices of cold corned beef, a couple of soggy potatoes, a glass of milk, and some bread.

"Really, Miss Annie—I—"

"Go back to the kitchen," interposed Annie, too thoroughly aroused to listen to any excuses, "and tell the cook to send up the nicest of everything that we had ourselves. And hereafter," she added, authoritatively, "whatever we have upon up the nicest of everything that we had ourselves. And hereafter," she added, authoritatively, "whatever we have upon our own table is to be served hot and inviting to Mrs. Clifton Vining."

The man turned to obey her with a decidedly crestfallen air, for "Miss Annie's" word was regarded by every servant as law; and after that Shirley fared sumptuously every day, for her opirited little champion waylaid Robert upon several other occasions, to assure herself that her instructions were being carried out.

Clifton began to improve more rapidly Clifton began to improve more rapidly con after Annie's return, and, though he still suffered much, there were intervals when he was comparatively comfortable, and he began to feel an interest in what was going on around him.

It afforded him the greatest pleasure to see how friendly his sister and Shirley were becoming; but he was proportionately tried and indignant to observe how disagreeable his parents made everything for his dear one, and how keenly she suffered beneath their slighting treatment, although no murmur ever escaped her lips.

ment, although no murmur ever escaped her lips.
He noticed that they never spoke to her, unless actually compelled to do so, and then in tones that plainly betrayed their scorn and dislike; in fact, there was not a servant in the house who was treated with the arrogance which they manifested toward her; and as he grew stronger and they came oftener to his room, she was subjected to it more and more.

Clifton finally decided that he could not endure this state of things very long; and one day, when he and his father were alone together, he resolved to improve the opportunity to try to soften his heart toward his fair young wife.

wife. "Father," he began, "I think I am improving very fast this week, and I surely ought under the care and attention I receive. You have spared nothing for me." "And why should I spare anything for you, Clif, since you were hurt while trying to save me?" said Mr. Vining, with some emotion, for he had keenly felt his son's noble self-sacrifice, coming, as it had, immediately after he had refused to recognize him upon their meeting at the station.

"Then, if you feel that way, father, there is one thing that I particularly wish you would do for me," Clifton returned, regarding him with wistful eyes. "What is it, Clif? You shall have anything you want if money can buy it," was the ready response.

"Money is not needed to purchase what I wish," Clifton gravely answered. "What I desire is that you will be more kind and considerate toward my wife."

The man flushed a conscious crimson The man flushed a conscious crimson, and then his eyes began to blaze.

"We will not talk of her," he said, stiffly. "You shall not have a personal wish ungratified, even if it costs the half of my fortune; but the low-born girl whom you have married, in defiance of my wishes, can never be anything to me. I will never recognize her as one of my family." family."

He did not wait to see what effect his words would have upon his son, but walked abruptly from the room, closing the door after him.

Two very bright spots settled upon Clifton's cheeks, after his father's departure, and he lay for some time thinking over what had passed between them, while a resolute gleam burned in his eyes.

while a resolute gleam burned in his eyes.

When Dr. Wallace came to him that evening he sent the nurse from the room upon some pretense, then reaching out his thin hand he clasped Shirley's with a reassuring pressure and looking up into the surgeon's face he inquired:
"Doctor, do you think it would be possible for me to be moved?"
Neil fiashed a quick, keen glance at Shirley, and as he caught the look of pain that shot into her eyes, a suspicion of the motive which had prompted the question entered his mind.
"To be moved?" he repeated, in a noncommittal tone.
"Yes; i begin to feel as if I would like to get into those pretty rooms which I took such pains to have fitted up for this little wife of mine a few weeks ago," Clif explained, as he tried to speak in a light, off-hand manner.
Shirley's face was downcast, and she was absently toying with the white, thin fingers clasping her own; but he cheeks were painfully flushed, and the sensitive muscles about her mouth were quivering suspiciously.
"They are killing that poor child by inches here," thought Neil Wallace; and then, with a look of sudden resolve, he said aloud:
"Why, yes, I think you might be moved if you wish it. And on the whole"—this possible."

The eyes of both husband and wife flashed up to the surgeon's face with a look of startled inquiry at this.

"I have had it on my mind for several days to tell you," Neil continued, in the same tone, "that we—Dr. Hammand and I—have decided that there will have to be an—operation."

"That appears to be the chief trouble now," the young surgeon returned: "Your other injuries are rapidly improving, but that wound in the back rather baffles us; it is barely possible that some organ is out of place, and, pressing upon the nerves of the spine, is responsible for the numbness you describe." The result of the taking of the census in Elgin, says the St. Thomas Times, shows that the county has not grown in population during the past ten years. East Elgin, St. Thomas included, has gained between 600 and 700. The townships have decreased, but the city has increased nearly 1,000. West Elgin, it is said, has lost what St. Thomas has gained, and the result is that Elgin has about the same population now that it had in 1891.

Anson Dorland, an insane man from Dereham, who threatened to kill his family, was removed from the Woodstock jail on Monday morning to the London asylum. The jail officials, says the Express, are in a quandary as to why Archie McDonald was not removed also. In any event, McDonald should have been taken first, as his application was first in, and he is the worst of the two. He is giving his keepers a heap of trouble, and they hope his residence there will not be of much longer duration.

W. H. Morin, of Amherstburg, has en-not be of much longer duration.

W. H. Morin, of Amherstburg, has entered an appeal in the divisional court from the judgment of Judge Horne, who refused to admit the will of Antoinette Morin to probate. The defendants in the case are Morin's sisters, one of whom resides in Amherstburg and the other is a nun in Detroit. They allege that the signature to the will, purporting to be that of their mother, is a forgery. Their brother was not able to produce before Judge Horne the man Ross, who is said to have witnessed the will. The sisters refused to let the will be probated, because it gives the brother most of the property.

In the Woodstock license appeal cases against Patrick Farrell, of the Royal Hotel, and James Ritter, of the Arlington Hotel, Judge Finkle gave judgment quashing the Farrell conviction, with costs, on the ground that the commissioners had exceeded their jurisdiction in not accepting the conditions passed by them, the exception contained in section 54 of the license act, and therefore his honor holds that the convictions are void, and quashes the same with costs. The judge also quashes the other case with judge also quashes the other case with costs. The costs. Messrs. Farrell and Ritter, it will be remembered, had their hotel bars open after the hour of 10 p.m. Mr. Haversan, of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, made the plea that the license commissioners had exceeded their actions. sioners had exceeded their authority in closing bars at 10 o'clock, when the act gave hotels power to sell until 11. gave hotels power to sell until 11.

M. K. Cowan, M.P., of Windsor, had an experience in a lawsuit at Harrow on Monday, in which he was beaten by a farmer residing near that place. Judge McHugh was holding divisional court in the village, and Mr. Cowan appeared as the legal adviser of the defendant, in a case where the ownership of a steer was in dispute. The plaintiff in the suit had no lawyer to plead his case, but announced to the judge that he guessed he could look after his own interests very well. A jury was called in the case and the farmer at once objected to several jurymen, in which he was upheld by the court. His cross-examination of the witnesses opened the eyes of the opposing counsel, and when it came to addressing the jury he could give Cowan cards and Aggressive Warfare Needed - Strong Speech by Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley.

Boston, June 18.-Many branches of Young Men's Christian Association work were discussed at the international jubilee convention in Boston, but one subject of special interest was "The need of a more aggressive warfare against the forces which are destroying young men." Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, of New York, threw a strong light on many aspects of modern life, suggested by the topic, and emphasized the importance of individual to prevent threatened destruc-The speaker said: "Aware that lict was passed into the hands of the work to prevent threatened destrucno one person can see clearly over a wide horizon, I have inquired of sevein various situations, among college students and clubs, business men, lawyers and physicians, in country and city, of the pastors of several churches, and have found them in accord in these painful conclusions—that among the majority of young men, a majority so large as to leave a narrow margin for those of othe tendencies, there is a lack of the sense of God, an indifference to the Bible as a moral and religious authority, a doubt of its divine origin, often expressed, but more frequently implied disparaging allusions. "Several ancient forms of destroying forces are increasing. Impurity in its various forms does not admit of public discussion. The drink habit is reas-serting itself. Gambling in social life and the spirit of it in business life has taken on the power and pervasiveness of an epidemic. German Bark Planet Picked Up With Crew in Scene of Horror.

Men Unable to Move-Scorpions, Swarming Up From Holds, Infest the Entire Vessel.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19 .- (Special to Chicago Tribune)-With decks alive with scorpions, the entire crew sick with scurvy, the chief officer dead, and the second officer too ill to take part in the navigation of the vessel. which was being driven about practically in charge of a dog maddened by thirst, the German bark Planet was fallen in with by the Philadelphia trans-atlantic line steamship Crown Point, Captain Wall, from the city to London, on May 14, in latitude 49.36,

Second Officer Bryant of the Crown Point was put in charge of the stricken craft and succeeded in working it into Queenstown harbor on May 28, but not until the second mate and captain had died.

STORY OF CAPTAIN WALL. This tale of the sea has just come to light through a report made by Captain Wall to the London Board of Trade. On May 14 Captain Wall sighted on the horizon the outlines of a deep laden bark. Its erratic course excited his curiosity and he altered his ship's direction a point or so. Soon he saw signals of distress hoisted on the stranger and one of the Crown Point's boats was lowered in charge of the first officer. When the party boarded the Planet he found death, disease and vermin had laid low the entire crew.

The chief officer had died two days previously. Captain Buskenneth, stricken at the same time, was lying unconscious and the second officer was in a bad condition. The limbs of all the sailors were badly swoolen, and many of them had lost all their teeth. The deck of the vessel was actually alive with scorpions, which had arisen from the cargo. They swarmed every-where and the enfeebled men were unable to drive them away. The ship's dog, maddened by thirst, was running wildly around the deck snapping at every one near him. The crew begged that the dog be allowed to live and it was tied to the main mast, where un der proper treatment it became quite tame again. SAVE VESSEL, BUT MANY DIE. Captain Wall sent a fresh supply of provisions and delicacies for the sick seamen and Second Officer Bryant was sent to navigate the Planet to its destination. Mr. Bryant found the crew was too weak to heave the cable and he was obliged to slip it after re-peated attempts had been made to take the disease-stricken craft in tow. On May 1 Captain Buskenneth died, never regaining consciousness from the moment he was stricken. The second officer after showing marked signs of improvement died on May 24. Finally the harbor of Queenstown was

Mrs. Eddy Admits

She Is Fallible.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science has authorized a statement in regard to her relations to her followers, in view of developments in the Woodbury-Eddy libel suit.

Her spokesman is Edward A. Kimball, of Chicago, who has been in Boston assisting in the preparation of Mrs. Eddy's case.

He says: "She has solemnly declared from the first that she did not refer to the plaintiff when writing about the Babylonish woman, and the only dignified and consistent course open to her is to rest peacefully on that declaration and let others cohtend, if they will.

"Mrs. Eddy does not believe or teach or want anyone else to believe, that she is infallible. We and she believe in the infallibility of God only."

"Does she think that she is the woman clothed in the sun, spoken of in Revelations?"

"She does not teach or want anyone to believe that. On the contrary, we do not believe that the word woman meant any woman, but rather refers to conditions of thought or the revelation of truth. It may be said in a general way that Christian Science regards her as the one who has perceived this great spiritual science and as one who, by reason of her moral and spiritual culture, has become the logical, beloved and well-equipped leader of this denomination. She is generally recognized as being one of the foremost religious teachers of the age."

"There is considerable comment about Mrs. Eddy's income and her financial affairs. What are the facts?"

His cabin is near by the kilns and in it is the picturesque disorder that is natural to man in the woods. His kitchen utensities are mostly in evidence. His bed is wholly secondary. He eats to live and lives to work, with only an occasional "spree" in some near-by town. In the woods sobriety is everything to his craft. He is a wonder to the visitor, as he plunges into thick smoke and heat and works in the choking fumes with the fortitude of a salamander. When the kiln is working best the smoke and fumes are considered detrimental to have a salamander. When the kiln so necessitates the constant attention of the burner. FIRST DAY AT RACE MEETING

Keenly Contested Events at Queen's Park Track.

Track Was Fast Yesterday and the Attendance Unusually Large.

A cloudless sky, a good track, and an picious conditions which marked the opening yesterday of the June meeting of the London Turf Club. Lovers of the noble horse turned out in force and the grand stand was occupied by a crowd of probably 1,000 men, including many of London's prominent, wellknown citizens. Probably half as many of the fair sex were in attendance, and they manifested a keen interest in the various events. The excellent sport provided by the club and the promising character of the first day's racing should insure doubled crowds for the remaining two days of the meeting. The Musical Society Band, under Leader F. L. Evans, has been engaged to play each day during the meet.

ford dis Time—2:29¼, 2:25¼, 2:23¼, 2:23½, 2:25¼. The 2:14 trot and pace was the most interesting event of the day. The starters were Black Joe, Miss Del-march, Cap Brino and Maggie Usher, and the race was made by the three first named. Many people thought Cap Brino couldn't be beaten, but he falled to take better than third place and money.

Black Joe's sensational finishes in the first and second heats were the features of the race. In the first heat Cap Brino appeared to have things his own way until the quartette came into the stretch. Miss Delmarch had kept at Cap Brino's heels, and Black Joe was back a length or two, when his driver urged him on, and by a wonderful dash he came to the front, with Miss Delmarch second. Cap Brino was unable to regain his position, but Singing to Keep the Cattle From Becomhe came under the wire half a length behind Miss Delmarch, who was only a few feet behind the leader. The finish was the most exciting of the day. The first half of the mile was done in $1:05\frac{1}{2}$.

When the three-quarter pole reached in the second heat, Black Joe held a very poor fourth place, the gap between him and the leading horse being so great that it looked ness of the landscape will awe him to the impossible for him to close up. excellent field of entries were the aus- his driver let him out, and 50 yards

Life was full of possibilities. I had a constitution of iron and why not work? I lived to the fullest limit of my power, following every purguit with and on the same of the compass: lowing every pursuit with ardor, painting, poetry, writing of books, journal-

I ascribe all of this change, and justly, to Grape-Nuts Food and wisdom in the economy of force. There is a good, sound reason for such a change as described above. Grape-Nuts Food is made of the selected elements of wheat and barley that are intended by nature to rebuild the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve cells throughout the body. This food is so prepared that it presents these elements in perfect condition for immediate assimilation. The food is thoroughly cooked at the factory, and should always be served just as it comes from the package with a little cream. Do not attempt to stew it but serve it without cooking except when combined with certain puddings and desserts, and even then the cooking is

A broken nut on his sulky caused still further delay, but it evidently gave the black stallion time to recuperate, for he put up a good race. He was not urged to any extent for three-quarters of a mile, when his driver, Kennedy, of Walkerton, brought him from fourth into first place and retained that pointo first place, and retained that position until within a very short distance of the wire. There Cap Brino broke, and Black Joe won the heat and

ing Too Restless.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.] "There is an indescribable sense of was strangeness about the great plains at ness of the landscape will awe him to the heart, and his nerves will gradually get on such a tension, without his knowing it, that the yelp of a coyote or the howl it, that the yelp of a coyote or the howl of a wolf a mile away will make him jump nearly out of his saddle. That is especially true of nights when there is just a slice of moon in the sky—not enough to render things distinct, but enough to fill the whole plain with vague, mysterious shapes that you seem to distinguish at one moment and lose the next. I shall never forget an experience I had under such conditions when I first went into the cattle country. I was visiting a ranch in middle Texas, and one day went out with some of the cowboys to a remote Authors, writers and brain-workers are generally hard working people, frequently they exhaust vitality so fast that they cannot rebuild.

Food experts have perfected a special food called Grape-Nuts for brain workers. The makers selected from field grains the proper elements which naturally enter into rebuilding brain and nerve centers.

A famous woman of West Haven, Conn., whom perhaps you will recognize because of the location, but who requests that her name be kept from print in this connection, writes: "Per-

"It sounds foolish to tell, but my hair bristled on my head, and the wonder is I didn't fall off my horse. Luckily, at that moment, a cowboy came riding around the shoulder of the nearest hill, and in a ters and receptions. I suddenly dropped out, a mental and physical wreck. Ambition died and hope went with it. Religion became odious. The world grew dark. It became a "Charnel House full of unclean bones, not Godlike and our Father's."

I had no desire for food. I could not woo the "Goddess Sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve of care." I contemplated a weak solution, a leap into the Unknown, when one day a friend in Yale who knew my deplorable condition, said, 'Do you know that Grape-Nuts Food has done a great deal for me,' and told the details. I finally fol-

I hear "the breezy call of incense breathing morn," my muscles are like iron, and my back of steel. I am as alert as the sparrow with whom I converse to the sparrow with whom I converse to the state of the st holding that there were two defects either of which was sufficient to pre vent the lightning arrester from doing its work. One of them was an in-excusable failure to provide a ground connection. Probably there are thousands of telephones which have like defects. When one thinks of the popular ignorance of electricity in connection with the none too comprehensive knowledge of the electrical experts themselves, and adds to these the happy-go-lucky-getthere-quick style in which so much telephone construction and installa tion are done, the wonder grows that electric horrors are so few. Every overhead wire, for instance, is an overhead current of certain death, liable at any moment to fall upon us. Yet how comparatively few do fall!

As for the Vermont incident, it has desserts, and even then the cooking is a moral. Fear of electricity is heal-not necessary except to prepare the other ingredients aside from the and other electrical connections during storms as if they were your deadliest enemies. Believe nothing good about them. Be as distant with them as if they were poor relations.

The Daily Mail asserts that the promoters of the Queen's Hall meeting secured the services of 600 or 700 "stalwarts" as stewards. These "gangs of foreign ruffians" were found inside the hall, according to the Daily Mail, ready to keep order and eject malcontents. The "stalwarts" were drawn from the lower class of foreign clubs in Soho. Many were armed with sticks, and the Daily Mail says they acted with unrestrained violence in excluding loyalists and throwing out

AT ST. PAUL'S Rev. Canon Dann Preached an Able Sermon-An Outing at Springbank.

At St. Paul's Cathedral last evening the annual missionary service in connection with the meeting of the Synod of Huron, was conducted by Canons Hill, Richardson, Young and Brown. The bishop and dean and other members of the chapter were also present. The musical portion was beautifully rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mr. Sippi. Rev. Canon Dann preached the sermon, taking his text from I. Peter, 24-25: "All flesh is grass and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flower thereof falleth away, but the Word of the Lord endureth forever."

A PLEASANT OUTING.

The delegates from the London churches to the synod very pleasantly entertained the delegates from other points last evening at Springbank. The party went to the park in a special car, and on their arrival found a tempting repast awaiting them at the pavilion. Brief addresses were made by several delegates, in which they thanked those who had provided the outing. The chair was occupied by Mr. V. Cronyn. The chairman of the committee of arrrangements was Mr. H. Macklin, with Mr. A. E. Welch, as secretary.
