WILLIAM CHARLES KING LODGED IN ELGIN COUNTY JAIL ON AWFUL CHARGE OF MURDER

Government Detective Murray Secured Detailed Confession of the Killing of Willie Freeman.

A QUICK AND CLEVER CAPTURE

Great Credit Is Due to Detective Murray and Crown Attorney Donahue.

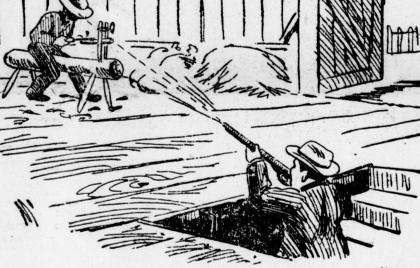

- Few portions of Canada have furnished the criminal history of the Dominion with such a long record of important and attention-compelling cases as has the district within a radius of 50 miles of the city of Lon-In this section of Western Ontario there have occurred a series of crimes and trials which have engaged the attention not only of Canadians, but of the people of England, the United States and other portions of the globe. It needs but the mention of the Birchall-Benwell tragedy, the Biddulph murders and the Pegleg Brown shooting to show that Middlesex and the adjoining counties are likely to gain an unenviable reputation as the scene of desperate crimes, which attract from the people of two continents an unwholesome interest,

- A passing comment may be made upon the fact that while the cities are usually accredited with a lower moral tone than are the rural regions, the criminal history of Western Ontario does not bear out such a theory. There have probably been as many murders committed outside of the incorporated municipalities in Middlesex and its adjoining counties as there have been within their borders. The Biddulph murders, the Welter-Hendershot case, the Fulford murder and suicide, the Chappelle murder may all be cited as instances where either slayers or victims, and sometimes both, were residents of the country and not of the town. WAS A WHITECHAPEL WAIF.

For the first couple of years he worked industriously, and his employer was satisfied. It was discovered, however, that he was of a deceitful nature, and was subject to spells of moroseness. The family bore with him a long time, for they realized that it was not his own fault, but heredity and early environment, which were responsible for his nature. He had first seen the light of day in White-chapel slums in London. His mother was an habitual drunkard, while his father was an invalid. King had brothers and sisters with whom he corresponded after coming to Canada.

WAS JEALOUS OF WILLIE. As time went on, and Willie became more and more a factor in the man agement of the farm King seemed to become jealous of the boy, who on the other hand always treated him fairly and did not take unjust advantage of his superior position. King gradually assumed an openly-envious attitude towards young Freeman and complained that Willie was being treated with more consideration than he was. He was, of course, told that Willie he was only being treated as he should King still maintained his attitude of jealousy toward Willie, and in addition began to neglect his work.

THREATENED MRS. FREEMAN. On one occasion during one of his fits of sulkiness, he was found by Mrs. Freeman idling in a field. She repri-

He refused to go, and even the cutting off of his supply of pocket money failed to discourage him from remaining. Although the relations between the family and the farm laborer became greatly strained, he was permitted to remain, and was given his board and clothing. Among the neighbors King was fairly well liked. His habits were fairly good and he did not smoke nor drink. He attended the Methodist Church regularly and partook of the commun-

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 15.-Bennie Monroe received probably fatal injuries and three other persons were more or less seriously injured Friday night by a spill at the Coliseum during a motor-paced bicycle race. Geo. Leander had won one of the heats of the three five-mile trials, and was in the lead in the fourth mile of the second heat. The handle-bar et his wheel loosened as Jimmie Hunter, pacer for Monroe, was about to pass Leander and his pacemaker. Leand-er's wheel swerved, resulting in the smash-up of the wheels of Leander, Monroe and Hunter. Monroe was thrown into the grand stand and his skull was fractured, and he received other injuries. Hunter was injured about the head, face and legs. Mrs.

WAS COMING TO THE FAIR. Over a week ago King's resentment towards Willie seemed to have been intensified owing to a difference which arose over the proposed visit of Willie to the Western Fair at London. It had been arranged between Willie and his foster parents that he should take a short holiday, drive to London and enjoy a sight of the exhibition. King expressed his eagerness to go also, but was told that he might not do so. This refusal so incensed him that, it

Its upper story is used as a storeroom and workroom and part of its furniture is a shave horse, used in the small odd carpentering jobs which form part of the incidental work on a farm. Willie, after seeing his father ready to start, went up to this room and began the shaping of a small wooden pin for a gate. King in the meantime was sent to the house for Mr. Free-

Willie was seated on the saddle of the shave horse, his head fallen forward on the front of it, and blood pouring copiously from a shot wound over the right eye. Mr. Freeman lifted him off, finding him unccaseious and apparently sinking rapidly. A summons was sent at once to Dr. Webster, of Rodney, but before he reached the scene of the tragedy the unfortunate boy had passed away.

OPENED AN INQUEST.

Dr. Dorland, coroner, of Rodney, ceneded an inquest, at the first session inquest, that he was afraid the blood of which the body was viewed, after would get on it. which permission was given to have the funeral take place. No thorough postmortem was made, the doctors merely examining the head. At the inquest King told his version of the ocwhich was to the effect that he had run upstairs on hearing the sound of the shot, and found Willie leaning forward o nthe shave horse with the drawknife, which he had been using, lying across his knees, and the gun lying on the floor beside the horse. King had then picked up the gun, carried it down stairs and placed it in its accustomed place behind the door, which opened toward the house. He had then given the alarm by running to the house and telling Mrs. Freeman. Asked as to why he had taken the gun down stairs and put it away so carefully, he replied that he did it because he was afraid some of the blood might get on it and spoil it. The inquest was then adjourned, nothing definite having been done

CROWN ATTORNEY STEPS IN.

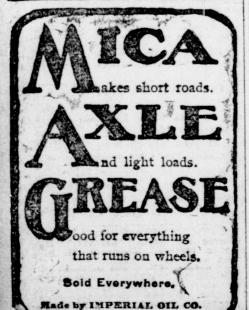

In the meantime Vrown Attorney D. J. Donahue, of St. Thomas, had been notified of the case by Dr. Dorland. Mr. Donahue was at first undecided as to what course he should pursue, as he did not desire to place the municipality to the expense of a lengthy investigation unless there appeared to be urgent ground for such action. He finally decided, however, to have the matter fully probed, and later developments amply proved the wisdom of his decision. He put himself into immediate communication with the attorneygeneral's department at Toronto and asked that Detective John W. Murray be sent at once to investigate. Detective Murray's long and brilliant record as an investigator of crimes and his varied experiences with all types criminals seemed to mark him as especially fitted to cope with the pres-

Another circumstance was that the fatal charge had struck the brim of the boy's straw hat, just within the outer edge, had made a long cut almost the full width of the brim, and had then entered his forehead over the right eye and beneath the point of contact between the forehead and the inner side of the brim of the hat. For such a cut to have been made by the boy himself he must either have held the gun by its muzzle above his head, or else rested the butt on the ground and bent forward so as to bring the muzzle above the brim of the hat.

TOOK HEAD FROM BODY.

Detective Murray and Mr. Donahue, accompanied by Drs. Lawrence and Duncombe, of St. Thomas, went to Bismarck on Saturday morning, and there met Dr. Webster. All proceeded to the cemetery where young Freeman was buried, and by their orders the body was exhumed. A complete postmortem was made by the doctors and the head was removed from the body and preserved for use in subsequent proceedings.

AT SCENE OF THE CRIME.

From the cemetery the party went to the Freeman homestead, where Detective Murray asked to see King. On meeting him, the officer told the boy who he was, and gave him the usual warning that anything he might say might be used against him as evidence. The detective then asked King to tell him everything that had transpired during the hour previous to the death said were his own actions and those ground exactly and made him tell

A PROXY GUN. The gun from which the fatal shot had come had been taken to Rodney to be produced at the inquest, but the detective took a piece of wood about the length of the gun and made King use it in his account of the tragedy. He had King show the place where the latter said the gun was lying when he came up stairs and found Murray also asked him why he took the gun down stairs, and the boy gave the same answer as at the

COULD NOT SHOOT HIMSELF.

The detective then asked what persons were near when the shooting oc-curred. King replied that only Mr. and Mrs. Freeman and himself were on the premises. "Then," said the detective, either Mr. Freeman, Mrs. Freeman or you yourself shot Willie, for he could never have done it himself! It was impossible that he should!" MOUNTED BLOOD-STAINED HORSE.

King repeated his assertion that Willie had shot himself. King, however, was by this time showing signs of confusion, which the detective did not fail to notice. Murray commanded King to mount the shave horse, which still bore the stains of the life-blood of the dead boy, and show Willie's position when found. King showed a certain amount of reluctance in mounting the shave horse. Murray handed him the stick which had been used as proxy for the gun, and told him to show how Willie could have shot himself with it. King's confusion increased, and the detective made the direct charge: "YOU SHOT THAT BOY!"

King showed signs of tears and Murray, judging that the psychological noment had arrived, called for Mr. Donahue and the medical men to come to the wagon shed. On their arrival the boy broke into tears and protestations of innocence, repeating several times "I never done it! I never done it!" "Then it must have been the Freemans," repeated the detective inexorably. At this the boy broke down completely.

"YOU WON'T HANG ME."

"You won't hang me! You won't hang me!" he pleaded. Murray answered that it was not in his power or the power of the official of the crown to make such a promise, and the poor lad, realizing for the first time his possible fate, screamed, "Oh, od, oh, my God," in agonized He was told to calm himself and after he had done so, he told the officer and the others present that he had himself shot Willie Freeman. He reached St. Thomas on Thursday night | took the stick and showed how he had come partly up the stairs with the gun, had rested it on the floor of the upper room and had fired at the unsuspecting boy, who, while facing toward King, had his head, bent forward in interested attention in his work, while the wide brim of his hat would prevent him seeing the pointed weapon which menaced his life.

CANADIAN FAST LINE

Mr. Redford Says Montreal Cannot Be the Permanent Tr min us.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 15 .- Robert Reford, of Montreal, addressed the Hali-fax Board of Trade Saturday afternoon on fast Atlantic line steamers. Mr. Reford said that if Canada is going to have a fast line he will do as much good as possible. Local feeling and prejudice must be dropped. All he was worth was invested in Montreal, but he recognized it could not be the permanent terminus for the fast line. He looked upon the fast question as one for the empire as well as Canada, and so far as he was concerned he was prepared to sink all claim in regard to Montreal. The proposed weekly service to Montreal and Quebec in summer and Halifax in winter was adequate. The service he favored would benefit the whole of Canada from Halifax to Vancouver. A ine inaugurated between Halifax and Galway, with 24-knot boats, could make the passage in 92 hours.

Summing up, Mr. Reford said he believed in a bi or tri weekly steamship service between Halifax and Galway that would land passengers and mails in four days, by which travel to Yokohama could be made in eighteen days, and with the aid of which the circuit of the world could be made in forty days. With such a line and short line service to Montreal he believed the whole trade between Europe and the east would be carried through Canada, while a weekly service up the St. Lawrence would mean going back to the old state of things. He believed the fast service would double the value of every acre of Canadian soil.

Restoration of the Drowned.

For the second time this season there is reported the resuscitation of a person who had been under water far beyond the period ordinarily set down as surely fatal. In the more recent case a 15-year-old girl lay at the bottom of a stream for twenty minutes, her hands firmly clasping a root. This disposes of the encyclopedic authority who remarks wisely that in such ar instance of retained vitality be presumed that the immersion has not been complete."

Immersion for from one to two minutes produces what may be fatal asphyxiation in the ordinary man Trained divers resist the suffocating process much longer, of course, and dogs have remained active four minutes under test. Experiences in the revival of persons taken from the water differ greatly, some of those who have been immersed the longest being soonest responsive to treatment It not infrequently happens that death in the water results from a state of syncope induced by the shock of the sudden peril. On the other hand this very condition, by preventing the involuntary action which draws water into the lungs may play the part of a life-saver.

At any rate, drowning in its first stages is merely a suspending of animation. It involves no vital injury. The two cases of restoration after long periods here referred to should furnish a fresh impulse, if any is needed, to work over every victim of the water so long as hope has the least thread reason to cling to.-New York of Treating Cancer.

The new constitutional treatment for cancer is based on the established fact that cancer is a disease of germ origin. Local treatment, such as operations, only deal with the external evidences of the disease, and of necessity must fail. Our constitutional treatment attacks the cancer germs in the blood and completely destroys them without injury to the patient. For full send to stamps to A. STOTT & JURY, Bowmanville, Ont.

A BIG INCREASE IN LONDON'S DEBT

Problem That Confronts the City Authorities.

Outstanding Debt Over $231,000,-000-Society Has Become More Exclusive.

London, Sept. 15 .- The report of the London county council, just published, furnishes some striking figures indicating the immensity of the municipal problem with which the London authorities are confronted. According to the census of 1901 the population of the administrative county of London was 4,536,541, while Greater London immediately surrounding the county showed an additional population of 6,500,000.

The lunacy statistics of the administrative county show an increase of 50 per cent in the last ten years, the total number of lunatics being 21,369, for which drink and business and domestic troubles were accounted to be largely responsible.

The London county council has to maintain 2,017 miles of paving, a large section of which is in a constant state of upheaval owing to the number of gas, electric and water companies having the power to open roadways.

HOUSING WORKING PEOPLE. The problem of housing the working people is dealt with on a large scale, the council acting as landlord to a population of 12,596 housed in cottages, block dwellings and various other structures. The year's working showed a net surplus of $11,565 for these dwellings compared with a deficit of

$5,785 for the previousc year. The council is a large owner of omnibus and street car lines, which carried last year over 118,000,000 passengers while all the omnibus lines of greater London showed the enormous total of

The city's debt statistics shows a discouraging increase, the total debt outstanding being $231,344,355, equivalent to 124.98 per cent when the ondon to 124.98 per cent of the rateable value, against 104.64 per cent when the London county council came into exist-

Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, who was formerly Lady Randolph Churchhas been comparing American and English society, and has come to the conclusion that the "American invasion" has worksomething of a revolution in social sphere and in dress. Socially, she thinks, the Americans have made English society more exclusive tion and left matters as they were. than it was formerly. She says the Americans have spent vast sums in entertaining and living on a scale of magnificence almost unknown before. This has led the English arbiters of fashion to adopt America's lavish ways, until only a few of the wealthiest social leaders are able to keep up the American pace. As a result many of them are unable to longer participate in the grander functions and the effect on society as a whole is towards exclusiveness.

WOMEN IN POLITICS. Mrs. West maintains that English women have a much greater opportuntiy than their American sisters to engage in public and political affairs. The English woman occupies nearly all her working hours with meetings and functions of various kinds, many of them of a semi-public nature. In politics the influence of English women is direct, whereas it is so limited among American women as to be inappreciable.

In regard to dress, Mrs. West says the American women have not been content with spending large sums on their clothes, but have introduced so much art in fit, color and design that American make is now accepted as a guaranty of excellence.

Mrs. West contemplates, in conjunction with her son, Winston Spencer Churchill, starting a new periodical, of a more popular style than the defunct Anglo-Saxon Review, after she returns from the Delhi durbar and visits Lady Minto in Canada and relatives in New York.

"Pain in the head and back ' is a form of suffering with which so many women are familiar. Often this pain is associated with nervousness, sleeplessness and loss of appetite. The cause of such suffering is generally to be traced to derangement of the womanly function, or a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs.

In such cases the action of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is marvelous in the prompt relief of pain and permanent of disease. It regulates the periodic function, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It cures when all other means have been tried in vain. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

In a little over thirty years Dr. Pierce, assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians, has cured more than half a nillion women.

"I was a great sufferer for six years and doctored all the time with a number of different physicians, but did not receive any benefit," writes Mrs. George Sogden, of 641 Bonda Street, Saginaw (South), Mich. "One day as I was reading a paper I saw your advertisement, and, although I had given up all hope of ever getting better, thought I would write to you. When I received your letter, telling me what to do, I commenced to take your 'Favorite Prescription' and follow your advice. I have taken ten bottles in all, also five vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' Am now regular after having missed. bottles in an associated and and back. LONDONERS OPPOSED TO IT

Did Not Favor Bishops' Canon Re Marrying Divorcees.

Proposed Law Was Discussed at Canadian Anglican Synod.

Montreal, Sept. 13.-In the Canadian Anglican Synod sitting in Montreal, the house of bishops enacted a canon unconditionally forbidding all remarriages of divorced people, and asked the lower house, composed of clergy and laity, to concur to make that canon law. The latter house, led by Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., refused, and submitted the following:

"No clergyman within the said jurisdiction shall, without submitting the material facts of the case to his sons, either of whom shall have been except that any clergyman may perform such ceremony as may be necessary to satisfy the civil law to constitute husband and wife of a man and woman who have been divorced from one another, and he may bestow a blessing upon such persons who, havng been divorced, desire so to come together again." Mr. Wilson made a most brilliant speech, pointing out the hopeless divergence of opinion not only in the house, but among the most learned divines and highest authorities. It was impossible to hope for a decision one way or the other, and the appeal to the bishop was a middle course. He drew a forcible picture of the way in which the so-called innocent party often caused a divorce, and believed the need of satisfying both the clergyman and the bishop of the innocence of the man seeking marriage would effectually guard against the improper performance of the ceremony. seconder supported the motion because it provided a machinery for investiga-Amongst those who supported Mr. Wilson were the Very Rev. Dean Innes, the Ven. Archdeacon Davis, the Rev. David Williams and the Rev. Prof. Clark, D.D., of Trinity University, together with a large majority of the laymen, and the proposal of the bishops was finally rejected. When the lower house refuses to concur with the house of bishops, the reasons for non-concurrence must given, and the following were put forward by Mr. Wilson: "(1) Some dissent because they don't want to force their opinions upon a minority, and, therefore, desire to make no order upon the question. (2) Some dissent because they are of the opinion that the innocent party in case of divorce for adultery is entitled by divine law to marry. (3) Some dissent because they recognize the fact that there always has been a difference of opinion in the church on the question whether our Lord meant to forbid marriage with the innocent party in a divorce for adultery or otherwise, and, therefore, think that the church in Canada should not make a definite and unqualified pronouncement such as contained in clause 4 of message 32 from he upper house.' In the end Mr. Wilson's position was maintained, and as a result the Anglican clergy in Canada can do as their conscience dictates in marrying or re-fusing to marry a divorce man or It is generally known that Mr. Wilson opposes divorce and remarriage, but he equally opposes the coercing of clergymen, who conscieniously think that the remarriage of the innocent party after divorce for adultery is authorized by the Scrip-

China on Eve of Bankruptcy.

San Francisco, Sept. 15 .- Speaking of the commercial outlook in the Orient, Gen. T. S. Sharretts, United States commissioner who recently aided in framing a new tariff for China, said. "Reform is urgently needed in the financial policy of China, and its methods of managing financial affairs, and especially in col lecting revenues. As matters stand American trade with China is of little mportance, and will never amount to much under the proposed new tariff or under any tariff. The collections of Government's revenues is placed in the hands of middlemen, or thieving officials if you will, who permit only about 10 per cent of their collections to reach the Government. China is on the eve of bankruptcy, and unless the powers get together and force the into revolutionizing its country into revolutionizing its methods, within the next ten years there will be an awful orash in the far east.

NUMEROUS DEATHS REPORTED

Navigation on the Rivers Rendered Dangerous Smoke Extends Far Out to Sea

Portland, Ore., Sept. 13.-The smoke from the forest fires is becoming thicker in this city, though the fires in this vicinity practically have burned

Hundreds of people in this and adjacent counties have been made homeless and the loss in timber and farm houses will be many hundreds and thousands of dollars. The smoke hangs so thick over the rivers that navigation is hazardous and all boats are behind time. There is no prospect of rain, and until it shall come conditions will not improve.

Fire companies were called out to Irvington. The residents of South Portland have been on duty since yesterday morning. Valuable timber has been destroyed near Cobourg, Wilhoit Springs. Wendling and other points. Men at Wendling are swamping the timber in order to save it. The destruction of the village of Viola seems certain.

Mills, lumber and timber to the value of $1,000,000 were destroyed in Chehalis county, Wash. The damage near Lentz, Ore., amounts to over $250,000.

MANY FARMHOUSES BURNED. On Mill plain, near Vancouver, eight farmhouses were destroyed today and Mrs. Hendricks and her two children are missing.

Forest fires of the most severe nature are pressing upon every side. Every team is being pressed into service to take people to places of safety; the water supply is cut off by burning of mains, but every effort is being made to protect mill property. Six large lumber mills and ten houses have been burned about six miles south of Elma. A report from Shelton was to the effect that nearly all the milis in Mason county were on fire. The town of Mitlock, that county, was in immi-

Sir Robert Bond at Washington. Sir Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, has arrived in Washington on his mission to reopen reciprocity negotiations with the United States, no doubt on the same lines as the Bond-Blaine treaty of 1890, which the British Government vetoed at Canada's request. Under the terms of that treaty the United States agreed to give free admission to fish and fish products from Newfoundland, in return for which American fishery crews were to be given equal privileges with Newfoundland fishermen in the waters of Newfoundland, in the purchase of bait fishes. Another section of the treaty provided that Newfoundland duties should not exceed 25 cents on a barrel of flour, 11/2 cents on a pound of pork, 21/2 cents on a pound of bacon, hams, etc., 30 cents on a barrel of India. meal and peas, 20 cents a ton on salt and 6 cents a gallon on coal oil. Agricultural implements and machinery, imported by societies, crushing mills for mining purposes, plows, harrows, gas engines, and other machinery, were to be admitted by Newfoundland free of duty. Canada, which was to be excluded from all these privileges, at once entered a protest. The concessions to the United States in the matter of bait fishes would have deprived the Dominion of a powerful lever in the settlement of the North Atlantic fishery question, as American fishermen would be independent of the Canadian bait supply; in addition, the Nova Scotia fishery interests would suffer by the discrimination in favor of their American competitors. The tariff preferences on American imports into Newfoundland would also prejudice Canadian trade with the island. Newfoundland imports more from Canada than from any other country-$2,381,367 in has become the butt of the paragraphthe year ending June 30 last-but the Bond-Blaine treaty would have thrown the advantage to the United States, whose exports to the island are similar to our own. In the correspondence between the Canadian and Imperial augard the Imperial Government would Apparently Sir Robert Bond received assurances from the British Government, during his visit to England, that no such obstacles would now be placed in the way, presumably because the Joint High Commission, to which Newfoundland was a party, had failed to reach an agreement. Whether Sir Robert Bond will succeed in negotiating another treaty is doubtful, in the United States Senate's present frame of mind. The Senate at its last session rejected all reciprocity overtures, be looked on more as a penance!" from a fear of opening up the whole tariff question. However, the situation is a strong argument for the incorporation of Newfoundland with the Do-

Mr. Bryce in his "American Commonwealth" pointed out that municipal government was the greatest failing of democracy in the United States. Tweed and Tammany are almost outdone by the St. Louis scandal. The revelations show that a number of members of the House of Delegates, a body corresponding to a city council in this country, conspired to put through a corporation franchise for a consideration of $47,500. One of the delegates, who fled the country, came back and turned state's evidence. As a result twelve aldermen are under arrest for want of bail, some are out on bonds and others have left the city to escape warrants, but are being pursued. The evidence, it is said, incriminates several St. Louis millionaires, members of the corporation that raised the bribery fund. The prosecuting attorney is threatened with assassination if he persists in doing his duty. The corruptionists were bound by an unholy compact to act in agreement and maintain secreey under penalty of death, and added blasphemy to their crime by swearing to the oath in the name of the Deity. The franchise, which was for the city lighting, was put through the council, but it was atacked in the courts by public-spirited citizens who have been successful in unmasking this hideous conspiracy. It has been shown that an organized ring existed in the council to levy toll on those seeking civic legislation. The city of Milwaukee presents another sad spectacle of municipal corruption, the mayor and chief of police being exiles and other city officials being under indictment. It is safe to say the average of municipal probity in Canada is much higher than in the United States. One reason for this is that the American cities are more cosmopolitan, and the presence of so many aliens, new to the institutions of the country, lends itself to the machinations of the ward bosses, and weakens what might be termed the civic consciousness. But have we any right to throw stones at our neighbors? Montreal, until the reform element took hold in recent years, was disgraced by its council. A street railway franchise was boodled through the city council of Toronto, Happily London has never had the same reproach, but occasionally has had to blush for an alderman

A Circus Campaign.

Tom L. Johnson, Democratic candidate for governor in Ohio, is adding to the gaiety of politics by his original mode of canvass. There have been always a good many circus features in political campaigning across the line, but Mr. Johnson has out-Barnumed everything on record. Instead of hiring halls he has a portable auditorium in the shape of a huge circus tent, which is moved from place to place by an army of retainers, accompanied by a brass band. The honorable Tom, himself travels most of the time in a red automobile. Describing his meeting at Port Clinton, Ohio, last Thursday night, the Cleveland Plaindealer says:

"The tent was pitched this morning in a spacious cow pasture, from which the cows had previously been temporarily evicted. The cavalcade was on the move from Fremont all night, over rough roads, but met with no mishap. Mayor Johnson and Loftin went to Cleveland on an early train from Fremont, and Mr. Bigelow, candidate for secretary of state, was brought to Port Clinton by Arthur, the mayor's professional chauffeur. The fame of the "red wagon" has spread throughout the land, and it was greeted with frequent acclamations while on the road today. Mayor Johnson came out from Cleveland on an afternoon train. He was accompanied by Taxman Peter Witt, who is the latest and most novel acquisition of the show. Mr. Johnson announced that he had come back to the show to stay for the rest of the week Mrs. Johnson will journey with the circus to Oak Harbor and Toledo. William Jennings Bryan will probably join the troupe at

The tent is a great advantage in the rural districts, enabling the candidate to address immense gatherings that could not be accomodated in theaters or halls. Johnson is incurring plenty of ridicule from the other party, and and scheming brings failure for all ers, but he is drawing great crowds of his platform is the proper taxation of public service corporations, an anomalous position for a man who has thorities on this subject the latter laid franchises. The Bridge of Sighs.

THOMAS HOOD. This familiar poem was written by Thomas Hood about 1830. It and 'The Song of the Shirt" are the two poems by which he is best known. He wrote two series of "Whims and Oddities," which appeared in 1826-27, the "Plea of the Midsummer Fairles," the dramatic romance "Lamia," "Tylney Hall," and many exquisite songs and ballads. He had the faculty of blending mirth and pathos in his poetry as in his life, his own experience being a struggle against poverty and ill-health, which he maintained with cheerful fortitude. He died in London in 1845.

The Stone-Mitchell Conference Effected Nothing.

Operators Expect Crisis to Come This Week-Mother Jones Missing.

Wilkesbarre, Sept. 15.-President Mitchell says Gov. Stone has no propositions to make for a settlement of the strike. The silence of Mr. Mitchell is interpreted to mean that the Harrisburg conference was barren of results. The coal operators say the conferdent Mitchell was merely a friendly talk, and that neither party submitted proposition. The operators think the Could Scarcely Drag Herself crisis will come this week.

"MOTHER" JONES MISSING. Parkersburg, W. Va., Sept. 15.— 'Mother" Jones, the coal strike agitator, is lost, and the Parkersburg police have been appealed to by her daughter to locate her. "Mother" Jones has long been an interesting figure in the strikers' circles. She has a vigorous personality, and is known as a fighter to the last ditch. She was recently arrested for contempt of court, but was pardoned, though she asked to be sent to NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 14.—Tomorrow will begin the nineteenth week of the coal strike. The date on which Senator Platt predicted that the strike would end has passed, and the hope which was instilled into the people in this locality because of that prediction has been succeeded by a feeling that the end is still far off.

The reiteration by the coal presidents during the week that no concessions would be made and the resolutions passed by nearly all the local unions of the United Mine Workers, renewing their allegiance to their officers and pledging themselves to continue the strike until concessions are granted, show that neither side to the controversy is weakening. Gen. Gobin, in charge of the State troops encamped in this county, denies that he is preparing to remove the troops at an early date or that he expects an order from the governor to withdraw the troops. He says he does not anticipate an order of that kind until there is a settlement of the

PRVIATE SECRETARY OF GOVERNOR ROSS IN CITY

Head of Yukon Must Keep Out of particularly unfortunate at the pres-Election Excitement.

New Export Tax on Gold Is in Successful Operation.

Miners and Other Residents of Territory Satisfied With Present Conditions.

Mr. W. G. Harrison private secretary of Governor Ross, of the Yukon Territory, was in the city today, the guest of his friend, Mr. J. H. Brownlee. Mr. Harrison has been spending a week at his home in Glencoe, He left Dawson City on Aug. 7, spent ten days at White Horse, left there Aug. 20, and reached Victoria on Aug. 24. After spending a week at Victoria, he came east. He left this afternoon for Toronto, where tomorrow he takes the C. P. R. for Victoria, en route for his post n the far north. To an Advertiser reporter Mr. Harrison stated that Governor Ross was slowly improving in health. He is now able to walk a little and drives out daily. He will shortly leave Dawson City to visit his sisters in Los Angeles. Cal., where he will spent a month or two in resting.

ent juncture, as he must hold himself aloof from the excitement of the election campaign in which he is the principal figure. Governor Ross is the Liberal candidate for the honor of being the Yukon Territory's first member in the Dominion Parliament. No Conservative candidate is likely to be brought forward. Governor Ross's op-ponent is Joseph A. Clark, a former employe of the Dominion gold commissioner's office, but for some time past the editor of the Klondike Miner, a labor paper. Mr. Harrison says that there is little doubt of the result, but at the same time Governor Ross' friends would feel safer were he able to step into the campaign himself.

Things have been quieter than usual at Dawson City during the past summer. The projected construction of a railway from the city to some of the principal mining properties brought an influx of labor from the coast, but the scheme fell through and left the labor market overstocked.

Little gold had been brought out before Mr. Harrison left Dawson, but the heavy accumulations in the banks are now being shipped in a hurry, as navigation is unsafe after Oct. 1. By the operation of the new export tax the production of gold is ascertained more easily than under the royalty system. Any detected attempt to smuggle gold out is punished by the confiscation of the entire amount of the precious metal, and few care to take chances on losing all their store for the sake of escaping the tax.

Mr. Harrison says that there seems to be general satisfaction with existing conditions among the miners of the district. All admire Gov. Ross and his administration has been generally ac-Governor Ross's weak condition is ceptable to all classes.

FOUND DEAD. Windsor, Sept. 14. — Mrs. Peter Thresher, of Sandwich, was horrified yesterday morning when she discovered that her husband had died by her side in bed during the night. She awoke quite early and called her husand, and receiving no response to her request that he get up, she placed her hand on his face and found him cold in death. The use of a commercial flag and the fact that the boats were not armed could not divest the proposal of its real character. Count Lamsdorf clearly had in view creating a precedent which would enable Russia to build up a powerful fleet of warships in the Black Sea and by the subterfuge of temporary disarmament of the vessels, to maintain close naval communications with the Russian Mediterranean

Baden-Powell and other officers. The party will proceed on an extended tour in the Western Transvaal, the most fertile part of the country. A large number of Boers are already back on patriation and settlement having progressed more quickly in that section than any other. Tours like this will bring the governor of the Transvaal into closer touch with the people of outlying districts.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 15.-William Carey, who has just returned to his home in this city, after having served from the beginning to the end of the South African compaign, declares that there is no truth whatever in the statement that General Buller ever advised General White to surrender Ladysmith. Carey says he knows this because he was a signalist on the heliographs on the day the advice of surrender was said to have been transmitted. Gen. White signaled that he thought it would be impossible for him to hold out, Gen. Buller, according to Carey, heliographed:

"If your must surrender, get the best conditions possible for your men." This, says Carey, is the only connection in which Gen. Buller used the word "surrender," and every one of us "commended him for good advice."

BRITISH POLITICAL CAMPAIGN. The autumn political campaign will be initiated before the end of the present month. The Liberal party leaders are organizing a vigorous attack on the Government's education bill, and unless Mr. Balfour can see his way to grant a concession on the vital question of popular control there will be some difficulty in forcing the bill through Parliament this year. autumn session is ostensibly to be devoted to the education scheme, but in all probability Ireland will again block the way, as it is not to be expected that the Nationalists will miss such an opportunity of drawing attention to the coercion policy of the Government and the recent wholesale proclamations under the crimes act.

The German army maneuvers have been more spectacular than usual, owing to two cavalry charges led by the Emperor, but they have not revealed any marked changes in tactics and methods. The English press does not attempt to conceal its contempt for the military authorities on the continent who disregarded the practical lessons of the Boer war and carried out artificial and theatrical maneuvers without reference to the altered conditions of modern warfare. This is a fair ac of retaliatory criticism. The British staff throughout the Boer war was ridiculed by the military critics abroad for lack of flexibility in dealing with the exceptonal conditions of warfare. It can now retort that while contin ental nations are playing at war in maneuvers, Britain has a quarter of a million of veterans who have learned to use rifles and fight in a practical

DISCUSSION ON TRUSTS. The British Association has promptly taken up the question of trusts. Prof. Graham was purely speculative in discussing the beneficial effect and profit, but Prof. Ginsbury was definite enough in condemning the policy of the Morgan combination in buying costly ships and attempting to earn enough to pay dividends on vastly inflated capital. Sir Bosdin Leech waved his plumes as a sturdy free trader against trusts on either side of the Atlantic, and Prof. Clarke, Sydney Young and other debaters took a similar line, and forecasted the economic results of capitalist combinations which would be detrimental to the interests of the working classes. VERY LARGE FUNERAL. One of the largest funerals in the history of the Township of London was that of the late Mr. Fenton Fitzgerald. which took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, London Township, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. J. H. Fair, of Siloam, London Township, conducted the services. The pall-bearers were Messrs. George and Fred Fitzgerald, Thomas and John Knapton, S. Corwell and J. Birrell. Mr. Fitzgerald is survived by his wife, five daughters and two sons. CHRIS FITZGERALD IMPROVING.

The New York Telegraph's item of yesterday concerning Starter Fitzgerald's condition will be gratifying to Londoners in general. It says: "Dr. Murphy is well pleased at the condition of Starter Fitzgerald and said last evening that there is a marked improvement. He added that unless some unforeseen happens Mr. Fitz something unforeseen happens, Mr. Fitzgerald will again be able to start horses. Many inquiries are made regarding the patient, and the cheering reports are welcome.

VERY LARGE METEOR. Mr. J. W. Agur, superintendent of the dairy building at the Western Fair, was proceeding from his home to the fair grounds with his son this morning about half past five, when he saw a very large meteor appear in the southwest and travel towards the north. Mr. Augur says that the meteor was plainly visible for four seconds, and left a train of fire behind it which remained visible for ten minutes. Mr. Agur says that it was quite the prettiest thing he ever saw, the sight of a lifetime

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN. An old resident of London has passed away in the persons of Mr. John Parker, who died early on Saturday, the 13th inst. Mr. Parker, who was a carriage trimmer, moved with his family from Guelph to this city in the year 167, residing the greater part of the time at 468 Wellington street, but later removed to No. 2 Thornton avenue. Mr. Parker was born in Clitheroe, near Blackburn, Lancashire, England, Oct. 27, 1819, and was a grandson of Admiral Sir Hyde Parker. Mr. Parker had a family of ten children, six of whom survive him: Mrs. J. J. Oakeshott, Toronto; John H., Alfred and Joseph C., of Guelph; Mrs. W. Percival, of this city, and Mrs. W. Gunn, of Amherstburg. The funeral will take place from the family residence at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning to the G. T. R. station to Hamilton.

ONE CASE FOR THE GRAND JURY

Mr. W. H. Bartram Moves for Leave to Prefer Indictment Against City of London.

The fall sitting of the court of assize, oyer and terminer, and general jail delivery opened before Mr. Justice Lount at the court house at 2 p.m. today, one hour later than the time set for the opening. There was only a small crowd present at the opening of the court. The present sitting loses much of its importance from the fact that the Sifton case will not be tried by Judge Lount, as he was interested in it as counsel in its early stages. The Graham-Kilbourne case, in which a true bill was returned at the last assizes, will probably go on tomorrow, while the McArthur case will go before the grand jury at an early moment. Among those in attendance are noticed many of the witnesses in hadn't much time to spare. In the the Sifton case, for all are bound over to appear at the assize to testify should case be called. Dr. Alexander Graham was also present to deliver himself up for trial on the charge of murdering the infant child of Emma

London Township, having died since the serving of the jurors, another juror was appointed in his stead. Two county councilors, Messrs. Bradley and Grigg, are members of the grand jury. As has been usual at the assizes for the past couple of years a double panel of petit jurors has been called, making

TO INDICT THE CITY. When the grand jury retired to choose their foreman, Mr. W. H. Bartram arose and moved, on notice to the ity clerk, for an order that he be at liberty to prefer an indictment before the grand jury, against the City of London for a common nuisance in respect of the neglect of the city officials in not putting and keeping Cavendish street in West London, between Wilson avenue and the residence of Joseph Andrews, in a safe and fit state of repair, either for vehicles or pedestrians, and leaving it in a dangerous condition, contrary to the common law and to the statutory law of Ontario.

Directors Sanguine That the Western Fair of 1902 Will Surpass All Others.

This was the first real day of the Western Fair. Heretofore it has been a preparatory period, during which intending exhibitors have been arranging their displays and the men who are directly concerned in the fair's success have been working all hours attention. Even the balloon man, with greens and the exhibits are very neatof the day to get things ready for the opening. It has been an arduous task, but the directors and committeemen were satisfied today that their efforts had not been fruitless. To a great extent their task is a thankless one, for in the hustle and bustle of an opening day everyone is on the rush, and is prone to be exacting. But today was no worse in this respect than many another opening day has been, and as the directors themselves say, they are always glad to escape with their lives. The two most worried men on the grounds in the early part of the morning were Secretary Nelles and Chairman Waterman, of the main building. Wherever either of them went a mob of anxious men followed them, all speaking at once and gesticulating fiercely. These were the disappointed space-seekers and passhunters, the men who could not get crowd of children assembled in histhe places they wanted for their displays and others who thought that a passes for their families and visiting cousins. Mr. Nelles, strangely enough. thought otherwise, and told them so without much waste of words, for with all his other business to attend to he meantime Mr. Waterman was rushing around the offices and the main building, pulling out big wads of hair and trying vainly to elude a swarm of would-be exhibitors who had their goods there, but no place to put them in. His was the sorry job. But be- day. fore the morning was over he had fair will be on Thursday next. them pretty well satisfied and by noon a contented smile wreathed his countenance.

Mr. W. M. Spencer, chairman of the gates and tickets committee, was one of the busiest men on the grounds and one of the happiest. The magnificent weather which had been vouchsafed to the opening day had had its effect upon his temperament, and he explained his contented looks by announcing that he had it on the best, though private, authority that the same brand of weather was to last through all this week-at least until 11 o'clock Friday night. Another thing which had its influence upon him was the excellent attendance. For a first day it was little short of phenomenal, and far surpassed the expectations of any of the directors. This was Chilany of the directors. This was Children's Day, besides being opening day, figures. His marine is very beautiful and without any exaggeration there in coloring.

Kilties Cadets an Interesting Once inside the gates, they invariably made a rush for the main building, where they had a high old time with the distributors of advertising cards, fans and the various other articles, the collection of which brings WEATHER CONDITIONS IDEAL joy to the youthful heart. Having once viewed the splendid displays which make the palace attractive, they sallied out to investigate with wondering eyes and manifest interest all the other astonishing and delightful features which make up the fair.

GREAT DAY FOR CHILDREN

They Are Out in Thousands and Own Queen's Park Today.

After all it is the children who get the greatest degree of pleasure out of the fair. To them everything is new and wonderful, nothing unworthy of his big bunch of bright colored spheres, diligently by an eager army of small in quantity and quality. boys and girls.

Today is children's day, and from an early hour in the morning they came in thousands. Seldom has so great a toric Queen's Park. In their eagerness they found the street cars too slow to suit them and in many instances numbers should entitle them to all the bers of them left the cars a block from the grounds and ran the remainder of the distance. The ticket sellers and gatemen had their hands full all the time.

The numerous side shows and Midway exhibitions proved a never-ending source of delight. The children flitted about among them like a swarm of bees and the picture machines and snake charmers did a rushing busi-

THE KILTIES CADETS.

A special and a novel feature today was the presence of the London Kilties Cadet Corps who made their first public appearance. The two companies paraded at 12:30 at the drill shed and from thence marched direct to the exhibition grounds. The sturdy young lads, most of whom are of Scotch extraction, made a brave appearance in their new kilts, and were frequently cheered along the line of march. Their marching and general bearing, considering that this was their initial march out, was admirable, and showed the careful training they have received at the hands of Mr. Munro, sergt .major of No. 1 Company, R. C. R. I. The kilties were in command of Mr. Munro, and the two companies were officered as follows: No. 1 company: Captain Arthur Reid, First Lieutenant MacRobert, Second Lieutenant Colin Duffield, Sergeants Jack Ferguson, Tom Purdom, Frank Horner, Russell Spry. No. 2 company: Captain Wemyss Chisholm, First Lieutenant Stewart Harold Fraser, Melbourne Brock and Murray Eastwood.

IN THE PALACE OF ARTS

The Exhibits Are Unusually Large and Beautiful.

The palace is just as big, just as crowded, and just as attractive as ever. All the piano and organ exhibits are on the ground floor and each has its ody for the admiration of visitors. Tea, cocoa and cigars for the refreshment exhibits delight the eye.

A. Screaton & Co. and John Ferguson & Co. both have fine displays of furniture and draping, artistically arranged. Carling and Labatt each have imposing towers of their wares, and Hobbs has a very beautiful display of glass. Smallman & Ingram, Grafton, and Oak Hall have handsome displays of clothing for men and women. Upstairs the Canadian Pacific Railway have a very large and really beautiful exhibit of Canadian grains and farm products. Upstairs also Miss MacLaren and Miss Freeman are in charge of the ladies' exhibit, which includes sewing and fancy work of every description, from darning and patching, to fine lacc work and embroidery. The ladies in charge say that it is a larger exhibit and shows a better class of work than any they have ever had, the improvement in lace work being especially noticeable.

Mrs. C. Leonard, Mrs. Talbot Macbeth and the main building committee have charge of the art exhibit, which is of good size and in quality is undoubtedly the best the fair has ever had. Special attention should be directed to Mr. Fleming's marine views. Artists and critics unite in saying that Mr. Fleming has undoubtedly the host work on exhibition, although Mr. F. Bell-Smith follows him very closely. His "Lights of a City Street" is very cleverly handled, and shows wonderful a dozen pictures of especial merit. Among the city exhibitors Mr. S. K. Davidson has several fine pictures in oils and water colors, chiefly por-traits. Miss Farncombe has a pretty a very fine portrait, and Mr. Munnoch has an excellent view of the River Thames. The usual exhibit of amateur work is much ahead of previous years. The china painting is up to the usual Miss Burnett, and Miss Hendershott having some especially beautiful work, but the greatest improve-ment in any line is in amateur landscape photography, Mr. Cecil Webbe's work being superior to that of many professionals. Mr. Westlake and Mr. Frank Cooper are the only professional exhibitors. Mr. Westlake having an exhibit of fine photographs on a new kind of paper, Coloplatin while Mr. Cooper has a beautiful and artistically arranged display of photography of every kind.

The honey exhibit is unusually attractive, both in appearance and taste, Messrs. Rudd, Kimball and Colman being the chief exhibitors. There is also a very fair showing of preserved fruits, and an unusually large exhibit of cream separators, eight firms being represented. Tomorrow afternoon an interesting churning and butter-making competition will be held in the dairy hall. One end of the hall has been fitted up with the very latest and newest churning appliances and is very prettily decorated. During the process of the butter-making Miss Miller, of the Model farm at Guelph, will lecture to the public. The competition will be held at the same hour every day and will prove more than interesting to everybody. even to those who are not ordinarily interested in butter-making and especially so to those who are.

One of the directors reported a rather disagreeable incident in which he was a participant yesterday. While near the fair grounds on Dundas street he saw a man helping a number of boys into the grounds, and upon remonstrating with him, was roughly handled. It transpired subsequently that the offender was a committeeman, whose pass, of course, was confiscated, and the director concerned sketch of ladies on the seashore, and was highly commended for his action in the matter.

The London Floral Company applied yesterday to make an entry, but as this company had been late in previous years in making its entry were not permitted to make a display this year.

An economical but somewhat unscrupulous supply wagen driver was caught using a 1900 pass, and the gate keeper this morning quietly discon-nected him from it. He will have to pay not only for a new pass, but also for his Saturday admission Col. Gartshore was empowered to name an awarding committee, and his choice rested upon the following gentlemen: Messis. Garishore, J. W. Little, I. Waterman, G. M. Reid, G. McCormick, A. M. EVEN ALD. COOPER STOPPED. A series of amusing incidents occurred yesterday at the gates. Not the least interesting of these was one in which Ald. Cooper was a principal figure. He went there without ticket or badge, expecting that the imposing presence of Ald. Cooper would be sufficient to secure his admittance. The man on the gate, however, was no respecter of persons, and would not let the chairman of the board of works pass, notwithstanding that he was stormed at in the furious fashion which is peculiar to Ald. Cooper.

Madame Livinski.

Madame Livinski, the celebrated palmist, who has visited London two years in succession, is again installed in the main building, her booth being opposite the Carling exhibit. Doubtless many of her old friends will avail themselves of this opportunity of again consulting her.

THE SIFTON CASE.

His lordship announced this afternoon that the Sifton case would be postponed till the next competent court of jurisdiction.

The witnesses were bound over to appear when called for.

POLICE COURT.

John Harris, Talbot street, keeper of a disorderly house, was fined $25 at police court this morning, as the result of a raid made last night by the police. His wife, charged with being an inmate, was discharged, as was John Tucker, a frequenter. A local barber was charged by his wife, a very respectable, hard-working woman, with assault. He had been drinking heavily, and she said he caught her by the throat and choked her. The magistrate found him guilty and released him on his own recognizances to appear a week from Saturday. The couple will likely come to some agreement during that time. A number of persons charg-ed with minor offenses were dealt

So she merely answered: "When I was a young girl, and my barents were living, I spent a few weeks in New York, and went a good deal into society, and I am quite sure that this Mr. Arthur Halstead is the same gentleman whom I met at that time. I afterward heard of his marriage to a Miss ida Montrose, but I have never seen him since. I am very glad, howover, that you lent them such manly assistance today; and I am glad, too, that they know you are my boy," she concluded, fondly. "Now," she added, after a moment of dience, "I am going to send you away; for I wish to get all the rest I can, so as to be fresh again tomorrow morning. Good-night, Rich; you are such a comfort to me."

She drew him down to her, and kissed

She drew him down to her, and kissed him on his lips and forehead, and then, with a smile and a fond pat on his cheek, she sent him downstairs to Mrs. Allen, who, she said, must be lonely.

But as soon as the door closed after him she buried her face in her pillow, with a heartbroken sob.

"So near and yet so far," she murmured. "I cannot bear it even now, after all these long years; and if it were not for that dear boy, the future would seem almost unendurable to me."

She still had the card which Rich had given her, and laying it beneath her cheek, she fell to sobbing as if her heart were breaking.

re breaking. I am weak, weak," she cried, "to love a man who is the husband of another; but I cannot help it—I gave myself to him for all time in those sweet old days. Oh. Arthur! we made a lifelong mistake—or, rather, I made a great mistake; I never should have yielded to papa; I ought to have considered our mutual happiness, and not tried to right me wrong by committing another. Yet t is folly and weakness to grieve so vildly at this late day." But Audrey Waldemar was not a weak woman, notwithstanding she had broken down so completly upon learning that Arthur Halstead had been so near her She fought her grief out by herselffought with her regrets, her longings and her undying love, until she gained the victory and came forth from her chamber the next morning her own lovely self once more. She was a trifle paler than usual, but as sweet and calm as if no tempest of grief had swept over her, bowing her proud spirit to the very earth. But the peaceful quiet and the enjoy-ment of that mountain retreat was over for her; a strange restlessness took posfor her; a strange restlessness took pos-session of her, and only a few days later she informed Mrs. Allen that she had decided, after all, to act upon her sug-gestion and take a trip up through the Canadas, and then return to New York. Accordingly, a week from the very day on which Rich left Arthur Halstead and his invalid wife, they left the green hills of Vermont and turned their steps still farther porth. still farther north.

They proceeded to Quebec, where they spent two or three days, and then took a steamer up the St. Lawrence to Mon-On the steamer they found a large company of tourists, and among them Audrey was delighted to meet a couple of friends, who were traveling with a party of young people about Rich's age, or a little older.

party of young people about rich's age, or a little older.

There were four young ladies from fourteen to eighteen, and two lads of fifteen or sixteen, and they were as gay and happy as it is possible for young people to be.

"It will be so nice for Rich," Audrey said to Mrs. Allen, "for he has never had much society, and I shall accept Mrs. Campbell's invitation to join their party; their plans are very nearly the same as ours, and it will be pleasanter for us all."

same as ours, and it will be pleasanter for us all."

There were also on board the steamer two characters who afforded considerable amusement to the more aesthetic pleasure-seekers about them.

They were Mr. George Washington Starkey and Miss Martha Ann Starkey, of Starkeyville, Maine.

The former was about fifty years of age. He was tall and large of frame.

The former was about fifty years of age. He was tall and large of frame, with an awkward manner and gait. His face as very plain, but expressive of boundless good nature, and he had a scant supply of hair and no beard. His dress consisted of a pair of light trousers, a long-taled black coat and vest, a stand-up collar, and a tall hat.

There was a party of eight besides himself, four of whom were young people.

They worked busily all the forenoon, They worked busily all the forenoon, and pails and baskets were rapidly filled with the fragrant, crimson fruit, and when the dinner hour came everyone was hungry for the cold chicken, tongue and ham, bread and cheese and doughnuts, and all those homely dainties that never taste as well anywhere else as they do in the country.

Then, as they lounged about, after they had dined, for an hour or so before resuming their berry-picking, Rich, boylike, started off by himself upon an exploring expedition.

He loved the mountains and forests—they inspired him with awe and reverence by their grandeur and strength.

Today he came across some lovely gray mosses and lichens, and knowing how delighted she would be with them, he fashioned a little basket out of some slender twigs, decorating it with partridge vines and berries, and then filled it with his treasures.

It was a dainty little woodland offering, and after it was completed he went on climbing the steep mountain side until suddenly he emerged from the dense forest into a road.

THE TRIGGER.

BRITISHERS WIN PALMA TRO-

presented by the riflemen of the Unit- a victory from the Struthers. The ed States for competition between the scores: rifle associations of the world, was won today by the British team, after the hardest struggle ever fought on Rockcliffe range, if not, indeed, one of the keenest ever witnessed in the world. The total scores far surpassed those of last year, when the Canadians captured the magnificent trophy and brought it to Canada. They lost it today, but there was no hard feeling Being loyal Britons, the Canadians were glad to see it go to the motherland, but no one would have begrudged it to the Americans, who put up a magnificent fight and showed themselves true sportsmen. GLOOMY AT THE START. The weather was somewhat gloom it the start, but the day was not to bad on the whole, and from early morning a large crowd witnessed th competition. Lieut.-Col. Hon. J. M. Gibson, presi dent of the D. R. A., was referee, and only one challenge was made durin yards. At the 800-yard range, the Americans had a lead of 22 over the British and 42 over the Canadians, and things looked to be a "cinch" for Uncle Sam's men.

At the 900-yard range, however, they fell behind, two of their team going to pieces.

The British team went to the 1,000yard range with a lead of 12, and just held their own, the match ending with a majority of 12 for John Bull's representatives.

EXCITING FOR A WHILE. For a while it was exciting. One of the Britons made a miss, and the lead fell off to about 5. It looked like nip and tuck, but a few shots made them come ahead again. It was Roberts, 1, f. . . . 3 a splendid finish. Instead of weakening or unnerving under the excitement, Fraser and Lawrence piled on bullseye after bullseye, and, when the last shot was fired, at 5:45 o'clock, H the struggle was over, and victory was with the British. The last two shots for the British were bullseyes, while, in contradistinction, the last two for the Canadians were goose eggs. At the close the Reid. teams gathered together and gave one another lusty cheers.

The Palma trophy is both a handsome and expensive trophy. In design it resembles a Roman standard. It is about six feet high, made of ebony, silver and bronze, inlaid with gold and elaborately carved. Suspended to it are a number of bronze plates encir-signed Fred Abbott, of New Orleans,

After the match adjournment was made to the D. R. A. executive building, where Lieut.-Col. Gibson called on the Governor-General to present the trophy to Major Freemantle, for the winning team, and said that the competition was the keenest he had ever witnessed. He omplimented the Americans on their pluck and hoped that next year Americans, Canadians, Australians. South Africans, and other teams would all compete for the prize. Major Freemantle made a neat reply, expressing the gratification of the team at the result, but said it was a poor way to requite the Canadians for so many favors and kindnesses to steal the shield from them. His excellency then presented Lieut. Holcomb, of the American team, with the gold medal for the highest individual score. He made 194—two more than Sergt. Lawrence, of the British team. The plucky fellow was given three cheers led by Col. Gibson. The bronze medals were presented to all the competitors on behalf of the D. R. A., and the struggle for 1902 passed into history. The total scores of each man was as follows:

Chicago, Sept. 13.-Jockey Winslett made a farce out of the mile race against the world's record of 1:37 4-5 between Jiminez and Rose Tree, by position to the Corbett-McGovern easing up the latter all through the last eighth of a mile. That the Corrigan mare was easily the better of the two there could be no doubt, as the race was run today, but the time of 1:39 3-5 was not within a second and two-fifths of the track record. What caused Winslett to ease Rose Tree up when he knew the race was against time was a puzzle to the judges as well as the public. The two took a flying start and raced head and head to the back stretch, where Jiminez forged to the front by a length and a half and took the rail. At the far turn Rose Tree again joined him and turning for home had a length to the good. Jiminez was plainly beaten, but regardless of the fact that the breaking of the record was the main with James J. Ryan certainly looks to be in grand shape and is even younger in appearnace than when he last boxed in Buffalo four years ago. On being asked what he thought of his chance of retaining the middleweight title, Ryan replied, "I came here to win, and, of course if I did not think I could defeat Carter I would never have made the match. Herreshoffs has been notified that a cup defender is wanted, and he is now making arrangements so that the new boat can started as soon as possible after the challenge has been received and accepted. A syndicate is to be formed to defray the cost of building and running the boat, and it is said that ex-Commodore E. D. Morgan, who last year had charge of the Columbia, is to head the syndicate and will sail the new boat. There has been some talk of Cornelius Vanderbilt having a cup defender built instead of a big schooner. Mr. Vanderbilt has become a very enthusiastic yachtsman, and on the Rainbow this year he has had E. A. Williard and Capt. Clayton Huff. The Rainbow has won her share of prizes, and there is no reason why a 90-footer in the same hands should not do well. Little work will have to be done with the Columbia and Constitution to fit them out for the season. They will want new sails, but that is all, and it is understood that the Herreshoffs are already at work on the sails, so that they will not be bothered with the work when they have lots of other work to do later on. The organ is shortly to be replaced by a new pipe organ, which will cost about $1,000, making, together with other expenditure, a total outlay of $1,300, but it is expected that special contributions will cover the whole expense, so that there will be no expense in the mortgage indebtedness. The choir was assisted yesterday by Mr. Charles Maynard, while Miss Agnes McIndoe presided at the organ.

A RISING CANADIAN ARTIST

Something About the Work of Mr. Alexander Fleming

Fame as a Painter.

Mr. Alexander Fleming, the rising young Canadian artist, whose work has attracted much attention, not only a collection of paintings on exhibition at the Western Fair which are very well worth seeing.

Mr. Fleming was born near Chatham and, like so many successful his other work in order to draw. His work at this period was in black and white and his first paints were made "Why," said Mr. Fleming to an Advertiser reporter today, "I was so bled together today for divine woryoung that I didn't even know that ship. in company with other artists and then returned to Canada, taking another trip up the lakes for the purpose of studying the scenery. He remained in Canada for a year studying and developing the ideas he had received and then went abroad.

He spent three years on the continent, visiting England, Ireland, France, Italy and Switzerland, and one year on the coasts of Cornwall, making a study of the seashore especially. Be-fore Mr. Fleming's visit to the continent, he had devoted himself, for the most part, to landscape and animal painting, but his first glimpse of the sea made him resolve to devote himself henceforth to marine painting and he has confined himself almost entirely to work of that character ever since.

Mr. Fleming did not exhibit in any of the public exhibitions and academies while abroad although he received very high compliments on his work from painters of the Royal Academy, members of the Royal Art Club and other ing's pictures were sold in England. Returning from the continent, Mr. Fleming settled in New York where he is rapidly gaining a reputation for himself in his chosen line of work, is meant and say it in a way that customers will know what is meant. Although the members of the little band of Agapemonites declare their belief in their leader and his claims to divinity, it is sad to relate that not one new convert has been made during the week. In fact, Mr. Piggot's reception by the crowd that is now is decidedly hostile.
