

THROGS ENJOY INGERSOLL FAIR

Concluding Day Best in History of Fall Exhibition.

BABY SHOW FEATURED

New Improvements To Grounds Commended by 6,000 Visitors.

(By Staff Reporter.)

INGERSOLL, Oct. 3.—Favored by excellent weather as on Monday, the Ingersoll, North and West Oxford fair was brought to a very successful close Tuesday night. The fair was conceded by officials to be the best and largest in the history of the exhibition, and all the officers were jubilant over the interest shown.

Early Tuesday throngs began to wend their way through the turnstiles and in the afternoon the grounds were crowded. The races before the new grandstand provided an attraction of intense interest, and the grandstand was filled to capacity. The Ingersoll Citizens' Band furnished music during the afternoon.

Early this summer, George P. Jones, the secretary-treasurer, explained, the new grandstand was built, and the races Tuesday were the first to be run off on the new half-mile track. The track was in excellent condition, and the races were run off without a hitch.

The grounds have been improved since last year, and a large hill that formerly obstructed the view has been removed. On all sides were heard the most enthusiastic of congratulations being tendered to officials of the fair.

Splendid Exhibits.

The exhibits on the grounds were many and varied. Some fine farm machinery was shown. There were also exhibits of leading clothing manufacturers, "Hotdogs" and "ham-burgs" and plenty of other refreshments were available at a number of booths, and novelties for the kiddies found a ready sale.

One of the big features was the baby show, the results of which were as follows:

One year and under—Mrs. Archie McCoombs, Mrs. Harry Burton, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. W. J. Tunks, Mrs. James Roberts.

Under six months—Mrs. Oswald Jones, Mrs. Alfred Chute, Mrs. Thomas Ryan, Mrs. George Davies, Mrs. James Vance.

The attendance in actual figures could not be learned. But Miss A. Moon, the assistant secretary estimated from gate returns at 6 p. m., that over 6,000 had passed through the turnstiles. Children under 12 years were admitted free. There were over 600 on the grandstand.

Dancing Popular.

An additional attraction in front of the grandstand was the Highland dancing competition. Real Scottish music for the dancing was furnished under the direction of Pipe-Major Johnston.

The results of the Highland dancing were as follows:

Highland fling—Marjorie Maxwell, Ingersoll; Violet Gilmore, London; Ivy Baldwin, London.

Sword dance—Ivy Baldwin, Marjorie Maxwell, Andy Adams, Ingersoll.

Irish jig—Ivy Baldwin, Violet Gilmore, Ruth Fitzgerald, London; Ivy Baldwin, Ruth Fitzgerald.

Special prize, Highland fling—Barbara Maxwell, 7 years old.

Immediately after the Highland dancing, the prize winning live stock was paraded before the grandstand, and from the interest evinced by the spectators, who were not able to find accommodation on the crowded grandstand, overflowed on both sides of the track, the live stock parade was easily the feature of the afternoon.

Bank of Montreal Closes Albert Street Department At Stratford.

STRATFORD, Oct. 3.—The Albert street branch of the Bank of Montreal, formerly the Bank of Commerce, will be absorbed into the main offices of the bank, Downie street, on Saturday next. Since the absorption of the Merchants Bank by the Bank of Montreal, the two local branches have been maintained as separate institutions. The amalgamation to take place on Saturday is in the interests of economy, eliminating the extra expense of maintaining two separate buildings. There are to be no dismissals from the staff of the Albert street branch, it was stated, all the employees being absorbed by the Bank of Montreal. It is the intention to hold the Albert street building for sale.

A meeting of exhibitors in the chamber of commerce rooms it was unanimously decided that there would be a "Made in Stratford" exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto next year.

SUES MAN WHO BURNED BARN

Springford Farmer Asks Damages From Charles Veale, Convicted of Arson.

Eli Barnim Enters Action For Alleged Pollution of Creek.

(Special to London Advertiser.)

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 3.—About a year ago the residents of the vicinity of Springford village in the southern part of the county were stirred by the mysterious burning of the barns on the farm of Eli Barnim in the village, and also of a house on the same property, and the subsequent conviction of Charles Veale of Springford, and his sentence to five years' imprisonment on the charge of arson.

An interesting sequel to the above now comes up for hearing at the supreme court next week, when Eli Barnim, whose property was burned, seeks to recover from the convicted man $5,000 damages for burning down his property. The insurance on the property amounted to only $1,800, and the amount sued for is to cover the balance of the loss.

After Veale had spent a short time in Kingston Penitentiary, in addition to the sentence at the supreme court, and since then has been released on parole. It is understood Veale has some property, and on that ground the action is being taken. Previous to the burning of the Barnim property there had been a dispute between Barnim and the patrons of the Springford Cheese Factory, managed by Robert Myrick, regarding the pollution of a creek running through his farm by the refuse from Myrick's factory. Barnim now sues Myrick for $2,000 damages.

This pollution, he claims, has been going on for four years. The case also comes up at the supreme court. Some time ago Judge Wallace issued an injunction ordering defendants to stop emptying waste into the creek, but the injunction was not obeyed.

Massey of New Zealand, says a Reuter dispatch from Wellington, in addressing a country electorate, said, "It is very disappointing to us all to realize that, while we are still troubled by the aftermath of the Great War, we may be called upon again to do our duty to our country and empire, but if the clash comes I know I am right in saying the people of New Zealand will stand up to it, and do their duty, and take the consequences, whatever they may be. The future is in the hands of Providence. All we can do is to leave it there and hope for the best."

KITCHENER, Oct. 3.—In reply to a request from Ald. Massel for some system whereby fallen leaves can be burned by householders in the city and others whose property becomes littered by the sudden fall occasioned by heavy frosts, Fire Chief Guerin has given distinct warning that under no consideration will burning of leaves be tolerated on the city streets. He informs Ald. Massel that such a practice is distinctly forbidden by both Dominion and provincial fire laws. He stated that the only system for the disposal of leaves by burning which he will allow to be followed in this city is that of burning them at the rear of premises under proper supervision and with the official permission of the fire department. He declared that any citizens found transgressing the regulations in this respect will be rigorously prosecuted.

Two days after his sentence Brown saw his opportunity and effected his escape. A posse was immediately formed, but he managed to elude his pursuers. Since that time he has managed to keep away from Chatham. Chief Groves was quite surprised when Brown walked in and gave himself up, the latter stating that his freedom was playing on his conscience.

DEFERS ACTION PENDING REPORT

Propose Commission Form of Government For St. Thomas Public Utilities.

Council Awaits Consensus of Opinion From Conference of Various Committees.

(Special to London Advertiser.)

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 3.—That there is a possibility of an utilities commission being formed in the city was indicated at the council meeting Tuesday night when, on a motion of Alderman W. McIntyre, No. 1 committee was asked to confer with the hydro commission, the water commission and the street railway, the gas and the parks committees, with this end in view.

As the matter now stands, a report will be made as soon as the various conferences can be arranged, and the advisability of the proposed move will be discussed.

There was no discussion of Alderman McIntyre's motion, and the feeling appeared to be that no opinion should be expressed until the attitude of the various committees and commissions was ascertained.

The matter of a local fuel controller was discussed at the opening of the meeting, but it was decided that the matter should be left in the hands of No. 4 committee for the present. In support of the proposition, Alderman Stokes associated the fact of coal selling for $15.50 in Toronto with the institution of a controller there. Prices in other places were $18 and $19 a ton, he pointed out. Alderman P. McKean was disinclined to follow this line of argument. He declared that prices in the province were usually set by Toronto, and he thought that if coal were selling at $15.50 in Toronto it would soon be a prevailing price.

No. 4 committee will continue to handle the fuel situation this winter, it was decided.

In carrying out their program to install permanent playgrounds in the city, the Kiwanis club feel that the time is ripe to buy the Spohn's flats property and the brickyards, east of Third avenue, and to assist them in their project they asked the council to relieve them from taxes for a term of years until the grounds should be sold for. W. F. L. Edwards, who spoke on behalf of the club, pointed out that permanent playgrounds would have no less beneficial effect on the city's prosperity than factories for whom the city was frequently willing to forego the collection of taxes. The question will be looked into by the finance committee.

To assist the Elgin Short-horn Breeders' Association in their fair to be held shortly, the council donated $15 for a trophy.

After a good deal of discussion, the proposition of the St. Thomas Metal Signs for the rental of part of the street car barns on Talbot street west was accepted. The company will take possession of the barns for $10,000 for the year, and will pay for such alterations as they find necessary. It is understood that the sheds will be used to add an electrical sign department. The council felt that the value of the industry to the city was worth any expenditure necessary to refit the barns to accommodate the cars.

In presenting the report of the gas committee, Ald. P. Lemon refused to foster the resolution in the report that the gas bylaw for $10,000 for new water mains be again put to the popular vote. His opinion was generally favored by the council, the feeling being that at this time it was unwise to ask the people to spend any large sum of money.

Ald. John Jagoe brought up the matter of municipal control of the police, a question which was opened at the last meeting. His proposition was to obtain the co-operation of other cities in having the law changed so that instead of the police being responsible to a police commission, they would be responsible to the council as a whole. City Solicitor W. B. Doherty said that efforts in this direction had been made before, but had been unsuccessful. Some such action will however be taken.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 3.—A 35-mile-an-hour wind today fed a series of fires which have broken out in the Kelsey, Sax, Meadowland and Fernie districts, according to the reports at the office of the state foresters. HURON INSPECTOR MAKES ARRESTS

Several Young Men Charged With Breaches of Temperance Act At Wingham.

(Special to London Advertiser.)

GODERICH, Oct. 3.—Two young men of Wingham appeared before Magistrate C. A. Reid here on Monday evening, charged with being intoxicated in a public place. The young men were found by Inspector Fellow and Constable Wallace, dead to the world, in a hotel at Wingham, about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. In police court here they pleaded guilty to the charges and paid handsome fines, also costs.

An urgent call came from Wingham Saturday night about 1 o'clock, that a big homebrew feast was taking place in a dwelling on Main street, opposite the skating rink. Inspector Fellow at once got his high-powered machine into action, and started out at the early hour Sunday morning to investigate, which had good results. In the dwelling, Inspector Fellow found the man of the house on the bed intoxicated, and whom he did not disturb from his slumbers, as he had the evidence, at any rate, as the goods were there, which he brought to Goderich with him. There were several frequenters at the place Saturday night, one other being found intoxicated.

As a result the two have settled their fines and in no way helped the other fellows who are to follow, as a number of informations are being laid by the inspector, and these will probably appear before Magistrate C. A. Reid in police court, which is to be held in Wingham, some time soon.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 3.—School teachers from St. Thomas and West Elgin to the number of 110 will on Oct. 12 and 13 visit the schools of Windsor and Detroit. The original intention was to visit Toronto, but owing to meetings of two other institutes being held in Toronto on the same dates, it was thought advisable to alter their plans.

On Friday they will be met in Detroit by the Detroit Department of Education and taken to some of their elementary schools. Both Detroit and Windsor are extending the hospitalities of the cities to the visiting teachers. A delightful time is anticipated. At noon on Friday they will be lunched in Windsor at the Prince Edward School, and at the Prince Edward Cafeteria on Friday they will be lunched at the new Cass Technical High School, which cost over five and one-half million dollars.

OUTLINES TEST AT SANATORIUM

Dr. Ramsey Addresses Western Academy of Medicine at Byron.

Institutional Experts Lecture on Treatment of Tuberculosis.

At the session on tuberculosis, held Tuesday afternoon by the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine at Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, Byron, lectures, dealing with incipient, arrested and open cases of tuberculosis, by various members of the sanatorium staff featured the program.

One of the most interesting and instructive addresses was that delivered by Dr. P. M. Angus on serological studies in the diagnosis of chronic chest conditions. The speaker pointed out that the serological study dealt with blood tests on patients to ascertain the power of resistance of the person who was undergoing treatment. One of the reasons for making the test, he said, was to see how well the patient could combat the disease.

Dr. Ramsay stated that at present the test is being made on more than 500 patients, and at the conclusion of the address, he extended an open invitation to the doctors to send their patients to the sanatorium to undergo the test.

The pre-tubercular test upon which the medical profession have been working for several years, was also taken up by Dr. Ramsay. This test was taken upon persons who outwardly showed no symptom of the disease to determine whether the person under observation would be subject to the disease within any stated time.

Other addresses were, the X-ray,
as an aid in the diagnosis of disease activity in pulmonary tuberculosis,
by Dr. A. E. Broome, pneumothorax refill, by Dr. J. D. Wilson, and the principles of the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, by Dr. F. H.
Pratten.

At the close of the session afternoon tea was served. Mrs. Dr. Pratten and the nurses acting as hostesses.

REPORTS FAIRS FREE FROM CRIME

At none of the fairs in Middlesex County have the county police found any crime. Not a report of a theft or of any disorder has been received by them.

"Fakers" who used to make the rounds of the rural exhibitions, are not to be seen this year, they say.
All the games operated at the fairs have been inspected by provincial and county police, but not one game of chance of the variety on which Attorney-General W. E. Roney conducted such a campaign a year ago has been found.

PREPARES FOR CIVIC ELECTION

London Labor Party to Hold
General Meeting Friday Night.

Lukewarm Regarding Proposal to Support Watkinson for Mayor.

Interest quickens in municipal election probabilities, and the executive of the London Labor Party has called a general meeting of the "individual branch" of that organization at the Labor Temple Friday night.

The labor chiefs who met in special session early in the week report that they have numerous applications for membership in the new movement, and Friday's session will be more of an organization nature than otherwise, although civic affairs will receive their share of attention.

The announcement Tuesday, which gains momentum as time passes, that Ald. Fred R. Watkinson was a majority possibility at the next civic contest, was received at labor headquarters with mingled feelings.

While friends of Ald. Watkinson asserted definitely at the city hall Wednesday that they were boosting him for the chief magistracy's chair, they added that they were counting upon the support of the labor element throughout the city, and particularly in ward 3, the big labor ward.

Representative Labor leaders assert that any official indorsement in that respect must come from the central labor group.

The fact that they call attention to the fact that it was Ald.
Watkinson who declined to support another Labor councillor, Ald. H. B.
Ashplant, when the latter moved in the city council to collect additional school taxes in the annexed district.

In the meanwhile, the labor chiefs will consider narrowly the question of a special public session of their members to prepare a list of candidates for nomination to the several civic offices, including the mayor's chair.

It was definitely announced Wednesday that should Mayor Cameron Wilson decide to withdraw from the field, Ald. Watkinson will be asked to undertake the race.

TRAIL RANGERS TO OPEN NEW SEASON

Boys' Clubs To Banquet in Y. M. C. A. Wednesday Night.

The Trail Ranger boys of the city will open the fall and winter season with a banquet in the Y. M. C. A.
Wednesday, and on the first night preliminary organization work and the grouping of the boys will feature the program.

The meeting will be addressed by
A. R. Kennedy, chairman of the boys' work board, who will briefly outline the fall program and also impress upon the boys the value of C. S. E. T. training in their later lives.

The clubs who will attend the opening supper are the Argonauts of the Talbot Street Baptist, the Seneca of Dundas Center, the Seneca of Askia Street, the Wingfoots of Knox Presbyterian, and the Pointers of the Y. M. C. A.

In a closely contested series the Seneca tennis team won the Trail Ranger tennis championship. The matches to decide the champion of the Tuxis group are still in progress, and it is expected that the winner will be known by the first of the week.

DOES NOT AGREE WITH BEARING SCHOOL COSTS

E. V. Buchanan Does Not Think Commissioners Should Pay For Springbank Students.

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, falls to agree with the suggestion that the board of education reimburse the board of education for eight students at the Riverview public school.

The children are the children of city employees who are engaged throughout the year at the waterworks and Springbank Park, and the board of education declares that they are receiving their education in city schools without a payment of the customary school tax.

Manager Buchanan infers that the responsibility for the payment must rest upon the parents, if anywhere, and not on the commissioners.

CLOSE SCORES FEATURE SCHOOL FOOTBALL GAMES were hard-fought, and some real ley and Lorne Avenue, when the boys battled to a scoreless tie.

PRIZE FOR BEST ITEM DAILY.

YOU must see something going on every day. Perhaps not a big thing, but something. The Advertiser wants you to send it for use in the "I Spied" column. Every reader a reporter is the idea behind the plan. The items must not be written to "take a stab" at any person. If so, they will not be published.
In order to create interest in the column, the GRAND OPERA HOUSE has donated two seats each night as a prize for the best item of the day. Your name and address must accompany the item, and it can run with only your initial attached if you desire. The contest is on. WHO WANTS TO GO TO THE GRAND?

If "A. K." in Tuesday's "I Spied"

URGES PARENTS TO UPHOLD TEACHERS

D. J. Ferguson Addresses the Boyle Memorial Mothers' Club Tuesday.

The presence of several fathers and a number of new members, amongst whom were newcomers to the district, was an inspiring feature of the first meeting of the season of Boyle Memorial Mothers' Club, held on Tuesday evening.

Giving an address on "Duties to Our Community," the popular principal, D. J. Ferguson, advanced the idea that the community and its children could be better served through the more frequent holding of roundtable conferences for parents and teachers than by bringing in outside speakers at meetings.

The change of ideas and through discussion of mutual problems affecting the children, he believed, would be invaluable. Touching upon his own duty as a teacher, that of making children better citizens, he dwelt also upon the duties of parents towards the children and mothers should help their children through upholding the teachers and supporting their efforts.

He expressed especial pleasure over the presence of the fathers at the meeting, affording as it did himself and other teachers an opportunity of meeting them.

The interesting program included readings by Miss Ella Moot; piano solos by Ruby Brown and Wilda Hall, and violin and piano numbers by Ivy Atkinson and Kathleen Gohby.

The club expressed its favorable opinion of the project of purchasing a car for the child welfare nursing staff, in order to save time and make possible increased service, without addition to the staff.
Mrs. J. S. Tennant offered the use of her home for a tea to raise money for the fund.

Mrs. J. Darling was the unanimous choice for press secretary for the coming year, having discharged her duties so efficiently last year.

A social hour followed the program.

DECLINES TO MEET PALMER IN DEBATE

Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board of education, declines positively to enter into public debate with ex-Ald. Adam Palmer upon the relative values of the Dakin street, Oliver street, Elm street, and other building sites in Southwest London.

The former councillor, who offered a school location to the board in 1920, has challenged the school trustees and their officials twice within the past two weeks, to meet him in the open, as he termed it, when he would prove to them in effect "that what they knew about the situation in the southeastern section of the city was next to nothing."

"There is nothing to it," Chairman Smith declared Wednesday. "This is not a debatable issue. We can only go by what the city solicitor tells us. All we can say is that Mr.
Palmer offered certain land to the city, but when the title was searched by the city solicitor, the board was advised that certain legal imperiments barred the way, and the site was ultimately rejected."

Trustee Smith made it quite plain Wednesday that inasmuch as the members of the board and himself were concerned the question was closed.

In the meanwhile, he states that the city solicitor has been directed to search the title of the Oliver street property and proceed with negotiations toward the purchase for public school purposes.

MRS. JOHN ROSE ADDRESSES CLUB

"Ideals and Aims of Mothers' Clubs" Is Subject of Interesting Talk.

Members of the sub-executive of the Union Mothers' Club were the guests of honor of the October meeting Tuesday evening of Riverview Mothers' Club, the president, Mrs.
John A. Rose, giving an illuminating address on "Ideals and Aims of the Mothers' Club."

She emphasized as one most important object the establishing of a better feeling between teachers and parents. Not a money-making concern, the club aims, she stated, to raise the standards and ideals of motherhood and childhood.

Mrs. Phillips sang most pleasingly to accompany a play by Mrs.
Milligan, and Mrs. Morris gave a duet solo. Elizabeth Newhouse drew humorous attention to the fact that the old school piano has reached a quivering old age, and that a new piano will shortly be in order. He suggested that the mothers' club might be interested in the purchase.

Specially complimentary things were said by members of the union club sub-executive with regard to the efficiency of Mrs. Charles Cowan, the Riverview secretary. Refreshments were served during a social hour, when the Riverview members enjoyed a chat with the sub-executive guests, including Mrs. Rose, Mrs.
John Gemmell, Mrs. Alex. Harvey and Mrs. W. A. Tanner.

Mrs. Charles Walker, the president, is to be the representative this year on the Child Welfare Association.

WILL SEE PROPER LIGHTS CARRIED

Police have given their last warning of the opening of a campaign against persons driving vehicles, including bicycles and horse-drawn carriages, which have not been equipped with the proper lamps required by the new city ordinance.

Although the bylaw has been law for some time, Chief of Police Robert Birrell decided to give the public until Oct. 1 to prepare. That date has now been passed, and officers have been instructed to see that every vehicle traveling or parked on city streets after dusk and before dawn has the proper lighting equipment.

PREPARES FOR BIG POULTRY SHOW

London Poultry and Pet Stock Association To Hold Exhibition.

Entries from all over Canada, as well as some of the best from the States, are being received by the secretary of the London Poultry and Pet Stock Show, which will be held in the Poultry Building, Queen's Park, Nov. 2 to 6 inclusive.

From present indications, the show will be the season's feature event.
Many of the biggest winners in prize events during the past season in the poultry world will be shown. Rabbits, caviars, ducks, geese and pigeons will also be featured.

The prize list this year has been greatly increased, and "special" prizes will exceed those of all previous shows. Admission has been reduced to 15 cents, while children, if accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free.

Officials have completed arrangements for the "Essay Competition," which is open to all children accompanied by an adult. There are no strings attached in this connection, officials pointed out. The idea is primarily to create greater interest in purebred poultry and pet stock.
The children will be given ten days
in which to complete their essays, and even paper and return envelopes will be supplied. Spelling and writing will count only in case of a tie.

The prizes for the essay competition have been announced as follows:
First, $7.50; second, $5; third, $2.50,
and five prizes of $1 each. Particulars will be given the children at the show.

OPTIMISTIC OVER RAILWAY BUSINESS

H. E. Whittenberger Reports Increase in G. T. R. September Earnings.

"Notwithstanding the recent labor and coal troubles, business is firm," declared H. E. Whittenberger, general manager of the western lines of the Grand Trunk Railway, who passed through the city at noon Wednesday on his way to Chicago. "Our total receipts on the western lines for the month of September show an increase of $9,000 over the same month last year."

"People need have no fear of a coal shortage this winter," he went on.
"All the mines, or the majority of them, are again in operation, and the amount of coal the railways are moving is enormous. At the start we were handicapped on account of the scarcity of coal cars, but now the transportation facilities are excellent, anthracite coal, especially, is becoming more plentiful. Soft coal is very plentiful, and I don't think anyone is having any difficulty in procuring it."

Mr. Whittenberger expressed himself as being most optimistic regarding the labor troubles both in Canada and the United States, pointing out that most of the old shop employees on the western lines who walked out have returned to work.

"The men are glad to get back, and we are anxious to have them back," he said.

When questioned about the possibility of the striking employees having their seniority rights restored, the general manager declared emphatically that it could never be, stating that it was against all the laws of fair dealing.

PROTESTS USE OF POLICE PATROL AS AMBULANCE

Ald. May Will Fight Against Practice at Next Meeting of Council.

Ald. John T. May deplores the fact that the city police patrol is also used for ambulance purposes, and at the next regular session of the finance committee of the city council he will request that action be taken to insure a change of system in this respect.

It is his contention that the citizens at large are paying unfairly for this practice by reason of the fact, he relates, as an instance, employers who are supposed to pay for the transportation of sick or injured employees, according to the provisions of the workmen's compensation laws, fail to do so.

There is but one other means of conveyance available, he states, and that is an ambulance owned and maintained by an undertaking firm.
Ald. May questions what the result would be should the latter decide to discontinue business. Such a development would throw the onus upon the hospital, he states.

SEEK HELP FROM POLICE TO FIND STOLEN GOODS

Hespeler Police Ask Co-operation of London Authorities in Search.

London police have been asked to aid in the search for $507 worth of men's wearing apparel stolen from the drygoods store at Hespeler Saturday.

A list of the articles has been furnished the local authorities by the Hespeler chief of police. The robbers' haul included two heavy overcoats, two gaudieries, several pairs of shoes, dozens of pairs of socks, dozens of pairs of cuff links, more than two score ties, shirts, collars, club bags, several suits of underwear and shirts.

It is believed two men committed the robbery, as two complete outfits were taken.

Hey, Does Anybody Want Strayed Horses Nobody Owns

HERE'S a team of horses nobody owns. At least, no one seems to want them. Where they came from, no one knows, and advertisements have failed to locate an owner.

Nearly two weeks ago, a bay and a gray strayed on to the farm of James Butson, lot 16, 4th concession, London Township, and they are still there.
They are heavy eaters. Maybe there is something in that.

Some farmers may possibly have it all figured out that it is cheaper to turn a team loose for a time till his own pastures get a chance to take on new life than to buy fodder at present prices. But, whatever the reason, or wherever they came from, they are still on Mr. But-son's farm.

Who owns the team?

An Object Lesson.

HOW much did the Canadian Parliament know about the treaty of Sevres, which was duly passed in the dying hours of the last session of the house?

The Ottawa Journal describes the scene in the Commons on that occasion:

"The house is hot and listless; most of the members have their indemnity checks in their pockets; Progressives have their Crow's Nest Pass rates to take back west with them; everybody wants to go home. Mr. Kinn, congratulating himself that the end is near, is cleaning up odds and ends of the session. Presently, and with an air of passing an extra messenger, he introduces 'An act for carrying into effect the treaties of peace between his majesty and Hungary and Turkey.' Not ten of those in a thinned house are listening to what he is saying. Mr. Macdonald, usually vigilant, does not even think it worth his while to ask a question. Mr. Cazaan, apparently impressed with the idea that the measure was a debt-collecting instrument, simply asked: 'Are we likely to get anything out of Turkey?' And then, without deliberation, without intelligent discussion, without a moment of examination, Parliament sanctioned an obligation to defend with blood and treasure the straits which today are menaced by Moslem cannon."

There will, of course, be sharp differences of opinion as to what Canada agreed to do in the event of war, but the Ottawa Journal's description of the scene in the house at that time is quite correct, and can be verified by members who were present, as well as those in the press gallery. In fact, nearly all the members of the press gallery seemed inclined to think it was something about which they knew nothing, and scarcely took the trouble to record the facts, let alone inquire into what it really meant.

Canada is new to European diplomacy. It is not likely that any European government would have passed such a measure without a serious debate, simply because a parliament in Europe would have had a sense of appreciation of what it meant, and to what it obligated the country represented. If, on the other hand, it were a measure to provide for the defense of the Canadian coast line, or involving the protection of our international boundary line, it would have been a different matter, and all the members would at once have wanted to know what it was all about, and what obligations the people of Canada were taking on themselves.

The whole transaction, no matter what may be said one way or the other regarding what this country is or is not bound to do, should be a severe object lesson to the Canadian Parliament. The part to be played by Canada in its relation to the empire is in the process of formation, and bit by bit uncertainty is giving way to more definite ideas, and it is of the greatest importance that each and every step in this formative program should be watched and thoroughly understood by the people entrusted by the Dominion with the management of its affairs.

Busy as a Bee.

THE recovery of business this year has extended into that mysterious civilization of the insect world—the activities of bees.

Bees have speeded up. And the 1922 yield of honey will be a whopper, possibly breaking all records, if preliminary reports to the department of agriculture pan out as expected.

Next time Willie spreads honey too thickly on his bread or buckwheat cakes, maybe you can check him by telling him this:

To make one pound of honey, bees have to carry 37,000 loads of nectar from flowers to hive.

Infinitely patient and elaborate preparation, then it all vanishes down the human throat in a twinkling. Such is life—nine-tenths preparation, one-tenth realization.

You use the expression, "busy as a bee." But few of us realize just how busy bees really are.

They toil from sunrise until the last glimmer of light after sunset. In summertime, at the height of their activity, the life of worker bees is only a matter of two months.

They foolishly work themselves to death. And then someone else—man, not a bee—eats the honey. It reminds you of the man who slaves himself into the grave, leaving his fortune to heirs who squander it quickly.

Some years ago bees used to go it wild. They would store just enough honey for their own use. Then came man, with his ideas of efficiency, and in the prepared comb. The bees were able to put all their efforts to making honey, and they made it faster. Then they took the honey away and the bees had to start all over again. The Socialists use this as an illustration of exploitation, where the exploited do not derive any benefit and there is some force to their argument.

With bees, it comes rest for some of the bees, death for many. The queen and some of the workers will survive winter.

When next spring comes, the

workers will house-clean the hive and build new comb-cells in which the queen will lay eggs. Then the workers split into two squads, one gathering honey, the other serving as nursemaids for the babies.

The workers are females with their development arrested so that they cannot reproduce.

The men-bees—drones—are of little use except as professional husbands, dodging work, not gathering enough food even for themselves. They gorge on honey brought by the women folks and, when not lounging in the way, "show off" by flying around near the hive and making a great fuss about it.

The life of bees is an existence of no permanence, brief, seemingly futile. You wonder if there is any purpose behind this intense activity which never seems to get anywhere. Many philosophers wind up by wondering the same about the activities of man.

Sensible Talk.

ONLY a few weeks ago, a note admittedly written by BALFOUR, in which it was suggested that there might be some consideration by United States of national war debts owing to the inability of Britain to collect from her debtors, raised a mass of discussion on both sides of the Atlantic. Some of the more unfriendly papers in United States interpreted it as indicating a desire on the part of Britain to hedge in the matter of paying her war obligations which was undertaken largely because Britain at the time of the war was lacking a number of the smaller nations that had no financial standing of themselves in the United States.

Even British papers in many cases showed strong resentment toward the note, claiming that it was a severe hurt to inherent pride of the British people that they could pay dollar for dollar with the rest of the world, and still continue their financial strength.

Now the same matter has been brought up in New York at the convention of the American Banking Association. The sessions had scarcely been brought well under way before this question was brought right to the foreground of discussion by John McFison, president of the Mechanical and Metals National Bank, who advocated a wide scaling down of Europe's debts to United States, the extension of wise credits to nations that were on the verge of bankruptcy, as well as the participation of United States in the various conferences that are being held with a view of getting the business of Europe back on something approaching a workable standing.

It is well, indeed, that the money powers of United States should look at this matter squarely. They can do so, and conduct all discussions with the fullest candor, knowing that Britain is not asking for any special favors.

Holding that debt and lack of confidence was pulling the nations of Europe farther into the pit. Mr. McFison proceeded with the argument that "the economic weakness of the world abroad springs from the destruction of economic confidence. It can be swept away only as international confidence is restored, and as the interchange of credit, on a firm basis, is renewed. This means that international obligations must be adjusted in a way that will permit individual nations to progress. It means a balancing of national budgets, an ending of the orgy of inflation, and a return of currencies—perhaps with the help of our gold—to a fixed standard."

"A unity of ideas among the nations regarding credit is a prerequisite of any constructive action with respect to their most pressing problems. Hence, before gold begins to flow back to Europe, and before exchanges are regularized, a real basis for peace-time relations must be adjusted, and then made fixed and certain. The huge debts due by nations to one another must be compromised where necessary, and then funded. New, long-term credits, for the purpose of stabilization, must be granted.

"The time has come to determine upon a definite policy with regard to the allied debts to the treasury of the United States. I feel that my discussion would be incomplete without reference to these debts, which, next to Germany's reparations obligations, comprise the world's greatest and most complicated single problem of international finance."

"To date these debts amount to approximately $11,700,000,000. The debts are fairly due. At no time were they considered as a free gift. At the same time circumstances have arisen so far beyond the control of these concerned that the proposition is seriously made to cancel these debts in whole or in part. This involves compromise, not repudiation. Compromise is prompted by the abnormal state of international exchanges, the difficulties of the world's credit problems, and the circumstances under which the obligations to us were contracted."

The mention of the inflation that was abroad in the world at the time these debts were contracted is a point that any man can grasp, who has had occasion to observe in any way at all the prices that were being paid in the war period and contrast them with prices that are current for the same articles or services at the present time. The debt which Britain owes to United States was contracted at prices that were ultra-maximum. Labor of all classes was drawing money never dreamed of before, and prices for steel and iron, which entered largely into the undertaking, were in many cases simply based on all that the traffic would stand. The balancing influences of supply and demand, and competition in selling were non-operative throughout that whole period, in so far as keeping values down were concerned. All our supposed basic economic factors simply aggravated the situation and drove prices beyond the realm of reason.

Then, is the debt that Britain is obligated to pay to United States at a time when prices have fallen, when the markets of the world have not the purchasing power to pay the debt which alone can pay debts, and when many of the debtor nations are, flooding the markets with worthless paper money, or else standing in dumb agony, living day by day not knowing what the future has in store for them.

These bankers in New York are tackling a problem that is as much their own, in its solution, as it is the property of any other nation. Moreover, they know that United States trade will stagnate until such time as they do settle it, and settle it right.

The Telegraph tells a story of a woman hunting a husband for ten years. Most of them can finish off the job in much less time than that. There's a big postoffice gathering on at Ottawa, but so far the grand old habit of reading other people's postcards has not come up for consideration.

Here's a man giving the advice, "Get a job you like, and stick." We knew one chap who liked robbing houses and he's been sticking ever since—in jail.

A young man was sentenced to four years at Toronto for stealing an automobile. His bride of three months will be left to care for herself in the meantime.

A man in Rochester ate oysters in a restaurant and found a pearl worth $2,000. Luck was with him, as most folks only make a lot of noise and muss up the tablecloth.

We were sitting on the steps last night enjoying the warm evening, when along comes J. CROAKER, Esq., and tells us that "we'll be paying up for this weather in a few weeks from now." Fortunately the neighbor had borrowed the axe the day before.

If events run true to form, it may be that Mrs. WILLIAM B. LEEDS, now wife of PRINCE CHRISTOPHER, may be Queen of Greece. She is wealthy, and her wealth was made by her first husband in tinware. So it may be that the old tin hat of trench fame will yet find its balancing point on the Hellenic throne.

The premier of Manitoba is being opposed by a man named FINGER in the contest for The Pas riding, and well-nigh every paper in the country has taken a fling at the happening. The punsters simply hopped on it with the idea of the premier having his "hands full," or of "too many fingers in the pie," and so forth. Why do politicians have such names?

Citizens who paid Dominion income tax a few months ago are in several cases being called upon now to pay the difference between the amount put up and the amount claimed now by the taxation department, together with interest on the difference. In not a few cases the amount to be paid was arrived at after consultation with the local officials. It seems like stretching a point to come along now and ask for interest on the amount claimed, as the taxpayers acted in good faith in the first place.

Toronto lost a big man in the passing of BYRON STAUFER. He was a preacher and more. His love of mankind was large and expressive, and he sought to be a preacher to the people. In this he succeeded, and brought a message to many who never attended any other form of church service. His writings were read by many, and in them he put the best that he had. He was one of the few men who had solved the problem of the down-town church. May a man of equal ability and equal vision come along quickly, for there is yet a work to be done.

TODAY'S word is—TENTATIVE. It's pronounced—ten-ta-tiv, with accent on the first syllable, and the "a" touched but lightly. It means—pertaining to or based on a trial or test, experimental. It comes from—Latin "tentare," to try.

It's used like this—"The tentative sentence of the British in the most important of Kemal Pasha's demands promises a diplomatic triumph for the Turkish leader, following his military successes over the Greeks."

The Colbornes won the third and deciding game of the city championship series with the Y. M. C. A. It was a hot contest, and the result was in doubt until the last man was out. With the score of 13 to 15 against them in the ninth, the Y. M. C. A. went in to bat. Reid struck out. Carrothers singled, and Lind made a home run. Struthers, Bell and Sippl, who followed, failed to tie the score. Lind, however, pitched a good game, striking out eight men, but his support was poor. Murray also twirled well for the Colbornes, although not backed in the field much better than Lind. The final score was 18 to 17.

Mr. J. W. Crosbie will shortly leave Petrolea for England, en route for Dr. Bishop's advice.

WHAT HYSTERICIS IS

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

HYSTERICIS sometimes is applied to mere tantrums, or "cutting-up." This, however, should not be confused with genuine hystericis. One may be punished properly for a fit of temper, but no one should be punished in any way for hystericis. Crude measures, such as a dash of cold water in the face, will have no effect on hystericis. Hystericis generally is brought on by emotional excitement or overwork, especially nervous or mental work. Some idea controls the body for the time being. In a great many cases, the controlling idea is one that was implanted on the subconscious mind in early life by some fright or other to a cure.

unpleasant emotional experience. The experience has been forgotten, yet the impression remains. Certain circumstances bring up this suppressed idea and give it temporary control over the mind, though the patient is unaware of it.

A physician sometimes may trace this repressed idea and show the sufferer its influence, restoring complete self-control.

Sometimes hystericis stimulates the epileptic fit, though the hysterical woman will not bite her tongue or fall so as to hurt herself. More likely she will fall in a graceful attitude and appear very melodramatic. In many cases there is downright delirium.

A person suffering from hystericis should not receive sympathy from friends. That only aggravates it. Better to show no concern at all. Rest workers wonder in most cases. In others, the hygienic life will lead early life by some fright or other to a cure.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT—21.

To use copper in certain centers, making out of it implements of much the same pattern as their stone ones. They cast the copper in molds made to the shape of the stone implements. Possibly they first found native copper and hammered it into shape. Later they had found out how to get copper from its ore. Perhaps, as Lord Avebury suggested, they discovered the secret of smelting by the chance putting of lumps of copper ore among the ordinary stones with which they built the fire pits they used for cooking.

In China, Hungary, Cornwall and elsewhere copper ore and tinstone occur in the same veins; it is a very common association and so, rather through dintness than skill, the ancient smelters, it may be, hit upon the harder and better bronze, which is an alloy of copper and tin.

Bronze is not only harder than copper, but the mixture of tin and copper is more fusible and easier to reduce. The so-called "pure-copper" implements usually contain a small proportion of tin, and there are no tin implements known, nor very much evidence to show that early men knew of tin as a separate metal.

The plant of a prehistoric copper smelter has been found in Spain, and the material of bronze foundries in various localities. The method of smelting revealed by these finds carries out Lord Avebury's suggestion. In India, where zinc and copper ore occur together, brass (which is an alloy of the two metals) was similarly hit upon.

So slight was the change in fashions and methods produced by the appearance of bronze, that for a long time such bronze axes and so forth as were made were cast in molds to the shape of the stone implements they were superseding.

The Discovery of Iron. Finally, perhaps, as early as 3,000 years ago in Europe, and even earlier in Asia Minor, men began to smelt iron. Once smelting was known to men, there is no great marvel in the finding of iron. They smelted iron by blowing up a charcoal fire, and wrought it by heating and hammering. They produced it as first in comparatively small pieces; its appearance worked a gradual revolution in weapons and implements; but it did not suffice to change the general character of men's surroundings.

Much the same daily life that was being led by the more settled Neolithic men 10,000 years ago, was being led by peasants out of the way places all over Europe at the beginning of the eighteenth century. People talk of the Stone Age, the Bronze Age, and the Iron Age in Europe, but it is misleading to put these ages as if they were of equal importance in history. Much truer is it to say that there was:

(1) An Early Palaeolithic Age of vast duration; (2) a Later Palaeolithic Age that lasted not a fifth of the time; and (3) the Age of Cultivation, the age of the white men in Europe, which began 10,000 or at most 12,000 years ago, of which the Neolithic Period was the beginning, and which is still going on.

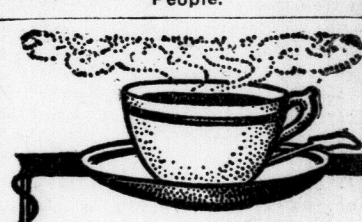

We do not know yet the region in which the ancestors of the brownish Neolithic peoples worked their way up from the Palaeolithic stage of human development. Probably it was somewhere about southwestern Asia, or in some region now submerged beneath the Mediterranean Sea or the Indian Ocean, that while the Neanderthal men still lived their hard lives

In the bleak climate of a glacial Europe, the ancestors of the white men developed the rude arts of their Later Palaeolithic period. But they do not seem to have developed the artistic skill of their more northerly kindred, the European Later Palaeolithic races.

And through the hundred centuries or so while Reindeer men were living under comparatively unprogressive conditions upon the steppes of France, Germany, and Spain, these more favored and progressive people to the south were mastering agriculture, learning to develop their appliances, taming the dog, domesticating cattle and, as the climate to the north mitigated and the equatorial climate grew more tropical, spreading northward.

All these early chapters of our story have yet to be disinterred. They will probably be found in Asia Minor, Persia, Arabia, India, or North Africa, or they lie beneath the Mediterranean waters. Twelve thousand years ago, or thereabouts—we are still too early for anything but the roughest chronology—Neolithic peoples were scattered all over Europe, North Africa and Asia. They were peoples at about the level of many of the Polynesian islands of the last century, and they were the most advanced peoples in the world.

CHAPTER IV.

Bulow.
The day after Prince Hohenzollern's farewell, the man summed up by me as his successor, Bulow, secretary of state for foreign affairs, arrived. His choice of the post was eminently fitting, for he was thoroughly cognizant of foreign policy and, especially, of relations with England—which was becoming constantly livelier and more complicated—and he had already proved himself an orator and ready debater in the Reichstag. The fact that the qualities of these two were lacking in his predecessor had often been fully noticeable. When Prince Bulow's intention to retire became known in the imperial council, the Bavarian ambassador at Berlin, Count Lerchenfeld, very pointedly asked me that for heaven's sake I was not to choose another German, since South Germany was not fitted for the leading post in Berlin; North Germans were really better able to fill it and, therefore, it would be better for the empire to select a North German. I had been acquainted personally with Bulow for a long time, ever since the period of his ambassadorship in Rome and his work as secretary of state. Then I had often seen him at his home and had held a conference with him in his study. He came into closer relationship with me when he accompanied me on my journey to the Far East, where, in co-operation with the ambassador, Freiherr Marschall, he assisted me in getting into touch with the leading men of the Turkish government. Hence, the ones of the new chancellor with whom I was already begun and, to a certain extent, established, since we had years discussed all political matters and spheres of interest. I much preferred to him, however, the much younger man, who was more pliable, more of whom could be made my grandfellow. He was the "young chancellor" of Germany. And this made our common easier for both of us.

When I was in Berlin, scarcely a day went by without my taking a long walk with the chancellor, who, as I said, was the most hospitable of the imperial chancellor's during which outstanding issues were cleared up and problems amicably discussed. I often had lunch with him and always found at his table the most pleasant and intelligent of the various topics that to me it was always a pleasure to be in the company of the chancellor and to enjoy his bubbling wit, to hear his views on the world, to see his professors, savants and artists, as government officials of all kinds, informal, unofficial interest and stimulating exchange of ideas.

He was an excellent narrator, his tales, drawn both from books and from his own personal experience, told in several languages. He told stories of the days of his youth, especially of his stay at St. Petersburg, where he was a diplomat, especially of his father's stay at St. Petersburg, where he was a diplomat, especially of his father's stay at St. Petersburg, where he was a diplomat.

It is better than ready-made cough syrup, and is easily prepared. You combine the curative properties of every known "ready-made" remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as is in this simple home-made syrup, which is easily prepared in five minutes. From any druggist 2½ ounces of syrup, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle. The bottle with syrup, using plain granulated sugar syrup, molasses, honey, or cod liver oil as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than could be had by any other means. It is 82¢. Tastes pleasant and is nothing better. a foreign ambassador to discuss some political question, which he had taken up with me, with the secretary of state, and he would reply: "J'en parlerai avec mon ami Holstein." (I shall speak about it with my friend Holstein.) The fact alone that an official of the foreign office dealt with foreign ambassadors, going over the head of his superior, did not seem right to me; but that he should be dubbed by these foreigners "friend" seemed to me to go beyond what I deemed advisable.

Matters had, in fact, developed gradually to such a stage that Holstein conducted a good part of our foreign affairs. To be sure, he still listened to the chancellor in connection with them, but what the emperor thought or said about foreign affairs was rather unimportant. If things turned out successfully, the Foreign Office reaped the reward; if things went wrong, then it was the fault of the "impulsive young master."

In spite of all this, Bulow, too, apparently thought Herr von Holstein indispensable at first; he worked together with him for a long time until, at last, he, too, found unbearable the pressure which this strange man exerted on everybody. To Herr von Tschirschky, during his tenure of office as secretary of state, belongs the merit of finally bringing the unbearable situation to a head. On being questioned by me, he declared that he considered it impossible that Herr von Holstein remain at his post any longer, since he was embroiling the whole foreign office, seeking to eliminate the secretary of state, entirely, and creating all kinds of obstacles, likewise, for the chancellor.

Dismissal—and an Enemy.
Thereupon I ordered Herr von Tschirschky to prepare the way for the dismissal of Herr von Holstein, which afterward took place, with the approval of the chancellor, after the latter had recovered from the serious breakdown in health which he had suffered meanwhile. Herr von Holstein himself showed what manner of man he was by going at once after his dismissal to Herr Harden and placing himself at the latter's disposal for the campaign against the emperor.

The year 1901 gave Count Bulow plentiful opportunities to show and assert himself in dealings with England. Count Bulow still believed strongly in the Bismarckian theory of having "two irons in the fire," i. e., in making friendly agreements with another country while always remaining on good terms with Russia—in which he received support from the many pretended adherents of Bismarck.

From the midst of the jubilee celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the death of my grandmother, Queen Victoria, by a dispatch announcing to me the serious condition of the queen, I suddenly made the journey with my uncle, the Duke of Connaught, who was at Berlin as the queen's representative at the festivities—he was the favorite son of the queen and my particular friend, and as the son-in-law of Prince Frederick Charles—and I was cordially received in London by the then Prince of Wales and the royal family. As my carriage drove out at a trot from the railway station a plainly dressed man stepped forward from the closely packed crowd standing there in absolute silence, to the side of the carriage, bared his head, and said: "Thank you, Kaiser." The Prince of Wales, later Edward VII., added: "That is what they all think, and they will never forget this coming of yours."

Nevertheless, they did forget it, and quickly. After the queen had quietly breathed her last in my arms, the curtain fell for me upon many memories of childhood. Her death signified the close of an epoch in English history and in Germany's relations with England. I now got into touch, as far as possible, with prominent personages, and noted everywhere a thoroughly sympathetic, friendly spirit, which made no secret of the wish for good relations with Germany.

At the farewell banquet impromptu speeches were made by King Edward VII and myself, which were cordial in tone and content, and did not fail to make an impression on their hearers. After the meal the English ambassador at Berlin clasped my hand and said that my speech had touched all his fellow-countrymen's hearts, because what I said was sincere and simple, as was fitting for Englishmen; that the speech must at once be made public, since it would have an effect throughout the country, and that this would be useful to the relations between the two countries. I answered that it was a matter for the British government and the King to decide, that personally I had no objection to having the speech made public.

Nevertheless, it was not made public, and the British people never learned of my words, which were the sincere expression of my sentiments and thoughts. In another talk later on with me at Berlin the same ambassador deeply regretted this, but was for this omission. In concluding my remarks on my stay in England I cannot pass over the fact that a portion of the German press was unfortunately lacking in tactful appreciation of the grief of the English royal family and people, as well as of the obligations which my family relationship and political considerations imposed on me.

Report Reveals Loss On Power of $1,000 Per Day.

INTEREST IS GUARANTEED

Shortage Can Be Wiped Out by Contract With Power Concern.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Another artery of the provincial hydro-electric system was probed today at the parliament buildings, when the Gregory commission resumed its public sittings, and examined the condition of the Nipigon division. It was revealed that the plant had been expended to a point where the residents of the district were carrying a load of three horse-power per capita, in comparison with the load of one-tenth horse-power per capita, which Toronto citizens support. Also the deficit on operations is $1,000 a day.

It was shown that the deficit could be wiped out by entering into a contract with the Great Lakes Power and Paper Company.

L. A. Alstead, representative of the company, told the Gregory commission today that his company was still ready to sign a contract for 12,000 horsepower.

The company would furthermore, immediately upon completion of its power arrangements, commence the erection near Port Arthur, of a $3,500,000 plant, to be ready for occupancy probably by the spring of 1923. It would employ 600 men directly, irrespective of the lumbermen engaged upon the firm's timber limits, and its operation would be assured for the next 42 years at least.

Contract Difficulties.
The sole obstacle in carrying out these plans at the present moment, Mr. Alstead stated, was the firm's inability to get a satisfactory power contract from the hydro power commission. The contract which the commission offered was not so obviously enforceable by the Great Lakes Company as they could use it to finance with at their bankers.

The hydro power commission, which "an act of Providence" clause, believe it from the inability to deliver power in special circumstances, but it was not willing that the company should so protect itself. There was also a difference in price of about one dollar per horsepower which represented an advance that the hydro power commission had recently made upon the original price of $17.50 per horsepower which had been quoted to the Great Lakes Company.

After hearing this recital of the facts of the case, the commission stated that to them there seemed to be no insurmountable barrier in the points at issue to the conclusion of an agreement.

Chief Engineer Gaby of the provincial hydro system said lawyers had advised the commission that the contract which was being offered to the Great Lakes Company was perfectly enforceable. He admitted, however, that the progress upon which the Great Lakes Company would have to enter if the hydro system ever failed them with its power would be a devious one.

Like Other Contracts.
"If the contract is enforceable in the end, why not make it plainly so?" questioned Commissioner M. J. Haney.

"Our only answer to that is that all our contracts are like this one," Mr. Gaby replied.

Hydro officials admitted that a contract with the power company would have done much to offset the deficit of approximately $48,000 which the earlier evidence of G. T. Clark, chartered accountant, had shown the Nipigon system to be recording this year. The situation was partially due to the failure of the Nipigon Fibre Company, which had been a customer to the extent of 2,500 horsepower.

The Nipigon system, it was shown, would be unable this year to meet the interest on its bonds, which were guaranteed by the provincial government.

"An extraordinary state of affairs," was Chairman W. D. Gregory's comment upon the situation.

F. R. Morris of Fort William said the people of the Nipigon district had voted to erect only a hydro plant sufficient for their own commercial needs. In spite of this, however, and without any further authority, the commission had extended the system so as to take care of a pulp and paper industry that was expected to materialize.

SOUTH AMERICA MIXES COLORS IN MARRIAGES

Claims This Is Solution For Racial Difficulties, Says Rev. H. E. Stillwell.

Canadian Baptist Foreign Missions Secretary Gives Illuminating Address in London.

With Senator Edwards, a Chilean, newly chosen president of the League of Nations, indicating the prominent place South America is now taking in world politics, the lecture delivered Tuesday evening in Talbot Street Baptist Church by Rev. H. E. Stillwell of Toronto, secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the Canadian Baptist Church, on the subject of conditions under which Baptist mission work is carried on in South America, proved of wide interest, apart from its significance as an authentic missionary story.

Coming to London to speak on the occasion of the twenty-eighth annual thank-offering meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, Mr. Stillwell graphically pictured his four months' trip from December last to April from New York to Bolivia on a visit of inspection of missions established there, as the representative of the Canadian Baptist Church. Seeing for himself and studying conditions in Bolivia, Chile and Peru on the west coast of South America, going from New York by way of the Panama Canal, he had this to say as a result of close observation:

"South America is coming more and more into prominence in the world's teaching. In the election of a Chilean to the office of president of the League of Nations, when war threatened a few years ago between the United States and Mexico, the Chilean, acting as intermediaries, as South America is really the last largely unexplored continent, it must bulk greatly in the near future."

Lacks Moral Foundation. Turning to the difficulties with which missionaries are confronted in South America, the speaker made this statement: "There is almost no moral foundation in South America. It is understood in Anglo-Saxon countries, although there are individuals here and there of high ideals. Indians constitute fifty per cent of the population, and these are fundamentally pagan, constituting the real missionary field."

Referring to the three classes of population in Bolivia, white, or descendants of pure Spaniards, descendants of mixed marriages between Spaniards and Indians and Quichua and Aymara Indians, Mr. Stillwell made this arresting statement: "South America has solved its big problem, the color question, by mixed marriages, inter-marriages between whites and Indians. No religion is apparently felt by Spaniards over marrying the better class of Indians. South America considers itself away ahead of the United States in working out of the color question on so big a scale. What the outcome will be is yet uncertain."

Reverting to his statement regarding difficulties confronted owing to lack of moral foundation, "the domestic situation there is illustrated by the government statistics, showing that three-quarters of the children are born out of wedlock," said the speaker.

BENEFIT MUSICAL DISCOVERS ARTIST

Recital in Mrs. Duffield's Home For S. C. H. Serves Important Purposes.

The recital in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital for which Mrs. J. C. Duffield opened her beautiful and spacious home in Queen's Avenue on Tuesday evening, not only served the worthy object for which it was given, but ushered in the 1922-23 musical season, setting a high artistic standard.

Special interest attached to the occasion for still another reason, marking as it did the introduction of a London music lover of a rarely gifted and thoroughly trained young pianist, who has been growing up in their midst all unaware, Miss Irene McDougall, pupil of Mr. W. A. Bluthner, who arranged the entire program.

The debutant, who promptly evoked enthusiastic appreciation, made her initial appearance in a group of three numbers, "Cyril Scott's 'Dance Nocturne,' a dainty waltz by Henselt, and a Concert Waltz by Strindberg. Three Chopin numbers, the Valse in C Sharp, Nocturne in F sharp major, and Ballade in A flat were marked by the clean technique which evidenced painstaking study and thorough preparation, and with it, beauty of singing tone, poetic feeling and thorough intellectual and artistic grasp of the content of the numbers. Reserved for the final appearance of the evening were 'Octave Intermezzo' by Liszt, Schumann's Forest Sketches, and the 'Rigoletto Fantasy' by Liszt.

Assisting in the program were Miss Marylyn Pococke, who achieved a distinct triumph, both vocally and artistically, in her interpretation of a group of Brahms' songs. Mr. Douglas Fetherston, violinist, who delighted with 'Caprice de Vienne,' Fritz Kreisler and 'Moment Musical,' Schubert. Accompanists so sympathetic that the singer and violinist were enabled to do themselves entire justice were played by Mr. Bluthner. The stage was arranged at the south end of the large drawing-room, seats placed in dining-room, hall and adjacent rooms commanding an excellent view. The acoustic properties were happily for the artists, proved ideal. Attention was concentrated on the music and no formal reception was held. Mrs. A. E. Miller, Mrs. W. F. D. Jarvis, and Mrs. G. A. Routledge, Lambeth, looked after the generous collection.

CANADIAN CLUB'S BRILLIANT PROGRAM

Local Women's Organization Bringing Several Famous Lecturers This Season.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, famous suffragist; Dr. Archibald McMechan of Dalhousie University, eminent Canadian man of letters; Mrs. McWilliams of Winnipeg, president of the Federation of University Women's Clubs of Canada, also of the Winnipeg Women's Canadian Club, woman of affairs and brilliant speaker; and F. W. Hayden of Toronto, most delightful of interpreters of good literature, are amongst the lecturers whose promises have already been secured to address the London Women's Canadian Club during the coming season. In addition, the executive is in correspondence with a number of other famous people and platform artists, with a view to securing them for the club.

Plans with regard to the program occupied a long session of the executive, held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. F. E. Leonard, "Oakwood," when plans were also made for co-operation with clubs in adjacent towns and cities with regard to speakers. The London Club is sending at once to the clubs in Guelph, Kitchener, Chatham, Galt and Stratford the list of speakers already assured and their dates.

A communication was read concerning tentative plans for the organization of a Women's Canadian Club in Sarnia.

Mrs. Pankhurst is the next "attraction" on the list of the club. She speaks Thursday, October 12. Dr. McMechan comes Canadian Authors' Week, on a date between October 28 and November 4, and Mr. Hayden during November or the first part of December. With the spell of winter, the executive discussed sharing the treat of his next appearance here with the Men's and Girls' Canadian Clubs. It is probable he will be requested to give a Dickens recital.

Mrs. McWilliams, coming the end of January or the beginning of February, is being asked to speak on the subject on which she spoke so effectively at the recent convention of Associated Canadian Clubs in Hamilton, the dramatic means adopted by the Province of Manitoba to keep moving pictures presented therein clean and wholesome.

Miss Ruby M. Ayres, the popular English novelist, and Miss Drew of Oxford University are among the probabilities as speakers. Mrs. F. W. Hughes presided, giving a most encouraging report of the club's finances.

Practically the whole executive attended the meeting, expressing gratification over the caliber of the speakers already enlisted, and also the fact that a number of lecturers of note are bringing themselves to the attention of the club this year, an indication of its growing prestige.

Also a liberal check to a war veteran who is ill.

A handsome silver cup is being presented by the chapter to Sgt. Smith of the W. O. R. who has won a place on the Biele team. The presentation is to be made by the regent, Mrs. F. Butler.

Following the business part of the meeting tea was served. Mrs. C. I. Campbell poured tea, and Mrs. F. Butler acted as tea hostess.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers. Refined, Delicate Skin Secured by Absorption. No complexion can be considered beautiful if the skin is coarse in texture. This trouble can be overcome by opening and cleansing the pores, the closing of which makes the skin rough. To open the pores and remove dirt and impurities, use the microfoliated wax. The wax is completely absorbed by the rough, faded or discolored outer skin and unclogs the pores. The fresh, young skin underneath then in evidence is exquisitely delicate, refined and beautiful. And it is kept so, as the pores now freely expel waste matter and drink in the life-giving, circulation-promoting oxygen.

Microfoliated wax, because of its wonderful absorption power, is fast superseding other treatments for coarse, pimply, yellow, muddy or blotchy skin. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off next morning. The wax, to be had at any drug store (one ounce will do), is entirely harmless.—Adv't.

EPISODE ONE.

CHAPTER I.

DURING the last two years Fate, Chance, and Destiny had been too busy to attend to Mike Clinch. But now his turn was coming in the Eternal Sequence of things. The stars in their courses indicated the beginning of the undoing of Mike Clinch.

From Esthonia a refugee countess wrote to James Darrah in New York:

"After two years we have discovered that it was Jose Quintana's band of international thieves that Robbed Ricca. Quintana has disappeared.

"A Levantine diamond broker in New York, named Emanuel Sard, may be in communication with him.

"Ricca and I are going to America as soon as possible."

The day Darrah received the letter he started to look up Sard. But that very morning Sard had received a curious letter from Rotterdam. This was the letter:

"Sardius — Tourmaline — Aragonite — Rhodonite — Porphyry — Obsidian — Nugget Gold — Diopside — Novaculite — Tur — Nugget Silver — Amber — Matrix Turquoise — Elaeolite — Ivory — Sardonx — Moonstone — Iceland Spar — Kalpa Zircon — Eye Agate — Celonite — Lapis Lazuli — Topaz — Chalcedony — Hydrotite — Hessonite — Amethyst — Selenite — Fire Opal — Labradorite — Aquamarine — Malachite — Iris Stone — Natrolite — Garnet — Jade — Emerald — Wood Opal — Essonite — Lazuli — Epidote — Ruby — Onyx — Sapphire — Indicolite — Topaz — Euclase — Indian Diamond — Star Sapphire — African Diamond — Iceland Spar — Lapis Cruxifer — Abalone — Turkish Turquoise — Old Mine Stone — Natrolite — Cats Eye — Eleotrum — 1-5 a."

That afternoon young Darrah located Sard's office and presented himself as a customer. The well-faced clerk behind the wicket laid a pistol handy and informed Darrah that Sard was away on a business trip.

Darrah looked cautiously around the small office:

"I have important news concerning Jose Quintana," whispered Darrah. "Where is Sard?"

"Why he had a letter from Quintana this very morning," replied the clerk in a low, uneasy voice. "Mr. Sard left for Albany on the one o'clock train. Is there any trouble?"

Darrah bored him through with his dark stare:

"Mind your business," he said.

"That night in Albany Darrah picked up Sard's trail. It led to a dealer in automobiles. Sard had bought a Comet Six, paying cash, and had started north.

Through Schenectady, Fonda, and Mayfield, the following day, Darrah traced a brand new Comet Six containing one short, dark Levantine with a parrot nose. In Northville Darrah found a Ford.

At Lake Pleasant Sard's car went wrong. Darrah missed him by ten minutes; but he learned that Sard had inquired the way to Ghost Lake Inn.

That was sufficient. Darrah bought an axe, drove as far as Harrod's Corners, dismissed the Ford, and walked into a forest entirely familiar to him.

He emerged in half an hour on a Here he felled a tree across the road and sat down in the bushes to await events.

Toward sunset, hearing a car coming, he tied his handkerchief over his face below the eyes, and took an automatic from his pocket.

Sard's car stopped and Sard got out to inspect the obstruction. Darrah sauntered out of the bushes, poked his pistol against Mr. Sard's fat abdomen, and leisurely and thoroughly robbed him.

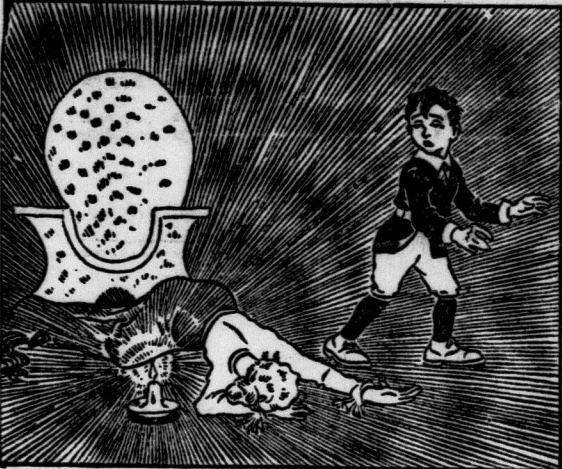

In an agreeable spot near a brook Darrah lighted his pipe and sat him down to examine the booty in detail. Two pistols, a stiletto, and a blackjack composed the arsenal of Mr. Sard. A large wallet disclosed more than four thousand dollars in treasury notes—something to reimburse Ricca when she arrived, as thought.

Among Sard's papers he discovered a cipher letter from Rotterdam—probably from Quintana. Cipher was rather in Darrah's line.

But Quintana's cipher proved to be only an easy acrostic—the very simplest of secret messages. Within an hour Darrah had it pencilled out:

"Take notice: "Star Pond, N. Y. . . . Name

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES.

JACK decided that the best thing for him to do would be to find a doctor and bring him back as soon as he could. The boy then hurried out of the house.

is Mike Clinch. . . . Has Flaming Jewel. . . . Erosite . . . I sail at once.

Having served in Russia as an officer in the military intelligence department attached to the American expeditionary forces, Darrah had little trouble with Quintana's letter. Even the signature was not difficult, the fraction 1-5 was easily translated Quint; and the familiar prescription symbol a spelled out which gave Quintana's name in full. He had heard of Erosite as the rarest and most magnificent of all gems. Only three were known. The young duchess, Theodora of Esthonia had possessed one.

Darrah was immensely amused to find that the chase after Emanuel Sard should have led him to the very borders of the great Harrod estate in the Adirondacks, which now was the property of Harrod's nephew, James Darrah.

When he came to the first trespass notice he stood a moment to read it. Then, slowly, he turned and looked toward Clinch's.

Fate, Chance, and Destiny were becoming very busy with Mike Clinch. They had started Quintana, Sard and Darrah on their trail. Now they stirred up the sovereign State of New York.

CHAPTER II.

TWO state troopers drew bridles in the yellowing October forest. Trooper Lannis said to Trooper Stormont:

"That's Mike Clinch's clearing. Our man may be there. Now we'll see if anybody tips him off this time."

Stormont nodded.

"All the scum of the wilderness gathers here," went on Lannis. "Here's where half the trouble in the north woods hatches. We'll eat dinner at Clinch's. His stepdaughter is a peach."

The sturdy, sun-browned trooper glanced at his wrist watch, stretched his legs in his stirrups.

"Jack," he said, "I want you to get Clinch right, and I'm going to tell you about his outfit while we watch this road. It's like a movie.

"HERE'S WHERE HALF THE TROUBLE IN THE NORTH WOODS HATCHES."

Clinch plays the lead. I'll dope out the scenario for you—back around 1900 Mike Clinch was a guide—a decent young fellow they say.

"About that time there came to Clinch's 'hotel' a Mr. and Mrs. Strayer. They were 'lunagers.' Strayer seemed to be a gentleman; his wife was good looking and rather common. Both were very young. He had the consump bad—the galloping variety. He didn't last long. A month after he died his young wife had a baby. Clinch married her. She also died the same year. The baby's name was Eve. Clinch became quite crazy about her and started to make a lady of her. That was his mania."

"Clinch had plenty of money in those days," he went on. "He could afford to educate the child. The kid had a governess. Then he sent her to a fancy boarding school. She had everything a young girl could want. 'She developed into a pretty young thing at 15. She's 18 now, and I don't know what to call her. She pulled a gun on me in July."

"What!"

"Sure. There was a row at Clinch's dump. A rum-runner called Jake Klopp got shot up. I came up to get Clinch. He was sick-drunk in his bunk. When I broke in the door Eve Strayer pulled a gun on me."

"What happened?" inquired Stormont.

"Nothing. I took Clinch. . . . But he got off as usual."

"Acquitted?"

Lannis nodded, rolling another cigarette:

"Now I'll tell you how Clinch happened to go wrong," he said. "You see he's always made his living by guiding. Well, some years ago Henry Harrod of Boston came here and bought thousands and thousands of acres of forest all around Clinch's. That meant ruin to Clinch. He was walled in. No hunters care to be restricted. Business stopped. His stepdaughter's education became expensive. He was in a bad way. Harrod offered him a big price. But Clinch turned ugly and wouldn't budge. And that's how Clinch began to go wrong."

Stormont nodded.

"Well, Clinch found money in many ways. The conservation commissioner in Albany began to hear about game law violations. The revenue people heard of rum-running. Clinch lost his guide's license. But nobody could get the goods on him.

"Then the war came and the girl volunteered. She got to France, somehow, Clinch wanted to be on the same side of the world she was on, and he went with a forestry regiment and cut trees for railroad ties in Southern France until the war ended and then sent him home.

"Eve Strayer came back, too. She's there now. You'll see her at dinner time."

Lannis finished his second cigarette, got back into his stirrups gathering bridle, began leisurely to divide curb and snaffle.

"That's the layout, Jack," he said. "Yonder lies the red light district of the North Woods. Mike Clinch is the brains of all the dirty work that goes on. A floating population of crooks and bums—game violators, bootleggers. . . . And there's the girl, Eve Strayer."

Radio Radiations

EDITH FLYNN AND KATHRYN LARSEN ARE SENDING OUT ELECTRIC MOTIVE ENERGY WITH AN ORDINARY BROADCASTING OUTFIT.

Radio as power!

The first step, spectacular in its import, has been taken.

Experiments have resulted in: Successful transmission of electro-magnetic radio waves that lighted an ordinary globe at a distance of 1,000 feet.

Another test that rang a bell seven miles away.

Scientists who have witnessed tests or heard about them declare the possibilities of such vast scope that radio and power transmission alike may be revolutionized.

Wallace F. Vail, president of the radio company, is making no forecasts. At this stage, he feels, the time is not ripe for prediction. He is enthusiastic, but cautious, discussing the tests conservatively.

Has Wonderful Field.

"It is still in the experimental stage," he states, "but when it is remembered that first experiments in radiophone transmission showed even a lesser range than have our tests, the new discovery might be said to open up a wonderful field of possibilities."

Up to this time electro-magnetic waves of radio have been confined to transmission of vibrations—voice, music, or dots and dashes of wireless.

In the experiments the transmission apparatus consisted of a common spark, familiar to amateurs who dabble in radio science, together with an undamped wave utilized to prohibit interference. About 10 amps was used in power.

The receiving set was placed at the end of the laboratory, about 1,000 feet distant. It was merely a condenser of a strong variable type. No audion tube or galena was used.

for detection. There was an aerial for both transmission and receiving. Yet the operator illuminated and extinguished at will an electric light of 110 volts capacity. Two horsepower of energy, direct current, was used.

Navy Investigating.

That this new radio discovery could be utilized in time of war in keeping the enemy from bringing explosives within a specified range is one of the important phases, it is change.

known.

What may be done in the way of developing power, when special equipment is used, the scientists leave to the imagination.

That it is staggering in its possibilities even the conservative admit. Further investigations and experiments are to be at once carried on.

CHANGE CANADIAN CALL.

Similarity of call letters used by many Canadian amateurs and those in the United States has caused the Dominion naval service to consider a plan for changing call letters here. It seems those of greatest likeness are nearest the border.

CONCERTS FOR AIRSHIPS.

Airship passengers may now enjoy radio concerts. This has been tested out satisfactorily on the commercial passenger airplane from Geneva to Paris. A previous experiment on the Paris-London route failed.

RADIO IS BLIND AID.

Ribbon is used extensively in furnishing winter frocks. Sometimes it is woven into girdles with long ends fastening directly in front. Frequently it is made into a full corset resembling corsage with long falling knotted ends. This is usually worn at the side front.

BEAUTY.

Many of the smartest beauty shops are adding courses in physical culture and have instructors who provide reducing exercises. The theory is that a woman must have a slender figure as a foundation for all beauty.

HOUSE GOWN

It's Been Lifted From Lowly Estate to Beauty's Realm

THE acquisition of pretty frocks for indoor wear is the simplest way to convince a woman that her place is in the home.

And it should be easy to do these days since what used to be known scornfully as a "house dress" is now a thing of beauty—and decidedly a thing of fashion.

Then the war came and the girl volunteered. She got to France, need not even be house frocks in other materials. They are shown in plain and plaid gingham, but would be equally good looking in twill or jersey.

One of them has the new sleeve that is full above the elbow and slants to a narrow cuff. Another has the modish bib front. Both show longer skirts and the still favored round neck.

MAILMAN AND INGRAM FASHION SHOW ATTRACTS

Crowds Turn Out to See Attractive Models in Latest Modes.

EVENT OF SEASON

Third Floor Turned Into Auditorium to Accommodate Spectators.

Deep, rich shades, borrowed from the colorings of autumn, vie with each other in the daintiness of pastel shades, for first place in the gowns exhibited in the Mailman and Ingram Fashion Show in progress on the third floor of the department store, Wednesday morning and afternoon, and again Thursday and Friday.

It was evident to the large number of spectators who attended the show that the success of a gown this coming season will depend on the richness of fabric and ornament and skillful grace of its design.

Rich crepe fabrics, heavy satins, velvets, brocades and the new blazer, all were lovely enough in themselves, but further enhanced by elaborate bead trimming or elaborate brocades.

With the ushering in of the longer winter, which is in spite of all predictions decidedly the vogue, the large comes once more into its own.

Beautiful Modes.

Pattern hats, worn by the stunningly beautiful models, ranged from extremely large and drooping brims to small, turban effects. Although small hats are still the thing at certain occasions, fashion has proclaimed the large hat the favorite of the winter, and lovely enough they are, formed in graceful lines, of one or plain velvet, duvetyne, plush and silver and gold metallic cloth, with the right note of trimming in a silver quill, a drooping plume or a feather.

Plats in Vogue.

Thin pleats, used to so much advantage in the newer dresses, formed lines of brown Canton crepe, falling in long straight lines, back and front, from the shoulders. Wide, white frills edged the sleeves, while each side of a belt, placed just below the waist, was an ornament of bronze studs. A hat of softly-folded velvet, lined with two gilt quilts, completed the costume.

Plating was used again for bell sleeves and pointed panels in a dress of black satin-faced Canton. With a frock was shown a hat of cloth silver, rising gracefully from the crown, in a high turban-like effect with bunches of silver grapes at each side.

Gray and blue were combined in a frock of navy periwinkle, the sleeves embroidered in blue, and the crown and vest of dove-gray velvet.

A fitch opossum fur and a large, its tricorn effect emphasized the costume.

Straight Lines.

Straight lines were cleverly combined with a suggestion of the circular skirt, in a second street frock, navy periwinkle, in which panels back and front were embroidered henna. Full sweeping sides showed circular effect, and gave the rounded unevenness of henna line. Worn in this dress was a squirrel scarf and a hat of black velvet, in pique effect, with an upstanding bow of black Chantilly lace.

Another mode for street wear was a smart Burlington coat, heavy cloth of gray, just the right color, lent by a dashing hat of flame-colored velvet, with a touch of silver embroidery.

Brown Llama velvet was combined with black Persian lamb in a suit of unusual beauty. Embroidery in a subtle checkered design was used at the bottom of the coat, and to a panel-like effect at the back.

Corns Go

Blue-jay

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plaster. The action is the same.

Statistics Show London Averages Nearly 5 Members to Each Family

London averages nearly five persons to the family, according to a report just issued by the London assessment department, respecting dwellings and apartments in the city.

This is the first statement of this nature prepared by the department in which such detail has been prepared, and the following interesting statistics are revealed:

with hands of the black Persian lamb on the collar, sleeves and bottom of the coat.

A huge buckle at one side formed the coat fastening. A huge show of brown velvet and a silver ornament trimmed the turban-like hat of brown.

A bow of brown chintilly lace, falling from one corner, lent a cleverly Spanish effect to a hat of brown velvet, faced with cloth of gold and worn with an afternoon frock of henna and gold crepe. Beads of henna and gold formed a girdle, while sapphire blue beads and just a glint of gold outlined the neck and sleeves.

Style Achieved.

Extraordinary beauty and style has been achieved in a suit of black duvetyne, embroidered in blue and gold and trimmed with hands of black fox fur. With this was worn a hat of black velvet, draped turban-like, and completed with a paradise plume.

Bands of lynx fur and rich embroidery marked the wide sleeves of an evening wrap of brown marvellous. The model disclosed an evening gown, with front and back formed of two panels of flame-colored brocade, caught together at the sides with flowers, over long georgette panels of the same rich shade. A huge Spanish comb and a string of jet beads were the only ornaments needed to complete the exotic beauty of this costume.

Blue panne velvet of an unbelievably rich shade, formed the quaint blouse and circular skirt of an evening frock, in which silver lace was the only ornament. The blouse and skirt, at the waistline, topped a frill of silver lace and a narrow quill at the neckline of the silver lace.

Evening Gowns.

Heavy metallic cloth of silver and gold was combined with tulle and georgette in a number of the evening gowns, all of which show the narrow frill draping and the uneven hem line.

There was a hint of the old-fashioned crinoline in a gown of orchid velvet, cut with a circular skirt, and with bands of white fox fur, the sole trimming.

The contrast of dainty frocks for evening wear and sturdy tweeds for school was shown by a little girl model, who wore a heavy topcoat, a beaver hat, brogues and woolen stockings, over a pleated skirt and middie blouse, and again a party frock of delicate peach colored georgette crepe, accented pleated. An elaborate child's frock shown was of flame-colored lace in panels over georgette, with narrow ribbons of blue and silver at the waistline. An exhibition of clever and graceful dancing in a dainty little ballet frock of orchid shades was given by the little model.

The stage arrangement at the fashion show is such that the frocks are seen to the utmost advantage, with just the proper lighting effects and an accompaniment of soft music.

The five models are exceptionally graceful and beautiful women, and wearing simply beautiful costumes, they present an indescribably lovely appearance.

Thirty costumes are listed on the program and there are a number of extras.

CALLS ON U. S. TO INTERCEDE IN EAST

of the Turkish Nationalists and the allied powers was to begin in earnest today, following the belated arrival of General Mazarakis and Colonel Sarantakis, the Greek representatives. Yesterday's meeting was perfunctory, being adjourned immediately to await the arrival of the Greeks. Dispatches declare Col. Plastiras, one of the heads of the recent successful revolutionary movement, will, at the last moment be appointed the chief Greek delegate. The Athens government also is understood to have instructed its representatives to remain firm on the question of Thrace, which continues to be the main bone of contention. Of the other delegates, Brig.-General Harrington, for Great Britain, has been given a free hand by his government, and Ismet Pasha, for the Turks, is assumed to have explicit directions from Mutapha Kemal Pasha based on the assurances given the latter by M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy. The demand that the Greeks evacuate Thrace within eight days is regarded as almost an impossibility. Constantinople dispatches mention the possibility of a blockade against Greece by the allies if the Athens government refuses to recall its forces, but this is not borne out officially by the Times. The newspaper considers it unsafe to leave the province in the hands of either the Turks or the Greeks, although it believes Turkish sendarms might be employed there if previously disciplined by western officers.

Commenting on this, the Times expresses the opinion that the situation in Thrace is one of very great peril, and fears that M. Venizelos does not greatly exaggerate in his description of it. The newspaper considers it unsafe to leave the province in the hands of either the Turks or the Greeks, although it believes Turkish sendarms might be employed there if previously disciplined by western officers.

REPORT FINANCIAL LOSS IN BRITISH STEEL INDUSTRY

London, England, Oct. 4.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Hopes which have been expressed with considerable confidence in many quarters of a gradual revival in the iron and steel industry have been damped by the disappointing report that the United Steel Company's big merger, floated in the boom period and embracing several large Yorkshire concerns, had a total loss for the past year of £500,000.

BRITAIN ASKS U. S. TO RETURN SEIZED LIQUOR

Embassy at New York Makes Representations to State Department.

Taken on September 14 Controversy Involves $21,000 Cargo of Steamship Buena.

New York, Oct. 4.—The British embassy, according to the New York Herald, has made representations to the United States state department, seeking the return of a $21,000 cargo of liquor seized on September 14 from the British steamship Buena.

The representations, says the Herald, are also understood to involve the seizure of the British vessel's American cargo, and the whole threatening further widespread destruction at the slightest provocation of the elements.

In St. Louis County alone there were 100 fires burning, according to the latest reports from the forestry department.

Women and children have been removed from all of the threatened area to places of safety, and personal belongings were being either taken out or made ready for instant evacuation. There was no indication this morning that the prayers of the whole north country for less wind and lots of rain would be answered today.

STEEL ARRIVES FOR UNIVERSITY BRIDGE

Work on Beautiful Structure Proceeding Rapidly Towards Completion.

Scenes of activity mark the site of the new steel university bridge at the foot of University street. The approaches on both sides of the river have been graded and the stonework approach proper on the Richmond street side is almost complete. The two large abutments in the river are complete, and stone masons are at present employed finishing the approach on the university side.

More than twenty teams and as many as 100 men are busy drawing gravel and grading the beautiful drive to the site of the new buildings. When complete the new central buildings will be easily seen from the bridge.

Sections of the steel superstructure have arrived in the city, and are now being put in place. Huge cranes are at work and soon the work of forming the arch of the superstructure will be begun.

John M. Moore, local architect, pointed out that when completed, the beautiful stonework and general architectural lines of the new bridge would make it one of the most beautiful bridges in this section of Ontario.

G.T.P. DEBENTURE PRICES REGISTER LARGE ADVANCE

London, England, Oct. 4.—Grand Trunk Pacific Railway 4 per cent debenture stock was quoted at 47½ here yesterday, an advance of eight points in two days, seemingly the result has been in consequence of reports of a reduction in the operating expenses of the railway.

Some financial commentators are skeptical as to whether the debenture holders are justified in anticipating an early resumption of the payment of dividends.

Presbytery Raps Sunday Golf Championship in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—Declaring that a direct contravention of the Lord's Day act had been committed, the Winnipeg Presbytery yesterday vigorously protested the playing of golf championship games in the city on a Sunday. In a resolution passed, it was asserted "that the spirit which disregards law because such law does not suit the personal inclination or desire of the individual is the spirit of anarchy."

The presbytery does not at present contemplate any legal action.

The Manitoba open golf championship was staged here last Sunday.

FIRE ENDANGER FORESTS IN NORTH

Women and Children in Minnesota Moved to Safety.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 4.—Northern Minnesota's forest area today continued a veritable sea of smoke, dotted with fires, some under control, some admittedly beyond control, and the whole threatening further widespread destruction at the slightest provocation of the elements.

In St. Louis County alone there were 100 fires burning, according to the latest reports from the forestry department.

Women and children have been removed from all of the threatened area to places of safety, and personal belongings were being either taken out or made ready for instant evacuation.

FIND MOUNTAIN OF FINE MARBLE

T. H. Yull and London Party Visits Bancroft, Ontario.

New Natural Resource May Be Big Canadian Wealth Producer.

Some short time ago a letter was written to the editor of the Montreal Star, in which the writer, under the heading, "If I Owned Canada," dwelt upon the necessity for a national accounting and taking stock of natural resources, describing the Dominion as "a magnificent country with immense possibilities."

There is hardly a Canadian who is not familiar with the resources of this country in timber, fisheries, gold, silver and nickel, and to a less extent, its oil and coal.

Recent discoveries have unearthed a new natural resource that bids fair to take a place in the front rank of Canada's wealth-producing assets.

Marble has been found at Bancroft, Ontario, marks of the finest kind known to architects, builders and marble contractors. It is there in stupendous quantities, millions of tons of it, and in more varieties than the far-famed Italian quarries, or those of Vermont have ever shown.

Samples were brought to London by Mr. D. Cameron of Bancroft, and shown to a party of London business and professional men, including architects, builders and marble contractors. One and all were astonished at the beauty of the marble, and the extensive variety of veining and colorings, and could hardly believe it possible that such marvellous marble deposits existed in Canada.

Party Visits Bancroft.

Accordingly, it was arranged to form a party for the purpose of inspecting the property, and among others Mr. T. H. Yull of the Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, went to Bancroft to check up and verify the statements made. Following is Mr. Yull's story in his own words:

Taking the train at London, I journeyed as far as Trenton, 100 miles west of Toronto, then straight north to Bancroft, near the end of the railway. Here is a wild country, rocky, densely wooded, sparsely populated. Everywhere, on trees, posts, at railway depots and sidings is found the yellow warning notice of the government, reading as follows:

STOP!
Before you leave SEE that your FIRE is OUT

Save the forests and camp again. City avenues, movies, electric lights, street cars and stores seem far away. Instead, the environment is the eternal rock, the forest and the hill.

Mountains of Marble.

Striking off from the railway, about 200 yards, we came to a hill, which in size and height might be compared with Reservoir Hill, Springbank. This, our guide informed us, was simply a hill of solid white marble.

Imagine, if you can, an entire mountain of pure marble, under a few inches of soil and grass. We could see where the tests had been taken here and there over the whole hill, and drillings showed pure marble everywhere.

This hill alone seemed to contain enough white marble for all Canada's requirements over the next thousand years, but later we saw a report by Mr. F. W. Wilkins, domain surveyor, in which he stated that beds of great thickness existed here, containing millions and millions of tons of marble, and expressing his delight at the beauty of the markings, which, he confessed, were beyond his powers of description. He said he had travelled very extensively and had never seen anything to match the marbles on the property.

Still this was the beginning. Leaving this white marble hill, we ascended a small valley and ascended another higher hill, on which we could see workings showing where marble had been taken out. This hill, which was even larger than the first, is practically one huge marble mountain. Within the reach of a single derrick we saw green marble, light and dark; green marble with white and cloudings of pink and white; cream marble with bands of green; pink marble with green, blue and white bands; blue marble with white and white veins; grey marble with white or darker grey veining and many other varieties. In fact, it is claimed that at no other point on the earth are so many different varieties found together. No less than fifteen distinct kinds of marble are here in finest quality and unlimited quantity, whereas the greatest number of varieties present in any one locality in Italy is seven.

Brecchia Type Plentiful.

Away off to the west of this hill lies another range containing a great deposit of pink marble, and various varieties of a kind known to the trade as Brecchia, a dark mass filled with irregular shaped fragments of all sizes. This Brecchia has been pronounced the equal of the finest similar variety found in Italy.

A mile or so still further east is a high ridge running for several miles, overlooking the shores of Lake Umbagog, and reached, after a long struggle through the underbrush and dense forest growth, characteristic of this region. The ridge will produce some of the finest marble in the world, without a doubt. Practically the entire ridge, a mass of countless millions of cubic feet, is pure marble in a beautiful cream ground color, delicately traced with veins of chocolate brown in rippling waves, a supreme example of nature's artistry in stone.

Wherever the stoneboat had scraped in taking out the samples of marble, down the hillside from the crest of this ridge, there is revealed marble underneath, all along the way.

BIG FASHION SHOW SCORES TRIUMPH

Advertiser Spectacle At Grand Theatre Continues To Please Crowds.

The Tuesday audiences at the Advertiser Fashion Show at the Grand Theatre were even more responsive than Monday's with appreciative applause for the charming models from the Harriet Boomer Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire.

The young ladies worked with a finished technique that won instant admiration. The Fashion Show went over with a smoothness that would be creditable to professionals.

The gowns, the wraps, the millinery, the footwear and the men's wear were commended by all, and it is confidently stated that many patrons were favorably impressed with the magnificence of stock displayed in London stores. The stage setting is one of the finest and most expensive ever shown in a London playhouse, and reflects credit on the employees of the theatre who supervised its erection. The electrical effects were particularly worthy.

The feature photograph, "Queen of the Turf," was enthusiastically received, as was the vaudeville bill. The added attraction of Miss Josephine Vail in clever dancing, and Bert Caldwell's singing of "Three O'Clock in the Morning" and other Leo Feist songs, were decided hits.

The Fashion Show will continue all this week, with change of program Thursday. The young ladies anticipate their efforts will be productive of a good sum in aid of the Sick Children's Hospital.

Ortl's Limited, display of two men decides in the Fashion Show is a decided hit, as also is the Oak Hall model, showing a businessman's suit with winter overcoat. Ortl's Hobberlin dress suit and street suit is the very newest sample of the well-known Hobberlin tailoring.

PROBABLE SEWERS FOR MANOR PARK

County Engineer Authorized To Furnish Report On Drainage and Outlet.

For the benefit of the people of Manor Park, the county engineer will furnish a report on a sewerage system for the section of Westminster Township, the township council assured Mr. Jolly, a resident of the park, when he appeared at the regular session at the county buildings yesterday afternoon. Mr. Jolly appealed for drainage, and an outlet for it, for the park. On motion of Councillor Laidlaw, seconded by Councillor Boles, his appeal was sustained.

A deputation from Lambeth addressed the council on the extension of water mains, and the matter was referred to the engineer.

The court of revision will settle the McPherson drain assessment appeal on Saturday, October 14.

Plans of a survey of lots, known as the Dawson Survey, in the vicinity of Springbank Park, will be made, it was decided.

YARDMAN INJURED IN FALL FROM BOX CAR

While working in the East End Grand Trunk yards, where he is employed as a yardman, E. Neely, 1305 Dundas street, fell off the ladder of a box car Tuesday night, receiving severe injuries. Neely struck his back on a rail and suffered severe lacerations. The accident occurred shortly before midnight.

Dr. F. R. Clegg was called to the scene, and after attending to Neely's injuries ordered him removed to his home, where he will be laid up for a few days.

These marble deposits particularly commend the durability and weatherproof qualities of the marble, and its easy accessibility all over the district, and mentions the great advantage, in the presence of beds of high-grade cutting sand, such as is used for sawing the marble into slabs for commercial use.

It is no exaggeration to say that the Bancroft marble deposits represent millions of dollars of natural wealth, and that their development will keep in Canada much money that has hitherto gone into Italian pockets, or those of the marble quarry owners of Vermont and Tennessee.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

TO CONSOLIDATE ALL WATER ACTS

Power Users Appear Before Committee of Legislature On Waterways.

Paper Companies Declare Province Suffering From Over-Government.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Representatives of nearly all the large water-power users in the northern part of Ontario appeared today before the committee of the legislature on waterways, Hon. Beniah Bowman, minister of lands and forests, presiding at a discussion on the proposed water act of 1922. The other members of the committee are: Peter Heenan, M. L. A., Charles MacRae, M. L. A., Z. Macneil, M. L. A., R. M. Warren, M. L. A., and T. K. Slack, M. L. A.

Hon. Mr. Bowman explained that the water act was being introduced to consolidate the seven acts dealing with water-powers in the province.

Colonel Thomas Gibson, who appeared for the Spanish River, Lake Superior and Fort William paper companies, and the Algoma Eastern Railway Company, the largest water users in the province, agreed that the act should be consolidated, but the formation of the proposed tribunal, he said, was an unnecessary expense and was complicating the machinery of government.

Too Many Regulations.

"We are suffering from over-government," he declared, "not bad government, but too much government."

There were too many regulations, he asserted.

"These people are afraid of confiscatory legislation," Col. Gibson said, with reference to the taxing of the interests for which he appeared. "We have in Quebec a competitor who is beating us out of our boots. If we are not careful, within the next ten years Quebec will get $100,000,000 that should be invested in this province."

Referring to the section requiring the filing of water rights and containing certain provisions of forfeiture, Colonel Gibson characterized it as "an unwarranted and intolerable interference with the exercise of property rights."

Hon. H. P. Phippen, representing the Kaministiquia Power Company, claimed that the proposed legislation would sweep away the water rights of Fort William which were granted to the owner in perpetuity. The industries of Fort William were all dependent on these water rights, he said. "This grant of perpetuity was as binding on the present government as on the government which had made it."

To Consolidate Acts.

K. C. Wood, representing the Algoma Central Railroad Company, which is now in receivership, said the projected development would go on, as men with money would step into the breach and the legislature should not take away their water-power any more than the legislature should take their mines and timber lands.

C. A. McDonald, of the Mond Nickel Company, said the proposed bill had caused great uneasiness. He suggested the elimination of a certain section of the proposed act and asked that the act be administered by a responsible minister under one department.

It was finally agreed that the various acts should be consolidated, having regard to existing rights, and that some machinery be devised to settle disputes regarding control of water levels.

CONFER ON NEEDS OF NATIONAL LINES

Railway Officials Discuss With Graham Plans For Betterment.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Requirements of the Canadian National and Grand Trunk Railways for the ensuing year were fully discussed at a lengthy conference today between D. H. Haney, president of the Canadian National Lines; W. D. Robb, vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk system; and Hon. George P. Graham, acting minister of railways and canals.

Work for the betterment of the joint system, as well as steps to be taken in bringing about further co-ordination of the two wings of the national system, were discussed by the executive heads of the two units.

Railway matters, it is believed, are likely to be to the fore at tomorrow afternoon's meeting of the cabinet council, though whether or not these will include any further progress toward appointment of the board of management of the national system is problematical. Plans in regard to the appointment of the executive head of the national system were, it is understood, considerably delayed owing to the serious illness of the minister of railways, Hon. W. C. Kennedy, in whose hands the negotiations were prior to his illness.

These were taken over by other members of the government when it

Kitchener Parents Warned of Early Appearance of Diphtheria.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, Oct. 3.—Sanitary Inspector Rau, backed by the local board of health, issued a sharp warning to the parents and teachers of Kitchener today in connection with the early appearance in the schools here of diphtheria. He stated that three cases of the disease were reported and quarantined today.

Inspector Rau, in his warning to the parents, stressed the fact that by their co-operation alone could the city authorities assure the community against a possible epidemic of the disease. He requests that parents and teachers examine the throats of children in their charge each day so that all trouble may be caught in its incipient stages and diphtheria avoided.

was found that Mr. Kennedy's absence from Ottawa was likely to be protracted, and it is believed that the necessary appointments to the board will now be forthcoming without much further delay.

FIRES THREATEN QUEBEC PROVINCE

Rain and Assistance of Farmers Necessary To Halt the Devastation.

QUEBEC, Oct. 3.—(By Canadian Press).—"Only rain and good will on the part of farmers and settlers can save the situation," said G. C. Piche, chief forester of the province of Quebec, tonight, commenting on the forest fires that are raging in practically every section of the province.

Although the atmosphere cleared away somewhat about the city today, and the mountains were visible for the first time in weeks, the clear weather showed distinctly where the fires were burning, especially on the south shore. Volumes of smoke were seen to rise at different points from the forest areas, and tonight the glow of the fires could be plainly seen from this city.

Mr. Piche attributes the majority of these fires to careless hunters who smoke while walking through the brush and also to settlers who burn slash and brush in a period of drought like the present one.

While reports on fresh outbreaks are constantly coming in, Mr. Piche said that the worst fires were raging at the following points: near Lake Kipawa, along the Gatineau, on the LaSalle River, on the Red River, at Rawdon, near Shawinigan, near Hervey Junction, in the north of Port Neuf County, at Perthuis, at St. Jules de Loblain, near Laurier station, at Cranbourne, St. Camille and at Lake Frontier.

Fire is also raging in a peat swamp in the rear of Lewis County, and although there is not much danger from this outbreak, clouds of thick black smoke are rising from it and give the impression, when seen from a distance, that the outbreak is much more serious than it really is.

HON. J. A. ROBB EXPLAINS GRAIN SHIPPING SITUATION

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(By Canadian Press).—"We have no desire to destroy Canadian shipping, but this government is not here to protect the Canadian shipping interests at the expense of the shipper and the grain industry. If we find that you are using the coasting laws so as to force Canadian wheat into American channels the government will have to consider amending these laws."

This statement was made by Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of trade and commerce, to representatives of the lake shipping interests, who gathered in his office this morning to discuss complaints of discrimination in grain rates between Canadian ports as compared with rates between Canadian and American ports.

REARRESTED, MAN FACES CHARGES OF BURLARY

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, Oct. 2.—William Kit of this city was arrested by Chatham police as he left the Sandwich jail yesterday following a sentence of two months which he had completed. He was brought to this city and charged with two burglaries. He will come up in the city police court on Thursday next for a hearing.

WOULD ABANDON ISOLATION IDEA

American Bankers' Association Favors Participation in Affairs of Europe.

Convention Inclined To Indorse Partial Cancellation of Allied War Debt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—An overwhelming sentiment favoring America's abandonment of her policy of isolation from European affairs, and the substitution of a policy which might even involve partial cancellation of the allied war debt, today swept through the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

The subject was broached by Thomas W. Lamont, associate of J. P. Morgan, whose plea in behalf of American unselfishness turned the convention into an uproar as the 10,000 delegates, representing 23,000 banks in the United States, voiced their approval.

Financial leaders, who asserted that until recently the question of debt cancellation had brought only protests from small and large banks throughout the country, expressed great surprise at the changed attitude evidenced today. A year ago, they pointed out, a proposal similar to that cautiously advanced by Mr. Lamont, was emphatically turned down by the association.

Formal action on the question of European debts to the United States government, or the formulation of a definite program of new loans and trade contracts is not expected of this convention, however. Leaders declare that they are satisfied with the evidence that the bankers of the country are amenable to America's more active participation in foreign financial stabilization, and will depend upon the early development of a public opinion which will justify the administration in making overtures to the foreign nations concerning the possibility of a basis for readjusted settlement.

The subject will be resumed tomorrow, when Right Hon. Reginald McKenna will address the bankers on "Reparations and International Debts."

SPARTA PIONEER FARMER DIES FROM PARALYSIS

Richard Yelland Was One of Elgin's Prominent Agriculturists.

Special to London Advertiser.

SPARTA, Oct. 3.—One of the most highly esteemed residents of this village, Richard Yelland, passed away Monday morning about 4 o'clock. Mr. Yelland had several slight strokes during the past four months, but about a month ago he was taken with a very severe stroke, which ended fatally. The late Mr. Yelland came to Canada from England when but a boy of six, and had spent all his life in this community. He was an industrious and highly esteemed citizen and made a great success of farm life.

Beside Mrs. Yelland, William and Mrs. Gilbert Bailey, who live on farms near the village, survive. The funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late residence, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Husser, pastor of the Methodist Church, of which Mr. Yelland was a member.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—Sentences imposed this morning in connection with the drug traffic which is at present scouring Montreal, included: Stevens Upwood, six months for having heroin in his possession; Albert Villeneuve, $200 and costs or six months for having cocaine in his possession; Frank Lloyd, six months for having morphine in his possession, and Charles Cassidy, six months for having both cocaine and morphine in his possession.

ASK EXORBITANT WAGES TO WORK AT HARVESTING

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3.—Refusal of unemployed to accept farm work unless at exorbitant wages, threatens gravely the harvest situation throughout northwestern Manitoba. Hon. Neil Cameron, minister of agriculture, declared today.

"The situation to say the least is very acute," Mr. Cameron said. "He did not think any crops actually had been spoiled as yet, but grain was standing out in the field and unstocked and horses were idle for the want of men to do ploughing."

Mr. Cameron declared the price being asked by some of the men was ridiculous. Many men were refusing to go into the harvest fields at less than $7 to $8 a day.

BANDITS FAIL IN ATTEMPT ON BANK

Shotgun Frightens Marauders From Canadian Village Near Montana Border.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3.—An attempted bank robbery at Bromhead was frustrated early this morning, when the citizens were aroused by the robbers using dynamite to open the safe of the Bank of Montreal. Firing of a shotgun by one of the citizens surprised the gang as they were blowing the inner door of the safe, and they made a hasty escape. The building, robbed the Melita branch of the Union Bank of Canada Sept. 23. At Melita the robbers obtained war and Victory bonds valued at $100,000 and $7,625 in cash. Most of the bonds are registered.

The robbers followed the same procedure as in recent bank robberies throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan, cutting all telegraph and telephone wires. The provincial police were notified from a town east of Bromhead.

This is the second time Bromhead has been visited, presumably by the same gang. On Aug. 19 two local stores were entered and robbed. Bromhead is a village of about 200 inhabitants, and is the first point on the Canadian side of the Montana border.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered by the provincial government for the capture or information leading to the arrest of the bandits who

Time of game—2 p.m.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Tonight, on the eve of the world's series, the baseball atmosphere is surcharged with rivalry, for disension regarding the ability of the two local teams and their individual stars has divided the fans of New York against themselves.

Although the American League players still rule the favorites to reverse the decision of a year ago, the odds are steadily dropping. In place of the 8-to-5 odds prevailing last week, Yankee supporters quote 6-to-5 tonight, and there is little heavy wagering even at these short odds.

Supporters of the American League pennant winners point to the greatly increased strength of the Yankees' pitching staff. Giant rooters counter with the claim that the Nationals, too, have gained strength since 1921, and in Manager John J. McGraw, the Napoleon of baseball, have a diamond strategist of incomparable calibre.

Every reserved seat in the stands and boxes has been sold, and given fair weather, such as the local post-nosticator heralds for the morrow, the 22,000 unreserved seats should be occupied long before the first Yankee batter takes his place at the plate.

The advance guard of numerous out-of-town spectators are already taking the capacity of convention-congested hotels. New records in either attendance or receipts are unlikely, however, for, with the return to the seven-game series, duplication of the figures established in last season's best five out of nine games appear impossible. Another year, when the Yankees' new park, with its seventy to eighty thousand seating capacity, is completed there may be a different tale to tell, but this season the 1921 total receipts for eight games of $900,233 and the aggregate attendance of 293,977 seems safe.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, "high commissioner of baseball," selected for the umpires' places W. J. Klem and Barry McCormick of the National League, behind home-plate and at second, while George Hildebrand and C. B. Owens of the American League will work close to the first and third base foul lines.

LITTLE THINGS MAY DECIDE A WORLD SERIES

BY EDDIE COLLINS.
World's Greatest Second Baseman.
HERE are little things, considered here, which the public know nothing of, that enter into the outcome of many a world series.

For instance, in 1910 the Athletics knew practically every ball the Cub pitchers were throwing in the first three games played. That's a pretty good "ace in the hole," you'll say.

In 1913 there was a certain pitcher on the Giant team who unconsciously showed by his pitching motion what he was going to throw, and as a result he lost.

Last year the Yanks sought to have the green canvas which acts as a background for the hitters at the Polo Grounds lowered during the series. After considerable argument McGraw complied, and the Yankees players now admit that it worked a greater hardship upon their hitting than they figured it would.

In 1914, owing to a misunderstanding between Managers Mack and Stallings, the Braves missed the use of Shibe Park for practice on the day before the first game. Stallings players were led to believe that they had been denied the use of the field. As a result of this erroneous impression, more hard feeling existed between the two teams than in any series in which I have ever participated.

Had Tough Time.
Josh Devore had a tough time of it fatiguing his pitching at the Athletics in 1911, striking out four times in one game against Plank.

The next spring while en route to training camp, a number of Giants and Athletics players met in St. Louis. Devore, who was a pitcher, was talking together. Barry and I joined them. We exchanged greetings, but Devore didn't speak.

"What's the matter?" asked Doyle, "don't you know Barry and Collins?"

"How do you know I don't?" Devore answered quickly. "I never got as far as second base in that series last fall."

That probably was the use of Shibe and smart pitchers as Chief Bender, but for crassness I've never seen his equal.

I'll never forget one play he pulled on no less a person than Manager Frank Chance of the Cubs in the 1910 series. Two on base, two out in the fourth game, being played in old West Side Park in Chicago.

Chief finally worked the count down to three balls and two strikes. Then before pitching the final ball, he stopped deliberately in the box, turned around toward his outfield and waved them back with both hands, as much as to say plainly: "I am going to give him a fast one, play deep."

Slipped One Over.
Then he proceeded with his windup, and threw up the prettiest curve ball, which Chance, with his bat on his shoulder, watched float across the plate for the third strike.

It is an unusual occurrence nowadays to see an umpire hit by a batted ball. But this happened in the 1911 world series, and if I remember correctly, sent the game into extra innings.

Harry Davis hit a line drive off Mathewson back through the legs, he struck Tommy Connolly squarely in the back—hurt him, too. The Athletics had a man on first at the time and it looked like a cinch for him to have gone to third on the hit. But, of course, he was not permitted to do so.

A long fly followed and a run was thrown away.

The Athletics eventually won the game, so the incident was soon forgotten. But I can't help thinking how vivid it would have appeared if we had lost.

There are hundreds of "bits" and "ifs" in every ball game, but it takes only a victory to blot them out.

McGraw's HARD-HITTING CATCHER, EARL SMITH.

Hughie, Famous Lieutenant, Has Other Fads Than Just Picking Grass

By Dudley Siddle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Hugh Jennings, assistant manager of the New York Giants, cuts lots of ice on the ball field. At home he doesn't even cut the grass. Occasionally his wife can get him into the yard to do his stint on the weeds. But mostly he is exceedingly spoiled husband contents himself with scolding the family easy chair during his hours away from the Polo Grounds.

For the summer, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings have rented a furnished house in New Rochelle—"forty-five minutes from Broadway." It might as well be 45,000 miles from Broadway for all they care. The important thing to them is that the air is pure, that golf links and bathing beaches are near, and that New Rochelle is within easy motoring distance of the Polo Grounds.

Wife is His Hobby.
Van Oyen, the mascot photographer, was bent on getting a photo of Jennings engaged at his favorite hobby. For she is perfectly able to do it. Jennings has a hobby nevertheless. Anybody but a photographer could see it. His hobby is Mrs. Jennings.

And he's hers!
Mrs. Jennings was brought up in a large family in Scranton, Pa. As a girl she got the habit of taking care of her sisters and brothers—and for the last 12 years the lucky Hughie has been getting all the attention that she used to spread around among the whole flock.

How He Likes It!
And, oh man! How he likes it! He sits there at breakfast and fatly beams his way through the meal as she toted in the baked apples with thick cream, the coffee, and the rest of the ammunition a husky ballplayer needs to start the day.

Not content with looking after all the domestic duties, Mrs. Jennings drives him to the Polo Grounds every morning when the club is in town. She goes to all the games. And when manlike, Hughie wants to talk shop with the players, she sits by his side and players as far back as he cares to go.

But she was supposed to have been a story about Hughie Jennings, not Mrs. Hughie.

Happiness Galore.
However, a truthful and accurate reporter couldn't help but overlook him entirely when telling about his home life. All he does in New Rochelle is to look up his happiness and comforts that she provides in abundance.

Though Jennings is a lawyer, a Cornell graduate, he devotes little time to the law, as his managerial activities keep him fairly busy the year round. In the winter he and Jennings make their home in Scranton.

He hits to batter their way to the front promptly and hold the lead until the Giants' hurlers.

Much will depend upon "Babe" Ruth's ability to hook into the delivery of the opposing league's star buster. Months ago he was not in a physical condition to do himself justice. Aside from a slightly strained side today, he is ready, and Yankee fans are hoping for a national fashion in his second factor of the Giants' hurlers.

Below, pictured with his wife, is shown in the picture above on his lawn—about as near as he ever comes to mowing the grass.

LEE WORTHY EQUALS WORLD'S RECORD

Lexington Grand Circuit Card Provides Fine Racing.

LEXINGTON, Oct. 3.—Lee Worthy, driven by Ben White, won the 20th renewal of the Kentucky Futurity by his greatest diamond triumph.

Idol of New York for his record in the first heat, Worthy, owned by H. M. Hanna, Jun., of Cleveland, who has been one of the nation's contenders all season, made Lee Worthy go the first heat in record-breaking time.

The 2:08 trot was one of the best races of the day, and was won by the western trotting gelding, David C. Peters. Manning will start tomorrow to break the track record of 1:57.4, and Nedda will attempt to lower her world record of 1:54.4.

TOM ROWAN NAMED AS COACH OF 1922 SQUAD

LONDON is certain of an O. R. F. U. team as a result of last night's organization meeting held at the "Y" and the entry will go in tonight.

Albert M. Judd, himself an old footballer, heads the list of officers, with Erle Nelles as manager. Tom Rowan, as predicted in these columns some days ago, takes over the coaching reins, and no wiser choice could have been made, because the "big howitzer" has lots of football knowledge tucked away and has the personality to get the best out of any squad.

Twenty-one candidates are in view, all experiences material, and besides there will be several soccer players who will be given try-outs.

FREE STATERS AGREE TO OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

Form of Oath Is Incorporated Into New Irish Constitution Tuesday.

INTRODUCED BY O'HIGGINS

Amendments Proposed by Gavin O'Duffy Turned Over by Assembly.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—The Irish government has issued a proclamation offering full amnesty to all offenders who surrender their arms by October 15.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—The Parliament today passed, by a large majority, the clause of the new Irish constitution containing the oath of allegiance.

In moving the article of the treaty containing the form of the oath, Kevin O'Higgins, minister of home affairs, said it was not a particularly pleasant task to recommend that particular article to the Irish assembly, but as they believed the tampering with this and other similar articles would mean throwing away of the harvest of the present struggle, they were not prepared to allow that harvest to rot in the field.

Mr. O'Higgins said he could not admit the suggestions appearing in the press, which stated that the oath was optional. He declared that such a position was opposed to common sense. No British or Irish signatory would admit that the oath which gave so much trouble and tension in the last stage of the negotiations was not to be taken by all members of Parliament precedent to taking their seats in the Dail, he asserted.

Gavin O'Duffy, former foreign minister, moved an amendment modifying the oath in such a manner as, its sponsors claimed, would not give the anti-treaty partisans and laborites into direction against the treaty. An amendment from the labor group sought to add a further paragraph in which the swearer would undertake to act in matters concerning the Free State only on advice of the executive. Both amendments were defeated.

Mr. O'Higgins, supporting the government's position, pointed out that the Republicans who sat at Westminster took a full oath of allegiance, as did Republicans in the Parliament of South Africa and every other country. "Clause 17, which contained the oath, was then voted and agreed upon with out division."

Article XVII of the new constitution, which contains the oath, reads: "The oath to be taken by members of Parliament (Oireachtas) shall be in the following form: "I do solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the constitution of the Irish Free State as by law established, and that I will be faithful to His Majesty King George V., his heirs and successors by law in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland with Great Britain and his adherence to and membership of the group of nations forming the British commonwealth of nations."

"Such oath shall be taken and subscribed by every member of the parliament before taking his seat thereat, before the representative of the crown, or some person authorized by him."

FAILS TO MOVE EMPRESS IN ATTEMPT TO REFLOAT

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 3.—Another unsuccessful attempt was made this morning to refloat the C. B. R. steamer Empress, which is on Black Point ledge. In addition to the steamer's own engine, there were the tugs Margaret A. Hackett, J. A. Hackett, Piper, Springhill, Catherine K. and Helen G. also the steamer Aberdeen, but their combined efforts failed to move the liner. The tugs took hold of the Empress at 9:30 o'clock, and for one hour continued a steady pull, but then had to desist, as the tide was falling. This afternoon a section of the ledge is to be blasted away, and it is hoped that this will afford a better opportunity of moving her.

WOODSTOCK SOFTBALL.
WOODSTOCK, Oct. 3.—The second round of the championship softball series between the Business and Manufacturers, which was called in the eighth inning owing to darkness last Friday, will be replayed this week. According to a local ruling, a game must go the full nine innings before it counts, so the game is to be played over again.

Proclaim Corn Quarantine in Certain Sections of Western Ontario.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(By Can.) Because of the finding of European cornborer in parts of the counties of Bruce, Halton, Huron, Kent, Lambton, Lincoln, Peel and Westmorland, and the danger of this insect being spread to other districts by movement of corn plants or portions of plants infested, a domestic quarantine has been proclaimed effective in Culross Township of county of Bruce, Turfburg Township, Huron, Trafalgar Township, Halton, Chatham, including the Gore of Chatham; Dover East and Dover West in Kent County; Dawn, Enniskillen, Moore and Sombra in Lambton County; Grimsby Township, Lincoln; Albion, Chinguacousy and Toronto townships in Peel, and Barton Township in Westmorland.

Montreal Girl Makes Two Unsuccessful Attempts To Take Her Own Life.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—Determined to end her life, a 15-year-old girl first tried to throw herself from a third-story window, and, on being stopped by her parents when half-way out of the window, attempted to drink a bottle of iodine, from which fatal act her parents again stopped her.

The latter, fearful of their child's life, this morning had her brought before Judge Choquet, who had her placed in a convent for a week while plans mature for her future. The reason for the girl's desire to end her life was because neighbors, concerning whom she is alleged to have spread scandal, demanded of her parents that the child furnish proof of her allegations. Worry over the situation resulted in the attempted suicide.

AYLMER MAN IS GUILTY OF THEFT

Judge D. C. Ross Deprecates Anonymous Letters Sent Him Regarding Accused.

Special to London Advertiser. ST. THOMAS, Oct. 2.—In convicting James Millard of Aylmer on four charges of stealing small amounts under $5 from the Brown House in that town on May 30 last, Judge D. C. Ross took occasion to deprecate the practice of writing anonymous letters to him in the effort to sway his judgment.

Numerous letters of this type had been received, he said, and while he would be pleased to hear anything regarding the character of the prisoner which might recommend leniency, he warned the writers that rather than assisting the prisoner, they might do him harm.

Sentence will be imposed Saturday morning, and the application of C. St. Clair Letch to have his client released on bail was refused.

A sensation was occasioned in the court, when Mr. Letch was present, in his argument for the defense. He referred to the conduct of Mr. Zimmerman in the cases and openly insinuated that he had instituted the actions against Millard in an attempt to get out of paying the several hundred dollars that he had admitted borrowing from his former clerk, and he was inclined to think that Mr. Zimmerman had been guilty of a grave criminal offense.

"If that's not crime, I don't know the Criminal Code of Canada," stated Mr. Letch. "The whole case has developed some very unusual and extraordinary aspects, and this is one of them."

Mr. Letch challenged the presence of W. Harold Barnum of Aylmer at the trial as private prosecutor. He wished to know by what right Mr. Barnum was there and was taking part in the proceedings. The fact that he was robbed was evidence that he was there in an active capacity. Did it mean that Crown Attorney McCrimmon was incapable of handling the case alone?

Judge Ross deprecated Mr. Letch's allegations, explaining that the court was only concerned with the criminal aspect of the case and had absolutely nothing to do with any civil action that might arise. So far as the reputation of Mr. Barnum was concerned as a private prosecutor, he considered that Mr. McCrimmon was empowered to use whatever instruments he desired in conducting a case and his twenty-five years' acquaintance with Mr. Barnum would not permit him to think the latter was being made to use the criminal court to thwart the civil court.

"I might say that if Mr. Barnum, or any other barrister, ever attempted to use the criminal court for that purpose, he will have a hard time succeeding, and I would warn them that they had better not try."

His honor stated that he had no reason to disbelieve Mr. Zimmerman's evidence in the charges heard. He considered he had testified in an honest manner.

JURY DISAGREES IN PARIS TRIAL

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 3.—The fifth trial of John Paris, mulatto, of Truro, charged with the murder of Little Sadie McAuley in Riverview Park on Aug. 2, 1921, came to an end tonight, and resulted in another disagreement. The jury was discharged, and the prisoner, on motion of the attorney-general, was remanded to jail.

AMENDS DRAFT OF RESOLUTION

Methodist Delegates Tone Down Analysis of Conference's Attitude.

Change Interpretation That Conference Pledged the Youth For War.

Special to London Advertiser. TORONTO, Oct. 3.—The delegates to the Methodist Conference spent a busy afternoon in committee working. The special committee which drafted the resolution setting forth the position of the conference on the Near East situation have toned down that resolution in the hope it will pass the conference without any serious opposition. When it was held up yesterday the opposition was chiefly centered on the interpretation that it pledged the Methodist youth of the land to go to war if the Dardanelles trouble led to hostilities. Many felt that the delegates had no right to make such pledges for other persons.

Accordingly today Rev. S. G. Bland, assisted by other members of the committee made changes to meet such objections without to any great extent lessening the force of the resolution as at first drafted.

With the exception of the church union committee, which has adopted the draft form of the bill to be presented to Parliament, few of the decisions as to the form of resolutions they will bring in.

TELEPHONE CITY POPULATION FALLS
Decrease of 1,532 Noted in Past Year At Brantford—Unemployment Blamed.

Special to London Advertiser. BRANTFORD, Oct. 3.—The population of the city at the present time, according to the reports of the assessment commissioners, totals 30,109. This shows a decrease of 1,532 during the past year. It is stated that the main reason for the decrease is that many local families have left for the United States on account of there being little employment here for some time. In Mr. A. G. Ludlow's report he says: "As the majority of our plants are manufacturing agricultural implements, those particular lines were affected most by the depression. However, in my opinion, the worst is over, and normal conditions will come back quickly."

During the quarter closed on September 30, 50 short-term prisoners have been assigned to the local county jail. Eight of these were women, making 17 women to pass through this institution during the year. The offenders were mostly drunks and other offenders against the O. T. A. and petty thieves. The cost of maintenance was 19½ cents per day.

Four building permits were issued by City Engineer Adams yesterday, amounting to an approximate cost of $555. The permits issued were as follows: J. Gancarczyk, Ann street, shed, $25; J. T. Thompson, Dundas street, garage, $50; J. J. Jamieson, Dan street, garage, $450; C. V. Noble, Erie avenue, garage, $50.

The school medical report for the month of September shows that 263 school children were examined by Dr. Alexander during the month. Of these, 179 were found to be suffering from medical defects, and were given the usual medical treatment or referred to their family physicians. Thoroughness of the report is to the effect that 109 homes were visited during the month, while from the classroom report it was found that there were the following defects: Eye disease 19, defective eyesight 71, pediculosis 20, and scabies 13.

SEEKS DAMAGES THROUGH COURT

Kitchener Agent Sues City For $1,200 When Street Car Smashes Auto.

Special to London Advertiser. KITCHENER, Oct. 3.—A writ was served on the city today by A. B. Caya, a local manufacturer's agent, for damages amounting to $1,200 to his motor car, which, he alleges, were occasioned when a Kitchener Waterloo street car ran into an automobile on the street and crashed the vehicle into his car which was parked at the curb. The Caya car was a total wreck. The suit will be defended by the light commission, which operates the street cars.

The assets of the Kitchener Light Commission announced here today by Secretary Clarke, in receiving verification, in the annual report of the hydro-electric power commission, are $653,652.17, the highest figures in the history of the local commission. These are contrasted with liabilities amounting to $253,381.56, the percentage of the debt to the total assets is 39, which is considered low. The report places the local commission in the front rank financially of the commissions of the province.

The provincial highway from Centerville to Centerville was completed today, and will be allowed to set for two weeks before traffic between Kitchener and Centerville is permitted. The contractor has moved his plant to Centerville, and will start immediately on the laying of concrete between Centerville and Freepoint. He expects to complete this latter end

HOLD ANNIVERSARY IN SPARTA CHURCH

Methodist Services Largely Attended—Men Serve Up Old-Time Dinner.

Special to London Advertiser. SPARTA, Oct. 3.—The Methodist people are congratulating themselves on the great success of their church anniversary services Sunday and Monday, which are declared by many to have been the most successful in their history. By special request the Rev. Dr. Husser, the pastor, took the morning service on Sunday, and Mrs. Husser the evening.

There were more than 400 people present at the morning service, and in the evening the large church was packed to capacity with 500 people or more. The singing by the large choir under the leadership of T. Min-his was very fine. On Monday evening an old-time dinner was served by the men of the congregation, who were dressed in white aprons and fancy paper caps, and did much credit to themselves.

After dinner a splendid program was put on by local talent, in which the following took part: Solos were given by Messrs. McKenzie and Minnie; readings by Mesdames McKenzie and Kilgour; quartet, by Messrs. Minnis, Dr. Husser, Mrs. Minnis and Mrs. Husser; violin solo by Mr. Minnis, and a piano solo by Amos Rogers, the pianist. Rev. N. Gould of Port Stanley, a former pastor, gave a brief address.

NARCOTICS CLAIM VETERAN OF WAR

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—A war veteran, Patrick Henry Flynn, aged 28, 117 Versailles street, succumbed today to what is believed to have been narcotic poisoning. Morphine was found in his clothing when his body was searched at the morgue.

CHARGES GOVERNMENT IS RESTORING PATRONAGE

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—Charges that under the present government patronage in civil service is being restored by the flouting of the civil service act and the civil service commission, and that returned soldiers are the sufferers, are made in the latest issue of The Veteran, official organ of the G. W. V. A.

In Chatty Vein— Fortune's Reverses

—are anything but lamentable when the other side of a very wide, black crepe sleeve flaunts such colors as king's blue, pomegranate or lagoon green. Then Fortune is kind again when she permits leg o' mutton sleeves to come out of the past.

Clocks and Embroidery Abroad

—are as popular as ever "The Innocents" were, at least in the matter of Hostery. For the smartest Silk Hostery Paris wears has hand-drawn or open work clocks. And smart wool Hostery for Fall possesses embroidered clocks of contrasting colors in picturesque designs.

The Sweets of Secrecy

—Corsets know them. They know that a most important secret of perfect costuming is for them alone. But this Fall they're very nice about it; they're light, long and slim, really scarcely more than girdles.

One Would Never Dare

—to think the importance of kings was on the rise when King's Blue looms up as a Fall color to be compared with. Its bright rays make many Fall fabrics charming.

A Russian Dot

—that's really not at all red unless it chooses to be appears in the very smartest, new draped Veils. It's apt to be golden brown or black or blue, or perhaps geranium. Or just be part of a decorative pattern effect.

Not Lavender

—but a very chic air is associated with old Lace this Fall. And extremely smart Neckwear takes great pride in rare bits of Irish Riel, Irish crochet or Valenciennes that appear in collar and cuff sets, Bertha capes or Jenny effects.

It Might Not Be Blessed

—but it's tremendously nice to receive Silk Knickers as gifts. Even if you have to give them to yourself. They're very attractive in such street shades as hunkow blue, bois rose, vatician, dark green and navy.

To Go Forward

—as to progress, is the opinion of drapes. That is, it must be, for the newest Evening Gowns wear drapes to the front. And a gown of silver lace over sorretto blue lame cloth floats forward, draperies with a joyous certainty.
