LORILLARD DEAD.

New York, July 8.—Pierre Lorillard died at 2.10 yesterday afternoon. Pierre Lorillard was the eldest son of Peter Lorillard, architect of the fortune which made the family name famous. He inherited much of the business ability of his father, and marked success attended the commercial enterprises which he planned and executed. At the death of his father he received about $1,000,000 and an interest jointly with his brothers and sisters in the great tobacco house of which his father had been the head. He at once purchased from his brothers a control of the house, and by shrewd management greatly increased his fortune. He built a handsome residence at Fifth avenue and 56th street, and entertained in princely manner. In 1874 he became interested in the turf. His first great horse was Parole, and with Iroquois, in 1881, he was the first American to win the classic English Derby. He was also an enthusiastic yachtsman, and once raced his Vesta across the Atlantic. He founded and controlled at the time of his death the fashionable resort at Tuxedo. He was nearly 68 years old. He is survived by his wife, son (Pierre Lorillard, Jr.), and daughters, Mrs. William Kent and Mrs. Tauffern Taylor. He leaves a large fortune.

PAN-AMERICAN, BUFFALO, N. Y. Parties who intend visiting the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, can secure private accommodation within ten minutes' walk of the grounds. For particulars and rates address M. H. Terry, formerly of Chatham, 1202 W. 4th Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE CLUB TO TRAVEL

Local Cricket Eleven to Make a Tour Next Month.

They Will Also Spend a Week in Toronto—A Meeting to be Held Soon.

The interest now being manifested in cricket matters since the opening of the season in Chatham is now taking definite form in the shape of a proposed tour to Toronto, besides a week's cricket under the name of a "Canterbury week." It is to be hoped that a rousing meeting of the club and the devotees of cricket will be held to make definite arrangements for entertainment and business connected with the same. The meeting will likely comprise all the active members of the team, besides such lovers of the time-honored game as Messrs. S. J. Wood, A. Howard, W. Hall, R. Mercer, W. S. Ireland, G. B. Douglas, A. F. Falls, S. Perrin, Dr. J. L. Bray, Dr. Fleming, Dr. W. R. Hall, C. E. Atkinson, Dr. Wm. Bennett, W. Pringle, G. P. Schofield, G. S. Heyward, besides such active figures as W. B. Wells, L. L. Nicholls, W. G. Richards, S. S. Kofage, J. W. Kenny, J. Horstead, S. F. Dennis, and Rev. J. W. Aitken, R. Miller, P. Miller, W. H. Tye.

The Chatham club now has the honor of winning every game played this season, and are to be congratulated on the showing made with the Gordon-McKay Co., under the able management of J. W. Woods. It is a matter of regret that Canada possesses so few generously disposed cricketers, such as Mr. Woods, who has graciously consented to return to Chatham to play a game on August 5th, Toronto's Clive holiday, although Chatham owes them two return games, this proposed one making the third.

Mr. Woods is most desirous to see a representative team from the west visit Toronto during August for one week, the special game being "All Toronto" against the "West," with games with each individual team such as Gordon-McKay Co., Toronto Rosedale, Parkdale, etc.

A RALEIGH PIONEER GONE.

John Howard, a pioneer of Raleigh, died at his late residence, Gravel Road, on Thursday, June 27th. He had been in failing health for some time, but was not seriously ill until within two weeks of his death. Mr. Howard came from Ireland with his parents 50 years ago, and settled on a farm near the Lake Shore, afterwards removing to Raleigh 18 years ago. He leaves a widow, one daughter, Minnie, and two sons, John and James. Two brothers, Lawrence, of this city, James of Lake Superior, and two sisters, Mrs. Kelly, of Detroit, and Mrs. Crawford, of Kansas City.

ATROCIOUS TREATMENT OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS

Boers Shoot the Injured British in 'Cold Blood'—The Work of Clearing Out the Boer Guerrillas Making Steady Progress—Boer Privateers.

Brussels, July 6.—The Petit Bleu says that Mr. Kruger has lately refused to entertain proposals to arm privateers, but that the promoters are again urging the former President of the South African Republic to notify the powers that unless they intervene he will issue letters of marque. In the event of Mr. Kruger's continued refusal the promoters propose to act without authorization.

Mr. Kruger has definitely abandoned his American visit on account of travelling fatigues, as well as the clearly expressed attitude of strict neutrality of the United States Government.

WOULD BE CONSIDERED PIRATES. Washington, July 6.—The report from Brussels that former President Kruger is being urged to notify the powers that unless they intervene in the South African contest he will commission privateers is not treated seriously here. It is well understood, as one outcome of the war with Spain, that the United States Government will never again threaten in the most extraordinary emergency, issue letters of marque and the same reasons that impel the Government to the course undoubtedly would operate to prevent the United States Government from recognizing any such warrants issued by any other nation, even were that nation in full standing. In the case of the Spanish war both of the belligerents, by agreement, refrained from issuing commissions to privateers, and it now has been many years since the flag of any respectable nation has flown over such craft. In the case of Mr. Kruger it is extremely doubtful whether he would, if the issue were forced in this way, be recognized as a "de facto" president, authorized to issue commissions to privateers. That point would have to be settled at the outset, and each nation whose commerce was affected or was threatened by the privateer would determine for itself his competency. It is scarcely to be expected that they would decide against their own commercial interests, so that Mr. Kruger's privateers would find it difficult to secure general recognition. The threat to send out privateers without ex-President Kruger's consent is idle. It is pointed out here that such craft would be pirates, pure and simple, and the civilized world would combine to sweep them from the seas if they should begin operations against the commerce of any nation.

BOER ATROCITIES.

London, July 8.—The Daily Mail gives sensational prominence this morning to the mail advices from Viskifontein, which attributes to the Boers inhuman atrocities that the editor would not allow to be described by cable.

A couple of Boers, says the Daily Mail's correspondent, "who were armed with Martini's, were walking around among the dead and dying. Some they turned over to see if they were dead. If it were otherwise, then one or the other of the Boers shot them as you would shoot an ox. I saw four killed in this way. One youngster pleaded for his life. I heard him say, 'Oh—don't!' and then bang went the rifle. That is what happened."

The Daily Mail protests vigorously against the suppression by the censor of such details.

LORD KITCHENER SATISFIED.

London, July 7.—A British army of two hundred thousand men is still employed in waiting and watching for a force of Boers ranging between 7,000 and 10,000 men.

The last incident officially reported is the burning of a railway station fifty miles from Johannesburg, on the Natal Railway, with a final repulse of the raiders. It was even more insignificant than the wrecking of a train on the Pieterburg line.

The largest Boer force which has been raiding or skirmishing during recent weeks does not exceed four hundred men. The captures of stock and supplies are constantly reported by General Kitchener, and the Boers are surrendering by scores or hundreds every week.

It is evident that the Boer guerrilla warfare becomes month by month less vexatious, and that Gen. Kitchener is gradually wearing down by processes of attrition the Dutch resources for resistance, marvellously efficient as these have proved. The bands of raiders have been reduced in strength, and their capacity for inflicting injury has been impaired. The loss of horses would be an insuperable obstacle to a continuance of guerrilla warfare if the fighting Boer, when reduced to hard straits, were not enabled to conceal his gun and masquerade as a refugee farmer. The difficulty of ending the war has been increased by the readiness with which the Boers without uniform have been transformed into neutrals and British sympathizers at a moment's notice, and also by the systematic arrangement for feeding and protecting the women and children.

THE STATE OF EUROPE.

Their joint action in China has not done much to bring the great powers into closer relations with each other. On the whole, the Chinese intrigues have induced more cordial feelings between England and Germany and produced some coolness between the latter power and Russia.

On the continent itself, in spite of universal peace, there is more than one storm centre showing signs of unrest and danger. Bulgaria is ripe for mischief, and the "young Turkish" party are troublesome. Russia, having now thoroughly denationalized the Finns, is casting covetous eyes on Scandinavia, while its designs against Persia have been for the moment checked by Britain. Three causes contribute to curb Russia's military aggression. A grievous famine affects thirteen millions of her people who are living, if living it may be called, on rusk made largely from cork tree bark. Secondly, the national credit is at a low ebb, thirdly, there is imminent danger of a revolution. Russia has made great advances towards establishing manufactures and trades' unions have put in an appearance in the large towns, adding a large body of Artizans to the already disaffected student class.

Strange as it may seem, there is no country in Europe where a revolution could be more easily effected than in Russia, where the loyalty of the army seriously undermined; because there we have no middle class as in England to act as a buffer between the people and the Emperor and to assist in curbing disorder. A fourth cause might be added, deterring Russia from launching her armies against Austria or Turkey. She is straining every nerve to develop and colonize the fertile plains of Southern Siberia and to complete the construction of the canal between the Baltic and the Black sea so as to avoid interruption by British warships and to transport her fleets at will from ocean to ocean through her own territory. On the other hand, were the danger of revolution more pressing, the Tsar might distract the energies of his people and appeal to their patriotism and religious devotion by declaring war against Turkey. Austria, once one of the greatest of powers, is now a disjointed or at least loose combination of numerous nationalities held together by the popular personality of the Emperor and liable to fall to pieces at his death, when Germany would absorb some of the disrupted Empire.

France has been steadily losing ground, relatively, at least, to other powers. Germany exceeds her by one-third in population, and can put a correspondingly larger force in the field, though France is still much stronger by sea. France has been practically stationary in population, the United Kingdom now surpassing her by three millions. Hence France has no surplus population to colonize her large possessions in Madagascar, Indo-China, and Africa, and these colonies involve her in a pecuniary loss of many millions of dollars yearly. No actual case has arisen to test the sincerity of the Franco-Russian, or as it is called, the Dual Alliance, but the sincerity of the Russians may be doubted.

Italy is severely suffering financially from the ambitious effort to keep up an army and fleet equal to those of more wealthy nations, and were it not for the hundred million dollars spent annually by England and American tourists, she would be dangerously near bankruptcy. Germany takes the lead as a military power, though by actual count Russia could send out a larger but slower army. The industrial strides of Germany are great. Their last census shows 296 works or factories which employed over 1,000 persons each in 1895, and employing in all, 562,628 hands, and 665,365 horse power in use. Krupp's cannon factory taking the lead with 44,067 workmen. In mercantile marine and ship-building they are also well up to the front. The Hamburg-American steamship Company employs 8,145 seamen and 6,498 aboard ship, while the Vulcan ship-yard employs 7,208 at Stettin. Germany has a compact settlement in the southern part of Brazil, and should she formally annex it, trouble may ensue with the States.

The minor powers and kingdoms may be passed over with brief comment. Some, like Spain, are, in Lord Salisbury's phrase, "dying," though Spain has many natural advantages over France, being compact and square in shape, with a good sea-board, and far superior in mineral wealth. The loss of her colonies may yet prove her financial salvation. Greece only saved a few years ago from utter destruction by the great powers, has learned to let Turkey alone, and is increasing in population faster than any other nation in Europe. Turkey is still hopelessly steeped in debt and extravagance with an army which could be most formidable if properly fed and led. Belgium, preserved from war, has increased in wealth till Antwerp rivals Liverpool. Holland is also prosperous and under certain circumstances might be united with Germany, which would thus not only gain Holland itself, but the valuable Dutch Colonies and add much to its position as the leading power of central, if not of continental Europe.

Britain stands in an altogether peculiar and exceptional position. She is in, but not of, Europe. That is to say, she has ceased to meddle in European wars and quarrels. She is in some respects the greatest Asiatic power and is rapidly founding another mighty empire in South Africa.

Separated by national ideals, language and the ocean, from the continent, she is protected from invasion by her fleet. Owing to the growth and loyalty of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and her own increase in population, Britain will have at the close of the South African war a formidable army, thoroughly trained, with colonial aid in case of need, and with those communities added she forms a population of 50 millions, being only second to Germany and Russia, leaving India out of count. The only point of continual friction — a serious one, however, — interesting Britain is Morocco, which is coveted by France, and the possession of which by that power would endanger the supremacy of Gibraltar. Germany has warned France that she cannot be permitted to annex Morocco. Spain, nettled at England's aid to the United States, threatened to build forts on overtopping heights, which with modern guns would command Gibraltar, but this scare has died out. Lord George Beresford has done the nation timely service by calling at attention to the immediate duty of strengthening the Mediterranean fleet so as to be able to hold its own against all comers.

PETROLEUM AS A STREET MAKER.

The experiment of laying the dust for the season by sprinkling the roadways with crude petroleum, which was tried in a small way in Westmount last year, is spreading in the United States. It not only keeps down the dust, but is quite an insecticide. On the pools and in gutters it makes the froliesome mosquito bite the dust. The odor is immediately suggestive of the large sized breath of an onion eater, but this wears off in time, and the dust and microbes remain attached to the ground for the season. The non-scientific newspaper paragraphist is irreverently remarking that in Texas they are also using crude petroleum now to "raise the dust."

RESULTS OF BAD EXAMPLE.

Tilbury News. Taking courage from the example of the jail-breakers in Chatham, a young Leamington jail-bird followed their example the other day. Stronger precautions than iron bars and stone walls will have to be used if the jail-breaking practice continues to flourish. We are quite willing that the United States should hold the palm for proficiency in such acts as these, as well as for lynching and divorcing.

HOSPITAL SHIP MAINE.

Montreal Star. The announcement that the hospital ship Maine has been presented to the British navy is indeed a most gratifying evidence of kindly feeling on the part of many of the most philanthropic and thoughtful people of the United States, towards the much-abused and oft-misrepresented British. The hospital ship was fitted out by the ladies of the United States, and sent to South African waters on its errand of mercy at the outbreak of hostilities. It has now been made a gift to the navy of the power with the same language, laws and aspirations, the same ideas of freedom and the same sincerity in promoting civilization held by the people who paid for the ship.

THE CRYSTAL BEACH DIFFICULTY.

Correspondence has been going on some time between the deputy minister of labor, Mr. W. L. MacKenzie King and Mr. W. Philip, of London, re Crystal Beach, Buffalo. It will be remembered that Mr. Philip's contract to furnish a Canadian band for this summer resort was knocked out by the labor unions of Buffalo. Mr. King says, in reply to yours: "I beg to enclose for your information a copy of the act to amend the act to restrict the importation and employment of aliens," which was passed at the session of parliament, which has just closed. From this amendment you will see that the interested parties are themselves in a position to take the steps necessary for the enforcement of the law without the intervention of this department. I enclose you also a copy of the original act so that you may be fully informed as to the law and the necessary procedure for its enforcement. Mr. Philip, it is understood, will go to Buffalo and try conclusions with the managers of this popular Canadian summer resort.

THE WESTERN FAIR.

London, September 5th to 14th, 1901.

The first Western Fair of the twentieth century promises to be a record-breaker in all the essential features that go to make up a varied exhibition of the products of the soil, the skill of dairymen, the judgment and knowledge of our breeders of thoroughbred stock, the skill of the artisan, and the general perfection to which agrarian operations and all that pertains thereto may be brought. It is only when such are concentrated and brought within the compass of a day or two of pleasurable sight-seeing that one is enabled to realize at a glance the richness of the section from which the Western draws its patronage and the vast possibilities of the land we inherit. At the Fair grounds all conveniences have been improved, and exhibitors will be pleased to know of the additions and alterations in the Prize List as are calculated to give the greatest amount of satisfaction to the exhibitors. The speeding of the Ring, always a feature of the Western Fair, will this year, with enlarged purses, be more attractive than ever, while the incidental attractions are the highest-priced that could be secured. The gymnasts are all of the first-class in the vaudeville world to-day, and not the least interesting feature is a full troupe of performing elephants. Prize Lists may be had on application to Mr. J. A. Nelles, Secretary.

MUCH READING FOR LITTLE MONEY.

The New York World has got the cost of printing down to a minimum. Its latest offer of its monthly newspaper magazine is interesting if from no other cause than that it shows the acme of "how much for how little."

The Monthly World is a 32-page magazine with colored cover. Its pages are about the size of the pages of the Ladies' Home Journal, and it is copiously illustrated in half-tone. The illustrations are the result of the best artistic skill, aided by all the latest printing press appliances, making a magazine unrivaled in the quality of its contents and its appearance. Each issue contains stories of romance, love, adventure, travel; stories of fiction, and fact; stories of things quaint and curious, gathered together from all over the world; the results of scientific research, and editorial reviews. It numbers among its contributors the leading men and women of the day.

A feature each month is a full-page portrait of the most famed man or woman of the moment in the public eye.

In collecting and preparing for publication the literary matter and art subjects for the Monthly World no expense is spared.

The New York World will send six numbers of this newspaper magazine on receipt of fifteen cents in stamps. Address The World, Pulitzer Building, New York.

TWO INDIAN LEGENDS

THEY BOTH RELATE TO THE ORIGIN OF THE "BLACK HAND."

A Historic Relic of Former Days In a Beautiful Spot in Ohio That Was Blasted Away in the Ruthless March of Progress.

As the average tourist, traveling eastward from Newark, O., dashes through a rocky cut near the eastern limits of Licking county, he likely does not realize that this spot was once one of the most picturesque, romantic and historic localities in Ohio. Such a traveler should read the history and legends of "Black Hand"—a history that reads like a dream of Aladdin, legend that finds its beginning in the dim primeval days, when an immense lake filled the entire Licking valley and poured its surplus water over an immense natural sandstone dam four miles across. During the ages which rolled away, the waters by erosion cut through the sandstone, leaving two parallel walls which rise about 50 feet. When civilization reached what is now Ohio, it found a swirling flood in this rock bound ravine. The faces of the cliffs round the canyon were covered with a growth of ferns and flowers and its fragrance to the sylvan and its delicate tints to the landscape.

This is the beautiful spot that afterward came to be called "Black Hand." In the early part of the last century the promoters and surveyors of the Ohio canal took advantage of the rock walled channel to form a storage dam for that early civilization. About which down the canyon a sharp headland protruded into the river. Here the first surveyors found, cut in the face of the rock, a gigantic human hand. The carvings had been filled with a black pigment, which still remains, a whom the carver belonged. Though nature had raised a stone for him, he carved not a line to tell who he was or why he carved.

Accounts of the size of the black hand differ. Old men say their parents saw it and that it was eight feet from the tip of the thumb to the tip of the little finger. Others say it was larger and some not so large.

But the rock which bore the hand was in the way of the canal builder, and in 1825 they drilled into the face of the cliff and blasted away the historic relic. Not content with that, they cut it into blocks, ruthlessly chiseling away the carvings and tracery, and with the blocks built a sustaining wall, over which the river might flow while drawing wealth into the western world. The black hand on the rock's face lived only in the memory of its destroyers.

When the Central Ohio Railway company in the early fifties desired to pierce the garden spot of Ohio, they took advantage of the grades established by nature from Zanesville and followed the Licking river. When Black Hand was reached, the builders encountered a headland on the opposite side of the river corresponding to Black Hand rock and cut sheer through it. So today the east bound tourist sees little of Black Hand.

Many legends linger about the locality. An Indian said at the door of a settler's cabin and told this story: "Many years ago the red men at war with those in the middle and northwestern parts. Chief among the former were the Mingoes and among the latter the Wyandottes. In one of the tribes and bloodthirsty Indians into the Mingo hunting grounds a young chief of great promise was captured and carried back by the Wyandottes. Instead of killing the young Mingo, however, as was the usual custom, he was made a servant and compelled to earn the good esteem and fellowship of his captors, a fate worse than death to the young Indian.

The words of his captivity, however, were lightened by the kindly attention of a young Wyandotte maiden, the daughter of the chief of the tribe into which the Mingo had been adopted. Genuine affection knows no condition, for it rises above all environment. The maiden fell in love with the unfortunate young chief, and, though watched by the crafty tribesmen, they made their affection known to each other and decided to fly to the Mingo country.

"One night they made their escape. At daylight they were missed and were pursued by a posse of Wyandottes. The girl had left behind a tribesman lover, who, burning with the passion of a disappointed lover and aching for vengeance, traveled faster than the couple and overtook them at Black Hand rock. "They heard the pursuers behind them, knowing that worse than death awaited them if captured. With the stoicism of the savage they walked to the edge of the precipice and surveyed the flood. Folding the idol of his heart in his arms, he sprang into the boiling waters. The pursuers were close enough to see the last chapter of the drama. The disappointed pursuers marked the spot as the Caucasian found it.

The other legend—and one worthy of perpetuity—is born of the geology and country and the trade conditions of the aborigines. About five miles southwest of Black Hand is a great outcropping of chert. The place is known now as Flint ridge, and the flint, rare on this continent, was much valued by Indians and mound builders for making implements of agriculture and war. Like the pipe stone quarries of the Dakotas, where the Minniscott Sioux and Mandan work side by side in apparent peace, either the tribes came up, the place being considered sacred to the giver of all good and perfect gifts. For a radius of five miles around Flint ridge rested the blessing of the great spirit, or that of the orb of day, the divinity worshiped by the mound builders. None of the tumult of war was found within that space. Parties in quest of the flint coming to the confines of the charmed circle laid down their arms for the purpose of mining the necessary stones, for the time forgetting the traditional hatred of foes. They came from the Mississippi valley, probably by water, and debarked from their trail craft at the foot of the rock.

The romance says the spread hand carved on the rock was in mute appeal and forcibly reminded the wayfarer in a way at once forcible, as it was poetical, that thus far and no farther should the waves of unlighted vengeance roll. The hand marked the portal of a sanctuary which was sacred to the savage, whose just for blood rose above every other consideration in his narrow but intense, isolated but eventual life.—Ohio State Journal.

TORONTO FRESH AIR FUND.

The Toronto Fresh Air Fund has entered upon its eighth year's work, and has for its object the sending away to the country for two weeks, mothers and children who are badly in need of a change. Good homes have been provided for them on farms, where they get substantial food, and are well cared for. These children and parents are selected by the best known Mission Workers in Toronto, who are well acquainted with every case that is dealt with. For the mothers and babes who are unable to leave home, day excursions are arranged, and about one hundred at a time are taken to one of the Parks on the Lake Shore, and before leaving for home, refreshments are served to them. The pleasure and the profit that is the outcome of this work, is inestimable. Thinking that some of our readers might like to help their poorer brethren, we will receive subscriptions and acknowledgments, and forward it to the Treasurer in Toronto, or they may be sent direct to the Rev. H. W. Dixon, room 6, 15 Toronto street, Toronto.

DANIELS DID IT.

Judge offered to pay to the United States government a quarter of a million dollars for the privilege of advertising on the back of postage stamps, and the government declined the proposition with thanks. Now we see that Mr. George H. Daniels, G. P. A. of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, has got his picture advertisement of the famous Empire State express-train on the face of the new Pan-American two-cent stamp, printed in two colors, and of which more than three hundred millions will be issued by Uncle Sam. What Judge would like to know is, how did Daniels do it? Although not what you might call a poor man, he could scarcely afford to pay the money value of this dazzling concession; nor is he known to have any special political pull. It must have been his almost superhuman eloquence. — Editorial from Judge.

HOW BIG SEA TURTLES FEED

Take Big Balls of Grass Out to Sea East While Swimming.

With my gastronomic taste I naturally was very curious to know just what kind of terrapin are caught in these waters, for the dish is one much sought after by epicures and forms part of the menu for every first class hotel on the coast. I was told that none is caught about here, but was invited to a sea turtle hunt. Let the reader imagine a turtle weighing all the way from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds, and not long ago one was turned over on the beach near Miami that weighed more than 1,000 pounds. Of course I am giving the largest weight, for the average weight of those caught along the coast is about 500 pounds. After they are caught the turtles are kept for a long time, their captors feeding them on cabbage, lettuce, turnips, carrots and sea grasses.

The study of this monster shellfish is a most interesting one. In order to get rid of the parasites that cling to their shells they often enter fresh streams to enjoy a bath, but they are extremely timid and take fright at the least noise. The hunter knows, however, that the turtle feeds in brackish streams where the tide falls rather low and where the turtle grass grows in greatest profusion. The turtles cut great quantities of this grass and then roll it into a ball, cementing it as they roll it with the clay in which the grass grows, and in this way, when they have managed to amass a goodly supply of provisions, they wait for high tide and float away seaward, feeding as they float.

The professional hunters are quick to detect these balls, and just the moment they do so they set their seines and send their peggers, as the men are called, in search of the feeding shoals. Men are not the only enemies the turtles have, however, for bears, raccoons and other animals native to Florida destroy great numbers of them.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Cor. Baltimore American.

UNDER AN UMBRELLA.

An Expensive Adventure of a Famous Parisian.

Romieu, the famous Parisian wit, was one day caught in a shower and forced to seek refuge in a doorway of the Opera House. It was 6 o'clock already, and he had an engagement in the Cafe de Paris for that very hour. The rain fell in torrents. There was no carriage to be had. He had no umbrella. What was he to do? While he was lamenting his bad luck a gentleman with a large umbrella passed by. Romieu was seized with a sudden inspiration. He rushed out and grasped the stranger by the arm and gravely installed himself under the protecting umbrella.

"I am overjoyed to see you," he immediately began. "I have been looking for you for two weeks. I wanted to tell you about Clementine."

Without giving the stranger time to express his surprise Romieu rattled away with gossip and anecdote until he had led the unknown companion to the door of the Cafe de Paris. Then he glanced at him with a face of well feigned astonishment.

"Pardon, monsieur!" he cried. "It seems I am mistaken."

"I believe so," said the stranger.

"Good gracious!" added Romieu. "Be discreet. Don't repeat what I have told you."

"I promise you."

"A thousand pardons!"

Romieu hastened within the cafe and amid great laughter told the adventure to his friends. Suddenly one of them said:

"Your cravat is rumpled."

Romieu put his hand to his neck and turned pale. His pin, a valuable acquisition, was gone. On further examination his purse and watch were found to be gone. The man with the umbrella was a pickpocket.

The Opal Superstition.

There is one superstition of wide range and influence that is directed against one of the most beautiful objects in nature, the opal. A man in my town failed in business, and what do you think he did? Took his opal ring into the yard and smashed it to pieces with a hammer! He ascribed his bankruptcy to that opal, and he intended neither to suffer such misfortune again nor to allow any other one to do so by inheriting or buying that ill starred property.

One of the most amusing instances of a trust in wrong things is reported from New York, where a man took an opal to a jeweler and asked him to sell it, as he had had nothing but bad luck since he owned it. His business ventures having failed, his children having suffered illness and the old scratch having been to pay generally. The jeweler found the gem to have been an imitation. His falsity must have been obvious to everybody except the victim, because the opal is the stone that has never been even passably imitated.

His Emancipation.

Away back in 1771 Josiah Woodbury of Beverly, Mass., thus published his happy emancipation from matrimonial woes:

Beverly, Sept. 16, 1771. Ran away from Josiah Woodbury, cooper, his house plague for seven long years, Manry, Old Maid, alias Trill of Vengeance. He that will never seek her; he that shall keep her I will give two Bushel of Beans. I forewarn all Persons in Town or County from trusting said Trill of Vengeance. I have now all the old (deceased) I can find for joy, and all my neighbors rejoice with me. A good Riddance of bad Ware. Amen! Josiah Woodbury.

OLLIE REEVES

Gets Three Years in the Central Prison for Assault and Carrying Concealed Weapons.

The case of Ollie Reeves for carrying dangerous weapons and also assault came up again before Magistrate Houston at the police court this morning. After hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses, all of whom testified against him, the prisoner, at his own request, was put in the witness box. Ollie said as to the first charge, of having concealed weapons, that he had had a row with Carl Eberts in the Garner House bar, and that Eberts had threatened him with a bottle. He then went up stairs. After he had got to his room he suddenly remembered that his coat was down stairs. He then went down stairs to get his coat, but before doing so he put the revolver in his pocket to defend himself from any further attack from Eberts. It was upon going down stairs this time that he had met Chief Pritchard. He told the chief that he had the revolver, and Chief told him to go and put them away. He did so, and was coming down stairs again when he met A. L. Eberts, who told him to go up to his room and get his things and get out. He then went back to his room and got his things together and among other things put the revolver in his pocket, intending to take them home. When he was coming down stairs again with his things he met Carl Eberts, who knocked him down. Chief Pritchard appeared on the scene again and finding the revolver in his possession arrested him. As to the other charge of assault he said that the Chinaman had first attacked him with a butcher knife.

The magistrate, after hearing his story, found him guilty on both charges and sentenced him to three years in the Kingston penitentiary. In sentencing the prisoner the magistrate said:

"There is no doubt that you had the revolver in your possession, and they were there for no good purpose. If you had had any complaint to make about Carl Eberts you should have laid an information against him. You say yourself that you had the gun in your possession. The law does not allow this, therefore I must find you guilty. I have been told that if everyone who carries a revolver should be prosecuted, that the jail would soon be too small to hold them all. If I only knew the names of the persons I would soon get room for them some place. I intend to do all in my power to prevent people from carrying revolvers."

A young colored boy was charged with using insulting language to the Rev. Badie and judgment was reserved.

TELEGRAPH NEWS

Rev. J. C. Farthing, of Woodstock, has declined the call to Guelph.

Tax-collector Butterfield's default is reported at Belleville to be over $16,000.

Charles Jonas, of Waterloo Township, was killed while playing with a loaded gun.

The cement factory of James Morgan & Co., at Longue Pointe was destroyed by fire.

Prince Von Hoheloh, formerly German Imperial Chancellor, died at Ragatz, Switzerland.

Frontenac Conservative nomination of Mr. S. S. Gallagher, M. P. E. for the Legislative Assembly.

It is reported that leagues of Catholic workmen have been formed on the initiative of the Vatican to suppress strikes.

RETURNED FROM A CRUISE.

J. G. Kerr, who with C. E. Beeston, S. B. Arnold, John McWhinney and Dr. Kerr, has been on a cruise, returned on Saturday. He left the yacht wind-bound at Port Stanley. Doc. Arnold and Capt. Beeston will bring the boat to the Eau. Mr. Kerr reports a pleasant voyage, but very hot. The craft is a staunch little yacht called the Winona. She was purchased by the gentlemen mentioned in Toronto.

REV. MR. LANGFORD ILL.

Owen Sound, July 8.—Rev. Fred Langford, B. A., B. D., of Calgary, who came east with his family for a vacation, is critically ill at the Methodist parsonage, the home of his father, Rev. Dr. Langford, formerly pastor of Park St. Methodist church, from an attack of appendicitis. An operation was performed on Friday evening by Dr. Starr, of Toronto, and local physicians. His condition is hopeful, yet by no means lacking in the elements of danger.

MUSKOKA THE POPULAR.

M. C. Dickson, District Passenger Agent Grand Trunk, Toronto, was in the city today and left for St. Thomas at noon. Mr. Dickson says the travel to Muskoka this season so far exceeds any former years, and that a portion of the magnificent hotel now in course of construction near Rosseau, will be ready to receive guests by 15th July. The other many popular summer resorts on the G. T. Railway system are being largely patronized, and the demands for excursion dates are greater than last year. The special service to the Pan-American, Buffalo, is giving accommodation to increasing numbers each week.

Where Medical Science Fails.

To cure rheumatism, and all the time you suffer dreadfully, why don't you get a bottle of Polson's Nerviline and try that? Rub it into your stiff joints, sore arms, lame back, bent shoulders—wherever the pain is. Nerviline has cured plenty of people in this way, and that ought to be proof enough that it will cure you, too. It is an unusually strong liniment that cures rheumatism in unusually quick time. Best household liniment known. 25 cents.

How to Keep Cool and Comfortable

Is a question which bothers most of us these days. There are several inexpensive articles which help to answer this. Are you supplied with such?

Curtains for the verandah add to the appearance as well as the comfort of that part of the house which you now use so much.

We have the proper material in suitable colors and will make them for you on a day's notice.

A good supply of Cushions is indispensable during hot weather. With an armful seek some shady spot and enjoy cool comfort, even though all in the sunshine sizzles and swelters.

We make Cushions, filled with feathers (or a half dozen other kinds of good filling) and the price is not more than you would pay for the material.

Look at our window on Tuesday and see what you can buy for 19c and 24c. If you do not think the Cushions are worth twice the money asked, don't buy. They are far ahead of anything you have seen at a larger price.]

We make a wide, "roomy" Couch, well upholstered, with a durable cover, suitable for verandah or summer house use. They'll cost you from $3.00 to $5.00, and when the summer is over they're good enough for inside. You had better see them.

A MAPLE CITY VISITOR.

Dr. Kerr, formerly of Chatham, was in the city to-day, having left his yacht, Winona, wind-bound at Port Colborne, and having paid a brief visit to the Pan-American Exposition to take a bird's-eye view, but was much struck with the architectural effects, especially including that of color on the exteriors. The scenery is fine. The expenses of visitors are not so enormous as sometimes represented. We got an excellent dinner for 50c, and supper for 25c. Beds $1 and $3 p. d., comfortable sum to cover all. Regarding the admission to the grounds, some stay at Port Colborne, where ordinary hotel prices range, and from which the journey can be quickly made.

"We were very much pleased with the design you sent. It was beautiful and appropriate." The Victoria Ave. excursionists receive such words of commendation every day. Telephone No. 181.

TROUBLE IN THE CAMP

The Tilbury Liberals are by no Means United on the Appointment.

W. A. Hutton is Said to Have Been the Fortunate Man.

The commotion aroused over the appointment of a collector of customs for Tilbury is raging fiercely. Henry Richardson was quite confident of securing the place until the meeting held recently in the office of W. A. Hutton, this city, when W. A. Hutton was chosen. Mr. Richardson and his friends felt very sore after the decision of that meeting had been announced, and they have been making it so warm in the Liberal camp in Tilbury that the Government delayed making the appointment. Mr. Richardson and his friends have prepared a petition largely signed and have forwarded it to the Government at Ottawa.

It is said that John A. McGregor came all the way home from the coast just to work for M. Hutton, while Mr. Richardson was laboring under the delusion that the ex-county councillor was working for him. It is claimed that Mr. McGregor wants the nomination to the Provincial House and he is seeking Mr. Hutton's support in pushing the latter's claims for the office. Some there are who say that the offer of the Provincial nomination was held out to C. A. Richardson to induce him to cease pushing his brother's claims for the office of collector of customs at Tilbury. It seems that the Government have ignored Mr. Richardson's petition, which was signed by many of the leading Liberals in West Kent, since The Planet's correspondent in Tilbury sends word to-day that Mr. Hutton has received official notice of his appointment to the office.

A. O. F. ATTEND CHURCH.

Court Pride of Dover, A. O. F., held their annual church parade yesterday afternoon to Gilmore's orchard, Bear Line, when the Rev. F. C. Clark, pastor of the Hinds' Methodist Church, addressed the brethren, giving an excellent sermon, which was much enjoyed by those present. Court Hope and Court Unity and the juvenile branch of this city, were represented. A delegation from the C. O. F. of Mitchell's Bay, fraternized with their A. O. F. brethren. The parade was formed at the hall on the Bear Line, and marched to the orchard of Mr. Gilmore, the juvenile branch taking the lead, and Bro. Geo. Crozier acting as Marshal. There were altogether some 125 in the line. After the service was over the procession returned and marched back to the hall, where the brethren were regaled with an excellent lunch provided by wives of the brethren of Dover Court. Votes of thanks were given to the Rev. F. C. Clark for his excellent sermon, to the choir for their good music, and to the ladies for the very appetizing lunch provided.

Short addresses were given by Bro. Frank Harkin, Wm. H. Benson, Geo. Crozier, and Wesley Wright. The Chatham delegation say the Dover ladies know how to put up a first class lunch, and voted them great entertainers. They also wish to thank the brethren for their kindness to them all.

Joseph Dickey, inspector of Division Courts for Ontario, arrived in Windsor Saturday on a tour of inspection of the offices in Essex county. In the course of an interview with the Windsor representative of the Detroit Free Press, in regard to the manner in which delinquents are meeting the exactions against them, Mr. Dickey said that the reports from all over the province go to show that people are meeting their obligations more promptly than for years.

Also these against whom executions are given are convicted of the demands of the courts in a prompt manner. The number of cases has diminished slightly during the last year in comparison to former years, and I consider this a good omen in more ways than one.

"Do you think there will be a general election in Ontario in the near future?" was asked Mr. Dickey, and his answer was in the negative. He gave as his opinion that Premier Ross would not leave on a European tour if the date of the elections were to be set for this fall, as he would remain at home to superintend the preliminary work.

"In my department," said Mr. Dickey, "there is not the least sign of an approaching election, and this leads me to believe there will be another session before the Ross government appeals to the country. We would necessarily have considerable work to do in the event of an election, and I may tell you candidly that I have not yet seen the proverbial straw which people say indicates which way the wind is blowing."

MR. HADLEY HAS RETURNED.

Mr. Chas. Hadley, who visited New York to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. C. H. Sibbald, returned Sunday noon. The funeral of the deceased, who died from pneumonia, took place on 3rd last. The heavy rain prevented much examination of the cemetery, which is considered by the Americans the finest in the world, and which is beautifully laid out with sumptuous monuments, trees and flowers. Mr. Hadley was travelling all last Tuesday amid intense heat, which became still greater in New York. 300 horses dropped dead in one day and many of the survivors had their heads protected by sun bonnets. The streets were well watered and the dust kept down. Every one whose business or purse permitted him to leave the city for the ocean resorts or breezy uplands, did so. The death of Pines formed a prominent topic and evoked sympathetic comment.

WOMEN weak, pale, tired, nervous, despondent, no ambition, losing flesh, fretful, overworked, given to worry and solitude, backache and headache, nerves strung, faint feeling, Leucorrhoea, painful periods, or any Female Diseases, quickly cured by our FAMOUS PRESCRIPTION.

YOUNG MEN led into evil habits, not knowing the harm, and who are suffering from the vices and errors of youth, and troubled with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Bashfulness, Confusion of Ideas, Headache, Dizziness, Palpitation of the Heart, Weak Back, Dark Circles Around the Eyes, Pimples on the Face, Loss of Sleep, Tired Feelings in the Morning, Evil-Fortunings, Dull, Stupid, Aversion to Society, No Ambition, Bad taste in the Mouth, Dreams and Night Losses, Deposits in the Urine, Frequent Urination, sometimes accompanied with slight burning, Kidney Troubles, or Diseases of the Genito-Urinary Organs can here find a safe, honest and speedy cure. Charges reasonable, especially to the poor. CURES GUARANTEED.

VARIKOCELE and PILES, and KNOTTED VEINS of the Leg cured at once without operation. Doctors will deny this. But we are proving our claims every day. The method is simple, the cure is certain and permanent.

RUPTURE AND PISTULA CURED. The SIGNS OF STYPHILIS are blood and skin diseases, painful swellings, bone pains, mucous patches in the mouth, hair loose, pimples on the back and watery growths. We cure these for life without injurious drugs.

Have you the seeds of any past disease working in your system? IMPOTENCY or loss of Sexual Power, and do you contemplate MARRIAGE? Do you feel safe in taking this step? You can't afford to take any risk. Like father, like son. We have a never failing remedy that will purify the Blood and positively bring back Lost Power. MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits aropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes particles of albumen, and color be of a thin milky hue, again changing to a dark, torpid appearance. There are men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. The doctors will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

BOOK FREE—Those unable to call should write for question list and book for home treatment. Thousands cured at home by correspondence. Our honest opinion always given, and good, honest, careful treatment given to every patient.

AN HUMBLE HERO

BY THOMAS P. MONTFORT
 Copyright 1901, by Thomas P. Montfort

"He peared to take a right smart intrust in the murder, didn't he?"
 "Shore. Peared to think it was a painful pity Melvin got killed."
 "Did so. Acted like it made him considerable sorry. I bet he's pow'ful tender hearted."

"Fifty good sort of feller, I guess. But say, fellers, what you reckon Louesey Banks thinks 'bout the way things has turned out?"
 "I dunno, I'm shore," Hicks replied. "Guess mebbe she don't know nothin 'bout it."

"Lord, if she does I reckon she can't feel none too good with her sweetheart dead an' her husband a murderer."

"That is a lie, Jim Thorn—every word a lie!"
 They started and looked around, and there among them stood Louisa, her face white and drawn, her form trembling, but a look of dreadful earnestness in her eyes.

CHAPTER XX.

PAP SAMPOSON AS A FRIEND.

"It's a lie, a positive lie!" Louisa repeated, with her gaze fixed steadily on Jim Thorn's face. "I don't care if the whole world says he did, and I don't care what proof there is against him, I say Sim Banks never committed such a crime as murder!"
 "That's what he didn't," Louesey, and Pap Sampson stepped to the woman's side, thumped his cane firmly against the ground and faced the others defiantly. "I say it, Jim Thorn, an I say it openly an' aboveboard, an I'll continue to say it till the last day in the evenin, Sim Banks never took that man's life."

Louisa turned a grateful look on the old man, and the tears started to her eyes.

"Thank you, Pap, with my whole heart," she said. "It's a comfort to know that Sim has one true friend in all the world who will stand up in his defense to the last."

As long as there's a breath of life in my body I'll defend Sim Banks against all the world, because I know he's an innocent man."

Jim Thorn stood with his head bent and his gaze fixed on the ground. He made no reply to anything Louisa or Pap said. Perhaps, for all that, he may have been honest in his expressed belief in Sim's guilt. There were others there who were. They could scarcely be blamed under the circumstances.

"You and I know Sim is innocent," Louisa said, laying her hand on Pap's arm, "even if all the world believes he's guilty."

"We do," Pap replied. "But we are not alone, Louesey. That's others here who b'lieve Sim is innocent."

Louisa shook her head.

"But that is," Pap insisted. "Sam Morgan, you b'lieve it, don't you?"

Sam's head dropped, and after hesitating a moment he turned and walked slowly away. It needed no words to tell what he thought. Pap was disappointed, but he said:

"Never mind, Louesey. Sam Morgan is honest, and he can't help his opinions. That's one here, though, I know is with us. Jason Roberts, you don't b'lieve Sim Banks is guilty, do you?"

Jason, too, dropped his head and hesitated, but he replied:

"I wish, Pap," he said in low tones, "that you hadn't asked me that. I don't want to tell you the truth, and I can't tell you a lie."

Pap said no more. Two such keen disappointments were enough. Besides, if those two men were not friendly to Sim, where should he look for one who was?

The action of Sam and Jason cut Louisa to the heart. They had been among Sim's nearest friends, and if anybody could believe in his innocence certainly they could.

"Come, Louesey," Pap said. "This is not the place for you. Let me take you to my home. You'll find a true friend in Mirandy, an mebbe she'll do you good."

Louisa took Pap's arm and walked away with him. For some time after they were both silent, but there was something occupying Pap's mind. There was something he wanted to say, but he was at a loss for words to express himself as he felt he should. It was a matter that to him was very delicate, and to broach it without giving offense seemed no easy task. But finally he ventured to begin by saying:

"Louesey, you know I'm your friend."

an that I want to do everything for you I can an that I wouldn't knowingly do nary a thing to hurt you for nothin on earth. You b'lieve that, don't you?"

"I do, Pap. I believe every word you say. Do you know before Sim went away he wrote a note and left it for me, and in that note he said, 'If you ever need a friend, go to Pap Sampson.' He said I could trust you and depend on you."

"Lord! Did Sim write that a-way 'bout me?" and Pap's face fairly beamed with pleasure.

"He did."

"My land, ain't that queer, now? Who'd ever 'a' thought of Sim writin like that 'bout a old no 'count scrub like me? Waal, waal!"

"Sim thought a great deal of you, Pap, more than he thought of anybody else."

"You don't say so?"

"Yes, I do. And it's true too."

"Waal, waal! Who'd 'a' thought sich a thing? A old played out plug like me, too—my, my! But I alius liked Sim. He was a pow'ful fine feller, Sim was, an a good, honest feller too. An Sim told you to come to me? Waal, I swan!"

"But I don't have to come to you, did I? You came to me."

"That's queer, too, ain't it? But it's all right, an now we understand each other, don't we?"

"I understand that Sim was right about you."

"I hope so, Louesey. I hope so. And now I was just a-thinkin 'bout some-thin that I sorter felt like I ort to mention, but yit I didn't know exactly."

"What is it, Pap?"

"I dunno, Louesey. I'm most afeard I'll hurt your feelin's."

"No; speak out. I know you mean to do that which is right."

"Then it is about Melvin. You see, we know all that 'bout you an him, an I thought—you see, I don't know, of co'se, an I may be all in the wrong, but I kinder 'lowed mebbe, on 'count of what was atwixt you two, that nat'ral-ly you'd like to see him once more. I jest sorter 'lowed it might be that a-way, you know, an I hope I ain't said nothin to hurt you."

"No, you have not," she replied, "and perhaps it's wrong, but I would like to see him. I hope you won't think me wicked, Pap, for God knows I can't help my feelin's."

"I don't, Louesey. It ain't my place to judge, an I ain't blamin nobody for nothin. I know it's sad that you an Sim couldn't git along, but if you couldn't you couldn't, an that's all that is to it. Sim ain't never faulted you for nothin, an I'm mighty shore I ain't a-goin to nuther. Whatever may be said, I know one thing, Louesey, an that is, no matter what you thought of anybody else, you've always been a true write to Sim. Your conduct has been right, an that's all the world has got to do with. Your thoughts an your feelin's is atwixt you an your God."

"And God knows I never meant to do wrong," Louisa said, "but I did when I married Sim without loving him. But I didn't know, Pap. I didn't know. I was too young. I loved the other then, but I liked Sim, and I wasn't sure. Oh, love is so cruel, so cruel!"

"No, Louesey, it ain't that. It's that people ain't keeful enough of what they're doin when they marry. You was too young to know your own heart."

"I was, and the consequence is I have ruined—Sim's life and made myself miserable forever."

"No, no, Louesey. Don't you go to lookin at it that a-way. Lord, that's many years afore you, an that's no tellin what all may happen yit. You jest keep up courage an be as hopeful as you can, an some of these days you'll find that all your pains an sufferin's has been left behind."

"Not in this life, Pap. It can't ever be in this hard, cold world."

"But it can, an it will. You'll see."

They walked on a little way in silence, they were both thinking, and though neither of them knew it, their minds were on the same subject. Presently Louisa sighed and, as if speaking to herself, said:

"Poor Sim, poor Sim!"

Pap glanced quickly at her face, while the faint trace of a smile played about his lips. In that moment he saw farther into the future than Louisa would have believed.

"An now about Melvin," he said. "I reckon you know what people say an think?"

"No, but I suppose they think me wicked and say hard things about me."

"Waal, some of 'em do. Louesey. Yes; I'm afeard some of 'em do."

"I'm sorry, but I can't help it."

"In co'se, I understand all that. But, seeln as things are so, I 'lowed you wouldn't keer 'bout givin folks no more room for sayin things than you can help, so I reckoned you'd rather go to see Melvin when ever 'body wa'n't thar to see you."

"Yes; I would. But can I?"

"Shore. If you jest wait till tonight, when ever 'body's gone home, I'll take you thar. I'll arrange it with Hicks so's you can go in. That a-way nobody won't know nothin 'bout it, an nobody can't have nothin to say."

"Thank you, Pap. You are more than thoughtful and kind."

"Lord, that ain't nothin. Even if I didn't keer nothin for you I'd do that much jest to balm Mary Mann."

At the mention of that name Louisa shuddered. Pap noticed it and said:

"I reckon you ain't got much more love for that woman than I have."

"I despise her," Louisa replied.

"Most folks does. Lord, she made a plumb fool of herself over Sim."

"And I accused him of making love to her."

"Makin love to her! Sim Banks makin love to Mary Mann! My Lord, gal, what was you ever a-thinkin of? Why, Sim hated her wussin pizen."

"I know now that I was unjust."

"To be shore you was. But I reckon somebody told you somethin'?"

"Yes."

"That's the way it is—allus somebody fairly splittin their skins to git to stir up trouble. Sich people ort to have their tongues split an their legs run through 'em."

As Pap had promised, Mrs. Sampson proved a true friend to Louisa. She received her kindly and made her feel heartily welcome from the instant she entered the house. Like Pap, she neither judged nor blamed, but rather sought to soothe and comfort. The generous kindness of these two plain, simple old people touched Louisa deeply, and she never forgot it.

That night Pap took Louisa to the store to see for the last time all that remained of the man she loved. He felt that he was doing right, and when he spoke of it to his wife she readily agreed with him.

"I think it will be for the best," she said. "It may be a comfort to her, an anyway it can't do nobody no harm."

The store was dark, and there was no one there, but Pap had secured from Hicks the key to the warehouse.

"I think it will be for the best," she said. "It may be a comfort to her, an anyway it can't do nobody no harm."

THE ABSENT-MINDED BEGGAR

A gallant member of the 24th Regimental Band stood on the platform waiting for the train. Soon a couple of Chatham's noted beautiful maidens appeared on the scene and the gallant was soon engrossed in conversation. The conversation was so interesting that the conductor had called "all aboard" and the train had started for Erieau before the brave lover knew it. He caught the train. He arrived at the Eau.

"Where's my horn?" he asked of a fellow bandman. "How should I know?" was the rejoinder. And then the gallant remembered he had left it on the platform at the railway station at Chatham.

An evening's observation tended to prove that horns might be forgotten on purpose.

ORANGEMEN ON PARADE

The Local Lodge Attends Divine Worship at the Baptist Church.

A Splendid Service by the Rev. J. J. Moss From the Text "Touch no Unclean Thing."

The Orangemen, about one hundred in number, attended divine service at the William St. Baptist Church yesterday morning. The procession, which was formed at the lodge room over Gordon's store, was headed by the 24th Regimental Band 25 strong.

Rev. J. J. Moss occupied the pulpit and preached an excellent sermon. His text was "Touch no unclean thing," and his subject was "Biblical Puritanism."

Before his sermon he spoke a few words of welcome to the assembled order on behalf of the members and officers of the church.

"I may consider myself honored," said he, "as this is the second time since I came to Chatham that I have been requested to speak to the Orangemen. I have made a study of the laws and rules of the Orangemen, and I find that your principles are of the best. William of Orange, the founder of the order, was a great Bible student, and one of the things which prompted his principles was puritanism."

In concluding his sermon he said: "The date of your annual celebration is drawing near at hand, and I hope that those who are inclined to be in the majority with those who get drunk will remember my text this morning and touch no unclean thing."

The music by the choir was exceptionally good. Special mention should be made of the quartette. The music was as follows:

Quartet, "When I See the Blood I will Pass By"—Mrs. James, Miss M. Oldershaw and Messrs. Reeve and Side.

John Oldershaw, of Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1041, acted as master of ceremonies.

DISAGREE

The Reports of the C. P. R. Company and the Striking Trackmen Conflict—Both Sides of the Story.

Toronto, July 6.—Highly encouraging reports were received to-day by Chairman Wilkinson of the local committee of the Canadian Pacific Railway striking trackmen, on the situation of the struggle. The latest reports received by Mr. Wilkinson state that from Toronto to Montreal not one man has returned to work, and that the strikers are standing together. From Toronto to the west the men admit that a number have gone back, but their action in returning has not injured the cause. Several of the strikers claim to have been called upon and asked to go back by representatives of the company, but would not. The strikers in Toronto are holding out to a man, and declare that they are out to win now as much as they were when the strike commenced. On the other hand, Superintendent Timmerman, of the Canadian Pacific, said to-day that with one or two exceptions all the old hands of the striking trackmen on the section north from Toronto to Owen Sound, and west to Detroit, are back to work again, and that so far as these two sections of the system are concerned, he regards the strike as all over.

C. P. R. DESPATCHES.
Toronto, July 6.—The strikers' committee here authorized one of their members, a section foreman, to return to work to save his position, as the Canadian Pacific was about to fill the gap in the strike with new men. The strikers had been fully warned.

Montreal, Q., July 7.—The third week of the strike of the Canadian Pacific trackmen has ended with results very much in line with the company's expectations. The Ontario, Eastern and Atlantic divisions have practically a full force of trackmen at work, with flying gangs here and there. On the other divisions the company has considerable gains during the last week. The brotherhood rules do not permit of any calls on the funds of the union during the first two weeks of a strike, as 99 per cent of all strikes are settled within that time, but after that the strike allowance usually begins. The third week being up, several applications for strike pay were made on Saturday afternoon by striking foremen, but without results. It was given out before the strike began that the trackmen's association in the United States had a reserve fund of $350,000, which would be available for the strikers on the Canadian Pacific and Maine Central, but in reply to the applications for strike pay Mr. Wilson and the Montreal committee either return the answers or make no answer at all. The members of the committee are drawing five dollars a day and Mr. Wilson has a comfortable salary, but the strikers, especially those who families, think it hard that they should get nothing, and many, if not most of them, feel that it would have been better if they had accepted the $100,000 advance the C. P. R. Co. has made and remained at work.

The article on the Maine Central has been called off, although the strikers get absolutely nothing beyond the advance which the management put into effect before the strike was ordered, and Mr. Wilson is being urged on all sides to terminate the strike on the Canadian Pacific and let the men resume work at the advance made by the company before he precipitated it.

—The strong eat well, sleep well, look well. The weak don't. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

We were introduced at The Planet office, by the proprietor, to Mr. Wm. Beer, who is a friend of Mr. Sutherland, of the Sutherland-Lynes Co. of Chatham.

Mr. Beer is a good type of a cultured Englishman and is now resident in New Orleans, where he occupies the important position of Librarian of the Harvard Memorial Library and also of the Fisk Free and Public Library. He gave us some curious facts connected with his official experiences, among the rest, how he was able to direct a statesman having an extensive library of his own, where to find certain documents. Needless to say, Mr. Beer is a keen book-punter. He says the climate of New Orleans is malignant and that a man may be healthy there if he lives properly, he himself seeming in the best of health. He has several friends among the astronomers, especially one with the suggestive name of "See." We talked about mutual friends, among the rest our old schoolmate, Sir W. Herschel, formerly Judge in India and the real inventor, we believe, of the method of identifying prisoners by prints of thumbmarks.—Market Guide.

MIDNIGHT MARAUDERS

Steal a Whole Colony of Bees From A. E. Fields, of Harwich.

A Neighbor Says he Would Sooner Have Carried off a Nest of Rattlesnakes.

A. E. Fields, Up the Creek, Harwich, is lamenting the loss of a whole colony of bees. Last night some parties entered Mr. Fields' orchard, and lifted all his bee hives—bees and all. This morning he was amazed to find all his honey-makers had disappeared, and, on examination, he found that the hives had been stolen by two men whose tracks were quite apparent around where the homes of the bees had been. The theft is a surprise to everyone and one of Mr. Fields' neighbors said that he would sooner have undertaken to steal a nest of rattlesnakes than the bees.

Dr. A. Kelly, of Florence, paid Dresden friends a visit on Saturday.

Miss Nellie Hughes, is visiting friends at Kent Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McVean and children returned home on Friday evening, after visiting the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo.

Edward Cowperthwait, of Chatham, spent Sunday with his mother here.

Andrew Caracallen, of Wallaceburg, spent Sunday with his parents here.

Miss Mabel Leonard is visiting with friends in Florence.

Dr. Stanley Horning left for his home in Portland, Me., on Saturday evening. Mrs. Horning will visit with her parents at the Eau before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Queen's Hotel, spent Friday in Thamesville.

Hilliard Ripley returned home to-day, after visiting the Pan-American and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor, and Miss Williams, left this morning for Buffalo, to visit the Pan-American.

Mrs. Upper, of Blenheim, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Rudd, Hughes street.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

There is no longer any talk of reinforcing the British army. General Kitchener does not ask for more troops, but is contented with the situation, and with the steady progress made in clearing the country.

Men's Straw Hat Styles

The hatters have done well this season; brought out many nifty and becoming styles; and we have done our part in selecting and assorting them for you. From boys' up to elderly men's hats there is no gap in the range and variety. You may pick a straw hat here with the same satisfaction a robin feels in selecting his particular cherry from a whole ripe treeful.

Boys' straws begin with three sailor styles at a quarter, a plain, fine, well bleached braid, with polka dot band, and two mixed braids. These are good and we have better at various prices up to 75c.

The stock is pretty strong in hats for youth's and very young men. Same styles as for older folks—with a little difference—and about any quality a young fellow wants to pay for.

For old and elderly gentlemen, there's a special Manilla hat, comfortably wide in the brim, costs $1.25. Customers frankly appreciate our low priced straw sailors. There's one style in good light bleach with polka dot band and canvas sweatband that looks like a mistake at 35c, but that's the price. You see we bought from the maker, and in large lots. You'll notice a natty mixed straw in the 50c stock,—a lattice braid in blue and white with blue band.

At 75c begin the fashionable rough straws, with plain or figured bands and double brims. Canton straws range from a popular hat at $1.25 to a finest sort at $2.00.

CENSUS OF MANUFACTURES.

David Carlyle, special agent for the census of manufactures for Toronto, has sent schedules to each of the manufacturers, with a request that they be promptly filled in and returned.

The form covers the ground pretty thoroughly, there being 62 questions in all, and has the endorsement of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The questions deal with the name of the firm, location, year established, values of real estate, plant and working capital, persons employed, and ages and wages of each, piece-workers, aggregate working days in year, expenses, materials used, goods manufactured, and power owned.

An establishment to be enumerated as a factory must employ five persons. Cheese and butter factories will be enumerated under a special form.

AN INNOVATION

The Rev. R. Sims and the Rev. J. J. Ross Inaugurate Sunday Service on the Park.

Rev. J. J. Ross, pastor of the William Street Baptist church, and Rev. Robert Sims, pastor of Holy Trinity conducted an open air service on Tecumseh park last evening, commencing at half past eight o'clock.

These meetings will be held every Sunday evening during the summer months and are for the benefit of those who will not go to church, but who will go over to the park, and listen to a sermon.

Notwithstanding the severe weather, fully 300 people attended the meeting last evening.

Rev. J. J. Ross made a few opening remarks in which he explained the object of the meetings. He mentioned a number of prominent preachers who had done a great deal of good through holding open air services. He mentioned one man who had converted 1,000 people by reading one verse of scripture. While he was not anticipating such large results he hoped that the meetings would not be altogether fruitless.

Rev. Robert Sims then gave a very eloquent and practical sermon.

The musical part of the service was under the direction of Prof. E. J. Forsythe, the leader of the Christ Church choir, assisted by Dr. Russell and Warren Martin. Deacon Best and William Sharp also assisted in the service.

The meeting was closed by prayer led by Warren Martin.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

The Problem of Caring For Those Who Visit Buffalo This Summer, Solved.

It has been published broadcast that Buffalo lacks accommodation for guests visiting the Pan-American Exposition. The statement is utterly without foundation. It has been a point of honor with Buffalo, that all guests shall be accommodated properly and reasonably. For example, Dr. Pierce's Free Bureau of Information, has registered accommodations for one hundred thousand guests, in the most desirable homes and best locations in the city of Buffalo. Every room offered to guests has been inspected. Many rooms have been rejected by the Bureau because of location or some other unsatisfactory feature. The rooms offered by Dr. Pierce include the choicest rooms obtainable in Buffalo.

NO HOME should be without it. Pain-Killer, the best all-around medicine ever made. Used as a liniment for bruises and swellings. Internally for cramps and diarrhoea. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c and 50c.
