Deigned to Shine on the Festivities at McKeough School Yesterday.

Annual Picnic of the Scholars of this Excellent Educational Institution—The Winners.

McKeough School Picnic and Sports have always been a success, but never were they more so than yesterday. The weather was all that could be desired. All the athletic events were enthusiastically contested by the pupils of the school, many of whom will without doubt become noted athletes in time. A number of the trustees assisted the principal, Miss Abram, and her staff of teachers in carrying out the program of games.

By the time the sports had been closed the 24th Regiment Band was present to dispense an exceedingly pleasing program of music.

The fireworks, too, under the able management of Lindsay Parrott, were very beautiful and much enjoyed by the large crowds of citizens and children that had assembled.

Trustee Wm. H. Benson acted as judge during the sports, and associated with him were Trustees Herbert Clements, W. N. Morley and John McCorvie. Trustee Geo. Hayward and ex-principal James Brackin were the starters.

PLEASING EVENT

Miss Jean Coltart the Recipient of a Handsome Gift from Central School Staff.

The Central school was the scene of a very interesting event, this morning about half past eleven o'clock, when the teachers of the staff met in one of the class rooms and presented Miss Jean Coltart with a dozen handsome silver spoons and an appropriately worded address.

Miss Coltart is giving up teaching and the address and present was given as evidence of her popularity with her fellow teachers. She was one of the most clever and most successful teachers in the school. She has occupied a place on the staff for five years and during that time she has quickly worked her way up from the lowest room until she was latterly Model school assistant and teacher of an entrance class.

By the resignation of Miss Coltart the Central school is sustaining a severe loss and it will be very difficult to fill her place on the staff.

The following address was read by Miss Alice Mounter and Miss Gertrude McPherson made the presentation:

Dear Miss Coltart.—It is but a comparatively short time since we, the teachers of the Central school, were gathered together to bid a professional farewell to another much valued member of our staff. On that occasion it was your duty to speak to the toast of "Our Next Guest," and we remember with pride that you acquitted yourself well. But the poet has said "that coming events cast their shadows before," and the suspicions even then aroused in our guileless minds were afterwards so confirmed by Dame Rumour that we were not surprised to learn that you, yourself, would be the next one to fill the position of honor. And since this toast seems to carry with it a sort of prophecy, we hope that it may be as significant in the future as it has been in the past.

Ever since we knew with certainty that you would be leaving us, we have been trying to find words that would sufficiently express our regret, but now that the hour of separation has actually come, words fail us, and we can only say, in the simplest way, that we are most sorry to lose you.

We have been long together. Through pleasant and through cloudy weather; "Tis hard to part when friends are dear—Perhaps 'twill cost a sigh, a tear!

But on this occasion the sorrow is not unmingled with a feeling of satisfaction that once more proof is given that the Central teachers are known and appreciated. It is, however, just as you are about to depart from among us, that we begin to realize how much you have contributed to all the pleasures which, as a staff, we have enjoyed together, and in the work of the school we know that you have always been ready to do even more than your share, so that our worthy principal has double reason to lament your going. With your ready wit, bright cheerfulness, and kindly sympathy, you have unconsciously encouraged more than one among us when feeling oppressed by the burdens of the school room. So you may rest assured that, in your future life, you will be followed by the truest interest and the heartiest good wishes of all those in this school who have known you so long, and, as fortune has ordained that some of us are to remain "true to the profession," there will, probably for some time to come, be old friends on the Central staff to welcome you whenever you can avail yourself of the standing invitation now given you, to visit us on every possible occasion. We hope that, in the many interests that will occupy your thoughts in the days to come, you will still keep us in mind, and that in your heart there will be for us a fellow-feeling, as we continue to ramble through these halls of learning. But we wish you to have something more tangible than memories, however pleasant, as a souvenir of the good old days together, and we, therefore, beg you to accept of this (case of spoons) as a mark of our good will, accompanied as it is, by the deepest and most sincere wishes of us all.

Signed on behalf of the Central school staff,
J. W. PLEWES, Principal.
ALICE MOUNTER.

SATURDAY PLANET

"Please send me another copy of your paper. A friend borrowed mine and I can't afford to miss your Big Saturday Planet," telephoned a citizen to this office last week.

We don't want anyone to miss tomorrow's issue of The Big Saturday Planet, because it will be one of the biggest and best yet turned out and because we know that it will delight and interest every reader.

Your great home journal to-morrow will contain SIXTEEN PAGES of entertaining local reading matter and an up-to-date, complete news service, local and foreign. It will be handsomely illustrated and equipped in every way to please our patrons. The Planet is not content to serve its readers with columns of musty miscellaneous boiler-plate, or even a so-called "special edition" once a twelvemonth or so. Remember The Big Saturday Planet greets you EVERY WEEK—issues of this great home journal are all "special editions," specially prepared to give all the news fairly, freely and fully; specially prepared to interest, to entertain and to please all readers.

Among the many articles of more than ordinary interest you will find in to-morrow's Planet, will be—
"A Patriarch of Kent County," an entertaining chat with James Houston, of Dresden, a stalwart pioneer, on the days of the early settlers in this district.

"Commercial Training at the C. C. L.," a splendid article dealing with the purpose and progress of this important branch of work at our own Collegiate Institute.

"Poetical Chathamites"—a local literary discussion of exceptional interest is finally set at rest by the decisions of a coterie of competent citizens.

Joe, the young shiner, has run across the Gossiping Girl. Sid to relate, he found her in Chatham, and decides to make a study of her case.

"If I were King," a Chathamite dreams a dream and tells of the things he would transform in the Maple City if he suddenly became a monarch.

"Getting Together," a heart-to-heart talk with the young people of the Maple City on society shams—and other things.

"In the Days of Auld Lang Syne," another interesting resume of the long ago from the early fables of The Planet in 1853, half a century back.

"Have You Met Them?" Introducing the reader again to popular citizens who are well worth knowing.

"Native Trees and Wild Fruits," in which Judge Bell tells many things of interest in regard to the forest growths of this county. His Honor, in an interesting interview, gives information about the southern fruit, the pawpaw, which grows in McGavin's woods.

The Big Saturday Planet will contain many other bright special features in addition to all the news of the day. The Satchel of the Catallia will, as usual, contain many caustic comments worth reading. The Talmage Sermon, Church Chimes and District Dashes will be found in their regular places.

FRIDAY, JUNE 26.

THE GLOBE-GAMEY WAR.

The verbal war-between the Globe and Mr. Gamey has been suspended, perhaps for want of new words. At latest accounts, the moral monstrosity was referring to his opponent as a religious monstrosity; the latter insinuated that Mr. Gamey ought to be in the penitentiary, and the gentleman thus referred to remarked that the Globe had a horse's head. The last allusion is obscure, and is puzzling the commentators not a little. Mr. Gamey can hardly have meant that the Globe is a noble animal, or that its neck is clothed in with thunder.

It is rumored that the Globe, having exhausted the Scriptures and the standard histories of England, is now perusing the prose works of John Milton, which contain a large amount of language of pleasing violence, yet suitable for the home and fireside, and for the columns of a great family journal. Should this report be well-founded, Mr. Gamey may go to the length of denouncing his antagonist as a rhomboid, a scalene triangle, and a parallelepipedon. Thus bad begins, and worse remains behind.—Toronto World.

CORRUPTION AND PARTY LOYALTY.

No profession of party attachment or consideration of party loyalty involves the defence of political crookedness, says the Toronto News (Independent). The appeal to partisanship in behalf of political corruption tends directly to the degradation of public life and to the ascendancy of the baser element in politics. It is the assumption of the professional politician that corruption practised in the interests of Liberals must be defended in the name of the party, just as corruption practised in the interests of Conservatives must be excused and defended by all who profess allegiance to the Conservative party. This can lead to only one result—each party becomes a league for the defence of corruption, and the corruptionist becomes the controlling force in public affairs.

The Liberal who dares to attack corruption within the Liberal party is denounced as a traitor to vital principles. (Similar treatment is meted out to the Conservative who cannot understand that corruption practised in the interests of Conservatives is less censurable than corruption designed to advance the party interests of Liberals. Thus the political heeler becomes leader and master and tolerance of corruption the test of party loyalty.

A CHANCE FOR THE WALKING DELGATE.

The latest to demand higher pay, are the jurors. They get one dollar per day and are not satisfied. When this rate of pay was fixed it was more than the wages of an unskilled laborer, and approximately the pay of a mechanic. Now it is lower than the lowest wage of a common laborer.

GETTING AT THE FACTS.

Minneapolis Journal.

In the days of Louis XIV the Maréchal de Grammont had taken a fortress by siege. "I will tell you a secret," said his military governor, after surrendering. "The reason of my capitulation was that I had no more powder." "And secret for secret," returned the marshal, suavely, "the reason of my accepting it on such easy terms was that I had no more balls."

STRATTON MADE THEM LAUGH.

Peterboro Review.

In his speech in the Gamey debate Mr. Stratton said that Mr. Blake denounced his own chief witness as an unblushing, wilful liar, a man utterly reckless of the truth. The house was puzzled till he explained that he meant Sullivan. Then there was an explosion of laughter, as there might well be, at the idea of the chief witness against the conspirators being one of themselves, the go-between employed to bring Mr. Gamey to the provincial secretary.

MR. ROSS PROVED TOO MUCH.

Montreal Gazette.

In his speech in the Legislature Mr. Ross contended that Mr. Hammond had told all he knew and there had been nothing in his evidence to condemn Stratton. The evidence showed that Stratton endeavored to persuade the Globe reporter to put words into Gamey's mouth which he had never uttered, and that he furthermore requested him to "forget some things." In speaking as he did all Mr. Ross accomplished was to deepen the impression that he knows more about the dealings of Sullivan, Stratton, Ross & Co., Unlimited, than he would have people believe.

MARRIED IN TORONTO

Joseph Henry Wilson, of this city, and bride, have returned from their honeymoon trip.

It was reported some time ago in The Planet that it was rumored that Mr. Wilson intended to take unto himself a wife. Dame rumor was in this case on the right track. Mr. Wilson was married in Toronto a week ago yesterday to Miss Maud May Green, of Lethbridge, Alberta. The ceremony took place in St. John's Church and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Williams, of that place. The newly married couple have since been spending their honeymoon in Hamilton, Stratford and Sarnia.

Mr. Wilson is a very popular young Chathamite, and his many friends will be surprised and pleased to know that he has left the ranks of bachelorhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson arrived at their future home in Chatham last night, and since then Mr. Wilson has been busily engaged in acknowledging congratulations and good wishes from every side.

National Educational Association Convention.

Boston, noted for being the centre of learning, no more appropriate place could have been selected in which to hold the annual convention, and teachers of every grade, and from all parts of America will assemble there to take part in the deliberations.

This is perhaps not a matter of news, but is intended as a reminder that the New York Central offers exceptional facilities for reaching the convention city, being the most direct, and having the largest number of fast trains, which run through from Niagara Falls and Buffalo without change.

Full information, time-tables, etc., may be obtained from H. Parry, General Agent, 377 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., or Louis Drago, Canadian Passenger Agent, 691-2 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont.

It has of late become fashionable for women to make an especial perfume peculiar to them. One will use nothing but violets, and everything belonging to her will exhale their lovely odor. Another identifies herself with white rose. Vervaine, peau d'Espagne, attar of roses or various sweet scented preparations under fanciful names have all their votaries. But none of these or any perfume should be chosen for permanent use without due consideration, so an eminent French doctor declared; for perfumes, it seems, produce in time marked effects upon those who use them, and it is just as well therefore to choose them with discrimination. Violet is very safe, as it predisposes one to sympathy and devotion, but it is not every one who wants to be bold and audacious or foolish or crafty or dangerously fascinating, and there are many well known odors, which for prudence sake shall be nameless, which are said to produce all these effects if they are used constantly.—Ladies' Pictorial.

WHITE SERGE AND BROWN VELVET GOWLS are adaptable to nearly every costume of the day and will be as much a feature of the early spring fashions as the wide, pointed belt.

A smart toque of folded plain gray velvet was seen recently at an afternoon tea. It was trimmed with a large gray ostrich feather paling to white and at the very farthest tip touched with black.

It was further adorned with a scarf of the new gray lace.

What the Girl With Gray Eyes Thought of Him.

"Do you know," said the girl with the gray eyes, "I think he is simply horrid."

"Horrid? Who's horrid?" queried the demure little thing.

"Why, that uncle of mine, of course," rejoined she of the orbs of gray in a tone that evinced surprise that any one should not be fully aware of the individual she had in mind.

The demure little thing looked startled. "He hasn't lost his fortune, has he?" she asked.

"Good gracious, no, thank heaven, but he's just as horrid as he can be nevertheless. Listen. You know I have always had the greatest fondness for Uncle Tom and have without exception told him everything—absolutely everything. That fact that I have had so much trouble with—well, you know the men I have gone with. Last year when that affair with Dick was on I, of course, wrote Uncle Tom, who was then in Chicago, all about it. Now, he had always liked Dick, so he wrote me a beautiful letter—simply beautiful—offering me all manner of felicitations and wishes for a bright and prosperous future.

"It isn't necessary to tell you, my best friend, how bitterly Dick disappointed me by his conduct. I know they say I threw him over and all that sort of thing, but honestly there wasn't but one thing to do, and of course I did it.

"I suppose it did seem a little 'soon' to Uncle Tom when a little over two months after he wrote that letter he received news of my engagement to Jack. However, uncle approved of my course in the matter even though he did prefer Dick to any one else, and I couldn't complain of the letter he sent me in reply, which was as nice as the first one, although he did express some little surprise. All the same, he expressed entire confidence in my judgment.

"Now, my dear, here's where uncle made himself most objectionable. Two weeks ago, when I found that above all I loved Reginald, I received a third letter from Uncle Tom, in which, after acknowledging the receipt of my letter, he said:

"I desire, my dear, to congratulate you on your approaching marriage with—"

"Then he inserted one of those star signs and added in a footnote, 'Here insert the name of the happy man.'"

Costly Treatment.

"My wife found a poker chip in my pocket, and I told her it was a dyspepsia tablet."

"That was clever."

"Far from it! She swallowed the chip, and the doctor's bill cost me more than the jackpot."

Reminded Them Both.

They were jollying the man about his enormous appetite, but he kept "putting away," undisturbed by the taunts. Finally he said in defense: "Well, you see, I take after both my father and my mother. One ate a long while and the other ate a great deal."

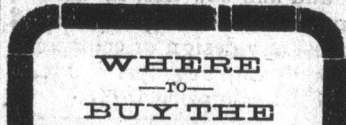

A Believer, But—

"Bjinks is a firm believer in the theory that the office should seek the man."

"Yes?"

"Sure. But he always takes care to leave his address where it can be found."—Baltimore News.

How Lloyds Discovers Frauds.

Even to-day cases of fraud discovered in attempts to secure marine insurance unjustly are dealt with very severely by the courts, says Chambers Roberts in World's Work.

A well-remembered case at Lloyds concerns the yacht Firefly. Not long after this boat had been insured for a considerable sum, two men landed in an exhausted condition from a rowing-boat on the south coast of England. They told a long story of shipwreck, of perils braved, of how the Firefly had gone down and under what great difficulty they had escaped. It was subsequently discovered that the whole story was an invention, and that the very boat in which the escape had been made had been stolen by the shipwrecked mariners. They were just upon the point of receiving the sum of insurance money they expected. They obtained instead a lengthy term of imprisonment as the just meed of their audacious crime.

Doan's Kidney Pills

FINALLY MADE A COMPLETE CURE.

Mr. Jacob Jamieson, Jamieson Bros., the well-known Contractors and Builders, Welland, Ont., tells of how he was cured: "For fourteen years I was afflicted with kidney trouble which increased in severity the last five years. My most serious attack was four years ago, when I was completely incapacitated. I had terrible pains across my back, floating spots before my eyes and was in almost constant torment. I could not sit or stand with ease and was a wreck in health, having no appetite and lost greatly in flesh. I had taken medicine from five different doctors and also numerous other preparations to no purpose. I finally began to take Doan's Kidney Pills and before I had taken five boxes the trouble left me and I now feel better than I have for twenty years. Those who know me know how I was afflicted and say it is almost impossible to believe that I have been cured, yet they know it is so. I have passed the meridian of life but I feel that I have taken on the rosy hue of boyhood."

WHEN BOYS WERE MEN

By John Habberton,
Author of "Helen's Bride," "George Washington," Etc.
Copyright, 1901, by John Habberton.

The fight at the bridge was the severest engagement in which our company had ever participated, so I ought to have been so absorbed by it as to be insensible to anything but my duty as a soldier. I am glad to say that I loaded, aimed and fired as carefully as if it were the first day of the "open season" for quail in the woods and fields near Summerton. Nevertheless I frequently detected myself in the act of looking about me to see what other men were doing. I saw Cloyne loading and firing as placidly and smilingly as if he were merely making out bills at the Summerton lumber yard. Mick McTwyne was handling his carbine as energetically as if it were a coffee mill, yet in his excitement he was discharging it in the direction of the sun, the tree tops and his own toes, as if the enemy were atoms of the surrounding air and could be easily hit by a man with his eyes shut. Meanwhile he was volubly cursing his platoon in English and Irish, with some assistance from the verbiage of the holy Scriptures and the vocabulary of the Bowery, for not firing more rapidly and carefully.

"Look at that little dhivill Brainerd!" he shouted. "He's puttin' rebs into purgatory as fast as if he was walkin' to Sunday school in Summerton."

Brainerd! The sound of his name startled me and caused a guilty pang as my having been concerned only for my own life impressed me. I looked quickly about for him and just in time to see him roll sideways from behind a fallen log, his face as white as the paper on which I am writing. Killed? No, he moved. I hurried to his side and asked him where he was hit.

"In the heart, Jack, but 'twas not the enemy that hit me. 'Twas Mick McTwyne's tongue. Great heaven! I've vowed my life a hundred times to the saving of men—you know I was studying for the ministry. But now I'm trying to kill men! It's all—but why aren't you firing? See that red bearded face sticking out from behind a tree on the other side of the creek? No, no! Don't you fire at him! Here goes!"

Brainerd's lips closed so tight that I could not see their dividing line, so I looked toward the Confederate with a red beard, and a second after Brainerd I saw the red bearded man clasp a hand to his shoulder. Then the angles of his elbows and knees indicated that he had gone out of action and sat down behind his tree.

At that instant Brainerd himself had a strip of skin and a bit of flesh taken from his cheek by a shot from the other side, but he did not know of it till the fight was over. I was recalled to a sense of duty by Cloyne, who drawled:

"What are you lounging for, Jack? This isn't a Sunday school picnic." Quickly I covered my confusion by regaining the cover I had left, but I was still curious to know what other men were doing. The Balaklava veterans were side by side on the ground and as flat as the head of a snake about to coil, though they did not seem intent on striking. Not far to my right stood Phil Hamilton, handsome and composed as usual, but in apparent trouble with his pistol. He looked so superb, with his clear cut face, erect figure and broad shoulders, that for a moment I wished my cousin May might see him. Then I was glad she could not, for did not Brainerd love May, and was not Brainerd my dear friend?

Still, pistols are made only to shoot with, and the moment of battle is the time to use them, so I hurried over to Hamilton and said:

"Take my pistol and give me yours. Mine is in perfect order, and, as I helped father when he was inventing a revolver, I know something of a pistol's works."

"Don't you fire at him!"

"Thank you, Jack," said he as coldly as if he had been born and brought up in an icehouse. "But I think I'll conquer it in the course of time."

I was somewhat offended by his manner, but I reminded myself that there is a time for everything and that in the thick of battle was not the time to expect a polite reply, even from the Chesterfield of Summerton. When again I glanced to look toward Hamilton, I saw that his face was very white and he was looking at a card pocket graph. I could not doubt who the orig-

THE FARMER FAILS

In health just as does the city-man, and he fails commonly from the same cause, "stomach trouble." The farm is a wholesome place to live in; the farmer's life is a healthy life; but no external advantages can overcome the effects of a diseased stomach. When the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and assimilation are diseased, the food eaten is imperfectly digested, and the consequent loss of nutrition results in physical debility.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and assimilation, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater Co., Montana. "When I was so weak and sick, I was unable to do any work, and I was not able to work at all. Now I weigh nearly one hundred and sixty and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended your medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose, therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Inal was. On our homeward ride big Pat Callahan snarled:

"Did ye see our swell commissary sergeant behind the thickest tree there was? I'm thinkin' he was afraid of gittin' his beauty spots scratched!" "G'wan to blazes!" snarled Mick McTwyne in reply. "Commissary sergeants don't need to fight if they don't want to. Besides, it's better that we lose the captain—yes, or the colonel—than the man that kapes us in the best of grub that can be made of rations."

"I'm not sayin' ye lie," Pat replied, "but if I had as little stomach for grub as he has for fightin' I'd go to the hospital and stay there."

After unsaddling I was greatly delayed in reaching the quarters, for I "went over" my horse very carefully to learn whether he had been wounded. Horses have their own reasons for not reporting "a mere scratch" that might in time disable them. Climbing our bunk—Brainerd's and mine—which was at the top of a tier, I saw my chum lying down, with a pocket mirror in one hand, my cousin May's portrait in the other and with tears in his eyes.

"Brace up, old chap!" said I. He quickly turned his hands to hide their contents, but his face was too honest to hide anything that was behind it. Besides, he said in fragments between sobs:

"I was homely enough before. Now I'm disfigured for life. The surgeon wouldn't deny it, and Hamilton—he always was handsome. Heaven made him so. Therefore I've no right to complain, but—but—"

"But you fought, and he didn't."

"Eh?"

"He didn't, I say. I was watching him."

Brainerd mopped his eyes with his hands and looked proud an instant. Then he groaned:

"'Tis a hard world, Jack."

The cruellest thing about it was that Brainerd was the only member of our company that got a scratch, though fully half of us, not being handsome, like Hamilton, coveted the scar which Brainerd wore after his wound healed. Among the half that did not covet that "red badge of courage" was Hamilton. He never spoke of it, but many times afterward did I see our handsome commissary sergeant look at Brainerd's cheek with an expression that indicated extreme satisfaction and triumph, with a dash of contemptuous pity that made me hate the man, though he had always been so considerate of my abnormal appetite that he had slyly given me double rations of hard tack when we went out scouting.

Like the monks of old, Mr. R. B. Johnston, Glasgow, has written the Bible by hand and beautifully illuminated it. This was a herculean task, in this day of rapid achievement and expeditious processes. Mr. Johnston worked seven years over his Bible manuscript, and not long ago put the finishing touches upon the unique book.

One striking thing about the production is that the letter-text does not vary from Genesis to Revelation. The work is done on post quarter paper, and looks like the production of some medieval ecclesiastic. The artistic arrangement, the spacing and the alignment of the text are due, in a large measure, to the fact that Mr. Johnston is a practical printer.

"In my work of rewriting the scriptures," said Mr. Johnston, "I discovered two typographical errors. These, you know, are very rare, and are regarded as statutory offences, for which a penalty may be imposed."

The hand print made use of by Mr. Johnston has commended itself to London printers, who have prepared types from the original design. It is Mr. Johnston's idea to have his hand-written Bible issued to the public in parts by the process of photography. All who have seen this gentleman's wonderful manuscript have commended the skill and artistic merit of his work, and he has received encouraging letters from the well-known men and women who have inspected his work. One minister in Glasgow preached a sermon on the hand-written Bible, drawing lessons of patience and perseverance.

According to Mr. Johnston's own statement, he has had no special training either in penmanship or drawing, and alleges that his ordinary business handwriting is not even good, but that he has a natural talent for drawing and slow pen work. Previous to the writing of the Bible by hand he amused himself by writing and illustrating the works of the famous Scotch poets.

The Vampire.

Much has been written in the world of fiction about Vampires and their awful doings in the way of blood-sucking. As a matter of fact, there is practically only one bloodsucking Vampire Bat, although there is a smaller one which connects the common species with the other members of the family. The first one, the common bloodsucking Vampire, measures only about three inches in length, is of a reddish-brown color, and is found from Central America to southern Brazil, on the east, and in the west as far as Chili. From the structure of this bat it is more than probable that blood actually forms its entire food.

After a long, heavy sleep all day, this Vampire comes out at night, hovers about in ghostly fashion until it has selected its victim, and then sets to work. In the first place it proceeds—should the animal be woolly or thickly haired—to carefully shave away the hair or wool, with the thin part of the skin, by its peculiarly sharp upper incisor teeth. In this way the blood oozes slowly from the small capillary vessels when the Vampire Bat at once begins to suck and goes on sucking the blood until its small body can contain no more.

Horses, sheep and cattle are often served in this way; and as the operation apparently causes little or no pain, the animals are not cognizant of what is going on; but should the attacks be repeated, they become weak and thin, and finally become wrecks.

Although this is the only bat which subsists entirely on blood, it is possible that occasionally a few of the Javelin Bats may vary their ordinary diet in this way.

Geese Are Hardy.

Geese are extremely hard and long lived. They thrive on low lying lands which would not be suitable for fowls. Old pasture is best suited to their requirements, as they crop the grass very short and would likely destroy the roots of newly sown grass. They must be afforded liberty and lots of grassy range. They are very coarse feeders and will eat nearly anything in the shape of green food.

The gander likes to follow his own sweet will in choosing his mate, and it is sometimes difficult to induce him to transfer his affections; so that it is necessary to mate them some little time before the breeding season opens. Geese have been known to breed at a great age. It is better, however, to discard them after eight or ten years. Young birds do not breed as satisfactorily as old ones.

Although it is desirable to hatch early, it is not always advisable, as it depends upon the climate and location. Goslings need grass and do not thrive unless green food is supplied when they cannot get range—Ducks and Geese.

Irving and Carman Sylvia.

When the Queen of Roumania was in England, some years ago, and anxious that Sir Henry Irving and Miss Terry should hear a play which she had written. Accordingly, a meeting was arranged, and for over two hours the Queen-post-playwright declaimed blank verse, whilst the actor and actress sat and listened with polite attention. The reading finished, the Queen inquired anxiously of her audience, "Well, what do you think of it?" Whereupon Sir Henry, his hand upon his heart, and with his most graceful bow, replied, "Madame, such a play requires an Obedience to the Queen." And the Queen said "Y-e-s-s," thoughtfully, she looked as if she would really like to know what he meant.

Work and Japania Diet.

In India, China, Japan and adjacent countries are about 400,000,000 people who rarely eat meat; yet they are strong, active and long lived. Darwin is the authority for the statement that the Andean natives perform twice that work of ordinary laborers, and subsist almost entirely on a diet of bananas.

A Medieval Survival.

It may interest some of your readers to know that the archaic method of reckoning by tallies is still in vogue in Pau. While there I saw a bundle of tally sticks (there called tallies) suspended in a baker's shop, and on inquiry I found that most of the poorer country people thus registered their purchases until they were able to pay. The tally stick is cut down the center, the baker and purchaser each retaining a half, and when a loaf is sold the two halves are fitted together, and a notch is made across them, the purchaser thus keeping an exact check upon the baker's score. Upon any payment being made a corresponding number of notches are shaved off.

That Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a Sure Cure for all Stomach Troubles—Henry A. Coles' Experience.

Do you know Dyspepsia? Have you felt those pains, aches and discomforts that make men and women feel that there is no sunshine in life? Do you know that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will take away all the troubles you feel? Do not, it is because you will not profit by the experience of others.

Listen to what Henry A. Coles, of St. Mary's River, Guysboro Co., N.S., has to tell: "I had stomach trouble more or less for about five years," writes Mr. Coles. "Finally I was forced to take to my bed. The doctor was called in but he did me no good. I was suffering very bad and did not know what to do."

"Then my wife suggested that I try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, so finally I got some and commenced to use them. I took seven boxes in all, and have not felt any trouble since. I can heartily recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to any sufferer from stomach troubles. And others in this neighborhood who have used them speak just as highly of them as I do."

The Way to Use It.

If large acreage use a Spraymotor, Pump with agitator, either barrel or Knapsack, using 12 1/2 to 25 lbs. "Bug Death" to 40 gallons of water or 40 gallons of Bordeaux Mixture for each acre. Spray both ways of rows, and do the same thing four or five times during the season. This is the very best way to use "Bug Death." If you have only a small acreage, use the "Perfection Shaker" or any ordinary gun or sprayer.

HON. MR. SIFTON RETURNS.

WARMLY WELCOMED BY HIS FRIENDS AT OTTAWA.

Discusses Preparations Regarding Alaskan Boundary Tribunal—Views in England Regarding Mr. Chamberlain's Plan.

Ottawa, June 26.—Hon. Clifford Sifton returned to the city yesterday and was heartily welcomed by his colleagues in the Cabinet and the members from the west. In conversation in the afternoon the Minister of the Interior said: "We worked very laboriously on the preparation of Canada's case for the Alaska boundary tribunal, and when that was completed our staff took up the preparation of the counter case. It learns by cable from Mr. Wade that the counter case got to the printer to-day. We have had a number of discussions as to the preliminary date for argument, but it is quite unsettled as yet. I am very well satisfied with the presentation of our case as it is now." "Have the British Government been supporting Canada's position?" "The Government have taken our position throughout, and have stood by us. We have no fault to find with them in connection with the case."

"Will Mr. Justice Armour be able to act on the commission?" "It is quite impossible to hope that he will take any part in the matter. Another jurist will probably have to be appointed for Canada."

"What is the opinion in England in regard to Mr. Chamberlain's preferential trade proposition?" "At the time Mr. Chamberlain made his speech it was practically the sole subject of discussion in circles where public business is discussed. The outcome of the discussion it is impossible to see at the present time. The Liberal party is pretty largely hostile to the proposition in any form, so far as can be seen at the present time. There is also, unquestionably, a strong section of the Conservative party who manifest the keenest hostility to it, while it is said that some Liberals are in favor of the proposition. Opinion, therefore, is not divided on party lines. The opposition to it is founded upon the belief that it is a proposition to tax food. Mr. Chamberlain undoubtedly exercises a very powerful influence on English public opinion, and any scheme that he brings forward will receive great attention."

"What is your opinion of Mr. Chamberlain?" "He is a very able man, of great breadth of view, and very desirous of promoting what he believes to be the true interests of the Empire."

KILLED IN COLLISION.

Conductor Robert Braidwood the Victim.

Hamilton, June 26.—The most serious accident in the history of the Hamilton, Grimsby & Beamsville Electric Railway Company occurred about 2 p.m. yesterday, when Conductor Robert Braidwood was killed and other employees of the company, besides some passengers, were injured.

The accident was a head-on collision near Mr. E. Gilbert Smith's residence, about 500 yards east of the Winona crossing, between the regular passenger car coming towards the city and a special freight car going east. Mr. Braidwood was acting as motorman on the special freight, and he had orders to go through to Patterson's, about two miles and a half from Winona. He had taken his car about half this distance when the passenger car smashed into it. The accident took place at a point where there is a dip in the road, also a curve, and pine trees intervened in such a manner that neither motorman could see the other car coming till too late to stop.

The Prettiest of Embroideries

Sharp, telling price-concessions are always interesting, provided they're made on merchandise that's worth while, more so, when said merchandise is a necessity than when merely a luxury.

Hence there's no need to say much more about this sale of Embroideries and Insertions just when women are buying them by the dozens of yards, than merely to state facts. And here are the facts:—

The Embroideries are not seconds, or damaged in any manner, but are all new, attractive and serviceable lines. But we have a few too many of them, hence this reduction.

Over 1000 yards of Embroideries and insertions, prices ranging from 15c. up to 20c., our sale price for Saturday.

DEATH OF C. W. TAYLOR.

Business Manager of The Globe for Many Years.

Toronto, June 26.—A wide circle of personal friends in every part of Canada will receive with feelings of profound regret news of the death of Mr. Charles W. Taylor, business manager of The Globe, at his residence, 42 Willcocks street, yesterday. Death came to Mr. Taylor very suddenly. He rose as usual at 7.30 and began to dress. A few moments afterwards Mrs. Taylor heard a groan, and Mr. Taylor, apparently in great pain, came into the bedroom and lay down. While Mrs. Taylor was seeking to apply restoratives he collapsed. Dr. Milton Cotton was sent for, and on his arrival stated that death had resulted from the pressure of gases about the heart. Mr. Taylor had for some time complained of pain in the region of the heart, but was in other respects in good health.

The late Charles W. Taylor, business manager of The Globe, was the son of Captain John Taylor, a retired army officer, who was for many years manager of the Bothwell property of the Hon. George Brown. He was born in Toronto on May 22, 1851, and was therefore in his fifty-third year. He leaves a widow and four children. Miss Laura, Fred., of the G. T. B. service, and Charles and William. Henry Taylor, Chatham; John Taylor, of Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic; Judge Taylor, White Horse, Yukon; and William Taylor, are brothers, and Mrs. George Bingham, Denver, Col., and Mrs. Roseburgh, Bothwell, are sisters.

The funeral will be private, and will take place on Saturday to the family plot in St. James' cemetery, Toronto.

Rev. Dr. Milligan, of Old St. Andrew's, the family pastor, will conduct the services. Mr. Taylor's whole lifework was for the Globe. He entered the service thirty-six years ago as an office boy and rose steadily.

Mr. Brown placed much reliance in his judgment, and when he died in 1880 Mr. Taylor was appointed business manager.

MR. MUNNS SUMMONED.

Charge With a Breach of the Liquor Law.

Toronto, June 26.—Mr. William Munns, the well-known temperance advocate and President of the Crown Manufacturing Company, 785 Yonge street, was summoned yesterday to appear in the Police Court this morning, for an alleged breach of the liquor law. The Crown Manufacturing Company are wholesale dealers in unfermented wines for sacramental purposes, and License Inspector Hastings alleges that these wines contain an illegal percentage of alcohol.

Mr. Munns stated last night that he would ask Magistrate Denison to-day to adjourn the case for the week, in order that a proper analysis of his unfermented wines may be made. The sale of the wine will be admitted, and all the prosecution will be called upon to do will be to prove that the Crown Manufacturing Company's wines contain too great a quantity of alcohol.

THE TIBER'S TREASURES.

These Which Have Been Found Lead to Interest in a Dredging Scheme.

If we may judge by the past, the forthcoming dredging of the Tiber ought to yield some remarkable "finds." A long time ago it was proposed to divert the stream of the river above Rome, so that excavations might be made in the mud and silt, and also in the solid earth that underlies the present channel. That idea was abandoned as too elaborate and expensive, but in 1877 an effort was made to give to the stream a uniform depth of nine feet. The dredging involved in this hardly penetrated more than three feet below the bottom. It did not touch the lower strata. Nevertheless an enormous number of antiquities were discovered. Few of those dated back to classical times. Coins were discovered at the rate of 14,000 per annum, but nearly all belong to the last two centuries. Some thousands of weapons were also recovered, the witnesses to the revolutions and political outbreaks of the last few hundred years. The revolt of 1831 and the Napoleonic wars supplied the majority of them.

On only two occasions has the Tiber been pierced to a depth of over 30 feet—once in constructing the Ponte Garibaldi, and once in repairing the Ponte Sisto. The excavations made at these times were confined to a very small area, but they brought to light an enormous mass of archaeological material. The treasures comprised coins, medals, sculptures, bronzes, brass work, inscribed stones and gems, specimens of pottery, and also marbles. Among the last was a fine statue in perfect condition except for the loss of its arm. None of these objects had suffered much from their entombment, which varied from 1,500 to 1,800 years. Iron alone is rusted and finally eaten away by the action of water, its effect on marble being mainly to impart a deep reddish-brown tinge. Otherwise Father Time is a first-rate curator. He dealt gently with the treasures committed to his care, washing away the lighter ones, no doubt, but so it is supposed, not moving the heavier objects, such as marbles and statuary, more than fourteen or fifteen yards in a century. A systematic dredging may easily bear out all the tales that have been told in Rome about the Middle Ages of the fabulous wealth that has been cast into its yellow waters.—London Chronicle.

Heckling Public Speakers.

John Morley tells with amusement of a heckling of his own. When he went to contest Montrose Burghs in 1895 he found that the electors had been well supplied with his volume on "Compromise." At almost his first meeting a dour Scot rose to ask, "Am I to understand that the candidate is the author of a book on 'Compromise'?"

Mr. Morley confessed that the poor thing was his own.

"Then what I want to know," continued his interrogator, "is how you reconcile that book with going up and down the country calling yourself 'Honest John'?"

That situation must have been somewhat embarrassing to the candidate, but extrication from it was simplicity itself compared with the plight of a man of whom Abraham Hayward tells Faking Burghs was the seat contested, and the following is the record of questions and answers:

"Will Mr. Morley vote for alterations of the Decalogue?"
Morley (aside to treacherous friend)—"What the—'s that?"
Friend—"Plogging in the army."
Morley—"I beg to say, if elected, I will vote, and, indeed, I will move, for its total and immediate abolition!"

Good Calf Care.

The calf should be cleaned at once after the birth by careful rubbing with dry cloth or dry straw, as the calf respires only through the skin.

The calf should be protected against dampness and draft. It should have the milk in small portions and as often as the cows are milked, as only then we get the full benefit of the milk.

New milk should be fed exclusively the first fourteen to twenty days. The calf should have part new, part skim, milk from about the twelfth to the fifteenth day. Feed skim milk or other similar liquid food till at least three months old and after that as long as can be afforded.

Give the milk at blood heat, but this should, new as well as skin, be first heated to 176 degrees. The calf should have oatmeal gruel and good fine hay at the time when feeding skim milk commences.

Use clean pails. Uncleanliness may cause deadly sickness. The calf should be made to drink the milk slowly in order not to disturb the digestion.

Joe Jefferson's Cheques.

A good old story is told of Joseph Jefferson's attempt to cash a cheque in a Chicago bank several years ago. The teller did not know him, never having seen him save on the stage in "Rip Van Winkle," and when the famous actor came face to face with one of the greatest admirers of the latter refused to believe the evidence of his own eyes, and demanded that Mr. Jefferson get some one to identify him. The latter was somewhat nonplussed that his face was unknown to even the teller of a bank, but before turning from the window to get the necessary identification, said, in those inimitable and world renowned accents "If my dog Schneider was here he would know me, dot's so." The teller laughed with delight, and paid the cheque without further question. Nobody but Joe Jefferson could have said it that way.

Man's Progress.

Institutions may crumble and governments fall, but it is only that they may renew a better youth. The petals of the flower wither that the fruit may form. The desire of perfection, springing always from moral power, rules even the sword and escapes unharmful from the field of carnage, giving to battles all that they can have of lustre and to warriors their only glory, surviving martyrdoms and safe amid the wreck of states. On the banks of the stream of time not a monument has been raised to a hero or a nation but tells the tale and renews the hope of improvement. Each people that has disappeared, every institution that has passed away, has been a step in the ladder by which humanity ascends toward the perfection of its nature.

Two Definitions of a Gentleman.

To be a gentleman "is to be honest, to be gentle, to be generous, to be brave, to be wise, and, possessed of all these qualities, to exercise them in the most graceful manner," says the great novelist Thackeray.

A diner in a certain hotel became so noisy that the proprietor directed his removal. The waiter who successfully accomplished this, on returning to the room, expressed his regret at having been obliged to put the individual out, for, said he, "with emphasis, 'he's a perfect gentleman,' adding after a pause, as if to explain how he arrived at so decided a conclusion, 'He gives me 'alf a crown.'—Notes and Queries.

Asks Pardon.

Warden—He was the coolest and most thoughtful convict that ever broke jail.

Jenkins—That so?
Warden—Yes. He left behind him a note to the governor of the state beginning, "I hope you will pardon me for the liberty I'm taking."

The Dentist Was Kind.

"Did the dentist hurt you much, Elsie?" asked the mother solicitously.
"Yes, mamma," replied the small girl.
"But he was very nice every time he did."

"Very nice? How do you mean?"
"Why, he always said 'Ouch!' before I could."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Six Doctors Failed to Cure Him.

ERYSIPELAS AND SALT RHEUM WAS THE TROUBLE.

Burdock Blood Bitters

DID MORE THAN SIX DOCTORS COULD DO.

Mrs. Theo. Newell, Argyle Sound, N.S., expresses her opinion of this wonderful blood remedy in the following letter:

"It is with the greatest gratitude that I can testify to the wonderful curative powers of Burdock Blood Bitters. For years my husband suffered terribly with Erysipelas and Salt Rheum. He was so bad at times that he could not sleep on account of the itching and burning. He had been under the care of six different doctors, but they failed to do him any good. I had read different times of the wonderful cures being made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so advised him to give it a trial. He did so, and after taking five bottles was cured without a doubt. I would strongly advise any person troubled with blood disorders to give B.B.B. a fair trial for I am sure it will cure them."

A POWERFUL WHEEL.

Inventor Would Use Radium to Propel New Air Ship to Mars—How It Can Be Done.

The Electrical World publishes the following remarkable communication: "The writer is a poor inventor who has worked for years on a wheel, and only recent discoveries in the scientific invention of to-day have enabled him to get power out of it to run a special kind of motor. It is no humbug, you can rest assured, but I cannot give away the secret of the detail parts unless some other inventor gobbles it up and claims it, with some little improvement, as his own idea. It is a magnetic wheel that will run of itself and also by wind at the same time."

This wheel would run for years or until it clogged up with oil. It would have power enough to run two fan wheels to propel a twenty foot airship at the rate of about 100 miles an hour, perhaps, more, but not against the wind. The air ship would be the shape of a sunfish almost and feather to the wind and point upward. It would be built in six sections of aluminium, glass and mica.

The wheel has a hollow rim and spokes, has drop magnets inside and a wrought iron ball; also a small quantity of radium. The dropping and raising of the magnets cause the wheel to revolve (we do not propose to give the secret details). The spokes of the wheel are feathered with a wind fan that will cause the wheel to revolve also, but we do not depend on that, but on the magnets and the ball and the radium. Once set, the wheel has got to revolve and in turn gives off electro magnetic power to two small motors that run the fan wheels.

This wheel was first invented in 1876, but had no power until two inventions recently discovered came out. Now the power is at hand. Radium is one that makes it work and keeps it working over and over again. Once on the move, the wheel cannot stop of itself. This wheel would send a twenty foot air ship to another planet. It can be done now.

A Map Made of Wood.

A map of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, showing all political divisions and the principal water courses, made entirely in marquetry of forty-three kinds of the various woods indigenous to the two territories, is a standing attraction on the floor of the lower house of the Oklahoma Legislature. It is the handiwork of S. O. Moreland, of Shawnee, a stonemason with no technical knowledge of cabinet work, and in the making occupied the spare time of nine months. In size it is about 3 by 4 feet. The border, representing the white paper upon which maps are printed, is cottonwood, the most widely and evenly distributed of western trees. It is framed in black walnut, with heavily turned pilasters at the ends, and is under glass. The various bits of wood composing it are sawed to show the grain in the best advantage, highly polished and shaped to conform exactly to the territorial subdivisions shown on the latest published maps.

How the Indian Knows a Coward.

A Western man once told an Indian that a desperado was coming after his scalp. He smiled and shook his head. "A few days later," continues the narrator, "we were talking to the white man when the Indian came up to join the group. He had spotted the stranger and knew him by sight. Without saying a word to him he walked up within arm's reach and struck the white man in the face with a rough, heavy glove. He paused for a few seconds and hit him again. 'Ugh!' he exclaimed as he wheeled around and walked away. The white man looked at the Indian in amazement, but made no sign of resentment. Later in the day when we asked the Indian why he didn't follow up the insult with blows he told us the white man was a coward. In explaining how he knew it he said the man's 'jaw dropped' when he struck him in the face the second time and the glove, and that this, with the Indian, was an unfailing sign of cowardice."

King's Master-Printer-in-Ordinary.

The Chevalier Edward de Martino, Marine-Printer-in-Ordinary to His Majesty the King, who was recently made by King Victor Emmanuel a Grand Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy, as his name implies, a native of Italy, born at Meta, near Naples. The Chevalier has made his home in England since 1875, and occupied the post of Marine Painter to her late Majesty, who made him a member of the Royal Victorian Order. He was educated at the Naval College, Naples, and served as an officer in the Italian navy previous to 1867. His first artistic work of importance was taking sketches, by order of the Paraguayan war, after which he executed several commissions for the late Emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro II. He is best known in Britain by his series of four paintings of the battle of Trafalgar.

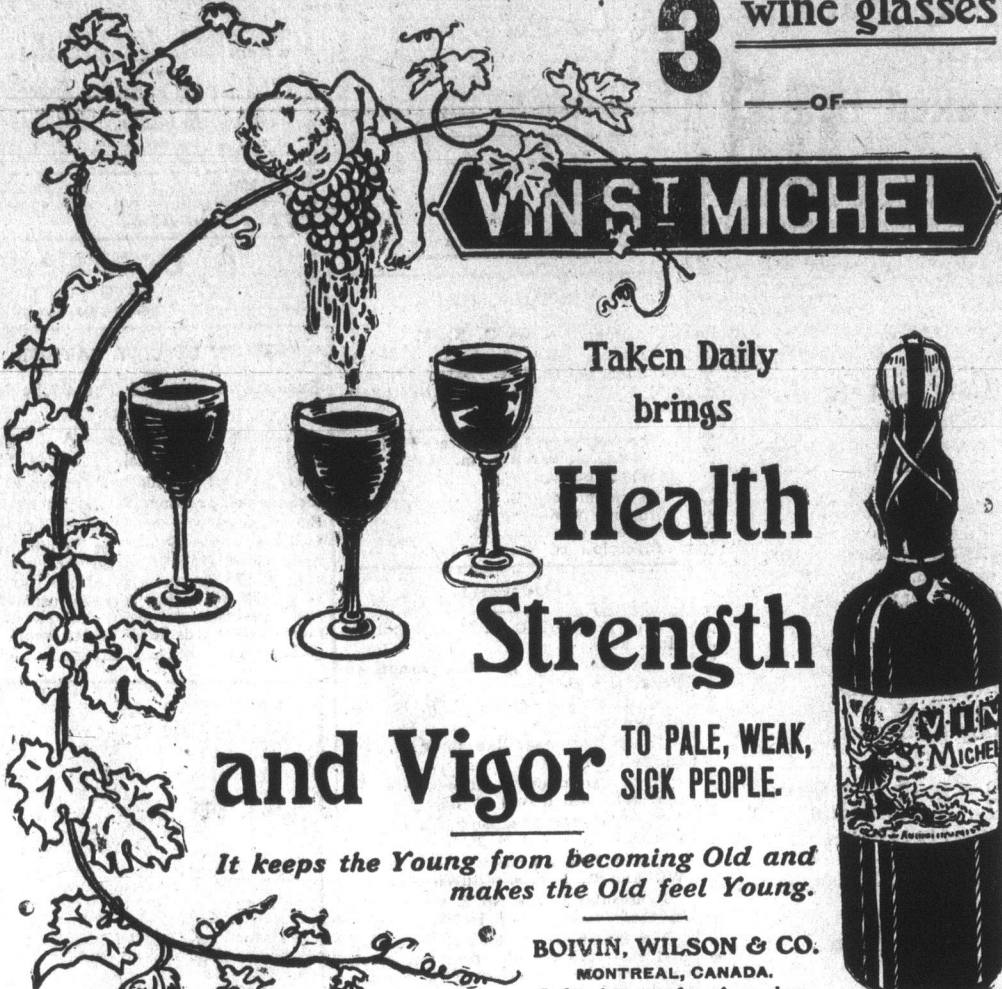

Shamrock III's Horoscope.

An astrologer in the new English Journal of occultism, Anubis, has been casting the horoscope of Shamrock III. Shamrock III. took the water at 1.20 p.m. on St. Patrick's day, but apparently all the saints in the calendar would be unable to avert the sinister aspect of the heavens. "The moon," who governs everything aquatic, "was then in the middle of Scorpio, in conjunction with the evil south scale," absolutely the worst position in the zodiac she could occupy. Already a serious accident to the yacht sustains and comforts the astrologer.

SHAREHOLDERS OUT.

NOTHING FOR ATLAS LOAN UNFORTUNATES.

Depositors' Position Depends on What the Securities Held by Ames & Co. and Others Realize—National Trust For Permanent Liquidators.

St. Thomas, June 26.—A meeting of the shareholders and others interested in the Atlas Loan Co. was held in the City Hall last night, to consider the settlement given out by the liquidator, Mr. Home Smith. There were about two hundred present, a large number of whom were ladies, many dressed in widow's weeds. Mr. A. E. Wallace, the late President and manager, who was expected to give a report in explanation of the position of the company and his conduct of its affairs, was not present. The date of the holding of the meeting had been changed from Wednesday to Thursday, and a letter was read from Mr. Wallace stating that he had an engagement in Toronto on Friday morning with two gentlemen in regard to the affairs of the company, and he thought it would be to the best interests of the company to keep the engagement, as he could attend a general meeting to be held after a permanent liquidator was appointed; the motion in regard to which will come before the Master-in-Ordinary in Toronto on Monday.

Mr. Home Smith of the National Trust Co. was present, and answered a large number of questions which were showered at him. No new light was thrown upon the position of the affairs of the company, other than contained in the statement issued, but those present were enlightened as to the manner in which the Atlas Loan Co. had conducted business in dealing in stocks on margins with some fifteen different brokers, and as to the steps which were proposed to be taken to wind up the affairs of the company and realize the most possible for the stockholders, debenture-holders and depositors.

Mr. Smith was asked as to what the depositors and others were likely to receive.

As regards the shareholders, he freely admitted there was nothing; but, as for the depositors, what they would receive depended upon what the securities in the hands of Ames & Co. and other securities realized, and that could not now be told.

Some of those present had very severe things to say of Mr. Wallace, but for the most part the meeting was a quiet, businesslike affair. A resolution was finally passed requesting the Master-in-Ordinary to confirm the National Trust Co. as liquidators, and to consent to the appointment of an advisory committee to act in conjunction with the liquidators, the said committee to be appointed at a meeting to be called by Mr. Smith.

THE GAMEY DEBATE.

Messrs. Connee, McDiarmid, Sutherland, Downey and Graham Speak.

Toronto, June 26.—The Gamey debate in the Legislature did not conclude yesterday, but the more optimistic believe the end will really be reached to-day. Dr. Willoughby, the Opposition Whip, said last night Mr. Foy would be the only other speaker on the Opposition side, Mr. Graham having yet to finish. This should insure a division early this afternoon. Mr. Connee occupied the forenoon in concluding yesterday, and in the course of his able address he bade defiance to the Opposition, telling them to come on with their disgraceful methods and the Liberals would meet them. Mr. McDiarmid and Mr. Sutherland spoke briefly, and then Mr. Downey entertained the House for upwards of two hours with his genial Celtic eloquence. The last speaker of the day was Mr. Geo. P. Graham.

THE LOG FELL ON HIM.

Fatal Accident to Mr. William Allan Near Seaford.

Seaford, June 26.—Mr. Wm. Allan, a farmer, aged 45 years, who lived three miles south of here, was accidentally killed yesterday. While he and his little boy were carrying a log for the well pump from an adjoining field to the house Mr. Allan slipped and fell, the log striking him on the neck and killing him almost instantly.

AN OLD MAN KILLED.

Body Found Under a Freight Engine Near Cornwall.

Cornwall, June 26.—An old man named Macdonald, whose home is supposed to be in Glen Robertson, Glengarry County, was killed by a freight train one mile east of Cornwall station Wednesday about 10 o'clock. When the engine slowed up the unfortunate man's body was found underneath. Macdonald was about 70 years of age.

TORONTO & HAMILTON BILL.

Railway Committee May Have Final Word—Mr. Campbell's Statement.

Ottawa, June 26.—Mr. Arch. Campbell stated last night that at the conference over the Toronto & Hamilton Electric Railway bill the civic representatives took the ground that they did not want the railway to enter the city upon any conditions except with their consent. The outside municipalities, on the other hand, hold that entrance to Toronto for the line is absolutely necessary, and they did not want the city to be given power to block the enterprise altogether. The proposition therefore is that if the road cannot agree with the city as to terms, the matter shall be referred back to the Railway Committee to decide.

CHEERED THE POPE.

His Holiness Applauded by Vast Crowds of People.

Rome, June 26.—The public consistory postponed from June 18 was held with much pomp and circumstance, and additional interest and reverence, for in spite of the reassuring news concerning the Pope's health, many persons believed that this would be the last consistory under Leo XIII. The assemblage gazed at the venerable Pontiff with intense curiosity, and there was redoubled enthusiasm in the cries of "Long live Leo." He looked a little more wax-like, a little more bowed, his voice was somewhat thinner, and it was evident that his attendants were anxious.

There were many strangers among the crowds of people who gathered in the corridors of the Sala Regia and Sala Ducale to witness the passage of the cortege. The Pontiff was borne in the sedia gestatoria by eight chair-bearers, clad in bright red brocade. They were flanked by the bearers of the famous feathered fans.

The Pope smiled while he blessed the crowds as he passed. In fact, at times he tried to raise so as to better impart his blessing, but he was only when he descended from the sedia gestatoria that his extreme weakness was apparent.

The ceremony was made as short as possible, in order to lessen the Pontiff's fatigue. The Pope sat on the throne facing the brocade-covered benches where the Cardinals were seated. On approaching the Pontiff, the three Cardinals knelt and kissed his foot and his hand and the Pope then gave them the double embrace; the Pontiff remaining seated. The new Cardinals, afterwards embraced the other Cardinals, the latter standing. Returning to the Pontiff each of the new Cardinals then received from his hands a Cardinal's hat, which ended the ceremony. The Pope thereupon rose, bestowed the apostolic benediction and preceded by the Pontifical cross and surrounded by the Cardinals and his attendants, impressively retired, the choir intoning a Te Deum as he was borne back to his apartments.

ENSLAVING NEGROES.

One Man Sentenced to Five Years in Prison—Heavy Fines Imposed Upon Others.

Montgomery, Ala., June 6.—J. W. Pace, a planter of Tallapoosa county, Alabama, was found guilty of holding negroes in involuntary servitude and sentenced to five years in prison. Mr. Pace was under eleven indictments and was found guilty under each indictment, but as he was sentenced to serve his punishments in all cases concurrently he will only suffer the single five-year penalty. This concession was made because of the advanced age of the defendant and his feeble condition, it being represented that he might die before he reached prison. When the cases were called demurrers were filed in all of the cases and overruled. The defendant then pleaded guilty in all of the eleven cases. An appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans, La., to make a test case was filed upon giving bond in the sum of $5,000 in one of the cases. He was released from custody in the others.

Pace was charged with holding in peonage the following negroes—John Davis, Charles Williams, Doc Crenshaw, Pat Hill, Ed Moody, Jim Caldwell, Kim Secor, Chris Myers, Owens Green and Ephraim Pope. It is said that the negroes were treated cruelly at Pace's farm, many being brutally whipped. It is said that Owens Green, a negro, was whipped so severely that many bones in his body were broken and that his power of speech was interfered with. When Mr. Pace made his statement to the Judge he acknowledged that he was guilty. He said: "I plead guilty to the offense and would like your Honor to be merciful." The Judge then asked him if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, and he replied in the negative. The Judge then sentenced him.

Macon, Ga., June 26.—In the United States Court Judge Speer imposed a fine of $100 each on three young men, William Shy, Arthur Clawson and Robert Turner, for holding a negro in involuntary servitude. The offense was that the young men, who are farmers, caught a negro who had gotten in debt to them, gave him a whipping and made him go to work for them. Judge Speer said that the problem of the times could not be solved by harsh measures, and wanted it distinctly understood that the laws of Georgia were against such treatment.

JAPANESE IMPATIENT.

Urges Prompt Action in Regard to Manchuria.

Tokio, June 26.—Public impatience regarding the Manchurian question is growing daily. Even the most sober journals advocate that resolute steps be taken in order to terminate the harassing suspense, which is checking all peaceful developments. They declare that the nation would give the Ministry united support in taking strong measures, the responsibility for which would rest with Russia. A council of all the leading statesmen is to be held at the palace to discuss the situation, the gravity of which is fully recognized in official circles. It is believed by many that rumor exaggerates the weakness of the Chinese Government.

GOOD CONCERT

Miss Castello, of New York, presented under the auspices of the Park St. Church Epworth League.

Owing, no doubt, to the lateness of the season, it was a very small audience who greeted the appearance of Miss Castello in the Park street Methodist Sunday school room last evening.

The concert was given under the auspices of the Park street Epworth League. It was a success financially, but not as successful as it should have been. This is no doubt largely due to the fact that numbers who would have gone knew nothing about the concert.

Miss Castello was very clever in her different numbers and everyone who was present was thoroughly delighted with the program. This is her first appearance in Canada, her home being in New York; but there is no doubt that efforts will be made to bring her to Chatham again next season.

Miss Castello gave the whole program herself and kept her audience interested throughout. She gave several recitations, personations and vocal solos, but her good work was done in her impersonations. Her sketch, "Little Missouri" was especially good. In this she assumed the part of a little girl, and she kept her audience in peals of laughter. Damon and Pythias was also given in grand style.

Those who did not hear her will no doubt be greatly disappointed when they learn that it was one of the finest entertainments of its kind heard in Chatham this year. Rev. Mr. Oobledick introduced the artist of the evening with a few well chosen words, after which an excellent program was given.

SAM EXPLAINS

"The trouble with the electric lights," remarked Lineman Sam Moore this morning to The Planet, "is that there is too much of a strain on the machines. The machine for North Chatham has a capacity of only 30 and there are 37 lights on it. The South division is in just the same condition."
