THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1911. USELESS ADVICE.

The suggestion by some of his friends that Mr. Borden should throw overboard the plank in the party policy which says Canada should give Britain no preference unless Britain puts a duty on her imported goods, and should come out with a proposal to outdo the Liberals in the matter of extending the preference on British goods, is a very high compliment to the success which has followed the adoption of the preference both in a material and a sentimental sense.

It is not to be forgotten, of course, that this proposal is of the nature of a death-bed repentance. It was thrown out in the hope that Mr. Borden might find it useful bait in his fishing for anti-reciprocity votes. That such was the purpose aimed at is practically admitted. The suggestion came from those who acknowledged, indirectly, that they see nothing in the reciprocity agreement itself that is open to attack.

None the less, the fact that the suggestion is made is a plain admission that the preference has done good work, alike in developing trade between Canada and the Old Land, and in the way of strengthening and vitalizing the sense of relationship between the peoples of the two countries. These are facts which do not need admission; on the opposite side to give "everybody knows" that trade between the two countries has grown and that the preference has been a factor in the growth and everyone understands that in growing trade has served to make the two peoples better acquainted and more aware of the advantages of doing business with each other in a large way.

That Mr. Borden has no intention of taking this advice, he has made sufficiently clear. In reply to the various Grovners he speaks of the advantages of reciprocity within the Empire as against reciprocity with the United States. But he at once threw cold water on any notion that he would do anything to bring about reciprocity within the Empire, by saying that for the immense development works ahead the country must have money, and that to raise the funds the tariff must be maintained.

By common consent the parade on Coronation day was the best yet held in the city. The whole day's program, in fact, was well arranged and well executed, and reflects credit upon those who had it in hand. Mr. Borden again assured the Grovners that he is unalterably opposed to allowing them to sell to buyers from the United States.

MAKE THEM WALK.

An autist continues to grace the police court with his unwilling presence one in a while, and to contribute a sum to the revenue of the city. But for each one who gets into court there are a dozen who should get there. Every evening the upper stretch of Kinistino avenue is turned into a speedway, and machines of tremendous horsepower go shooting along at speeds that would distance a freight train.

Winipeg Free Press.—The west is just getting into its stride as a wheat growing country. There will be two hundred million bushels harvested this year; three hundred millions a few years hence. Are sufficient markets for our surplus as available as to justify us in throwing away one at our own, which will increase in value with every year?

Montreal Star.—Some of the Ontario militia regiments hire men to go to camp as "volunteers." Naturally, they think that an increase in Government pay would get over that difficulty. But the question arises as to the value of a militia soldier as a man who regards going into camp as a paying job. What would their price be for going into battle?

Victoria Colonist.—Messrs. Monk and Bourassa are stumping Quebec together in opposition to the Laurier Government. The unusual feature of the case is that Mr. Monk opposes reciprocity and Mr. Bourassa favors it. If they both succeed, the Government from the same platform on the same occasion the audience will be in the position of the darkey who heard the preacher say that the darkey is "one leading to everlasting destruction and the other to eternal perdition." Thereupon the darkey ejaculated: "In dat case, si nister I take to de woods."

Montreal Herald.—When Parliament adjourned those Conservatives who are against reciprocity and who would like to think they could win a general election in it were hoping they might get great encouragement from the local elections in Nova Scotia. Mr. Borden, for instance, timed his start for the West for the day after the elections. No doubt it would have been a fine feather in his cap if they had.

It seems necessary to say—and insist—that the Canadian farmer is a really useful member of society, a loyal citizen, and a normally intelligent person. Necessary because the campaign being now carried on by the Opposition and their allies seems designed to spread the notion that the farmer is economically of not much account, is to be relied upon for loyalty only to a limited degree, and in point of intelligence has hardly any sense enough to come in out of the hail.

OBSERVATIONS

Toronto News.—After being at a picnic on Saturday we are able to say that the day spent this year here rather better than usual, while the autists seem to have lost their favor.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1911.

It is impertinence such as the country has not often seen. We are pretty well used in Canada to the wall which accompanies every reduction in the duties on manufactured goods. The owners of our industries have gotten entirely over any feeling of reticence about calling public attention to their merits and desires. They do not hesitate to tell us daily that they are the pillars of the national welfare, and to warn us on occasion that in lessening the favors given them in the tariff we are taking away the foundations from under the general prosperity.

CLYDE

Bulletin Staff Correspondent. The Half-Way House trail between Edmonton and Athabasca Landing is a straight west is the post-Clyde, in a store close to the new C.N.R. line, runs from Edmonton to Athabasca. About a mile further west is well travelled south of the town.

The grain which has been in the Clyde district and Hazel Bluff and other north and west of Edmonton has been transported in wagon for from twenty-five to thirty miles to the nearest elevator at Hazel Bluff. New settlers coming in with their increasing herds and larger stock beds have a local demand for farm products. The railway has created a demand for both man and beast.

Four prisoners employed on the roads in Northern Ontario have made off into the brush. The Ontario Government has been trying some novel notions in the handling of criminals. The latest freak is to put them on their honor not to run away and set them to do road work under unarmored guards. The point that the criminal has no honor to be put upon seems to have been overlooked. Perhaps the disappearance of the prisoners will serve to bring the idea to mind.

What exemption from taxation means is shown pretty clearly in the case of the assessment of the C.N.R. property by the city. For school purposes the property is assessed at $39,000, but for other taxes it can be assessed for only $15,000, the amount fixed on at the time of the bargain with the company. At first the city mills the taxes on the difference between these sums would amount to about $24,000 per year.

(From Tuesday's Daily) IN THE SUPREMACY COURT. In the Supreme Court yesterday the action of Clara Forest vs. Home Insurance Company is being argued by Mr. Justice Simmons. The action is to recover $1400 insurance on a sporting house and its contents which was destroyed by fire at Carole in November of last year. Payment has been refused by the company, under the non-occupancy clause. H. H. Robertson is appearing for the plaintiff and J. E. Wallbridge, for the defendant company.

FINANCIAL POST EDITOR HERE. H. G. Duggan of Toronto, managing editor of the Financial Post, was a visitor to the board of trade office yesterday. Accompanied by Mrs. Livingston, he is making a trip through Western Canada, writing his impressions of the country as he goes. He has visited all the principal cities east of Edmonton and is now en route to the coast.

Visitors to the board of trade office yesterday were: D. H. Silas, Hon. Cons. formerly of Edmonton; W. Parsons, Niagara, Manitoba; William Mumms, Toronto; D. D. Larson, Killam; E. W. Thacher, C. P. House, San Francisco, California; A. B. Witherbe, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

ONLY ONE APPEAL. The triumph of the city assessor was celebrated at the meeting of the city council last night, when assessment roll, and the appeals thereon, were taken up. The only appeal from the assessment of land, will be confirmed, after the hearing of one appeal from the assessment of the commissioners as a court of revision.

Last year's assessments were numerous though few were granted. This year, with only eleven of the appeals to the commissioners were granted, only one appeal from the Grand Trunk Pacific will go to the council. The circumstances in this case are peculiar in that they turn upon a point of a varying out of an agreement existing between the company and the city. Under this agreement the assessment for municipal purposes is to be made on the basis of the value of the land, and not on the basis of the value of the improvements thereon. It is considered practically certain that the assessment will be confirmed by the council, and will then be carried to the district court, which is the final court of appeal. As, in order to exercise the right of appeal to the district court, the appellant must first appeal from the commissioners to the council, it will therefore be the duty of the G. T. P. to file an appeal with the council.

BUSINESS TAXES FOR 1911 TO BE REDUCED

Notices of Assessment for Business Tax Will be Issued on Friday, and Will Show a Reduction in the Rate Charged Against Various Businesses. Notices of the assessment for business tax will be sent out from the city assessor's office on Friday next. There has been a marked reduction in the assessment for this year. Banks, which last year paid $1.00 per square foot of floor space, will this year pay only 75 cents per square foot. Business and professional offices will pay $2.50, instead of $3.00 formerly. The assessment for per square foot for general stores has been reduced by 75 cents, the retail grocery stores by 75 cents, the wholesale grocery stores by 50 cents. Retail dry goods $1.25 and the jewelry stores a like amount.

Of the total assessment last year the assessment of places of business amounted to $2,317,970 only. This while this year, owing to the extension of business hours, the amount collected will be greater than last year, the assessment for business tax will be considerably less than compared with the total assessment.

FINED $100 OR THREE MONTHS IMPRISONMENT

Edward Bourke, former proprietor of Hub Cigar Store, Found Guilty of Not Keeping Proper and Necessary Books of Account. Payment of a $100 fine or three months imprisonment in the guard room at Fort Saskatchewan, was the sentence imposed on Edward A. Bourke by His Honor Judge Taylor, yesterday by His Honor Judge Taylor. Bourke was formerly a proprietor of the Hub cigar store, Jasper avenue east. On Tuesday of last week he was tried on three charges of fraudulent conduct of his business, judgment being rendered that he be fined $100 or three months imprisonment. The first count, that of the first two counts, that of selling and disposing of his stock with intent to defraud his creditors, was not proven. He was convicted on the third count of not keeping such books of account as were necessary to ascertain whether he was indebted to an amount over $1,000.

In passing sentence His Honor Judge Taylor expressed some doubts as to the innocence of the accused on the first two counts. He had been guilty undoubtedly under the provisions of the Criminal Code, but, referred to by H. L. Laney, counsel for the defence, was taken into consideration by the court in passing sentence.

"I have dealt leniently with you and trust this will be a lesson to you hereafter when a wronger who has done it in a business-like manner, said His Honor Judge Taylor in delivering judgment."

Mr. Jefferson referred to the most things that were happening in this western land and of the great future that was in store for it. In future years, he said, there would be two prominent parts: (1) The Church of Christ; and (2) Freemasonry. It was true that the Masons were not numerous but it was also true that their influence felt throughout the West. We must bear in mind that the Masons are not a sect, but a brotherhood, and that their influence is felt throughout the West. WILL CITY COUNCIL DEFER ACTION.

That the city council may defer action indefinitely upon the report of the committee which conducted the investigation into the charges against Commissioner Bouchard and Hutchart is the rumor which was in circulation on the streets yesterday. It is generally admitted that those who were desirous of dismissing the commissioners were disappointed by the evidence adduced at the enquiry into the charges, which, during the early days of the investigation, resulted in the abandonment of two of the evidence for the prosecution, which was believed to be incontrovertible.

The effect of the investigation upon public opinion is believed to have been indicated by the vote on the matter by the city council, which was a vote by-law which have been submitted to the ratifiers since the conclusion of the investigation. Both the stock yards by-law and the by-law providing for the development of power on the Athabasca were defeated, the latter by an overwhelming majority, despite the strong support given for the by-law by Mayor Armstrong through the medium of the press. Each of these by-law was opposed by Commissioners Bouchard and Hutchart, and the vote was generally taken as a test of public opinion on the questions at issue.

It is therefore suggested that the majority in the council, realizing that they have not a sufficiently strong body of public opinion behind them, and being at the same time repelled against the commissioners have not been able to bring the case against the commissioners before the investigation committee, which it was proposed to take when the council meets on Tuesday next.

No confirmation of the rumor could be obtained yesterday. Mr. Bouchard, however, in his response to an enquiry, all the aldermen who might be expected to be able to say whether there was any foundation for the rumor made similar statements.
