BOVRIL.

Report of the Feeding Experiments Made in the School of Physiology, Trinity College, Dublin.

The preliminary announcement of the results of the experiments conducted at the request of the Local Government Board for Ireland during the past year, in the School of Physiology, Trinity College, Dublin, as to the nutritive value of Bovril, and communicated to the British Association at Sheffield ("Times" report, September 3), has created considerable interest amongst the Medical Profession.

In order to secure a decisive test, dogs were first brought to a constant weight on dried dog biscuit mixed with known quantities of water. Bovril—from 2 1/2 to 7 1/2 grammes—was then added to the food, with the result that the weight of the animals went up as much as 50 to 100 grammes, or, in round numbers, 10 to 20 times the weight of the Bovril given. Afterwards Bovril was discontinued, and the animals fell back to the original weight. Compared with the effect of hard-boiled white of egg, it was found that from 8 to 10 times as much by weight of the latter had to be given to obtain the same increase in weight, or, taking the dried organic solids in the two foods, from 2 1/2 to 4 times as much egg white had to be given to obtain the Bovril effect.

In several of the experiments there was a retention of reserve nitrogen, and in all an increased utilisation of other foods. It was therefore concluded that Bovril had both a direct and an indirect nutritive value, the latter by causing a more complete digestion and absorption of the other food given.

The Chest Drawers.

(Concluded.)

The letter which Caleb, although he read with facility, had much difficulty in making out, was that which Mr. Lisle had struck from the young woman's hand a few weeks before, and proved to be a very affecting appeal from Lucy Stevens, now Lucy Warner, and a widow, with two grown-up children. Her husband had died in insolvent circumstances, and she and her sister Emily, who was still single, were endeavoring to carry on a school at Bristol, which promised to be sufficiently prosperous if the sum of about £150 could be raised, to save the furniture from her deceased husband's creditors. The claim was pressing, for Mr. Warner had been dead nearly a year, and Mr. Lisle being the only relative Mrs. Warner had in the world, she had ventured to entreat his assistance for her mother's sake. There could be no moral doubt, therefore, that the money was intended for Mrs. Warner's relief, and early in the morning Mr. Caleb Jennings dressed himself in his Sunday's suit, and with a brief announcement to his landlady that he was about to leave Watley for a day or two, on a visit to a friend, set off for the railway station. He had not proceeded far when a difficulty struck him—the bank-notes were all twenties; and were he to change a twenty-pound note at the station, where he was well known, great would be the tattle and wonderment, if nothing worse, that would ensue. So Caleb tried his credit again, borrowed sufficient for his journey to London, and there changed one of the notes. He soon reached Bristol, and blessed was the relief which the sum of money he brought afforded Mrs. Warner. She expressed much sorrow for the with me—dog!—llar!—rascal!—thief!

This was a species of attack which Jennings was at no loss how to meet. He shook the attorney roughly off, and hurled him, in the midst of his vituperation, to the further end of the room.

They then stood glaring at each other in silence, till the attorney, mastering himself as well as he could, essayed another and more rational mode of attaining his purpose—

"Come, come, Jennings," he said; "don't be a fool. Let us understand each other. I have just discovered a paper, a memorandum of what you have found in the drawers, and to obtain which you bought them. I don't care for the money—keep it; only give me the papers—documents."

"Papers—documents!" ejaculated Caleb, in unforgotten surprise. "Yes—yes; of use to me only. You, I remember, cannot read writing; but they are of great consequence to me—to me only, I tell you."

"You can't mean Mrs. Warner's letter?"

"No—no; curse the letter! You are playing with a tiger. Keep the money, I tell you; but give up the papers—documents—or I'll transport you." "I'll transport you with reviving fury," Caleb, thoroughly bewildered, could only mechanically ejaculate that he had no papers or documents.

The rage of the attorney when no "papers" could be extracted from Jennings was frightful. He literally roared with passion, uttered the wildest threats, and then suddenly changing his key, offered the astounded cobbler one—two—three thousand pounds—any sum he chose to name, for the papers—documents.

This scene of alternate violence and cajolery lasted nearly an hour; and then Sowerby rushed from the house as if pursued by the furies, and leaving his auditor in a state of thorough bewilderment and dismay. It occurred to Caleb, as soon as his mind had settled into something like order, that there might be another secret drawer, and the recollection of Mr. Lisle's journey to London recurred suggestively to him. Another long and eager search, however, proved fruitless; and the suspicion was given up, or, more correctly, weakened.

As soon as it was light the next morning, Mr. Sowerby was again with him. He was more guarded now, and was at length convinced that Jennings had no paper or document to give up.

"It was only some important memoranda," observed the attorney carelessly, "that would give me a world of trouble in a lawsuit I shall have to bring against some heavy debtors to Mr. Lisle's estate; but I must do so as well as I can without them. Good morning."

Just as he reached the door a sudden thought appeared to strike him. He stopped and said:

"By the way, Jennings, in the hurry of business I forgot that Mr. Lisle had told me the chest of drawers you bought, and a few other articles, were family relics which he wished to be taken to certain parties he named. The other things I have got; and you, I suppose, will let me have the drawers for—say a pound profit on your bargain?"

Caleb was not the acutest man in the world; but this sudden proposition, carelessly as it was made, suggested curious thoughts. "No," he answered; "I shall not part with it. I shall keep it as a memorial of Mr. Lisle."

Sowerby's face assumed, as Caleb spoke, a ferocious expression. "Shall you?" said he. "Then be sure, my fine fellow, that you shall also have something to remember me by as long as you live."

He then went away, and a few days afterwards Caleb was served with a writ for the recovery of the two hundred pounds.

The affair made a great noise in the place; and Caleb's conduct being very generally approved, a subscription was set on foot to defray the cost of defending the action—one Hayling, a rival attorney to Sowerby, having asserted that the words used by the proprietor of the chest of drawers at the sale barred his claim to the money found in them. This wise gentleman was entrusted with the defence; and strange to say, the jury—a common one—spite of the directions of the judge, returned a verdict for the defendant, upon the ground that Sowerby's jocular or sneering remark amounted to a serious, valid leave and license to sell two hundred pounds for five pence ten shillings.

Sowerby obtained, as a matter of course, a rule for a new trial; and a fresh action was brought. All at once Hayling refused to go on, alleging deficiency of funds. He told Jennings that in his opinion it would be better that he should give in to Sowerby's whim, who only wanted the drawers in order to comply with the testator's wishes. "Besides," remarked Hayling in conclusion, "he is sure to get the article, you know, when it comes to be sold under a writ of f. fa."

A few days after this conversation it was ascertained that Hayling was to succeed to Sowerby's business; the latter gentleman being about to retire upon the fortune bequeathed him by Mr. Lisle.

At last Caleb, driven nearly out of his senses, though still doggedly obstinate, by the harassing perplexities in which he found himself, thought of applying to us.

"A very curious affair, upon my word," remarked Mr. Flint, as soon as Caleb had unfolded himself of the story of his find and carer; "and in my opinion he means explanation by Sowerby's anxiety to fulfil the testator's wishes. He cannot expect to get two hundred pounds out of you; and Mrs. Warner, you say, is equally unable to pay. Very odd indeed. Perhaps if we could get time, something might turn up."

With this view Flint looked over the papers Caleb had brought, and found the declaration was in favour of a manifest error—the notes never admittedly having been in Sowerby's actual possession. We accordingly demurred to the form of action, and the proceedings were set aside. This, however, proved of no ultimate benefit. Sowerby persevered and a fresh action was instituted against the unhappy shoemaker. So utterly overpowered and disconsolate was poor Caleb, that he determined to give up the drawers which was all Sowerby even now required, and so wash his hands of the unfortunate business. Previous, however, to this being done, it was determined that another thorough and scientific examination of the mysterious piece of furniture should be made; and for this purpose Mr. Flint obtained a workman skilled in the mysteries of secret contrivances, from the desk and dressing establishment in King Street, Holborn, and proceeded with him to Watley.

The man performed his task with great care and skill, every inch and width was gauged and measured, in order to ascertain if there were any false bottoms or backs; and the workman finally pronounced that there was no concealed receptacle in the article.

"I am sure there is," persisted Flint, whom disappointment as usual rendered but the more obstinate; "and so is Sowerby; and he knows too that it is so cunningly contrived as to be undiscoverable, except by a person in-the secret, which he no doubt at first imagined Caleb to be. I'll tell you what we'll do. You have the necessary tools with you. Split the confounded chest of drawers into shreds—I'll be answerable for the consequences."

"This was done carefully and methodically, but for some time without result. At length the large drawer once suspended and he was at next the floor had to be knocked to pieces; and as it fell apart, one section of the bottom, which, like all the others, was divided into two compartments, dropped asunder, and discovered a parchment laid flat upon the two leaves, which, when pressed together in the grooves of the drawer, presented precisely the same appearance as the rest. Flint snatched up the parchment, and his eager eye had scarcely rested an instant on the writing, when a shout of triumph burst from him. It was the last will and testament of Ambrose Lisle, dated August 21, 1828—the day of his last hurried visit to London. It revoked the former will, and bequeathed the whole of his property, in equal portions, to his cousins Lucy Warner and Emily Stevens, with succession to their children; but with reservation of one-half to his brother Robert or children, should he be alive, or have left offspring.

Great, it may be supposed, was the jubilation of Caleb Jennings at this discovery; and all Watley, by his agency, was in a marvelously short space of time in a very similar state of excitement. It was very late that night when he reached his bed; and how he got there at all, and what precisely had happened, except in deed, that he had somewhere picked up a splitting headache, was, for some time after he awoke the next morning, very confusedly remembered.

Mr. Flint, by reflection, was by no means so exultant as the worthy shoemaker. The odd mode of packing away a deed of such importance, with no assignable motive for doing so, except the needless awe with which Sowerby was said to have inspired his feeble-spirited client, together with what Caleb had said of the shattered state of the deceased's mind at the interview with Mrs. Warner's daughter, suggested fears that Sowerby might dispute, and perhaps necessarily, the validity of this last will. My excellent partner, however, determined, as was his wont, to put a bold face on the matter; and first clearly settling in his own mind what he should and what he should not say, waited upon Mr. Sowerby. The news had preceded him, and he was at once surprised and delighted to find that the nervous crest-fallen attorney was quite unaware of the advantages of his position. On condition of not being called to account for the moneys he had received and expended, about £1200, he destroyed the former will in Mr. Flint's presence, and gave up at once all the deceased's papers. From these we learned that Mr. Lisle had written a letter to Mrs. Warner stating what he had done, and where the will would be found, and that only herself and Jennings would know the secret. From infidelity of purpose, or from having subsequently determined on a personal

Had Eczema in Both Legs

Remarkable cure of Chronic Eczema by use of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

You could scarcely imagine a more severe test of this ointment than the cure of Mrs. Clark recorded here. For twenty years she suffered all the tortures of this terrible disease and tried in vain the prescriptions of doctors, and the cures commonly recommended.

Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Ontario, writes:—"My mother had Eczema in both legs for about 20 years and suffered from the dreadful itching, stinging sensations which can never be described. She doctored and tried everything for it but got no relief until she used Dr. Chase's Ointment which was recommended to her by a friend. She found that this brought relief and by continuing its use her legs were cured of Eczema. I do not think any one could have this horrible disease any worse than she did and can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as a thorough cure for Eczema."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co. Toronto. Dr. Chase's Ointment sent free.

Interview, the latter was not posted, and Sowerby subsequently discovered it, together with a memorandum of the numbers of the bank notes found by Caleb in the secret drawer—the eccentric gentleman appears to have had quite a mania for such hiding-places—of a writing desk.

The affair was happily terminated: Mrs. Warner, her children and sister, were enriched, and Caleb Jennings was set up in a good way of business in his native place, where he still flourishes. Over the centre of his shop there is a large nondescript sign, surmounted by a golden bowl, which upon a close inspection is found to bear a close resemblance to a huge bureau chest of drawers, all the circumstances connected with which may be heard, for the asking, and in much fuller details than I have given, from the lips of the owner or gentleman, by any lady or gentleman who will take the trouble of a journey to Watley for that purpose.

A War Correspondent Grateful to Zam-Buk

Tells how a Scratch led to Blood-Poisoning and what followed that!

WHEN our Canadian troops were fighting the Boers in South Africa, we read reports of their various engagements from the pen of the famous war correspondent, Mr. Frank Scudamore. Mr. Scudamore is well known for his exposures of the Armenian Atrocities, and his vivid word-pictures during the wars of Turkey and the Soudan Campaigns, prior to his writings during the Boer War. He has passed unscathed through twenty-nine battles, but came near meeting death at home through a mere scratch! Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, saved him; and in gratitude, and the hope that his experience may lead others to a means of relief in time of suffering, he tells how Zam-Buk released him from the terrible agonies of blood-poisoning.

Mr. Scudamore writes:—"I have experienced the extraordinary benefits which come from the use of Zam-Buk, and desire not to keep the knowledge thereof to myself, but to make it known to any others who may be suffering as I suffered."

"Some time ago, after escaping the dangers to which one is exposed in the hazardous trade of war, I fell a victim to an evil—the evil of blood-poisoning—just as deadly in peace at home. The blood-poisoning started owing to the poisonous dye in some underclothing penetrating a small scratch or sore. I was treated by doctors in the usual way, and told to hope for the best, but the inflammation, pain, and swelling did not appear to be relieved by their treatment. Ulcers broke out on my foot and limbs, and for some time it was quite impossible for me to put my foot to the ground, or get about."

"On my left leg, below the knee, I had seventeen deep holes, into any one of which I could have put my thumb, while I had no fewer than fourteen similar ulcers on the right leg."

"Worn out with pain and lack of sleep, I yielded in despair at last to the advice of a friend that I should try Zam-Buk, of which my friend gave the highest accounts. I applied this herbal balm to the sores and ulcers changing the dressings frequently. For a week I persevered with the Zam-Buk treatment, leaving off all else. At the end of that time the pain and inflammation had gone, and the skin, which had before so obstinately refused to heal, was now growing beautifully. I persevered with the treatment, and the benefit increased, until in the end the blood-poisoning was cured, the ulcers cleansed and healed, and new healthy skin covered the previously diseased places."

"What impressed me most about Zam-Buk was the immediate relief it gave from the burning pain. It seemed to bring ease immediately it was put on, and then the cleansing and healing process went on painlessly."

*Faithfully yours,
Frank Scudamore*

LESSONS FOR NEWFOUNDLAND HOMES ALL MOTHERS SHOULD REMEMBER

That every scratch, every cut, every sore, every open wound, every skin-disease is liable to turn to blood-poisoning. The air is full of poison germs, which falling on sores and wounds, may set up festering and blood-poisoning. How important, then, that Zam-Buk (which is science's latest and best protector against blood-poisoning, as well as the finest healer) should be kept handy in every home.

Zam-Buk operates in an absolutely unique manner. When first applied to a sore or wound its antiseptic power comes into operation. Painlessly, yet effectively, it attacks all disease germs and bacilli that are in the wound. Then its healing essence penetrates the injured cells and stimulates the living tissue to build up new cells. At the same moment, therefore, there is a defensive (against disease germs) and a constructive process going on all over the region to which Zam-Buk has been applied. This is the way Zam-Buk heals and cures all skin diseases and injuries.

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES.

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for piles, bad leg, ulcers, abscesses, cold sores, open wounds, sore hands, line chafes, inflamed patches, chaps, frost bite, blood-poisoning, scalp sores, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. Well rubbed in it also cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

suspect—about a certain cult to which one of her dearest friends was deeply devoted.

She had been impolite. She had been undignified. She had hurt her good friend deep, deep down where hurts are powerfully apt to fester instead of healing.

But she had had the exquisite pleasure of giving away a piece of her mind.

Wonder if it paid? Looks to me like a very big price to pay.

I should think you might call that being "generous to a fault"—that is, being willing to give away a piece of one's mind at such a cost.

And what a lot of people are generous that way.

I was talking just the other day to a clever girl who has somehow failed to receive the advancement in her business career that one would expect from her unusual brains and ability.

The talk turned on this delicate subject.

"I'll tell you just why I think it is,"

she said frankly. "You know I never could be smooth-tongued and hypocritical like some folks, and even when people were above me I never could keep from giving them a piece of my mind once in a while."

Lucky she was clever. If she hadn't been her propensity would doubtless have cost her her position as well as her advancement.

Of course there come to all of us once in a while these uncontrollable fits of generosity when we feel that we simply must give someone a piece of our minds.

To most generous impulses it is well to yield before a cold-blooded second thought has time to annihilate them.

But as to this kind of generosity—well it seems to me it is good to remember when one is attacked this way, that blessed as it is to give away things, most of us have need of all our brains for the business of living and can't afford to give away a piece of our minds, however small.

A NEW FASHION.

A pretty new fashion for the evening turban, made of a twisted lace scarf, a fashion, which, with its brooch and alligrette has been much worn, is to coil it about the head in artistically arranged, the braids then being carried up and twisted above the ears, outside of the lace, jewelled shell pins being used to pass through hair and lace.

Fads and Fashions.

Plain patent leather belts in narrow widths measuring one, two or three inches come in a number of colors, red, turquoise, green and dark blue. These have square gilt buckles the rims being of metal, the middle filled in with the patent leather.

Attractive bags for motoring are shown. They are larger than the ordinary handbag, but not so large as a travelling bag. One sees them in calf lined with crimson Russian leather, and containing everything necessary for the comfort and beauty of the feminine motorist.

One of the loveliest fabrics for dressy wear is the moure messaline, in quite new designs of waterings, shot in all kinds of chameleon colors, which used to be called pigeon's wing, blue and pink or mauve and another tone of blue, or green and violet. It is far removed from the old-fashioned silk.

Carriage or evening cloaks of velvet have wide collars and reverses of brocade—some bright color combined with gold, which is further enriched by a braiding of fine gold or silver cord closely sewn on in an intricate hit-and-miss zigzag pattern. Tailcoats or blouses of this gold or silver net are also braided in this way.

If you would know how good the best Brandy can be, buy HINE'S Three Star Brandy. Guaranteed Twenty Years Old. T. Hine & Co. are the holders of the oldest vintage brands in Cognac. D. O. ROBLIN, of Toronto, Sole Canadian Agent. JOHN JACKSON, RESIDENT AGENT.

The Great Appeal.

Yesterday we shook up from slumber the providers of our Government news cable despatch. The response has been immediate and we thank the authorities. To-day the message leads off with Home Politics, and its contents give point to our contention that the Referendum issue is the crux of the constitutional differences between Asquith and Balfour, and gives support to the view that this was the rock on which the Constitutional Conference split. It will be observed that Balfour supports and Asquith denounces this method of arranging the Veto question. Behind Asquith's denunciation is Redmond's and Kier Huddlestone's opposition to it. The dominating factor of the situation, however, is the former.

To appreciate the attitude of the Irish Home Rulers, let us imagine that the Veto Question had been settled by the Constitutional Conference on the lines of Lansdowne's and Rosebery's propositions. Under the scheme, the Upper Chamber would have a statutory number of members, which the Crown could not increase on the advice of the Ministry. In other words, the Crown would have given up its prerogative of bringing the Upper Chamber into line with the House of Commons by creating Senators. On a question in which the Ministry had no mandate from the electors, the Senate could continue to refuse its assent until the Ministry put that issue direct to the electors for their assent or dissent, without necessarily making it a question on which the life of the Ministry would depend.

VETO IN THE PEOPLE.

In imagination then, the scheme in outline is agreed upon by the Liberal and Tory leaders. It is embodied in a bill. The party followings of Asquith and Balfour put it through the House of Commons and the House of Lords, with a suspensive clause, that it is to become law after a vote of the electors has been taken on it by referendum. We do not propose to discuss the merits or demerits of such a change. The limits of this article do not permit. We are setting forth these matters to apply them to the policy of the smaller groups in the House of Commons chiefly the Laborites, and the Home Rulers, and for this purpose we are ignoring the differences between the Redmondites and the O'Brienites. As to the Labor Party, such a change would have severely handicapped them in their efforts. They had some 40 members and 40 votes. Alone they were powerless, as a make-weight they were valuable. In return for the 40 votes they were in a position to make a deal for socialistic legislation, on which they set their heart. Under the proposed changes the bargain could be made, but the Government could not "deliver the goods." If the House of Lords rejected it, all the Government could do would be to hold a referendum on it. What fate would meet such a measure, fathered by the Socialists and adopted for expediency sake by the Government? It is ten to one the referendum would prove unfavorable. Such a system does away with the effective power of bargaining. Such a deal as Asquith made or tried to make with the O'Brienites would be impracticable.

HOME RULE ISSUE.

These remarks apply with more than double force to the Home Rule group. In the Parliament which has just been dissolved the Liberal Government was at the mercy of the votes of the Home Rule group. The Irishmen have declared again and again that the present power of the House of Lords was the only real obstacle to Home Rule. They were, in a position to bargain with the Ministry for Home Rule. The House of Lords could throw it out. Under the Veto Bill of Premier Asquith this could happen only twice in one Parliament and Home Rule be carried without the risk of an adverse verdict by an appeal to the country on the Home Rule question. Therefore it is good tactics on Redmond's part to support Asquith's appeal on the Veto Bill. That is why Irishmen called on their sympathisers to make a special effort to support their election funds liberally. That is why Dillon declares that Liberals must rise or fall with them. That is the reason why Redmond feels that he can force Asquith to carry out Home Rule. That is why T. P. O'Connor has declared frequently that the outlook for Home Rule was never so favourable.

Now look on the other picture. Suppose Lansdowne's scheme had been adopted. Much time would have been eaten up in agreeing to it. Much time would have been consumed in putting it through the Legislature and in appealing to the country, and no advance whatever would have been made in the Home Rule policy. Indeed, whenever in the future it was taken up, the Lords could have rejected it until a Referendum or a mandate had shown the electorate had pronounced in favour of it. That is a risk Redmond and his colleagues do not have to face under the Asquith Veto Bill, but they have to face it under Lansdowne's scheme. It is not surprising then that Redmond denounces Lansdowne and his doings, and looks upon him as the chief rock of offence.

It is not surprising that the Liberal leaders could not support Lansdowne's scheme and still denounce it, as it would have cost them Irish support and therefore the life of their Ministry.

Supreme Court.

In Chambers before Judge Johnson. In the case of George Morris vs. Wm. Parrell, Mr. Kent, K.C., moved for summons to set aside judgment by default. Mr. Squires for plaintiff was heard. The court took time.

The further hearing of the petition of Thomas Clarke of Carbonara alleging that Giles Smith is insolvent and praying for such a declaration was postponed.

In chambers before Mr. Justice Emerson there was a garnishee proceeding in the case of The Berlin Gramophone Co. of Canada Ltd., and James R. Hearst defendant and Joseph F. Cantwell, garnishee. Mr. Howley for plaintiff, examined Joseph F. Cantwell.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

Blood poison set in—Great suffering—Cure effected by Dr. A. W. CHASSE'S OINTMENT.

Mr. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., writes:—"I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chasse's Ointment. While threshing grain, my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the eye of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal no place and break out at another place on this way for three months. Finally I thought of Dr. Chasse's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wound healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since."

Whenever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chasse's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Dr. Chasse, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy Dr. Chasse's Recipes.

Judgment for the Defendant.

In the matter of W. K. Morrisey, H.M.C., vs. Capt. Geo. Winsor, for having in his possession a number of beaver skins, judgment was rendered in favour of deft. to-day. His Honor Judge Conroy decided that it was no offence under the present Act to purchase or sell beaver or beaver skins. Section 1 of the Act punished most emphatically a man for hunting, murdering or killing beaver. Section 2 was intended to punish the accessory before the fact, that is, the man who supplied advanced goods, or offered a reward for the killing of beaver; but deft. in this case had not been guilty of any such conduct. Section 4 was intended to punish the man who aided and abetted the man who had killed, by permitting him to keep his skins on his premises; but deft. in this case had not been guilty of any such conduct. The Game Law as laid down in the Consolidated Statutes dealt fully with hunting, killing, selling, bartering and hunting the various animals, to which the Beaver Act was in addition for the preservation of beaver, from the Consolidation of the Statutes to this date there has been any such words as purchasing, selling or bartering beaver, in any of the Beaver Acts. The intention of the Beaver Act was undoubtedly to preserve beaver, but unless the Legislature would legislate more intelligently, they would certainly never have that effect. The object of the elaborate prosecution and argument in this matter was for the purpose of getting a judicial decision on all important sections of the Beaver Act. Mr. Squires acted on behalf of the Department of Justice and Mr. Blackwood for the defendant Capt. Winsor.

Here and There.

The s.s. Shenandoah sails for Halifax this afternoon, taking one passenger, Peter Muggins, and a few packages of freight.

The Schr. Rescue, Capt. Pat Keough, from Paradise, P.B., fish laden which for a while was reported missing and is consigned to Jas. Baird Ltd., is reported by the Mary Joseph, which left St. Mary's a few days ago. The Rescue is now out from Paradise nearly six weeks and harboured on the Southern Shore.

*We understand that the police have now in their possession important facts relative to the safe robbery at Grand Falls, affording new evidence in the matter. Inspector General Sullivan, who is now there, is making full inquiries into the matter. Suspicion strongly points to a certain individual, and it would be not at all surprising to see Mr. Sullivan return here to-morrow with a prisoner.

HERRING IN STRAITS.—Not for years have herring been seen in such large numbers in the Straits of Belle Isle as during the present fall and the waters around Port Saunders, Bonne Bay and Cow Head teem with the fish, which are coming up through the Gulf. They are of very large size and splendid quality and very large hauls are being made. A couple of days ago there were 25 American vessels there loading, and the people about Bonne Bay and Bay of Islands, believe this will be a record fishery.

Marine Notes.

The Almeriana left Halifax yesterday at 2 p.m. for this port.

The Florizel leaves New York for Halifax and this port to-day.

All the water in the B. N. Co. dock having been pumped out yesterday afternoon, the damages in the bottom of the s.s. Phoenix were examined. Only one hole about an inch and a half in diameter was found, said to have been worn through from the inside by continual use of the sounding rod. Besides this, the rivets are loose in several places, which will mean two or three days work. The hole is right down in the bottom fore-head.

The whaler Hawk, Capt. Hanson, arrived here to Messrs. Bowring Bros. at 5 a.m. to-day from Cape Charles via Seldom, where she put in out of the stormy and foggy weather. For weeks past, owing to the fog and rough sea, the ship could not do any work, and this year secured only 20 fish, one of which she took at Cape Broyle early in the season, as against 25 last year. The last whale captured was a small one and the vessel was in Hawk's Harbor with it for 10 days. The captain and crew go to Norway by the Mongolian.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.—Mrs. Graham, wife of Thomas Graham of the Post Office was taken to the Hospital this morning in the ambulance from George Street with a serious disease.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland, who was here attending the thankoffering service at St. Andrew's, returned to St. John's to-day.

A young man was before court yesterday charged with insulting a young lady on the street Monday night. His Honor Judge Oke after hearing the case gave the prisoner the option of paying $30 or "go down" for two months.

A very instructive missionary meeting was held in St. Paul's Hall last night, and considering the disagreeable weather was well attended. Those who failed to be present missed a treat, as the speakers were Rev. Mr. Field of Brigus, Rev. F. W. Colley of Carbonear, Mr. L. Colley, teacher, Carbonear, and the Chairman, Rev. Canon Noel. Very able addresses were given and a fair collection taken up.

The thankoffering service of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church took place in the Kirk last night. Although the weather was most unfavorable for such a gathering, together with the fact that another missionary meeting was being held the same time at St. Paul's Hall, a goodly number of people assembled to take in the service. The proceedings opened with a beautiful march played in masterly style by Mrs. W. H. Thompson, and which seemed to have that enthusiasm about it that no doubt prepared the congregation for the good things that were to follow. The speakers were Rev. J. S. Sutherland, Rev. T. H. Darby, and the pastor of St. Andrew's, Rev. F. S. Coffin. The choir, although mostly young girls, did remarkably well, particularly in that beautiful piece "Rock of Ages." Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. W. H. Thompson for her untiring devotion to the work she has assigned herself to, of training the young girls so well in such a short time. It was truly a missionary meeting, and the interesting topic was made more so by the clear whole-souled way in which the speakers above mentioned took their parts. Seldom have we heard such interesting addresses on the mission cause, and we have every reason to think that the collection was a substantial one. The duet by Mrs. E. S. Munn and Miss Wallace—"Hark! Hark! my soul"—was admirably rendered and received the highest praise from the audience. Mrs. Thompson's accompaniment was perfect, and while singing the words "Like bells at eventide," the old organ was made to imitate the bells to perfection. The meeting on the whole was one of the best the W. F. M. S. has ever held here.

Cullen's Exhibits.

The thirty-second annual exhibition by Canadian artists was opened by Earl Grey in Montreal last week. We notice in the papers the following reference to Mr. Maurice Cullen: "Mr. Maurice Cullen for the nonce as deserted the wintry side of his art and is represented by scenes on Newfoundland coast. A large canvas of his, entitled 'Misty Afternoon, St. John's, Nfld.' occupied the place of honor on the main wall of the new gallery. With its massive rocky foreground, and the sun setting in splendor over the city on the distant hill, the composition forms a majestic gallery picture. His other pictures include 'St. John's Harbor' and 'Newfoundland Coast'."

The Shenandoah Here.

The s.s. Shenandoah arrived here at 1.30 p.m. yesterday after a run of 4 days from London. The ship had air weather on the voyage but dense fog nearly all the way. She was off her port at midnight Wednesday but he fog was so dense that she could not make port. The ship has 800 tons weight and brought 9 bags of mail. She has no passengers and sails late on-night for Halifax.

RELEASED ON BONDS.—Bernard Jobey, who was arrested on the charge of stealing fish, will be tried at Placentia. Mr. W. R. Howley appears for him and he was released yesterday on bonds.

REGULUS-GOLDEN ARROW FUND. The Avalon Club's Athletic and Wrestling Exhibition, in the British Hall to-night at 9.15, in aid of the Regulus-Golden Arrow Fund, promises to be the best of its kind ever held in the city. The object to which the proceeds are to be devoted, should be sufficient to fill the hall. The exhibitor will be an eye-opener to a good many of our people demonstrating, as it will, the great strides that have taken place, during the last few years in athletics amongst our young men. Give them encouragement by your attendance to-night.

Young Vandals, These.

Within the past couple of days a crowd of boys who frequent Coronation Avenue, deliberately broke all the glass in the hotbeds on Mr. F. Smallwood's land there. The boys formerly used the place as a play ground and are incensed against Mr. Smallwood for taking it over and devoting it to agricultural purposes. Mr. Smallwood made and glazed the beds himself and to-day handed in the names of the boys to the police and they will be prosecuted.

LONDON, Dec. 1.
There is a possibility of an unlooked-for result in the attempt of A. J. Balfour, the Opposition leader, to remove Tariff Reform from the immediate field of politics. The question is a large one, and ever in the campaign to-night, inasmuch as that Mr. Balfour himself in a speech at Reading was faint to explain that his party had not altered its views on this subject and that Tariff Reform was still a chief plank in the party's constructive policy; but he explained that the Unionists needed to obtain the formal and explicit consent of the people thereto. The policy of Referendum, he said, was consistent with the true idea of popular Government. The fact is that Mr. Balfour's pronouncement on Nov. 29th, that he was willing to submit Tariff Reform to a Referendum, has rather sundered than knit his party, and supplied the Liberals with another effective argument against Tariff Reform, namely, that Mr. Balfour has been compelled to side-track it. The interest in speeches to-night centered in Premier Asquith's reply to the Opposition leader. This was delivered at a great meeting at Wolverhampton. The Premier said: "We are living in times of rapid movement, when it is a relief to wake up one morning and not find some fresh part of the constitution reconstructed. As described Mr. Balfour's 'turn about face' on the question of the Reform of the House of Lords and Tariff Reform as unique and almost unique. He said that he could not imagine a greater caricature of the Referendum than putting a few abstract questions to the people without concrete embodiment in their proposals. If any one but a sane and responsible statesman had contemplated such a scheme he would have called a madman. After a study of the working of the Referendum in foreign countries, the Premier continued, he has arrived at the conclusion that it proved a most unsatisfactory and disappointing method of obtaining public opinion. Winston Churchill, the Home Secretary, displays untiring energy. He addressed several meetings at Dundee to-night and will deliver two speeches in Aberdeen on the 24th. From there he will go by special train to Grimsby, where he will speak on Saturday night, replying to a speech which Mr. Balfour will deliver there on the evening, and in order to ascertain the nature of Mr. Balfour's address special relays of motor cars will convey the Premier to the station. The Home Secretary at Sheffield, enabling him to study the address on the train. After his speech at Grimsby Mr. Churchill will return to London, where he will speak on Saturday afternoon. He will go from there to Chester for another Liberal demonstration on Sunday afternoon. His 24 hours' programme. The Home Secretary will have a special guard of detectives against suffragettes' attentions.

Sensational Struggle.

LONDON, Dec. 1.
As Gino Brunello hurled himself through the fourth story window, smashing the glass and sash, a crowd of men who had gone to his room to arrest him to-night, caught his disheveled form as he fell. In a few minutes they pulled and panted, while Brunello, hanging head downwards outside the window, struggled and screamed to himself. A crowd which blocked the street below and looked on, expected to see him fall and be dashed to death. With the help of policemen the detectives were able to pull Brunello into the room. They took the man to the police station to answer to a charge of threatening a fellow Italian with a revolver.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.
The notorious Lupu gang of counterfeiters, whose members were implicated in at least one murder and a number of other crimes, were put out of existence, the police believe, by the arrest here to-day of 13 Italians and the seizure of a large amount of counterfeit bills. Some of the prisoners are believed to be the remaining members of the gang, the leaders of which were arrested last winter and are serving terms aggregating 15 years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta for counterfeiting. Today's arrests were made by Richard H. Taylor, head of the Secret Service in this city, his agents and members of the Italian Bureau of Metropolitan Police. Nine men were held to be turned over to the Federal authorities to-morrow. The other four men were paroled as witnesses. The Lupu gang were headed by "Lupo the Wolf," who received a sentence of 33 years, and Giuseppe Morillo, sentenced to 25 years. The Farrell murder was laid to members of the band, which manufactured counterfeit bills on a farm near Highland, N.Y. Notwithstanding the fact that the men arrested last winter, the circulation of counterfeit bills continued, and Secret Service men believed that members of the band were passing out the bogus money which had been saved from the former raid. As a result of several weeks of investigation, the houses in which the counterfeit bills were stored were found, and the men suspected were rounded up. The counterfeit money, consisting of both two and five dollar bills, Taylor says, was found in a fire place in the rear of a cellar of a wine merchant—one of the men under arrest.

Curliana.

A meeting of the Newfoundland Curling Association was held last night in the rooms at the Curling Rink. A very large number of members were present. Mr. Chas. R. Duder, President of the Association, occupied the chair.

The special business of the meeting was to consider an offer from the Directors of the Rink for the renting of the Rink for the coming season. After some little discussion it was decided to accept the offer of the Directors. It is therefore assured that the Curling Association will, with its occupancy of the rink of the magnificent Rink and its beautiful suite of rooms, have one of the most enjoyable seasons that curling has had in St. John's since the inception of this winter rally and enjoyable of all winter sports.

The meeting was also taken advantage of as a fitting opportunity for the presentation of a very handsome set of engravings, from H. Carter, Esq., of our present King and Queen. The pair of very fine card tables, given by Messrs. T. W. Gale and F. J. Morris, for the use of its members during the winter season. The Association is making every endeavour to make the time of its waiting members as pleasant as possible.

The President informed the members that a very handsome trophy, in the shape of a writing and time call table, had been sent him by P. C. Mars, Esq., for competition amongst the members, and he hinted that an exciting and most enjoyable game would result from it. John Jackson, Esq., the recognized champion curler of Newfoundland, then took occasion to present to the Curling Association two of the most valuable and handsome cups that have ever been given for sporting competition in Newfoundland. One was from our well known and esteemed personal friend, Gottlieb Greiner, Esq., London, and the other from James Buchanan, Esq., also of London. Mr. Jackson, in presenting, and the President in receiving, were most happy in their remarks; and the appreciation of the curlers was more than enthusiastic.

From all sides the belief is expressed that the coming curling season will be the best that Newfoundland has ever known, and the enthusiasm of last night's meeting goes far to show that this will be true. Come on "Jack Frost."

Much Fish in Harbor.

There is now a fleet of craft in the harbor with thousands of quintals of fish on board, and for quite a while past the owners have been impatient to get it discharged, as the season is becoming late. With the advent of the ice weather there will be a rush of business along the water front, and much badly needed labor will be afforded and money put in circulation. The month of December promises to be a very busy one.

Bellevalenture Sails.

Yesterday afternoon Messrs. A. J. Harvey & Co. received a wire from the Bellevalenture notifying them of her arrival at York Harbor from Sydney with coal. She leaves to-night for Charleston, S.C., to discharge her cargo of fertilizer. She returns via Philadelphia.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to delicate questions and offensive repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as strictly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. TRINITY SPUR LINE.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—I notice a communication in your issue of the 22nd, signed "Elector," anent the much talked of Spur Line to Trinity.
"Elector" is evidently a resident of Trinity East, and takes exception to my expression "centre of population" referring to Trinity, and endeavors to show up the littleness of the latter place and the greatness of the former, and for that purpose he quotes the population of Trinity and forgets to add the population of the settlements to the west of us, such as the South-side, Cuckhold's Cove, Trouty, Spaniard's Cove and the Bonaventures; while at the same time he claims the population of Port Rexton, Salmon Cove and English Harbor, thereby misrepresenting the facts which he says "needs ventilation" and "ventilates" them "on the bias."

I have not the figures of the last census at hand, but the last list of voters gives Trinity and the South-side 46 more voters than Trinity East and Freshwater, while Cuckhold's Cove to Spaniard's Cove is credited with about 70 less than Ship Cove and Robin Hood (now Port Rexton), while the voters for the Bonaventures almost equal those of Salmon Cove and English Harbor. Assuming then that the population is in proportion to the list of voters in both sections it can be seen that there is not so much difference in population as "Elector" tries to make out in his "ventilation" of this matter, and he proves himself to have lived in too small a world, and Trinity can still claim to be the "centre of population," and also what has been for 300 years the "centre of trade" for the North Side of the Bay, and trade is what makes railways, and Trinity's trade is one of the "whys and wherefores" for the extension of the Spur Line. And when it comes to claiming population as regards trade, Trinity is able to claim a goodly portion of population from Ireland's Cove and British Harbour down, even including Trinity East, Port Rexton, Salmon Cove and English Harbor.

The business houses of Trinity number 8 or 9 and four of these handle the products of the fishery, and it is estimated that the trade of the business people of Trinity amount to a turn over of between $200,000 to $200,000, and thus trade comes from settlements to the East as well as to the West of Trinity.

These are facts, Mr. Editor, that "Elector" cannot claim for Trinity East, as until the past Spring it could not boast of a single business place, and Port Rexton did not fare much better, and now if a fisherman wants supplies for the fishery or wants to dispose of his catch after it is procured, it is to Trinity that he must come, and it is to Trinity that he will continue to come, for is it not the seat of business, and is it not near (by water) to Salmon Cove and English Harbor (the places from which "Elector" gets his extra 11,000 population) than Port Rexton and just as near as Trinity East.

"Elector" couples Trinity East and Port Rexton together and compares them with the population of Trinity, but he overlooks the fact that each of those places is to have a railway station, and his argument of delay in stopping at Trinity could be used just as forcibly by Bonavista people against delay at both Trinity East and Port Rexton.

If the station is to be built at Gott's Cove, Trinity with its population equal to Trinity East or Port Rexton, equally, and with its greater importance as regards the amount of freight to be handled will be worse off than either of the latter settlements, and the business people will have to warn all shippers don't ship by rail.

As the Premier and Colonial Secretary have both seen the justice of our demands and have promised us that the original intention of the Government will be carried out it is not necessary at present to produce more "reasonable evidence" for the extension of the line unless the Government further forgets its promises and fails to commence the extension when the Spring opens.

Nimrod Offered for Sale

London, November 26.—The Nimrod, the barquentine in which Sir Ernest Shackleton made his famous "furthest South" journey, will be offered for sale by auction at the Baltic Exchange sale room on December 2.

The auctioneers state that the vessel has been specifically strengthened for and employed in Polar exploration, whaling and sealing, and has earned the reputation of being a lucky ship in all these occupations.

The Nimrod is 136 feet long, of 324 tons gross, and is fitted with the most modern equipment. She will be sold as she lies afloat at Birkenhead.

Here and There.

The Danish schooner Hamlet referred to in yesterday's Telegram, is still missing and is certainly not yet arrived at Lamaline. It will be remembered that about 10 days ago parts of white painted boats were picked up off Colinet Island. The boats of the Hamlet were thus painted and many fear that the vessel has come to grief. The captain of the schooner, Aegir, now at Bowring's wharf, is a cousin of the captain of the Hamlet and he believes the ship is O. K. He says that Capt. Rasmussen is a careful man and would not run his vessel near the land. He believes that the vessel is well off to sea and will turn up in time.

Last night a man named Dwyer, of Scott Street, came home to his house under the influence of liquor and attacked and beat his wife unmercifully. Not content with striking the woman on the head, he knocked her down, kicked and otherwise maltreated her, and the police say broke three of her ribs. Neighbors attended the woman in a very bad way for some time, and Dr. Stafford was called and gave her his best care. Her husband was arrested and remanded in court to-day, the woman being too ill to appear against him.

Hon. R. Watson, Colonial Secretary, informed us this morning that he had effected arrangements for the improvement of the Government cable news service, and that he had been at work on the scheme for a month or so. The readers of the Evening Telegram will be pleased to hear this. For a considerable time we have been urging that greater attention be paid to the compilation, particularly in the direction of sending news in which Newfoundland is interested. We thank Mr. Watson for his attention to this matter.

Beware of it! There is every evidence that a low grade flimsy class of silverware is being marketed in this country. Stuff that looks nice, and sell cheap? It is not cheap at any price. It won't stand, and not worth repairing when broken. If you want a good piece of English goods at a reasonable price go to TRAPNELL'S—adv. tt.

A few nights ago the doors of at least two residences on Golf Avenue were quietly opened by some prowler and some articles taken from the halls in each house. A few evenings ago also a man walked into the residence of Mrs. J. Cleary, on Rennie's Road, unbidden, and ran away quickly when he heard the child, who had seen him latter screamed. The police intend dealing with some of these gents who, if caught, will be severely punished.

Messrs. W. Monroe, P. J. Shea and Hon. J. C. Croftie have all visited Duder's wharf the past few days with a view to hiring the premises. The rent is $4,000 of which the tenants of the Osborne Building, Garland's, the Telegraph Office and Murphy the barber pay $2,200, leaving $1,800 which Mr. Duder used to pay for the wharf and stores.

INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA In all its forms can be cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, Theaters Hill. Small size, 25 cents; postage 5c. extra; large size, 50 cents; postage 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—oct 29, 1m.

PRICES GOING DOWN.—The price of beef and pork are going down.

ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS TOWARD CHRISTIAN BROS. COLLECTION.—Rev. J. Coady, $5.00; E. Fitzgerald, Placentia, $3.00.

CATCHING OF QUILS.—One Portugal Cove crew who kept up fishing at Bell Island constantly since the trap season have caught 100 quilts of fish to date.

A STOLEN PURSE.—Detective Byrne is now looking for the woman who took the purse of another lady at a West End dry goods store yesterday.

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months, and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail, and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken would in a year."

If they don't make you a strong, healthy person in two weeks, your money will be refunded. 25c. a box, at all leading drug stores.

No Bodies Recovered.

The Government yesterday had word from Mr. Stamp, of Salmonier hat up to date no more bodies had been recovered from the wreck of the Golden Arrow. The diver who was here could not go down to search for the bodies owing to the high sea running, and it is now feared that they have been swept off into deep water, so that hope of getting any others is almost abandoned.

Wrestling Notes.

Young Olson is training hard these days getting down to the required weight (147 lbs.) for his match on Monday night.

Martin Rock, who is training at the Terra Nova Club rooms, is in great shape. Those who have seen him say he is both clever and strong and will give a good account of himself.

The tickets for this match, on sale at the Atlantic Bookstore, are selling rapidly.

Olson telegraphed last night, accepting Sam Anderson's challenge. He is willing to meet Otto on the same terms, namely, 158 lbs. ring-side.

At the College Hall.

Mr. Snazelle held his second entertainment at the College Hall last night and reproduced the former program. The attendance was not large. The voltage was not sufficient to bring the pictures out to advantage. The recitations including "Excepting Ike" and a new song "To Anthea." Mr. Cunningham sang a popular song, "Join Bull's Budget." The spectators were disappointed that the pictures thrown on the screen were not fully explained.

BRUCE PASSENGERS.—The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 7.46 a.m. to-day bringing Rev. Dr. A. Thompson, W. W. Flatley, L. D. McKenzie, C. Poole, J. H. and Mrs. Gerson, D. H. McDougall, G. S. McSweeney, Mrs. Poole, H. S. Matter, O. L. Russin, J. P. Plowman, Geo. Hudson and G. Hicks.

CAPLIN AT HARBOR MAIN.—Caplin struck in quite plentiful on the beach at Harbor Main this morning. W. Brick took four barrels with a cast net.

WASHED OVERBOARD.—While a bride and groom were coming from St. John, N.B., to Port Hawkesbury on a steamer last week, the groom was washed overboard by a sea. They were on their honeymoon trip.
