"The Man Who Disappeared."

CHAPTER XVII.
Bagley Shines Out.

The criminologist evinced a polite but not enthusiastic willingness to hear, and at once took an attitude of grave attention, which he kept during the entire recital, his face never changing; his gaze sometimes turned penetratingly on Bagley, sometimes dropping idly to the table.

"There's a young fellow in this town, a friend of mine," Bagley went on, "of a literary turn of mind, and together what you'd call a queer Dick. He'd got down on his luck, for one reason and another, and was dead sore on himself. Now being the sort of man he was, understanding, he took the most remarkable notice you ever heard of. And Bagley gave what Larcher had inwardly to admit was a very clear and plausible account of the whole transaction. As the tale advanced, the medicolegal expert's eyes affected the tale and Bagley's countenance more. By and by they occasionally sought Larcher's with something of some inquiry that those of Barry Tompkins had shown. But the courteous attention, the careful heading of every word, was maintained to the end of the story.

"And now, sir," said Bagley, triumphantly, "I'd like to ask what you think of that?"

The criminologist gave a final look at Bagley, questioning for the last time his seriousness, and then answered, with cold decisiveness:

"It's impossible."

"But I know it to be true!" blurted Bagley.

"Some little transformation might be accomplished in the way you describe," said the medico-legal man. "But not such as would insure against recognition by an observant acquaintance for any appreciable length of time."

"But surely you know what criminals have done to avoid identification?"

"Better than any other man in New York," said the other, simply, without any boastfulness.

"And you know what these facial surgeons do?"

"Certainly. A friend of mine has written the only really scientific monograph yet published on the art they profess."

"And yet you say that what my friend has done is impossible?"

"What you say he has done is quite impossible. Mr. Tompkins, for example, whom you cite as having once met your friend and then failed to recognize him in ten seconds after any transformation within possibility. If he failed to recognize the man you take to be your friend transformed, make up your mind the man is somebody else."

Bagley drew a deep sigh, curiously thanked the criminologist, and rose, saying to Larcher: "Well, you better turn over the stakes to your friend, I guess."

"Chafed and Aching Feet"

Make walking a misery to many who do not know of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

How far can you walk without suffering in one way or another from discomfort to your feet?

Modern footwear is a prison house and the result is chafed, scalded, inflamed feet.

You can get a world of comfort by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment when your feet give you trouble. This treatment is so delightfully soothing and healing that helps you at once.

Unlike unsanitary powders which clog the pores, Dr. Chase's Ointment makes the skin soft and smooth and prevents corns and bunions.

When the feet are chafed, scalded, itching and tired, it takes out the stinging and burning and its benefits are both quick and lasting.

This ointment also affords relief and cure for chilblains and frost bites. Whenever there is itching of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with most satisfactory results. It is a box at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"You're not going yet, are you?" said Larcher.

"Yes, sir. I lose this bet; but I'll try my story on the police just the same. Truth is mighty and will prevail."

Before Bagley could make his way out, however, Turl, who had been watching him, managed to get to his side. Larcher, waving a good night to Barry Tompkins, followed the two from the room. In the hall he turned the stakes to Turl.

"Oh, yes, you win all right enough," admitted Bagley. "My fun will come later."

"I trust you'll see the funny side of it," replied Turl, accompanying him forth to the snowy street. "You haven't laughed much at the little foretaste of the incredulity that awaits you."

"Never mind. I'll make them believe me, before I'm through." He had turned toward Sixth Avenue. Turl and Larcher stuck close to him.

"You'll have them suggesting rest-cures for the mind, and that sort of thing," said Turl, pleasantly.

"And the newspapers will be calling you the Great American Identifier, put in Larcher."

"There'll be somebody else as the chief identifier," said Bagley, glancing at Turl. "Somebody that knows it's you. I heard her say that much."

"Stop a moment, Mr. Bagley." Turl enforced obedience by stepping in front of the man and facing him. The three stood still, at the corner, while an elevated train rumbled along overhead. "I don't think you really mean that. I don't think that, as an American, you would really subject a woman—such a woman—to such an ordeal, to gain so little. Would you now?"

"Why shouldn't I? Despite his default look, Bagley had weakened a bit.

"I can't imagine your doing it. But if you did, my lawyer would have to make you tell how you had heard this wonderful tale."

"Through the door that's easy enough."

"We could show that the talk couldn't possibly be heard through so thick a door, except by the most careful attention—at the keyhole. You would have to tell my lawyer why you were listening at the keyhole—at that keyhole of that lady's parlor. I can see you now, in my mind's eye attempting to answer that question—with the reporters eagerly awaiting your reply to publish it to the town."

Bagley still glaring hard, did some silent imagining on his own part. At last he growled:

"If I do agree to settle this matter on the quiet, how much of that money have you got left?"

"If you mean the money you placed in Murray Davenport's hands before he disappeared, I've never heard that any of it has been spent. But isn't it the case that Davenport considered himself morally entitled to that amount from you?"

Bagley gave a contemptuous grunt; then, suddenly brightening up, he said: "Suppose Davenport was entitled to it. As you ain't Davenport, why, of course, you ain't entitled to it. Now what have you got to say?"

"Merely, that, as you're not Davenport, neither are you entitled to it."

"But I was only supposin'. I don't admit that Davenport was entitled to it. Ordinary law's good enough for me. I just wanted to show you where you stand, you not bein' Davenport, even if he had a right to the money."

"Suppose Davenport had given me the money?"

"Then you'd have to restore it, as it wasn't lawfully his."

"But you can't prove that I have it, to restore."

"If I can establish any sort of connection between you and Davenport, I can cause your affairs to be thoroughly looked into," retorted Bagley.

"But you can't establish that connection, any more than you can convince anybody that I'm Murray Davenport."

Bagley was fiercely silent, taking in a deep breath for the cooling of his rage. He was a man who saw vistas of probability in a moment, and who was correspondingly quick in making decisions.

"You're at a deadlock," said he. "You're a clever boy. Dav. —or Turl. I might as well call you. I know the game's against me, and Turl you shall be from now on for all I've ever got to say. I did swear this evening to make it hot for you, but I'm not as hot myself now as I was at that moment. I'll give up the idea of causing trouble for you over that money; but the money itself I must have."

"Do you need it badly?" asked Turl. "Need it?" cried Bagley, scorning the imputation. "Not me! The loss of it would never touch me. But no man can ever say he's done one out of that money, no matter how smart he is. So I'll have that back. If I've got to spend all the rest of my life to get it. One way or another, I'll manage to produce evidence connect-ing you with Murray Davenport at the time he disappeared with my cash."

Turl pondered. Presently he said: "If I were returned to you, Davenport's moral right to it would still be insisted on. The starvation would be merely on grounds of expediency."

"All right," said Bagley. "Of course," Turl went on, "Davenport no longer needs it; and certainly I don't need it."

"Oh, don't you on the level?" inquired Bagley, surprised.

"Certainly not. I can earn a very good income. Fortune smiles on me. I shouldn't mind your holding out to a thousand or two of that money when you pay it over—say two thousand, as a sort of testimonial of your regard," said Bagley, good naturedly.

"Thank you very much. You mean to be generous; but I couldn't accept a dollar as a gift, from the man who wouldn't pay Murray Davenport as a right."

"Would you accept the two thousand, then, as Murray Davenport's right?"

"I would accept the whole amount in dispute; but under that not a cent."

Bagley looked at Turl long and hard; then said, quietly: "I tell you what I'll do with you. I'll toss up for that money—the whole amount. If you win, keep it, and I'll shut up. But if I win, you turn it over and never let me hear another word about Davenport's right."

"As I told you before, I'm not a gambling man. And I can't admit that Davenport's right is open to settlement."

"Well, at least you'll admit that you and I don't agree about it. You can't deny there's a difference of opinion between us. If you want to settle that difference once and for ever, inside of a minute, here's your chance. It's just cases like this that the dice are good for. There's a sa-loon over on that corner. Will you come?"

"All right," said Turl. And the three strode diagonally across Sixth Avenue.

"Glime a box of dice," said Bagley to the man behind the bar, when they had entered the brightly lighted place.

"They're usin' it in the back room," was the reply.

"Got a pack o' cards?" then asked Bagley.

The bartender handed over a pack which had been reposing in a cigar-box.

"I'll make it as sudden as you like," said Bagley to Turl. "One cut apiece, and highest wins. Or would you like something not so quick?"

"One cut, and the higher wins," said Turl.

"Shuffle the cards," said Bagley to Larcher, who obeyed. "Help yourself," said Bagley to Turl. The latter cut, and turned up a ten-spot. Bagley cut, and showed a six.

"The money's yours," said Bagley. "And you gentlemen, what'll you have to drink?"

The drinks were ordered, and taken in silence.

"There's only one thing I'd like to ask," said Bagley thereupon. "That boy's business—it needn't go any further. I s'pose?"

"I give you my word," said Turl. Larcher added his, whereupon Bagley bade the bartender telephone for a four-wheeler, and would have taken them to their homes in it. But they preferred a walk, and left him waiting for his cab.

"Well!" exclaimed Larcher, as soon as he was out of the saloon. "I congratulate you! I heard Bagley would give trouble. But how easily he came around!"

"You for get how fortunate I am," said Turl, smiling. "Poor Davenport could never have brought him around."

"There's no doubting your luck," said Larcher; "even with cards."

"Lucky with cards," began Turl lightly; but broke off all at once, and looked suddenly dubious as Larcher glanced at him in the electric light.

By BOBE CAMERON

"No man, sir, is obliged to do as much as he can. A man should have part of his life to himself." — Dr. Johnson.

"I know why I feel so wretchedly," I heard a woman say the other day. "It isn't the hot weather at all. It's just because I've been packing my days again. The doctor told me that if I didn't get over that habit I'd be in a sanitarium in six months, and I did reform for a while, but I guess I'm at it again."

Are you one of those unfortunate people who have the habit of packing their days?

You know what I mean, of course—planning every hour, arranging for every moment, packing every instant full of plans.

I don't mean wholly plans for work. They may be plans for social obligations or for pleasures. It isn't the character of what you do that makes the packed day so exhausting. It's the feeling that it is packed.

It's the sense of being obliged to do this and that and to get it done at such and such a time.

It's the constant error that one engagement will overlap another and throw the whole day out.

It's the breathless hurry to overtake one's plans if one falls behind. If you live leisurely and serenely,

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the very beginning, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomachic weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great medicines to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, this "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

The Kidneys Wear Out

But in advanced years you can keep these organs healthy by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

As old age comes on most people suffer more or less from derangements of the kidneys. With some there are years of pains and achings, with others Bright's disease sets in and the end comes quickly.

Fortunately many have learned about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and are enabled by their use to keep the kidneys healthy and active.

Mr. Richard Preston, Osborne, Lambton County, Ont., says: "Seven years ago I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills when my back was so bad that it stooped or it was torture to me. The kidneys were in bad condition, but these pills entirely freed me of back pains. I have used them ever since, whenever the kidneys would get out of order, and now, at eighty years, am well and hearty, thanks to this grand medicine."

Wet shoes should be stuffed with paper before they are put away. The paper will absorb the moisture and keep the shoes from becoming hard.

When packing, tie in bottle corks well and put the bottles in the inside of the trunk. If packed so snugly in this way they will carry around the world.

Cold water with but little soap should be used for washing colored silks. If the color runs, vinegar should be stirred in the water until the color sets.

When coal is needed on the fire in the sick-room, it should be brought into the room in paper bags, which should be laid gently on the fire to prevent noise.

When pressing a skirt it is always advisable to lay a damp cotton cloth over the material so that it is not touched by the iron. This prevents the material from becoming shiny.

Fought With Wild Dogs

Nurse Who Ministered to Sick and Wounded in Two Continents.

Soldiers have lost a valuable friend in Mrs. Janet Helen King (Slater Helen), who just died in England.

On two continents Sister Janet had tenderly cared for sick and wounded soldiers. When only eighteen she entered the Protestant Deaconess' Institution to be trained as a nurse for the sick and wounded in war, and was one of a party of nine sent out to assist in nursing the troops engaged in the war between Russia and Turkey.

Snow lay deep on the ground, the earth lay bare, and the night was passed in the open carts, bitter cold and the howling of wolves effectively preventing sleep. Arriving at Varna they found their services sorely needed, and for months the Sisters worked night and day.

To Sister Janet's care were allotted some two hundred patients who lay in beds scattered here and there amongst the hills. Daily as she trudged through the snow from hut to hut on her mission of mercy she was exposed to attacks from wild dogs which infested Bulgaria. More than once these brutes dragged her to the ground, but her stick and dagger protected her until her cries brought assistance. At the close of the war she received for her services the Imperial Order of the Red Cross of Russia.

She went out, too, to the Zulu War, and at Utrecht 3,200 sick and wounded passed through her hands. There she was personally thanked by Sir Garnet Wolseley. She was awarded the medal for the war, and received the Decoration of the Royal Red Cross from the Queen for "her special devotion and competency displayed in nursing duties with her Majesty's troops."

The pressure of the ring became correspondingly increased and caused an interruption of the blood circulation and blood poisoning set in.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Wait and See!

One of the disadvantages of the fact that it is not found feasible for the Legislature to meet more than for a few weeks each year is that little information can be procured as to the doings, particularly financial, of the Government during the greater part of the year. One of the chief functions of a Parliament is that of the Grand Inquest of a nation, and one of the most important duties of the members of an Opposition is to ask questions, particularly as to the expenditure of money. It will be remembered that at the last session of the House of Assembly much information was elicited, and that the public were shocked to find how the money was being frittered away in sops to party supporters.

A discussion also on the expenditures under the Railway Loan of 1910 showed also that about half the loan would be expended on the Bonavista Branch Railway before it was completed and all the new fences, railway piers and other constructions connected with the permanent way and the equipment of the road with rolling stock were paid for. This led to the reasonable inference that the whole loan would be expended before half the work was completed on the five branch lines which the contract of 1910 contemplates. In addition to the railway work provided for in that contract, we understand a branch line from Carbonear via Bay de Verde is being surveyed and a branch railway through Burin to Grand Bank has been promised by the Premier. Large expenditures are also contemplated for trunk roads in the Burin district and to provide telegraph connection with Ramona. It is clear then that the country is drifting into embarrassing expenditures, but little or no information is available, as the only time definite information can be extracted from the Government is during a session of the Legislature. In the meantime the public can only watch and wait. The Government policy is to let the public possess its soul in patience, and parade the untiring energy of the Premier. In the meantime the country is drifting—waiter?

CARNIVAL OF RIOTING

Serious Outbreaks at Liverpool and Glasgow.

Policeman Killed and Many Injured—Squad of Police Disarmed—Streets Barricaded—Chimney Pots and Bricks Showered on the Police.

Special to The Evening Telegram: LIVERPOOL, To-Day.
 Rioting growing out of the strike occurred yesterday. One policeman was killed and many injured. An altercation between policemen and strikers during a demonstration of Transport Workers before St. George's Hall, started the trouble, which culminated in a general melee. A hundred thousand people had gathered in front of St. George's Hall, listening to the speeches of the labor agitators. The scenes of violence following the attack upon the policemen necessitated the calling out of the police reserves. Fifteen policemen were surrounded and disarmed, the rioters attacking them with their own batons. The commanding officer of the police was dangerously wounded. The Riot Act was read; troops were called out to assist the police, and finally the rioters cleared away, many being injured in the hand to hand fighting. The rioters threatened to attack newspaper offices, which were closely guarded. Driven from the centre of the city, the crowd sullenly repaired to Islington, the toughest quarter of the city. Here the police were baffled in the narrow streets; the rioters barricaded themselves and some from the houses voluted down bricks, slates and chimney pots from the roofs upon the heads of the police. After the fight, St. George's Hall was converted into a temporary hospital and hundreds were attended by physicians. The outbreak is alleged to be due to the strikers' resentment of indiscreet conduct on the part of the members of the police force brought from Birmingham to assist in maintaining order. Fighting continued in the Islington quarter until midnight. The rioters erected barricades and started fires to impede the police. The Riot Act was read a second time and troops were called out to deal with the situation. During the day twenty policemen and sixty civilians were injured.
 A meeting of two thousand railway men belonging to the Midland, Great Central and Metropolitan lines decided last night to call a general strike on all railways and tubes in the London district next Saturday unless their grievances were removed meanwhile. It is rumored also that the London tramway men have sent an ultimatum to the London County Council.
 While the strike troubles in London are ended, the situation in the provinces is rapidly growing worse. In addition to the rioting in Liverpool, there were other serious disorders, which resulted in the street car service having to be closed down.
 Thirty thousand workmen met on Glasgow Green, and the strike leaders threatened drastic measures if non-union men were continued in their places. Strikers' scuffles with the police led to wild scenes of disorders, stone-throwing on the part of workmen and baton charges by the police. Much damage was done to the street cars before the service was suspended—cars were pulled off the tracks, trolley poles removed, windows smashed and timbers laid across the tracks. Many were injured. In support of the railway workers of Manchester, the Salford men resolved to strike to-night if the Liverpool and Manchester disputes were not settled in the meantime.
 A labor demonstration was held in Trafalgar Square to welcome the Laborite members of the French Chamber of Deputies.
 The King in a telegram to Mr. Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, expressed his pleasure that the London strike ended to-day.

Here and There.

Mr. J. Bulley who was ill at Sydney is on the road to recovery.

J. P. DONNELLY, Major.

A HEAVY DRAUGHT.—Mr. Lester's men with a team of six horses, hauled a 12 ton boiler from Harvey's premises to the R.N. Co. Dock to-day. It is being sent to one of the outport wharf factories. The job of removing it was a difficult one but was accomplished without serious mishap.

NOTICE.—The Royal Club wish to announce to their patrons and the public generally that they are holding an excursion to Holyrood on the last holiday, Sept. 13. Rev. Fr. Donnelly is holding a Garden Party and other sports on same day. Those who attend are assured of a pleasant time.

HOWLING DOGS.—Residents of Millis, and some from the park, are complaining of the midnight concerts that dogs in the vicinity have given those nights. The howling keeps the people awake sometimes till dawn. The police probably would abate this nuisance if the complaint was made direct to them.

Rev. John Ashley's Garden Party at Argenta, Tuesday, Aug. 15th. Cadet Band from St. John's will attend. Excursion rates from St. John's and St. George's from all stations to Placentia on that date. Arrangements made to convey passengers from Placentia to Argenta, Aug. 12, 21.

Big Derby Sweepstake.

This year the great Calcutta Turf Club sweepstake on the Derby was worth $66,666, no less than $10,000 more than the previous best attained last year. On that occasion H. T. Raban, of the Indian Army, Bombay, drawing ticket No. 72,211, won for which he paid 14 shillings. In half an hour of his being advised by cable that he had drawn the Derby orie he had negotiated with the syndicate, who purchased a half share in the lucky ticket for £7,500. Raban's 14th Raban won £23,000 in all. Nearly a quarter of a million tickets are bought annually in this the greatest sweepstake in the world. The tickets, which cost 14s. each, are keenly competed for. Sometimes syndicates buy up thousands and thousands of the result. Of the total amount of tickets sold the chance of the winner is 1 in 10,000. The other starters divide 10 per cent. Between them, while a further 10 per cent. goes to the drawees of the sweepstakes. The result of the sweepstakes is announced as a small private affair at the Calcutta Turf Club.

One year the six year old daughter of a native signalman won £20,000.

Avondale Garden Party

The promoters of the Avondale Garden Party and the parishioners in general, desire to remind their friends and patrons in the Metropolis and elsewhere that all possible preparations are completed for the successful carrying out of the undertaking on Tuesday, 15th inst. In all matters that aim at replacing the church destroyed by lightning sometime ago, we fully realize the best that is in us will have to be put forth; and intending visitors to the field of the Garden Party on next Tuesday will find ample evidence that our efforts for the success of the event fully justify this pretention. The gentlemen in charge of arrangements have neglected not the slightest trifle in connection with the affair that would in any way contribute towards its success. Avondale enjoys the facility of being situated on the line of railway at a distance of only two hours drive from the city; and as the excursion rates are at the disposal of the travelling public on that date, we are sure it can be marked down a continuous round of pleasure to leave the city in the forenoon, take in the Garden Party at Avondale, and return to town by the afternoon train; that would allow over seven hours to feast on the picturesque landscape and admire the blossomed fields of the charming village of Avondale, and to say nothing of the quota of pleasure which the Garden Party would afford. And, apart from the event of the day, the Garden Party—Avondale, has sufficient from bountiful nature's hand to well repay an initial visit. Alighting at the depot a short and pleasant drive of one mile, with pasture fields and meadow lands on either side, leads the visitor down to the "heart of the city," and where the "Long Bridge" spans the wide-mouthed river that empties itself in the waters of the harbour. Looking round from this point it is easily possible to detect the improvements of recent years. Mr. Kennedy's hostility, combined with the convenience of a cab on the spot, can accommodate even the most exacting. Mr. Denis Flynn's dwelling and business premises stand next, and rank high in business activities, but other Flynn residences close by show the lev's destructive hand since the occupants transferred their energies to the land of Uncle Sam. A little knowledge of past history will enable one at this terminus to find a fit subject to evidence the changes wrought by the ungodly hand of time. About a quarter of a century ago, or little more, this centre was the busy shipyard of the late Mr. William Flynn, who of his own ingenuity would model, construct and command the famous "Western boat" of his day. Then the nearby forests offered a plentiful supply of timbers, good shares of which were collected in winter time, and with the opening of spring the keel would be laid. Now we have not the boats; they rank in the category of "things of the past," and the builders, too, have long since crossed the borderland.

Highlanders' Parade.

The 8th Highlanders left their armoury at 2 p.m. yesterday and marched to Brookfield where an open air service was held by Rev. Dr. Pringle. Lieut-Col. McNeil was in command and the pipers' band headed the parade. The service, which was held in a grove near Cowan's farm, opened with prayer. A hymn was sung after which Dr. Pringle delivered an address suitable to the occasion. The ladies were served with refreshments at 4.15, and after resting a bit and running about a little, marched back to town at 4.30. The experience is one that will long be remembered by all who took part.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Aug. 14, '11.
Cream of Lilies, though it is valuable all the year round, is of course particularly valuable for use in summer, when sunburn, cracked and peeling skin, sore lips, etc., the effect of dry winds and hot sun, are so much in evidence. We can unhesitatingly recommend Cream of Lilies for all troubles of this sort, theoretically, because we know the qualities of the ingredients of which it is composed; practically, because we know what it has done for several seasons past. It has positively no equal in its own line. Price 25c. a pot.
Want a good Shampoo? McMurdo's Shampoo Powders will give you this at a nominal expense. Price 5c. a pkg.—enough for three or four times.

Fence Took Fire.

The fence at the north side of the Reid Co's. barn caught fire last evening and would have spread to the adjoining shed only for the timely action of S. Williams and J. Mayo, who procured buckets of water and threw on the fire, being assisted on the end of the work by two police officers on the beat there. They said that the fire was most likely caused by boys throwing cigarettes there.

Boy Run Over.

The six-year-old son of Conductor Kelly was knocked down by Dr. Connel's rig on Patrick Street yesterday forenoon. The boy was in company with his mother. He was taken to the residence of Mr. John Curtis, Water Street, where the doctor gave the boy the care that he deemed needful. He found that he was not seriously hurt, and will be O.K. in a few days.

AN UNFORTUNATE CASE.

A domestic living with Mrs. Nurse, LeMarchant Road, was taken in the Rescue Home on Saturday last. She is the victim of a married man in one of our large stores. The designing fellow kept company with her under an assumed name as a single man, and the mistress feels badly over the affair as the unfortunate girl is only seventeen years of age.

Big Derby Sweepstake.

This year the great Calcutta Turf Club sweepstake on the Derby was worth £96,666, no less than £16,666 more than the previous best attained last year. On that occasion Captain H. T. Raban, of the Indian army, drew the number, drawing ticket No. 92,211, for which he paid 14 shillings. Within half an hour of his being advised by cable that he had drawn the fortunate he had negotiated with a London syndicate, who purchased a half share in the lucky ticket for £7,500. Captain Raban won £23,000 in all.
Nearly a quarter of a million tickets are bought annually in this, the greatest sweepstake in the world. The tickets, which cost 14s. each, are heavily competed for. Sometimes syndicates buy up thousands, and pool the result. Of the total amount subscribed the chance of the winner takes 40 per cent, the second 20 per cent, and the third 10 per cent. The other starters divide 10 per cent between them, while a further 10 per cent goes to the drawers of non-starters left in the race at the time the sweepstakes. A final 10 per cent goes to defray expenses. Needless to say, romance has abounded in the history of the sweep, which originated as a small private affair at the Calcutta Turf Club.
One year the six year old daughter of a native signalman won £30,000.

Be Sober and Watch.

The monthly meeting of the T. A. & B. Society yesterday was an exceptionally busy one. President Ellis presided and seated at his right on the platform was the Society's Spiritual Director, Rev. W. P. H. Kitchen. Secy. Coughlan informed the President that seven applications for membership were posted. The election of the applicants was then proceeded with, resulting in the election of all nominees unanimously. The purchasing of several new instruments for the band met with the full approval of the meeting. The Secretary informed the meeting of the doings of the Club members during the week as to the building of a racer for the Regatta next year. The report shows that there is once more a desire on the part of the members to take an interest in this matter in the future as in the past. As they are already owners of a boat house, practically boats, etc., all that was wanted then was a "second Myrtle." So great was the enthusiasm that it looks as if the flag of the T. A. & B. Society will be seen gloriously floating over their popular house at the Lake side on next Regatta Day. President Ellis announced that the intention of the Executive and Club was to inaugurate the coming fall a musical combination for the sole benefit of members, by securing the services of a competent musical instructor to give lessons in singing and music, say on three nights a week. This announcement was received with applause, especially by the younger members, and was pronounced as an up to date movement. As is customary on the death of a priest, a vote of condolence was tendered to the relatives of the late Rev. W. Browne and the flag on the hall was placed at half mast. The meeting then adjourned.
EPWORTH LEAGUE.—India: Its Races and Religions" is the subject for consideration in the Cochrane St. Epworth League this Monday evening. This great land, centre of marvel and mystery of caste and color, ought to be of particular interest to Britishers when we remember that over two-thirds of the subjects of King George live within the borders of this historic peninsula. A profitable meeting expected. Young people cordially invited to attend. No collection.

For 500 Fishermen.

Arrangements are being made for the coming of 500 fishermen from Scotland and Newfoundland by the Seal Cove Fish & Cold Storage Co. of Prince Rupert, B.C., to man the fishing fleet to be put into commission in April next by the company, says the Victoria Colonial and Smoke stacks. The building at Seal Cove is of six stories, 80 x 145 feet, of solid concrete. Some $250,000 has been expended to date. This building at Seal Cove will take 10,000,000 pounds weight of stored products. The building is equipped with two elevators, one for the cold storage and the other for the fish.—Fishery Gazette.

For Valour.

Various Methods by Which Nations Reward Great Bravery.
As is well known, Britain decorates her soldiers with the Victoria Cross for conspicuous acts of bravery on the field of battle.
But most other countries have similar rewards for valor.
France confers her distinctive badge in the fairly familiar form of the Legion of Honor.
Germany is proud of her Iron Cross; while Austria confers her Arced Order of Maria Theresa on her heroes. Russia distributes her Cross of St. Vladimir sparingly to her gallant soldiers.
Denmark has one of the most illustrious orders of chivalry, the Order of the Elephant, which ranks as high as our own Order of the Garter.
Sweden has her Noble Order of the Seraph, founded in 1220. This order is limited to twenty-three natives and eight foreigners.
Spain is justly proud of her Order of the Golden Fleece, which is, and has always been, most sparingly bestowed.
Italy decorates her most heroic warriors with her military medal of Merit.
Portugal has the Tower and Sword, a very old order.
Sardinia has a medal for distinguished conduct on the field of battle, and special military decoration besides for deeds of outstanding courage.

Eleven Full Cars.

Yesterday afternoon at 2.30 the biggest train load of excursionists for a Sunday outing left the city. There were eleven cars drawn by two engines. The total number of passengers was close on 400. By the 6 p.m. train about 100 more went out. The 2.30 train dropped passengers off at all points between the city and Kelligrews. The train returned with 750 people at 9.30 last night.

Fire Alarm.

The Central and East End firemen were called to Duckworth Street, near Cochrane Street, at 6.45 last evening to put out a fire at the residence of Mr. J. Newhook. On arriving at the place the firemen found that the fire was in some dry boughs and rubbish at the rear of the house which Mr. Newhook's seven year old boy and other boys set ablaze while playing with matches. Three buckets of water put out the fire.

Nfld. Stamps.

Newfoundland in its issue of Coronation postage stamps has boldly given full-faced portraits of the King and Queen and their children. Excellent portraits. But the Queen is worth one cent, the King two, the Prince of Wales three, and so on until the little Prince John has the wondrous nine cent look at you straight in the eyes from the postage stamp. At the first glance the values seem inverted. But, of course, the loyal Newfoundlanders know that the King and Queen will oftenest be bought, licked and caressed with fingers upon the envelope.—From the London Chronicle.

Wedding Bells.

Jack and Edmund Tucker. The bride is a native of England and has lived in St. John for several years, being engaged in the work of district nursing for the Victorian Order, and more recently in the tuberculosis work.—St. John, N. B. Telegraph.

McNamara's Make Queer Move. Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—A hole in the ground caused by the explosion of a bomb will figure in the trial of the McNamara brothers for the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times. The hole was dug up and boxed for preservation Sunday night.

On the morning of the destruction of the Times building, last October, two exploded bombs were found at the residences of General H. G. Otis, owner of the Times, and F. J. Zehndelar, Secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

A detective was carrying off the bomb enclosed in a suit case from the Otis grounds when he heard a clock ticking and dropped the grip and ran. The bomb went off, tearing a large hole in the ground between the sidewalk and curbing.

The hole remained undisturbed and a few days ago the attorneys for the defence set to work Sunday night and by daybreak had tunneled under the hole, boxed it in and prepared to carry to Attorney Harriman's office. While they awaited a truck passers-by noticed their operations and telephoned District Attorney Fredericks. Gathering an automobile full of detectives Fredericks rushed to the scene.

"Hold on," cried Fredericks, peering into the box, "what have we here?" "Nothing but a hole," replied Harriman's detectives.

"Oh, very well," said the District Attorney, "you're welcome to it."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

Upon my farm I sadly looked, for drouth had left it sore. "Alas!" I cried, "my goose is cooked—there'll be no crops this year." The grass was burned to gray and red, the corn leaves wilted; weeds; and everything seemed stark and dead, save weed and cock-of-heck. And so I wrung my hands and wept, and made a grove of grief; and in the night time, while I slept, the rain came, the grass refreshed, was all uncurled, and husky was the corn. And things that I considered dead were convalescent then; the stately cabbage reared its head, the carrot blushed again. So, after this, when things look black, and luck seems gone for keeps, I don't intend to cry "alack!" and spring a line of weeps. The darkest hour, the sages say, is just before the dawn; and fortune's headed off our way when everything seems gone.

Right Reverend Monsignor Browne PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY.

His many friends in the city were grieved yesterday morning on coming abroad to learn that Rt. Rev. Monsignor Browne, P. P. of Grand River, St. George's, had died the previous night. Deceased came to the city about three weeks ago to attend the reception of the Papal Delegate and the consecration of His Lordship Bishop Power. He had not been in good health for about two years but bore his sufferings with perfect patience and resignation to the Will of the Almighty. He made a sacrifice, no doubt to come here to attend the consecration of Bishop Power. He was taken ill on that occasion and was obliged to leave the Church and retire to the home of Mr. V. P. Burke, Allandale Road, where he was staying and where he breathed his last sigh at 1 o'clock yesterday morning strengthened in soul by the last consoling rites of the Catholic Church. All day yesterday the body lay in state at the Mortuary Chapel, Belvidere, whence it was removed this morning to the Cathedral where Requiem High Mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock in presence of a large congregation. Interment took place shortly before noon at Belvidere in the plot assigned to the priests.

Monsignor Browne was in his 65th year, having been born in this city the year after the great fire that destroyed the city. His father was Mr. James Brown, a planter. The family removed to Harbor Grace in 1854 but returned to St. John's in 1865. Father Browne received his early training at the Old Orphan Asylum and at 17 entered the employ of the late M. Nolan, a city grocer. About five years afterwards he entered the office of the late Hon. L. O'Brien where he remained up to the closing days of the firm. During all this time he was noted for his zeal in the cause of religion and church work. He was an active member of the Christian Doctrine Society, and spent most of his time Sundays in the Cathedral.

In the year 1879 he resolved to study for the priesthood and began taking daily lessons in Latin, etc., from the late Rev. W. Fitzpatrick, the President of St. Bonaventure's College in 1881 he went to St. F. X. College, Antigonish, where he made a four year course. In 1885 he went to Montreal where he finished his theological course at the Grand Seminary in 1887. His Grace Archbishop Howley was then Vicar Apostolic of St. George's, and he was glad to get such an enthusiastic and pious worker on the West Coast mission as Father Browne. Four years after he was given the parish of St. Jacques, and in 1901 was appointed to the parish of Grand River. He was Vicar General of the Diocese of St. George's under Bishop McNeil.

The deceased was remarkable all through his life for gentleness and piety and good humour. He was withal an ardent worker in the cause of religion and education, and the imprint of his zeal and holy example will be found in the hearts of the rising generation of those parishes on the West Coast where he laboured. His only sister, Mrs. James Norris, of Highway Avenue, predeceased him last year, and he mourned her kind ministrations and hospitable care on coming to the city since her demise.

Daring Young Mariner SAILS FOR HUDSON BAY.

With Capt. W. H. Bartlett at the wheel, his young weather tanned face lighted up with reassuring smiles as he answered the fond adieux of the several friends who bade him adieu at the Terminal wharf, the topsail schooner Laddie set sail recently, bound on her long, lonesome voyage to Canada's northernmost port, Republic Bay, six hundred miles north of Fort Churchill, and 2,700 miles distant from North Sydney.

The Laddie was well loaded down with stores, provisions and portable houses, etc., for the Northwest Mounted Police in the bleak Hudson Bay outposts. She would have sailed earlier, but Capt. Bartlett decided that his ship would be the better of an overhauling on the marine railway here, and had new sheathing put on to withstand the constant contact of ice floes combatted in the frigid North. Besides her commander, the schooner carries seven men. On board are eighty barrels of kerosene oil, which will be used as motive fuel when the vessel is becalmed or encounters adverse winds.

Capt. Bartlett, who is only twenty-seven years of age, is the youngest mariner ever to go in charge of a vessel from these waters to the distant waters of Fort Churchill. It was this daring young native of Brigus, Nfld., who commanded the ill-fated schooner Jennie last year on a mission similar to the present one. On the return voyage the Jennie was caught in a bad gale and wrecked at a place called Wagner, the extreme northernmost part of the Hudson Bay.—Sydney Post.
