FIGURES DO LIE. Prices are only Relative

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest. They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build. They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine. They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and "Time is money."

If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the poorest fisherman who ever signed an order. You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large.

REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market. We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.

We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one. REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest. WRITE FOR A CATALOGUE TO-DAY.

"Snapping" Lions in the Jungle.

By PAUL J. RAINEY.

Photographing wild animals in their native haunts is to me the finest sport in the world.

But it is a sport over which one must take time. For example, to secure the series of African hunt cinematograph pictures now being shown to thousands of people at the Philharmonic Hall, Great Portland Street, London, meant an expenditure of something like £50,000, and a year spent in the depth of the African jungle.

My expedition consisted of 80 white men, 300 black men, 135 camels, 40 horses, 50 dogs, 54 oxen, and 150 sheep on the hoof. At Mombassa the complete "safari," or hunting journey, was arranged. Hardy African tribesmen noted for their endurance, and other worthy qualities, accompanied the expedition, some as employees and carriers, and the remainder for the love of the sport.

The expedition included also a hundred American bearhounds. The first thing I did was to get two lion cubs which I captured only after a desperate struggle with their mother. They were used to acquaint the dogs with the scent of a lion. For three or four days these young cubs were led through the grass, and into the jungle for a mile or more.

Dogs to Hunt Lions.

The dogs were then put on the scent and easily took up the trail. So adept did they become in tracking the spoor of a lion that within a short time they were sent out on a lion hunt, and easily ran their quarry to bay.

Amazing, indeed, are the ways of these wild beasts among which I have spent so much of my time. Take, for example, the water-hole within ten degrees of the equator which furnishes water to them, and where I took a series of photographs. They make their way to it from as far as forty miles.

An amicable or truce exists between them, and the water hole is neutral ground, where they meet, with an understanding that so long as they are there they shall respect each other's peace, always preserving a certain order in drinking if a number come down together.

Thus the rhinoceros is given the preference even by the elephant; then the lions, leopards, and other big cats take their turn. The giraffe and other harmless beasts always stand at a distance in respect to their more powerful brethren; but at no time do the lions attempt to molest them, and they are seemingly immune from attack while drinking.

Lions, are, perhaps, the strangest beasts of all. One of my hunters once told me that he was sitting before his tent when a magnificent lion stiffened for the spring, leaped, and missed him. It then slunk into the forest looking thoroughly ashamed. The next day the hunter (so he said) came unexpectedly on the lion before a stream. It had up-ended a log of wood, and was practising long jumps.

Although I accept no responsibility for this story it is too good to miss telling. Seriously, however, on one occasion when I was taking a picture of a lioness the beast charged at me. One of my party fired, but the lioness was only checked, and it was not until she was within three feet of the camera that she was dropped by the marksman. That photograph, I consider, in the circumstances, to be the best I ever took.

Risks the Camera Men Run.

Another remarkable picture I obtained when a rhinoceros charged. It was stopped by a bullet and feigned death and a splendid photograph of the final shot striking the animal was secured. A poorly placed shot or an instant's delay may mean death or maiming to the man behind the camera.

With such an expedition as this, one comes across some curious animal friendships. One day I found a little gazelle asleep in some high grass. He was easily captured and brought into camp. He was fed on milk by means of a nursing bottle made with a piece of rubber tubing and a pickle bottle. In a few days he became very tame, and would follow at my heels.

The gazelle selected a bearhound as his most intimate friend. This dog took so great an interest in his little friend that he would not permit any of the other dogs to molest it.

Next to lion hunting, bagging the cheetah or hunting leopard was the best sport. For this our bearhounds were given their full chance. In one morning the pack brought down three of these fierce creatures.—P.W.

Amusements.

To-day the Crescent Picture Palace is showing a special Lubin Feature in two reels: "The Shadow of Traagedy," this great drama is staged and acted in the best Lubin way. "His Wedded Wife" is a story written by E. R. Carpenter for the Vitagraph Co. To inherit a fortune a young woman marries a man she doesn't know, they have never seen each other since they meet later, fall in love and rejoice in their mysterious union. "The Long Lane" is another interesting story and "Sophie's Legacy" is the greatest comedy you ever saw, one huge scream from start to finish. Mrs. Hanford sings a new song. This is a great big show, go to the Crescent and see it.

GREAT CANADIAN SINGER AT NICKEL TO-DAY.

Forbes Law Duguid, the great Canadian baritone who is well known all over the Dominion makes his first appearance at the Nickel Theatre this evening. He is the leading Canadian singer of the day and has had great success wherever he has appeared. His work in America and England has been equally successful. St. John's is anxious to hear him. The pictures to-day are about the best ever given at the Nickel. There will be another episode of "Our Mutual Girl" in which Margaret is seen in air ship with Lieut. Porte. "The Runaway Freight" is the most thrilling picture ever shown here. "The Rescue" is a beautiful social drama, and there are two comedies "Ups and Downs" by the Keystone Co. and "Thanks for the Lobster" by the Vitagraph artists. You should not miss to-day's entertainment, it is absolutely a great show.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There will be a first class program provided to-night at the popular theatre. Some of the best pictures ever seen, instructive and amusing, the very cream of comedy pictures. The two new little singers, Miss M. Deniff and Miss G. Richards will appear in charming costumes and sing entire new songs in which they have been well trained by Mrs. Rossley. A grand evening's entertainment at a very small price.

THE ROSSLEYS.

A complete change of programme to-night, all new pictures, music, songs and sketches. The Rossleys will prepare an excellent programme for patrons until the arrival of the next new performers. Mr. Ballard Brown got a great send off and received many nice presents. The staff of both the Rossley Theatre were them off on the train, and many hundreds of patrons are sorry to lose such capable artists.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The best-balanced programme as yet to be given will be shown at the above house, commencing this evening. One of the greatest two-reel photo-plays ever to be produced is from the studios of the British Co., famous as the sponsors of the beautiful work "Quo Vadis." George Ade, the most famous living American humorist, is also represented by one of his best satirical comedies entitled "The Fable of the Good Fairy." The social drama by the Lyceum, is truly a work of art and will be greatly appreciated by connoisseurs of first class acting and beautiful photography. "Hunger knows no Law" is a magnificent specimen of artistic skill in every sense. A truly great show.

Our Volunteers.

The total number of volunteers enrolled to date is 1,953, the following having enlisted on Saturday last:—

- Cyril E. Daniels, St. John's.
- Geo. Kirkland, St. John's.
- Robt. Collins, St. John's Co.
- Frank Tucker, St. John's.
- Art S. Hayward, St. John's.
- Howard Smith, Dildo, T.B.
- Edmund Brake, Humbermouth.
- John Murphy, Humbermouth.

The work of enlisting for the Reserve Force will be continued daily as usual.

Annoyance to Fishermen.

There are still several "growlers" between Flatrock and Cape St. Francis which are an annoyance to the fishermen in that neighbourhood. Codfish continues scarce on the local grounds and there is a shortage of caplin yet. This morning boats got very small catches of "tom cods" or about enough for the consumption of fisher folk themselves.

BANKERS ARRIVE.—During the past week the following vessels arrived at Harbor Breton: The Banks; Stella, 600 qts.; H. M. Stanley, 600 qts.; Utowana, 850 qts.; Ormat, 680 qts.; Ella Blanche, 600 qts.; F. Smith, 680 qts.; Oregon, 750 qts. At Bay L'Argent—Philander, 650 qts., Wallace G., 650 qts. Caplin are reported plentiful all along the coast, and there is a good sign of codfish at Jacques Fontaine.

Diphtheria Epidemic.

Diphtheria is on the increase in city. Last week seven cases of the disease were brought under the notice of the Health Authorities. Three deaths occurred. Two of them were children of Mr. H. Shaw, Pleasant Street, aged 4 and 6 years, respectively. A sad circumstance in connection with the Shaw family is that Mrs. Shaw and another of her children are in hospital ill of the disease.

From the Sagona.

At noon yesterday Capt. Parsons, of the S. S. Sagona, now on the way to Labrador, wired the Reid Nfld. Co. as follows:—"Funk Islands S. W. about 20 miles; heavy ice around; ship making slow progress; weather calm and fine."

Net is much liked for graduation dresses.

A raid upon the German town of Sphinxhaven, on Lake Nyassa, carried out by a force from British Central Africa, was successfully accomplished and a quantity of rifles, ammunition and stores captured. A German armed steamer was shelled and destroyed. The landing party returned safely, with but one man slightly wounded.

FLOUR DROPS IN PRICE.—We are told that flour dropped 60c. a barrel in some of stores in town Saturday.

Don Trappell Again Reported

THIS TIME A GERMAN PRISONER. Reports concerning Don Trappell, belonging to the Fifteenth Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, and previously reported in the Casualty List, seem to be conflicting. A gentleman, belonging to the city, who saw active service in the Boer War and who is at present an officer in a British regiment, writing to a friend here makes particular mention of Don Trappell, whom, the letter alleges, was not killed in action, but was taken prisoner by the Germans. The British officer's letter has been shown to Mr. and Mrs. Trappell, who are delighted to hear that their son Don is still in the flesh. If such is the case, and it is earnestly hoped that his internment will be short.

Arrived at Lewisporte.

The steamers Clyde and Home which had been detained by ice for several days at Brassers Harbour, Main Tickle, arrived at Lewisporte yesterday after a run of 18 days from this port. The ships report that the ice is still very heavy north of Twillingate, but that yesterday's wind would probably clear that shore. Both steamers will take up their routes to-day in Green Bay and Notre Dame Bay, respectively.

PRACTICE MATCHES.—The Cubs will play the Red Lions a practice game in Rennie's Field to-night at 8.15 to put them in readiness for their game against the Shamrocks on Wednesday afternoon. To-morrow night the Cubs will play the B.I.S. at the Cubs' ground.

SLIGHT FIRE.—At 10 a.m. yesterday the Central Fire Company were called by phone to Queen's Road where a slight fire was in progress in the house occupied by Miss Dudley. Sparks from the chimney had ignited the roof. Beyond the burning of a few shingles no damage was done.

DEDICATION CEREMONY.—The ceremony of the dedication of the organ of the C. E. Cathedral will take place on Thursday next, the Feast of St. John the Baptist. At 7.45 a.m. there will be Mattins, followed by the dedication ceremony and Holy Communion at 8 a.m. At 8 p.m. there will be a recital by the members of the Cathedral choir and other singers of the city. A collection will be taken up in aid of the organ fund.

Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor W. F. LLOYD, Editor

MONDAY, June 21st, 1915.

A Stubborn Problem.

The news from the Gallipoli Peninsula and the Dardanelles indicates that a similar deadlock prevails there as in the western front in France and Belgium.

We occupy the southern nose of the peninsula, but the country around Achi Baba, made up of mountains and defiles, affords the enemy favourable ground for the fighting in which they excel.

The attitude of the Christian Balkan Powers has not yet changed from that of neutrality to active hostility against the Turks and Tueton. The campaign which the Germans and Austrians are prosecuting so vigorously in Galicia is intended to impress the Balkan States with the prowess of the Central Powers and to show up the vulnerability of Russia.

The announcement is made that the French Postal Service is handling the mail in 90 towns and villages in Alsace, all of which now bear names they had 45 years ago.

Whether or not the estimates of Lloyd George and of the Times include the Indian and Dominion troops is not clear. Even if they do, the total enrolment of British-born will remain as high as the above table, as the men in the Royal Navy number far more than 200,000 Indian and Dominion troops.

At this foot-rule is applied to Canada with its population of 9,000,000 (which is closer the mark than 7,500,000), our quota of fighting men should be approximately 700,000.

It is interesting to note that the Government up to the present, has either in the field or under canvas probably 110,000 men, and perhaps another 40,000 in view.

There are a number of men who have given the question considerable study, and, if the war goes another year, it would not be surprising if they were needed.

There passed peacefully away on Sunday, at 1.30 p.m., after a long and painful illness, George Westcott, aged 84 years, leaving a wife, one son and four daughters and one sister to mourn their sad loss; funeral at 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday, from his late residence.

Small hats with ostrich about the crown and mounting high in the front are new.

Costly embroideries seem to be entirely out of the question on summer gowns.

TURKS FIGHTING FAIRLY.

LONDON, To-Day. A Reuter despatch from a correspondent in the Dardanelles says the Turks are fighting most bravely. In one case the Turks while under fire dressed the wounds of one of our men. In another case a Turk left a water bottle with a wounded Australian soldier. The British soldier who had been lying wounded for many hours without food and far from the British trenches, was given bread by a Turk. Prisoners who have escaped from the Turks all assert that they were well treated.

RUSSIANS' GENERAL RETREAT.

VIENNA, To-Day. The Russians have been in general retreat since three o'clock this morning along the entire front. In one place they were forced out of their position on the Wereszyca River, a short distance west of Lemberg.

DROWNING DISASTERS.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., To-Day. Buffeted by a high wave and carried into deep water by the treacherous undertow, seven bathers, including prominent members of the Philadelphia Summer Colony, were drowned in the surf here to-day. Scores of others were dragged to the beach in an unconscious condition after life guards and other bathers had battled desperately to save their lives. One man was drowned when six fishing smacks were capsized simultaneously as they were about to come ashore. At Mississippi Avenue a score of fishermen were thrown into the water.

90 PLACES HELD IN ALSACE.

PARIS, To-day. The announcement is made that the French Postal Service is handling the mail in 90 towns and villages in Alsace, all of which now bear names they had 45 years ago.

ITALIAN SUCCESSES.

ROME, To-day. The following official communication has been issued: "Rain and fog to-day hindered operations in the mountainous parts of the theatre of war. However, in the zone of Monte Nero, it has been possible to complete and reinforce the Italian occupation by taking possession of positions commanding the routes of Piezzo. On the Isonzo we repulsed two counter attacks against positions recently captured around Piavaa."

AUSTRIANS OPTIMISTIC.

AUSTRIAN HEADQUARTERS, To-day. A feeling of distinct optimism prevails here, regarding the outlook of the Austro-German allies in the forthcoming third battle of Lemberg. The Russians have been losing ground steadily in the campaign across Galicia, which has lasted nearly seven weeks, and in spite of repeated arrivals of reinforcements have been unable to hold any of the various positions taken.

"DEMORALIZED & DISCOURAGED."

NEW YORK, To-day. "I have been close enough to the front to be able to state positively that the Austro-German allies are demoralized and discouraged." This was the statement made yesterday by Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, who returned from a trip to France on the liner New York. There is no question of the outcome of the war, he added, and the allied troops are supremely confident.

Spirits of Every Kind

BANNED TO GERMAN SOLDIERS.

Berlin, via London, June 14.—Admiral von Muller, chief of the Private Marine Cabinet, has written the following open letter against the misuse of spirituous beverages:

"I have recently had an opportunity to hear the Emperor speak of the alcoholic question in the present war. His Majesty on this occasion asserted that he thoroughly maintained the opinion expressed by him in his Muerwik speech to the marine cadets, but that on the other hand, in war a more extended use at least of lighter alcoholic drinks must be permitted. Thus, for instance, light native wine or beer was preferable to water for troops if the water available was of an objectionable quality. Strong drinks, such as spirits of every sort, may under no circumstances be given to the troops."

Admiral von Muller says that measures have been taken to prevent the sending of spirits of every kind to troops in the field.

Mr. Huxley R. Drummond and Mr. James Carruthers, of Montreal, have each offered $100,000 for machine guns, these gifts being sufficient to purchase eighty.

Canada's Quota for British Army.

(From the Calgary News-Telegraph.) In an appeal for enlistment to the native-born Canadians, Mr. J. S. Briery, writing to the Montreal Herald a few days ago, not only emphasizes the necessity of Canada materially increasing the number of her recruits, but also gives some very significant figures to prove that, up to the present time, the men of this country have fulfilled, in the number of volunteers, only a small part of that obligation which we owe to the Motherland.

Basing his deductions upon a population of 7,500,000, Mr. Briery makes the rather significant statement that even with 150,000 men in the field—which is probably 50,000 more than we have at present—Canada will only be giving one man out of every 60 people to the cause of the Empire and civilization. Britain, on the other hand, he shows to have given almost one in every thirteen of its population of 45,000,000. The conclusions of the writer, needless to say, are not very complimentary to Canada.

The correspondent of the London Times, says Mr. Briery estimates that Britain is in a position to send one million men to France, at the same time retaining one million for home defence. Mr. Lloyd George recently stated in the House that thirty-six divisions represented Britain's present overseas force. These divisions are variously estimated as numbering 600,000 or 700,000 men. Lord Kitchener has just made a call for 300,000 more volunteers. It is probable that the losses of the British army since the beginning of the war have not been less than 200,000 men.

From these facts it is possible to come to the following conclusion as to what Britain will have accomplished by the time Kitchener's last call is answered, in drawing upon its manhood for the defence of the realm:

Army Overseas 600,000 Casualties 200,000 Army for foreign service . . 1,000,000 Army for Home defence . . 1,000,000 Kitchener's new army . . . 300,000

Whether or not the estimates of Lloyd George and of the Times include the Indian and Dominion troops is not clear. Even if they do, the total enrolment of British-born will remain as high as the above table, as the men in the Royal Navy number far more than 200,000 Indian and Dominion troops. At the beginning of the war the regular army had about 250,000 men. It follows, therefore, that Britain has raised, since August 1, or will have raised in a short time, 2,850,000 men for military service.

The total number who have borne arms since the opening gun was fired—estimating the personnel of the navy at 300,000—will be 3,400,000 as soon as Kitchener's new army is enrolled. As the population of the United Kingdom is 45,000,000, it follows that one out of every 13 has been, or will be, in the armed service of the country.

If this foot-rule is applied to Canada with its population of 9,000,000 (which is closer the mark than 7,500,000), our quota of fighting men should be approximately 700,000.

The Government up to the present, has either in the field or under canvas probably 110,000 men, and perhaps another 40,000 in view.

There are a number of men who have given the question considerable study, and, if the war goes another year, it would not be surprising if they were needed.

There passed peacefully away on Sunday, at 1.30 p.m., after a long and painful illness, George Westcott, aged 84 years, leaving a wife, one son and four daughters and one sister to mourn their sad loss; funeral at 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday, from his late residence.

Young Woman Escapes Drowning.

On Saturday evening a domestic named Gertrude Parsons, had a narrow escape from drowning. She was out boating in the harbor and was seized with fits, falling out of the boat into the water. She was nearly gone when rescued and was brought to the police station in an unconscious condition. There she was attended by Dr. Rendell, who applied restoratives and brought the young woman around alright.

Here and There.

EXPRESS ARRIVES.—The Bruce express arrived in the city at 12.40 p.m. to-day.

LOCAL ARRIVES.—The local from Carbonear via Brigus arrived in the city at noon to-day.

BRITISH SUCCESSES.

LONDON, June 21. An official statement issued by the British War Office to-day, says: "On Friday, north of Hooze, we occupied German trenches on a front of 1,000 yards, which the enemy had been obliged to abandon, owing to our successes there. As the result of fighting in this neighborhood during the week, we captured 213 prisoners, including two officers, and took three machine guns and a full gas cylinder. Northeast of Arras, our forces have expended several mines last night and destroyed a portion of the enemy's trenches. Our artillery and riflemen inflicted casualties on the enemy while trying to escape after a gas explosion. The electric power station at La Bassee was successfully captured and yesterday by our airmen."

FRENCH AND HIS TROOPS.

LONDON, June 21. (General Headquarters British Expeditionary Force in France.)—Yesterday, the centennial of the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, Field Marshal French visited a cavalry division long out of the front. Sir John Bull did not make a speech, but spoke as a soldier to soldier, hesitating at words at times in his emotion. The commander-in-chief, who in the complete immensity of modern warfare, did not have a name to mention. "French," "what you were capable of and you have shown that you are equal to any work required. As a soldier and more courageous, to stand for many days in the trenches, to make one brave charge. Against that, the tardy attack at Ypres, your determination, which prevented the clouds of gas rolled over your trenches, gasping, blinded and darkness you stood your ground with determination, which prevented disaster." When the Commander-in-Chief finished his talk, the men cheered three cheers.

ITALIAN SUCCESSES.

ROME, June 20.
 An official statement from the main headquarters of the Italian army, most of which is devoted to details of a two days' struggle for the heights on the left bank of the Isonzo River, near Piava, says that the Italians took the last three heights remaining in the hands of the Austrians, on June 17th, and while the Italian losses were heavy, the results attained were important. The communication says that on the Isonzo which the Italians passed by main force, the Austrian position, which had been taken, one after another, by assault.

SITUATION COMPLICATED.

WASHINGTON, June 20.
 Conditions in the Balkans were reported in press despatches yesterday, as indicating that Constantinople is in an immediate fear of occupation by the Allies, created a deep impression in the Balkan diplomatic circles here. In this connection, unofficial reports from Russia, announcing a change in the campaign against Constantinople as one of the requirements exacted by Greece for her support of the Allies, was widely commented upon. The Greek Government, it was said, declared in a note to Russia to approach along the Gallipoli Peninsula was impossible, and that an overland attack through Bulgarian territory was the only means which the Greek Government would consider in the case of Greek participation. In Bulgarian quarters here it was said that probably the violation by the Allies of Bulgarian territory, it was insisted, would force her to join the Germanic Allies.

RUSSIANS HARD PRESSED.

LONDON, June 20.
 After seven weeks of battering across Galicia, during which the Russians have been thrown back more than 150 miles, the Austro-Germans to-day are as close to Lemberg as were the Germans to Paris after their first dash across France last fall. Never, perhaps, since before the battle of the Marne, have the Teutonic Allies appeared so confident of success. Having failed in their original plan of crushing France then turning on Russia, they have reversed the order of their strategy now. Judging by the expenditure of life and ammunition, they have pinned the whole Russian Army so as to permit of throwing tremendous weight of men and metal against western theatre, there to either break through the Franco-British lines or force the interminable period of sanguinary warfare.

 YESTERDAY'S EXCURSION.
 MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.

The Great question that England and her Allies are asking is whether Grand Duke Nicholas, commanding the Russian forces, can successfully emulate Joffre's tactics of last fall, and check the Austro-Germans at the gates of Lemberg. Optimists point out that the Grand Duke checked them almost at the gates of Warsaw, just as General Joffre stopped the Germans before Paris, and Field Marshal French stopped them before Ypres, Dunkirk and Calais.

It is argued further, even should Lemberg fall, the Russians can drop back on equally formidable positions, and by utilizing the rivers and swamps—it is the British contention—they could thus hold out for months, while England and France, in the meantime, are sending them aid in men and munitions, if necessary.

Whether Russia has sufficient ammunition to meet the present strain, is a question which cannot be answered in England, although the London papers frankly admit the shortage is acute. One Sunday paper characterizes the situation in Galicia as Russia's supreme emergency, and public interest is centred in that theatre. The sound of the guns is audible at Lemberg, and possibly this week will see the culmination of one of the most interesting phases of the great war.

COLLECTIONS FOR CEMETERIES.—At all the Masses in the R. C. Churches of the city and suburbs yesterday collections were taken up in aid of Belvidere and Mount Carmel Cemeteries. The aggregate amount was $1,077.85.

DETAINED BY ICE.—The steamers Nordcap and Redcap arrived in port yesterday to await a change in ice conditions north. Both ships are bound for the northward to load pit props for England but could not reach their destinations because of the blockade.

FISHERY GOOD AT ARGENTINA.—From passengery who arrived in the city by Saturday nights train we learn that since the caplin struck the land codfish have been very plentiful at Argentina. Single-handed dories have secured from 20 to 55 quintals for two weeks fishing, and the prospects for a good voyage are most encouraging.

Clergymen Visit Stob's Camp.

Rev. Henry Johnson, brother of Mr. Justice Johnson, and one time a priest in the Newfoundland diocese, who is a devoted loyalist as well as a true Newfoundlanders, writing to a clerical friend here from Vicarage, Field Dalling, Holt, Norfolk, says:—"I am enclosing a letter which I received a few days ago from the Rector of Hawick, which speaks for itself, and I think the testimony which it bears to the quality of our Newfoundlanders so encouraging that I thought it might find a place in your papers. I was delighted with my visit to Stob's Camp, and had a hearty welcome from our boys. It was splendid seeing so many familiar faces once more. Though I may not actually have seen many of the boys, yet I could see their likeness to their parents; of course, many of them remembered me, and many of them were the children of old parishioners and friends, and it was this that prompted me to write and comment them to the Rector of Hawick. I was very sorry that my time was so short. You will be glad to hear that they all looked very well, and all seemed very happy. "I spent the morning watching them being drilled, and certainly they did splendidly. I wish I were near enough to pay them more frequent visits. "When I arrived in Edinburgh, I was at first disappointed to find that I could not see them; however, we soon looked up trains, and were on our way to Stob's, where we heard they were encamped. We stopped off at Peebles to pay a visit to Jens Jensen, who is in Lady Erskine's Convalescent Home. We were glad to find him on the mend and in very comfortable quarters. "On our way to Stob's, some Highlanders got into our carriage, so we asked them the way to the Newfoundland Camp. They were glad to help us, and you will be glad to know that they spoke very highly of our boys, and remarked what a fine set of fellows they are. This was very gratifying. It took us pretty well all day to get there, as the trains did not fit in well, and we got to the Camp about six o'clock. Just in time to watch a boxing match going on. Others were playing football, etc., as it was then 'off duty' time. As I had been travelling since five o'clock the night before, I was not sorry when it was dinner time, which I enjoyed in the Mess Tent, and after that, I hunted up some of the boys—Ted Caldwell, Corbett Pittman, Dick Sheppard, W. Ollerhead, etc., etc."

The Rev. Mr. Hay, Rector of Hawick, writes:—

The Rectory, Hawick, May 25, 1915.

Dear Brother,

Thanks for your letter re the N. F. men at Stob's Camp. I have seen them nearly all (i.e., those mentioned by you) and will do my best for them. They are a splendid set of men, and I feel it a great privilege to officiate at their services.

With good wishes,

Yours faithfully,

(Sgd.) A. J. HAY.

St. Joseph's Parish

Eracts Arch in Honour of Archbishop.

The male parishioners of St. Joseph's Church, Holytown, held a special meeting yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Kitchin, P. P., who was present, stated the object of the meeting was convened for, which was to consider the building of an arch in that location of the town in honor of the new Archbishop.

It was unanimously agreed that an arch, of design similar to that of St. John the Baptist, be erected off Fort William, near the East End Fire Hall, and that all the expenses in connection therewith would be voluntarily defrayed by the parishioners themselves. Building, decorating and illuminating committees were then appointed.

The work of erecting the arch began this morning and the construction work is now in an advanced stage. The arch is being rushed to completion, which is expected to be Wednesday evening. When finished it will, no doubt, be a credit to St. Joseph's Parish.

St. John's Lady Wins Honours.

At the annual closing exercises of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Spring Garden Road, Halifax, on Wednesday last, Miss Rose Sinnott, daughter of Mr. Edward Sinnott, this city, was awarded the highest honours of the school, having completed her academic class. His Grace Archbishop McCarthy presided and presented to the clergy of the city of Halifax and the diocese, and also the immediate relatives of the graduates, Miss Rose Sinnott, this city, and Miss Josephine Kellagher, of Boston. Miss Sinnott has finished her three years' academic course with special distinction and has been awarded a gold medal, which she will receive on the date of graduation. She has also been awarded a special prize for exemplary conduct in the boarding school. During the course of her studies at the Academy, Miss Sinnott has won several other prizes and distinctions which are included in the curriculum of this noted seat of learning and to the young graduate and her parents the Telegram extends congratulations.

AFTER ALL.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Well, anyhow, it can't kill you." That remark, which one frequently hears uttered as a comfort for the harassments of the mind or ill of existence, is an illustration of one of the greatest paradoxes in the world.

In this hemisphere we are in the main a Christian people. We profess to believe in after life, most of us in a happy one. We have some friends on this side of the border and some on the other side. The hearth without the vacant chair is almost unknown. Many of us have more waiting on the other side than are still with us.

And yet the average person thinks of death as the worst calamity that can befall anyone. When he speaks of anyone who dies young he always says, "Poor So-and-So!" His ultimate measure of courage is the facing of death. After an accident he puts the dead in twenty-four point type, and those who have merely got to go on living minus their sight or their limbs in twelve point.

Something We Don't Really Believe. Most of us can't really believe we are ever going to die, that is with the part of us that senses things. We know it as an abstract fact. Only now and then does something bring it home to us as a concrete reality, and when it does how we shrink from the un-welcome thought.

My mother's father was a Methodist minister. He was a very good man; he lived up to his lights and he could scarcely have had any doubts that he was going to that Heaven in which he sincerely believed. And yet he was in no hurry to get there. He used to quote as his sentiments what the old lady said about death: "Life is all a fleeting show—but I'd like to stay and see the show a little longer." And when at the age of seventy he lay ill he did not want to die, and said so frankly and emphatically.

Isn't it Strange We're Not More Curious?

I often wonder that we do not have a greater curiosity about death. Of course we do wonder and puzzle and guess, but is it not strange that people do not often take up the gauge flung down by this baffling mystery and cross the border simply to find out? Did you ever stop to think that the fool who died yesterday must know more about life and death and the issue thereof than the wisest living savant in all the world, though we have studied and read and thought about these matters through a long, long life?

Won't It Be Almost a Joke? Suppose we find that this next existence is for all of us the fulfilment of our best desires, a thoroughly happy life in the biggest, finest sense of happiness we can conceive, or even bigger and finer than we can possibly conceive. Suppose we find there is no great suffering in the passing. Suppose we find that we shall keep that which I think we most want and most fear losing—our senses of our own identity—won't it be rather a joke on us after all?

I wish more of us could look at death as Charles Frohman did. Doubtless you remember that as he stood on the deck of the "Lusitania" taking off his lifebelt to give to a woman (he could not swim a stroke) he uttered one of the finest bits of philosophy

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER'S COLLEGE, ANTOGNISH.

The New Dormitory. Generous Gift of Two Thousand Dollars.

The magnificent new Dormitory of St. Francis Xavier's College is now in course of rapid construction and will be completed in September of the present year. It will be equipped in a thoroughly modern manner, up-to-date in all its appointments and one of the finest buildings of its kind in Canada. The building is of brick and stone, 119 feet long by 42 feet wide, four stories (exclusive of basement), with several rooms containing fire-places and private baths on each floor. In the basement there will be bowling alleys, billiard and pool tables, gymnasium, toilet and bath rooms, shower baths, etc. In all there will be sixty-five private rooms, well lighted and ventilated, and furnished in a first class manner. The building will be thoroughly heated with the most modern system of hot water heating. This building, the third of a series of splendid gifts received by the University within the last five years, will be known as Mocker Hall.

The plans and specifications were prepared under the supervision of Neil McNeil, Esq., the well known builder and head of the firm of McNeil Brothers of Boston, Mass., and the construction is being carried on under his supervision.

ASK FOR MINARD'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

Neil Brothers of Boston, Mass., and the construction is being carried on under his supervision.

St. Francis Xavier's has just received also a handsome gift in the form of a cheque for two thousand dollars. The donor, whose modesty equals his generosity, will not permit the mention of his name. It may be said, however, that he never saw Antigonish and knows the college by reputation only.

The magnificent generosity of friends living hundreds and even thousands of miles away must surely prove an incentive and an inspiration to the Catholic people of this Diocese to do their share in making St. Francis Xavier's a great seat of learning, a destiny which is now well in sight, and which can be easily realized if we all do our duty.—From The Casket, June 17th, 1915.

THE FIGHTING NATIONS.

"Another nation takes up arms," and trades its peace for war's alarms, and all of war's atrocity; why do all countries wish to scrap and thus incarnadine the map? They have of sense a paucity. The latest comer to the fray is welcomed with a "Hip, hooray! Come on! The more the merrier! The foe has blood that should be spilled, and hosts of men who should be killed, so dig in like a terrier!" The farmer leaves his fields of grain, the smith, his anvil and safe, the smith becomes a warrior, from every trade and helpful art, for crimson fields the men depart—alas, the more the sorrier. What ails the nations of the earth, that they forsake all things of worth, and think they will be happier, when wading to the knees in gore, and piling dead on every shore, each moment growing scrapper? Is madness epidemic now, that every king will trade his plow for something he can slaughter with, that where the harvests used to grow, red Death is stalking to and fro, pale Famine, his dread daughter, with? If I were king I would sit tight; I'd surely be "too proud to fight," though called an also ran again; if I had rude, ramblin' notions, I think I'd let them pull my nose, before I'd start shenanigans.

Private George Barrie, Thirtieth Royal Highlanders, who was wounded, but expects to rejoin immediately, says he was one who helped to take down the body of the Canadian who had been crucified by the Germans in the fighting round Ypres. The victim, says Barrie, was a sergeant of the medical service, and about 24 years of age. From letters on him, he appeared to be from Brantford, Ontario. He was found with one Ross rifle bayonet through the left shoulder, also a Lee-Enfield bayonet through the right, two German bayonets through the legs and directly through the lower parts of the body. The maltreaters were the Second Prussian Guards.

Died at Duty's Post.

The accompanying has been received from Lord Kitchener by Mrs. C. Piercey, whose son Albert, reported wounded recently, died since in France.

"The King commands me to assure you of the true sympathy of His Majesty and the Queen in your sorrow."
"KITCHENER."
A further letter is as follows:
Cavalry Record Office,
York Station, 3.6.15.

Madams,—It is my painful duty to inform you that a report has this day been received from the War Office, notifying the death of Private Albert Pearcey, 15th Hussars, which occurred at 13 General Hospital, Boulogne, on June 1st, and I am to express the sympathy and regret of the Army Council at your loss. The cause of death was wounds received in action.

Your obedient servant,
R. H. HUTCHINSON,
Officer in charge of Records.
The deceased soldier belonged to the 15th King's Hussars, was a son of the late Isaac M. Pearcey, and a former member of the Methodist Guards. To the sorrowing mother, whose son has paid the supreme penalty, there is widespread sympathy.

Gower St. Church.

The morning service at this Church yesterday, was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Fenwick and Rev. Mr. Hemmen, the preacher being the Rev. James Pincock, who took for his theme Methodist Doctrine and Polity. In the afternoon a joint service for the Gower and Cochrane St. Sunday Schools was held, and the speakers were the Rev. F. R. Matthews, President of the Conference, and Rev. E. Moore, of Westville. In the evening the service was a memorable one. In the Rostrum were the Rev. Drs. Bond and Curtis, former Pastors, Rev. B. Hemmen, the present Pastor, and Rev. T. B. Darby, who was the speaker of the evening. The service, besides being commemorative of the centenary of Methodism, was also patriotic. The sermon by the Rev. T. B. Darby, was instructive and interesting and was delivered in eloquent language. To-night at 8 o'clock a united service will be held at Gower St. Church under the Presidency of Rev. F. R. Matthews, and will be held by Rev. Dr. Bond will deliver an oration on the Centenary of City Methodism. A brass mural tablet will be unveiled by His Excellency the Governor, and special music has been arranged by the choir.

Centenary Services.

The Victoria Hall was taxed to its utmost capacity at the Centenary services held by the Cochrane Street congregation yesterday. The preacher at the morning service was the Rev. Edwin Moore, of Westville, and that of the evening, being the Rev. F. R. Matthews, B.A., President of Conference. Both sermons ably dealt with the growth of Methodism and its doctrines and were much appreciated by the congregation. The Pastor, the Rev. C. A. Whittemarsh, took the opening exercises at both services. The Gower and Cochrane St. Sunday Schools united at the afternoon service. The chair was occupied by the Hon. H. J. B. Woods, the speakers being Revs. Matthews and Moore.

The King of Italy Salutes Heroic Wounded Colonel

Rome, June 14.—Details now to hand show that the deed for which Colonel Rossi, of the 12th Bersaglieri, was visited by the hospital on Saturday by the King and decorated with the silver medal for valor, was no ordinary one.

He led his attacking column across the Isonzo against the Austrian position. At the critical moment, when three parts of a pontoon bridge had been shot away, the Austrians hurled a strong force against the Italians in an attempt to hurl them into the river. Rossi and his regiment found themselves with a raging torrent in the rear and a superior force of the enemy confronting them.

"Forward, for glory and Italy!" cried Rossi, and the trapped soldiers responded nobly. They flung themselves upon the Austrian infantry, holding a bridge head, and broke through. Then they stormed the enemy's artillery position on the heights commanding the river.

Fell at Head of Men. At the moment of victory Rossi fell wounded at the head of his men. "Never mind me, children," he cried, as he fell on his face with a bullet in his breast. "Forward, forward, for the sake of Italy!"

Forward went the soldiers, their ranks sadly thinned, and only halted in their charge when the Italian flag had been hoisted on the summit of the Austrian position.

In the hospital King Victor Emmanuel was moved to tears as he beheld the wounded officer.

"Your Majesty," said Rossi feebly, "I am not worthy of such honor."

"Brave son of Italy, I salute you," responded the King, as he pinned the decoration on the colonel's breast and notified him of his promotion to the rank of Brigadier-General.

Trades Unionists Against Peace-at-Any Price Policy.

Atlantic City, N.J., June 15.—The heads of International Trade Unions with half a million members, comprising the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, voted decisively at their closing session here to-day against a peace at any price protest to President Wilson. After debating for more than an hour, an appeal by Representative Frank Buchanan, that the building trades be enlisted in a nation wide movement to influence the course of the White House administration against any possibility of war with Germany, leaders finally refused. In a curt statement council officials explained that they regarded it as a patriotic duty to stand back of the President and avoid any action tending to embarrass his conduct of a great national issue. Congressman Buchanan said he had been friendly to German influences in the West.

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

FOR THE NURSERY.

"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be the adage of every housewife. This should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household. Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or Circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in lady's chamber," without any labour at all—independently of the state of the kitchen fire.

The cost is reasonable.

FOR THE BATHROOM.

An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.

Hot water can only be secured usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost! Think of the coal that is wasted—the fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather!

A Gas Water-Heater is economical because it only heats the water actually required, and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no fires to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.

The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

When "Spring cleaning days" engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force.

But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irresistible appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Later-day domestics are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toil of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.

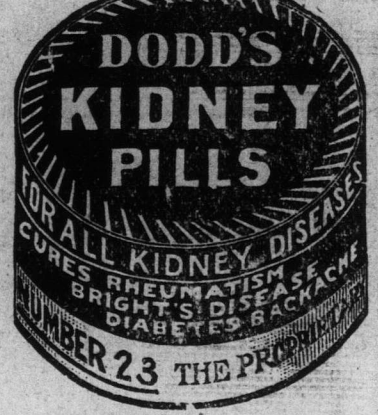

The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous.—may12,15

Chased Germans 48,000 Miles.

When Admiral von Spee ran into destruction off the Falkland Islands he was generally believed to have found the Pacific too hot for him and was seeking safety in the Atlantic. It now appears that he was in wholesome dread of the Australia, the Commonwealth super-dreadnought and flagship.

Altogether the Australia travelled 48,000 miles in the chase of the German ships, burning 6,000 tons of coal and 5,000 tons of oil.

Apparently von Spee knew that the Australia was after him, and realized that the Gneissau and Scharnhorst was no match for her.

"I'll fight anything but the Australia," he declared just before he left Rabaul. And he kept his word.

The chase proceeded from Rabaul to Samoa, then to Fiji and back to Rabaul, when the formal annexation took place; then to Fanning Islands, where the cable station was blown up. From the island the German vessels steamed towards the Mexican coast and farther west until Mexican cruisers were picked up, but nothing of the German ships could be discerned.

Those on the Australia would sometimes learn from islanders of two spy ships which crept to the harbor for provisions at night and left hurriedly before dawn.

The operator on the Australia once caught a German wireless message apparently from the Scharnhorst.

"Who are you?" the German demanded in his arrogance.

"Oh, we are all right," the operator replied.

"You'll have to soon learn German," was the Scharnhorst's next message, to which the retort was: "Yes, and perhaps you'll have to learn Japanese."

The men slept at the guns, and at night with all lights out the great battle cruiser stole silently along in the darkness.

When the Australia joined British vessels off the coast of Chili she participated in the chase of the west coast of America until the German squadron was driven into the guns of Admiral Sturdee's ships off the Falkland Islands.

Treating With Liquor

MAY MEAN SIX MONTHS JAIL.

London, June 14.—The Gazette has issued the text of the Order in Council creating and defining the powers of the Central Control of Liquor Traffic Board to consist of a chairman and such other persons as the Minister of Munitions may appoint to control the sale and the supply of intoxicating liquors within prescribed areas. Wide powers are given to the Board to regulate the hours of sale of liquor and otherwise to accomplish its ends.

The Liquor Board also is empowered to prevent the practice of treating in the case of persons who are violating orders to this effect may be prosecuted under the Defence of the Realm Act and will be liable to imprisonment for six months or a fine of $500.

A novel provision is that the Board may take over saloons in areas wherein munitions war are manufactured, or without licenses dispense liquor under its supervision in factories engaged in Government work under this plan intoxicating beverages in moderate amounts would be assured to the workers.

Clever German Girl Spy

Arrested at Toronto for Giving Information as to Movement of the Troops from Canada—Makes no Secret of her Occupation and Denied the Police.

Toronto, June 12.—Nineteen-year-old Louisa Marksfeldt, as she calls herself, who appeared in the women's court yesterday on a vagrancy charge, turns out to be one of the cleverest German spies on the continent. Her arrest was accomplished two weeks ago Wednesday night by detective Maurer, just as she was about to board a train at Union station.

Two months ago the British Government advised the Canadian military authorities that valuable information concerning Canadian troop transports was leaking out to the German Government, and requested immediate investigation. Since that time the Dominion Secret Service Police, and the military authorities and detective staffs of every city in Canada, have been specially on the lookout for members of the German spy organization.

Louise Marksfeldt is not her right name. When questioned in the detective office two weeks ago, she frankly admitted this, and smilingly defied them to find out who she really is.

She boasted of having assisted dozens of Germans to get over to the States, and from there return to the German army. She speaks English as well as she does German.

Two years ago she came to the United States, and spent a year in touring that country. Her time there was spent exclusively in seeking military information, and she claims to have despatched sketches of American naval fortifications.

"My government anticipates everything, and leaves nothing to chance," she said.

Germany knows more of the secrets of rival nations than those nations can ever hope to know of Germany's.

It would startle America to know just how much information my country has concerning their supposedly secret affairs.

On warm the girl named almost every point in Ontario where shells were being manufactured, and displayed amazing technical knowledge regarding war equipment.

It has not been decided whether she will be tried as a spy or simply interned.

LINEN SUITS.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swash."

About this time of the year brave men who are too cowardly to face the warm weather put on linen suits.

A linen suit is made of cotton, crash, jutem, papier mache and other harmless but nourishing substances and weighs about two pounds.

When a man first puts on a linen suit he puts a barrel over it when he walks on the street until he gets used to the sensation of having nothing on but his shoes.

This is why it takes bravery to inhabit one of these suits for the first time. After that it only takes common sense.

Linen suits are not impressive in design and after being worn a few times they fold themselves lovingly about their owner and make him look like wilted lettuce. But they are more comfortable than anything but the old swimming hole.

Many a man who has transported ten pounds of dark and noxious clothing through June and has fled to the mountains for the rest of the summer for the last twenty years has put on a linen suit with a fear and trembling and has afterward mowed his own lawn in July.

Linen suits of a pale ice-cream complexion have flourished in all the hot countries of the world for many decades, but the proud and conservative North is just beginning to experiment with them cautiously. Somehow suspenders and bullet-proof coats have always been regarded as a religious exercise north of the Ohio river. This is why so many employees burst into fragments during July and tell perfectly good employers to jump off into space. Nothing melts down and deteriorates the disposition so much as a thick coat in the temperate zone while said temperate zone is indulging in a spree.

The linen suit, the palm-leaf fan, the straw hat and the ice-cream soda should work hand in hand during the dog days to preserve mankind in an unsoured condition. But we should not put too much faith in the said linen suit. When it costs less than $6 it is full of quaint, amusing tricks. There are no boa constrictors in the temperate zone, but more than one man has worn a cheap linen suit through a thunder shower and has been choked to death by it before help could arrive with a can opener.

Items of Interest.

Baron Sonnino, Italian Foreign Minister, on June 14th, addressed a note to neutral Powers, re-affirming Italy's right to declare a blockade of the Adriatic.

A mysterious fire, recently, caused $70,000 damage to the Regent's Canal Dock, of London. The blaze burned for ten hours, and the authorities allege it was of incendiary origin.

The French have been making reprisals over the Germans for their use of poisonous gas and burning liquids, the first effort being the mauling of the German trenches at Yvaucouls in the Argonne with burning liquid.

Six persons were killed and twenty-five injured at Warsaw on June 2nd by a bomb dropped from a German aeroplane upon a moving-picture theatre. Most of the victims, as usual, were women and children.

SWIFT PUNISHMENT FOR CENSOR CRITIC.

Paris, June 11.—The Guerre Social, which published the attack on the censor by Gustave Herve, has been seized by the government.

In his criticism, Herve protesting against the policy of concealing the losses in the war, M. Herve said: "Frankness would obviate the dangerous illusions of an early peace. The likeliest result of the present policy will be that the nation will cease to trust the official communiques. It will be a fine achievement for the government to kill the public confidence."

Fads and Fashions.

White silk embroidered tussor coats are pretty worn with white tulle dresses.

In one of the great fashion shows recently, bride and bridesmaids were all in organdy.

If you have a row of buttons down the front, your street dress is true in fashion.

The flowered linings of blue serge coats are turned out to form collars and cuffs.

The prettiest new shirtwaists are of crepey material with tiny apple blossom trimming.

Black net over white mousseline de soie is a pretty combination for an afternoon gown.

Taffeta, taffeta everywhere, but soft taffeta; it has the silk dress vogue all most to itself.

Even red fox neckpieces are occasionally seen, but the white are naturally the favorites.

Black and white checks—and pronounced ones at that—are the favorites for travelling coats.

Not draped over pale-tinted taffeta is among the very prettiest combinations for dressy gowns.

The Panama hat answers so many purposes that there should be one in every woman's outfit.

With so much ornamentation on the tops of shoes, the toes surrender their share; nearly all are plain.

Dainty little pearl (imitation) necklaces are very well liked for low-necked wear for the mountains and seashore.

The challis dresses that are made for little girls are excellent for travelling, as they do not muss or soil so easily as cotton frocks.

Of course, there is a strong military vogue, and that means buckles almost anywhere you choose to wear them—and lots of buttons.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $931,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.
