A Clear, Beautiful Skin

There are millions of tiny openings or pores in the skin and these must be kept open and clean if the beauty of the skin is to be maintained.

Because it cleanses these pores and encourages the healthful action of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment is most effective as a skin beautifier. Roughness, redness, pimples and all sorts of skin blemishes disappear by its use, and the skin is left clear, smooth and velvety.

At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit

STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XXXVII.

"My mother speaks as she feels—strongly," he said, aloud.

"Your mother speaks truly, though it seems cruel to trample on a fallen foe," Lola answered. Then she turned with a gesture of appeal to Gertrude. "Child," she said, "let the whole world rave against me; I deserve it. Let them say what they will; let them insult, sneer, scoff at me; but do not you. I could not bear it from you. Let others punish me for my sin if they will, but you will be kind to me as your father was and would have been. Will you promise me this?"

Gertrude was sorely divided in heart. With the memory of her father's death and her mother's lifelong suffering, how could she promise? Yet the miserable woman who appealed to her had had but one dream in life, and that was love for her own father. For his sake she must befriend her.

She bent gently over the worn face. "I will never hurt you by one word," she said. "Now you will know me where my father lies?"

"Yes; you—no one but you, Gertrude; you and I will go together at once and alone."

Harry looked up in alarm. Was it safe to trust a slender girl to the hands of such a woman? But the clear eyes looked at him undaunted.

"I have no fear, Harry," she said; "Miss de Ferras and I will go and return quickly together. In the meantime will you send a telegram to my mother at the Villa Baira, Florence? Say just this—'The mystery is solved. Come at once.'"

"I will do just what you wish," replied Lord Fielden, "but, for Heaven's sake, do take care of yourself Gertrude!"

Lola turned to him with a crowd, dispassionate rest.

"You trapped me," she said; "you made me a prisoner; but I will not submit to anything you choose to impose on me. I will not look on the face of the woman I have hated and wronged."

"I will not ask you to do so," he replied. "You shall do as you will."

"My dear," said Lady Fielden to Gertrude, when the latter joined her a few minutes later. "I will go home. Your own heart will dictate best what is to be done with that wretched creature. When I think of the misery she has brought on your mother's fair head, I—well, I forget that I am a Christian. Do as you will with her; but do not let my old eyes rest on her face again."

Meanwhile Lord Fielden hastened to Deeping to send the telegram to Florence. Dolores would receive it that day, and in forty hours after she would be at Fielden Manor.

Never did Gertrude forget that walk to the lonely corner of the wood where the Black Pool lay open to the sky. If her nerves had been less strong she would have died of fright, for the beautiful woman by her side was like one distraught. Her dark eyes blazed with a strange fire, her face quivered with emotion.

"Look!" she cried, "You see that tree? You see that bank? He sat down there, and rested. He leaned over that white gate. You see that mass of wild clematis? He gathered some that was growing then. Oh, Heaven, if I could but see him for one moment as I saw him then! He came from his home well, strong, healthy, handsome, with his kindly, blue eyes so bright and clear; he never went back; and I—alone have had the weight of the most intolerable secret that woman ever bore."

So through the coppice, where the birds were singing through the woodlands and the narrow paths, lamenting, wailing, mourning, with low bitter cries, with passionate prayers, Lola walked on, with Gertrude by her side.

It was a lovely morning, the sky was cloudless, the air clear and balmy, the sun warm, all nature bright and beautiful; but it was lost on the crazed, weeping woman.

"I loved him better than all the world," she wailed, "and I am going to see his grave! Oh, Gertrude, how many years has he been lying there!"

They passed from the golden sunlight into the cold, cheerless corner of the wood where the Black Pool lay.

When Lola saw it again, with the familiar trees and roads which grew on its margin, she gave a great cry and sunk upon her knees. Her face grew deadly pale, and she grasped Gertrude's hand convulsively.

"I am afraid," she cried—"I am afraid! Oh, Gertrude, help me!"

The brave-hearted girl knelt by her side; her heart went out to the stricken woman.

"Miss de Ferras," she whispered gently, "try to rouse yourself for my father's sake. Without you we cannot give him Christian burial. Do not fall us at the last."

And, for his sake whom she loved so madly and so well, she did rouse herself, and with a desperate effort went on toward the fatal spot. The wind murmured through the trees, and stirred gently the dark waters of the pool. It was a lonely, cheerless spot. Gertrude shuddered as they drew nearer. A group of tall poplars stood on one side, and to the right, just where one stepped from the path, as Sir Karl had done, lay the mouth of the treacherous pit.

It looked like a square patch of solid ground, different from that around it by being somewhat elevated. No one could possibly guess that under the tangled mass of dry wood, grass, and leaves lay a depth of darkness of which it was even terrible to think.

Silently and with swift steps Lola went up to the shaft, and then stood shuddering, with an expression of despair on her face. After a pause she turned to Gertrude and laid her hand on hers.

"He lies there," she said, "where he has lain silent and still all these years. Do you see where the wood is broken—where that black gap is? That is where he fell so many years ago. Come with me."

They went together to the very edge; Lola drew aside some of the tangled creepers.

"Look," she cried in a loud voice—"look, Gertrude. This is your father's grave."

"Forgive me," she sobbed, and her burning tears fell upon Gertrude's hands—"forgive me! I have blighted your father's fair name and shadowed the spring-tide of your life. I have been cruel to him whom I loved and cruel to you. Will you forgive me? Ah, Gertrude, I am the most forlorn, the most miserable creature on the face of the earth—none so wretched! I am going out to utter desolation and misery. On earth I have no comfort, in Heaven no hope. Let me take with me the memory of a few, kind words."

Did ever woman weep so bitterly, so hopelessly? Gertrude could not help it. She threw her arms round the trembling figure, and, stooping, kissed the tear-stained and worn, yet beautiful face.

"Tell me," she said, "where are you going and what you mean to do with your life?"

"I hope to spend if repenting of my sin," she said. "Never mind my life, Gertrude. It ends here, my dear, by the side of this grave, when I leave you. Perhaps I shall not go far away. I should like sometimes to kiss the ground on which your shadow falls. Oh, Gertrude, if he had only loved me! Good-bye, my dearest, once again. Just look at the once more with your father's eyes; once more kiss me, wicked and worthless as I am; speak to me once more with your father's voice. Oh, Karl, Karl, how I loved you!"

Gertrude did what she asked her. She kissed the quivering lips and tried to soothe the terrible grief that seemed beyond all human remedy. Then she said slowly—

"I think what you say is best. It will be well for you to leave me now. Good-bye. I wish, before you go—for we shall never meet again—that you would say one kind word to my dear mother."

"I cannot," Lola replied, with a shudder—"I cannot. You, Sir Karl's daughter, have my blessing, my love, for Dolores, who took my love from me. I have no good wish. Good-bye. If the gates of Heaven are ever opened to me, I pray that I may meet you there."

She was gone, even as the last words sounded, leaving Gertrude alone by her father's resting-place. When, later on, she returned to the Manor House, every one was relieved to find that Miss de Ferras had disappeared.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."

—Mrs. J. R. McMAHON, 123 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the most common causes such as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This medicine works again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cohasset, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

Steady Ring Work Helps Gibbons In Amassing Fortune

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7. (A.P.)—Pugilistic prestige and big purses are at last coming to Tommy Gibbons, at a time when St. Paul heavyweight is long past the age when most fighters are in their prime.

Fighting gamely up the long, hard hill to ring fame, Gibbons achieved a formidable summit when he stayed 15 gruelling rounds with Jack Dempsey in Montana a year ago. That "moral victory," after nearly 17 years of ring experience, opened the way to the largest purses the St. Paul fighter has ever received.

There was no direct remuneration for Gibbons in his fight with Dempsey, but now at the age of 33 he is "cashing in" on the showing he made and apparently is at the zenith of his ring career.

For his fight with Georges Carpentier at Michigan City, last May, he received his largest purse, $62,000. Previously, his top had been $12,500 for a match with Harry Greb. He received $50,000 for his fight with Jack Bloomfield, the English heavyweight, in London.

It has been no cushioned road for Tommy, however, for under the expert eye of his older brother Mike Gibbons, he has followed a rigorous rule of living, full of self-denial.

There is none of the "bar room" fighter in Tommy's make-up. He has carried the gentlemanly bearing of his private life into the ring, and finds in his home life his greatest delight. Most of his time, aside from fight engagements, is devoted to his wife and five children, all boys. The youngest are twins, born only a few weeks ago. His oldest is eight.

By nature Tommy is modest and very little in the limelight that would gladly welcome him, even in his home town. Back in the days when Brother Mike's ring prowess gained him the name of "Phantom," Tommy saw the opportunities for a much more remunerative occupation than as an employee in the railroad shops here. Then began the long, slow climb to ring prominence.

"Clean living and right thinking," Tommy once said, "can do more to keep a fellow in condition than the hardest training interrupted by occasional lapses into dissipation."

In recent years Tommy has established an enviable ring record, including a long list of knockouts.

You can have the new fashionably smooth arrangement for the fluffiest hair

THE newest hair arrangements—whether for long or for bobbed hair—are severely smooth. The hair may be waved, but it must follow closely the outline of the head. The difficulties of giving this fashionably smooth appearance to unruly hair are easily overcome with Stacomb.

—and your hair will lie just the way you want it. And it will have a lovelier gloss, too. You can get Stacomb at all drug and department stores—in jars or in tubes.

Just a touch of this delicate cream.

Pleated tunics in tiered-effect are good.
Frocks fit snugly about the hips, and any indication of a waist-line remains low.

Even after his 15-round contest with Champlon Dempsey there still stood his record of having never been knocked down in a ring engagement. At one time, starting in 1921, he ran his string of consecutive knockouts to twenty.

There has been no talk from Tommy of retiring from the ring. He wants another match with Dempsey, and expects to keep after it until he lands it. But when retirement comes, unless he suffers unforeseen business reverses before then, Tommy probably will be able to retire to a life of comparative ease, for he has made income-yielding investments with his winnings.

His brother Mike also has investments in city and other property which have "fixed him for life." Tommy, however, has turned to stocks and bonds, so that coupon clipping is his principal business occupation outside ring activities.

Stud Sheep Bring High Prices

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 3 (A.P.)—The high prices for wool produced increased prices for stud sheep at the recent sales in Sydney. Two Bomanas rams brought $8,400 and $5,250, respectively, while a well-known buyer paid $16,010 for a ram from the famous Wanganella stud.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—Likening fats to three tons of dynamite, joined together at one end by a molecule of glycerine, Prof. W. R. International Conference May End on Thursday

The Prince of Wales Will Formally Meet the President—Direct Montreal-London Cable Service Opens on Friday—45,000,000 lbs Gunpowder Consumed in a Fire.

REPARATIONS AGREEMENT REACHED.
LONDON, Aug. 11. Allied German experts attached to the International Reparation Conference have reached a full agreement on the Dawes programme. It was announced this afternoon. They remained in session until three o'clock this morning to arrive at an understanding on reparations payments in kind as which the Germans held out until the results of Premier Herriot's Paris mission became known. The French Premier's return with his cabinet's approval of his Ruhr evacuation policy in his pocket, put new life and hope into the negotiations, and British observers believe the Conference will end by Thursday.

PRINCE TO MEET PRESIDENT.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. One of the highest compliments in diplomatic usages, a strictly private luncheon with the executive family, is planned for the Prince of Wales upon his arrival in the United States for the International Polo Matches next month at Meadowbrook, says the Washington Post to-day, adding that it understands the Royal visitor will reach New York August 30, on the Benicazaria. The Prince's call at the White House was decided upon, the Post relates, after King George had vetoed a proposal that he come to the United States incognito as Lord Renfrew. The King held that international courtesy required use of the Prince's highest title on a visit to the United States even though it might only be a pleasure trip, and this necessitated arrangements for him to pay his respects formally to the President.

A HUGE EXPLOSION.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 11. Power machinery and buildings valued at $28,000,000, wartime prices, and at more than $2,000,000 at present valuation, were destroyed by fire that swept clean a forty acre tract in the heart of the old Hickory Power Plant at Jacksonville, Tenn., near here, yesterday morning. Approximately 45,000,000 pounds of gun powder, owned by the United States Government, as a reserve, were consumed in the flames. There were no dangerous explosions and no one was thought to have been injured. The fire is said to be the greatest single loss the United States Government has sustained since the war.

DIRECT MONTREAL-LONDON CABLE.
MONTREAL, Aug. 11. After several months of negotiations it is announced by the Canadian National Telegraphs, that arrangements have been completed for the opening of a direct cable service between Montreal and London. The service will go into effect next Friday morning, August 15th.

BOSTON II AIRPLANE AT EASTPORT.
EASTPORT, Maine, Aug. 11. The airplane Boston II, forced to turn back by fog and rain squalls, to seek shelter here yesterday on her flight from Virginia to Pictou, as a relief plane for Lieut. Leigh C. Wade, will remain here. To-day (today) and other work was being done on the smooth beach at Broad Cove, where she found a safe berth. Slight damage to a pontoon, causing it to leak, was repaired. The plane probably will resume to-morrow, as the fog was clearing to-day, and the weather forecast indicated favorable conditions.

Record Baby Show at Bannerman Park

Yesterday afternoon another very successful baby show was held under the direction of the Playground Director, under the auspices of the Rotary Club assisted by the Child Welfare Association. Little babies and big babies, fat and thin, happy and unhappy, some with teeth and some without, some who could walk and some who could not, were all there, and they were all between one and two years old. When one stops to consider, it is a wonderful sight to see so many little babies together and to think that in a few years they will be the boys and girls using the playgrounds of the city and later they will be our "leading citizens." It makes us realize that we cannot do too much for the babies and the children for they are the ones who are going to decide what the future of Newfoundland will be.

Lady Allardye again consented to bestow the prizes and the prize ribbons to the winners. She was assisted in this by Mrs. Leonard Outbridge and Mrs. Hunter Slater of the Child Welfare Association. His Worship, the Honorable Tasker Cook was present also President Morris of the Rotary Club, and Dr. V. P. Burke and Mr. T. V. Hartnett of the Boys' Work Committee.

Great credit must be given to the Community Nurses, especially Miss Janet Anderson, for the efficient way they gathered the statistics regarding the babies for the final judgment of the doctors. The judges were Dr. A. C. Tait, Dr. John Grieve and Miss Janet Anderson. Mrs. Davis, the Playground Instructor at Victoria Park, should also be commended for her efficiency in getting the prize winners in line to receive their prizes.

The prize winners were as follows: First group, babies 12, 13 and 14 months old, tied for first, Mary Armstrong, John Barrett and Flora Benson; Second prize, Bernice Kelly and Joseph Gear; Third prize, Leonard Barron. Second group, babies 15, 16, and 17 months old, first Ruth Rendell and Clarence Godden. Second, Ruby Hollahan and Millicent Moore; and for third, Eugene O'Brien, James Hatch, Robert Chaplin, Jerome Cleary, and Phyllis Snelgrove all got the same number of points. A special prize for twins was given in this group to John and David Puddicombe. The winners of the third group, babies 18, 19 and 20 months old were, first, Joyce Smallwood, and Thomas Redmond; second, Francis Park, Jean Parsons and Stella Rowsell; third, Paddy Breen, Jim Fuller, Jack Martin, Jack Noseworthy, Loretta Pittman, Minty Hayward, Joyce Cummins and Davis Young. Fourth group, babies 21, 22 and 23 months old, first, Harold Oxley and Bertie Carmichael; second, Arthur McRae, Hugh Baird, and Billie Carey; third, Edward Goff, Miriam Ershler, Gerald Bastow and Iris Kennedy, and honorable mention, Margaret Walsh, John Bush, Roberta Ritcey, Gerald Russell, Gerald Johnson and Noel Wallace.

Others with babies just a little over two years old were disappointed that their babies could not be in the show, but even a baby show must have some limits and more entries could not have been handled in one afternoon.

Sweden Seeks to Retain Her Wandering Subjects
STOCKHOLM, July 16 (A.P.)—It will be harder to become a citizen of Sweden, and easier to remain one after the beginning of next year, according to a new law which has just been passed.

The new citizenship regulation requires five years' residence, instead of three, for the naturalization of immigrants. According to the old law a Swedish woman lost her citizenship upon marriage to a man who was not a Swedish citizen. But under the new law such a married woman retains her national allegiance to Sweden until she becomes naturalized under the laws of some other country.

Under the old law Sweden residing abroad for a period of ten years automatically lost their citizenship, even though they had not become naturalized in the country of residence. But under the new law Swedish citizens by birth who have been domiciled in Sweden retains his political status wherever he resides unless he should become naturalized in some other country. Persons whose Swedish citizenship has lapsed under the old law may have it renewed so as to come within the scope of the new law by a simple written application to any Swedish consulate or legation.

For the Housewife's Lunch—BOVRIL

Medical men strongly advise wives and mothers not to forego nourishing midday meals in the absence of their husbands. It is to this foolish habit that many of the diseases so common among women may be attributed. Keep yourself nourished by taking Bovril with the midday meal.

Nfld. Poultry Association
August meeting was held last night in the Board of Trade. Secretary W. D. McCarter read the minutes and reports. Messrs. Chas. H. Hayward of Grand Falls, Dr. Bishop and P. Morrissey of St. John's were elected to membership. The Minister of Agriculture, Hon. W. Walsh, wrote advising that his Department would support the Association in their efforts to carry on the Annual Fall Exhibition. The secretary has prepared a circular for outport prospective members. Judge Landrey wrote the egg laying contest, and will furnish further details re Amherst and Halifax Exhibitions before the Association will decide re wandering birds. The leading pen of birds this year in the Truro Egg laying contest is a pen of White Leghorns owned by John R. McMullen of Truro, whose five hens have laid 786 eggs weighing 1523 ounces since November 1st, last year. The meeting decided to ask Prof. J. P. Landrey if he will come and award the prizes in November. A new rule is in force this year that no birds imported can be shown in competition unless that they have been imported for sixty days before the opening of the Exhibition. Arrangements are in process of negotiation of altering the date of the Show from the fourth week of November to second week of that month if the date will suit the Canadian Judge invited to make the awards.

A Correction
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—In the quarterly report of the Child Welfare Association appearing in your issue of Thursday, August 7th, I find a statement that very little Ante-Natal work is done in the city. This is incorrect as Ante-Natal instruction has been carried on through the Midwifery Service for the past five years. Hence the number of bonny babies we are seeing and will continue to see.
In justice to the members of the Midwives Club who are practicing in the city at the present time will you please give this space in your weekly paper and oblige.

Household Notes.
Do not wring white dress skirts when they come from the rinse water, as the weight of the water will keep the skirt, when hung, from shrinking. Potatoes are excellent when baked, scooped out, mixed with a little grated cheese and butter, and the shells refilled. Brown the tops in the oven.
Broken needles should not be thrown away indiscriminately, as they are dangerous. Keep in the sewing room a small bottle with a bit of cloth over the top, held on with a rubber band. The needles can be dropped in this.

S ASSOCIATION OF FASHION

Founded in 1879 by W. J. Herder. The Evening Telegram, THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LTD., PROPRIETORS. All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals. Tuesday, August 12, 1924.

The Recent Enquiry and What It Suggests

The fair mindedness, the remarkable impartiality and the keen sense of justice shown by Mr. T. Hollis Walker during the investigation of our public affairs won for him the regard and respect of the whole community, and his letter which we published yesterday tends only to strengthen the high opinion in which he is held.

Time and again during the enquiry the Commissioner found himself hedged in by the terms of reference which authorized him to make the investigation. The document specifically stated what he was to investigate, fixed the bounds which marked the limits of his authority and outlined the restrictions which were placed upon it. During the course of the investigation he did not, publicly at any rate, by word or sign intimate that he chafed under the restrictions, but the remark in his letter that "if it had been possible to have extended the original commission" can only be interpreted as a suggestion that such an extension was in his opinion essentially desirable and even essential to the satisfactory completion of his task.

It has been suggested that Mr. Walker, when he learned of the restrictions placed on his powers, should have declined to proceed with the Enquiry, but the suggestion is unfair. He came out at the request of the Government to make an investigation into matters which they had decided were necessary. He received definite instructions as to the manner in which he was to proceed, and there was nothing for him to do but confine himself to the terms laid down.

That the Enquiry was not sufficiently broad, and that its object was in a measure defeated by the restrictions imposed are facts that we only too fully realize to-day. The responsibility, however, does not rest with Commissioner Walker, but with those who saw fit to restrict his jurisdiction. As to the reasons for this procedure, we can only trust that further investigations will reveal them.

We have been taught a lesson and now it is our duty to benefit by it. In the enquiry contemplated, the hedges must be thrown down, every gate unlocked, notices warning off trespassers from secluded areas removed, and a carte blanche authority given to the Commissioner to wander through the thicket and preserves, unmolested and unimpeded, and by whatever paths he cares to choose. If we are really sincere in our desire to have all the dark corners in our public life explored and all irregularities brought to light, we can only hope to succeed by removing all restrictions and relying entirely upon the discretion of the official appointed.

Correspondence tabled in the House in connection with an agreement between the N.P. and P.U. Corporation and the N.P. and P.U. Corporation Ltd., unavailably held over, will appear in tomorrow's issue. The correspondence is the first intimation which the public have received of the negotiations, which are of such a surprising character that they have been held up by the action of the Trade Facilities Committee.

Underhay, Hant's Content, committed on the 9th August inst. The accused was not asked to plead, and was remanded to the Penitentiary until the Crown is ready to proceed.

Spruce Bark Beetles

ATTACKING TREES NEAR WINDSOR LAKE. We have been informed that the spruce bark beetle which has done considerable damage to trees in the Topsail Road vicinity has also made its appearance in the wood near Windsor Lake. A large number of spruce trees on the south side of this body of water have been ravished by the beetles. Should the pest be permitted to spread in this section, and destroy the woods on the water shed it may be a serious matter for the city.

Arrested On a Charge of Burglary

At one o'clock this morning, Head Constable Byrne and police detective Bennett, arrested at a well known lodging place a 27-year-old resident of Hant's Harbor, charging him with a burglary, which took place a few days ago at Hant's Content. The accused arrived here from Harbor Grace by yesterday's train and is only a short while out of the penitentiary where he served a twelve months term for stealing a wallet containing $100 from a passenger going by one of the Red Cross boats. Following this robbery the accused skipped for Grand Falls, where he was subsequently arrested. He appeared before court to-day and was sent down on remand.

New Teacher Appointed for Spencer College.

Miss E. K. Williams, B.Sc. of Liverpool University, with a diploma from Canterbury Training College will be the new mathematical teacher on September sixth, when Spencer College reopens. This lady has been selected by Miss Cherrington, the Principal who is at present in England. Friends of Mrs. Cherrington will regret to hear that she has been ill and her trouble necessitates an operation which was likely to be performed about August eighth, so that Miss Cherrington will be returning by the Digby alone leaving her mother to recuperate. At Wembley July 26th, it was Newfoundland Day and Lord and Lady Morris addressed the gathering at the Pavilion. Afterwards an "At Home" was held and amongst those who had the honour of presentation to Princess Marie Louise were Miss Cherrington, Miss MacPherson, Miss Field and Mr. and Mrs. James Davies. Miss Stoddart, the lady superintendent of Spencer Lodge who spent her vacation in Toronto will return to St. John's about August 25th.-Q.

Eligible Young Men

REQUIRED FOR MISSIONARY WORK. The several young men who have left here in recent years to study for the Priesthood in the United States, have made a good impression on their preceptors and fellow students in the various seminaries to which they have been attached. We understand that the Catholic Church Extension Society, whose headquarters are at 232 East 25th St., New York, will welcome any eligible young men from this country, between the ages of 18 and 20, who desire to study for the Orders, with the view of taking up mission work in the Great Republic and that Ignorance of Latin will form no obstacle to their acceptance, if they are well recommended. Rev. J. P. O'Mahoney, who is Director of the Seminary Department of the Society, will, it is likely, visit St. John's in the near future and no doubt, will be glad to meet prospective candidates and afford all the information necessary to enable them to enter on the high and holy career which they have chosen.

Making Good Time

Tom Kearney's crew in the Cadet had a spin over the course last night and were clocked in 9 mins. and 38 seconds. The Outer Cove Fishermen, who were out a half hour previously, rowed the full course in 9.47. Great interest is now being centred in the challenge race, and with the honours pretty evenly divided the ultimate result is bound to be uncertain to the end.

Stabbing Affair At Bell Island

GIRL UNDER ARREST. (Daily News). Sunday night at 9.20 p.m., Frank Hynes was accosted by Francis Carroll and stabbed with a penknife in the right rib. Hynes proceeded immediately to the surgery of Dr. Giovanni and had the wound dressed. After leaving the surgery he was accosted a second time by the same party and stabbed seriously in the breast—a dangerous wound near the apex of the lung. Magistrate Power fearing fatal results took a statement. In the meantime Sergt. Morrissey placed the girl under arrest. The preliminary hearing was held this morning. On enquiry at the Justice Department this forenoon we were unable to obtain any particulars of the affair. Likewise the Inspector General informed us that he had received no information regarding the affair.

Heard by Radio

Monday Night, August 11th, 1924. The following is part of a message heard last night by Mr. T. V. Hartnett who with some friends was "listening in." There were no interruptions whatever and every word could be distinctly heard.

An Enterprising Visitor Apprehended

A tale of adventure which landed the hero in the toils of the law was unfolded at Grand Falls during last week by Magistrate Fitzgerald, when a foreign seaman was charged with obtaining money under false pretences. It appears that the accused, who claims that he can converse in seven languages and read and write in many more, deserted last spring, with two companions, from a ship at Botwood. Assuming the name of Morrison, he made his way to Deer Lake and secured employment with the Fraser Brace Co., where he remained for five or six weeks, leaving there a few days after the trial of a prohibition case in which he appeared in the capacity of advocate for the defendant. Out of work, he made the acquaintance of a Newfoundland and together they entered into an agreement to branch out in business at Corner Brook. His next move was to project a grand carnival which was to take place at Deer Lake on July 15th. Tickets sold like hot cakes at $1.00 each, but the affair did not come off. The next venture was to start a moving picture show. A large tent was purchased and a cheque for $1,000 was given the owner for his rights and title. On the same day, it is claimed, he drew other cheques, but for smaller amounts, and had them cashed. From his partner he secured cash to the amount of $30. That evening he disappeared. Travelling, it is alleged, under assumed names, he located at another rising inland town, where he became the leading citizen, donating a cheque of $250 to enlarge the church, and he even, it is alleged, took up the collection at the services. At this place he located with a family with whom he claimed relationship. So intimate did he become that when leaving the place he took one of the children of the household with him as a travelling companion. The youth was with him when he was placed under arrest. In his journeyings he stayed at Badger, where he made it known that he was the proprietor of an extensive premises at Corner Brook, where he had a restaurant and bungalow. He cashed several cheques and gave a fairly large one to a woman as prepayment for picking berries to be forwarded to his establishment. In all, it is alleged, that he secured property and goods to the value of $1,400 before being rounded up by Detective Bennett, who was detailed from the city on this duty early last week. At the trial before Magistrate Fitzgerald of Grand Falls, five witnesses from Deer Lake, three from Badger and one from Grand Falls were called. The accused has been committed to the Supreme Court and is now on remand in the Penitentiary.

New Gower Street's Changed Appearance

New Gower Street, during the last few weeks, has undergone a complete change, and its surface makes it the best thoroughfare in the city. Those responsible for the work, not forgetting the steam roller man, are to be congratulated for the excellence of their work, and it is to be hoped that other streets will receive similar attention. It is understood that a coating of tarry will be laid down, and if the procedure was taken to immediately fill any hole which appears in the surface, the street would remain in its present condition for years.

Straits and Labrador Fishery

The following reports have been received by the Marine and Fisheries Department respecting the fishery at Labrador and Bell Isle. The first message from Makkovik forwarded by E. J. Pomeroy reads: "Just received from North. From Sadding Bay to Salmon Island fish is plentiful on bottom with good jigging trapping is poor. Eighty-four schooners from Sadders to Hopedale average one hundred and eighty quintals. Capt. S. R. Winsor reports from the same place that several schooners are going to Ryan's Bay and that the fishery was the worst on record from Bell Isle. Capt. J. Winsor reports twenty-five vessels doing fair. He adds that the fishermen there understood that the Meigle was to call at Lark Tickle going and coming from Labrador. This is not done he says and asks who is at fault, the Government or captain of the ship. He says the matter should be immediately attended to as fishermen are indignant. N.B.—We understand that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has taken this matter up and ordered the Meigle to call at the place mentioned both going and coming."

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Aug. 11th.—Up to times and abroad, but little news anywhere and indeed, we do live in the dulllest times, and nothing at all stirring as in the days of the great Samuel, my ancestor. Anoh to the House, where the Committee on the Prohibition Bill reports back. But Lord, what confusion, when it is found there is a minority report also, and Mr. Speaker needs must call for a division, and the House divides on a party vote. What seems strange to me, however, is the Opposition all voting the one way and the Government the other when the Bill is not a party measure. The News sheet filled with letters from prohibitionists, but all, methinks, to little effect. In the Telegram sheet a letter from former Commissioner Walker to Mr. Monroe, and tells how for divers reasons, which he makes clear, he may not conduct the further enquiries. This a cause for regret, since he did impress all as a man of more than common understanding and of wide experience in the law. Walking home this evening I am drenched to the skin with the rain and so am compelled to go to bed with a hot water bottle and a hot pot, being in great fear of my rheumatics.

INTER-TOWN FOOTBALL

All arrangements have now been practically finalized for the visit of the City football team to Grand Falls. A special train will leave here on Saturday, the 23rd inst., arriving at Grand Falls on Sunday. Games will be played on the nights of the 25th, 27th, and 29th, and the return to the City will be made on the 30th. The following City players will make the trip—Walsh, Thistle, Rose, Delahunty, Dugan, Maddigan, Rendell, McNeil, Sawyers, Meaney, H. Phelan, M. Flynn.

A special programme has been arranged at Grand Falls where the sporting element is eagerly looking forward to the arrival of the City team. The paper town's team have been hard at practice for some time and are determined this year to take the honors from St. John's.

Nangle, is a splendid one, well worth the winning, and it is hoped a large number of competitors will compete. In view of the worthiness of the object, help the organizers, a record attendance is anticipated. The track measures a little over 6 laps to the mile, but this will be verified by Mr. Noel of the Crown Lands Office. Official timekeepers will be appointed by the N.A.A.A. O'Toole was the winner over the same course last year, his time being 27min. 29 4-5 seconds.

"WONDER" ATHLETES.

Great Wins for Nurmil and Charlton—Men Who Outclass the Opposition.

Periodically each of the many branches of sport produces a phenomenal performer, who, thanks to a freak of nature, is able to overshadow all other exponents for the time being. Almost every racing season brings its "super" horse, such as Sceptre and the flying Tetrarch; boxing has produced its Jimmy Wilde, and lawn tennis has its Mlle. Lengien, who, when well, is far ahead of all her rivals. Similarly, cricket has its Grace and Hobbs, while billiards can point to John Roberts, Newman and Smith as in a class by themselves. The 1924 Olympic Games in Paris revealed two more "freak" examples in the Finnish runner, Paavo Nurmil, and the Australian swimmer, Andrew "Boy" Charlton, who is only 16. Take Nurmil first. This product of little Finland is 35 years of age, a stage of life when the majority of athletes have passed their zenith. Nurmil, however, is not a normal runner. A few weeks before the Olympic Games, when his prospective opponents from 44 other nations were training steadily, the Finn started the athletic world by breaking a series of world's records during one run, returning times which must have caused the athletic giants of the Victorian era to turn in their graves. After such exertions, an ordinary athlete would have been "stale" at the Games. But Nurmil is made of different stuff. Instead of running like a normal man, he cleared the board in middle distance events, mercilessly.

Shattered World's Records, and made his opponents look like hacks. Unlike other athletes, Nurmil is blessed with "leather" lungs, his apparently limitless stamina being allied to wonderful speed, which he turns out at will and any stage of a race. Within an hour he canted away with two difficult races in record times, but his greatest triumph was recorded in the cross-country event. For this gruelling event over nearly seven miles of difficult ground, 20 of the picked athletes of the world started out. So hot was the sun and so hot the pace that only 15 finished the course, the remaining 15 having to be picked up by ambulance men. Yet Nurmil sailed home a very easy winner, and while the majority of his opponents were unconscious, he was changing his clothes and showing no signs of fatigue. Nurmil gave an insight into his mentality after breaking a record in one of his races. While the motley crowd of on-lookers were waiting to cheer him on his reappearance from the dressing-room, the unassuming Finn changed into a cap and old blue suit and, with well-worn bag, quietly found his way to the house where he was lodging. Nurmil's track "allies" are a pair of ordinary canvas gymnasium shoes and a stop-watch. The latter he always carries in his right hand when running. Before participating in a race he maps out a time schedule and at the end of every lap he consults his faithful timepiece. If he is exceeding his pre-arranged pace he drops back; if he is slow he simply spurts. The Finn has such confidence in his powers that, at the commencement of a final lap, he will deliberately drop back the watch registers a fast time for the distance, knowing perfectly well that "ordinary" runners cannot keep up a super-athlete's pace! It can be argued that young Charlton is a greater marvel than Nurmil. The Australian boy smashed world's records for three distances in Paris, among his victims being the famous Swede, Arne Borg, and Beaurepaire, who were defeated with ridiculous ease. Charlton is a real wonder. Although so young, he possesses a physique which few fully grown men can equal. An open-air life under the scorching Australian sun had tanned his six feet of flesh and muscle. His swimming weight is nearly 13st., and his approximate chest measurement as follows: Dehated, 38 1/2 in.; normal, 38 1/2 in.; expanded, 42 in. He also has a reach of 74 in. Like Nurmil, the Australian combines great stamina with fine speed. Australians rightly claim that no other swimmer, even of nature years, has exhibited such power of sustained effort over half a mile. After defeating Borg in a match "down under," Charlton was so fresh that his breathing would not have distinguished a candle. Charlton's trainer, Tommy Adrian, was the only white man who ever lowered the colours of Duke Kahanamoku, the world's sprint champion. "The Boy" is greatly attached to his mentor, and would not go to Paris without him. Happily, a public subscription brought in funds to enable Adrian to accompany the prodigy on the journey of 16,000 miles. Like Nurmil, the young Australian is modest in the hour of victory.—News of the World.

The Road to Arcady

Majestic Patrons speak in Glowing Terms of This Splendid Feature.

Virginia Lee well deserves the position she retains in the film world. Those who saw "The Road to Arcady" at the Majestic Theatre last night were very enthusiastic in their admiration of the Queen of the silent drama. The feature was an admirable presentation of the high art, revealing the star in all that pertains to increase her popularity and give her a position in the profession which few artists enjoy. "The Road to Arcady" is the last word in movias. A story that unfolds in a drama intensely interesting. "The Road to Arcady" is accompanied by an excellent news reel and a complete show of much merit is promised.

Fossilized Animals

EXPECTED TO REVEAL GEOLOGICAL HISTORY.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5 (A.P.)—Further light on the geological history of the western part of the continent, as revealed in fossils of prehistoric animals, is expected to be obtained by an expedition of scientists, headed by Professor Chester Stock of the University of California department of paleontology, which set out from here recently to carry on investigations in the John Day Valley in eastern Oregon. The explorations are the result of the interest of Dr. John C. Merriam of the Carnegie Institute, who some

A ROYAL DIVORCE

From the Famous Play That Toured England for 30 Years.

THE STORY OF THE LITTLE CORPORAL BONAPARTE, WHO BECAME THE MAKER OF KINGS AND THE BREAKER OF EMPIRES.

The grandeur of historic spectacles and the intensity of human passions in the greatest picture of all times—fascinating—spell-binding—marvellous.

IN VIENNA, Moscow, Berlin, Rome and Madrid, all the crowned heads of Europe, with hatred and fear bowed to the will of the Little Corporal. In France thirty million people worshipped his name.

"JOSEPHINE, My love bids me not to part with you, but my destiny and France demand it."
"NAPOLEON, MY MASTER, MY EMPEROR, MY LOVER, if you outrage God's laws and cast me away, as surely as I will die so will your star of fortune set."
"MADAME, FOR ME NO LAWS EXIST."

From the opening scene of Napoleon as a friendless unknown youth in a military school at Brienne, to the final dramatic moment in the Battle of Waterloo, it casts a spell over the minds of all beholders.

All the wondrous historic sights in the greatest period of the world's history are staged in this motion picture. The Battle of Waterloo, the Burning of Moscow and other marvellous spectacles, but even greater than all these is the fascinating, intimate story of Napoleon, Josephine, Marie Louise, Wellington, and all the crowned heads of Europe.

House of Assembly Proceedings

MONDAY, Aug. 11.
The House met at 2 p.m., and then followed a discussion on deferring the Liquor Bill. All the members of the Opposition participated in the debate so that nearly two hours elapsed before the report of the Special Committee was submitted, and a motion made that it be moved to committee of the whole House. The report was signed by all the Committee except three. They brought in what was termed a report of the minority. The Prime Minister and Attorney General pointed out that there was no division of the Committee, and there was no mention of a minority report until it was made on the floor of the House. Mr. Warren pointed out that Mr. Hickman could only bring in his minority report as an amendment.
Subsequently the amendment asking for deferment of the bill was put to a vote, those voting for it being Messrs. Hickman, Grimes, Hibbs, Hayward, Duff, Scammell and Ashbourne. Mr. Warren crossed the floor and voted with the Government bloc. When the report was put the same division resulted.
The Prime Minister presenting the Report of the Select Committee said he was putting before the people an Act which can be carried out, and it does not mean because a man gets a license to procure a bottle a day that he must get it. If he behaves himself he may obtain his allowance, but if he does not he is penalized. One section of those who came before the Committee were ardent prohibitionists, and one speaking of the tourist traffic put up the plea that allowing a bottle of beer at a meal would only bring the rit rat to our shores. Others objected to the bill being railroaded through, and that the outports were not given a chance to have a say. He thought the outport in the bill the finest form of local option that could be suggested, and the postponement sought was only a desire to put off the "evil day" as the prohibitionists described it. The Prime Minister concluded by pointing out that his manifesto provided for the repeal of the Prohibition Act.
Mr. Hickman admitted that the Prohibition Act as carried out was a disgrace to the country, but whether the new bill would be satisfactory or not he could not say. The present system compels a man to resort to dubious means to procure liquor. He thought that in justice to the people who were raising a protest at the recent session of the House, announcing his stand on the matter he read a report of a minority of the Select Committee, and moved that the Bill be deferred until next session.
Mr. Hayward submitted that a certain proportion of the electorate (a majority of 40 p.c. of the electorate) favored Prohibition, but it was not carried out. Most people contended that the enforcement was a farce, the reason being that it did not have the sympathy of those who made the law nor the majority of the people, but this, he contended, did not mean that it was a bad law. As the people made the law he thought they should be consulted again before it was amended. He gave his support to the minority report.
The Attorney General replying said he never heard of the minority report until then, and he believed all the Committee agreed with the principle of the Bill.
The Prime Minister also pointed out that there was no division of the Committee. Its report was prepared, passed around and all signed it except three members. Two others, Sir P. T. McGrath and Hon. W. J. Ellis, signing with reservations. The former a bottle a day instead of one per day, and the latter suggesting some form of registration.
The following honorable members signed the Report:—W. S. Monroe, A. B. Morine, F. H. Steer, R. Cramm, W. McK. Chambers, W. J. Higginz, J. C. Crook, W. R. Warren.
Mr. Geo. Grimes thought he was quite right in saying an independent report.
A lot of discussion ensued. The minority report was put as an amendment, Messrs. Duff, Hibbs, Ashbourne and Scammell speaking to the motion. Subsequently the report of the Select Committee was received, and the Prime Minister moved that it be referred to a committee of the whole House to-morrow.
The Labrador Railway Bill was then read a first and second time. To be sent to Committee of Whole to-morrow.
ORDERS OF THE DAY.
Ways and Means passed the Committee stage, and the Bill received its third reading and was adopted.
The House then went into Committee on the Disembarkation of Paupers Bill. Some alterations in the wording of the Bill were suggested, and the Committee rose and asked leave to sit again.
The Bill to repeal the Agricultural Act entitled "Of the Encouragement of Agriculture" went to Committee.
Mr. Walsh found that in pursuance of the policy of economy it was found necessary to abolish the Agricultural Board, Commissioners and Experimental Farm.

Operations at Harbour Deep

The measure passed the Committee and received its third reading. Committee of the Whole on Revenue Bill passed.
The House rose at 6:15 until this afternoon.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The writer will consider it a favour to be given space in the columns of your paper to correct certain erroneous publications that of late have come to our notice concerning the Harbour Deep operations, wherein it has been stated that 600 to 650 men would be required at Harbour Deep the coming winter; accommodations had been made for 75 families and that all logging would have to be done by contract.
We desire to say that early this Spring the writer took over all the Harbour Deep logging equipment, horses, stores, shop, dwellings, plant, etc., and contracted to erect a Rosser Mill which is now near to completion, roads and ship last year's cut, amounting to about 14,000 cords of wood, and put in a cut of around 15,000 cords the coming winter to be raised and shipped in the summer of 1925. Logging operations will begin as soon after the 15th of August as weather conditions will permit. We can look after 350 to 400 men, preparations are being made to accommodate 25 to 40 families only, and no decision whatever has been arrived at, or stipulation made that all logging is to be done by contract.
Some men prefer taking contracts, others prefer working on wages, or company account, and provision has been made for men to work on either basis. As reports of this kind do not help us in securing men, we suggest to those who seem to have nothing else to do, if they must write articles to the papers, they try writing fairy tales, or write about general conditions in White Bay, lack of proper medical attendance for instance, the means of transportation, or better still our telegraph system, where it is a common occurrence for a person to despatch a telegram, to jump in his motor boat, afterward beat it around Cape John, get into Green Bay or some other bay hours ahead of the telegram sent. The woods, Mr. Editor, is full of holiday seekers, dry nurses and wet ones, magazine writers and what not; but we require here at present lumbermen, men who want to work and can command a decent wage. We may further say that we were not aware that any other kind of work was in progress at Harbour Deep as suggested in these publications already referred to, other than the construction of the Rosser plant, and operations of the general stores both of which are under our personal direction and supervision.
For the benefit of those who desire to settle at Harbour Deep, we may say that negotiations are being made by the writer to secure the services of a competent, qualified doctor, and a graded teacher will also be engaged. Men requiring houses are requested to make application before attempting to remove their families to Harbour Deep.
Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, Yours very truly,
ERANK J. DOVE.
Har. Deep, Aug. 4, 1924.

Delay Might be Dangerous

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The demand for a plebiscite on the Liquor question coming from prohibitionists makes me laugh. When I presented to the House of Assembly the petitions of fifteen thousand voters, who objected to the plebiscite then? The prohibitionists, of course. They said it would cost too much money. Will it cost less money now, or can we better afford the expenditure?
Let me tell the inside story of the negotiations which went on. I had got the then Prime Minister and a very prominent and representative member of the Opposition to agree on a plebiscite. The persons who were to move and second the Bill were actually named and the Bill was printed and a copy given me. Then a number of prohibitionist clergymen went and interviewed a very prominent and powerful member of the Government, and the result was that the plebiscite was called off. They did not want a plebiscite then. They think they want it now. They are like the children sitting in the market place of whom our Lord speaks. Nothing will satisfy them.
Personally, I am in favour of giving them the plebiscite. It would do one good thing at least. It would shut the mouths of a lot of unpractical idealists and prohibition would be as well barred as was Confederation in 1867. We would not hear any more about it.
Those who are asking for a plebiscite now might suffer the same fate as myself. They might get more plebiscites than they want. I asked for one and got sixteen or more. I asked for a bottle a week and got six. They might get more plebiscites than they want and perhaps be given six bottles a day! If delay increased the quantity six-fold, further delay may increase it thirty-six fold.
Yours truly,
WARWICK SMITH.

Conche at Its Best

Feather Thibault Honored and Welcomed by Conche.
When the Prospero reached Conche on her last trip going north, a very touching and pleasing incident occurred. Father Williams, our new and beloved Pastor, having notified his people of Father Thibault's coming, left no stone unturned to tender him a sincere and hearty welcome to "his old home." Although the Prospero arrived at the unearthy hour of two o'clock in the morning, Father Thibault's many and numerous friends and parishioners were all on the alert to greet him with a hearty hand shake and sincere "Welcome Home." Father Thibault had labored among us unceasingly for our spiritual and temporal welfare in sickness and health, in fair and foul weather for the space of seventeen years, and we, his humble parishioners, had received kindnesses untold from him. In all our troubles and sorrows he was our father and friend. No wonder we learned to love him and look on him as almost one of ourselves. Immediately upon the Prospero's arrival, crowds wended their way to the wharf to meet him, while men and boys lined the roads with numerous joy guns and with volleys of musketry escorted him and Father Williams to the Parish House. When morning dawned bunting was everywhere in evidence, flags flying from the picturesque little Presbytery to Mr. Norris's house and stores to the fisherman's most humble little cottage home. Each and every one vied with the other to honor our beloved Father Thibault on the occasion of his visit to us and welcome him to our hearts and homes, and comply with the wishes of our now so much esteemed Father Williams. The scene of his landing at the dawn of the day was certainly a most memorable and touching one and will not soon be forgotten by those privileged to witness and attend. From Father Williams to Mr. and Mrs. Norris, Mr. Fitzgerald, J.P., down to the most humble person in Conche, no one left anything undone that could add to the pleasure of Father Thibault's visit and happy return to our hearts and homes.

Mrs. Malkin Was Suicide

TRAGIC DEATH OF WIFE OF MANAGER OF CORNER BROOK HOTEL.
Newfoundland papers reported the sudden death a short while ago of Mrs. Malkin, wife of the manager of the Glyn Mill Inn at Corner Brook, Nfld. It is learned from reliable reports from Newfoundland that Mrs. Malkin committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid.
Mrs. Malkin had been assisting her husband in conducting the hotel, and both were well liked by patrons of the place. There was some dissatisfaction felt by the management of the construction company, owners of the hotel, over certain matters, and after a dispute they discharged Mr. Malkin. Mrs. Malkin took the blame to herself and became despondent, and the tragedy followed.
Mr. Malkin came to Sydney recently and left there a few days ago for Montreal, en route to England, where both he and Mrs. Malkin belonged.—Sydney Herald.

DON'T BLAME THE CHILDREN.

A friend of mine who used to keep two or three servants all the time has recently lost some of her money and now does all her own work with the exception of the washing.

She has, besides a baby and a little boy four, two girls, one 11 and 13; and one would naturally expect that they would be a good deal of help to her, especially during their summer vacation.

Someone to whom she was talking about her new way of living said as much, and she sighed.

"They ought to be," she said, "but they aren't. It's just like pulling teeth to get any steady work out of them. Really I don't see how they can be so heartless when they know how hard it is for me. I have to keep right at them to have them do their beds and the dishes. I can't understand it. You'd think they'd want to help me. They were lovely at first, too, but it didn't take long for it to wear off."

Blame Their Training.

She seemed so grieved and surprised that her children should not show more character and stamina about doing routine work that bored them.

Wouldn't it be more surprising if they had?

What have they had to develop character?

From babyhood these children have had everything done for them. They have never had the simplest task to do daily. Food appeared on the table and dishes disappeared as if by magic. And every wish has been gratified as far as possible.

Nothing for Character to Bite On.

Suppose one never ate anything but liquid and predigested food. Would one be apt to have the best of teeth and digestion?

Why then should one expect children to develop character if they are not given anything for their character to bite on?

I have faith to believe that if their mother does not give in to them too easily those children will develop helpfulness and responsibility, for they have good stuff in them. It holds them to their tasks and tries to make them realize that it is only right and fair they should do their share, they will probably develop the capacity for doing something they don't want to do.

And that will be more valuable to them in after life than all the luxuries she used to give them.

But What Is An Advantage?

Is it fair to blame a child for not developing character and a sense of responsibility, and a capacity for facing the disagreeable things of life courageously and competently, when you have done everything to shelter him from responsibility, and from the things that are disagreeable?

Of course the reason parents make this mistake is that they want so passionately to give their children every happiness and every advantage.

But too often parents try to do this without getting it clear in their own minds what contributes to lasting happiness and what is an advantage.

Mr. Lloyd George

AND BRITAIN'S GREATEST ASSET.
Mr. Lloyd George recently said: "The business of statesmanship was to see that everything in the way of our making the best of the country was swept on one side, so that the people should have full advantage of all the resources Providence had intended for their joy."

"Britain had great natural advantages, greater than any of her competitors in Europe. Britain had the best coal supply, the most fertile land, and on the whole a temperate climate. The climate was a little fickle, perhaps, but when it rained it dropped fatness. Yet we were buying three hundred and fifty millions' worth of food. He did not suggest that we could produce all of it, but we could produce scores of millions' worth if the best use were made of the land. In the days of our soaring prosperity when the Chancellor of the Exchequer was abused for a strappety supertax, we took no account of the fact that these hundreds of millions' worth were purchased abroad. We also lost sight of the fact that our rural population was moving into the industrial area. A country could not prosper without a great rural population. "A strong, virile nation was one that made the best of its lead. We do we do it? The nation should look into the question earnestly and fearlessly as a great business nation always looked into any concern which was vital to its life and prosperity. The land was the one great industry in this country that was not organized as far as the system of ownership was concerned as to produce the best out of the asset. The capital in the land, in the freehold of this country, would be a thousand millions. This was probably a few times what we had got in the mines, probably six or seven times what we had got in our cotton or woollen industries. No one could name an industry with the possible exception of the railways that had got such capital invested into it, and yet there was no capital which was handled in a more unbusinesslike way.

"He was not talking of the farmers' part, but of the ownership of the freeholds. How many of the owners of capital in land at the present moment were devoting the same thought as was being devoted in other industries to the working out of their own industry, to developing it, to making plans and schemes for increasing its productivity? The trouble with the land was that it was the only industry where we had a divorce between capital and management and direction. Until we had a reconsideration of the whole system of land tenure in this country, until we put it on a more businesslike footing, this country would be wasting the most valuable asset which Providence had placed at the disposal of the nation."

WORK AND PLAY.

It is well to do some playing when the day of toil is done; when we've spent twelve hours at a plow or cooed we have tramped, the weary day, it is fitting, gentle reader, to indulge in harmless play. When we've earned the precious dollars that will pay the monthly bills, let us do our stand-up collars and enjoy the pace that kills. But we cannot dance a mambo or slide down the collar doors with a fair degree of pleasure, if we haven't done our chores. We feel guilty and dejected as we trot here and there, if the tasks have been neglected that demand our skill and care. Some there are forever playing, with no duties on their mind, down the path of pleasure straying, fun before and fun behind. But they're bored and weary critics who in sloth forever bask, and each passing hour embitters men who have no honest task. There is always most enjoyment for the man who spends his day in some earnest, sane employment, drawing down a well-earned pay. Oh, the playtime has its splendors! For the man of nerve and brawn who has torn his pink suspenders moving whiskers off the lawn. Knowing that he's stocked the larder, filled the tank with gasoline, we admire his pep and ardor as he gambols on the green.

SWALLOWS.

Beneath the cliff where stands our shack,
The summer swallows dwell;
And every coat on every back
Fits its possessor well.
Day in and out on wire or trace,
When they have come to rest,
Those feathered gentlemen I see
In evening raiment dressed.

No foolish rule need they obey
Which governs time or place;
They wear their dress clothes night and day,
And with consummate grace
The broadcloth of their garb, I note,
Is something like mine.
And not a wrinkle mars the coat,
As is the case with mine.

I sit and watch them proudly strut
Like stylish vidding guests,
And vow no common tailor cut
Those perfect coats and vests;
With grace and style in every line
And ease past words to tell,
I wish that swallow-tail mine
Would fit me half so well.

These feathered gentlemen show me
How dress clothes should be worn,
From all self-consciousness they're free
They're to the manner born:
In such a garb I feel absurd,
A much-embarrassed male,
I think it really takes a bird
To wear a swallow-tail.

Fuel Economy in the Body

HOW SUGAR ELIMINATES FAULTY COMBUSTION IN HUMAN ENGINE.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 11.—When a patient with Diabetes goes into a condition of unconsciousness known as coma, it is because the body does not use its sugar supply properly, and because of the formation of substances called ketones. That we can imitate in the test tube just what happens when sugar is or is not burned in the body was demonstrated by Prof. P. A. Shaffer of Washington University, St. Louis, in a paper before the Physiology section of the British Association.

When the lamp of life is not burning properly, as for example in a disease like diabetes, the smoke or the compounds formed by the imperfect combustion are known as ketones. If the diabetic can burn sugar, as he can if he is treated with insulin, then the ketones are not formed. In certain combustions carried out in the test tube, sugar acts in a similar way, causing the disappearance of these ketones.

On the theory that this action of sugar outside the body might be the same as its action inside the body, Dr. Shaffer has been studying the former process. He finds that the first combustion products of the sugar are substances called osones, and if this be the case in the body then the sugar does not, as has been supposed, form lactic acid when it is burned. The biochemists were greatly interested in this suggestion of Dr. Shaffer.

"A Royal Divorce" Magnificent Production

OPENS TO BIG BUSINESS AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

The great English film production of the wonderful story of the life of Napoleon entitled "A Royal Divorce" opened to big business at the Nickel Theatre last night.

The story of "A Royal Divorce" is well known to old and young alike, and we are quite confident that, in spite of the manifold historical inaccuracies in this production, the public will fall over themselves to see it, and in the main will be more than satisfied with what they see.

The Napoleon of Gwilym Evans is a fine piece of work, as is also the Talleyrand of Jarrod Robertshaw, which is only excelled by the characters of Josephine and Marie Louise, played respectively by Gertrude McCoy and Mary Dibley, who almost make their parts speak through the screen.

The film opens with the cadet days of the "Little Corporal" and ends with the defeated Napoleon on the lonely island of St. Helena, and as we are carried through the passage of life of the greatest military genius Europe has ever seen or read of, we could not help feeling impressed with the stages of this great man's life, and although the paramount feature of the film is the divorce between Napoleon and Josephine, it was the causes for this extraordinary act which gripped our attention most.

The spectacular side of this production has been well attended to. Especially would we mention the magnificent scenes of the conquest of and the retreat from Moscow, which was vividly brought home by a splendid rendering of Tchaikovsky's wonderful overture, "1812." Another impressive scene was that of Napoleon's abdication and leaving-taking at the Palace of Fontainebleau, which was one of those scenes which cannot fail to stir up human emotions.

New Material

LESSENS BUILDING COST IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, July 15 (A.P.)—Russia's scarcity of living accommodations and the high cost of building material have forced the Soviet authorities to experiment in the construction of what are termed "thermolite" houses, the invention of a Russian engineer named Peter Galakhoff. A thermolite house has the conventional framework of wood, but a liquid material of heavy consistency (thermolite), composed of sawdust, straw and common tree leaves, mixed with lime, plaster and antiseptic solution, is interposed between the outer and inner boards.

When this mixture becomes hard, the house is rendered moisture-proof, resists decay, and is impervious to certain insects. With a coating of special paint containing the same ingredients as "thermolite," the house is also rendered fireproof. Houses of this type, according to the inventor, can be erected for 25 per cent. less than the ordinary house and can be completed within less than six weeks.

A Banner Show

AT THE STAR MOVIE LAST EVENING.

A performance that could not fail to please the most ardent movie critic was that which was presented to the patrons of the popular Star last evening. The feature picture, "Racing Hearts" with Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, was followed with the keenest of interest from beginning to end. In this we see a money mad speed fiapper—daring, swift, vivacious and saucy, and running throughout is a pretty love story which gives those two stars ample scope to bring to the screen the ability they possess.

Larry Semon in the "Horsehoes" was a riot, the audience being in roars right through. With Larry you must laugh, and if you doubt it, see "Horsehoes."

Caruso, who is this week making his final appearance, was probably never heard to better advantage, and now that it is his closing week, we unhesitatingly say Mr. Caruso is making a special effort singing each night two different numbers, whilst for his final on Friday he will in the language of the street "go over the top."

Market News

Codfish—The stocks of Newfoundland codfish in Oporto almost doubled this week, viz., 49,557 qts. as against 25,685 qts. for the previous week. The weekly consumption of codfish was 2,172 qts., as compared with 2,057 qts., the week before. If we add the 45,343 qts. there from Iceland and Denmark there will be found to be a total in Oporto of 115,600 qts. This is not looking bad for the first week of August. Average weekly consumption is now 5,857 qts. In face of these facts it is hard to expect prices to keep up in Oporto. St. John's price still keeps along at $7.50 to $8.50, according to quality and this we attribute partly to the fact that there is comparatively very few fish coming in so far as the big rush comes, a decline, I think is inevitable, though the market may recover again on scarcity in the season. This week several grades of new fish were cleared for export to the West Coast, including Marjorie's kippen with 2,062 qts. for Gibraltar, from the Burgeo and LaPolla Export Co., Burgeo; Andreas also from the Burgeo and LaPolla Export Co., Burgeo (with 224 qts. to Naples); the schr. Harriet, from J. Pettit, English Harb., 2,231 qts. to Oporto; the Ida M., from A. S. Rendell, St. John's, 2,175 qts. to Barbados; S. S. Stella Maria, 148 qts. from St. George's to Halifax; the schr. Harriet, 2,228 qts. from E. Pike, Ltd., Channel, to Oporto.

Cod Liver Oil—We hear that the scientists that have been at work at the model factory at Bay Bulls have finished their experiments and some of their knowledge has been obtained. It will be some time yet before final reports will be published. From all we can hear they have been pleased with the results of their work and as the weather has been remarkably fine they have combined a very enjoyable holiday and going home in a very happy frame of mind. It is an impressive with the wonder and abundance of sea vegetation and the remarkable quantities of animal life that frequent our waters. We are all so used to these local conditions that we think nothing of it, but these scientists have come to the conclusion that it is these remarkable shallow grounds and sea gardens that alone attract the codfish but also that in such quantities along our coast during the summer season. It is from the sea vegetation that the haddock originates and only during summer time does it grow in luxuriance. This is one of the principal reasons that even the best of the Norwegian cod is so deficient in vitality. Power, as their fish are all caught during the winter season when the bottom of the ocean is barren just as the land. We have only to compare their lean, starved fish with our own, well fed cod that never lacks full energy to recognize at once that our Newfoundland fish and oil is so much superior to all others. Common Cod Oil—The first arrivals of the new season's oil are reported to be of the best. The price paid has been the lowest for several years and let us hope there will be some improvement before the season is out. Advice from the foreign market is encouraging as trade has been very quiet and nothing doing, but now that we are getting to the end of the summer holidays and the prospect of better weather we are almost sure to see some improvement.

Molasses—There has been an advance of fully eight cents per gallon in the price of the duties placed on this article. We cannot consult the authorities who saw no duty on this article at this season. It has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction. The time for changing duties is in the early spring, before the season's trade is treated alike, but when those in authority see it to use their power during the middle of the season and some firms have secured their entire stock and others have shipments to arrive, it creates a very bad feeling. We were led to expect a square deal for all but this is far from the spirit of that slogan.

Lobsters—It is greatly to be feared that in writing of the lobster fishery we are dealing with what will be a practically defunct industry as far as St. John's direct export to European countries is concerned. Practically all the export this season is from the West Coast to Halifax in the Farquhar steamer last week. The S.S. Stella Maria took out 3,795 cases to Halifax, which looks as if Capt. Farquhar was making a clean sweep of the coast. There are a few score cases from Placentia Bay coming to St. John's. The price paid for No. 1, we hear, was $23 per case of 48 1 lb. flats.

Flour—There was a slight decline in wheat prices this week which most dealers in flour here regard as merely the natural resting spell after a succession of advances and they look upon it as a preliminary to early advances in price. Flour has advanced in accordance with wheat and is now $8.70 per barrel wholesale for leading brands in the local market. Definite crop estimates are not yet in but there is no doubt in the public mind on the information so far available that the Canadian crop is 155,000,000 bushels short of last year.

Hay and Oats—The hay market is unchanged and the local prices range from $81 to $82 per ton. The feeling amongst importers is that the quotations will remain steady around these prices for three months at least as the crop reports are very favorable all over Canada. The oats market on the contrary is very strong and the trade is anticipating higher prices owing to short crop reports. P.E.I. dealers refuse so far to quote at all. No. 2 feed oats is $3.60, which is 30 cents a bushel over the June price. All the grades have advanced accordingly.

Pork—The market is very firm in the United States. Apart from our artificial advance caused by the resumption of duty American clear pork has advanced in the U. S. market nearly $4.00 from the low point prevailing early in June. As corn went up five cents more per bushel this week higher prices for pork are quite likely. Fat back in St. John's is now $30 per barrel wholesale; S. C. clear the same; spare ribs $23, and inter-brands from $25 to $28.

Beef—Barrelled beef continues firm and is following the trend of pork. Owing to the good demand for fresh beef all the summer and the smaller number of cattle coming to the stock yards in Chicago and Omaha, the quantity of barrelled beef packed to date is away below a normal year. This scarcity is now being realized and is having the natural effect on the market. Dealers who do an export trade in barrelled beef have lately all been rushing into the market to get their fall supplies. In our own market best brands are $26.50 (best flank medium), others $25.50 to $24.50 (extra family).

Airplane Speed of 1,200 Miles an Hour Predicted

STOCKHOLM, July 15 (A.P.)—Flights between Europe and America in two hours at an altitude of 10 miles and with 2,000 horsepower motors, are forecast by S. Lindequist, a well-known Swedish airplane constructor, in a statement published by a leading Stockholm paper.

One of the greatest aims in aviation in the immediate future should be to cut down the flying time between continents, says Mr. Lindequist, and this probably can be done by flying at extremely high altitudes. The effect of gravitation decreases with the increase in altitude, and it has been estimated, he says, that a plane which has a speed of 100 miles an hour near the surface of the earth can attain a speed of 1,200 miles an hour at an altitude of about 19 miles.

Gold Prospectors Cause Excitement in Rhodesia

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia, July 2 (A.P.)—Gold prospecting is very active throughout Rhodesia and so keen are the prospectors in pegging out claims that eight of them slept throughout the freezing cold one night on the site of a dead miner's forgotten gold claim, known as Mick's Luck, near Essex, Va., at one time the home of the famous explorer F. C. Selous.

As soon as it was daylight there was a wild stampede among the men to erect the customary discovery notices. Motor cars had arrived for two of the competing amateurs, who apparently thought that first registration of a claim at the mines office in Bulawayo established a prior right to it. These two men had a furious race to Bulawayo, covering the distance of 80 miles over the rough veiled road in 45 minutes.

The Empire the great traditions and ideals on which that unique Commonwealth of Nations has been built, and so to bring home to the youth of today a sense of the responsibilities which citizenship of that Commonwealth involves—responsibilities fraught with untold moment, not only to the many people comprised within its far-flung territories, but also to the world at large.—MARRY H.

Pearline for easy washing.—July 17, 1924

The smartest silks for fall are ribbed and corded effects.

Shades of brown, tan, nude and some gray are approved for fall hostery.

Satin takes a prominent place in mode, especially flesh-colored satin for evening.

Marabout is often seen in combination with the popular ostrich.

Shades of light amber, blue, black and white are smart for the fall gown of velvet.

The small hat with the square crown strikes a piquant note in fall millinery.

Some of the new riding habits show extremely shortened jackets.
