THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so that it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Godden, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years' experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

Y. M. C. A. Bouquets

During the fighting around Cambrai an officer leaped from his car before a Y.M.C.A. canteen in a ruined barn just out of sight of the enemy and ravenously took advantage of the free drinks, biscuits, and cigarettes distributed by the "Y" in the midst of operations.

"There are two things in this war have earned my undying gratitude," he mumbled through a mouthful of Canadian biscuits, "the Ford car and the 'Y'."

A soldier, emerging from a "Y" cinema hut, was overheard to express himself thus to a mate: "Good old Y.M.C.A.! There's sure some lustlers these days. We'd die in this here hole if it weren't for them."

Two "Y" officers were working in one end of the hut when six soldiers entered the other a little overpowered by their potatoes. Their fluency of expression finally brought a reproof from the "Y" officers and thereafter there was comparative quiet. Next day four of the six spontaneously and separately came to apologize.

A fifth did more. Ten months afterwards, when the celebration of armistice again loosed the bonds of his self-control, he met one of the officers on the street of a Belgian town. Whereupon, with a strange freak of memory, he poured out an apology for an incident that had long since become ancient history; and there on the street the "Y" received one of its most superlative eulogies, to the edification of an admiring throng of Belgians who probably did not understand a word.

Foreign Credits Have Maintained Our Prosperity

A large portion of the Canadian public has not yet realized how important a factor foreign credits have been in continuing good times.

Sir Thomas White recently said in Parliament: "Supposing the Dominion Government had said: No money for credits in Canada. What would have happened? Our wheat flour, beef, manufactured goods, cheese, and salmon could not be sold abroad, and the export business of this country would practically come to a standstill."

From whom has the Government received the money that has enabled it to grant these credits? From the people who has loaned it.

If foreign credits are to be continued, and Sir Thomas says that they must be, for a while, then the people must continue to lend their money to the Government. War Savings and Thrift Stamps make this easy, besides they pay well. To invest in them is good business both for the individual and the country.

Dear Mother: Have not as yet heard from you since coming here but should in a few days now.

A week ago Saturday our class went to Malton, Yorkshire, to see Lord Middleton's Estate. He owns 100,000 acres of land on the British Isles. When we arrived there his Lordship and her Ladyship were at the stables to meet us. They showed us their Shire Stallions. They were certainly beautiful, some of them weighed about 2400 lbs.

Then we saw their pure bred cattle, then her Ladyship took us to the Conservatory where amidst a profusion of roses and all kinds of flowers to partake of a delicate lunch provided by our cooks.

After luncheon they took us to their steed farm and showed us their hunters and racers. From there we went to the Kennels to see the fox hunters (dogs) of which there were about a hundred. From there we went to his other stables where he kept his fatted cattle and work horses and then we went to his mansion and his Lordship showed us some nice paintings and he said they had entertained the King and Queen in June 1914.

After that they sat us down to a table full of lots of good things to eat and believe me they certainly had an opportunity to see the Canadians going into action, because we were hungry. After we were through eating, which was about 5.30 p. m. the rigs were waiting to convey us back to the station, so we all climbed in and away we hiked.

The Lord was a man 75 years old and rode a pony. Her Ladyship was not quite so old and rode a Jack ass, some comical sight believe me. They used us great and since we came back, have sent word for us to come again in June.

We take those trips in every Saturday, but are not liable to have many as good ones as the one I was telling you about. We are going to Kilmarnock in Scotland not far from Glasgow, to take in the big fair.

Yours truly, BERTIE Khaki University, Ripon, Yorkshire, Eng. B. Coy

CHANGING THE DAY

We are fully convinced that the endeavour made by several of our merchants to change Victoria Day from Saturday to Monday was not a success from any one standpoint...

Not an average trade was carried on during Saturday forenoon, there was little or no business during the afternoon, but the evening proved a busy one.

Monday it rained in torrents all day, thus preventing anyone from enjoying a holiday, if they had one. The change proved no inconvenience to the general public...

To Oblige the Farmers

A strong representation having been made on behalf of the farmers living in the neighbourhood of Bridgetown who attend church services in the town that, on account of their still observing old time, 8 o'clock would be a more convenient hour for beginning the Sunday evening services in the various churches a meeting will be held this (Wednesday) evening in St. James church schoolroom to discuss the suggestion...

Local Happenings

Bridgetown is going to celebrate. Everybody got busy. Let's have one big day.

There will be degree work in Crescent Lodge, I. O. O. F., tomorrow evening.

A load or two of gravel on the sidewalk near the St. James Hotel would be a big improvement.

Everyone should see "Intolerance" at the Primrose Theatre which is coming in the near future. See adv.

In the recent Salvation Army drive the sum of one and a half millions was contributed throughout Canada. Ascension (Thursday) being tomorrow (Thursday) there will be a service in St. James church at 10.30 a. m.

The Prince of Wales will visit Canada in August of this year and will open the new Parliament Building at Ottawa.

The Children's Supervised Playground will be opened Friday afternoon instead of last Monday as previously planned.

In Los Angeles, where the churches advertise more heavily than the theatres they are invariably filled, many of them to overflowing.

Commencing Wednesday, June 11, and continuing till first of September the stores of Annapolis Royal will close at 12 o'clock noon on Wednesdays.

Several millions of trout and salmon fry from the hatchery at Nictaux have recently been distributed in the Milford, Graywood, Round Hill and other streams.

The elopement is reported of a fifteen year old colored girl from Lower Granville with a returned soldier, also colored, about 40. It is said when last seen they were heading for Halifax.

All members of the Bridgetown Red Cross are requested to meet on Friday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. O. T. Daniels to discuss disposal of funds in hand and other business.

In fairness to Mayor MacKenzie we wish to state that he had nothing to do with the effort to change Victoria Day in Bridgetown from Saturday to Monday. The movement was stated by one of the merchants.

Annapolis Spectator: An interesting programme of the day's celebration of the 24th of May here in 1885 is in possession of Paul Yates. It was printed by Willie Banks on a press in the procession that day.

Mr. H. B. Burnham, of the customs service, who is enjoying a visit at his home in Annapolis has the editor's thanks for a number of trout caught by him last week, while on a fishing trip in adjacent waters.

We are in receipt of an English paper, a clipping from which will appear in our next issue describing the march of 12,000 men through London, among whom was Mr. Louis G. Young, son of Mrs. E. C. Young of this town.

Messrs Bishop and Bishop, proprietors of the Primrose Theatre, are determined to give their patrons good pictures. They have recently changed their film service and are now in a better position than ever to give the public satisfaction.

Following our suggestion of last week the enterprising people of Bridgetown are talking public good pictures. Will it be Dominion Day or Labor Day? We trust the Mayor will call a public meeting of our citizens at once to get their views, appoint committees, etc.

As next Tuesday, June 3rd, is the King's birthday the MONITOR office will be closed. Correspondence from the surrounding village and copy for changes of ads, must reach us a day earlier than usual. As our forms must be ready to go to press Monday night, ads. cannot be changed after Saturday noon.

Death of Mrs. H. R. Sabine

We regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Georgia, wife of Mr. Harvey R. Sabine, which occurred at her home, Carlton Corner, at about 1 o'clock Friday night, aged 38 years, after an illness of 26 months. The deceased had always led a consistent Christian life and was beloved and respected by a large circle of friends. Just an hour before passing away she repeated the words of the hymn "I shall know" and the last words to those around her were "Meet me on the golden shore". She leaves an affectionate husband and two children, Grace and Clarence. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Josephine Norman, five brothers, Wallace, Fred, Percy, Willoughby and Charles and two sisters, Mrs. Cornelius Walker and Mrs. Leander Taylor.

The funeral which was very largely attended, notwithstanding the stormy weather, took place from her late home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock with interment at Centrelea. The services were conducted by Rev. M. S. Richardson, pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist church, the pall bearers being Alton Walker, Reginald Carroll, Milledge Rice, and Edward Taylor.

Death of H. T. Hamilton

Died at the St. John General Public Hospital, Nov 27th, 1919. Harold Truman Hamilton, of Bear River, aged 17 yrs and 5 months of influenza, followed by pneumonia. He leaves a father, mother, three brothers and two sisters to mourn their loss. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family as nearly six months had elapsed before they got the sad news.

CORRESPONDENCE

FISHERIES

To the Editor of the MONITOR:

Dear Sir: At no time in the history of Canada has the need of the development of our natural industries been so apparent as in the present condition of our national life. Every factor that enters into the problem of how best to obtain the maximum of efficiency at the minimum of cost should be considered, or to state it in another way. That so far as legislation can be effective; to create conditions under which the natural resources of Canada can be profitably used and developed, giving due consideration to cost, the protection of the worker, a reasonable return for the capital invested and at the same time placing the Canadian producer in a position to be a successful competitor in the world's markets.

One of the greatest industries of Canada is its fisheries, having a gross value for the year 1917, of $52,312,844, those of Nova Scotia alone having a value for the same year of $14,468,319, which must be admitted is a splendid source of revenue to the national wealth. And further, it must be apparent to even the most superficial student of economics that any source of such great wealth is one that should and must receive the widest and most complete consideration so that it may be placed in the best possible position to be profitably developed giving due heed to its conservation for those who shall come after us.

Every part of the coast line of Canada has its own special need, its own local problems, dependent on its natural features, the kinds of fish caught, the means of taking, curing, transportation, and markets. I beg leave if you will kindly grant me space to review the existing conditions on one small part of our coast and point out as briefly as possible what is there necessary for the proper prosecution of this important industry.

From the village, of Margareville, on the shore of the Bay of Fundy, to Digby Gut is a distance of about forty-seven miles, being the total shore line of the County of Annapolis. There was caught in 1917, fish to the value of about a quarter of a million dollars, the work of making this splendid addition to the national wealth being done by a people having their homes on a strip of coast line of not over a mile in width. All or nearly all these people in addition to the fishin' do a little farming in off days. The work is severe. The cold and storms of winter and the fogs of summer are equally well known to these hardy men, who, in spite of the often adverse elements, contribute so large an amount to the income of the nation.

We would naturally suppose that the powers that be would have used every means at their command to assist in the prosecution of this industry. Has this been done? What are the facts?

On this piece of shore line there is no natural harbor. It is for the most part ledges of rock and reef, and there is no place where a boat can enter or depart at low tide. Should a fisherman find himself out in the Bay and a storm come on during the time of low tide he has either to attempt to reach Digby Gut, or take the dangerous chance of running his boat into the breakers, or possibly losing his life in the attempt, and very likely his boat, if not completely destroyed, will be damaged to an extent that will necessitate repairs at a large expense.

It is almost inconceivable that after all the years that has elapsed since Confederation, that no attempt has yet been made to provide a low tide harbor, or shelter for fishing craft on this section of the coast. Wharves have been built and are a great convenience but to provide a place where the fishermen could come in with his boat, irrespective as to whether the tide was high, or low, seems never to have entered into the minds of those who were in a position to procure more favorable conditions for the carrying on of this industry.

Under better conditions a larger catch could be obtained, with less danger to life, and a great saving effected now resulting from damage to boats and gear.

It may be said that the fishermen are assisted by means of a bounty on boats and otherwise, which should stimulate them to increased effort. Let us look into this for a moment?

During the year 1917 the last year for which we have a return we find that the gross amount paid the fishermen on the coast of the County of Annapolis, amounted to the sum of $1228.55. This amount was allotted to 172 boats, being less than $7.50 each a sum almost too small to be worth considering, when we think of the hazard and the uncertainty of the industry. And further that this sum does not come from the revenue of Canada as does other subsidies.

Another phase of this question we must be careful to keep well in mind, namely, that to increase the income of the fisherman by better facilities for the carrying on of his business, is totally different from increasing the income of the miner, mechanic factory operative or lumberman. To increase the wages of these latter is certain to added to the cost of what they produce and consequently the price of goods made by them, but to increase by better facilities the income of the fisherman, is merely increasing the quantity of his product and consequently his income, without increasing the price.

This is a matter of vital importance to the carrying on of the fisheries in this part of our Province, and the present session of Parliament should not end without some action being taken by them to make an appropriation for the purpose of providing a low tide harbor on this section of coast.

An engineer should be sent there and a survey made without delay, to find if it is practicable by means of a breakwater and dredging to make such a harbor. If the capacity of the place provided did not exceed two or three acres even, with one and a half or two fathoms of water at low tide, such a place would soon become a headquarters for the fisheries of that piece of coast.

Even if the amount voted by Parliament for such a purpose was only sufficient to make a beginning, then let that beginning be made. It is unjust to these toilers of the sea to allow the present conditions to continue and it is also unwise from the standpoint of the national interest. A large number of people employed in this industry means a larger market for the farming manufacturer, merchant and producer of others goods. Too long have the fishermen of this part of our coast been handicapped by the present state of affairs, and they now look to the present administration to give them that just measure of attention and assistance that they are entitled to.

Yours truly,
HIRAM R. MACKAY.
THE HOME PAPER.

When the evenin' shade is fallin' at the endin' o' the day,
An' a feller rests from labour smokin' his pipe o' clay,
There's nothin' does him so much good, be fortune up or down,
As the little country paper from his ol' home town.

It ain't a thing o' beauty an' its print ain't always clean,
But it straightens out his temper when a feller's feelin' mean:
It takes the wrinkles off his face an' brushes off the frown,
That little country paper from his ol' home town.

It tells of all the parties an' balls of Punkin row,
'Bout who spent Sunday with his girl an' how the crops'll grow;
How it keeps a feller posted 'bout who is an' who is down,
That little country paper from his ol' home town.

Now I like to read the dailies an' the story papers, too,
And at times the yellow novels an' some other trash—don't you?
But when I want some readin' that will brush away a frown,
I want that little paper from my ol' home town.

The Late Aubrey Vidito

Dear Mrs. Vidito: It is with a heavy heart that I acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated Feb. 17, 1919. I would have written long ere this but did not receive your letter until I arrived in England. Yes, Mrs. Vidito, I knew your husband, he was a splendid fellow quiet and unassuming in manners, willing and splendid worker, faced dangers and difficulties in a calm and resourceful way. I knew his Battalion well in France, but became acquainted with him when he joined the 1st Bridging Co. He was one of the first men in the company that I struck up friendship, a friendship that grew stronger until the Angel of Death visited him. He was a very handy boy, so was placed in charge of the Sigs' Mess. Working in this capacity, he and I were flung constantly together, so often he assisted me in getting Marquee ready and fitted for the recreation of the men. Thus we often shared the same meal and slept under the same canvas. Our camp in Palestine was situated four miles from the sea of Galilee and in a very unhealthy part of the country. That combined with the other terrible hardships we had to endure, and lack of food, medicine, etc., played havoc with our men. Only five out of the whole company did not go to the hospital with Malaria fever or other illness. I was one of the men who did not go sick, so I turned the Y. M. C. A. into a hospital on many occasions. Your husband assisted me in the work of mercy. But the day arrived when he ran a high temperature himself. We persuaded him to take several days' rest, but before the week was up he came back to duty again. Later on he took sick again. This time I took him to my marquee and everything that could be done with facilities at our command was done for him. In sickness as in strength he was quiet and uncomplaining. Every time I would put the question, "How do you feel now," he would give the same answer "Not too bad," but his temperature showed him to be more sick than he would admit, so I gathered together his personal belongings and packed his kit and sent him off to the hospital at Hafia (seaport on the Mediterranean). One day we were notified by telegram about the death of a few of our men and your husband and my friend's name on the list. As far as I could learn, a cold set in after the Malaria and the complication caused his death. Mrs. Vidito, my heart is heavy for you in your time of great grief, but in such an hour sympathy seems dull and words so cold, but I pray that Our Heavenly Father may give you Grace and strength to sustain you in this hour of trial. If I can give you any other information or be of any assistance to you, let me know. I remain, Yours Sincerely, J. M. ALLAN.

GREAT INVESTMENT RETURNS

BY SHERWOOD EDDY

I know of one friend of mine who during the last twenty years, has invested about $100,000 in a particular field in India. What is there to show for it? In that district there are 50,000 souls who have been gathered out of darkness and idolatry, who are today found in Christian churches and schools; members of a growing moral community, who have been brought to Christ through the gifts, and prayers of this one man and the workers he has sustained. He has more converts in India than I have or ever shall have. He is as much a missionary as any who is living in India. You are a missionary. You are a witness, true or false, speaking or silent, generous or selfish; you have the power to give the Gospel to a certain number of people who are living today in India without hope, and without God.

PHILLIPS BROOKS WAS ONCE ASKED:

"What is the first thing you would do if you had accepted a call to become the pastor of a small discouraged congregation that is not even meeting its current expenses?" "The first thing I would do," he replied, "would be to preach a sermon on and ask the congregations to make an offering for foreign missions."

Phillips Brooks was never called to that kind of a church, but many pastors and congregations today are proving in their own experience that the best way to keep out of debt, develop a healthy church, serve the local community, is to adopt a world missionary policy and make offerings for carrying the message of Christ into all the world.

In a letter from L. F. Barkhouse, of schooner Donald & Keith, from Robert Ray, Martinique, dated April 5th, he writes that they arrived there on April 2nd, and would commence loading on the 8th, for Havre, France. They made the passage from St. John, N. B., to Barbados in 15 days, and the vessel was a good sailor.

MARINE NEWS

Burns Firth, operating one of the motor boats controlled by the Consumers' Fish Co., Yarmouth took into that port on Friday what was probably the largest codfish ever landed in Yarmouth from a fishing vessel of any kind. The huge fish measured over 5 feet in length and when dressed weighed 75 pounds. Portland Argus: It has been the general opinion in shipping orders that following the close of the war there would be a very decided drop in the value of sailing vessels, but such a condition has not developed as yet. On the contrary, sailing vessels are in good demand, and in spite of the fact that shipyards continue to launch schooners there is still a dearth of that class of vessels. As a consequence there is an upward tendency in the price of hulls, and owners who three months ago were willing to sell are now refusing anything but a top price for their craft. Digby Courier: The fishermen of Digby Neck and the Islands are enjoying an exceptionally good streak of luck. On Saturday William Tins' boat landed cod and halibut to the value of $219.75, the result of one set, but Mr. Tins' brother James did even better. We have not the exact figures, but they were in the neighborhood $350.00. Geo. Denton landed over $300, and others did equally well. On Friday at Freeport, the boats landed at the Frank E. Davis wharf about 50,000 pounds of cod and an average of 200 pounds of halibut to a boat, while Saturday's catch was much larger. On Tuesday evening the Sandy Cove Co.'s weir took about five tons of pollock; and on Wednesday morning about seven tons. Franklin & Sopher's weir on Tuesday also took about five tons and four tons on Wednesday.

Death at Mount Hanley

Our Mount Hanley correspondent writes: Our community was saddened on Friday night 8 o'clock to learn that one of our aged residents had passed away at the advanced age of 92 years Mrs. John C. Balsor, of pneumonia after being an invalid for over a year. She had a shock about 15 months after which she had to keep her bed. Having joined the church about 60 years ago she had always found the Lord her light and salvation. Rev. Solsman preached a very comforting sermon from St. John, chapter 14, text Psalm 118 7th verse. She leaves to mourn an aged husband two daughters, who were with her at the last and four sons all residing in Massachusetts, one son and one sister, fourteen grandchildren, and 8 great-grand-children. Funeral took place at the house Monday afternoon, May 27th. A large number gathered to pay the last respect to the aged residents. Among the beautiful floral offerings were carnations from Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Reigh, Middleton; Wreath of May-flowers from Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevenson, Brooklyn; Mayflowers and cut flowers from Miss Lizzie Slocumb, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Leslie Strong (granddaughter of the deceased) and a broken wreath from The Ladies' Aid Society of which she is a member. The Hymns sang at the house were very impressive. The pall bearers were: A. W. Slocumb, R. A. Barteaux, C. W. Barteaux, S. A. Barteaux.

POSTMASTER The Farming Industry On the 7th inst. an illustrative address was given by John A. Sherley, Secretary of the New England Farm and Food Foundation, at a luncheon of the Boston Show Trades Club, on "Better Farming as an Aid to New England Industry." The speaker maintained that American industry must stand or fall with agriculture. Fully 47 per cent of the working Man's income is spent for food, he pointed out. Farming can be made to pay here in New England, Mr. Sherley said. In fact, we can produce more corn and wheat per acre today than the West can produce, and there is no better field for the production of beef cattle than New England. What is true of New England is equally true of Nova Scotia and particularly of the Annapolis Valley. As a matter of fact it is the opinion of experts that our section today offers better opportunities for young farmers than any other part of the province. With the advent of the farm tractors, the inexhaustible supply of limestone within a few miles of the heart of the valley, to correct the acidity of our soil, and a plentiful supply of fertilizer manufactured in our midst, there is every opportunity within reach for a profitable, and not too laborious, business, within the reach of all ambitious farmers. The two outstanding crops, outside of the apple crop, that can be profitably grown would seem to be potatoes and turnips. Present indications are favorable for a good market in Cuban and New England markets. Crop reports from across the boarder indicate a shortage in acreage sufficient to send prices up above normal, the coming requirements of the Cuban markets. But it is not generally known that the Boston market only takes our white potatoes such as the Green Mountain, Gold Coin or Irish Cobbler. These varieties should therefore be planted in good quantities and some efforts made to establish a permanent connection in New England markets. The transportation to Boston via Yarmouth has received close attention on the part of the transportation officials and assurance is given that space will be available to take care of exports offering for this route. Sufficient time remains to increase our acreage to that of last year at least. The fact that the Boston market has taken a large quantity of our potatoes and turnips this Spring should serve as a stimulus in encouraging production.

An Efficient Railway Official

(Kentville Advertiser) Mr. F. G. Comeau, head of the Freight Department of the D. A. R. in town Thursday on business. Mr. Comeau is a man who not only understands his railway work but he understands himself well informed on incidental matters connected with railway progress but of vast importance of the country at large, such as production of food stuff, manufacturing of goods and probable increase on their distribution and sale. While in the United States recently he took up the matter of production with authorities there and from the best information he could obtain, production in the United States of the vital food supplies is likely to decrease. As there is a world shortage of food, Canada and our own province by the sea must lend its energies to plant and produce to the limit.
