The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shell contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

PREFACE.

Some write to make money by amusing the crowd ; some to please their own fancy ; some to obtain notoriety ; some to instruct in some science ; and some to promote the general weal. Of the last class is, perhaps to a certain degree, the writer of this little production.

Whoever will, without disturbing the present channels of business, or wronging those engaged in them, or tax one part of the community for the benefit of the other part, discover and declare that system of industrial laws and code which will make every man, woman and child happy and contented by preventing poverty from producing want, idleness, drunkenness, misery, vice and despair ; which will aid the helpless, open the way for those out of work to be employed, and properly educate all, without permitting any exceptions, in all that concerns the best interests of every one individually, and the State as a whole, namely, in Bible knowledge, the duty and service we owe to our God, our Queen, our country, and to each other, will indeed be a benefactor of his race.

Failing to provide an effectual remedy, the writer will feel that he has not written in vain, if the contents of this pamphlet induce others to enter into the same field of speculation, and, by their productions, show how to cure present social ills, and prevent others from arising to afflict humanity.

The mode followed in this work is peculiar. It produces the Act of Parliament itself, which is intended to effect the cure.

With some modification, this Act can be adapted to countries where municipal institutions, as we have them in Canada, do not exist.

It is submitted that law is the only practical way that can be devised to cure our social ills ; and, it is hoped, that all other writers upon the subject will pursue a similar course, and not content themselves with simply formulating objections to this Act, or its sufficiency, as herein set forth, but furnish the public with their own proposed ACTS OF PARLIAMENT to effect the same objects ; then, by selecting the best part of each, the end may be attained.

CALEB P. SIMPSON.

It shall receive and take action upon the reports of their officers and of the lesser councils; hear and decide upon all petitions, complaints, applications and appeals from the decisions of subordinate officers and lesser councils; decide upon the purchasing, expropriating or leasing of any lands and premises they may deem necessary for social work or for homes; and the purchase of lots and farms, and of mortgages and other liens thereon, and other securities for debts owed by workers and applicants for entry into the social com-

XIX. The Greater Council may appoint a standing executive committee which shall meet at least once a month, and may do and perform all the duties and exercise all the powers of such council, subject to an appeal to such council, or only such powers as such council may, by by-law or resolution, from time to time confer upon such executive committee.

THE LESSER COUNCIL.

XX. The Lesser Council, or its executive and visiting committees shall meet weekly, as said council may direct. It shall open with prayer, and go carefully through the Order of Business, and close with prayer, as contained in Appendices B and C of this Act.

XXI. The secretary of each of the above committees shall have a book in which shall be recorded, in alphabetical order, the name of every man, woman and child living within the lesser municipality, ward or section represented by the council. coming; and also the names, ages, etc., of all persons in his family or household, who have come with him, or intend to follow him, to the clerk of such municipality or ward, who shall have a book of triplicate blanks for that purpose, one of which he shall retain, and shall forthwith communicate the information to the secretaries of the above mentioned executive and visiting committees of such lesser council, who shall enter the same in alphabetical order in their proper books of reference, and upon their respective rolls for the council; and one he shall fill up, sign and seal with the stamp of his office, and give to the person registering as his voucher thereof, who shall produce the same to be read by any police officer or constable demanding the same; and, in failure thereof he shall be liable to be arrested by him and held until he shall give a satisfactory account of himself to any police magistrate or justice of the peace, and duly report himself to the clerk of the municipality, as aforesaid.

XXII. There shall be two visiting committees, one composed only of males and the other of females, whose secretaries shall be paid by the lesser council of the municipality or ward in which they officiate.

XXIII. The secretaries of all committees or their agents, shall attend every meeting of the executive and visiting committees, and the meetings of the lesser council, make all necessary reports, and carry out their respective instructions.

XXIV. The meetings of all the councils, as social councils, and of all their executive and visiting committees, shall be public, and opened and closed with prayer, and shall be governed by the usual parliamentary rules and usages respecting motions and debates. Any meeting may be made private by a majority vote of the members present.

XXV. The minutes of the last meeting, if not previously so dealt with, shall be read, corrected if necessary, and confirmed.

XXVI. All communications, applications, petitions and reports shall be read, and necessary action be taken thereon.

XXVII. The roll of the names of all persons then being in the municipality, ward or section represented by the meeting, shall be called. Such roll may, for the despatch of business, be subdivided into sections, and each section may be gone over before a sub-committee, or persons specially appointed for that purpose at such meeting, or by a resolution of the lesser council.

XXVIII. The Order of Business in Appendices A and B shall be followed by the respective councils and their executive and visiting committees.

XXIX. The condition and comfort of every person in the municipality shall be reported and, where necessary, proper assistance shall be given, either by finding employment, or supplying necessaries. XXX. Cases of necessitous, sick or disabled persons, may be reported to the lesser council, who shall be maintained by it, or sent to the Home for the Helpless, Sick and Incurable hereinafter mentioned, for proper care.

XXXI. All persons receiving assistance from the lesser or greater council, shall be compellable, in the discretion of such greater council, to pay for the same, and, if necessary for that purpose, such greater council may compel them to enter into the House of Trades and Industries; or may make them become affiliated workers thereof, subject to all the rules and regulations of such House, until sufficient compensation has been made, and all interim maintenance paid for by their labor.

XXXII. Lesser Councils and all committees thereof, shall make quarterly returns on blanks to be supplied to them for that purpose, to the greater council, and also special returns, whenever they are required by the greater council, or its executive committee.

LESSER COUNCIL FUNDS.

XXXIII. The lesser council may fix an annual rate for the Local Social Fund, which shall be levied and paid to the treasurer of the lesser municipality, or ward, for the maintenance of social work, subject to the control of the lesser council. Moneys collected by either House of Labor for maintenance and charges disbursed by the lesser council, or their committee, shall be repaid by the county treasurer to the local treasurer out of the County Social Fund.

HOUSES OF TRADES AND INDUSTRIES.

XXXIV. There shall be provided in suitable places in the Dominion [Province], and in such cities and counties, as may be deemed necessary by the Minister of Trade and Industries, and the Greater Councils, respectively, suitable buildings, farms, yards and premises for workshops, offices, chambers and out-door work, with residences and lodging apartments, where free employment and a home may be furnished to all persons who may be out of work, and have no home or place of residence, and no means of support, where employment and instruction in agriculture, any mechanical art or science, or in any trade or profession, may be given, and an agricultural class be educated, to be subsequently located upon free farms, as owners thereof.

XXXV. These shops and premises shall be called, respectively, The Dominion [Provincial] House of Trades and Industries of the ——— of ———, or the House of Trades and Industries of the County, or United Counties, or City of ———, as the case may be. Any two or more counties may be combined for this purpose.

THE LABOR STAFF.

XXXVI. There shall be a staff of officers called the Labor Staff, who shall be appointed by the Governor-in-Council for the Dominion of Canada, and by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council for each Province thereof, and by the greater council of each county thereof, as occasion may require, who shall be removable at pleasure, or on cause shown, if demanded by the person to be dismissed, who shall superintend the work of maintaining discipline, and perform all the duties of a committee of management, superintend and direct the furnishing all kinds of supplies, such as tools, machinery, agricultural implements, manufacturing plants, fuel, food, clothing, and materials for the various industries.

XXXVII. They shall find the markets and manage the sales of the products of the shops, chambers, gardens, and farms, including grain and stock; administer discipline for breaches of the rules of the house, try, and if necessary, expel all persons proving lazy, or refractory, or doing any damage; or they may arrest and deliver such persons to the keeper of the House of Compulsory Labor hereinafter mentioned, or to the criminal authorities for trial and punishment, and may do all other duties necessary to the proper carrying on of the affairs of such House.

XXXVIII. The officers of the Dominion [Provincial] Labor Staff shall make weekly reports to the Minister of the Department of Trades and Industries, and those of the county staff shall make weekly reports to the warden or chief officer of the county, or of each county, in case of an union of counties, or to the mayor of the city concerned, of all cases of discipline, with the name and punishment adjudged or inflicted, or other disposal thereof, and also quarterly reports of all food, fuel, materials and other supplies procured; and of all receipts and sales of the products of the Houses of Trades and Industries and Compulsory Labor; also of all goods, grain, farm stock, [farm] products and other material for sale; and of all moneys earned, punishments inflicted, persons received and departed, hospital relief, and any other information the said Minister, Warden, Mayor or other chief officer, may call for.

XXXIX. All salaries and other compensation to any officer, councilman, assistant, or employee of the greater or lesser councils, shall be regulated by by-laws passed by said respective councils. Every office and place under the greater and lesser councils shall be filled by such respective councils.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS AND APPRENTICES.

XL. Any person, being out of work, or desirous of learning any trade, calling, or profession, or whose parents or guardians, in case of minors, cannot give sufficient education; or who has no means of support; or is leading an idle, shiftless, or immoral life, and whom the lesser council may deem proper to be taught some trade, calling, or profession, or any shop, office, farm, garden or household work, may, by it be admitted to, and compelled to enter, the House of Trades and Industries, on application by petition by such person, or by any person interested, or by any three justices of the peace of the county, or by any chief of police, with the consent of a police magistrate, to the lesser council within whose municipality such person is found or resides, who may, in their discretion, grant the prayer of such petition, or application, and recommend to the greater council the admission of such person, and the terms and conditions thereof as to trade or calling, time, and whatever else they may deem advisable; or they may make their report to the executive committee thereof, if such council is not then in session, who may order his or her immediate admission, subject, however, to the action of such greater council upon any decision of its executive committee, or of the lesser council, and an appeal to the Provincial and thence to the Dominion Department, if any, the decision of any last appeal shall be final.

XLI. Every adult, and minor over fourteen years of age, shall, for himself and herself, upon entering the House, sign with the parents and guardians, if any, an agreement embodying the terms and conditions of such entry, agreeing to observe the same, and the rules and orders of the House, the labor staff, the instructors, and all others having the proper charge of their labors and demeanor.

AFFILIATED WORKERS.

XLII. It shall not be necessary for any worker to actually reside or work in the House, or on the premises, in order to participate in its protection and benefits, but he or she may make application to the chairman of the male or female executive committee of the greater council, to be entered upon its roll, and be furnished with food, clothing, fuel, materials to be worked up, medicines, attendance, if sick or helpless, and other necessaries at his or her house, rooms, lodging, or other convenient place; and such person shall and may do his or her work at such place, or other convenient place, as the committee may direct. All work, when finished, shall be taken or reported to the manager of the sales-room, or other appointed place in the House, for valuation and sale for the benefit of the worker, in the same manner as if such worker were an actual inmate of the House.

XLIII. All such workers shall be denominated "Affiliated Workers" of the House of Trades and Industries of the Dominion of Canada, or the Province of Ontario, or of the County, or United Counties, or City of —, as the case may be, and shall be furnished with certificates thereof; and no person shall buy or receive any work, food, fuel, materials, or other supplies, which have been furnished to them as such workers, their possession whereof shall be prima facie evidence of such having been so furnished, under the penalty of being guilty of larceny by both the giver and the receiver, and the forfeiture of the certificate of being such affiliated worker; and upon conviction both shall be liable to be committed to the House of Compulsory Labor, hereinafter mentioned, to work until they shall have repaid the Dominion, Province, county or city, as the case may be, for the work, food, fuel, materials, or other supplies, so wrongfully taken, together with the cost of their arrest, trial, and other expenses, and of their maintenance in such House during the period of their respective confinements.

XLIV. Each worker and apprentice shall have his or her work and materials used valued daily, and the amount shall be set opposite to his or her name on the Workers' Roll, and in his or her worker's private pass-book, and be also entered to their credit in the Worker's Ledger. They shall also be debited, on the pass-book, roll and ledger for the necessaries supplied and chargeable for their maintenance, and the maintenance of their families, if any, and for all materials furnished them to be worked up; and be credited for all materials returned, whether worked up or not.

XLV. After deducting what is charged against him or her, less the amount of the unwrought materials on hand, the balance shall stand to his or her credit as a deposit at four per cent. per annum interest; or it may be paid over to him or her as the chief of the labor staff may elect.

XLVI. The prices of the articles and produce of the House shall be regulated by the current market prices outside. There shall never be any farming of the worker's labors.

XLVII. No person shall strike or refuse to work under the penalty of forfeiture of one month's average pay, and liability for all damages and loss resulting therefrom; and every such person may be committed by the executive committee of the Dominion or Provincial House, or the greater council, as the case may be, to the House of Compulsory Labor for a definite period, or until he or she is willing to return to work in the House of Trades and Industries, or is permitted to work at large, as may be ordered or required by the Labor Staff, subject to appeal to the proper Minister of Trades and Industries, or the executive committee of the greater council, as the case may be.

COMPULSORY LABOR.

XLVIII. There shall be attached to, or connected with, every House of Trades and Industries suitable buildings, yards, lots and premises for the confinement and employment of persons sentenced to perform forced labor. These buildings, yards, lots and premises shall be denominated "The House of Compulsory Labor of the Dominion of Canada [of the Province of Ontario], or of the County of —, or United Counties or City of —," as the case may be. The penitentiaries and gaols may be used for this purpose in the judgment of the proper authorities thereof.

XLIX. Every such House and its inmates, and all matters connected with it and them, shall be under the immediate control and management of their respective Labor Staffs, subject in all cases to an appeal to the proper Minister of Trades and Industries, or to the greater council of the county concerned, as the case may be, whose decision shall be final, unless it consents to an appeal to the said Minister.

L. No person committed to the House of Compulsory Labor shall be entitled to claim any compensation for his or her work, except as hereinafter provided for.

LI. In case any person has been committed upon a judgment or conviction for any offence, such as assault where damages have been assessed; seduction, with damages assessed; breach of promise of marriage, with damages assessed; larceny, or destruction of, or injury to property, by fire, or otherwise, with damages assessed; or assault, or assault and battery, with damages assessed; or for any other action of tort or contract, in which damages have been assessed, such person or persons need not be sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for any definite period of time; but for such time as and until his or her labor, after defraying all expenses of arrest, confinement, trial and otherwise, and also of maintenance whilst undergoing sentence, shall repay to the person or persons injured, or to their legal representative, all such damages so assessed, with all costs and charges suffered and incurred in consequence of the commission of the offence, together with the interest accrued on said damages and costs; unless such injured person, or his or her legal representative, with the consent of the Governor-in-Council, if the conviction or judgment is under a statute of the Dominion; or of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, if the conviction or judgment be under a Provincial statute; or for any breach of contract, agree, in writing, to forego all, or any part of the said damages and costs, in which case the Judge who tried the case, if still holding such office, and, if not, then any superior or county court Judge, where such person is confined, may fix a definite period of imprisonment and labor, at the expiration of which time the prisoner shall be released from further custody under said conviction.

LII. After any person so confined has made all such payments and compensation, as aforesaid, or has received such full discharge, and served such definite period, he or she shall be discharged from further custody therefor.

LIII. No person, while in such custody shall be permitted to vote at any election, and any vote so given shall be null and void.

LIV. The Labor Staffs shall have full power to make and enforce all proper rules and regulations, and lay out the work to be done by the inmates of the two Houses of Free and Compulsory Labor respectively, under the supervision and veto power of the proper Minister of Trades and Industries, or of the greater councils, as the case may be, in the absence of rules and regulations made for the same purposes.

HOMES OF THE HELPLESS, SICK AND INCURABLE.

LV. There shall be a Home or Residence provided for the helpless, sick and incurable attached to, or affiliated with, every House of Trades and Industries, for the care of all whom the proper Minister of Trades and Industries, or the greater council, may admit, on such terms as they may impose, and whom the county physician or nurse, with the consent of the lesser council, or whom the executive committee of the greater council, may deem subjects for such assistance.

LVI. Such Home or Residence may be situate anywhere in the Dominion, and may be affiliated with any number of Houses of Trades and Industries.

industries, or the greater council, or its executive committee, as the case may concern, may decide upon as a proper punishment or compensation.

THE HELPLESS, SICK AND INCURABLE.

LX. In case any person is reported in writing by the executive committee of the lesser council, to the secretary, and by him to the lesser council, or by the lesser council, or the male or female visiting committee thereof, to the secretary of the greater council, or to the chairman of the executive committee of such greater council, or to the Minister of Trades and Industries, as helpless, sick or incurable, and in need of assistance; such person shall, with the consent of the said lesser council, be immediately taken proper care of by the chairman and social committee of such lesser council at their homes, if necessary, or in some other fit and proper place, or in the Home of the Sick and Incurable; and all charges and expenses properly incurred after the service of such notice, shall be defrayed out of the Dominion (Provincial), or County Social Fund in the discretion of the said Minister, or the greater council, respectively.

LXI. All amounts so paid shall be repaid by such assisted person, or by his or her labor, if possible, in the judgment of the said Minister, or the greater council, as provided for in this Act in other cases for the payment of debts.

LXII. In case of the decease of any such person without any means of defraying the cost of maintenance or funeral expenses, the same shall be paid out of the Dominion, Provincial, or County Social Fund, as the case may be, as a benevolence.

LXIII. No person shall hereafter live or be buried as a pauper, or be laid in any pauper's corner of any burying ground in the Dominion of Canada [Province of Ontario.] Every person shall have a public funeral and burial by any religious denomination having the right, or volunteering to do so in the absence of friends or relatives, or of any expressed wish of the deceased to the contrary; the same, in the latter case, to be under the direction and management of the lesser council.

Sec. 1. The above section shall not apply to duellists, wilful suicides, murderers, or persons executed by legal process, all of whom shall be buried at the public expense, by order of the sheriff, or any coroner, as the case may be, in quicklime graves and without coffins or headstones; or be delivered for dissection, as the Attorney (General, or the Minister of Trades and Industries, or the executive committee of the greater council, may respectively direct, and no public funeral shall be permitted in any such cases.

DOMINION [PROVINCIAL] AND COUNTY SOCIAL SCHOOLS.

LXIV. There shall be attached to every House of Trades and Industries a suitable place for one or more free public schools, where the illiterate adults and children of school age living in the House, and in the vicinity, or in the county or union of counties, may be taught the elementary branches with religious instruction, comprising, amongst other subjects, duty to God, to the sovereign, to society and to parents.

LXV. The ability to repeat from memory the Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments, Apostles' Creed, Sermon on the Mount, the twenty-third Psalm, and the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy, shall be required of every person and pupil over ten years of age, as fast as, and as soon as they shall have a sufficient opportunity to learn the same.

HOMES.

LXVIII. If any person in the county is too poor to buy and pay for and own a home suitable for himself or herself and his or her family, he or she may, by petition, lay the case before the lesser council of the municipality wherein he or she resides, who, if they approve of the application, shall report the same favorably with such conditions as they may think proper, including the amount to be paid, rate of interest, time and annual payment of interest, and for the sinking fund, and amount of insurance of any building or buildings thereon, or to be erected thereon, to the greater council, who, if they also approve of the same, shall carry out the recommendation by directing the issuing of rent debentures secured upon the property purchased, for a term not exceeding sixty years, as may be deemed best for the interests of the purchaser, for the amount of the purchase money agreed upon, or, in case of non-agreement, then for such an amount as may be fixed by the greater council; or, the owner of such lot may, in lieu of such debentures, with the previous consent of such greater council to the price and terms, take a mortgage from the buyer subject to the same times and terms of payment as would have been embodied in such debentures; and upon the execution of all necessary papers, such purchaser shall be put into possession of the lot as the owner thereof. For the purposes aforesaid the greater council shall possess full power of expropriation, fixing the price or value in case of non-agreement, and the payments of principal and interest, and executing all the necessary deeds of conveyance and securities for payment, and obtaining the necessary policy or policies of insurance as aforesaid; and may thereupon, if necessary, issue an order of possession to the sheriff of the county, who shall execute the same, the fees for which shall not exceed two dollars, and ten cents a mile one way. Any lot or farm not used or required by its owner for himself or his family for actual residence or occupation, may be so expropriated and conveyed for actual occupation.

LXIX. During the time that such payments mentioned in the preceding section are being made, such purchaser, and all subsequent purchasers of such lot, shall be affiliated workers of the House of Trade and Industries, and subject to all the rules and regulations thereof as may be made by the Labor Staff, subject to appeal therefrom, as provided by the greater council.

LXX. No affiliated worker shall be permitted to sell or mortgage his said lot, or any part thereof, without having first obtained the consent of both the lesser and greater councils to the same, and to all the terms thereof, and any sale or mortgage made without such consent shall be void.

LXXI. Any owner of land within the county, may, on application to the greater council, or its executive committee, have his lot or lots entered without charge in the office of the clerk of the greater council, and such land shall, thereafter, and until released by a two-third vote of such greater council, after ten days' notice of such intended vote being about to be taken has been first given to all parties interested therein, be subject to the same terms and conditions before being sold or mortgaged, as are herein imposed for the sale or mortgage of lands of workers and affiliated workers.

LXXII. The greater council may, upon the request of any lesser council, or upon the petition of the husband, his wife, or children, or of ten credible persons, who are acquainted with the circumstances, and whether the owner consents or objects, or is out of the Province of Ontario, enter the lot or lots of any owner of land in the county, in the office of the clerk of the greater council of said county; and obtain a certificate thereof, and thereupon the same shall be subject, as to sale and mortgage, to the same conditions, as the lands of affiliated workers, until the greater council shall see fit to order said entry to be vacated as herebefore provided for other lands, and upon notice given as aforesaid.

LXXIII. All orders, or a sworn copy thereof, of the greater council relating to lands may be registered or filed in the registry office of their municipality, and shall be filed free of charge. The fees for searching all registrations made after the filing of such first order, shall be twenty-five cents, and no more. This fee includes the fee for the certificate of the registrar with the abstract of all said registrations.

DEBTORS AND CREDITORS.

LXXIV. Any debtor may apply to the lesser council of any municipality, by petition, stating his full indebtedness, the names and address of all his creditors, his assets, and business, and his inability to pay the same, and furnishing the particulars, all being sworn to be correct as nearly as he can give them, and such lesser council shall thereupon, if they entertain such application favorably, report upon it to the greater council, and recommend what action they deem proper to be taken in the matter. Such greater council is empowered to subpoena and examine witnesses on oath, and order the production of all books and papers, and may either refuse such application, or receive the same, and in the latter event, they shall or may direct the entry and employment of such debtor in the House of Trades and Industries as a worker or affiliated worker, and may direct the reservation of a portion of his earnings for his creditors; or they may pay off, or compromise with, his creditors, and sell or lease his property, or take a mortgage security upon his property, or register the same under this Act, or take such other security as the debtor can give to their satisfaction, for the payment of such debts and interest in periodical payments extended over a period not exceeding sixty years.

LXXV. Such debtor, after being so entered as in the last preceding section, shall be liable to perform all the duties and shall observe all the rules, regulations and orders binding on him, until he or she shall have repaid all said indebtedness and interest, and all interim maintenance of himself and family.

Sub-sec. 2. In case of the death of such debtor before the full payment of all his liabilities as aforesaid, his assets shall be disposed of as the greater council may determine.

LXXVI. Any creditor may present a petition to the lesser council within whose municipality the debtor resides, asking to have such debtor entered as a worker, or affiliated worker, of the House of Trades and Industries; and, thereupon, such or similar action may be taken as in cases where the petition has been presented by the debtor himself.

LXXVII. As soon as any House of Trades and Industries has been established in any county or union of counties, the jurisdiction of all courts for the mere collection of debts owed by workers and affiliated workers shall be suspended therein, as far as respects the said workers and affiliated workers; and all such debts shall thereafter be collectable only in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for such payment.

LXXVIII. No worker, or affiliated worker of any House of Trades and Industries, shall be permitted to incur any debt during the time he or she is such worker; and all advances of money or property made to any such worker, shall be considered gratuitous, and no compensation therefor shall be recoverable, unless they are made with the prior or subsequent consent of the greater council, or its executive committee.

MORTGAGORS.

LXXIX. Any person entitled to, or interest in, lands, which are under any mortgage, execution or other claim, may apply to the lesser council of the municipality within which the encumbered lands lie, by petition stating all claims against the lands, the assessed value thereof for each year of the previous five years, and showing by the affidavits of three disinterested freeholders the actual cash value thereof, and producing, before the said lesser council, the registrar's abstract of the title thereof, and may thereupon pray the said lesser council to have all the encumbrances thereon paid off out of the County Social Fund, or by money raised by mortgage thereon, under this Act, on the terms set forth in said petition; or that the petition may be dealt with in such other manner as the greater council may decide.

LXXX. If the said lesser council approve of the prayer of the petition, it may report favorably thereon to the greater council for its final decision. It may also state any terms it approves of, the amounts and times of repayment into the County Social Fund, said time not to exceed sixty years, the rate of interest to be paid, and any other terms it may see fit to recommend.

LXXXI. The greater council may investigate the matter, examine witnesses on oath and call for papers, and may either refuse or grant the prayer of the petition. In case of accepting the same, it may, if expedient, raise the amount required by a mortgage on the land, or it may direct the issue of debentures for the amount required and times agreed upon, pay off the debts of the petitioner, and register against the lands a certificate stating the amount, times of payment of the instalments, rate of interest and other essential items, and also that such lands and all occupants thereof are liable, during their respective occupations, to perform all the conditions of repayment, and all the rules and regulations of the Houses of Trades and Industries and Compulsory Labor, until the amount aforesaid and interest and other claims thereon shall have been fully repaid into the County Social Fund.

LXXXII. In case of any default in the payments, or observance of the terms and conditions, or rules and regulations of the House or Houses aforesaid, the executive committee of the greater council may, with the approval of such council, take possession of said lands, and lease or sell the same, and, in case of leasing, it may compel the debtor or debtors so in default to enter the House of Trades and Industries, or House of Compulsory Labor, to assist in paying off the amount or balance due on said lands, and all expenses connected therewith, when, in case the lands have been leased he may again be let into possession thereof as a tenant or owner, in the discretion of the said committee.

LXXXIII. In case of any defect arising in the proper working of this Act, authority is hereby vested in the [Lieutenant] Governor in Council to make all necessary rules and orders to remedy such defects. The holding of the proper meetings for the appointment of the necessary officers and committees, and all other steps may be so directed to be taken and made.

THE DOMINION [PROVINCIAL] SOCIAL FUND.

LXXXIV. The Dominion [Provincial] Social Fund shall be voted by Parliament, and for such an amount as it may deem expedient.

THE COUNTY SOCIAL FUND.

LXXXV. The greater council of every county shall fix the amount of money that may be required for the current year's ordinary expenditure to maintain the Social Department of the County. Such amount shall be levied in the manner and at the time of levying the county rates for municipal purposes, and shall be paid to the county treasurer, who shall keep separate books of account thereof, and of all payments thereout.

LXXXVI. The Dominion [Provincial] Minister of Trades and Industries shall order the payment of all moneys out of the Dominion [Provincial] Social Fund, and make all necessary rules and regulations relative thereto, and the greater councils shall make all necessary rules and regulations for the reception, management and payment out, of all county social funds; and for the quarterly, or half yearly, audit thereof, and for the proper working of this Act, except where otherwise provided for herein.

LXXXVII. The surplus earnings of all workers, affiliated workers, apprentices and debtors, on the rolls of the county Houses of Trades and Industries and Compulsory Labor, mortgagors, equity holders of rights of redemption of lands, or in any way interested therein as tenants or otherwise, and all other workers, whose earnings are to be used in social work; and the profits on all sales of the products of the said House, and of all the lands connected therewith, shall be paid into their respective County Social Funds, and be subject to the orders and control of their greater councils.

IMMIGRATION.

LXXXVIII. There shall be constituted, in connection with the Dominion and each Provincial Department of Trades and Industries, an Immigration Bureau consisting of a Head Officer and Staff, under the direction and management of the Minister of Trades and Industries of the Dominion and Provinces respectively.

LXXXIX. It shall be the duty of these respective staffs to keep a close account of the demands, from time to time, of the principal markets of the world for the products of the field, mine, forest, and manufacturing industries, in order to gauge, as nearly as possible, these various productions in this country with such demands, and thereby guard against over-production in any of them, and to regulate the number of workers and apprentices in each branch of such productions.

XC. It shall be the duty of these staffs to instruct all immigration agents; to prescribe rules and regulations for selecting and receiving the names of all intending settlers who have not sufficient money to pay their expenses, and ask for aid; assigning to each of them the trade or calling they shall follow in this country; obtain their signatures, before being received as immigrants, to an agreement containing the terms of their being received and assisted in coming out to this country; the work they shall do; their liability to be compelled to enter some House of Trades and Industries, if necessary to do so, to repay the Department for all expenses of bringing them out to this country; and also their liability to be compelled to enter the House of Compulsory Labor, if necessary, for such purpose.

XCI. Each Department, and each greater council, within their respective municipalities, shall keep lists of all unsettled lots, whether owned by the Crown, or companies, or private individuals, with the valuation of the last two classes of property as wild lands, and as shown on the assessment rolls of the last five years for the purposes of expropriation and settling immigrants and others thereon, as fast as they are qualified to occupy and work them under farm instructors.

XCII. That each Bureau shall select and occupy, for short or long periods, both cultivated and wild lots, as places of instruction in chopping, clearing, ploughing, sowing, manuring, and for caring for and harvesting grain, hay, roots, and other crops; and for giving instruction for and working in various kinds of minerals, and preparing the same for market. Bible instruction shall be given to all inmates of the Houses of Trades and Industries and Compulsory Labor, and on said farms of instruction, in those chapters herein prescribed for the schools, and all Sabbath days shall be most religiously observed, and devoted to Bible reading and instruction, only works of necessity and charity being done thereon.

XCIII. That as soon as any immigrant, or other worker, or any other person whatever, becomes able to clear and cultivate land, or to manage a farm, and keep proper books of account thereof, there shall be given to him, or her, a certificate of fitness, which shall entitle him or her to make, free of charge, choice of one hundred acres of any of the then unsettled lots belonging to the Crown, or of any greater council, or of any unoccupied lands of any company, or other owner on said lists of said Bureau.

2. The Department shall thereupon erect for him, or her, a suitable house thereon, and provide proper farming implements, seed grain and supplies for one year; and shall put in the deed issued to him, or her, clauses stating the property, and price of the land if owned by any company or person, the amount of supplies and the terms of payment of interest, and for the sinking fund to be made annually, such time not to exceed sixty years. If the lands of any company or private person are selected, the settler shall pay for them also in the same time and manner. The amount shall be fixed by the proper Minister, or the greater council, where one exists, having jurisdiction over said land.

XCIV. No settler under this Act shall be permitted to sell, mortgage or exchange his or her lot, or supplies without the consent of the Department, or its agents, or the greater council; and any person taking such supplies shall, with the giver, be guilty of larceny.

XCV. In case any settler shall be in default in his payments, or become improvident, intemperate, lazy, or immoral, or does not properly support his family, he may be compelled to enter into the House of Trades and Industries, or work at farming on his own, or some lot occupied or owned by any company, or person, or by the Department, and, if necessary, he may be required to enter a House of Compulsory Labor, until he shall have repaid to the Department the cost of bringing him out, and his family, if any, to this country, in case he was so brought out; and also all charges for his and his family's maintenance while under instruction, and the amount due for all supplies and other material, and for all care taken of him as such settler, shall have been fully paid back to the said Department, or to the said County Social Fund.

XCVI. Instructors shall visit every settler as often as necessary, and carefully instruct him in the mode of cultivating his farm, taking care of his stock, and assist him in keeping his accounts. He shall give him written authority to procure any necessary articles of food, clothing, or implements of work, and insuring his property, buildings and crops, the cost of all which shall be added to the amount already advanced, and be repaid therewith.

XCVII. There shall be prepared annually by the executive committees of the Dominion, Provincial and greater councils, carefully prepared particulars of all supplies and other property furnished, and the names, nationality, age and religion of all settlers located, which shall be given, after being duly sworn to as correct as can be made, to each Bureau of Immigration for the Minister of Trades and Industries, and be by him laid before his proper parliament within the first ten days of its first assembling for business.

XCVIII. In order to maintain the equilibrium of supply and demand of all productions of manufactures, the Dominion Government shall annually declare what branches of industry may be safely enlarged, and what must be diminished in view of the world's supply and demand; and the number of workers that may be employed in each; and it shall be the duty of each Province to increase or decrease the number within its jurisdiction, by voluntary changes to other occupations, or for a free farm under this Act. Provided always, that any worker may, at any time, obtain such a farm, if he is, in all respects, at liberty and qualified to do so in the judgment of the greater council over him.

XCIX. The [Dominion] Provincial Parliaments shall make such provisions and regulations respecting matters within its jurisdiction as may be deemed best for the public service.

C. This Act shall come into force from and after the passing thereof, and every municipality and ward shall make all necessary preparations for the due working thereof within six months afterwards, and report the same to the Attorney General of the [Dominion] Province, and publish a notice to the same effect in the several newspapers printed in each county.

APPENDIX C.

OPENING PRAYER.

Almighty God, Father of all mercies, we, Thy unworthy servants, do give Thee most humble and hearty thanks for all Thy goodness and loving kindness to us and to all men. We bless Thee for our creation, preservation and all the blessings of this life; but above all, for Thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ, for the means of grace and the hope of glory. And we beseech Thee give us that due sense of all Thy mercies, that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful, and that we show forth Thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up ourselves to Thy service, and by walking before Thee in holiness and righteousness all our days, through Jesus Christ our Lord, to Whom, with Thee and the Holy Ghost, be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven, give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

CLOSING PRAYER.

Almighty God, who hath given us grace at this time with one accord to make our common applications unto Thee, and dost promise that when two or three are gathered together in Thy Name, Thou wilt grant their request; fulfil now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of Thy servants as may be most expedient for them, granting us in this world knowledge of Thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting. Amen.

BENEDICTION.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit, be with us all evermore. Amen. 2 Cor. 13.

GRACE BEFORE MEAT.

Sanctify, O Lord, this portion of food which Thou hast provided for the nourishment of our frail and decaying bodies to our use. Do Thou feed our souls with the bread of life, and all we ask is for Jesus' sake. Amen.

NOTE—Instead of organizing a separate department of Trades and Industries under a Minister of the Crown, as provided in section 1. of the foregoing Act, there could be attached provisionally to one or more of the present Ministers' offices a department or bureau of Trades and Industries, and of Immigration, under the management of deputy ministers or controllers and their respective staffs.

2. In place of electing female councillors as Social Councillors, as provided in section VIII of said Act, the powers and duties of the present municipal councillors could be enlarged so that they could do all the duties and acts, and appoint all the officers, committees and assistants, as set forth in the foregoing Act, and the rights of women to elect and appoint an equal representation on all committees, and as officers and assistants, and their powers, rights and duties on their own separate visiting and other committees, could be respectively declared.

3. It is not necessary to construct Houses of Trades and Industries and Compulsory Labor before putting the Act into operation. For the voluntary work, suitable premises could be secured in cities, towns and rural districts for the various trades and manufacturing, and farm lands could be obtained anywhere for farm instruction and field and garden labor, until special buildings and premises could be prepared.

The Salvation Army has officers specially adapted to superintend almost all kinds of industries, which are included in their fields of work, and could, if it were thought expedient, be utilized for the several branches of industry in the Houses and on the farms. The gaols, gaol yards, Central Prison and penitentiaries, and ball and chain for street, yard and field work, could be utilized for those sentenced to perform compulsory labor.

THE SOCIAL PROBLEM.

PART II.—VOLUNTARY ASSOCIATIONS.

CONSTITUTION.

Whereas, until Social Organizations of Trades and Industries are established by law, it is expedient that there should be formed voluntary associations having the same objects in view, and to carry out the same, as far as may be practicable, without the aid of legal enactment.

I. It is therefore resolved by the men and women here present, qualified to vote under the Act proposed in this matter, that there be now formed a Provisional Association of Trades and Industries for the Dominion of Canada, and that we proceed to organize lesser and greater councils in and for the County, [City] of——to be called the—— Social Council of Trades and Industries of the County [City] of——; and that the said Social County [City] Council be hereinafter called the Greater Council, with such lesser councils connected therewith in each township, ward or section, as may be deemed best.

THE GREATER COUNCIL.

II. Such Greater Council shall be provisional only, and shall consist of twenty-four members—fifteen of whom shall form a quorum—twelve males and twelve females, who shall be selected carefully by the majority of those present at a public meeting called for that purpose, and qualified as aforesaid and chosen for their ability, willingness and public spirit in the work of promoting the peace and welfare of the suffering.

III. Those who have been chosen shall meet as soon as convenient and complete their organization by electing, from among their number, a chairman—who may be a male or female—a vice-chairman, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer or book-keeper, an executive committee of ten or more male and female members in equal numbers, any six of whom shall form a quorum, with such other officers, assistants and committees as the Greater Council may from time to time deem expedient.

IV. That such provisional Greater Council shall continue in existence until a sufficient number of lesser councils have been formed in the county or city whose representatives in the Greater Council shall exceed the said number of twenty-four, whereupon they shall hold a joint meeting with the members of the said Greater Provisional Council, and re-organize the same by electing officers and appointing committees thereof, said officers to consist wholly of members representing the lesser councils, but the committees and assistants may consist of any suitable persons selected for their ability and integrity, whether they are representatives or members of any lesser councils or not.

LESSER COUNCILS.

V. Lesser Councils shall be formed with all convenient dispatch in every ward, division and school section, or union thereof, as the inhabitants of the county, or city, may deem best, and shall continue in existence until they are, from time to time, superseded by members selected at the time when Municipal Councillors are chosen.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS.

VI. On the day of the nomination of municipal councillors, the friends of the Lesser Council shall attend and put in nomination for municipal councillors under the present Municipal Act, as many as they can obtain, who are pledged to support and carry out the aims and objects of the Social Councils of Trades and Industries, and a sufficient number of others to make up the same numbers as compose the municipal council.

VII. In case any municipal male councillors, who were supported by the Social Association, are defeated at the polls, then the friends of the social councils shall, at a subsequent meeting to be called for that purpose, nominate and elect, as male members of the social council, a sufficient number to take the places of their defeated male candidates, and of any others who may not be able to serve.

VIII. At the municipal nomination, or at any subsequent meeting of the Association for that purpose, there shall be chosen as members of the lesser social council, as many women as there are members in the municipal council, who shall be called respectively, the social reeve, social deputy reeve and social councillors, according to the number of votes they respectively receive, or as they are nominated for these respective offices.

IX. It is desirable to have, if possible, all the elected municipal councillors members of the Social Association, or pledged to sit and work with the social councillors, in which case it will be necessary to elect the same number of female members as social councillors, to sit and act with them at all meetings of the social council. The members of the municipal council, who have certain powers under the Municipal Institutions' Act, can, in their county, city, township and ward council meetings, exercise these powers, as far as possible, in carrying out the resolutions of the social council of which they are members or friends, until such time as a law has been passed conferring proper powers upon the Greater and Lesser Councils.

THE GREATER COUNCIL.

X. This council shall exercise all the powers, do all the duties and appoint all the committees and assistants, as provided for in the proposed Act hereinbefore set forth, so far as they are legally authorized to do so. They shall meet quarterly, fix the amount of the capitation tax to be paid by the members of the lesser councils under this Constitution, and which shall be five cents per head monthly, until otherwise ordered by the said Greater Council; and do all the business in their power, as contained in Appendices A and C, of said proposed Act. They shall also do all in their power to obtain, as soon as possible, the passage of the said Act by the proper legislatures.

THE LESSER COUNCIL.

XI. This council shall, as far as it legally can, exercise all the powers, do and perform all the duties, and appoint all the committees and assistants, as prescribed in the Act aforesaid respecting it; and for that purpose, shall, at every sitting, and weekly, either by itself, or its executive committee, go through the Order of Business set forth in Appendices B and C of said Act.

MEMBERSHIP AND FUNDS.

XII. In order to carry out the objects set forth in the said Act, as far as possible, and until the same or some other has been made a law, the lesser council may open books of membership, and admit, in their discretion, applicants for membership in the Association, to be called the Social Association of the ward, section, township, county, or city of——, as the case may be.

They may fix the entrance fee and weekly, monthly or quarterly dues, and solicit subscriptions in money, clothing, or food, with a view to raise funds for and by their work. They may admit honorary members at a yearly sum of five dollars and upwards, to assist in said work. They may also fine, suspend or expel members convicted of dishonesty or immoral actions.

XIII. It is not designed that the care of the lesser council shall be confined to the members of the Association only, but shall be extended, as much as possible, to every man, woman and child in the ward, section, division, or township, as the case may be.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS AND COMMITTEES.

XIV. The duties of the respective officers and committees shall be the same, as far as their legal powers extend, as those laid down in the said proposed Act. They are to be allowed such compensation as the respective councils may, from time to time, determine.

The greater and lesser councils may lease premises for farms, gardens, work-shops, and other places for workers, start factories, wood-yards, laundries, tailor-shops, dress-making, boot and shoe making, stores, carpenter shops etc., and take such other steps to give or find employment, and provide for the helpless, sick and needy as they may see fit.

MOTIONS AND DEBATES.

XVI. All motions, resolutions, and debates shall be governed by parliamentary rules and usages.

ORDERS OF BUSINESS.

See Appendices A, B, and C, of the foregoing Act.

COMMITTEES.

XVII. There shall be appointed by every greater and lesser council, an executive committee of five men and five women, members of the respective councils, who shall appoint from among their number, officers as mentioned in the said Act, also visiting committees composed of equal numbers of men and women, who need not be members of any lesser Council, and such other committees and assistants as they may deem necessary.

SALARIES.

XVIII. It is advised that secretaries and others, whose time is seriously drawn upon, be paid such salaries per day, week, or otherwise, as may be deemed advisable.

THE DOMINION COUNCIL.

XIX. The first organized provisional greater council shall be the first Provisional Dominion Council of Trades and Industries, until their successors are appointed as hereinafter provided.

XX. As soon as there is a sufficient number of lesser councils created, and the united delegations from them consisting of four delegates from each council for every hundred members thereof, shall exceed the number of members constituting the Provisional Dominion Council, such delegates may meet the said Council and work with them one year before organizing the Dominion Social Council under the Act, or this Constitution. Every subsequent Dominion Council shall be formed by the election of the Dominion officers and committees of the Dominion Association, composed of its representatives, consisting of the president, vice-president and secretaries of each greater and lesser council at the annual meeting of the said Dominion Association on the first Tuesday in August, in every year, when the general business of the whole membership of all the lesser and greater councils shall be decided upon. This meeting shall have the supreme power over every council and all the affairs of the Association. In case it shall not act in any matter, then the Dominion Council is hereby invested with full power to do so. It shall decide all appeals to it from any of the councils, and by any person whomsoever.

XXI. The Dominion Council shall be the head of all the councils in Canada, and direct their movements, except as otherwise provided for in said Act, or by the Dominion Association at its annual meeting.

XXII. All matters arising in any lesser or greater council, or not herein provided for, may be disposed of by the said lesser or greater council respectively, with the right of appeal to the greater council against any decision of its lesser council, the decision of the greater council to be final, unless it consents to an appeal to the Dominion Council, in which case the decision of the said Dominion Council shall be final unless notice is given of an appeal to the annual meeting of the Dominion Association.

CHARTERS.

XXIII. It shall issue charters, provide constitutions, by-laws, rules of order, orders of business and blank returns for the greater and lesser councils, and fix the fees for charters, books and supplies, and also the assessment rates for all the councils for Dominion purposes.

The charter fee for all the councils shall, until otherwise declared by the Dominion Council, be twenty-five dollars, and the annual dues to the Dominion Council shall be ten cents for each member of the lesser councils, payable five cents on the first day of January, and five cents on the first day of July, in every year, when the semi-annual returns are made by each lesser council to the Dominion Council.

POLITICS.

XXIV. It shall rigorously ignore all political issues, except those connected with the object of the Social Association; namely, the temporal and spiritual welfare of every human being in Canada.

RELIGION.

XXV. It shall not propagate any peculiar tenets of any church, that is, it shall not be sectarian, but it shall vigorously uphold the teaching of the Bible, as a whole book, in every school and everywhere else.

RELIGIOUS TEST.

XXVI. There shall be no religious test but one required of every office holder, namely; belief in the whole Bible as the inspired word of God.

CHARITY.

XXVII. Its motto shall be, "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

True Christian Brotherhood.

PART III.—CONCLUSION.

CHRIST'S BROTHERHOOD.

“ We are living, we are dwelling
In a grand and awful time,
In an age on ages telling—
To be living is sublime.
Hark ! the rumbling in the nations,
Iron crumbling with the clay ;
Hark ! what soundeth ? 'Tis creation
Groaning for a better day.

Scoffers scorning, Heaven beholding,
Thou hast but an hour to fight ;
See prophetic truth unfolding,
Watch ! and keep thy garments white.
Oh, let all the soul within you,
For the truth's sake, go abroad !
Strike ! let every nerve and sinew
Tell on ages—tell for God !”

WHAT IS REQUIRED.

The question, "What is coming?" is being continually asked by every man of himself and sometimes of his neighbor. We talk of the onward march of the nations, the times, and of this and the other great movement in the world, and the enquiry, "What is coming?" forces itself upon our attention whether we will or not. The multiplicity of great movements to-day is becoming bewildering to keep track of and appreciate their trend. Science is opening up new fields of discovery, whilst affording unlimited scope for the human mind to labor in the old ones. Politics, corrupted and destructive of the best interests of the nation, is demanding purification if society is to be saved, and patriots are busy in this work. Social want and vice are looming up in dreadful proportions, and philanthropists are trying to solve the problem of human misery. The cause, sin against God and light, is well known. Man has wandered away from his best friend, who has lovingly followed him all these ages, and now man is making a pause to consider what road next to take to reach the goal of bliss, and God is drawing nearer to him and pointing out the way. Every road so far tried by the nations has led to disaster and disappointment. Man has devised all sorts of governments and institutions in the effort to secure social ease, comfort and national prosperity, and every experiment has so far failed in just the proportion in which God has been left out of the schemes and constitutions of the nation builders. The last great experiment without God is being tried on the declared equal rights of all men and universal suffrage made necessary as the keystone of the structure. After over a century of experiment, what has been so far the result? It is needless to say that disappointment lurks in every department of the experiment, and social and industrial disorders almost threaten revolution. "What is coming?" is the disturbing question, the reply to which the politician is continually postponing until "to-morrow."

It can be truly said that the great panacea of human ills is coming. Every day witnesses some new reform or enterprise to promote man's comfort, the exposure of some wrong, individual or social, that calls for remedy, and thus the "good time coming" is, and has been present and on the way for a number of years. Its presence was signalized when Martin Luther held up the open Bible for the nations to read, when King John was forced by the barons of England to sign the Magna Charta, when reform after reform of abuses were from time to time effected in Great Britain and other European countries, and incorporated in the social body politic of the nations, when printing was discovered and Morse introduced the telegraph system, when the first steamer crossed the Atlantic, and the cable was laid, when electricity and a thousand other agencies and discoveries were brought to aid man in his work of subduing the earth and promoting social bliss. This good time is still present in all its increasing forces preparing the way to higher bliss and greater achievements. People are calmly considering the near time when horses will not be used on the road unless for special purposes, when our streets will be kept clean and level as floors for bicycles, and steam and electric carriages, and foot passengers, when travel will be cheapened, when no one can be found out of work, and the comfort of every one will be looked after and secured. Then will the "good time coming" be here, and have come to stay.

Another great question that is to-day in every man's mouth, as the forced expression of his heart is, "What must society do to be saved from its social ills?" It may be replied, that society is only an organized congregation of individuals, and if each of these individuals is "all right" then society will be equally so. But, reflection will show that this is not the case, because at present the good are starving or otherwise suffering with the bad; in short, right is too much on the scaffold and wrong on the throne of the word's dominion. The process of the dethroning of right and injustice by the enthroning of right and justice, is rapidly going on all over the earth. In some countries the work is much more advanced than in others. In Britain, society, although much still remains to be done, presents the most advanced front, whilst other nations are following hard after its footsteps. The work of elevating a people is twofold. The leading means is the Gospel, the study of an open Bible; and the necessary supplement is human legislation.

Civil government is of divine appointment, and must therefore be based on God. "By wisdom, kings reign and princes decree justice." The Bible is the key-stone of the British Constitution, and the sovereign is sworn to maintain the Protestant religion, which is the Bible and the Bible only. Any State or nation that does not recognize God, and build on His book as the divine word, stands upon sand, and will not endure long in these days of light and knowledge.

When the Lord established His chosen people of old in Canaan, He gave them statute law, as well as His perfect moral code in the Ten Commandments, and whilst we have His infallible code of creed in an open Bible, we also require the aid of statute law to supplement it, that society in its modern changed and changing relations, may be preserved from every avoidable evil. There is a widespread admission that society is not yet perfectly organized. That in no country do the people possess a system of social laws by which men and women are saved from the evils of want. In fact, as at present constituted, it is affirmed that the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer. Discontent broods, combinations of various classes of industries are formed, war on the capitalist is considered and sometimes inaugurated to the injury of both sides, as well as to the general community. The true remedy, therefore, has not yet been applied.

We believe as before suggested, that such remedy is to be found only in plain STATUTE LAW, a law which will wrong no man, rich or poor, and benefit all in the community without distinction of race, creed or color, of age, sex or condition; a law as universal in its application and effects as the Gospel. It may be thought that this is a bold statement, and it may be, but it is just the law that is needed, and must in the end be obtained. It must be built on God as the supplemental civil code of His spiritual and religious laws, and blend and merge into them, thus forming a perfect religious and social State. The people as a whole must assist in the work, securing and maintaining the welfare of society and of every person fortunate or unfortunate, in it.

CANADA'S CONDITION.

A look at Canada's extent of territory, boundless resources, people and business, is quite sufficient to show that a great wrong exists in its social organization. When, with our scant population, thousands of able bodied men and women lack employment and need homes, whilst millions of acres of rich lands lie unoccupied all over our vast domain, and no efficient attempt is being made, or even advocated, to bring these two principal factors of wealth, prosperity and contentment together, there is something radically wrong in our government. Not only is there room for a home for every one, and a way to enable him to pay for it, but there are farms for millions more, who are shut up in the overpopulated districts in our Mother Land, homeless and despairing, and who possess physical power and willing hearts that would soon enable them to have comfortable homes on our prairies and woodlands, if they were put on them. Ontario has a population of 2,114,321 with 10 inhabitants to the square mile; England has 445 to the square mile, and a total of 29,000,000 of people; Scotland 122, with 3,735,000; Ireland 159, with 5,159,839; Norway 15, with 1,913,000; Sweden 26, with 4,572,000. France is a little larger than Ontario. It has 204,096 square miles, and a population of 37,672,000, with 185 to a square mile.

What a melancholy showing Canada, with 4,832,679, makes alongside these nations! Ontario alone, if it had half the population into a square mile that England possesses, would have more than France. It would have 42,000,000 of people instead of 2,112,989 (in 1891), with a stagnated growth and no proper immigration or land settling department. Why we are not settling up our lands with people from the British Isles we need not stop to inquire. The subject is too sad to allow of any pleasure to be derived in the contemplation of it. We have lost twenty-five years of golden opportunities and probably ten millions of people, and all the vast wealth of business, a home market, and a standing among the nations, that a population of fifteen or twenty millions, with an ever increasing numbers, would have given us.

We owe two hundred and forty millions of dollars for railroads, canals, public buildings, etc., of which all that pay any profits have been given to individuals, who are thereby rolling in wealth, when they should have been kept by the State, and would have been, if we had been patriotically and honestly governed.

Let us put in order what yet lies within our power. A proper social law, such as that here proposed, would provide plenty of work for all our own people without any distinction of age, sex, creed, color, or condition, as well as homes for millions more, who would be attracted to our shores, whose combined industries would usher in an era of abundance and contentment.

It would draw thousands from our overpopulated cities and towns, and the British Isles, and settle them on farms of their own, and in twenty-five years we could almost, if not quite, supply Britain with all the bread and meat, required beyond her own home production.

and fire; build railroads; dig canals, copy-right books, plays and painting; erect jails, asylums and schoolhouses, and a few poor-houses; in short, that we have provided liberally for about all the comparatively minor requirements and needs of society, but have quite neglected to provide for that great voiding necessity of every man, woman and child in that society, namely: a proper home, food and clothing for every one needing them, such not to be given as an act of charity, but to be had has a right, not a gift of the rich and able, but as a possession bought and paid for by the honest labor and earnings of the owner and possessor.

Is it charity for the State to provide employment for those out of work? No. It is in the interest of society itself that none of its members should be losing their time. Is it charity to enable them to pay for their own support and add to society's wealth? No. Labor always more than pays its employer, whether he be an individual, a company, or society itself. All that the employer, whether an individual or company, should retain is a fair profit, and the balance should be paid to the worker. Society has no claim to any profits, as it has no capital invested for such a purpose. All the earnings above the actual cost of management should be paid to the worker. It is as much the duty of society to provide employment, as it is to mend its highways and bridges, abate nuisances, guard against disease, furnish food and shelter to the helpless, poor and naked, and education to the young. In each instance the general welfare of the community is promoted.

Even it were mere charity, the commonest obligations of Christianity require that such wants should be met. What kind of a religion is that which covers you with wordy blessings inside the church door, but permits you and your family to starve in the street? You say it is a bogus one. It is such in act, but not in fact. The churches have their spiritual laws. They constitute the spiritual kingdom of God, and society must supplement these laws with temporal legislation, as God did His moral laws with the ceremonial, and then both the spiritual and temporal wants of men will be provided for. All the good people society has are in the churches. They are God's storehouses of love, charity, faith, patriotism and work, and all that is needed is the open door, proper legislation, to enable them to go out into the temporal field and bring the helpless wanderers home to God, by feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, visiting the sick, and telling all of the wonderful love of Jesus for His lost ones, and His sacrifice of Himself for their temporal salvation from sin and want, and eternal happiness and glory in heaven.

Why should the church people be compelled to do all these good deeds at their own cost and sacrifice? Why should the saloons, taverns, breweries, distilleries, and other factories of vice and sin, dump their victims at the church doors for care and attention? Why should not society, which, as a whole, permits and even sanctions these evil places, as a whole, contribute its share for taking care of the consequences? This is what this Act proposes to accomplish.

It might be well, at this point, to give an illustration to show how a man may, by his daily wages, buy and pay for his own home in a city, town or village. Plenty of passable dwellings and lots can be bought for $1,000 (one thousand dollars) cash down. For such a house, a tenant in London will pay from $7 to $8 a month rent, which amounts to $84 or $96 a year, and at the end of that time he is only a tenant still, without any prospect of a home of his own. Now, suppose this Social Act was in force, the tenant could then apply to the Greater Council to buy that, or some other, lot whose owner did not need it for his own occupation, and the council, if it accepted the application (for the whole proceedings are a pure business transaction without any admixture of charity), would pay the thousand dollars to the owner and take security from the purchaser for its repayment in from ten to sixty years, as he might choose, at four per cent. per annum interest. He would thus pay forty dollars interest and five to ten dollars, according to the time agreed upon, for the sinking fund, which annual payment into the sinking fund would also draw interest, and at the end of the time the lot would be paid for, while the purchaser would be the owner from the time he bought it, and his purchase money would be less by at least one-third than his rent.

If he were paying for a house, team and outfit for a free farm, the same advantages would be extended to him. He deals with the State or the Municipality as his creditor, whose interest it is not to make money out of him, but to keep him on the land, out of which all wealth is produced. The first year's payment is $6.67 for the sinking fund. The interest on $1,000 at four per cent. is $40, so that the whole payment on principal and interest, for the first year, is only $46.67; whereas on a mortgage, at six per cent. he is paying $60 for interest alone, and nothing on principal; and for rent, $84 a year, as a mere tenant by the month, it may be.

A few words may be written about the probable opponents of such a law. As it would lessen the rate of interest on private loans to what a Municipality or State would have to pay, those who desire to lend money at higher rates, secured by mortgage on lands, would, if their selfishness exceeded their patriotism, oppose such a social scheme.

Some landlords, inasmuch as their rents would necessarily come down to meet a four per cent. outlay, might object. All kinds of food, such as wheat, oats, corn, potatoes, etc., would fall in price; so would all kinds of clothing, all manufactures of iron, steel and wood, would be correspondingly cheapened; also freight, travel, books, and all real estate in cities and towns, as well as farm lands, and very probably wages, but it may be said with regard to the latter, that the wage-earner would be independent, as he could at any time become an independent farmer, whenever he found that it would be a better paying business to engage in raising and supplying fruit, grain, beef, pork, etc., and besides, it must be remembered that an acre of land at $10 will raise just as much as if it was held at $40 or $50. The speculator would not touch land at such conditions. It would be left to the actual workers. Mortgagees could not complain, since they would be paid off in full of all their present claims. Any opposition from them would be in view of new investments.

It will thus be seen that many would carefully study the effect of such a social change before assenting to it; but it is submitted that every class of citizen, except law-breakers and the vicious, would soon give it their sanction. Such a law, by elevating the working classes to a plane of independence, would be a boon to society, and this ought to secure the support of every well-wisher of his race.

It would maintain the equilibrium of labor by carefully gauging the production of each branch of industry, with the probable market for it at home and abroad; and provide farms for the surplus workers in any branch of manufacture where the production was, for the time being, too large for the demand.

It would provide employment for the idle, education and a trade or calling for youth, and a home for every one.

It would restrain vice and promote virtue, by keeping in constant view every member of society.

It would keep our gaols empty, and promote absolute prohibition in total abstinence from liquor and tobacco, which would save an annual waste of over $30,000,000 now spent on these vices, and make this a cheap country to live in.

It would people our country with an ever increasing population, and so quicken the pulse of business in every line, and fill our land with money.

It would make woman man's equal in the social sphere, where her superior kindness, enterprise and undivided attention would probably soon make her the prima mover.

And, lastly, it would powerfully aid in the diffusion of knowledge and the promotion of Christianity.

It is therefore to be hoped that the scheme will be impartially weighed, its defects corrected, and it, or a better, be adopted without delay. That a good time is coming is very generally believed. All the Christian world is talking of a coming millennium, many of them of the second coming of Christ. His advent is, I believe, very near at hand. The nations are getting angry. France and Russia threaten the peace of the world; but their gigantic armies will, after creating great havoc and distress, come to naught, as the Book records the defeat of Gog and Magog: "These shall make war with the Lamb and the Lamb shall overcome them." In the meantime, let God's people, His true churches and congregations everywhere, get ready, by putting on their white robes, the righteousness of the saints.

" Mine eyes can see the glory of the King of the Lord ;
He is trampling out the winepress where the grapes of wrath are stored ;
I see the flaming tempest of His swift-descending sword,
Our King is marching on.

" I can see His coming judgments, as they circle all the earth.
The signs and groanings promised to precede a second birth ;
I read His righteous sentence in the crumbling powers of earth,
Our King is marching on.

"The 'Gentile Times' are closing, for their powers have had their day,
And with them sin and sorrow will forever pass away,
For the tribe of Judah's 'Lion' now comes to hold the sway,
Our King is marching on.

"The seventh trumpet is sounding, our King knows no defeat:
He will sift out the hearts of men before His judgment seat.
Oh, be swift, my soul, to welcome Him! be jubilant, my feet!
Our King is marching on.

It is to be hoped that every well-wisher of humanity will bestir himself and herself in this matter. Let Voluntary Social Councils be formed under the foregoing constitution, and preparations be made to have them in full operation during the coming winter, and secure the vacant lands lying idle everywhere for workers next spring, and let such steps be taken as will induce our legislators to give the proposed Act all the force of statute law, so that funds may be secured, employment furnished, and people without homes may take steps under it to obtain them.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

God save our gracious Queen,
Long live our noble Queen,
 God save the Queen.
Send her victorious
Happy and glorious
Long to reign over us,
 God save the Queen.

Oh, Lord, our God, arise,
Scatter her enemies,
 And make them fall.
Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On her our hopes we fix.
 God save us all.

Thy choicest gifts in store
On her be pleased to pour.
 Long may she reign!
May she defend our laws
And never give us cause,
To sing with heart and voice:
 God save the Queen!
