The Irish Conference Crisis Over is Word At Sinn Fein Headquarters

Some Anxiety in London as Delegates Planned to Meet Again—Interesting Rumors and Press Comment on Situation.

London, Oct. 25.—The view was expressed at Sinn Fein headquarters this morning that the crisis in the Irish conference was over for the present.

The Dail Eireann representatives, who said last night that if the negotiations were broken off today they would return to Ireland tonight, were this morning making no preparations to leave.

The Catholic members of the delegation and of its staff attended mass this morning, celebrated at Southwark Cathedral for the late Mayor MacSwiney, of Cork, who died a year ago as the result of his hunger strike in Brixton prison.

London, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Great Britain today awaited with anxiety the resumption of the conference between representatives of the Dail and the British cabinet.

MAYFLOWER AND BLUENOSE

American Vessel Ready to Accept if Challenged.

Ready for Contest Off Halifax of Boston Between Nov. 10 and 20—Some New York Comment on Victory Over Elsie.

Boston, Oct. 25.—An ocean race between the Bluenose, Canada's crack fishing schooner, which yesterday won the sailing championship of the North Atlantic, and the Mayflower, out of Boston, departed from the international competition after nominating an American defender, awaits only challenge from the Canadian.

Fred. L. Pidgeon, managing director of the Mayflower Association, said today that the local fishermen would meet Bluenose or any other Nova Scotian vessel, off Halifax or outside this port, if challenged.

Charles D. Brown, ex-mayor of Gloucester, said that he would sail the schooner should be back here in two weeks, and could be made ready to race in four days, according to Pidgeon.

"I believe," Pidgeon said, "Mayflower could be ready for a race between November 10 and 20. She is now bound on a trip to the Emerald fishing grounds off Sable Island, N. S. It was in connection with this trip that she went to Halifax yesterday, when she encountered the racing fishermen, and sailed after them over port as a personal souvenir. The schooner should be back here in two weeks, and could be made ready to race in four days, according to Pidgeon.

THINK THIS IS ONE OF BANDIT GANG

Winnipeg, Oct. 25.—John Black, held by the city police on several charges, had been identified by James Faulkner, of Cameron Falls, Ont., as one of the five bandits who on Nov. 21, 1921, were unsuccessful in a $35,000 pay-roll robbery at Cameron Falls, according to the local police.

One of the bandits was killed in a gun fight in which a paymaster and constable were wounded, two were captured and are now serving a fifteen year sentence and the fifth is still at large.

BELIEVE LOST RADIUM THROWN INTO SEWER

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 25.—That $10,000 worth of radium reported missing from a patient in whom the radium needles had been applied had himself torn off the bandages and it is now believed that these were inadvertently thrown into a sewer.

An expert equipped with an instrument for attracting radium is now on the way to Hamilton from Pittsburgh and will endeavor to fish the needles out of the sewer.

Doctors McGregor and F. B. Mowbray are the owners of the radium.

SOMETHING NEW IN IMMIGRATION?

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—Immigration activity in Great Britain on a more extensive scale since the outbreak of the war is said to be the object of a visit of W. J. Black, deputy minister of immigration, to England. He will sail tomorrow.

He will spend some time in the United Kingdom and will also probably visit northern Europe.

MEXICAN BANDITS KILL SIX OF GUARD; STEAL $200,000 ON TRAIN

Mexico City, Oct. 25.—Government troops were engaged today in tracking a band of highwaymen who last night held up an express train at Atzacotalco, a suburb of this city, killing six persons, wounding five others and robbing the express car of packages valued at $200,000.

After looting the express car of packages valued at $200,000, the bandits threw their booty into automobiles and vanished into the hills.

The shipment of valuable express was guarded by soldiers, and when the train was stopped by the highwaymen, the troops engaged in a sharp fight with the outlaws. So far as known all the killed were soldiers.

ALLOW BEER FOR MEDICAL USE

New Regulations in Washington Surprise to "Dry" Advocates at the Capitol.

Washington, Oct. 25.—To the surprise and chagrin of the "dry" element at the Capitol, regulations permitting the manufacture and use of beer for medical purposes were issued yesterday by the treasury department.

These had been withheld since March when the prohibition law was amended to allow the use of beer as a medicine by a physician.

The regulations allow a physician to prescribe at one time for the use of the same person is limited to 2 1/2 gallons, the equivalent of a case. However, no arbitrary limit is placed upon the number of such prescriptions a physician may write or the same person may obtain within a given period.

The regulations also cover wine and spirituous liquors as medicines. Two quarts of wine is the limit put upon a single prescription, but otherwise the regulations are the same as for beer. Spirituous liquors are limited to one pint within any ten day period. Alcohol for external use is limited to a pint to the same person at one time.

DR. F. J. FINLEY DEAN AT MCGILL

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Dr. F. J. Finley, C. B. M. D., professor of medicine and clinical medicine at McGill, has been appointed dean of the faculty of medicine for one year in succession to Dr. H. S. Birkett, whose term of office expired last July.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION IN LONDON

REAL PROBLEM OF THE PACIFIC

Its Many Islands Make the Difficulty—Questions of New Bases and Relay Stations.

"If the Pacific were merely a great ocean devoid of islands or with a few bits of land as those in the North Atlantic, probably there would be no 'Pacific problem,'" says a bulletin issued from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographical Society in connection with the approaching conference called by President Harding for the discussion of the problem of the Armaments and Far Eastern questions. "In other words," continues the bulletin, "each island might be visualized as an obstacle as the dot under a vast, hazy question mark. To split hairs, it is not so much the islands as the Pacific that is bothering the world, as the problem of its islands."

"If modern fleets had to be operated 4,000 miles from home without fuel bases, or if cables had to span such distances under water without relay stations, offensive naval warfare and telegraphic communication over wires would be practically impossible. The great powers of the world wake up to this fact in earnest about a generation ago and began taking over island bases and stations in the Pacific that had previously seemed of little more significance than stages for exotic dances and cannibal feasts. Before this island and land bordering the world's greatest ocean had been acquired chiefly with the idea of exploiting their produce, only the larger areas were considered important. With the realization of the valuable parts that naval bases and relay stations might play in the future, they developed a keen interest in ever the finest rocks and coral fringes of the U. S. Has Big 'Stake' in Pacific."

As landlords of the domain that bound the west bowl of the Pacific now sit three great vital interests—China, Holland, and France. Among the countries whose interests are by no means negligible are Mexico, Chile, and the other west coast Latin-American states. Spain and Germany, once interested, at least to the extent that France is now interested, have passed from the picture, but in passing each has accentuated the problems of the United States.

What may be called the 'stake' of the various countries whose lands lie in the Pacific vary greatly on a book of their coast lines. Leaving minor convolutions of the coasts out of consideration in every case, the United States has a frontage on the Pacific with more than 4,000 miles, counting both the sweep of the Aleutian Islands and the part of Alaska shore there. The Philippines add a direct frontage of about 13,000 miles more on the other side of the great ocean.

"Atlantic Russia is second with approximately 8,000 miles from Behring Strait to the Korean Peninsula. The coast line of the seat of Okhotsk, comparable in size to our own Gulf of Mexico.

"Across the southwestern corner of the Pacific the territory stretches from British New Guinea to New Zealand, a distance of about 8,000 miles, but with a break of over 1,000 miles between Australia and New Zealand. The latter, however, Australia may fairly be considered entirely a Pacific land, giving Great Britain far the greatest Pacific coastline. The United States has a coast line of approximately 8,000 miles, easily reached by sea from the Pacific, and it matters little from a naval point of view that half the water line that bathes this long shore line is called the Indian Ocean. Canada adds approximately 800 miles to British Pacific coast lines.

"The islands that constitute Japan stretch along Asia from near the tip of Kamohaka to the southern point of Taiwan (Formosa), and thus have a frontage on the Pacific of about 2,700 miles. The coast line of Japan is much greater, however, due to the western frontage on the Sea of Okhotsk, the Sea of Japan, and the Yellow and Eastern Seas.

"Screned by the Philippines and the British possessions in northern Borneo, the Dutch possessions have a direct frontage on the Pacific of only about 800 miles; but their total coast line, counting that on the Indian Ocean, runs many times that figure. China's coast line, too, is screened by Japan. It amounts to about 4,000 miles. French Indo-China, behind the Philippines, has a coast line of about 1,000 miles on the China Sea.

"On the eastern side of the Pacific, Mexico has a coast line of more than 2,000 miles, while the United States has 2,500 miles. The aggregate Pacific coast line of the remaining Latin-American countries amounts to about 8,000 miles.

"But it is the small scattered islands controlled by these bordering nations that constitute the crux of the 'Pacific problem.' Practically all the islands in the Pacific proper are under the control of Great Britain, France, the United States and Japan. All of the French and most of the British holdings are situated south of the equator, leaving the United States and Japan in close competition above that line. Guam is practically surrounded by newly acquired Japanese islands, formerly owned by Germany; all Japanese lands skirt the Philippines on three sides. The United States is not a large holder of Pacific Islands, but it owns the group which is by far the most important strategically.—Hawaii."

WHO PAYS?

An official statement just issued at Ottawa shows that during the last year 194,257 persons in Canada paid dominion income taxes, the total amount collected being $46,281,826. That works out at something around $235 per head on the average of those who paid.

Assuming that each person pays represents a family of five, the figures amount for something less than one million people. The other eight million Canadians evidently did not pay, either because they were not supposed to pay or because they failed to live up to the law. Whatever is said in its favor, therefore, the income tax is not a general tax. It hits apparently only one-fourth of the inhabitants of the country. Whoever pays is entitled to consider himself as belonging to the select, whether he gets any satisfaction out of it or not.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Victoria Cross For The Unknown U. S. Soldier

British Empire Makes Highest Award in Its Power—Scene and Speeches in Westminster Abbey by General Pershing.

(Associated Press Cable.) London, Oct. 17.—The most sacred reward for valor within the power of the United States to confer was bestowed today upon the tomb of Great Britain's Unknown Warrior, whose eternal resting place is in the nave of the Victoria Memorial, in making the ceremony his address.

In the presence of a representative of the King, the Prime Minister, diplomat and other notables, General Pershing placed the Congressional Medal of Honor upon the wreathed-covered statue of the Unknown Warrior, a figure of a British soldier in the uniform of the British Empire—the Victoria Cross. The British Government decided today to award the Victoria Cross, the highest British award, to the Unknown Warrior.

This announcement was made tonight by Sir Laming paid a high tribute to General Pershing in proposing a toast to his health, and in alluding to today's unique ceremony he added: "Truly, the hearts of the United States nation must go out to our Unknown Warrior when they are prompted to tender at the hands of General Pershing the unprecedented honor of the Victoria Cross. It is a fitting tribute to the Unknown Warrior, which you, General Pershing, have performed today, will find response in the hearts of British women's hearts, each of whom claims our Unknown Warrior as her own."

The Secretary of War then announced: "As a further mark of gratitude and affection to the people of the British Empire to the people of the United States, I have it in command from His Majesty that the Unknown Warrior be honored by the conferring upon the Unknown Warrior the highest decoration known to the British Empire—the Victoria Cross. It is a fitting tribute to the Unknown Warrior, which you, General Pershing, have performed today, will find response in the hearts of British women's hearts, each of whom claims our Unknown Warrior as her own."

King George today sent a message of warm appreciation to President Harding on the tribute of the United States to the Unknown Warrior. The message contained an announcement of the desire of the King to confer the Victoria Cross on the Unknown Warrior on Armistice Day.

The King's message reads: "I wish to express my thanks to the Congress and people of the United States for the warm appreciation felt throughout this country of the Unknown Warrior. The gift of your medal of honor to a British soldier is a fitting tribute to the Unknown Warrior, which you, General Pershing, have performed today, will find response in the hearts of British women's hearts, each of whom claims our Unknown Warrior as her own."

The scene within the ancient walls of the Abbey was perhaps the most significant in England since the signing of the historic peace treaty between Britain and the United States that has occurred since the historic victory march in 1919, when General Pershing headed his battalion in a great ceremonial function. The King was represented today by the Duke of Connaught. Other present included Premier Lloyd George, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Lord Lee of Fowlsheam, and representatives of various government departments, the army, the navy and other branches of the military service. An hour before General Pershing's arrival, people began to take the places within the abbey, and long before his arrival the transepts and nave were well filled. Seats had been reserved on either side of the tomb, which was decorated with an autumn wreath of heather and copper-tinted leaves. In his British comrades who fell during the Great War. More spectacular, if less impressive, was the procession of the United States through the Abbey itself. The British Empire's Valhalla, which preceded the ceremonies in the Abbey itself. The applause of thousands resounded through the historic Whitehall district when the imposing figure of General Pershing alighted from his royal carriage, passed across Parliament Square between battalions of United States and British troops and into the Abbey. Ambassador Harvey accompanied General Pershing in the open royal carriage sent to the Abbey by order of the King. The military and naval attaches of the United States Embassy followed in a second carriage. Mending his way through the Americans from the Embassy down Constitution Hill, in front of Buckingham Palace, along the Mall, through Horse Guards Parade, under the Horse Guards Arch and into Whitehall.

Thousands lined the route. The great crowds assembled in Parliament square, where from early morning the British people had gathered. The occasion lacked the scenes of wild excitement that accompanied the arrival of the first United States troops in London four years ago, and the demonstrative welcome, during the flush of victory, through central London. The occasion was more dignified and more solemn. The British people were here to honor a man who had given his life for his country, and to honor a man who had given his life for his country.

"One cannot enter here and not feel a sense of awe in realizing that the important events in the history of Great Britain that have shaped the progress of the world have unfolded here. It is a fitting tribute to the Unknown Warrior, which you, General Pershing, have performed today, will find response in the hearts of British women's hearts, each of whom claims our Unknown Warrior as her own."

Let us resolve together in friendship and confidence to maintain toward all peoples that Christian spirit that underlies the character of both nations. "And now, in this holy sanctuary, in the name of the president and the people of the United States, I place upon the tomb the Medal of Honor conferred upon him by special act of the American Congress in commemoration of the sacrifices of our British comrades and a fellow countryman, and as a slight token of our gratitude and affection toward this people."

Lloyd George's Reply. Lloyd George, who headed the cabinet members attending the ceremony, spoke briefly in appreciation of the presentation. "It is my special privilege on behalf of the government and of the people of this country," he said, "to express my profound gratitude to the President and to the Congress of the United States of America for the Medal of Honor conferred upon our valiant dead. The action of the President and of the Congress has deeply stirred the hearts of the British people. We know the value of this famous medal, we know how jealously its worth has been guarded, we know it represents, not merely in purpose but in fact, the highest distinction which the world would wish to confer on a valor amongst its sons, and we also know that for two generations it has been consecrated by the association with deeds of conspicuous heroism amongst a conspicuously brave people. We thank the American people for conferring this, the highest tribute of honor in their command, upon the noble remains of an humble and obscure British warrior who gave his life for the poor cause. We thank them for conferring this medal of honor through the hands

CLASS PREJUDICE IS LESS DEFINED

Leveling Effect of the War in England, J. S. Briery Says—If Counsel of Older Irish Accepted Peace Certain.

(Montreal Gazette.) "I had not been in England since the early months of the war, and the first thing that impressed me there was the absence of visible evidence of the havoc of the four years struggle. There are but few maimed men to be seen, and little mourning is worn. On its surface the nation seems to run along on its old lines. The above statements were made by J. S. Briery, who has just returned from an extended tour of Great Britain and the Continent, during which he made many observations as to post-war conditions.

"The real effects of the war must be sought deeper than surface indications," said Mr. Briery. "I may be wrong, but it is dangerous to dogmatize on such a subject—but it seems that these distinctions are less sharply defined, and that a broader, more tolerant spirit is abroad. The settlement of industrial disputes by compromise, the attempted solution of the Irish problem by concessions of the most far-reaching character, are evidences in point. "War brought the manhood of the nation to a common level. Peace, happily, has not restored the old lines of class power to give. Any other declaration than the Victoria Cross would be patently out of place. Although it may be a breach of precedent to bestow the Cross upon a foreigner, we broke many precedents during the war in the prosecution of our hates. May we not break one in the ratification of friendship and good will?"

General Pershing motored to Portsmouth tonight and boarded a United States destroyer for Havre.

ALBANI SENDS A SOUVENIR FOR COLLECTION

Chateleine Worn by Great Vocalist When Appearing as Marguerite in 'Faust' Goes to Toronto Theatre.

(Toronto Globe.) Mme. Albani, famous Canadian prima donna, is the first to respond to the request for a contribution to the project of the National Theatre. She has sent a necklace of pearls, which she wore when she appeared as Marguerite in 'Faust' at the Hart House Theatre. Mme. Albani will send the chateleine worn by her when she sang as Marguerite in 'Faust' to the National Theatre. A number of notable artists of the stage have been asked by the director, Bertram Foley, to contribute in this manner, or otherwise aid in collecting theatrical objects of historic and artistic interest from a theatrical viewpoint.

The letter received by Mr. Foley from Mme. Albani follows: "I have received your letter asking me to send a personal memento as a contribution to your artistic collection, and I have much pleasure in sending the chateleine that I used to wear when I sang as Marguerite in 'Faust'."

"As I always remain a Canadian, I am very pleased my fellow-countrymen should have a souvenir of my career."

"Yours very sincerely, 'ALBANI-GYE.'"

A woman who had been to a garden party given in the east and latest of fashion's decree, on returning to town experienced the first results of a possible chill. She hastened to her doctor and sought advice as to the best means to prevent an on-coming cold. The doctor and go to bed."

PRICE OF BREAD ONE CENT LOWER

The price of bread in St. John was reduced one cent a loaf yesterday when bread retailed at twelve cents the wrapped loaf, weighing twenty-four ounces. The wholesale price is now eleven cents for the wrapped loaf. The last drop of one cent a loaf was made on September 19. In the last twelve months there has been a reduction of four cents on the price of a loaf of bread in St. John. At its peak, last fall, bread was retailed in the city for sixteen cents a loaf. The decline in flour has been steady for the last month and a half. The price of flour has dropped $2.25 a barrel since September 1 and is now $9.50, wholesale.

2nd prize, $30—William Roberts, Douglas avenue.

WOMEN IN SPAIN.

(The Graphic.)
In Spain the woman is held in Oriental thraldom. Any education for them is viewed with a Chinese indifference and scorn. There is no divorce for the wronged wife. The woman can't open a savings bank account. She can't give evidence in a court of law. Worst of all, the dowry which her father gives her on her wedding day passes absolutely into her husband's possession. A married woman with ten thousand a year must needs beg of her autocratic spouse every dollar she needs for dress and the household. Women are birds, caged to look pretty and sing and dance.
Today these pretty birds are angry. The new senora puts off her lace mantilla and now buckles down to study the methods of Mrs. Bankhurst and Mrs. Catt. Spain's women at long last, seek a closer connection with America than the familiar products of Singer and Ford.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

The Liberal convention of St. John-Albert last evening paid a remarkable tribute to Hon. William Pugsley when he received one hundred and seventy-five votes, or almost the complete vote of the convention, on the first ballot. It was a fitting tribute to the man who began the real work of nationalizing the port of St. John—a work that was unfortunately interrupted when the Liberal government went out of power.

The contest for third place on the first ballot was very keen between Messrs Jennings and Barry, and Dr. Broderick had a considerable lead over each of these. When Mr. Barry's name was dropped nearly all of his support went to Dr. Broderick, who was then elected. Mr. H. R. McLellan had asked that his name be not placed before the convention, and Mr. F. B. Ellis, who was the choice of the Albert county delegates, declined a nomination, as did Dr. Emery.

THE FIGHT IN ONTARIO

The Toronto Globe gives an illuminating account of the lavish expenditure and huge organization by which the Conservatives hope to escape utter defeat in Ontario. We quote: "A great election organization is being directed from the Conservative headquarters in the Ryrie building. Hon. Edmund Bristol is the directing head for Central Ontario, with H. Clydesdale as his first lieutenant. General Tyrell looks after the city organization, taking his orders from the Central Association of Toronto. Associated with Mr. Bristol, too, is a woman's organization, in direct charge of Miss Constance Budy and Boulton and Mrs. McIvor. Mrs. Stewart, wife of the new minister of railways, is also an active worker, and will be at headquarters until after the day of polling. Miss Boulton and Mrs. McIvor not only get out campaign literature and speak at Conservative meetings, but also instruct women in the art of platform speaking. A number of classes have been held with good results. Miss Boulton gives them the points in the Tory platform to emphasize. Working with these leaders in the campaign is a large stenographic and secretarial force of workers, bringing the number of Tory workers at headquarters up to more than fifty."

TARIFF REVISION

An Ontario critic of Hon. Mackenzie King says: "In contrast to the government's policy of protection, Mr. King's trade policy is singularly vague and elusive. He is for a general reduction of the tariff. He advocates a tariff for revenue. He does not exactly deny the Liberal platform of 1919, but describes it as a 'chart'. In effect, his policy may be said to be, 'Put me in power in Canada and I shall then determine what I shall do.' This criticism, at once raises the question as to Mr. Meighen's policy. It is said to be 'protection'. How much protection? Who will get the benefit of that protection? Mr. Meighen means to revise the tariff. He does not state specifically what changes he will make any more than does Mr. King. Why, then, condemn the latter?"

THE SAME AS IN 1896

That the Conservatives today are making the same gloomy predictions they made in 1896, before the Liberals came in and made Canada prosperous, was very neatly shown last week in West Peterboro, by Mr. J. C. Elliott, in a speech before the Liberal convention. He first quoted a portion of Premier Meighen's manifesto in which the latter declared that "the real thing we are called upon to resist at the present time is a free trade policy for Canada," adding that the people "must decide between a tariff policy which, in Canada's position, is the very root of her prosperity and the progressive absorption of Canadian industries, and with them Canadian manhood and womanhood, in the ever-expanding system of the United States." Then Mr. Elliott quoted from the manifesto of Sir Charles Tupper in 1896, when he said: "The issue is sharply defined and with your verdict in favor of the government the industrial progress of Canada is assured, whereas a declaration in favor of the Liberal party will undoubtedly lead to a reversal of the fiscal policy which has obtained since 1878 and to a disastrous revolution in the general business of the country. I cannot, therefore, too earnestly impress upon you the very great importance of keeping this momentous issue directly and vitally in view."

MISCHIEVOUS TALK

Belleville Ontario—The Socialist agitators who try to work upon the cupidity of the idle workers have no hallucinations on their part of the demands being granted. They are satisfied to use such propaganda to stir up trouble and to feed the flames of discontent that exist in the ranks of those who are without employment. Fortunately the majority of the men who are idle are not fools, and they realize that the demands voiced by the Reds are impossible.

PIPES FOR LADIES ON SALE IN TORONTO

Some of the blase young men who patronize the "smoke" shops, "What so to most of the remarks made by their companions of the bobbed hair and skirts are likely to be soon shocked into dropping their air of ennui when the modern young miss calmly says: 'Give me a pipeful of tobacco for pipes for women are now arriving in Toronto. Old ladies with young ideas, who now dress in a manner which is not far from that of the young ladies, will also be able closely to imitate their sons. Mothers, fathers, and grandfathers, in short, will be able to follow the lead of their sons-in-law by showing a nice discrimination in smoking pipes and doubting count on a warm invitation to prolong their visits beneath their daughters' roofs by providing them with the latest son-in-law's "good-night" pipe before the open fireplace in the den. "Five cent pipe" is the name of the London and Paris have for some time been addicted to briar and meerschaum, and now an opposing force to the Toronto's bobbed-haired crowd to follow suit, for a Young street tobacconist prominently displays a trayful of women's pipes.

A PAINFUL CONTRACT.

A recent despatch from Ottawa, disclosing certain facts concerning the Census, indicate a desire on the part of the government to withdraw from the public, until the elections, some of the details brought to light, which make an unfavorable showing of present conditions as compared with those under the Laurier regime. It is known that many of the returns partially collected by the census department, but not published, show that there has been an actual loss of population, not only in the older-settled portions of the country, where immigration has not swelled the total, but in centres in the west as well. It is understood that the city of Vancouver proper, for example, will show an actual loss in population during the last ten years.

A STRANGE MONSTER.

F. C. Cornell, Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, who recently returned to England after spending twenty years in practically unknown parts of South Africa, is author of a story about an unknown monster that had been seen near the Great Falls of the Orange river. It has a huge head and a neck ten feet long like a bending tree. It seizes the native cattle and drags them under water. The natives call it "Kyman," or the Great Thing.

MORE YET TO DO.

(Montreal Witness). On Monday of last week the Province of New Brunswick voted by a big majority for prohibition of the importation of liquor for personal use. New Brunswick therefore ranges itself with the majority of Provinces in voting itself as "bone dry" as it can under the laws as at present existing. Coming at a time when some people are saying that the tide of public sentiment for prohibition was on the ebb, the result of the referendum was doubly encouraging. The total vote cast was a light one, partly due to very adverse weather conditions, partly to the fact that the people of New Brunswick count their verdict as given long ago, and the execution of the sentence as long overdue. This fine confidence that the law is really definitely closed is all very well. But the liquor evil is often "a shammin" when it's done. There is the liquor interest of a whole continent at work trying to bring it to life again wherever it may, by discrediting the operation of prohibition. That interest is filling our newspapers with tales and innuendoes of its failure. Every art is taken to count that public opinion on which enforcement depends. The people of New Brunswick have fought a good fight through the stages of local option, provincial prohibition, and now prohibition of importation. They have shown their determination to use every lawful means available against the enemy. Their reward is to be their call to greater service and still greater sacrifice. New Brunswick is safe as far as provincial protection can secure its safety. But so long as our dear Canada lags behind her neighbor in totally outlawing the traffic in the disease survivors. The permitted manufacture of liquor for beverage purposes is a blot on the good name of our country, making her shudder as a plague spot. Conversely New Brunswick and the other provinces that have gained the victory must look on themselves as points of vantage from which to attack the citadel of the liquor power in Canada.

DREAMING THAT REISTS.

(By H. Addington Bruce, in Ottawa Journal). Some modern psychologists—the so-called Freudians—insist that we dream principally in order to rest. If we did not dream, they say, we could not have sound refreshing sleep. This seemingly paradoxical theory is grounded in the belief that during sleep the mind is not really at rest. It is repressed during the day, tend to well up from the subconscious depths of the mind. If they are able to emerge undisturbed they would so shock us as to awaken us. But the dream mechanism so alters them that we do not recognize them. And usually it gives them such a pleasant, however fantastic appearance that we are able to continue to sleep tranquilly. To sundry other psychologists—as, no doubt, to the average layman—this theory seems as imaginary as any of the others. Every one who has ever been soundly asleep, however, knows that it is, however, that some dreams have in themselves a distinct rest-enhancing quality.

"ISOBEL" SPLENDID AT THE IMPERIAL

House Peters and Jane Novak in James Oliver Curwood's Virile Northland Story — Buster Keaton Also.

Many of James Oliver Curwood's famous novels have reached the screen; many of them have been the most successful photo-dramas of their time. But possibly none of them have reached the silver-sheet with the breadth of human appeal, heart interest and suspense which characterizes "Isobel" or, "The Trail's End," which features House Peters and Jane Novak, at the Imperial this change of bill.

This thrilling romance of the Northwest, presented yesterday, relates one of the most compelling romances in has been the fortune of many to witness. A talented and extraordinarily typical actress portrays the powerful theme of story, while direction, photography, settings, etc., are of the sort that arouse enthusiasm even in the layman.

House Peters never had a role better suited to his typical ruggedness and natural talent. Jane Novak, likewise, is cast in a character which her charm of manner and beauty make a thing alive. Both of these players have given a sympathetic touch to their characters which aids in making their things to be remembered in the annals of photography.

Peters is a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police—a strong and likable character, while Miss Novak is cast as the beautiful wife of the man the officer has sworn to capture dead or alive. It was inevitable, of course, in a Curwood story, for the officer to fall in love with the woman—but it was a sort of spiritual love which both the woman and her husband understood.

Two reels of the Imperial's programme were devoted to a side-splitting comedy entitled "The High Sign" in which the dazed but ludicrous comedian, Buster Keaton, played the star role. This offering served a delightful foil to the serious story of the Northland. This same programme will be on at the Imperial tonight, but on Wednesday Conway Tearle holds the screen in a splendid dramatic production, entitled "Kicking the Tiger."

CHILD WELFARE IN BELGIUM

Year's Report Reveals Great Extent of Charity's Work

The Children's Bureau of Belgium, established by the law of Sept. 5, 1919, with authority to supervise distribution of subsidies to the various child welfare agencies, has issued its first annual report. Before the end of 1920, the bureau had approved 172 infant consultation centres caring for 70,000 infants in 687 communes; 703 milk stations, affording 65,000 children in 626 communes; 388 mothers' existences feeding nearly 20,000 women in 383 communes; 566 school lunch rooms, serving 50,000 children in 41 communes; and 80 lunch rooms for feeble children feeding 11,000 in 49 communes. The cost of maintenance of these institutions is provided by the State, one-half, and by the province and the commune one-quarter each. The amount distributed in subsidies approved by the Children's Bureau during 1920 was 9,728,281 francs.

In addition to its practical work, the Children's Bureau, through its Superior Council on Child Welfare Agencies, studied in 1920 milk production, maternity homes, nursing rooms and lunch rooms in factories, illegitimate children and supervision over placed-out children.

SAM BROWNE
Man Who Invented Army Belt Lost Arm in Battle

The Sam Browne belt of the British officer, so rallied at by hypenated members of Congress when tentatively adopted for United States officers during the war, has now been finally and officially adopted by the Army and Navy. The origin of the name is taken from the New York Tribune.

The original Sam Browne was a most gallant British officer, who distinguished himself in the autumn of 1858.

Lord Roberts, field marshal and advocate of preparedness in England, who was a friend of the dashing cavalry officer, gave this account of the dead hero who received so much publicity in the late war because he was careless enough to have an arm cut off and therefore forced to devise some means whereby he could be present at parade without his trusty sabre dragging on the ground.

"This popular and gallant officer, well known to every native in upper India as 'Sam Bruan Sahib' and to the officers of the whole of His Majesty's army as the inventor of the sword-belt, distinguished himself greatly in the autumn of 1858. With 280 men of his own regiment and 850 native infantry he attacked a party of rebels who had taken up a position at Nuria, a village at the foot of Tara, about ten miles from the Phillibhit. Browne managed to get to the rear of the enemy without being discovered.

"A hand-to-hand fight then ensued, in which he got two severe wounds, one on the knee, from which he nearly bled to death, the other on the left shoulder, cutting right through the arm. The enemy were completely routed, and fled, leaving their four guns and 300 dead on the ground. Browne was deservedly rewarded with the Victoria Cross."

Sam Browne died at The Wood Hyde, Isle of Wight, on March 14, 1901. A memorial tablet has been put up for him in St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

NEW USE FOR SUGGESTION.
Only Cure of Night Terror in Children, Says a Physician.

According to Professor Hamburger of the University of Graz, the pavor nocturnus (night terror) of children can be cured only by suggestion, says the Budapest correspondent of The Journal of the American Medical Association. It is natural, the physician said, that his statement refers only to genuine night terror and not to that of febrile children. It is very easy to mistake the frightful awakening and eventually the striking of a child on the verge of a febrile disease for pavor nocturnus. The causative agent of the latter, according to the physician, is always some frightening observation of the child, some "psychic trauma" which occupies the thought of the child and influences his dreams. The child awakens with the signs of fright is still asleep even if he sees and is able to answer questions; at least he is dream-dazed. Certain periodically repeated manifestations show that always one and the same remembrance is causing the night fright.

WIFE SLAYS HUSBAND AS HE HOLDS BABY
Tubercular Mother Takes Suicide After Putting Pistol to Sleeping Man's Mouth.

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—Mentally weakened by worry over the fate of her two-week-old baby, and suffering from acute tuberculosis, Mrs. Gertrude Keifer, twenty-four years old, of Frankford, held a revolver at the mouth of her sleeping husband, who was twenty-five, and pulled the trigger. He died at Frankford Hospital.

Soon after the dying man was taken to the hospital, Mrs. Keifer was lodged under the same roof. She was so weak from illness that she could not be taken to the police station. When the crime became known and she had been left at the home of her husband's parents, with whom the couple lived, a police guard was stationed outside. She managed to elude her relatives, enter the bedroom and procure poison, with which she attempted suicide. Physicians say that if she recovers she probably will not live more than six months.

On his way to the hospital William Keifer said early in the morning his wife had asked him about what would become of their baby if she should die from tuberculosis. She expressed antipathy to his remarriage and to having a stepmother exert authority over her child.

While he was dosing on the bed, their baby held in the bend of his arm, he was awakened by an explosion and the smell of burning clothes. His throat hurt him. He started across the floor and fell. A moment later his father and three sisters came from the upper floor and joined his mother, who also had been dosing. No one saw Mrs. Keifer do the actual shooting.

Detective Dougherty, who talked with Mrs. Keifer, before her attempted suicide, said she admitted planning to kill her husband Thursday, the first day she had been able to leave the house. The shooting was done with a revolver that belonged to Mrs. Keifer's father, a civil war veteran.

EDUCATION IN ESTHONIA.
New State Struggling to Reorganize Schools Upset by War.

Esthonia, the newly created sovereignty bordering on the Baltic and the Gulf of Finland, has great difficulty, according to School Life, in reorganizing its school system. Four languages, successive changes in government, war, and the lack of means have thrown the schools into confusion.

When in the spring of 1918 German troops expelled the Bolshevik rulers, the writer says, the schools were ig-

Changes Noted in a Visit to Dublin.

De Valera, Collins and the English Author, Erskine Childers—The Voyage of the Quest—News Topics of Empire Metropolis.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
 London, September 22—In these days, when London is still half empty and the notables of the land are either "stalking" the grouse on the Scottish moors or possibly sporting themselves at Eastbourne or Bournemouth, it is rather refreshing to get away from London clubland, where the painters and decorators are "stalking" the spiders. Since my last notes were written I have had occasion to pay a hurried visit to Dublin. Under the influence of the truce a more peaceful or more quiet spot it would be hard to find within the four corners of the British Isles. But what changes there are. It is rather tragic to see John Dillon, now looking very old and white, sitting in his club armchair seeing very much "out of it all". No one takes very much interest of him and though he would obviously like to be in the fray and sniffs the battle from afar like an old war horse, it is apparent to the most casual observer that all his old influence has gone. But there are a lot of men who were active living forces in Ireland a few years or even months ago who are now dead. Dillon and Healy are dead, and even the flamboyant "Tay" is dead, but Farrell is still alive. His photographs are still displayed in the place of honor at public meetings.

And what of the new Gods? Well, so far as I could learn De Valera is not quite the big man in Dublin as he is thought to be here in London. People talk of him over there as if he were something of a figure-head-though not, of course, the negligible figure-head that Justin McCarthy was during his quiescent unobtrusive leadership of the old old Nationalist party. It is significant at least, that De Valera is not nominated as one of the delegates to go to Inverness. But Michael Collins; and not merely by virtue of his office as Minister for Finance. All I learnt in Dublin, moreover, went to confirm the opinion already expressed in this column that Michael Collins is the real living force of the Irish revolutionary movement.

A strange figure of a man he is. Still comparatively young—I should say he is not much over thirty—he has one of the most ferocious faces I have ever seen. Square built, square jawed and square browed, with an almost livid complexion, he would attract attention in any crowd. It is difficult to associate a Charlie Chaplin moustache with the kind of a face I have tried to portray. But this Charlie Chaplin moustache detracts nothing from the suggestion of ferocity. But when he smiles you get a totally different conception of the man. All the hardness and all the ferocity melts away like snow under the sun and the whole is replaced by what I can describe only as a boyish grin. He has a keen sense of humor and this boyish grin frequently irradiates the face. Masterful and strong, he is a fine speaker and is probably the most popular man in the whole of Ireland today. He talks to you quite frankly about the prospects of an Irish settlement and you leave him with the impression that, like De Valera, he ardently desires peace.

Indeed, Dublin is, if anything, much more hopeful about the outlook than London. They say there that the only people who want to smash the settlement are the poets in the suburbs. The men of the I. R. A. assuredly do not want to revert to the bad days before the truce, they have had enough of being chased from boulder to boulder and from bush to bush amongst the hills. It is not a pleasant game and the description applied to it in Dublin brings vividly to mind the wretched experience of our men on the western front and in South Africa.

stormy petrel. His influence on the course of events has been frequently referred to and the accounts given of his influence do not appear to have exaggerated the facts. If I were asked to liken him to anyone we all know he in London, I should say he is, to Irish politics today, very much what H. W. Massingham was to English politics when the Liberal party was reft by the rivalries of Rosebery and Harcourt. In character, too, there is a good deal in common between the two men, though the career of Erskine Childers has had in it more of the heroic. He did really excellent service in the war in the Naval Intelligence Department. As most people now know, he is not only the son of an ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer but has more enduring claim to fame as the author of that wonderful little book, "The Riddle of the Sands". Most of the experiences narrated in that book were experiences which Mr. Childers actually underwent. He knows that coast as probably no other man in this country knows it, and his knowledge stood the British Admiralty in good stead during the war, when our destroyers and submarines were lurking in those waters in search of what might come along.

Childers is blessed with a marvellous memory and he prepared, from memory alone, an extraordinary series of five-mile charts of the enemy's coastline. Every sand-bank was reproduced and the draughtsman was even able to differentiate between different buoys by the number of legs on which they were mounted in the shifting sands. The thing would be unbelievable if it were not true. The author of "The Riddle of the Sands" now makes his re-appearance as a firebrand of Irish politics. In his quiet even tone he tells you almost deliberately that he suppresses his views "are extreme where Ireland is concerned." His actual position in the Sinn Fein Government is not very important but his influence is immense.

The Quest.
 The Quest set forth from the port of London last Saturday on her long voyage of 30,000 miles. She is little more than a storied trawler, some twenty-three feet across the beam, but she is probably the best equipped little vessel that has ever set forth on such an Odyssey. Several members of the crew went with Sir Ernest Shackleton on his former expedition to the Antarctic. They are men of the right sort—the kind of men who, when everything was at stake, went gathering up their catwalks waist-deep in icy cold water, merrily singing: "Here we come gathering nuts in May." They will carry the same spirit with them in their double journey round the Antarctic.

Scientifically the Quest is equipped down to the last needle. There were some men engaged in Polar research who did not know that the great war was taking place until it was nearly over. That cannot be the experience of the crew of the Quest, for they will be in wireless communication with the outer world during the whole time of their absence. The expedition is purely scientific in its purpose. Its search is not for the Pole, scarcely even for unknown lands—except unknown bits of biology, geology and other domains of knowledge. Included in the equipment is a marvellous contrivance for carrying out investigations of Polar seas down to a depth of seven miles—a greater depth than has ever been considered possible hitherto. The sinker which grabs up vegetation or other matter at the bottom the ocean takes forty-five minutes to haul back into the vessel after it has achieved its mission.

Everybody is talking about the sudden eclipse of the Charlie Chaplin rump, which opened so vivaciously, and wondering why, after making his arrival here with such a burst of pyrotechnics, the little film genius has already dropped out of sight. It may be that Mr. Chaplin, who is now something of a millionaire, of course, and quite contentedly in a really quiet life, has insisted on a little peace and rest from an ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, but has more enduring claim to fame as the author of that wonderful little book, "The Riddle of the Sands". Most of the experiences narrated in that book were experiences which Mr. Childers actually underwent. He knows that coast as probably no other man in this country knows it, and his knowledge stood the British Admiralty in good stead during the war, when our destroyers and submarines were lurking in those waters in search of what might come along.

Childers is blessed with a marvellous memory and he prepared, from memory alone, an extraordinary series of five-mile charts of the enemy's coastline. Every sand-bank was reproduced and the draughtsman was even able to differentiate between different buoys by the number of legs on which they were mounted in the shifting sands. The

Another Middle-Class Adventure.
 But the war seems to have breathed into the once humdrum and conventional middle-classes, and especially the girls of middle-class families, a new spirit of high adventure. I have written above of the daring and unconventional life of a girl who has attracted so much interest and curiosity by taking up her position on the edge of the roaring strand near Charing Cross, and selling palpitably home-made dolls and golliwogs. Tonight on the way to my Fleet street office my attention was attracted by an unusual crowd standing spellbound just where Savoy street debouches into the strand. The centre of attraction proved to be another punctiliously middle-class girl, typical of the well-to-do London suburb in every respect of appearance, dress, deportment and tone, who was quite unself-consciously rhapsodic on the violin while the small silver and penny coins fairly rained around her. It was not a case of artistic camouflage or merely a regular street performer getting up as one of the new poor to excite sympathy. The street violinist was essentially a middle-class girl, and her alter ego might be seen any day on the concert platform of a suburban hall.

London Shrinking.
 An expert building authority tells me the full extent of the damage done by the prolonged drought is not yet thoroughly realized. He declares that London is shrinking visibly before our very eyes, quite unlike the young ladies observed by Mr. Weller seated at the theatre party. All over the city, the west end and the suburbs signs can not be seen that houses and other buildings are subsiding on their foundations. This is evidenced by extraordinary cracks and fissures in the walls and masonry, sometimes running straight through the middle of the bricks, and not merely along the joints of the masonry. This unpleasant and even dangerous phenomenon is caused by the drying up of the famous London sub-soil of clay and its shrinkage owing to lack of moisture. Never before within record or recollection has there been such a long, unbroken drought as London experienced this year, and the London clay is absolutely parched. That even small dwelling houses in certain suburbs should be cracking in this way as the ground shrinks under them, strongly argues the futility of the demand sometimes made for American skyscraper buildings in the metropolis. Our London clay will not stand the weight, even in normal years, and at times of exceptional conditions like the present the consequences would be disastrous.

 For the way that brings prettier teeth

Do as millions have done—make this ten-day test. See how film removal beautifies the teeth. Learn how it makes safer teeth. Brush your teeth in the modern way and watch all the good effects.

Each use of Pepsodent brings five effects which dentists now desire. It attacks the film. It keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Film makes teeth dingy
 That viscous film you feel is the teeth's chief enemy. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Old brushing methods did not effectively combat it. So very few people have escaped discoloration and decay.

It increases the salivary flow, which is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch deposits which otherwise may form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus Pepsodent is bringing to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Leading dentists everywhere are now urging its adoption.

Two ways to fight it
 Dental science has now found two effective ways to fight film. They are combined in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent—made to meet modern requirements.

Results are delightful
 Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

All the effects are delightful. All are now considered essential. See and feel them for awhile. Read the reasons for them in the book we send. Then decide for you and yours between the old ways and the new. Cut out the coupon now.

Second of Late Capital Ships to Be Put in Commission Dec. 1.
 Tokyo, Oct. 25—The superdreaught Matsu, sister ship of the Nagato and the second capital ship to be equipped under the eight-year programme, will be placed in commission by the Japanese navy Dec. 1, and will then be one of the capital ships of the first squadron, together with the Nagato and the Yamato ship. The Matsu has a displacement of 33,800 tons.

The third capital ship under the eight-year programme, the Kaga, is expected to be launched in December, and to be completed in November, 1922. This superdreaught will have a displacement of 40,000 tons.
 All the new Japanese ships are equipped with sixteen-inch guns. The Matsu and Nagato each carry eight of these monster guns, and it is probable that the Kaga will carry twelve.

SOME POLITICAL RUMORS IN CITY

Following the holding of the Conservative primaries last evening, many rumors were afloat today as the possible line up of the government ticket in the coming federal contest. It is accepted as an assured fact that Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, minister of customs and excise, will be one name on the ticket, but there is much conjecture as to his running mate. Dr. Murray MacLaren seems to be the most popular choice, with L. P. D. Tilly, former M. P. P., a close second. The name of L. Potts, a colleague of Mr. Tilly in the provincial legislature, is also mentioned and it is understood that he will be in the field, regardless of the action of the convention.

There is also much talk of a labor ticket with which the name of J. A. Barry has been coupled. Mr. Barry said this morning that so far nothing definite along this line had been arranged.

TO ORGANIZE FOR CHORAL MUSIC

The St. John Community and Festival Chorus is now in process of formation. A letter from F. J. Punter, the secretary, points out that the trustees of the Central Baptist church have kindly placed their school room at the disposal of the organization, and that A. U. Brander has consented to be the conductor. There will be both active and associate members, and the fee is barely enough to pay unavoidable expenses. The object of the chorus is to revive interest in choral music and inspire the building up of different church choirs, the association being strictly non-denominational. The sight-singing class and breath control will be especially helpful. No reading text is necessary, as the chorus wants voices, and it is hoped to have in time a grand chorus of five hundred voices. Mr. Punter explains that choir members will be very welcome, although the community chorus is not so much for advanced singers as for those who would like to sing but have not had the chance under such favorable conditions. Work will be begun on an attractive group of easy choruses, and there will be a weekly get-together to sing. It is expected the first general meeting will bring together a great many people eager to assist in this revival of choral music, leading up to a far greater interest in community singing.

POLICE COURT

Samuel Levine was charged with being drunk and with the theft of two umbrellas from the store of Carl J. Bassen, on the corner of Union and Sydney streets. He pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge and was given the alternative of eight dollars or two months. To the second charge he pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Bassen testified that two men told him there had been a theft from his stock of umbrellas outside the store. He said the value of the articles was about $8.50.

Leonard Campbell said that he had seen a man in a dark suit take two umbrellas from the store and had followed him till he met Policeman McGinnis, who knew the man. The case was postponed for other witnesses.

Levine and the magistrate had a lively little tiff. His Honor asked the accused if he came from China. Levine retorted that the magistrate looked more like a Chinese than any white man he had ever seen.

In the police court this morning three men charged with drunkenness were fined $20 or eight months in jail.

E. L. HAFF HAS WON PROMOTION

U. S. Immigration Inspector Leaving Here.

Advanced to Post of Assistant Commissioner in Large Territory—Will be Succeeded by F. Q. Twitchel.

Edward L. Haff, Jr., inspector in charge of United States Immigration on the St. John and Maine border, with headquarters here, has been promoted to be assistant commissioner at Montreal, which district includes eastern Canadian seaports and the Canadian border east of Montana.

Mr. Haff was born at Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1883, and has been in the United States Immigration service for eleven years. He was first stationed at Winnipeg, then at Warroad, Minn. and at Montreal, at which office he remained for six years, prior to coming to this city where he located in September 1917. He succeeded Peter Miller and will be succeeded in turn by Franklin Q. Twitchel, at present inspector at Calais, Me.

Mr. Haff came to this district the staff has been increased from fifteen to forty four officers. This was due to war conditions and the enforcement of the new immigration laws. Mr. Haff and his amiable life partner have been residing at 148 Waterloo street ever since coming to the city. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity and socially both are well liked.

Mr. Haff says that he regrets having to leave St. John although it is a promotion, both on account of the liking which he has for the city itself with its excellent climatic conditions, and on account of the many friends he and Mrs. Haff have made since coming here. They will leave the last of the week for their new home and will be followed by the best wishes of the citizens of St. John.

Business Men Interviewed
Hon. Dr. Baxter and There
Will be Further Consideration.

A conference in regard to the marking of the country of origin on imported goods was held this morning between Hon. D. B. Baxter, minister of customs and excise, and members of the board of trade, representing the wholesale interests and committee of the board, the wholesale and retail merchants' association, wholesale hardware dealers, and grocers and crockerymen. A request was made that the enforcement of the act be deferred until the government should have an opportunity to consider its amendments were necessary to relieve excessive burdens imposed on importers by the act, especially the dry goods interests.

The minister expressed himself in sympathy with the request and said that he would recommend that the act be not enforced until it had been reconsidered by the government.

George E. Barbour, chairman of the wholesale interests committee, opened the conference and made the request to the minister. Representatives of the other interests also pointed out difficulties which the act imposed and declared that Canada would be out of the world markets and that it would inflict other hardships on them. They expressed pleasure at the viewpoint which Dr. Baxter took of the matter.

It was pointed out that the St. John board was not alone in the objections but that the boards of Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and other places had expressed unanimously their opinion that before the act be enforced it should receive fuller consideration. A telegram from the Montreal board reported that at a meeting yesterday it had been decided to ask the government to postpone the enforcement of the act. Toronto and Halifax also responded in the same way, and it was necessary to postpone it.

TO DISCUSS
IN STUMPAGE

A proposed reduction in the stumpage rate will be the principal business taken up at a meeting of the provincial government here this afternoon. Premier Foster said today that the government had recently agreed to make a reduction in the stumpage on timber which had been killed by bud worm and that on burned over land. It was impossible, however, with the present state to examine all the areas in the province before logging commenced, and in view of the unemployment in some sections, the government will give consideration to a small reduction in the rate for this season only.

Unusual Gifts of Furniture
For Weddings and Anniversaries

There is a great pleasure and recompense associated with giving—if our gifts make us feel that we have really contributed to the happiness and well-being of those we wish to compliment.

Be it for the wedding occasion which intimates the creation of a new home, or for the anniversary which records another milestone in the drama of life, a gift of some unusual piece of furniture really means more in substantial comfort and permanent enjoyment than almost any other gift we can give.

At Everett's there are so many appropriate gift pieces that it is an easy matter to find a desirable article for any gift occasion and within almost any price limitation, down to as little as $10.00.

Convenient work tables—beautiful writing desks and writing tables with chairs to match. Interesting nests of tables—unusual dinner wagons—exclusive floor lamps and table lamps and reading lamps and magazine stands and book troughs and easy arm chairs and inviting sofas and many useful and distinctive tables and stands and scores of similarly gifty pieces.

And in every instance the values will bear most critical comparison—for every market decline is at once reflected in our values—though without loud acclaim as a price reduction or special sale.

We invite a study of our windows and comparison of our values.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—A revised schedule of meetings to be held in Ontario provides for three meetings to be addressed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, in his own constituency of North York. On his return to Ottawa on Nov. 7 where he concludes the tour of this province, it is expected that Hon. Mr. King will remain in the capital for a day or so, after which he will leave for Vancouver to begin a tour of British Columbia, working back through the prairie provinces, then to the Atlantic coast in most of the cities on his way back.

It is expected that Hon. Mr. King will spend the last week or two of the campaign in Ontario and Quebec.

Ernest Lapointe, K. C., Hon. Charles Murphy, James Murdoch and other prominent men will take part in the various Ontario meetings with Hon. Mr. King and the local candidates in each riding visited.

NOTED CARTOONIST PLEASES AUDIENCE

A former well-known friend and entertainer, J. W. Bengough, the famous cartoonist of Toronto, delighted a large audience in the school room of St. Andrew's church last night when he gave an illustrated address on "The Pictorial Possibilities of Things in General." The entertainment was entirely in the hands of Mr. Bengough and he was more than equal to the task of keeping everybody present in rapt and most appreciative attention. Rev. F. S. Dowling, minister of the church, introduced Mr. Bengough, and said that he did so on behalf of the Boy Scouts who had been instrumental in bringing him to St. John. Last night was the third time he had addressed a

St. John audience, and the last time he gave an evening's entertainment here was about twenty years ago. A substantial sum was realized by last night's entertainment. Besides his amazing gift as cartoonist, Mr. Bengough is a very versatile elocutionist and he delighted with his humorous, pathetic and lively recitations, no less than with his clever drawings.

A recent gift to the Natural History Society, which is of more than usual interest and which will be highly valued, is a complete set of the different gas masks issued to the Canadian troops at various times during the Great War. There are three masks in the set and they were given to the society by Lieutenant-Colonel G. G. Corbet, M.D., by whom they were used on active service.

HUNTER KILLED NEAR KENTVILLE

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Kentville, N. S., Oct. 24.—Three armed bandits held up a mail truck near here today, when a rifle, carried by his nephew, discharged as the latter stumbled. Jones was sixty-eight years of age and leaves a family.

BIG MAIL ROBBERY IN NEW YORK CITY

(Canadian Press Despatch)
New York, Oct. 24.—Three armed bandits held up a mail truck on Broadway and Worth street late tonight and escaped with seventeen sacks of mail, eleven of them containing registered letters.

The bandits rifled four pouches of registered mail valued at $1,000,000.

THE INVENTOR OF DUNLOP TIRE DEAD

Dublin, Oct. 24.—John Boyd Dunlop, the inventor of the pneumatic tire, died here today. He was eighty-one years of age. His invention, which he patented in 1888, resulted in the popularizing of bicycling, and was a forerunner to passenger automobilizing.

BOSTON SCHOOL HEAD POISONED

Boston, Oct. 24.—Frank V. Thompson, superintendent of schools of this city, died yesterday at his home of acute poisoning.

Mr. Thompson, who was a graduate of the University of Massachusetts (N. H.), had been in educational work in eastern Massachusetts several years. He was forty-seven years old.

ORPHANAGE FAIR APPEAL

The executive of the fair committee, acting on the advice of their workers and friends, have decided to continue the fair all week, closing on the 29th instead of the 27th as originally planned. In order to do this we are forced to make a further appeal to the public for contributions of all kinds. Owing to generous support already given we feel reluctant to do this but the cause is our homeless and fatherless children as a part. We as a committee are spending our own time, money and means in order to make this fair one worthy of the cause and a credit to the people who had the Protestant public in the past done their full duty towards this cause it would not have been necessary for us to press it upon them as urgently as is now being done. We therefore feel justified in asking for the aid of the "dollar." Donations of any kind, large or small, anything out of which we can make a dime for the benefit of the "dollar." Kindly forward goods direct to rink at any hour or advise us. Watch the daily press reports when unable to visit.

IMPORTANT!—All those having season tickets out on sale are urged to make returns before the 29th, on which date it is intended the drawing will take place. Wm. M. Campbell, chairman; Jas. E. Arthur, secretary. P. O. Box 12, City.

DISCOVERS ANAEMIA GERMS.

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 25.—Discovery of the germ of pernicious anaemia by Dr. Philip Rantjen, former Professor of Bacteriology at the University of California, was announced here today on receipt of word from Washington that the American Association for the Advancement of Science had honored him for the discovery by electing him to membership.

Dr. Rantjen is credited with isolating the anaemia germ and developing an antitoxin and serum.

A SIGNIFICANT SIGN.

(Moncton Transcript.)
A Halifax dispatch through the non-partisan Canadian Press service says:—Generally, as Nova Scotia has voted in general elections, so has the country as a whole voted. On only one occasion, that of the first general election of 1867, when resentment against Confederation dominated the political situation in the east, has Nova Scotia returned to a majority of its members in opposition to the government of the day.

This is significant. No one at all familiar with the political situation in that province today is predicting that the government will carry a majority of the seats there; but it is freely predicted that the Liberals will win a sweeping victory. If as Nova Scotia goes, so goes the nation, there is certainly an in for a change of government.

ARCHBISHOP ASKS SCHOOL SUPPORT

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Toronto, Oct. 24.—Archbishop Neil McNeil, of the Catholic diocese of Toronto, addressing the Canadian Club here today on the question of increasing financial support for separate schools, said that Ontario was not carrying out the British North America Act in the matter of appropriating taxes for the separate schools. All Roman Catholics, he said, were supporting public schools, whereas they were to be exempt from that by the school act of 1863 which was part of the Act of 1867.

"We are paying taxes to the public schools through the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Canadian National Railways and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission," said Archbishop McNeil.

"If Ontario really refuses to consider our claim," Archbishop McNeil said, "it means this that Ontario has decided to repudiate the B. N. A. Act of 1867."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT IN KENT COUNTY

Moncton, Oct. 24.—Henry Gratton, of St. Anne, Kent county, while working in a lath mill, about six miles from Rexton, on Saturday afternoon, was struck by a stick which flew from the saw, penetrating his skull.

He is now at Rexton under the care of a physician, who is as yet unable to determine whether the patient will survive.

WILL LAND IN CANADA.
London, Oct. 24.—Part of the British delegation to the Washington limitations of armaments conference will go to Washington, via Canada. Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, Lord Curzon, Sir John Newell (Gordon) and Sir Maurice Hankey have booked passage on the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Empress of France, sailing November 2 and due to arrive at Quebec on November 8.

PLACE DE LA CONCORDE

At every hour of the day the Place de la Concorde is beautiful and imposing. It was first developed in 1826 by day and ending in a golden base of sunlight. To right and left towards the Madeleine and the Corps Legislatif, the lines of houses in the square, the round summits of the great chestnut trees towered aloft. In the distance, the avenue of the Champs Elysees soared till lost to sight beneath the wide-gaping arc of infinity. A double current of crowd, a double stream rolled on, furnished with the living tracery of equestrian, and studded with the fluting waves of carriages, which the reflection of a lake seemed to whiten into foam. Below the Place, with its immense fountains, was the place of the Regatta, and the Regatta, with its immense fountains, was the place of the Regatta, and the Regatta, with its immense fountains, was the place of the Regatta.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN N. B., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1921

THE FOOTBALL SEASON IS NOW OPEN

LOOK WITH PRIDE ON ACHIEVEMENT OF BOTH VESSELS

Newspaper, Donating Trophy, Speaks of Schooner Races.

Comment on the Bluenose and Elsie Performances—What Captain Walters and Skipper Marty Welch Have to Say.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 25. — Discussing Canada's win over the United States in the International Fishermen's race series, the Halifax Herald, honors of the trophy, today says editorially: "Apart from the triumph altogether, Canadians can hold for Marty Welch and his crew no other feelings but those of boundless admiration. It is an admiration which they share in equal measure with that we entertain for our own Angus Walters and the men of the Bluenose. These men incorporate in themselves all the loftiest elements of the North Atlantic seaman. They are the logical successors to that great race of hardy sailors who for hundreds of years have pursued their hazardous calling on the stormy bosom of the Atlantic—men from whose efforts have come to Canada and the U. S. great honor and glory. "Both nations look with pride on their achievements, Canada because in two magnificent contests our representative has come forth victor; the U. S. because in two magnificent contests their representative, although vanquished, is unsubdued. "The Bluenose won again today," said Skipper Walters, captured in his cabin just after the race, "because she was the faster boat. They'll have to build a faster schooner if they want to take the cup back to Gloucester, provided, of course, that Bluenose is still about. Elsie was a little ahead on the first legs of the wind. The trouble was we did not have much wind and not enough real windward work, and that was what helped the Gloucester schooner. When we started I hoped to beat Elsie by at least half an hour, but nine and a half minutes was the best we could do.

Down at Campbell's wharf, where his ship was snugly berthed with the Gloucester schooner Good Luck, there for company, was Captain Marty Welch, as bright and cheerful in defeat as he was when he sailed the Esperanto to victory off Halifax last year. "I've got no excuses," said Elsie's skipper. "The larger boat won. I don't say the best boat won, because the Elsie is as good as the Bluenose is, only she's smaller. Give me a vessel of that size and I'd like to race her every day in the week." Congratulated on his strategy in getting the better start and holding the lead for the first part of the course, Captain Welch said that Elsie certainly had the better of it off the wind and admitted that Bluenose was superior on the windward work. "She's deeper and so much longer that she would have to beat us if she was any good at all," declared Marty. "They were good races, but I would have liked to have competed with a boat of about Elsie's size. You take a vessel of 140 feet and put her against one twenty feet shorter and it stands to reason that the smaller boat has not much of a show."

FOREIGN CATTLE BARRED

Quarantine is Extended Against Foot and Mouth Disease.

The prevalence of foot and mouth disease in some countries in Europe, in certain parts of Asia and Africa, as well as in South America, has caused the United States Department of Agriculture to institute special quarantines against the importation of live stock from these places. This systematic survey of foreign sources of breeding stock, giving protection against the introduction of diseased animals, is annually worth millions of dollars to the live stock breeders of the United States.

Anyone who wishes to import cattle, sheep, goats, swine, or other animals from any country, except Canada or Mexico, must first obtain from the secretary of agriculture a permit, to be presented to the American Consul at the port from which the animals will be shipped. No permits are issued for shipment from countries where rinderpest, surra, foot and mouth disease, or contagious pleuro-pneumonia exist.

THE SEASONAL SLUMP.

(Editorial from The American Contractor, Chicago, September 3, 1921.) The seasonal slump which inevitably develops during the fall and winter in the construction field will be apparent by the middle of October. In most localities in the United States there is no good reason why building should be suspended during the late fall and winter, but the fact is this suspension materializes every year and construction activities in so far as they have to do with private projects are at low ebb during the more inclement months.

Of course seasonal employment is prolific in winter even in years when business conditions are normal. In such years we may tolerate this waste even though we know it is foolish and inefficient, but in a situation such as now confronts the nation a seasonal slump in a fundamental industry like construction is a decidedly disquieting prospect and sufficiently grave to justify the most earnest thought of government officials everywhere.

There is a way to absorb all the labor available in the construction industry and to use it almost continuously during the entire winter. The practical way to do this is for municipalities, counties, states and the federal government now to come into the field with such public work as is contemplated and for which funds are available or authorized. Government officials, local, state and national, have a grave responsibility for the general well-being of our people. This responsibility impinges the presence of delaying winter weather in the city hall, or the county court house on an uncertain chance of saving $10,000, when the delay without employment from worthy citizens and withholdings from local business men just

RUSSIANS ENFORCE DRY LAW TO LIMIT

Assumption is That Foreigners Cannot Do Without Wine.

Moscow, Sept. 16. — (By Mail) — Soviet Russia has at least solved the question of prohibition. Only those who know what the vodka meant to the Russian population can imagine what the apparent complete prohibition means. While formerly, especially on Sundays and holidays afternoons, all Moscow was virtually tottering on its feet as a result of unlimited consumption of vodka or similar beverages, there was not a single individual seen by me during my whole stay in Moscow and other cities who looked as if he had taken a drink for years. They say that some wealthy there still are such individuals in Russia—merchants occasionally have a quiet sip in the depth of their cellars. Some people declare that the peasants are making some sort of vodka of their own for special occasions. This may be true, but it is the exception.

Recently the Soviet government has permitted the sale of beverages containing 14 per cent alcohol, especially wine. This is a concession to foreigners, who, Russia assumes, are unable to go without.

The day of my departure from Moscow to civilized Europe I got a shock, when I saw a man tottering across the Smolensky market, plainly drunk. I was relieved greatly when I heard him swear in Polish and found out he had a good friend at the Polish legation.

NOW EX-WIFE'S STEPFATHER.

Man Who Married Mother-in-Law Grandfather of Own Children.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 25.—George E. Bider, 44 years old, a well-to-do farmer, married his mother-in-law, Mrs. Julia Davis, 48 years old. Mrs. Davis is the mother of Mrs. Eva Bider, from whom Bider obtained a divorce a few weeks ago on the ground of inhuman treatment. There are six children. When he went to court and asked permission to marry again, Judge Smith told him that if he could get a good woman to take care of his children the court had no objection. The judge was the most surprised man in the courtroom today when Bider appeared with his mother-in-law and a license to wed. Bider becomes the stepfather of his former wife and the grandfather of his six children.

Fishermen's Race Trophy just won by the "Bluenose."

That B-H Anchor Marine Paints were chosen for use on the "Bluenose," the pride of the maritime provinces, is noteworthy. It confirms the fact that B-H Marine Paints manufactured by Brandram-Henderson since 1878, and used extensively in the shipping industry throughout Canada, are still regarded as the best available.

For more than 30 years Brandram-Henderson have specialized in Marine Paints with the result that our paints for Marine purposes are being supplied in great quantities today to fishermen and shipbuilders throughout Canada.

For every purpose in which a brush is used there is a high-grade Brandram-Henderson product that is held in as high regard by Canadians from coast to coast as our Marine Paints are among the fishermen and shipbuilders.

BOWLING.

City League Plans.

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter and Commissioner Thornton will officiate at the opening of the City Bowling League on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock and will oppose each other for the first two frames of the opening game, which will be between the Lions, last year's champions, and the Sweeps, who have in other years won the championship. The other teams composing the league this year are the Ramblers and the Nationals. They will bowl on Black's Alley. If possible they will endeavor to excel the scores made in previous years but this will be no easy task. At present, all the Canadian bowling records are held by the City league bowlers and have been made on Black's Alley.

Commercial League.

The G. E. Barbour Co. team took three points from the C. P. R. team in the Commercial League game bottled on Black's Alley last night.

Y. M. C. A. Leagues Organized.

The organization of the basketball teams of the seniors of the Y. M. C. A. House league took place last night and from the various line-ups, there should be some real basketball played this season. There was nearly double the number of players to be chosen from this year and most of the men are novices at basketball. They should make a good showing in matches with the City league teams. Because of difficulty in fitting in these, only four teams were organized and their managers were chosen as follows: Harry Webster, Roy Willet, Andrew Malcolm and Clayton. The seniors' schedule starts on Monday, October 31. The captains of the business men's teams in the Y. M. C. A. House league also met last night and selected their teams, arranging for a schedule of games to start on Monday afternoon, November 14. The Y. M. C. A. membership is already well up to last year's total figures and promises to set a record breaker. In all there are 1,100 members and 600 are seniors.

"What's a Wife Worth?"

William Christy Cabanne's new special production "What's a Wife Worth?" opened at the Unique last night and met with the unqualified approval of a large and enthusiastic audience. "What's a Wife Worth" is a comedy drama of the highest type. While it sends the audience away with something to think about it cannot be called a sermon or a presentation. It discusses a problem of every day life and while the picture answers the question "What's a Wife Worth?" it is a comedy drama of the highest type. 'HARD DRINKING' OASIS BEFORE THE CABINET

But No Action is Taken on Reform Societies' Complaints Against Tiajuana's Tourist Lure.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Cabinet considered briefly but took no action on the "many complaints" in respect to conditions growing out of the permitted use of passports from San Diego, Cal., to Tiajuana, Mexico. It was said that the question was not regarded as one with which the government could deal at this time. The Mexican town was represented as attracting many thousands of visitors who were described as going there "for no good purpose." Officials explained that the use of the 24-hour passport could not properly be limited on "moral grounds" and the cabinet therefore laid the complaints aside. Tiajuana, a border town of Lower California, it has been charged, has attracted tourists with its opportunities for racing, gambling and hard drinking. No announcement was made of the sources of the complaints which resulted in cabinet attention, although it was said that they had come "from several quarters" and formal complaints previously have been filed with the State Department by American reform organizations.

SHOE-MAKING PLANTS OPERATING AT CAPACITY

(Toronto Mail and Empire).

That few, if any, of the principal shoe manufacturing companies are now in a position to accept orders for delivery in less than six weeks' time and that manufacturers' prices are firm may even advance, were statements made on Thursday by S. Roy Weaver, manager of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada. "Within the last month," he said, "there has been a notable improvement in buying, due in part no doubt to the change in season. Many merchants had let their stocks get low and there has been a sudden rush to buy goods. There are practically no job lots obtainable and the majority of the manufacturing plants are operating at capacity. Orders calling for deliveries in less than six weeks' time are being refused."

CHESS MATCH IN ENGLAND HAS 400 PLAYERS A SIDE

Details of a monster-team chess match, arranged to establish a new world's record, have come to hand from London, where, on Sept. 24, 800 players sat down in a contest, 400 on each side, between the North of the Thames and South of the Thames. The North won by a margin of thirty-five games out of 217½ to 182½. Comparatively few games were adjudged.

PANIC IN THE N. Y. SUBWAY

Smoke and Electric Flashes Scare Passengers—Several Hurt in Scramble.

New York, Oct. 25.—Panic seized the passengers in a subway train at 110th street last night and they fought and trampled on one another to make their escape when a short circuit in one of the cars filled the train with smoke and electric flashes. The confusion became worse when the current was shut off, throwing the subway station into darkness. The train doors were forced open by guards while men and women struggled to get out by way of the windows. Three men were removed to the hospital suffering from bruises and internal injuries while a score of men and women were treated in the station for minor injuries. Half an hour elapsed before traffic was resumed.

CURIOUS SERBIAN STAMP.

Death Mask Found on the First King Peter Issue.

The recent death of the former King Peter of Serbia recalls attention to an unusual set of postage stamps used in 1903 to commemorate Peter's accession to the throne. A few months prior to that event a new set of stamps with the portrait of King Alexander had been prepared, but just before they were ready to be put on sale Alexander, his Queen, the Minister of War and three or four others were assassinated. As the country was then very short of stamps for postal use, the portrait of the murdered king was overprinted with the Serbian arms, completely obliterating the portrait. These stamps did duty for a bout a year.

MOON FLEW TRACK CENTURIES AGO

Was About 12 Miles Ahead of the Schedule at Recent Eclipse, Cable Reported—2 Seconds Gain a Century.

(New York Times.) The moon has been off its course for at least 250 years, according to Dr. Ernest William Brown of Yale, author of "A New Theory of the Moon's Motion" and other works on the moon, who discussed yesterday the cable from London saying that observations during the late eclipse showed that the moon was about twelve miles ahead of its schedule.

"It has been known for forty or fifty years that the moon's motion did not perfectly follow the path calculated for it," said Dr. Brown. "It apparently gains a second of time and then gradually falls back again. The late Dr. Simon Newcomb studied observations of the moon over a period of 250 years and discovered that this unaccountable motion had taken place during the entire period."

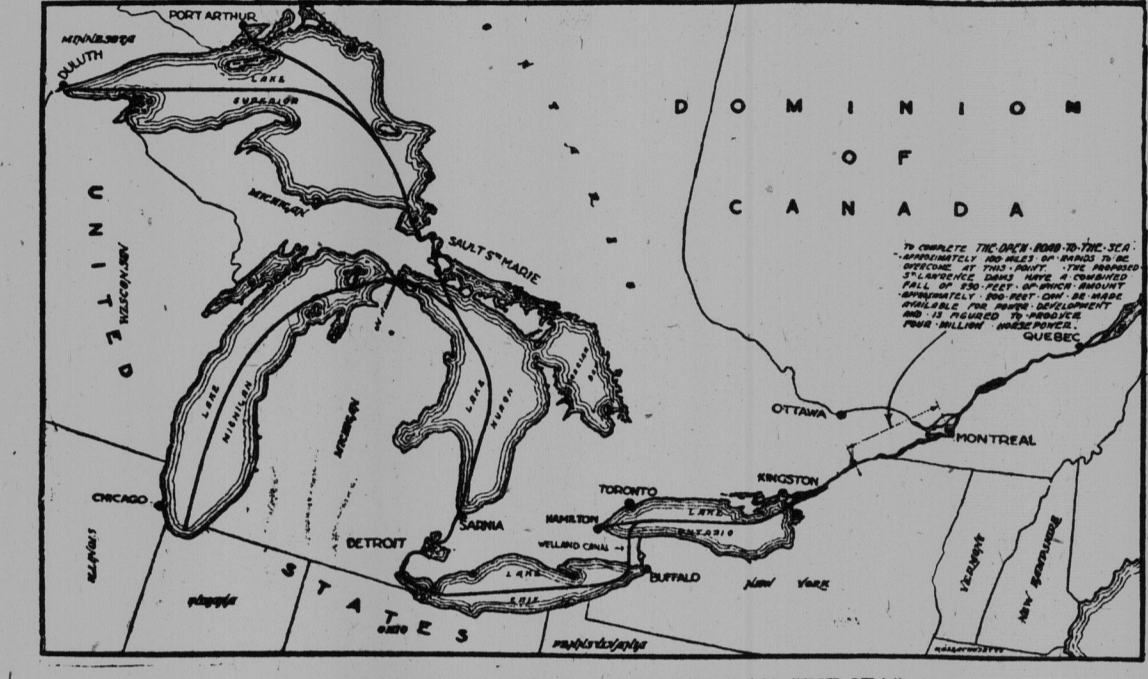

The sun and earth are known to be great magnets. The moon is probably a magnet also, and one guess is that the interaction of these magnets produces an observable effect on the moon. There is no other known effect of magnetism on the motion of astronomical bodies and no way to check up this theory. It has been suggested that some undetected and comparatively small mass of matter may move around the earth and disturb the moon by gravitation, but Dr. Brown said that it had been established positively that gravitational forces did not account for occasional bursts of speed and periods of slowing-up exhibited by the moon.

Although the moon was reported to be twelve miles ahead of its schedule, this only means that it is one second ahead of time. This is not enough to make almanac changes necessary, especially in view of the fact that the moon has already probably crept from over-running its schedule. Dr. Brown said that one second of time, however, was a matter of great importance to astronomers, who are able to detect an ascertained in the moon of a few one-thousandths of a second.

There is a doubt, according to the astronomer, however, whether the motion of the edge, or limb of the moon, as it turns round, has been established with exactness. A slight error here, he said, might account for the effect now credited to magnetism or unknown forces.

In one of his publications Dr. Brown has shown that the moon's course falls by something less than one-millionth of 1 per cent. to agree with what would be expected of it under Newton's law of gravitation. In spite of the fact that the moon regularly loses most of the time it has gained, it is calculated that it makes a net gain of about two seconds a century in the time of its revolution around the earth, shortening the months to that extent. The attraction of gravity exercised by the planets accounts for slightly more than one second of this gain. But there still remains a fraction of a

FORMER SAINT JOHN MAN AT THIS IMPORTANT CONVENTION

MAP OF THE PROPOSED "OPEN ROAD TO THE SEA" The proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence route over which ocean vessels are someday expected to make direct voyages from European ports to the head of Lake Superior is illustrated in the accompanying map and will be the subject of discussion at a two days' convention to be held in Hamilton on Nov. 1 and 2 under the auspices of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association.

The campaign for the improvement of the St. Lawrence River Canals and Locks, has made great progress in the past two years. The improvement affects only 40 miles in the St. Lawrence out of a total of 2,600 miles of inland waterways. When the New Welland Canal is completed it will be capable of accommodating 95 per cent. of all the vessels in the world.

Engineers representing the governments of Canada and the United States have reported that the improvement of the waterway can be accompanied by an ultimate development of 4,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy, and an initial development of 1,460,000 horsepower, and the whole of the navigation works can be constructed at a cost of $282,000,000. The power developed, they claim, will pay for the cost of the entire works.

The following is the executive of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association, who will attend a convention in Hamilton, on Nov. 1 and 2nd:

W. M. German, K. C., of Welland, Honorary President. F. Macdure Scanders, F. R. G. S., of Windsor, Hon. Sec. Treasurer. Mr. Scanders is a former St. John man. C. E. Fleming, K. C., of Windsor, President. E. L. Cousins, B. A., Sc., Toronto, 1st Vice President. George J. Guy, of Hamilton, 2nd Vice President. Mayor Alex C. Lewis, M. P. P., Toronto, Secretary Treasurer.

BUSINESS MEN IN ORCHESTRA

"Amateur" Organization Soon to Give Public Concerts at Art Institute.

(Chicago Journal) Among Chicago's business and professional men there are so many highly skilled musicians without an audience and without opportunity for musical expression that the Art Institute has taken them under its patronage and created the Chicago Amateur orchestra. This orchestra has been in actual existence for a month and has sixty-five members. Rehearsals have been going on during that time at the Art Institute. Admission as a performer is open to all who have a degree of ability which demands a quality of talent of high order, according to Palmer J. Clark, director of the organization, who says that forty violinists have been tried out and rejected.

Among the members and their instruments are: George Lytton, vice-president of the Hub, bass violin; S. L. Hypes, Marshall Field & Co., and Dr. O. G. Stark, cellos; Lloyd R. Steere, Central Trust Company, and C. H. Babe, advertising, French horns; Emory C. Andrews, vice-president of the Philip Ruxton Company, Inc., violin. Other violinists are: Bennett Griffin, insurance man, head of the violin section of the orchestra; R. F. Babcock, artist, and Attorney Paul H. Munn. Mr. Steere is secretary of the organization.

The orchestra is now rehearsing the fifth symphony of Tschakowsky and the fourth symphony of Brahms, which will be given publicly soon. It is planned to have concerts monthly at the Art Institute, which will be free to the public. All Ardent Music Lovers. Many well-to-do business and professional men in Chicago who have made a thorough study of instrumental music and who have played at their own homes have been desirous for a long time of getting an opportunity to express their musical skill in public, said Mr. Clark. "It goes without saying that they are ardent lovers of music and play for the joy of the art. These men have formed themselves into a symphony orchestra. For the first time in this country promenade concerts will be given out in the open at the Art Institute. "This orchestra is the contribution of these music-loving business men to Chicago and its people who find delight in music. There will be no charge for concerts to the general public." Rehearsals are being held at the Art Institute every Friday from 8 to 8 p. m.
