CLOSE THE HISTORIC TAVERNS IN LONDON.

London, July 10—An old Fleet street tavern, "The Crown," in Crown street, is to be closed by the authorities on the ground that there is an abundance of public-houses in that district of London without the continuance of the Crown's license. Compensation will be allowed.

The Crown is a noted house for printers, and for more than 200 years its license has been renewed year by year without a complaint against it. It is half-way down a narrow court leading from Fleet street to Whitefrains street, and would not be seen by the passer-by if it were not for the sign in the street. It is one of the old taverns where the bullies of Whitefrains, known as "Alastans," spent their time in the days of the Stuarts, and came forth when called upon to resist the arrest of one of their comrades or to fight their neighbors living in the Temple.

Sir Walter Scott, in his "Fortune of Nigel," depicts the bullies rushing from their secret hiding places in the tavern to rescue their leader.

Another well-known tavern to be closed is the Ben Johnson in Houndsditch, a house that must have been frequented by the dramatist of that name and his friends Burbage and Shakespeare. The actors of Ben Johnson's day lived in Shoreditch.

MONCTON PLAYGROUNDS.

Miss Adra Farwell, formerly on the St. John playgrounds staff, has been engaged as supervisor of one Moncton playground and H. H. Wetmore of Acadia University, whose home is at St. John, was engaged as supervisor of the other. Miss Farwell has accepted the appointment and the association is awaiting word from Mr. Wetmore.

YESTERDAY IN CITY CHURCHES

Union services in the city churches for the summer months were held yesterday for the second time and are proving the success they have been in former years.

At both union services yesterday for St. Andrew's Presbyterian and Germain street Baptist church, Rev. W. A. Fraser, M. A., of St. Andrews (N. B.), was the special preacher.

At the morning united service yesterday of Portland Methodist and Main street Baptist, Rev. George Steele, D. D., preached the sermon.

St. David's Presbyterian, being without a minister, has not united with any other congregation for the summer. Yesterday's services were conducted by Rev. W. H. MacQuarrie, B. D. It was announced that Rev. W. N. Cunningham, of Saskatchewan, will fill the pulpit for the next three Sundays.

The services yesterday at Ludlow street Baptist were conducted by Rev. E. M. Kierstead, LL. D., D. D., of McMaster-University, Toronto. Dr. Kierstead is one of Canada's prominent educationalists and delivered two inspiring addresses.

Rev. J. A. Swetnam, pastor of Waterloo street Baptist, and Rev. A. L. Tedford, pastor of Palmetto Baptist, exchanged pulpits for the morning services yesterday.

Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson of the Main street Baptist church was the preacher yesterday at the service in the Fair Vale hall. Mr. Smith, of the German street Baptist choir, rendered two solos. Sunday school in the morning had seventy-nine scholars and teachers in attendance.

VICTIMS OF MEN? DISSOLVE LEAGUE

Women Who Hated Men Were Soon Engaged to Marry.

Paris, July 10—The League of Women Victims of Men, organized at Nice in January, has been dissolved. Requisites for membership included a violent hatred of men, gained through sufficient reason. The founder of the club was Countess de Wrangel, who declared she had been jilted by five different men. Another member, Madeleine Ellancourt, was an artist, who said dealers refused to buy her pictures because she was ugly.

Secret meetings were held at which vows of the most binding character were uttered. A solemn rule was that no member should ever be polite to a man, let alone be subservient to him.

Two marriages were recently celebrated in the South of France. One, it was that of Baroness de Wrangel to Count Felipe de Miralle. The other took place at Toulon, and the bridegroom was Madeleine Ellancourt was a French naval officer.

Two other engagements have since been announced.

BETTER THAN HARD COAL

Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whisksers on stove covers or pipe and does not mat or clog when burning, is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing is to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristics.

HIGH GRADE DIAMONDS SCARCE IN EUROPE

Bank Attributes Decline in Imports to Deaths in Foreign Markets.

Reports of a scarcity of high grade diamonds in the markets of Europe, which are being brought back to the United States by returning buyers, explaining part, says the National City Bank, the fact that U. S. importation of diamonds in the fiscal year will be but about $50,000,000, or approximately one-third that of two years ago. The value of the diamonds imported into the U. S. in the fiscal year 1920, the high record year, was $80,000,000, against an annual average of about $60,000,000 a year in the preceding decade, $60,000,000 in the fiscal year 1921, and a prospective $50,000,000 in the fiscal year 1922.

This slowing down in our importation of diamonds in the last couple of years," says the bank, "will not, however, materially affect our supply of diamonds, which is held in the vaults of one-half of the diamonds of the world. This estimate was made in 1918 by one of the most distinguished and painstaking diamond experts of the world, who stated, in a carefully prepared discussion on the subject, that there can be little doubt that the total value of diamonds in the world is about $1,000,000,000, and that those in the United States represent nearly $1,500,000,000, or about one-half the world's holdings.

"If we add to this 1918 estimate the $200,000,000 worth of diamonds that we imported since that estimate was made in 1918, the output since that date, representing one-half of the world's diamonds has not been materially diminished by the slowing down of our imports in the past two years, especially as this slowing down was simultaneous with a big reduction in the output of South Africa, which now supplies most of the new material added to the world's stock of diamonds.

"South Africa has for many years been the world's chief producer of diamonds, and the very latest reports from that field indicate that while the out-turn of the South African mines averaged about $40,000,000 a year in the three years ending with 1919, the output since that date, 1919, has been extremely small, owing in part at least to the fact that the European markets were being flooded with high-grade diamonds formerly owned in Russia.

"The outturn of the diamond mines of South Africa since their discovery and development a half century ago has approximated a billion dollars in value, while the total output of the Brazilian mines to date is about $160,000,000, India $50,000,000, the area formerly designated German Southwest Africa and Borneo, $1,000,000. This estimate of the total output of the five diamond fields of the world, South Africa, Brazil, India, German Southwest Africa, and Borneo, makes the down-to-date outturn of all the diamond mines of the world about $1,250,000,000 at the places from which, which, after cutting, mounting, payment of the duties and placing them in the hands of customers, represents about $3,000,000,000, of which approximately one-half are owned in the United States. "Very few of our diamond imports come direct from the country of production, most of the outturn of the cutting centers of Europe, chiefly Netherlands and in a lesser degree France, Belgium and Great Britain. Our own imports in the high record year, 1920, were from Netherlands, $55,000,000; Great Britain, $22,000,000; France, approximately $5,000,000, and Belgium, a couple of millions. Of the $80,000,000 worth imported in that high record year, $18,000,000 worth came in the 'uncut' form for use in the diamond cutting establishments of our own country, which through the use of special machinery devised in this country, have been able successfully to compete with Europe despite the much higher wages paid in the United States."

THE OUTLOOK IMPROVES

Throughout the latter part of 1920 and the whole of 1921, the business men of St. John and the province at large had to face a shrinkage of business with very little diminution of overhead expenses.

SUMMER.

(Rev. George Scott.)
Summer comes again and weaves
Through the maze of city streets
Whispered gossip of the leaves
In the hush of cool retreats.

Birds and bees and running brooks
Carolling the living day,
Daisied fields and fragrant nooks,
Where the laughing children play.

Mossy pathways that beguile
Pleasantly to distant woods,
Where the pink rhodora smiles,
Meadow sweet and marigolds.

Quiet lakes and bubbling springs,
Sweet as nectar of the gods,
Where the yellow warbler sings
On the slender hazel rods.

Purling streams that shyly hide
In the shadows dark and cool,
Fountains where the water glides
Down to many a dimpled pool.

Rolling hills and peaceful dells
Of the green hills of the west,
Where the lily's golden bells
Nod and sway upon the breeze.

Summer comes again and weaves
'Mid the city's dusty heats
Soothing whispers of the leaves
In the hush of cool retreats.

LIGHTER VEIN.

Certainly.
"What can it be for you, Lars?" asked Lawyer Brown, in his main street office.

"Well," said Lars, "I've had some damages on Olsen."
"Olsen, the veterinary? Tell me why?"

"Oh, you see, my cow won't eat, so I tell Olsen, and he gives me bottles sisted of professional librarians only.

ADMIRAL PAKENHAM
ON NAVY'S FUTURE

Warships in No Danger of Being Superseded by Air-

(Montreal Gazette.)
Admiral Sir William C. Pakenham, K.
C. B., K. C. M. G., commander of the North Atlantic Squadron, now in port, in the course of his first public address, at a special meeting of the Canadian Club at the Windsor Hotel yesterday, made it abundantly clear that in his opinion the day when the navy is far from being superseded by the theories of air enthusiasts who were predicting the end of naval work owing to the advancement of danger from the skies, declaring that the air service was very far from reaching a stage which would end the usefulness of navies.

there had been an uneasy feeling in favor of letting sleeping dogs lie. The Empire ended with a rush of all the dominions to war when the safety of the Empire was imperilled, and now the ground was prepared for further progress, with the dominions showing the consciousness of their responsibilities of maturity. (Ap-

GYPSY ROSIE FALLS INTO A POLICE TRAP

Deformed Woman Charges Her With Obtaining $85 for "Divine Healing"—Irish Moss Used in "Cure."

New York, July 10—Had Rosie Peters, twenty-two, who says she is a full-blooded gypsy born in Rumania, confined her operations to palmistry and permitted others to do "divine healing," she probably would not now be held by the police, charged with attempting grand larceny, for arraignment in the Gates avenue police court.

But Rosie didn't. She saw an opportunity with the aid of boiled water and Irish moss to "make a little extra money" and could not resist, according to the complainant, Miss Antoinette Packowick, fifty, employed as maid in the household of Charles Blaisdell, at 1,079 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn. Miss Packowick is a hunchback.

It was the deformity of the woman that prompted the gypsy maid to suddenly become a "divine healer" for the purpose of effecting a cure, for a "consideration." The gypsy was trapped by two detectives and taken to the Ralph avenue precinct station.

Rosie, who lives at Locust avenue and Jamaica Junction, Jamaica, stopped at the house on Bushwick avenue on Monday and read the palm of Miss Packowick, who told the police the gypsy claimed also to be a "divine healer" and "would cure me."

BOSTON MAN TO TRY CHANNEL SWIM

Toth Will Leave Soon for England to Prepare for Endurance Test.

Boston, July 10—While two English women have announced their intention of making the attempt to swim the Channel during the coming season, aquatic experts expect that the only serious challenge to the elements which have defeated all but two of the many who have essayed the dangerous and exhausting feat will come from a U. S. man, Charles Toth, the distance swimmer of L. Street Swimming Club of Boston, will leave for England within a few weeks to make his preparations for the battle with the cold and choppy Channel and to start training for the attempt which will be made on the first favorable occasion.

Toth first came into the swimming limelight in 1914, in which year he swam from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light through the Narrows, in six hours and forty-eight minutes. The following year he defeated George Meehan in the annual Boston Light swim. A few days later Toth swam to the Boston Light and return, although he had to battle wind and tide all the way back from Long Island Head. The feat constituted a remarkable performance and established an American endurance record of fifteen hours and forty-eight minutes in the water.

Later in the same year, Toth swam from Charlestown Bridge to Graves Light and then to Revere Beach, covering twenty-four miles in twelve hours and forty-nine minutes. He is the only swimmer who has accomplished this feat. In 1916 he was the only swimmer to finish in the Boston Light contest, all the other entrants having been forced to withdraw because of the extremely cold water. Again last year, Toth was the only one able to do the full distance, swimming through a gull and finishing at Boston Light in five hours and thirty-seven minutes.

It is because of his speed and his ability to battle rough water and withstand extreme cold that Toth's backers believe he will accomplish the difficult feat of crossing the Channel. And they think he will fulfill James Wolf's prediction that the swim some day will be negotiated in fifteen hours. Wolf, in 1910, was close to the goal when taken from the water, after having been swimming fifteen hours and fifteen minutes.

Only two swimmers are credited with having negotiated the dangerous feat—Captain Matthew Webb in 1875 and William Burgess in 1911. The former took twenty-one hours and forty-five minutes, while Burgess was in the water twenty-two hours and thirty-five minutes.

removed the cover from the glass, to see the stuff there and tell what had happened. This I did. "This young woman then said to me, 'Miss Packowick said, "you have money in the bank, haven't you?" I told her I had. That she said to me, by using one-hundred-dollar bills I can cure you. She told me to get my money, $7,000, out of the bank and have it changed into one-hundred-dollar bills. She said she would return on Friday, and in the meantime I was to withdraw my money. She charged me $80 for her visit today, and when I was to hand her the money the detectives arrested her." The gypsy denied her guilt.

AERONAUT DROPS HIS PARACHUTE ABLAZE

Lands in Tree at Dansville Carnival and Escapes With Burns and Broken Shoulder.

Rochester, N. Y., July 10—Edwin Allen of Dansville, Mich., narrowly escaped a terrible death at Dansville when, in midair, the parachute in which he had jumped from a balloon caught fire from some unknown cause. The blazing parachute shot downward and crashed into the top of a broad-limbed apple tree. Although the impact was severe, Allen escaped with a broken shoulder and body bruises.

One of the features of the American Legion's carnival at Dansville has been nightly balloon ascensions by Allen and his brother, Edward, and descents in an illuminated parachute. Today's ascension was made just before noon. After the balloon had reached a height of 500 feet, Allen loosened the parachute and jumped. At the same moment a burst of fire was seen at one end of the parachute.

The crowd became tense as the flames spread over the parachute and were seen to be enveloping the aeronaut. Several women fainted as he and the blazing parachute crashed into the tree. A score of men ran to Allen's assistance and he was extricated but not until he had been badly blistered and singed by the flames.

VAINLY OFFER LIQUOR CHEAP.

Federal Officials Can't Sell it at $1 a Quart in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 10—Genuine Gordon gin and "Johnny Walker" whiskey is going begging for less than a dollar a quart. The Federal District Attorney and the Federal Marshal are meeting with little success in their efforts to sell a carload of choice liquors which prohibition agents seized several weeks ago when it arrived in a railroad yard, marked "Assorted Vegetables."

There is a bill of $500 due the railroad for freight and ice, and the government must pay it. The parties to whom the car was consigned waived interest in the shipment and declared that they had not the remotest idea who could have addressed so much liquor to them.

A representative of the Federal District Attorney has been going the rounds of hospitals, trying to sell the whiskey for $1 a quart in lots not to exceed three cases. Even though he declared the Government would guarantee its genuineness and finally consented to knock off twenty-five cents on the price of each bottle, there was no rush of legal customers. The gin would be sold for most any price, he said. Most of the hospitals appear well stocked, the agent said.

The funeral was held this afternoon from his late residence.

A BOYS WANDERINGS.
A juvenile, picked up on Sunday morning about 1 o'clock in Paradise Row, was brought before the sitting magistrate this morning for investigation. He told a tale which sounded like an adventure story rather than a series of events in ordinary life. His place of residence, he said, was Portland, Me., where he lived about a month with his brother, having gone there from Lewiston, Me., where his parents lived. He said he left Portland about a month ago following a circus which took in Prince Edward Island, Sackville, Moncton and St. John. He said he came here from Moncton with four men in a box car and was hopeful of getting back to Portland from here. Most of the time he spent without a cent in his pocket, begging his meals from houses and riding the rails from town to town. He had a badly broken finger, which he said was hurt about a month ago in a potato planter. The sitting magistrate ordered him looked after until the immigration authorities could be informed of the case and could act on it. He suggested that the boy be taken to the hospital to have his finger bandaged.

$1,000 DAMAGE DONE BY FERRY

Commissioner Bullock Presents Report of Saturday's Accident

Residents of Streets in Valley Section Ask for Surface Improvement—Complaint of Land Lease in Fairville—Tenders for Scrap Iron and Birch Opened.

Although a detailed estimate has not been completed covering the damage done to the boat and wharf by a collision of the ferry steamer Governor Carleton with the west side dock on Saturday, repairs will amount to at least $1,000, so Commissioner Bullock said, reporting the accident to this morning's committee meeting of the common council.

The commissioner presented a report from the ferry superintendent, George Waring, in which he stated that the accident took place on the 4.30 trip. J. French, who was in charge of the boat, he said, got his sleeve caught in the telegraph instrument, causing it to signal full steam ahead instead of astern. Mr. French, he said, assumed full responsibility. Mr. Waring said the Mr. French was temporarily in charge, but was experienced in the work and had never had a previous accident. The report was ordered received.

Commissioner Frink presided in the absence of the mayor. Commissioner Thornton was also absent, having gone to Halifax on Saturday.

Dr. Frink presented a petition from the residents of Summer street, asking that the surface of that street be improved. The petition stated that there were several depressions in the street since the renewal of the water main there some years ago; that a large sewer manhole cover and also several gas and water turnoffs were projecting. The petitioners claimed that no repairs had been put on the street for twelve years.

Commissioner Frink said that he had also petitions of similar tenor from the residents of Winter, Spring and Wright streets. He said that when City road being paved considerable material was placed in Summer street and the surface improved. Three and a half miles had been done in the last year, but he said that there were some ten miles more which needed attention. He reported that the residence of Summer street had expressed appreciation of repairs done to the street in 1920, but had evidently forgotten it.

Commissioner Wigmore said he would investigate in connection with the projection of the manhole and turnoffs as well as the depressions over the water line. The petition was referred to the commissioner of public works for report.

Authority was given to Commissioner Wigmore to call for tenders for a supply of 24, 16, 12, 10, 8 and 6 inch gate valves. Complaint from Fairville.

Mrs. J. J. Goldie, Church avenue, Fairville, was present to object to the lease of a lot by the city to Andrew Campbell, adjoining her property, and on which she intends to erect a coal shed. She said that her property had been improved recently and that the coal depot would prove a nuisance. She offered either to lease or buy the lot in question.

Commissioner Frink said that the same condition often was reported in the city. Commissioner Bullock reported that arrangements had already been completed to lease the lot to Mr. Campbell, who had made a deposit for it.

The acting mayor suggested that Mrs. Goldie try to come to some understanding with Mr. Campbell. Tenders for 100,000 feet birch timber for the harbor department were read as follows:—

J. A. Gregory, $38, $35 and $38, according to size; F. Puddington, 3 Pine street, $31.85. Tenders were referred to Commissioner Bullock for report.

Tenders for scrap iron opened and read as follows:—

A. Garson & Co., $12.25 a ton (no check, tender rejected); Garson Co., Ltd., $12.50; Union Foundry & Machine Works, $16; Dominion Metal Co., $16.50; Myer Cohen, $15.75. On motion of Commissioner Wigmore the tenders of the Dominion Metal Co., was ordered accepted.

FACING SLOW STARVATION

Church Probers, in the Mine Strike Region, Declare the Frightened People are in Grim Battle with Death.

New York, July 10—An account of a frightened people in a grim death grapple with slow starvation is the report made public by a commission appointed by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of Free Synagogue, at the invitation of T. L. Lewis, secretary of the New River Coal Operators' Association, to investigate the living and working conditions of the striking miners in West Virginia.

With the male workers unemployed, or receiving but negligible pittance from odd jobs, such as cleaning gins, the commission estimates that there are between 2,500 and 3,000 families in the New River coal field, where they carried on their investigating, in dire need.

In the homes of these families, according to the commission, there is insufficient food, and in many no adequate clothing.

Its report says the commission entered these homes, often hovels, abandoned barns and leaky tents, and found in the larders nothing but a little "fat back," or fat salt pork, a little flour and more infrequently a little meal.

Babies were there and young children, the report states, who had been without milk or cereals for months, poorly cared for by parents, who were continually harassed by the thought that they were ignorant of the source of next week's food supply.

Doctor Wise, owing to previous engagements, was unable to serve on the commission. It comprised Father R. A. McGowan of the National Catholic Welfare Council, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, associate rabbi of the Free Synagogue, and Winthrop D. Lane, a former member of the staff of the Survey Magazine.

The warning sounded by the commission in their report is that the conditions which they found "bodes ill for industrial peace and is very likely to place New River field in the same status as Mingo county and those other regions in West Virginia in which the union has been aggressively fought."

The commission, although making the investigation at the invitation of operators, did so at their own expense. At the inception of a campaign in New York to raise funds "for starving miners," Lewis addressed a letter to Rabbi Wise and urged that he investigate conditions for himself. The letter, as given out by Rabbi Wise, declared that "no necessary starvation or even privation existed."

The report states that "the precise number in need are unimportant since it is clear that many thousands are suffering," and adds:

"There is one group in particular who are in especially acute need. These are the families of mine workers who have been evicted from the company houses in the course of the companies' efforts to get rid of active unionists. These men, forcibly thrown from their dwellings or compelled to leave by court order are now living in what shelter they can find. Some are grouped together in tents, through which the rain pours; some are living in barns. With their miserable belongings others have found abandoned houses in which to dwell. More than 800 families have been evicted in the territory visited by the commission, and 'house notices' have been served upon many more. These men are for the most part blacklisted; the stories of their efforts to get jobs in mines about the state are pathetic. They are subsisting as best they can upon the inadequate allowance of the union, and their future is darkened by the prospects of being compelled to leave the state to earn a livelihood."

Locals of the union have emptied their treasuries for food, the report states, and adds that "families have begun to sell their possessions. One woman whose hardship was only typical, had parted with her sewing machine and her cow in order to buy meat and flour for her family."

AIRPLANE INVENTED TO SWIM IN WATER

Claim Made That it will Ride the Roughest Seas With Safety.

London, July 10—An airplane that according to its inventors promises to revolutionize flying soon will be submitted to practical test, according to information in aviation circles here. It is said to be unlike anything ever constructed before and is really a ship with wings. The utmost secrecy is maintained as to the details of its construction, but it is said to mark the beginning of an aerial navy.

The plane is so constructed that it will not only float in calm waters, but it is claimed will be able to ride the roughest seas with the same security as an Atlantic liner. It is claimed that it will be equally airworthy. The hull is long, light and slender, without bulkheads. The elasticity of the hull which will make this possible is the outcome of many years' scientific research. The new machine will be a vast improvement on the present type of amphibians.

The experimental machine carries but seven persons, but designs for larger ones have already been made. The airplane will carry four or six engines and will be capable of traveling 100 miles an hour. It will be equipped with fog horns, anchors and riving lights. When not in the air it can travel on the water and thus accompany a battle fleet under all conditions.

Machines designed chiefly for commercial service will be able to cross the Atlantic Ocean in less than forty-eight hours, it is claimed, carrying a heavy load.

HOT CORN VENDOR ROUTED BY WOMAN

Dry Goods and Ice Cream Carts Suffer from Stove, So She Drenches It—Other Merchants Happy.

(New York Times)

Among the thousands of pushcart stores on the east side no one is quite so unpopular with his fellow-men as he who sells boiled corn. First, he is a transient, appearing for only a month or so. Next, as such, he has no regular stand and is forced to crowd in where he can, usually usurping some late comer's place in the street market.

In the morning, when he opens business, the first thing he does is to build a fire in his stove. To boil water steamed and long enough to cook the corn he must have a hot fire. The stove itself, with its boiler and reserve box for green corn, is heavy enough without the addition of a coal bin, so he burns wood, strips of packing boxes, barrel staves and other odds and ends picked up in the street. In this line most of his troubles.

As soon as his fire gets going, smoke and hot, bright sparks, soot and cinders pour out of the abbreviated smokestack and spread themselves over the immediate neighborhood. Sparks light on the two-wheeled lingerie establishment adjoining. Soot gets into the boxes of white goods on the next vehicle, making the stock appear like the relics from some fire sale rather than the "extra values" advertised by the proprietor.

One of these unpopular corn merchants rolled his "hoodlum wagon" into the curb near the corner of Chrystie and East Houston streets recently, and, in spite of the loud protests from the men and louder wails from the women doing business in the same block, maintained his position between a dry goods merchant and an ice cream and lemonade wagon.

The smoke from his furnace hurt the dry goods trade and made the eyes of the woman who owned it smart, and the untroubled demeanor of the corn king completely frazzled her nerves. The fact that it was her husband whose ice cream was melted by the heat from the stove, did not help matters any. There were arguments, but the corn merchant said nothing. Business was brisk and he kept still, boiled, buttered and salted corn, and sold lots of it.

The offended ones appealed to a policeman and all he did was to threaten to drive them all off the block if they started anything. "Cops" have enough to do without discriminating between merchants all of whose licenses are in regular order.

Thus matters went until yesterday and the problem was solved. After a morning of bickering and gesticulating the woman suddenly disappeared. It was about noon and the corn trade was lively. Suddenly the woman leaned out above the carts, three stories up on a fire escape. Few noticed her as she carefully raised a huge pail to the fire escape railing. She turned it over and there was a sound resembling a boiler explosion, then much hissing of steam, and no more smoke from the corn cooker. For the time being at least it was out of business.

The seller of boiled corn looked up and saw his neighbor still on the fire escape with another pail ready. He shrugged his shoulders, smiled a sad, beaten smile and pushed his wet, steaming stove down the street. A banana peddler took his place and a few minutes later and the corn man was forgotten.

COMMISSION MAN A SUICIDE.

Jokes About Killing Himself, Pays His Debts, Uses Gun.

New York, July 10—When Herman Ettinger, a commission merchant at 6 Harrison street, first began to talk of suicide in a half jesting way his friends merely laughed. Ettinger was of genial disposition. As time went on, however, he grew despondent. He spoke of financial worries and of the slowness of certain of his customers in settling their obligations.

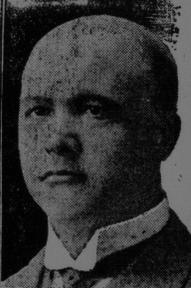

On Monday he was so gloomy that Lidore Landes, in the next office, urged Ettinger to "go down to the beach over the holiday and take a plunge in the ocean."

On Wednesday Ettinger, apparently his old, cheerful self, dropped in to see Landes. When his neighbor's help Ettinger drafted several letters and telegrams to customers.

Shortly after 12 o'clock Landes, seated in his office, heard what sounded like a exceptionally loud backfire. He ran into Ettinger's office. The commission merchant was lying back in a chair, dead, a smoking pistol on the floor beside him.

Three scribed notes on the desk before him asked that his wife, Mrs. Ella Ettinger, of 401 West 177th street, be notified as "gentle as possible" that his body be buried from an undertaker's parlor, and that Frank P. Rumore, who had desk room in his office, attend to the mail.

Ettinger had wound up all his business affairs. At 12 o'clock he had called up a friend, M. Rosen, of 114 Ludlow street, and told of mailing a check. "You will never see me again," he told Rosen.

ALCOHOL AS FUEL HAS POSSIBILITIES

But it is Very Expensive, Being Manufactured in Several Countries.

Confronted with the problem of providing sufficient supplies of fuel for internal combustion engines, while at the same time petroleum supplies are being rapidly diminished, engineers are devoting more and more time to the study of production, and the use of alcohol as a motor fuel. Several instances of the successful manufacture of commercial fuel alcohol have recently been reported.

In Brazil a large sugar mill is producing a spirit from discarded cane, and in another district alcohol is produced as a by-product from a wood-distillation plant operated by one of the large mining companies. In South Africa considerable success has been attained by the use of a combination of alcohol and acetylene. Jerusalem artichokes also offer possibilities, for it is said that the discarded stems can be used to make a suitable pulp for paper manufacture. In India the cost of gasoline has become so high that a factory has been established for the production of alcohol from the flowers of the mahwa trees, and this industry has already reached the significant output of 10,000 gallons daily.

Experimentally, the suitability of alcohol as a substitute for gasoline for motor cars has been demonstrated, but there remains to be found an economical method whereby alcohol can be produced at a price that permits its use as a motor fuel. Various kinds of vegetable matter can be utilized in the manufacture of alcohol, but unless the process is operated in conjunction with other industries the substitution of this fuel for gasoline is not feasible. An editorial writer in Engineering and Mining Journal-Press states that, "to make the venture a success, one of two courses must be adopted; the alcohol factory must be able to produce cheaply a salable by-pro-

(Toronto Globe)
A recent debate at Ottawa on electrification of Canadian railways was timely, because we are once more threatened with shortage of coal owing to disputes and bad management in Canada and in the United States. This is a frequent occurrence. Even when the mines are being operated smoothly the cost of coal, carriage and storage is a large proportion of our railway expenditure. The matter was brought up by Mr. Deslauriers, one of the members for Montreal, Quebec, Ile d'Orléans, produces no coal, but has vast water power.

ers. Its available water power is estimated at six millions, which is more than that of France, and only a small proportion of it is developed. Mr. Deslauriers spoke of the advantages of electrification, not only for the sake of the railways, but as a measure of protection for the forests, preventing disastrous fires. Mr. W. F. Maclean spoke strongly on the same side. The Minister of Railways said he was fully aware of the advantages of electrification, but the cost of the change was an obstacle to immediate action. The Government of Chile does not find the cost any obstacle to the electrification of the State railway. The first section to be changed will include 144 miles; 116 miles from Valparaiso to Santiago, and twenty-eight miles from La Vega to Los Andes. The maximum grade in this zone is two and a quarter

GOOD SPORT PROMISED.

MEXICO'S SILVER RECORD

Has Produced $3,000,000,000 Worth in Four Centuries.
The value of the silver mined in Mexico from the first years of the Spanish conquest to January 1922, reached the enormous total of 6,900,000,000 pesos, or $3,000,000,000 in American currency, according to figures made public by the Mexican Embassy to the U. S. on the basis of the compilation just completed by the Bureau of Mines of the Mexican Department of Commerce and Industry, which has been making a study of mineral production in that country.
The statistics prepared by this bureau relate principally to silver production rather than to other metals, because silver has been produced in greater quantities in Mexico since the conquest than in the rest of the world. According to the data collected by the Mexican Bureau of Mines, two-thirds of the world's silver in the last 400 years has come from Mexican mines.
Since 1821, when the Spaniards began the orderly exploitation of silver mines in Mexico, there has been produced large quantities of silver each year. Production has increased regularly during this period, as the improvement in mining methods and extraction processes have rendered it possible to secure a higher percentage of the silver contents of the ore.
Considered by weight, says the embassy's statement, Mexico has produced somewhat more than 155,000 tons of silver, with a valuation of about $5,000,000. Over the four-century period the annual production has averaged 40,000,000 pesos; since 1800 the average has been 74,000,000 pesos and this includes the ten-year revolutionary period of 1911-21, when silver mining activities were greatly hampered, and in some instances entirely halted. Now that the country is in a more peaceful state, it is expected that production will amount to new high figures.

Forbids Employees To Compare Prices. Believing that the practice of making comparisons of prices in its advertising does a retail establishment more harm than good, the Harris-Emery store, of Des Moines, Ia., has not only adopted the policy of steering clear of this practice in its publicity, but has taken pains to impress on all its employees that the firm will not tolerate the making of price comparisons by a sales clerk when dealing with a customer. Going even further in its adherence to this policy, the Harris-Emery store has cautioned its employees to be sure that their statements about the establishment's merchandise values are absolutely accurate, even when discussing "on sale" merchandise with fellow employees.

When a worker in one department goes to another department to avail herself of the discount privilege by making a purchase for her own requirements she is to be told the whole truth and nothing but the truth as to the exact value of the merchandise she is buying.

The following notice has been posted on the employees' bulletin board at the Harris-Emery store: When an organization adopts a given policy, good business demands that every one connected with the organization take cognizance and adhere to it. Every deviation, no matter how trivial or by whom made, weakens the structure and weakens the confidence of the public.

For some time Harris-Emery's has been stressing the fact that they make no use of comparative prices. Every bit of advertising copy is carefully scanned to eliminate any phrasing that might by any possibility be construed as "comparative prices."

And the reason for this is that the practice has been abused by some merchants, through carelessness, perhaps as much as any other cause. It has often conveyed false ideas of value. The buying public has been deceived by the business-at-any-price methods till it naturally associates them with exaggerated comparative prices.

Harris-Emery's stand for integrity in dealing, for fairness in advertising, for absolute veracity in every statement made.

Carry this thought with you. Keep it in mind when you are selling, when you tell others of values in the store and even when you are discussing "on sale" merchandise with fellow employees. Be sure that any statements you make about Harris-Emery merchandise are true.

Store Builds Garage For Shoppers' Cars

Free parking space for customers' cars is not a new idea in storekeeping, but the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Company, of St. Louis, Mo., is preparing to go a step further in its service to motorists by offering free space in an up-to-date garage to patrons of the establishment. Plans have been drawn up for the erection of a four-story garage, in the vicinity of the store, with facilities for parking 400 cars, and construction is to start immediately.

The plans call for "staggered" floors, of which those above the first floor will be reached by a patented system of inclined drives. Elaborate accommodations will be provided for women customers of the store who drive their own cars downtown to shop. It is realized by the firm the number of women motorists has increased tremendously recently, and that it is well worth while to make a special attempt to cater to this class of trade. It is said that when completed the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney garage will be the first of its kind in the country to be maintained by a department store.

Open First School for Grocery Clerks

A school for retail grocery clerks—believed to be the first of its kind in the United States—has been launched by the retail grocers of Syracuse, N. Y., working through their organization, the Syracuse Grocers, Inc.

The school is being started to instruct the clerks in the products they sell in order better to enable them to satisfy the desires of the customer, intelligently to explain the merits of the different brands of merchandise they sell, at the same time increasing their sales and gaining valuable knowledge that will put them in line for promotion.

The school is to consist of a series of lectures with tuition free to all retail clerks and retail grocers. Manager Ernest C. Coe of the Syracuse Grocers, Inc., who is in charge of the school, has been assured of the hearty co-operation of a large number of manufacturers of food products who will send officials, superintendents of factories, foremen and others to give addresses before the clerks, explaining in detail the process of manufacture, marketing, sales, etc. In the case of canned goods, for instance, the lecturers will trace the product from the time the seed is planted, through the cultivation and harvest, marketing, arrival at the plant and the various stages through which it goes in the canning factory, its distribution to the jobber and its final arrival on the shelves of the retail grocery store.

"I believe this school is going to be one of the greatest things ever undertaken by the grocers in this city," declares Mr. Coe. "It works to everybody's benefit—the clerk, his employer and most of all the consumer. A customer enters a store and asks for a can of peas. She is not particular what kind. The clerk will be able after a time to set before the buyer several kinds of peas and in a short talk can tell the good points of all of them and let the customer make an intelligent choice. As far as I can see it will work to nobody's harm, but is of benefit to everybody connected with it."

"We are offering the course free to all retail grocers of the city and their employees. You would be surprised at some of the statements retail grocers have made to me since they have learned of this school regarding their own knowledge of the goods that daily pass over their counters. Some of them have declared they are actually afraid sometimes that their customers are going to ask them some question about the merchandise and that they will have to admit that they do not know."

"If the clerks and retailers will get behind this scheme in the right manner it has possibilities that cannot be measured at the present time. It means that every clerk in every store will increase his efficiency to a marked degree. It will cause him to take a greater interest in the store, to become curious as to why some people want this brand and others want another. He can, by attending the course of lectures, obtain a good working knowledge and store away many valuable facts regarding the manufacture of food products that will always be of great benefit to him regardless of whether he continues in the grocery business or not."

Soldiers know what it means when an army's "morale" is shattered. The fighting spirit is gone, the men invite defeat. What is true of military forces is true of some industrial armies. At the first serious jolt their morale weakens—hope flies, courage disappears—their fighting spirit is lost. There is no place in business today for the "calamity howler." He is drawing salary or wages under false pretences. More distressing still, he is weakening the "morale" of other workers and of the business itself. Strengthen your business morale. The sooner Capital, Labor and Management realize this the quicker will conditions improve.

Corns?—just say Blue-jay to your druggist Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plaster. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famous laboratory. Sold by druggists. Free: Write Bauer & Black, Toronto, Dept. 195 for valuable book, "Correct Care of the Feet."

Secretary E. V. O'Meara of the Central Committee received a cable from the Olympic headquarters in Dublin yesterday, to the effect that all arrangements are complete and that the general committee looked forward to the arrival of the Canadian athletes. The cable also informed him that conditions in Ireland were absolutely safe for the competitors. Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and the maritime provinces are expected to send boxers.

In his letter to Mr. White, Joe Moore tells of more great work by Allen Riggin, Olympic champion, who is one of the noted stars coming to compete in the big carnival.

BISLEY RIFLE MEETING TODAY

Programme Extended to Increase Competition. Prize List Lengthened and Entrance Fees Reduced—King's Prize Finals Next Saturday—Canada's Interest.

London, July 10.—(By Canadian Press).—The fifth annual meeting of the National Rifle Association will open at Bisley Camp today and continue for two weeks, or until Saturday, July 22, when the final stage of the King's Prize is shot off the victor crowned, the Grand Aggregate decided and the prizes distributed.

The programme for this year's meeting at Bisley shows a determined effort to attract more competition, particularly from those of the younger generation. The most notable feature is the two days' match for tyros, for which prizes amounting to £280, exclusive of cups, will be awarded. The definition of a tyro is given as "a beginner who has never won a prize exceeding £1 in value at any National Rifle Association meeting, or any National, Dominion or Sixty-day Association meeting."

The Service Arm will be used in tyro events. The prize lists for the meeting generally have been lengthened and equalized and entrance fees in many instances have also been reduced. The principal events will also be more evenly distributed throughout the programme than has been the case heretofore. The total prizes for the meeting will amount to over £7,000, of which the King's with its 400 prizes accounts for £1,700.

The rifles and sights to be used this year in Service Rifle ("S. R.") competitions are to be the same as those permitted last year, but in future the long rifle (Lee-Metford and Lee-Enfield) will not be used. There are no alterations in the conditions under which the King's Prize will be conducted, but in some of the other competitions the number of rounds at each range has been reduced and at a slight shot will be allowed. In International Service Rifle team matches all teams must fire with the same pattern of rifle.

Target shooting in England came into prominence with the formation of the Volunteer Force in 1859 and received a great impetus through the inauguration of the "National Rifle Association" in 1860. This institution, established for the "encouragement of rifle corps and the promotion of rifle shooting throughout Great Britain," opened a new and important era in the history and development of the rifle. The first meeting of the "N. R. A." was held at Wimbledon in 1860, when Queen Victoria, shooting from the 400-yard mark, fired the first shot, scoring a bull's eye.

It is thus that the Queen's Prize or King's Prize, as it is now known, had its beginning, and this prize is the highest distinction to which a rifle shot can attain. It is won by one of three stages, and is open to only past or present members of His Majesty's Forces. The first and second stages eliminate all competitors who are not in all three stages. Distances range from 200 yards in the first stage to 900 and 1,000 yards in the final stage.

The chief event of the opening day is the first stage of the Queen Mary's Prize, a squadded competition open only to past and present members of His Majesty's Forces. Unlike the King's Prize, conditions of this competition are designed to conform as nearly as possible to actual war conditions. Monday's first stage consists of ten shots at 200 yards, snaphooting at disappearing targets, which reappear at irregular intervals, spread over a total period of ten minutes. This is followed by five rapid fire shots at 300 yards, time being allowed in two or three seconds. The next stage is the "fire with movement." This consists of ten shots, ranging from 500 to 100 yards, the men advancing and firing two shots at each hundred yard range at disappearing target. The position at the 500 and 400 yards mark will be prone; at the 300 and 200 yards, kneeling; and the 100 yards standing. The final stage, on Tuesday, is the "deliberate," and consists of five shots at the 600-yard mark. In connection with the Queen Mary Prize is decided the winner of the Canada Challenge Shield. This shield, purchased in 1918 out of a sum of money provided by the Dominion Government, is awarded to the team of five making the highest aggregate in the Queen Mary competition.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the first week are several events for public school boys, including the Gale and Polden, the Daily Graphic medals, the snaphooting match for a challenge trophy, the Ashburton Challenge Shield, open to teams of eight from the British Public Schools, ten shots at 200 to 500 yards, and the Spencer Cup, awarded to the highest individual aggregate in the Ashburton.

On Thursday and Friday is the full range tyro's meeting. This includes squadded competitions at 300, 500, 600 and 800 yards, making a total of six squadded shots and an aggregate. The Graphic and Wimbledon Cup, for all comers, will be shot off on the closing day of the first week.

Canadian have set great store in the past in the winning of the Kalapora Cup, whose full title is the Rajah of Kalapora's Imperial Challenge Cup, open to teams of eight from the Mother Country, the several dominions, India and the Channel Islands. This consists of ten shots at 300, 500 and 600 yards range, service rifles only, and is shot off on the evening, July 18. The Mackinnon Cup, for teams of twelve, is also of much interest to Canadians, and teams from Canada have met with considerable success in these competitions, having won one or the other on no less than twelve occasions, and in 1909 carried off both these events.

The first stage of the King's Prize will be decided on Wednesday, July 19, the second stage on Friday, 21st, and the final stage on Saturday, 22nd. This has been won by Canadian marksmen on four occasions, 1894, 1895, 1911 and 1918. Major Crowe of Guelph, Ontario, won the silver medal for the highest score at the second stage last year, with the final stage being won by Serg. J. Dunningham, with a total of 226 for the second and third stages. Sergeant T. Angear of Calgary, Alta., was third with 222.

RULE OF ROAD A QUESTION IN THE OLD COUNTRY

London, July 10.—The old-established rule for pedestrian traffic in this country, "keep to the right," has just been overthrown in some of the London boroughs, and others are considering the question and following suit. "Keep to the left," which is the general rule for vehicular traffic, is now also the rule for pedestrians in Barking, Brentford, Camberwell, Chelsea, Deptford, Hampton Wick, Holborn, Lewisham and Poplar. These boroughs were the leaders in the change from ancient custom for pedestrians, which was "keep to the right." However, it is thought, the new rule will not become universal. The City of London has decided against it.

The avowed object of the change is safety. Vehicular traffic, which for ages has followed the rule "keep to the left," and will continue to do so, is the cause of a substantial proportion of the street accidents. It is claimed that the pedestrians, by keeping to the right under the circumstances, and walking with their backs to the vehicular traffic, are liable to step off the sidewalks into the roadway in unwary moments and be run down.

The new idea is spreading throughout the United Kingdom, but it is not yet taking a very strong hold upon the people. Glasgow, Nottingham and Leicester have attempted to change the old order of pedestrian traffic, but not with very flattering results. Still the propaganda continues. The new idea is spreading throughout the United Kingdom, but it is not yet taking a very strong hold upon the people. Glasgow, Nottingham and Leicester have attempted to change the old order of pedestrian traffic, but not with very flattering results. Still the propaganda continues.

It has been urged that the same result would be obtained by reversing the rule of the road for vehicular traffic, and bringing it into conformity with the continental practice, but the considerations in favor of vehicles continuing to keep to the left are regarded as outweighing the arguments advanced against the change. The machinery and steering gear of motor vehicles in this country are designed with a view of conforming to the present rule of the road. The staircases of public vehicles are constructed with a like object. Tramway tracks, points, run-outs, street crossings, etc., have been laid down, and car sheds have been erected to conform to the practice of keeping to the left.

It is further contended, in opposition to the suggestion that vehicles should keep to the right, that horses would need to be re-broken and drivers re-trained to meet the altered conditions. In some ancient customs die hard in this country.

CHAMPION RUNNER WINS PARIS RACE

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Paris, July 9.—Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, Olympic ten mile champion, won the Roosevelt cup three mile race at the Colombes stadium today. Van Den Broeke, of Belgium, was second and Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish-American runner, was third.

STIPULATES THAT HE SHALL BE BURIED IN TIPPERARY. Thomas Morrison, for the last thirteen years a special officer on Ward's Island, called for Ireland on the Laconia on last Thursday, and so great is his love for the old country where he was born sixty-two years ago that he expressly stipulated with the Cunard Line that if he should die while at sea his body would be sent to Tipperary for burial.

"I love America. Who wouldn't?" said Mr. Morrison. "But deep down in my heart there is a burning love for Ireland, and so I am going back there to spend the rest of my days in the beautiful country around Tipperary. And when I die I want to be buried there amid the scenes that made my youth bright, and have pleasantly haunted my memory ever since I left the old country. 'Glad will I be when the hills of Kerry again come into sight as the Laconia steams toward Cork and I can take off my hat and bid old Ireland 'the top of the mornin'!"

What the Mexicans discovered Moirs Have Perfected

The native Mexicans used chocolate as a drink before the Europeans reached America. The frothy, delicately flavored with spice, had the consistency of honey and was eaten cold. "It was so nutritious," says Sahagun the Spanish historian, "that a single cup was sufficient to sustain a man through the longest day's march."

Yet it never occurred to these ancient Mexicans that this rich food could be made even richer. The nutritious part of the cocoa bean is its fat, known as cocoa butter. In Moir's factory the cocoa beans are roasted to a turn, ground to unequalled fineness, and then extra cocoa butter is added to the mixture.

It is little wonder that the chocolate coating on Moir's is incomparable for flavor, richness and actual food value. Stolen Dainties contains a large variety of luscious fruit, nut, cream and nougat centres. MOIR'S LIMITED, HALIFAX. W. J. WETMORE, Agent, 91 Prince William Street, St. John, N. B.

MINK AND MUSKRAT FIGHT DEADLY DUEL

Former Attacks Rat, But the Bloody Battle is Finally a Draw—A Rare Instance.

Chincoteague, Va. July 10.—Near Wharfed's Point, on the mainland six miles south of this place, two passably well-matched a desperate battle between a mink and a muskrat.

The duel took place on the bank of a sluggish, fresh-water creek. The rats, which had just emerged from the water, was quietly and leisurely passing near a pile of old logs, stumps, vines and twigs, close to the water's edge. Suddenly, and without any warning, a large brown-coated mink darted from an opening under an old moss-covered log and fastened its sharp teeth in the neck of the rat and clung closely with its feet and claws to the back and side of its victim.

The muskrat for two or three seconds seemed dazed by the onslaught and remained crouched and motionless. Then it uttered a rather feeble, muffled cry and jumped fully a foot up in the air, carrying its tormentor with it.

The combatants then rolled over and over on the ground and so rapid were their movements that they became a whirlwind of claws, feet and teeth. The spectacle lasted possibly for a period of three minutes and during this time the movements of the animals were made with such rapidity that it was impossible to distinguish one from the other.

In rolling on the ground the furred combatants moved across an area of some eight or ten feet and plunged into a shadow pool of clear water, in which they splashed for several seconds. Two or three pieces of pointed oak board were projecting a couple of inches above the water near the center of the pool and they struck them in frantic efforts to kill each other.

The mink seemingly was injured by the contact, as it released its hold on the rat and fell on its side. Like a flash, the bleeding rat, uttering a shrill cry, seized its crippled and prostrate antagonist in its mouth and shook it as a terrier dog will do a common rat and threw its foe some three feet away on the sandy ground.

This ended the battle, as the mink crawled slowly, dragging its hind parts, which were badly damaged, into its den beneath the logs. The muskrat made its way, very deliberately, evidently suffering from its injuries and loss of blood, into the weeds and grass, to a nearby swamp, where it has a hole in a bed of cattails.

The water in the pool was streaked with blood and the ground over which the animals fought was dotted in several places with young muskrats are often preyed upon by minks, which will attack adult muskrats caught in traps or otherwise handicapped.

It is, however, quite unusual for a mink to deliberately come out and give open battle to a healthy adult muskrat as was done in this instance.

DEMPSEY BOUT LABOR DAY WITH GREB IS OFF

Pittsburg, July 10.—Announcement that the proposed Greb-Dempsey bout here on Labor Day would not take place was made last night by John Bell, Pittsburg promoter, who has been negotiating for such an attraction.

The announcement came when Bell's attention was called to a New York report that Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, was waiting to hear from him. Bell said that had Kearns accepted his offer, made nearly two weeks ago, he could have arranged the bout for Labor Day, but that the time was now too short in which to make preparations.
