NAVAL TRANSPORT IS SUNK; GRAVE TROUBLE IN S. AFRICA

A Serious Situation In Union of South Africa Created By The Enemy

Premier Botha Issues Statement Showing That Serious Unrest Exists and That Strong Police and Military Measures Are Being Taken To Cope With Possible Outbreak.

Had Not Militia Taken Charge of Situation Promptly It Would Have Culminated in Grave Disturbances and Probably Serious Loss of Life—An Enemy Plot.

Pretoria, South Africa, July 5.—Premier Botha, of the Union of South Africa, has issued a statement showing that serious unrest exists in South Africa. Strong police and military measures are being taken to cope with the situation.

Premier Botha said that had not prompt and effective military measures been taken the situation would have culminated in a grave disturbance and probably serious loss of life. The Boer leader added that the government had information pointing to the existence of a movement having for its object the subversion of the constitution by violent methods.

Continuing, Premier Botha, in his statement says: "There is good reason for suspecting that enemy agencies are at work in this country and that they are intriguing to stir up strife. Not only among Europeans but also among the natives, and no means or matters are deemed too despicable so long as they can attain their object."

ALLIES WORRYING THE ENEMY STILL

Numerous Daily Raids Are All Useful and Are Made For a Purpose—The Men Bring in Prisoners From Whom Useful Information Can Be Obtained—Some Other Benefits.

Special Cable to the New York Tribune and St. John Standard by Hilaire Bellec

London, July 5.—These numerous daily raids on the enemy lines or rather local actions bringing in each time some hundreds of prisoners are of a puzzle than most operations. It is important to understand their advantage. They fulfill the following objects: (1) They keep the enemy's line in constant suspense and impose an added task on all his local commands; (2) They keep the massing forces in good spirit and readiness. So far as the value of such minor operations is concerned, they may be compared to sparring in a boxing match—the preparations against or the delaying of heavier blows.

But beyond these obvious objects are the following: (3) They bring in numerous prisoners from whom information can be obtained (4) They check the enemy just as he is about to make an attack himself. They capture positions which are of great local value, as jumping off places against a new enemy attack or later for our own advance. These last two points can of course only be judged upon the spot. And as it is impossible to discuss their value in each particular case, the public usually fails to grasp them. (6) Each of these local actions increases the experience of both commanders and men in the new tactical methods and weapons.

The attack conducted by the Australians and certain other British troops in co-operation with them yesterday and the French attack north of the Aisne the same day are excellent examples of such local actions. The first enlarged the hold which the British have on the plateau which is the main approach to Amiens. It probably served to familiarize the men with new instruments. So did the corresponding attack at Villers-sur-Ancre to the north. The same remark applies to the French attack north of the Aisne. It is characteristic of the tactics of the present war that both these attacks were on much the same scale and brought much the same results with a thousand prisoners in each case.

THE BRITISH HAVE 1,500 PRISONERS ON THE SOMME

London, July 5.—The number of prisoners captured in yesterday's operation on the Somme and in the subsequent German counter-attacks now exceeds 1,500, including forty officers, according to an official statement issued by the war office tonight.

"Except for some hostile artillery activity in the region of Scherpenberg, southwest of Ypres, the statement says, "there is nothing of special interest to report."

Paris, July 5.—The official statement issued tonight by the war office reads:

"There was some activity by the opposing artillery during the day, the firing being quite heavy south of the Aisne River in the regions of Cury and Montgobert. West of Buziers north-west of Chateau Thierry, we carried out a surprise and captured prisoners."

BRITISH REPULSE AN ATTEMPT TO RETAKE VILLAGE OF HAMEL

British Front East of Amiens, on Each Side of Avre and Along the Somme, Seems To Be Storm Centre of Battle Front in France — French Consolidate Their New Position—Italian Continue Progress—Finland To Declare War on Entente Sultan of Turkey May Have Been Assassinated.

The British front east of Amiens, on each side of the Avre and along the Somme river, seems to be the storm centre of the battle front in France.

Here the Australians, assisted by American detachments, surged forward on July 4 and drove the Germans out of the village of Hamel and the Vaire and Hamel woods, to the south at the same time launching a secondary attack on the German positions north of the Somme. Since that time the lines before Amiens have been very active.

The Germans have been repulsed in an attempt to retake the village of Hamel and the wooded positions of the Australians further south. The British official report says that the enemy was stopped easily, but the Germans claim to have checked the British forces east of Hamel and to have thrown them back to their original lines at Villers Bretonneux.

U. S. Front Calm.

With the exception of aerial combats, the American front has been calm.

The German official statement tells of British attacks in the Ypres region, adding that these assaults were repulsed. Heavy artillery fire in this neighborhood is reported from London.

In the meantime the French have been content to hold and consolidate their new positions near Moulin-Sous-Touvent and Autrech, northwest of Soissons, where, in two recent French attacks the Germans suffered severe casualties and lost many prisoners. The French war office says that during the past day there has been heavy artillery fire in the neighborhood of Cury and Montgobert which is on the front southwest of Soissons, where the French won ground by a dashing attack last week.

Italian Front.

Italian forces operating near the mouth of the Piave have continued to make progress in recent fighting, and have taken more than 400 prisoners, as well as a battery of cannon and many machine guns in the mountain region. The Italians have extended their lines northeast of Monte Grappa and have repulsed desperate counter-attacks by the Austrians against positions taken from the enemy in the Italian drives a week ago.

Stockholm reports that Finland is expected to declare war on the Entente Allies. This probably is the result of German pressure incident to the landing of Allied forces at Kola, on the Murman coast. It has been reported that German and Finnish troops are pushing northward toward the port of Kola to seize vast stores transported before Russia's collapse, as a factor in the war.

Trouble in Turkey.

Rumors of internal dissensions have become current. One is to the effect that the death of Mohammed V, Sultan of Turkey, was not due to natural causes, but the result of a revolt in that country. The other comes from South Africa, where, it is reported, considerable unrest exists and where strong measures are being taken to cope with the situation.

Premier Botha of the Union of South Africa, says the trouble may be attributed to enemy agencies, which are said to be at work among the natives. The premier has appealed to the people to guard against intrigue and assist in curbing those who are sowing discord.

The Czech-Slovak troops operating in Eastern Siberia are reported to have won a victory over the Bolshevik forces.

THE SUPREME WAR COUNCIL CONGRATULATES THE ITALIANS

Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia and New Zealand Attend the Sitting At Paris—Important Decisions Reached—British Empire Thank-Ed By Premier Orlando of Italy For Valuable Aid.

Paris, July 5.—(Havas Agency)—The supreme allied war council held its seventh session today. All the aspects of the present military situation were considered and important decisions were reached, according to an official statement issued at its close. Among those present were Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando, Stephen Pichon, French foreign minister; A. J. Balfour, British secretary of state for foreign affairs; Viscount Milner, British war minister; Baron Sonnino, Italian foreign minister; Generalissimo Foch, Field Marshal and Major General Sir Henry Wilson, of the British Army; General John J. Pershing, of the American Army and General Guilian, of the Belgian Army, as well as representatives of the other allies at Versailles.

Praise for Italy.

Sincere congratulations to the Italian army and people for the memorable victory over the Austrian-Hungarian army were expressed at the

BLAME CANADIANS FOR LOSS OF SHIP

British Charged With Violating Red Cross Rules At Sea.

By George F. Stewart. (Special Cable to the New York Tribune and St. John Standard.) Rotterdam, July 5.—Instead of carrying out the advice of the official Wolff agency to await the report of the submarine commandant before expressing an opinion on the sinking of the hospital ship Llandovery Castle the German press publishes a foolishly falsified form of the British official statement by inserting the statement that the ship had been chartered by the Canadian government for "the transport of wounded prisoners."

The Keelische Zeitung also seizes the occasion to print a tirade against the alleged British abuse of the Red Cross on land and sea which is apparently based on a statement by the Spanish Correspondencia Militar which makes the more general statement without offering any evidence.

The Keelische Zeitung sneeringly remarks on the hospital ship carrying Spanish officers which obeyed the travel regulation and adds, "Let Spanish officers be sure they go only on real hospital ships. The misuse of the hospital flag continues on English transport ships."

"The cases where this can be proven are rather old, but English troops were shipped on hospital ships at the beginning of the war. This so-called use and in order to hide their trickery attribute such tricks to us."

Joseph Thibaudeau Loses His Suit For Custody of Four Year Old Daughter—Enoch Arden Case.

Montreal, July 5.—The case of Joseph Thibaudeau, formerly of St. John vs. Anna Frances Wall, his wife, was ended today when Mr. Justice Mersel ruled that the mother should retain custody of their four year old daughter.

The couple had lived at St. John's, Quebec, where the child was born, Duffing apart the woman had married again believing the husband dead. He however turned up again in Montreal and took the action which is now concluded, claiming custody of the child under a writ of habeas corpus.

meeting. It was said that it is considered that the victory won by the Italians at the critical turning point of the war brings a valuable contribution to the allies' efforts and points to the final success of their cause.

One of the features of the session was the presence of the Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, as well as several other ministers of the British Dominion. On behalf of the session, Premiers Clemenceau and Orlando explained to the representatives of the British Empire the thanks of the allies for the services rendered on the battle field by the troops of the British colonies.

American Transport Covington, Formerly The Cincinnati Sunk

Ex-German Sixteen Thousand Ton Steamer Had No Soldiers on Board At Time and Only Six of Crew Are Missing—Vessel Sent Down in War Zone.

Submarine Which Hit Covington Not Sighted—Transport Remains Afloat For Hours and Sinks While in Tow—List of Lost Medics on Llandovery Castle.

Washington, July 5.—The American army transport Covington, homeward bound after having landed several thousand soldiers in France, was torpedoed and sunk in the war zone last Monday night. Six members of the crew are missing, but all the other men, with the ship's officers, have been landed at a French port. No army personnel or passengers were aboard.

The Covington formerly was the Hamburg-American liner Cincinnati, which was laid up at Boston and taken over when the United States entered the war. She was 608 feet long, of 16,335 gross ton and had a speed of fifteen and a half knots an hour.

The Covington was struck at 9.17 o'clock Monday night while proceeding with a fleet of other transports convoyed by destroyers. The submarine was not sighted. The transport remained afloat until Tuesday when efforts were made by another vessel and two tugs to tow her to port, but she was too badly damaged to keep afloat.

J. R. Clynes Laborite May Succeed Lord Rhondda

Labor Leader a Coming Power — Was Recently Elected To Party's Executive Committee — Move of Considerable Political Importance.

(By Arthur Draper.) Special Cable to N. Y. Tribune and St. John Standard.

London, July 3.—J. R. Clynes, the coming power in British labor, who was recently elected to the party's executive committee, will probably succeed Lord Rhondda as Food Controller. His elevation to that position, which he has filled admirably during Rhondda's long illness, would be a move of considerable political importance, and would, incidentally, strengthen the premier's hand in labor circles.

Rhondda crowned a remarkable career by masterly achievement in as hard a task as any that a British government official ever handled. A friend of Lloyd George, who began life as a son of a Welsh sheepkeeper and died the greatest coal mine owner on the British Isles was appointed Food Controller when the economic situation here became badly muddled. While returning on the Lusitania from a trip to the United States and Canada Rhondda was saved when the vessel was torpedoed, seemingly by fate, which held him for the task of countervailing the German design of starving England by use of the submarine. At Critical Period.

Rhondda joined the George government as president of the local government, succeeding Lord Davenport as Food Controller in June, 1917. He took charge in the most critical period. British tonnage losses were alarmingly high and food stores had dropped until the reserve was frightfully low. No system of rationing worth the name had been introduced, and the temper of the people was far from the best. Rhondda and Hoover co-operated wonderfully well, and the former had not been in office long before an improvement in the food situation was noticeable.

An Able Man.

He introduced meat, butter and bacon cards and controlled the distribution of bread and tea and also fixed prices upon fish, meat fruits and cheese, and regulated their supplies. When this spring it became necessary to increase the rate of American troops being transported, Rhondda and Hoover were able to transfer a number of ships hitherto used to carry

THE GERMANS ARE AGAIN REPULSED BY BRITISH

ENEMY UNABLE TO MAKE PROGRESS ON AMIENS FRONT

Strong Counter Attack Delivered in Night Against British To East of Village of Hamel, But It Fails—Many Enemy Airplanes Are Brought To Earth.

London, July 5.—The Germans last night delivered a counter-attack upon the new positions gained by the British on the Amiens front, to the east of the village of Hamel. The war office announced today that the enemy had been repulsed in this attempt and left prisoners in the British hands.

More than 1,300 prisoners were taken by the British forces in yesterday's operation in the Somme area. In addition, 100 machine guns and some trench mortars were captured.

British Headquarters in France, July 4—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—This morning's operation at Villers Bretonneux was one of the most successful of the kind in this war. It followed exactly the lines laid down in advance. The ground offered considerable odds to the defenders, yet in less than two hours the whole four lines were in our hands. Our entire casualties are hardly a third of the number of prisoners captured, and we reduced three German divisions to mere wreaths of what they had been this morning.

Features of Attack.

The features of the attack were forethought and completeness in preparation and the use of tanks, which, manœuvring admirably, sprang a surprise upon the enemy. Considering the large number of dead, the haul of 1,500 prisoners exceeds expectations, even though it includes a battalion commander and the greater part of his command.

A preparatory rain of bombs on Hamel contributed largely toward keeping down our casualties. The enemy's attention was distracted by three distinct attacks, launched north of the Amiens, which completely deceived the enemy regarding what was happening across the river. The German divisions engaged, which suffered heavily, were the 43rd, 77th and 12th. The latter is a new division on this front, having recently moved from Lens.

Got 42 Machines.

London, July 5.—British airmen on July 1 disposed of forty-two German airplanes and three balloons, according to the official report on aerial operations. Of the airplanes, twenty-five were destroyed, fifteen were driven down out of control, and two landed behind the British lines, where their occupants were captured.

Some French Raids.

Paris, July 5.—French patrol parties were active last night in many sectors of the front. According to today's war office report, prisoners were taken by the numerous raiding detachments.

U. S. Aviators.

With the American Forces on the Marne front, July 5, (by The Associated Press).—American aviators on this front are reported this morning to have brought down two German airplanes.

In a small patrol encounter last night two Germans were captured and another of the enemy was killed by an American detachment. This skirmish developed the fact that another new German division is now opposing the Americans in this sector.

Rhondda pulled Britain through the toughest economic pinch of the war, though he lost his life, eventually in the struggle. Few persons realized the immensity of the burdens he carried for nearly a year. Fortunately for Britain the machine he built will last through the war.

BOLSHEVIKI MEET A SERIOUS DEFEAT

Czecho-Slovak Forces Have Their Mettle Up and Trip Their Soviet Troops.

London, July 5.—Czecho-Slovak forces have inflicted a severe defeat on the Bolsheviki troops, according to a telegram received here today from Irkutsk Siberia. The Bolsheviki are said to have been completely defeated west of Irkutsk and to have been driven out of the region to the east of Lake Balkal.

ITALIANS CONTINUE STUBBORN WORK

Bitter Hand To Hand Fighting Near Monte Solarondo.

Vienna via London.—The text of the official statement issued by the war office tonight reads: "The fighting on the islands at the mouth of the Piave continues uninterrupted, the forces engaged fighting with equal bravery. Strong Italian attack against our left wing were balanced by counter attack near Chiesanuova. Italian units which had penetrated our positions were driven back by a quick thrust by a Siberian regiment."

"Between the Piave and the Brenta the enemy stubbornly continues his attempts to recapture positions we took on June 15. His main thrust yesterday was against Monte Solarondo. The attack, which was carried into our trenches led to a bitter hand to hand fighting in which a great party of the enemy forces were killed and the rest were driven back. The enemy losses were exceedingly heavy."

"On the Seven Communes (Setti Communi) and on the Tyrolse front there was lively artillery activity."

WINNIPEG PRINTERS GET RAISE OF FIVE DOLLARS A WEEK

Wages of Day Jobmen Will Be $29 and Night Men $32 For Forty-Four Hour Week.

Winnipeg, July 5.—The dispute between the Winnipeg job printers and their respective employers was settled yesterday afternoon. The men declared a strike last Saturday, their demands for a straight $5 per week increase having been turned down. The terms of settlement give the men $29 per week. The pay for night men, which hitherto had been $27 per week, will under the new agreement be $32 per week of 44 hours. The men returned to work today.

ARRIVAL OF ITAL CONTINUES TO MAKE STEADY PROGRESS

In Mountain Sector Italians Extend Lines at Head of Calcino Valley and Have Held the Ground Thus Gained in Spite of Heavy Counter Attacks and Intense Fighting.

Rome, July 5.—Italian forces operating in the lowlands near the mouth of the Piave are making steady progress, according to the statement issued by the war office today. In the mountain sector of the front, the statement says the Italians have extended their lines at the head of the Calcino Valley and have held the ground thus gained in spite of heavy counter-attacks by the Austro-Hungarians.

The text of the communication reads:

"On the Lower Piave, having repulsed violent counter-attacks and destroyed new centres of enemy resistance, we considerably extended our lines to the southeast of Chiesanuova and to the north of Canarocherina. We have captured 419 prisoners, in addition to taking a battery of six 105 millimeter howitzers and a large number of machine guns."

"To the northeast of Mont Grappa, Italian detachments, after artillery preparation, penetrated into the Austrians' positions at the head of Calcino Valley. The enemy repulsed with an intense artillery fire and launched an obstinate counter-attack which developed into hand to hand fighting. He did not succeed, however, in wresting from us the advances gained on the Monte Di Salton heights."

"About thirty prisoners and five machine guns were captured."

"On the Alago Plateau we report two counter attacks against Monte Coronone and Sasso Rosso, engaging the enemy in bayonet and hand-to-hand conflicts in which they suffered severe losses. A British detachment surprised and destroyed an enemy post near Canove."

"During recent days ten enemy airplanes and two captive balloons have been brought down in air fighting."

RAILWAY WAGE OFFER DECLINED

Montreal, July 5.—Negotiations between the Railway War Board and the federal trades of workmen employed mainly in the shops of the various railroads throughout Canada reported today an offer being made to the men of the MacDowd schedule of wages, and this offer was tonight shown by the men to be unacceptable to them.

The men claim that the schedule is difficult to understand and much more favorable to the employers than to the workers. They state further that this schedule has not been accepted by the men in the United States and that the Canadian workers cannot be accepted to accept wages which are found unsatisfactory to workers over the line.

Pte. Pilot is a grandson of Canon Pilot, of Newfoundland, and had been in Montreal for some time before he joined the army. He went to the front early in 1915, with the Cyclist Corps from Toronto and was wounded.

SOME FIGHTING EAST OF YPRES STATES BERLIN

German War Office Claims British Attacks Broke Down.

BERLIN ADMITS LOSS OF HAMEL

Crown Prince Rupprecht Is Having Lively Time on His Front.

Berlin, July 5. (via London).—The official communication from general headquarters issued today follows:

"East of Ypres strong attacks launched by the enemy were repulsed. On both sides of the Somme yesterday morning the enemy infantry attacked after a strong artillery preparation by the British. On the north bank of the river the attacks broke down before our lines with sanguinary losses."

"South of the Somme the enemy penetrated into the village and the wood of Hamel. On the height east of Hamel his attack was frustrated by our counter-attack. East of Villers-Bretonneux we threw the enemy back into his position of departure. On both sides of the fighting activity revived on nearly the whole front of the army of Crown Prince Rupprecht and kept up with increased intensity during the night, especially in yesterday's battle sector. There has been increased fighting activity on the west bank of the Avre and on both sides of the Aisne."

THE CANADIANS HAVE A GLORIOUS CELEBRATION

DOMINION DAY WAS GREATEST EVER ON THE FIGHTING FRONT

Duke of Connaught, Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. J. A. Calder and Hon. N. W. Rowell With the Boys—St. John McAvity One of Those Who Participated in Games—Event Was Wonderful Canadian Re-Union.

London, July 5.—(Special cable to the Canadian Press Limited)—In France within sound of the guns, with airmen holding the air marshes, a great meeting of Canadians celebrated Dominion Day and welcomed the Duke of Connaught late governor-general of Canada, and Sir Robert Borden, prime minister of Canada. In a great natural amphitheatre our national holiday was celebrated, with an enthusiasm never equalled at home and an event and a programme unique in the allied armies.

"Like a scene from ancient Rome," said a famous Polish representative to the commanders of the Canadian forces, as he surveyed the vast multitude of soldiers.

Overhead a famous Canadian aviator thrilled the crowd with daring turns and dropped a message of good luck to his compatriots and sped away to lead his squadron across the German lines to hold the Hun while the national day was fittingly celebrated.

Following the athletes, came massed pipe bands, two hundred strong, playing "Bonnie Dundee," halting in front of the Duke of Connaught and Sir Robert Borden.

Later each divisional band entered the enclosure playing the divisional march. Massed in front the guests and all the thousands of Canadians present bore their heads as the bands played "O Canada."

Representatives from every allied army were there and most all gave credit to the Maple Leaf men of giving the greatest and most unique holiday ever seen in Europe. It was a wonderful Canadian re-union. Men of Ypres, Festubert, Somme, Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele met for the first time since they went against the Huns on those glorious days.

The Nursing Sisters came from battle hospitals and they were cheered by men who had been brought back to health and strength by their watchful care and devotion.

British Army Represented. From the British army came many great leaders to do honor to the Canadian force and witness the Canadian celebration. The navy was represented by prominent officers who had commanded Canadians in the naval service.

"Like Derby Day" was the comment of a British general. Perfect weather permitted Canadians from all parts of France to gather. Early in the morning men from all parts moved towards the great gathering place. The prime minister and his colleagues arrived from Vimy received great receptions. The Duke of Connaught was received by one of the finest guards ever paraded in France. The guard was drawn from a famous brigade commanded by an officer from the first force who has a great record in the field. The guard was cheered by the whole army, proud of their fine showing.

Four Different Games. Baseball, lacrosse, football, tennis were all carried on at the same time, while the famous circus of the western brigade furnished a humorous part. A baseball game final went eleven

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN. The game was witnessed by the Duke of Connaught, Sir Robert Borden and the ministers. Foulkes, of Victoria, and McAvity, of St. John, played a draw in the tennis singles, while Foulkes and Maynard won the doubles final from McAvity and Besey. The hundred yards race was run in ten seconds and the mile done in four minutes, forty-one seconds. During the sports, aeroplanes photographed the scene. The pictures were developed and the airmen returned, dropping them in the grandstand. The grounds were splendidly arranged and it is claimed were better than at the first stampede in Calgary. The grandstand was three hundred yards long with special stands for distinguished visitors. The Canadian Y. M. C. A. furnished

SIR ROBERT L. BORDEN. bunting and other decorations and paid other expenses. Premier Had Great Time. Sir Robert Borden says it was the greatest day of his life. Hon. Mr. J. A. Calder remarked that he had seen many thousand Canadian gentlemen gathered at one point in France. Hon. Arthur Meighen could not comment on the programme as he said he was too busy meeting old friends to witness the sports. No unfavorable incident marred the day. Despite the immense crowd there was no wrong act or sign of ill-feeling. Hon. N. W. Rowell was much impressed by the wonderful order and conduct of the great assembly. The sports concert party gave an entertainment, there being present over ten thousand. Sir Robert Borden received a wonderful reception. He addressed the men.

A Wonderful Day. "How about leave, Sir Borden?" yelled someone. "Every Canadian has long leave to do his best to beat the Hun," retorted the prime minister, and ten thousand soldiers sprang to their feet, cheered and waved their hats at this sentiment. There never was seen such a gathering or programme in Europe. It was Canada's day and Canadians are proud of its great success.

Before going to the sports Sir Robert and his colleagues with corps and divisional commanders, visited Vimy Ridge. The ridge was ablaze with blood red poppies aiding the devastation. They visited the graves of Canadians who died on that glorious day when they swept the Hun from Vimy. With the party were men who led Canadians over the ridge and they explained the operation that brought fame to Canada and heartened the allies.

TWO YEARS FOR DISOBEDIENCE. Soldiers in Toronto Punished For Not Heeding Orders. Toronto, July 5.—Privates Earl Carlick and W. A. McGiff, 2nd Depot Battalion, first C. O. R., who were both found guilty of disobeying the lawful command of a superior officer, have been sentenced to imprisonment for two years, less one day, by district court martial. Private Leslie Taylor, 2nd Depot Battalion, 2nd C. O. R., guilty of desertion, will also serve two years. Several men, most of them conscientious objectors, were tried before the first general court martial ever held in Toronto, but the sentences have not yet been announced.

CITY OF HALIFAX MUST BE PURGED OF ALL TREACHERY

Alien Enemies Have Been Enjoying Freedom of City and Demand Is Made That They Be Rounded Up—Militia Authorities Urged To Act By Board of Control.

Halifax, July 5.—Since the sinking of the hospital ship Llandovery Castle the Halifax Herald has been carrying on a vigorous editorial campaign against enemy aliens, who have been enjoying the freedom of the city since the outbreak of the war. Enemy aliens, the Herald alleges, who have no regular occupations, are in constant association with sailors and soldiers, watching marine movements. The interest of this campaign has been so intense that at a meeting of the city council a resolution was unanimously passed to take the matter before the board of control. At a meeting of the board of control today, it was decided to wait on the military authorities and urge the rounding up and the internment of all alien enemies. Herald's Article. In the course of a leading article, the Herald tomorrow will say in part: "This newspaper was informed yesterday that a woman, a native born of Germany, whose husband is also a German, and at the present time a prisoner in the internment camp at ONE LANGUAGE GERMANY CAN UNDERSTAND. Hon. Franklyn K. Lane, U. S. Secretary of Interior and Secretary of Prince Edward Island, Declares That Language Is From Mouth of Big Gun.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 5.—Three years of negotiation, patience and appeals showed the United States that there is only one language Germany can understand . . . from the mouth of the big gun. There will be no limit to the number of troops and cannon this country will send against the forces of the Teutonic autocracy. Every industry and every dollar in the land is pledged to support the war until victory for the allies.

This briefly is the government's "right until victory" programme, outlined by Hon. Franklyn K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior. In an address here today before the closing session of the fifty sixth annual convention of the National Educational Association, Secretary Lane said 2,600,000 will be added to the 1,000,000 already in France, if needed, a year from now.

A SIXTEEN YEAR OLD LAD KILLED MAN. Is Found Guilty of Murdering Constable While in Execution of His Duty. Winnipeg, July 5.—John Edward Stolke, not yet 16 years of age, was yesterday found guilty of murder for the death of Constable Bernard W. Stinson, while in the execution of his duty on the night of April 5th. Sentence will be passed Monday afternoon.

He is the second to be found guilty in connection with the same murder. Frank Sullivan, another accomplice, will come up for trial on Monday on the same charge.

A SERIOUS SITUATION IN UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA CREATED BY THE ENEMY

Premier Botha Issues Statement Showing That Serious Unrest Exists and That Strong Police and Military Measures Are Being Taken To Cope With Possible Outbreak.

(Continued from page one) Premier Botha Continued "While it is not desirable in the public interest to publish the events which in the last few days have occurred, it is imperative that the public should be informed of the serious situation which has arisen in the Union of South Africa. The results of the activities of such instruments of the enemy have from time to time become clearly apparent and the circumstances attending the disturbances in Ireland in 1916, presented several features which were to be observed in the movement on foot in South Africa.

"The people of South Africa are no strangers to trouble and differences which they have often overcome by resolution and self-control and the government makes this statement in order that all peace loving citizens may be warned that mischievous elements are at work amongst them and it is their duty neither to countenance nor encourage such attempts at mischief. Appeal to All "I have been gratified to see that appeals have been made by the leaders of political and industrial organizations to their supporters to abstain from violence. These should assist the country and the people to withstand the attempts to create disorders. "As the prime minister of the Union I wish in the most earnest and emphatic manner to add my appeal to each and every one, from the highest to the lowest, of whatever political persuasion he may be, or to whatever Text of Statement. The text of Premier Botha's statement follows: "As prime minister of the Union I feel it to be my duty to place before the people a state of affairs in our union of which everyone should know. The people must be aware of the state of tension now prevailing—a tension necessarily following on the political activities of the various political organs. But other agencies have for A Great Menace. "The authorities must throw off all lethargy in this matter and co-operate with the civic authorities in rounding up these dangerous looting aliens, whose presence constitutes so great a menace. British lives are precious. Our doctors, our nurses and our men surely have the first and every claim upon us. Ships too, are of exceeding great value to the allies—why in the name of all that is sane and reasonable should lives and ships be jeopardized because the authorities allow Hun spies the free run of this city? "The local spies must go—Halifax must be purged of treachery."

RUMANIAN PEACE TREATY ADOPTED. Independent Socialists Only One in Reichstag To Vote Against Agreement. London, July 5.—After the debate in the German Reichstag on Wednesday the Rumanian peace treaty was adopted, says a Berlin telegram by way of Amsterdam from the Central News Agency. The Independent Socialists were the only deputies to vote against the agreement.

Foreign Secretary Von Kuehmann announced that an exchange of thoughts had taken place with the Moscow government regarding the occupation of the Crimea and Sebastopol, from the fact that a line of demarcation was being drawn, said the foreign secretary, it was evident that Germany was willing to settle all the questions peacefully. Von Kuehmann added that an "Indian campaign was not a part of Germany's policy."

LOBSTER EMBARGO WILL BE LIFTED. Little Trouble Expected in New England During Present Season. Augusta, Me., July 5.—Congressman White, who has been working in behalf of the Maine lobster dealers to have the embargo on lobster shipments modified or removed, has forwarded to Rockland concerns a statement from U. S. Food Administration, Division of Fisheries, in which assurance is offered that the present aversion of distribution will remain open and that there does not seem to be a possibility of any further restrictive embargo going into effect.

The belief is expressed that later on in the summer the Division of Fisheries will be able to get the express companies to place lobster shipments back on their normal lines. "As soon as the express transportation conditions improve," says Congressman White's informant, it is absolutely up to the express committee to place the lobster business back on normal lines.

some time been at work to bring about trouble. "In view of the disturbed political and industrial situation of the country, I, therefore, desire to inform the people there is good reason for suspecting that enemy agencies are at work in this country, and that they are stirring up strife, not only among Europeans, but also among the natives and so means or methods are deemed too despicable so long as they can attain their object."

There have been few serious troubles in South Africa since the outbreak of the war, although early in the conflict a rebellion broke out in which the establishment of a republic was planned. Premier Botha, who, although he fought against the British in the Boer war, has been one of the strongest supporters of the empire in the present conflict, personally took the field against the rebels and crushed the rebellion, late in 1914.

Little news has been coming out of South Africa recently regarding the situation there, although a despatch on June 17, indicated that there had been political complications. The finance minister at that time was quoted as declaring that the political situation had become "far better."

At various times there have been outcroppings of the idea of independence, and a year ago, in a speech at Cape Colony, Premier Botha had occasion to condemn the republican propaganda, declaring that it was to South Africa's interest to maintain the constitutional connection with Great Britain.

London, July 5.—South African troubles have been the subject of rumors in London for some days. It has been known that serious strikes have been in progress in the Transvaal mines and it has been reported that these had an anti-government purpose and had been stirred up by German agents or irreconcilable Boers.

A message from Johannesburg yesterday to Reuter's Ltd. said that all the natives who had refused to work on Wednesday later had resumed their duties. A correspondent of the Times telegraphing from Capetown on Monday said: "The movement was originated by the educated natives and was helped by the effect of the increased cost of living."

CYCLING ACROSS CANADA. According to latest reports George A. Storm, the British Columbia bicyclist, is making steady progress in his ride across Canada to Halifax. The first leg of his journey has been quite difficult as he has been called upon to traverse the mountainous country of British Columbia. He arrived at Cranbrook, 777 miles from Vancouver, in good time despite the rough country and roads which he described as "dreadful." He reports that he has also been hindered by almost constant head winds. In the high country in B. C. he has actually encountered snow since June 1st.

Storm, who is a resident of Port Coquitlam, B. C. is scheduled to see the Atlantic ocean in five months' time, which means that he hopes to arrive at Halifax, N. S., early in October.

What Music Have You in Your Home?

Do you realize that music is as much a necessity in your home as your wife and children are? What musical instrument, if any, have you in your home? How often do you play that instrument? If you have a piano, is it only an ornament? Perhaps it is never used, except by an occasional visitor, because no one in the house knows how to play it. Think of the enormous amount of pleasure and splendid entertainment as will give you! With it you can quickly and cheaply gratify any musical tastes you or your family or friends may have,—classic, light opera, "snappy" band music, popular songs, rag-time, dance music, anything you like,—right in your own home. The Amberola is a Musical Instrument—no mechanical or artificial sound at all. No needles to change, but instead, a Diamond Stylus that never wears out. BLUE AMBEROLA RECORDS are practically unbreakable.

The Price of the Edison Amberola is Remarkably Reasonable.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY 25 YEARS MARRIED

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR MAJESTIES TODAY

King George and Queen Mary Will Pay Official Visit To City of London and Attend Thankgiving Service and Solemn Te Deum in St. Paul's Cathedral This Morning — The Ten Bridesmaids of Wedding Are Living.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

London, July 5.—King George and Queen Mary will pay an official visit to the city of London today to commemorate the 25th anniversary of their wedding. The coronation has appointed a special committee to make the arrangements and their Majesties will also attend a thanksgiving service and solemn Te Deum in St. Paul's Cathedral this morning.

thanksgiving service and solemn Te Deum in St. Paul's Cathedral. Many Londoners are able to recall the spirit of joyous festivity that prevailed in the metropolis twenty-five years ago.

The barest chapel in the United Kingdom was selected for the marriage ceremony. This is that hideous red-brick palace known as St. James, always used in comparison when it is wished to speak of a royal residence that is uglier than Buckingham. But it was the personal wish of Queen Victoria that the marriage should take place at St. James.

450 Present.
The Chapel Royal holds only 450 people comfortably, and the number of guests who were present at the wedding was limited to the numerous members of the royal family of Great Britain, the representatives of foreign sovereigns, great officials, cabinet ministers and a few important peers.

The German connections of the British royal family were conspicuously numerous at the wedding. Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia were there as the personal representatives of the German Emperor. Also in attendance were quite a multitude of Saxe-Coburg-Gothas, the Mecklenburg-Schwerins and the Wurttembergs.

On the morning of the wedding day the royal guests were driven to St. James' from Buckingham, Marlborough House, Gloucester House and the Palace Hotel. Queen Victoria used the grand state carriage, drawn by six cream colored ponies, and led the procession to the chapel.

Bridesmaids All Living.
The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Rochester and Canon Dalton, of Windsor, tied the knot according to the most elaborate form of the established church. Princess May was attended by ten bridesmaids, all of whom are still living. They are the Queen of Norway, the Queen of Sweden, Princess Helena, three daughters of the late Duke of Edinburgh, and Lady Louise Mountbatten.

King George and Queen Mary are the last British monarch and his consort to survive a century who have celebrated their silver wedding while still on the throne. Although the war will necessarily interfere with the commemoration of the day, the arrangements now completed ensure quite an elaborate observance of the anniversary. The formal ceremonies will be confined to a special service at St. Paul's Cathedral tomorrow morning. From the Cathedral the King and Queen will go to Guildhall to receive the good wishes of the City of London.

The officer was lecturing the new recruits on the preventive measure for gas attacks and the necessity for the smart adjustment of helmets. "Remember," he said, "there are only two classes when the gas is around—the quick and the dead!"—London Tit-Bits.

CARLETON COUNTY MAN KILLED BY DYNAMITE

Road Master George Phillips of Lower Brighton Instantly Killed While Blasting Rocks in Highway.

Woodstock, July 5.—George Phillips, Roadmaster at Lower Brighton, was instantly killed this afternoon. He was blasting large rocks in the road with dynamite. After waiting a reasonable time for the charge to go off he went to investigate, when the dynamite exploded and he was frightfully mangled, dying instantly. He was 50 years of age and is survived by the widow and ten children. The remains were brought to Woodstock and Coroner Lindsay will hold an inquest into the accident at ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

FAMINE IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Sunday, June 30.—(By The Associated Press.)—The famine situation is becoming more serious in the province of Tchernigov, in Little Russia. Reports from the Caucasus say that several Armenian citizens have been shot in the Alexandropol district of Russian Armenia by order of the Turkish military commanders.

New York, July 4.—In order that employees may have a full understanding of present conditions "it seems proper for me to say that on the eve of the formation of a Western Union Employees' Association the government is considering taking over the telegraph lines because of the threat of an outside organization without membership in our forces.

Five Thousand Enthusiastic Spectators See Thomas Earle, Fredericton Horse, Take 2.11 Mixed Event With Roy Volo Second—Cassie W., Woodstock Mare, Wins Special N. B. Race—Halifax Entry Takes 2.20 Race.

Special to The Standard. Houlton, Me., July 5.—With 5,000 enthusiastic spectators and close finishes in every heat, the postponed Fourth of July races today furnished the best racing witnessed here for many years. Canadian horses won three of the five races. P. Doherty, the veteran Canadian owner and driver won the 2.11 with Thomas Earle, but was pushed hard by the Roy Volo Belmont Miller, driven by Boutiller, of Halifax, who won the 2.20, while Cassie W., the entry of John Young, of Woodstock, after being placed fourth and second yesterday, came back today and won the special race in straight heats.

The old campaigner Bangor took first money in the 2.18 in three straight heats, while Bromos, who won two heats yesterday, was the winner in the 2.25. In the third heat of this race the judges gave flex first position, placing Bromos second on account of running. In the fourth heat Dowsa, the driver of Rex, was alleged to have used the whip illegally on Bromos and the latter horse was given first position.

BE CHEERFUL.
Look happy, if you do not feel so. Present a cheerful exterior, though your heart and mind be troubled. Never wear a face which, as Sidney Smith says, "is a breach of the peace." Dr. Johnson used to observe that the habit of looking at the best side of a thing was worth more to a man than a thousand pounds a year, and Samuel Smith observes: "We possess the power, to a great extent, of so exercising the will as to direct the thoughts upon objects calculated to yield happiness and improvement, rather than their opposites. In this way, the habit of happy thought may be made to spring up like any other habit. And to bring up men or women with a genuine nature of this sort, a good temper and a happy frame of mind is, perhaps, of even more importance in many cases than to perfect them in much knowledge and many accomplishments."—Sel.

CROSS WOMEN ON UNIFORMS FOR JULY 4 GAMES
Effort To Provide "Togs" For Ballplayers in Uncle Sam's Army.
American women at the American Red Cross Monday put the finishing touch on three hundred baseball uniforms sent to the American Red Cross in Great Britain so that they might be distributed among the teams that played baseball on July 4. Two women were engaged in this work.
The uniforms reached the workrooms a week ago and the camp authorities had to put every available uniform in the store of goods of London or large English cities. The uniforms were made in the workrooms of volunteers from the large number of women employed there. MAN SWARMING INTO RUMANIA Country Apparently Will Be Teutonized.

June 24. (Correspondence Associated Press)—Germany's "peaceful penetration" in Rumania have gone ahead very rapidly. The signing of the treaty for the railway traffic with the disputed territory in Rumania followed by a great influx of German merchants, politicians and industrialists. A few weeks ago the pushing and shoving in Jassy that the royal government was making, the crown prince, felt compelled to leave the city. The royal government now living in what amounts to a "peaceful penetration" in the Carpathian forests, the city is living in an old hunting lodge.

"We are fighting for a worthy purpose, and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved."—H. M. The King.
TO THE PEOPLE OF THE EMPIRE—Every fighting unit we can send to the front means one step nearer peace.

PLAIN WORDS BUT TRUE.

Hugo Haase is an independent German Socialist who does not hesitate to speak his mind on national questions when he deems that an utterance from him may be of value. Seemingly he is without fear, or he knows that because of his influence with the Socialists are expressed rather than protected, and subjected to military rule of the most arbitrary character. This, he contended, is a breach of confidence that will not redound to Germany's credit.

"TOMMY" AND HIS "FAG."

John Kendrick Bangs, the famous American humorist, has returned from a visit to the American front in France where he saw the soldiers under all conditions. The report he brings home is an interesting one, although it is not to be expected that it will be received with pleasure by those worthy people who object to the practice of sending cigarettes to the soldier boys. Mr. Bangs says the average soldier at the front wants just two things—cigarettes and news from home, and the same soldier generally wants cigarettes first and worst.

BARON RHONDDA.

One of the events of the past week was the death of Baron Rhonda, British food controller, probably best known to Canadians as Mr. D. A. Thomas, the Welsh coal king, who in the early days of the war, spent some time in this country on war business. The people of Britain have good reason to mourn the death of the man who marshalled the food supplies of the Motherland as Kitchener did the first territorial army. Kitchener created a wonderful military force out of masses of civilians who formerly had had no experience with the arms of warfare. When Baron Rhonda accepted the post of food controller he found the people willing to obey any reasonable regulations but sadly confused by a food shortage and a multitude of conflicting and ineffective orders which looked well on paper but proved unequal to the demands of the situation.

GERMANS IN ENGLAND

(Beatrice Heron-Maxwell in English Paper.)
The day's work was over and a squad of German prisoner laborers strolled along, their faces glowing with health in the four o'clock sunshine, their demeanor showing neither fatigue nor chagrin, the few hours of pleasant field-work having only provided a zest for supper and evening games.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE.
Yesterday after supper I broke the point of pops fountain pen by trying to see how thick of a line I could make with it, and pop made me set on a chair in the corner of the setting room, saying, Now you stay there till further orders, and if I hear so much as a single or a married peep out of you you'll think Von Hindenburg's entire army has descended on you.

A PRECIOUS VIOLIN

Outside of the dugout shells whined and machine guns splashed with a cacophony of rattat-tats, in a dugout sang and sobbed. The magic of music made men forget. They forgot the homesickness. They forgot the pain of the trench. They forgot the cold. They forgot the over presence of danger and death.

What time is it when the clock strikes thirteen?—Time the clock was mended.

JEWS WITH ANZACS

(Mail and Empire.)
A strange Valley, one of the names with which the Anzacs have enriched the geographical nomenclature of Galipoli Peninsula, was so called by the men of an Australian regiment in honor of their colonel, now Sir John Monash, who has just been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-General and placed in the command of a British army corps in France. The importance of this promotion is twofold. Sir John Monash has the distinction of being both the first Australian and the first Jew to reach so high a position in the British army.

PIANIST FEATURE AT OPERA HOUSE

Veritable Music Master Heads Particularly Good Bill This Week.

There is one artist—and he is an artist surely—on the Opera House program as seen last night, that is going to be a very popular man before the week is far along, and that is Nelson Waring, who plays the piano. That seems simple, doesn't it? And yet there are a great many ways of playing a piano—he knows them all—and in touch, technique and perfection of execution, he is the best pianist the Opera House stage has seen for a long time. There did not seem to be a great deal of interest taken when he started but it wasn't long before the audience awoke to the fact that they were in for a rare musical treat. Applause was heavy and long continued at the conclusion of his offering, and it was deserved. Go and hear him—it will do you good.

The Powells opened the program and with showers of colored sand built beautiful landscapes and water scenes which when finished looked like oil paintings. Good novelty and the audience appreciated it.

Dunlay and Merrill, a rather stout comedian and a comedienne, offered a rattling fire of cross talk-jokes, and a lot of nonsense interspersed with a few song numbers—all of which got across and made for hearty laughter.

Roath and Barrette, in an aeroplane scene, even to a real dirigible balloon, which brought them on the stage, offered a little skit, original and novel. Both good singers—their vocal offerings were well received.

Fred and Albert, the gymnasts, did not appear last night, owing to non-arrival of their baggage but it was announced that they would surely be in the program for today.

The Lion's Claw serial was intensely thrilling and gives promise of being a strong dramatic story as it goes along.

CHEERED THE KING

London, July 4.—American soldiers and sailors when passing Buckingham Palace today on their way to the baseball match stopped and gave three cheers for King George. The latter, with Queen Mary, came out on the balcony as the cheering broke out, and smilingly acknowledged the demonstration.

STEEL STOCKS IN SOME DEMAND

New York, July 5.—The copper surprise continues to stimulate speculative expectations in metal stocks but the holiday atmosphere here restrains broad operations. We would not climb after stocks but are inclined to buy on recessions for turns. The following stocks are held in responsible channels: Anaconda, A. R. in Railway Springs and U. S. Steel. Conservative stock exchange sources see confidentially very strong recommending the purchase of American Car Foundry, Railway Springs and American Locomotive among the equipments, preferring them to others of that group. The preference is said to be based upon a careful investigation of the soundness of these issues. One lot buying in the steel group is reported to be encountered whenever the prices of leading issues decline a few points. This is especially noted in U. S. Steel, B. R. C. and Lackawanna which three steel stocks are particularly favored.

When a girl expects a young man to propose and he doesn't, she naturally attributes it to heart failure.

It sometimes happens that a foolish woman mistakes her own reasonable disposition for a proud spirit.

RUSSIAN DEMOCRACY SMASHED COMPLETELY, SAYS KERENSKY

Paris, July 4.—Not a single democratic institution remains in Russia, former Premier Kerensky told the permanent committee of the Socialist party.

"A year and a half ago," he said, "the triumph of the Russian revolution seemed a turning point in the history of the whole world. Today one sees but chaos, the loss of all conquests won by the revolution and the loss even of conditions necessary to civilised existence. Three centuries of Czarism and three years of war have exhausted Russia's natural capital, destroyed her works and organisations and killed her best workers and peasants."

"It is easy to represent any governmental measure as tyrannical. It is easy to make the masses believe that a free nation is one which submits to no discipline. It is a serious error to think that there has been a struggle in Russia between the Moderates and the pure Socialists."

GERMAN RESERVES HEAVILY DRAWN ON

By Arthur S. Draper.
 (Special Cable to the New York Tribune and St. John Standard.)

London, July 4.—Ludendorff has been consistently trying to destroy General Foch's reserves, but it is perfectly plain now that the allied generalissimo has a larger force at his command than when the offensive began. The total of 600,000 Americans, British recruits and French colonialists who have been landed in France since March 21 far exceeds the allied losses in the present campaign.

Possibly Ludendorff has the same number of divisions as at the outset, but his reserves have been heavily drawn upon. Ludendorff will certainly hit a smashing blow soon, but unless the Foch forces are thrown in in huge force, the French leader will have a considerable army for use in an offensive as soon as it is properly trained. That is patent to anyone who realised how small a portion of the American million has been used to date.

Material for Offensive.

The allied army has been on the defensive so long that there is danger that the public may lose sight of the fact—always a nightmare to Ludendorff—that Foch had material for offensive operations when the Germans made their last drive. Secretary Baker's letter serves to emphasize this point in a striking measure. With the exception of a successful German counter-attack north of Albert and exceedingly useful and well executed minor thrust by American troops west of Chateau Thierry, the western front is unusually quiet. The one exception is in the air and there the fighting is fiercer than at any period of the war. British raiders are bombarding German towns and railways with a frequency calculated to cause much demoralization among the workers. Other machines are bombing depots immediately behind the line, while fighting reconnoitering machines and their escorts have reached an unparalleled number.

Furious Struggle.
 The Germans are having a furious struggle in the air and as secrecy is one of the prime requisites for the successful launching of an offensive, the enemy is battling desperately to keep the allied machines from crossing the line.

The Italian and Austrian communiques differ widely in their reports of the battle along the lower Piave which the former describes as a series of energetic thrusts, while the enemy describes it as an unsuccessful attempt to cross the river in force at Zenson. Both are agreed, however, that the fighting is furious, the Italians claiming 1,000 prisoners together with many machine and trench guns. Naval forces assisted the Italians, but apparently there was very little change in position. Some prisoners were captured in an Italian push northwest of Grappa.

THE BRITISH POLITICAL SITUATION IS STILL STORMY

BITTERNESS OF PARTY STRIFE CONTINUES IN BRITAIN

Attack on Great Britain's Free Trade Policy By Premier Hughes Starts Warm Discussion—Lloyd George Government Far From Strong—British People More Optimistic.

Special Cable to New York Tribune and St. John Standard. (By Arthur S. Draper).

London, July 5.—Four years of furious fighting have not altered materially the fundamentals of British political life. Striking proof of this is furnished by the events of the past few days. First of these the Irish debate in parliament over conscription and home rule during which Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, easily carried off the honors.

The debate showed clearly that despite all the terrible sacrifices and hardships of the last four years and the serious military situation at this very moment, the spirit of compromise and conciliation is still lacking and that the bitterness of party strife continues.

Then the Australian premier, William Morris Hughes, attacked Great Britain's free trade policy and the free traders as being German. He predicted a fierce economic war as a sequel to Armageddon and talked of strapping the rifle to the plow. He has started something. In ten days he has fired British Liberalism with a fury unknown since pre-war days. Hughes will either ride to victory over the dead body of British Liberalism, or he will be driven out of England. Already he is called "nuisance" and "saviour." Incidentally, he is lining up the Conservative and Liberal papers in a lively row over protection and free trade.

The Labor Party.

Exhibit number three consists of the Labor Party Conference's overwhelming decision in favor of breaking the party tie.

Europe is drawing toward the end of the fourth year of the war, and fightings have grown to become a part of the British national life.

Lloyd George's government is not strong. It is not leading the people with the firmness and confidence of even Clemenceau. But whatever the international situation may be, there is no question whatsoever as to the determination of the British people, whether the working or so-called upper class, to see the war through.

The possibility of a premature peace was never so far remote since the fall of 1915 as it is today.

More Optimistic.

I find fewer signs of war weariness among civilians and soldiers than during the winter. It is a frequent comment that the people are more optimistic and unbending than the government. The responsibility of eighteen months of leadership weighs heavily in the government with the result that frequently a spirit of compromise and opportuneness sways the leaders.

Kuelmann made a little headway here by his conciliatory peace armistice speech in the Reichstag. He was not so much further the same way before he will convince any considerable body of Britons that Germany is undergoing a change in spirit commensurate with a change in her attitude at his best, and it would be a mistake to say he had not made any impression on England. The foreign secretary tried to assert the importance of statecraft in achieving victory for Germany and thereby aroused the ire of the Junkers who in stomach for pessimistic prophecies about three years more of war.

Had Two Audiences.

Kuelmann had two audiences, one in the Fatherland, the other in the Allied countries. I think that his speech was intended chiefly for German consumption, because Kuelmann knows England and British psychology exceedingly well. Though apparently Kuelmann's opposition to Ludendorff, he is in reality working with him. Ludendorff must fight against time; so must Kuelmann. Ludendorff must win a decision this year; so must Kuelmann, or his victories in Russia, Rumania and the Baltic provinces will fade away when next he plays the role of bargainer.

Kuelmann has followed the recent German tactics in trying to narrow the gulf of animosity between Germany and England. Conspicuous by its absence from his speech is any reference to the submarine campaign and the American effort.

RUSSIA STILL AT WAR WITH HUNS, SAYS KERENSKY

International Socialist Conference Will Be Held As Soon As Circumstances Permit.

Paris, July 5.—Alexander Kerensky, the former Russian Premier, and Vladimir Lenin, the Russian Socialist leader, attended a meeting of the Socialist party at the Chamber of Deputies this morning. Mr. Kerensky denounced the Bolshevik policy and displayed a copy of a protest voted on May 18, 1918, at a secret meeting of the Russian constituent assembly against the Brest-Litovsk treaty and declaring that Russia still was at war with Germany. The text of the protest, he said, would be published later.

M. Branting told the French Socialists about the moves which German Socialists were making and hinted at the possibility of an international Socialist conference which he said would be held as soon as circumstances permitted.

COL. STURDEE FORMS NAVY LEAGUE BRANCH IN CITY OF MONCTON

Sergeant Amos Belliveau Resigns From Police Force To Become Terror To Westmorland Liquor Sellers.

Special to The Standard. Moncton, July 5.—Col. Sturdee was here today and completed the organization of a local branch of the Canadian Navy League. After Col. Sturdee addressed a number of citizens present the following officers were elected: President, Major Tombs; vice president, Capt. J. E. Masters; secretary, Geo. J. Schmidt; treasurer, A. J. Macquarrie. Executive Mrs. E. B. Chandler, Mrs. M. Lodge, Mrs. W. A. Pearson, V. G. Snell, L. McKinnon, L. F. Wallace, G. B. Willett, G. A. Robertson.

Sergeant Amos Belliveau today tendered his resignation as a member of Moncton police force to accept the appointment as county inspector under the prohibition act.

WEDDINGS.

Weston-McCavour.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sullivan, Fairfield, N. B., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on June 19th, decorated with apple blossoms, while an arch of apple blossoms overshadowed the happy couple.

The bride, who was given away by her grandfather, was crowned in a dainty dress of white embroidered tulle, and carried a bouquet of apple blossoms, while an arch of apple blossoms overshadowed the happy couple.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss E. Withers, and the groom was supported by Thomas W. Rankin. After the ceremony a tempting luncheon was served. The rooms were decorated with potted plants and cut flowers.

The bride received many handsome presents, among which was a well filled purse. The happy couple will reside at Fairfield.

Gorham-Hoyt.

At the home of Chas. and Ada Hoyt of Millville, N. B., Rev. I. F. Keirstead united Della Bell Hoyt to John P. Gorham, both of Millville. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents.

Morse-Flewelling.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the Portage, York Co., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Flewelling when on the third day of July at 3 p. m., their daughter, Alberta, was united in marriage to Stewart S. Morse of White Head, Grand Manan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. A. Byles, the bride and groom standing under a bridal veil upon the lawn in the presence of a number of friends. After the ceremony a banquet repast was served in the dining room which was decorated in the traditional colors in honor of the bride's brother-in-law, Private Joseph McMillan, who is a member of the Ambulance Corps now serving in France.

The bride was tastefully dressed in white net over silk, wore a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bride's brother and sister attended the happy couple and the bride's nieces acted as bridesmaids. The bridesmaid wore royal purple silk and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Morse is an enterprising young business man of Grand Manan and is to be congratulated on securing so excellent a life partner, while the teaching profession loses another member.

MONCTON PILOT ONE OF THOSE ESCAPING

Son of Canon Pilot of Newfoundland Survivor of Llandoverly Castle.

Moncton, July 5.—Amongst the survivors of the hospital ship Llandoverly Castle destroyed by a German submarine, is Pte. W. R. Pilot, of Moncton, who is reported by a cable from Ottawa as having been one of the few survivors of the sinking.

Pte. Pilot is a grandson of Canon Pilot of Newfoundland, and had been in Moncton for some time before he joined the army. He went to the front early in 1915, with the Cyclists from Toronto and was wounded.

ALLIES WILL NEED EVERY MAN TO DEFEAT GERMANY, DECLARES DR. BELAND

British, Canadian and Other Allied Governments Are Right to Continue To Take German Power With the Utmost Seriousness—Every Ounce of War Effort Will Be Needed To Overcome—No Serious Internal Troubles in Germany Are Looked For.

Montreal, July 5.—"Windemere" cabling to the Montreal Star today tells of an interview he has had with Dr. Beland, M. P., who is returning to Canada after an enforced stay of four years in Belgium and Germany. The outstanding impression I bring away from a conversation with Dr. Beland, on his release from internment in Germany," says the Star's correspondent, "is how right the British, Canadian and other allied governments are to continue to take German power with the utmost seriousness."

"It is clear, especially after the undoubted success of the German offensive last March, that the Allies will need every man and every ounce of war effort to accomplish the only kind of victory worth having. American help is now coming forward in gratifying proportions, but all that Dr. Beland saw and other information he has learned since reaching London and Paris, shows that the gravest risks would be incurred if there be any relaxation in the efforts during the next critical six months."

What Dr. Beland saw of the German population generally, showed the severity in their food and other privations, but equally evident was their readiness to undergo even greater hardships because of their confidence in the Kaiser and Hindenburg. It is still true to say, as Lloyd George said two years ago, that England does well to take Germany's patriotic spirit very seriously.

Greatest Speech.

Dr. Beland's greatest speech on reaching London is perhaps the success which with the truth has been kept from Germany regarding the results of the submarine and aircraft warfare. The British people must, they still affirm, soon to be started into submission and cowed by the destructive Zeppelin and gotha bombs. American help is pool-poohed, and nobody seems to know of the million American soldiers already in France.

The allies will certainly win, but without the most determined persistence, Dr. Beland stated.

FISH TALKS

THE PRINCIPLE OF CONSERVATION.

Suppose that in this time of war, when the supply of food is getting short, it were possible for a Cape Breton Island farmer to take down his rifle, go into the woods or to the nearest barren, and in an hour or two shoot a caribou that would keep his family supplied with meat for a week. Or suppose that he could take his rod and line, go to the nearest pool in the river that runs through his farm, and in less than a dozen casts be the good thing for him, and would it not enable him to live better and more cheaply? Why cannot he do it? Simply because there are not caribou and salmon enough. But why are there not enough? Because the ancestors of the people now living on Cape Breton Island—and to the least the people themselves—have killed wild animals and fish without the least regard to the annual rate of increase. Instead of leaving alive enough killed off every year not only the whole annual increase but hundreds more, thus lessening the existing supply instead of maintaining it.

If a man wants to get on in the world financially, he does not spend every year all of his income and a part of his capital. On the contrary, he saves all of his capital and as much of his income as possible. He annually a certain amount of interest. If he spends only the interest, he maintains his principal intact, and that principal will continue to yield every year not only all of his interest but a part of his principal, he steadily reduces the amount of each and his ultimate bankruptcy is certain.

This is just as true in the animal and fish world as it is in the world of money. If you kill caribou and salmon faster than they can reproduce themselves, you are bound, sooner or later, to have none at all. No prudent farmer or stock breeder acts in that way. If he wants to enlarge his herd, or even maintain it, he does not sell or slaughter without regard to the rate of increase. He sells or kills some, but he saves bulls and cows that will breed and calves and lambs that will grow up to take their place.

Every man would do the same thing with caribou and salmon if he were the sole owner of them. But animals and fish are not owned by individuals. They are owned by the public in general, and every individual of that public has the mistaken idea that he kills not promoting his own interests. He is injuring himself as much as he injures others. The annual production of a hundred caribou, or a thousand salmon, is a certain definite and fixed number. If a single man, or a number, they lessen the permanent supply and thus injure themselves as well as everybody else. If the existing stock is not maintained—if it is allowed to decrease year after year—its final use-up altogether and then everybody suffers.

It is a proverbial saying that "You can't eat your cake and have it"; but in the animal world the cake gradually reproduces itself, and you can eat your cake and still have it, if you don't eat too often and too much at a time. A century or two ago, when fish and game were plentiful and nothing in his world is inexhaustible. The Koreans, three or four centuries ago, thought that their forests were inexhaustible and cut trees recklessly without regard to the rate of increase. The result is that they now have no wood at all, and are compelled to heat their houses and do their cooking with dried grass, weeds and small bushes. Seventy or eighty years ago the buffaloes on our Western plains were numbered by the million, and the early explorers thought the supply never could be exhausted, but they are all gone. The same is true of the passenger pigeon. As almost literally darkened the sky. But they were killed recklessly and wastefully until they finally became extinct. For years there has been a standing offer of a large sum of money for the discovery of a single pair, none on Cape Breton Island was estimated at seventy thousand, but they too are gone, and so far as I know not a moose has been seen in the last ten years. When I first began to camp on the Baddeck Lakes, twenty-five years ago, the barrens in that neighborhood were covered with the fresh tracks of caribou, but when I went there last, two or three years ago, I tramped miles over the barrens south of the lakes without seeing a single track. The animals had all, or nearly all, been killed off, largely by hunting them on snowshoes in winter with dogs. Would it not have been well to save some of these moose and caribou? Would not the people of the island be better off if they could now kill the increase of these animals every year—without reducing the stock—and thus provide themselves with meat? They have carelessly and recklessly destroyed their own property. If all the domestic cattle on the island had belonged to the public instead of to individuals, and if they had been killed off without regard to the rate of increase, as the moose and caribou have been, there would now be none left, and every pound of beef consumed in Cape Breton would have to be imported.

These simple illustrations are enough perhaps to show that the first principle of conservation, as well as the plainest dictate of common sense, is: "Don't yourself kill, and don't allow others to kill, more game and fish than the existing stock annually produces." If you do, there will certainly be a shortage, even in your own lifetime, and there will be none at all for your children.

In another "talk" I shall consider the principle of conservation as it applies to fish in particular.

GERMAN BUSINESS MEN DRIBBED TO SUPPORT WAR

Thyssen, Famous Steel Maker, Tells How Hohenzollern Family, Shaky on Their Throne, Lured With Visions of World Conquest—Thyssen Was To Have 30,000 Acres in Australia—Empire Near Bankruptcy, Race Hated.

Of all the revelations which have stamped Germany as the greatest criminal in history none is more important than the pamphlet written by August Thyssen and commonly known as the Thyssen pamphlet. Herr Thyssen is, rather, the leading manufacturer of steel in Germany. He is well known to practically all the directors of the American Iron & Steel Institute. He visited the United States with the British, French and German iron and steel associations in 1914. He took an active part in the proceedings held at Brussels in 1911, presided over by Judge Gary, and attended by representatives of the iron and steel industry from all parts of the world.

Seventy-eight years of age, Herr Thyssen is one of the chief iron, coal and steel magnates of central Germany. Until the beginning of the war he possessed huge mines, iron works, docks and even harbors in British India, in other British colonial dependencies, as well as in France and Russia, all of which have been sequestered by the governments of these three powers as property belonging to a German foe. He has vast docks and ship-building works at Vlaardingen near Rotterdam. He controls the Vulcan Iron & Steamship Building Co. of Germany.

When the Thyssen pamphlet was first printed in this country, The Wall Street Journal had serious doubts as to its authenticity; but, after investigation and correspondence with Herr Thyssen's friends in this country, we are inclined to believe with them that the pamphlet is genuine and is just what might be expected from an independent and widely travelled manufacturer who had been in the United States. The pamphlet is as follows:

The Thyssen Pamphlet.

I am writing this pamphlet because I want to open the eyes of Germans, especially of the business community, to facts. When the Hohenzollerns wanted to get the support of the commercial class for their war plans, they put their ideas before us as a business proposition. A large number of business and commercial men were asked to support the Hohenzollern war policy on the ground that it would pay them to do so. Let me frankly confess that I am one of those who were led to agree to support the Hohenzollern war plan when this appeal was made to the leading business men of Germany in 1912-13. I was led to do so, however, against my better judgment.

In 1913 the Hohenzollerns as what the war had become a necessity to the preservation of the military system, upon which their power depends. In that year the Hohenzollerns might have directed, if they had desired, the foreign affairs of our country so that peace would have been assured in Europe for at least fifty years. But prolonged peace would have resulted certainly in the break up of our military system, and with the break up of our military system, the power of the Hohenzollerns would come to an end. The emperor and his family, as I said, clearly understood this, and they therefore, in 1913, decided to embark on a great war of conquest.

But to do this they had to get the commercial community to support them in their aims. They did this by holding out to them hopes of great personal gain as a result of the war. In the light of events that have taken place since August, 1914, these promises now appear supremely ridiculous, but most of us at the time were led to believe that they would probably be realized.

I was personally promised a free grant of 30,000 acres in Australia and a loan from the Deutsch Bank of £150,000 at 3 per cent, to enable me to develop my business in Australia. Several other firms were promised special trading facilities in India, which was to be conquered by Germany, by the end of 1915.

A syndicate was formed for the exploitation of Canada. This syndicate consisted of the heads of twelve great firms; the working capital was fixed at £20,000,000, half of which was to be found by the German government. There were, I have heard, promises made of a more personal character. For example, the "conquest of England" was to be made the occasion of bestowing upon certain favored and wealthy men some of the most desirable residences in England, but of this I have no actual proof.

Every trade and interest was appealed to. Huge indemnities were, of course, to be levied on the conquered nations, and the fortunate German manufacturers were, by this means, practically to be relieved of taxation for years after the war.

These promises were not vaguely given. They were made definitely by Bethmann-Hollweg on behalf of the emperor to gatherings of business men, and in many cases to individuals. I have mentioned the promise of a grant of 30,000 acres in Australia, and that made to me. Promises of a similar kind were made to at least eighty other persons at special interviews with the chancellor, and all particulars of these promises were entered in a book at the Trades Department.

But not only were these promises made by the chancellor; they were confirmed by the emperor, who, on three occasions, addressed large private gatherings of business men in Berlin, Munich, and Cassel in 1912 and 1913. This was one of these gatherings. The emperor's speech was one of the most flowery orations I have listened to, and so profuse were the promises he made that, were even half of what he promised to be fulfilled, most of the commercial men in Germany would become rich beyond the dreams of avarice.

The emperor was particularly enthusiastic over the coming German conquest of India. "India," he said, "is occupied by the British. It is in a way governed by the British, but it is by no means completely governed by them. We shall not merely occupy India. We shall conquer it, and the vast revenues that the British allow to be taken by Indian princes will, after our conquest flow in a golden stream into the Fatherland. It is all the richest lands of the earth the German flag will fly over every other flag."

Finally the emperor concluded: "I am making promises that can not be redeemed, and they shall be redeemed if you are now prepared to make the sacrifices which are necessary to secure the position that our country must and shall occupy in the world. He who refuses to help is a traitor to the Fatherland; he who helps willingly and generously will have his rich reward."

All sounded, I admit, tempting and alluring, and though there were some who viewed rather dubiously the prospect of Germany being able to conquer the world in a year, the majority of business and commercial men agreed to support the Hohenzollern war plans. Most of them have since wished they had never paid any attention to them.

According to the promises of the Hohenzollerns, victory was to have been achieved in December, 1915, and the promises made to myself and other commercial men in Germany when our money for the Kaiser war chest was wanted were to have been redeemed.

Charges Imperial Blackmail.

But this is what has happened in reality. In December of 1915, the chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg, began to have interviews once more with business men. The purpose of these interviews was to get more money from them. Guarantees were asked from seventy-five business men in Germany, including myself, that they would undertake to subscribe £200,000 to the next war loan. I was personally asked to guarantee a subscription of £200,000. I declined to give this guarantee; so did some others. I was then given the guarantee. I was then interviewed with Bethmann-Hollweg's private secretary, who told me that if I declined to give the guarantee and subsequently the next war loan on a contract I had with the War Office. But not only that—I was threatened with the practical ruin of my business if I did not give the guarantee.

I described this demand as blackmail of the worst sort and refused to guarantee a mark to the war loan. Two months later I lost my contract, and the greater part of my business has been taken over at a figure that means confiscation. Moreover, I am not yet paid until after the war, but am to receive 4 per cent on my business until every man who declined to promise a subscription to the amount he was asked has been treated in the same manner.

The majority of men, however, preferred to pay rather than to be ruined, and so the Hohenzollerns in the main got their way. But, apart from the blackmailing of men who refused to pay any more money into the Hohenzollern war chest, let us see how the Hohenzollerns' promises are working out. A circular was sent on March 1 to a large number of business men by the Foreign Trade Department which contained the following suggestion:

Preparing For The Reckoning.

"It will be wise for employers who have foreign trade interests to employ agents in foreign countries who can pass themselves off as being of French or English birth. German agents and travelers will probably for some time after the war have difficulty in doing business not only in enemy countries, but in neutral countries. There will undoubtedly be a personal prejudice against Germans that would probably make it difficult for representatives of German firms to do business. Although this prejudice will not interfere with German trade, as it will be merely of a personal character, it will facilitate trading transactions if employers will employ agents who pass as French or English, preferably, or as Dutch, American, or Spanish."

So this is the prospect we are faced with after the war. The meaning of this circular in plain language is this: So loathed and hated have Germans become outside their own country that no man will want to have any personal dealings with them after the war.

A large number of businesses are, moreover, being secretly bolstered up with state aid. A condition of this aid is that the owners of the business receiving it shall agree to accept a considerable degree of state control over their business after the war. This is part and parcel of a plan on the part of the Hohenzollerns to get the commercial classes thoroughly into their grip before the end of the war, and so minimize the chances of a revolution.

These men who have agreed to accept aid now for their business, and state control after the war, have received a notification from the Foreign Trade Department to the effect that, with proper organization, Germany ought to recover her pre-war trade three years after peace is declared. Here is the Hohenzollern method of redeeming promises. We are to get back our pre-war trade three years after peace is declared, and to do this we must submit to have our trading transactions controlled and supervised by the state.

Can any German to whom such prospects are held out by the emperor fail to see that he has been bamboozled and humbugged and fooled into supporting a war from which the utmost he can hope to gain is to come out of it without national bankruptcy?

No Division of Loyalty.

"Do you think it possible for a man to divide his loyalty between two countries?"
"I do not. Did you ever hear of a half-married man?"

"Traction"—The Tire Beautiful—

WE hear so much about the "lines" of the automobile that we are apt to forget the "lines" of a tire.

Surely if beauty is an essential in automobile construction, it is likewise an essential in tire construction.

Examine "Traction" for beauty—no unnecessary lines, no distorted "treadlets," no ugly, unsymmetrical gouges—just one powerful, resilient, beautiful balance. And all this is extra—extra over and above the greatest road mastery ever obtained in a rubber tire.

We also make Dunlop "Special" and Dunlop "Plain"—two tires that are in great favor with motorists in general.

DUNLOP SEAMLESS TUBES and DUNLOP ACCESSORIES likewise make lasting friends wherever used.

Dependable Spark Plugs

There could be no greater tribute to the dependable service and efficiency that comes from making ONLY spark plugs and developing a type for the individual requirements of each motor or engine, whether it be automobile, tractor, farm engine or motor boat.

Engineers know their dependability by analysis—you will know by experience that your replacements should be Champions.

Each Champion porcelain is protected from breakage through cylinder shock or expansion by its patented, asbestos-lined, copper gaskets, and each plug is backed by the guarantee—"Absolute satisfaction to the user or free repair or replacement will be made."

Look for "CHAMPION" on each porcelain.

Tell any dealer that you want the Champion, that will develop every atom of power in your motor or engine.

SHIPBUILDING NEAR HIGH WATER MARK. United States Apparently Looks For Long War As Enormous Contracts For Shells Have Been Placed. Toronto, July 5.—In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following observations: Shipbuilding can well be said to be attaining the height of its growth in Canada.

There is a need still for men in many shops. Against this, however, it is reported from several centres that the labour problem is quite normal, and the little trouble is experienced in securing all the hands necessary. Pig iron and good scrap materials are scarce at either United States or Canadian points.

STEEL STOCKS IN SOME DEMAND. Odd Lot Buying in Steel Group When Prices Dip. (McDougall and Cowans.) New York, July 5.—The copper surprise continues to stimulate speculative interest in steel stocks.

WEST WILL HAVE BIG WHEAT CROP. Ottawa, Ont., July 4.—With just a faint glimmer of the west, which produce four hundred million bushels of wheat, said Mr. F. P. Brady, General Manager of the western lines of the Canadian Government Railway who was in Ottawa on his annual visit to the capital to discuss transportation matters with the Minister of Railways.

Hon. Mr. Blondin Arrives
From Overseas and Brings Favorable Report.

Halifax, July 6.—Hon. P. F. Blondin, postmaster-general of Canada, is here from overseas en route to Montreal.
Referring to his visit to France, he said that he was especially impressed with the cheery spirit of the wounded.

"I saw men with scars of many battles on their faces and armless and legless heroes in English hospitals and what impressed me most was the general spirit of optimism in these places," said Mr. Blondin.

"The men in the front line trenches are even more cheerful, if that is possible, and are very patient. They know that victory will be theirs in time and are ready and waiting for the word to go over the top at the Germans when that command is given."

Investigation To Determine
Who Notified German U-
Boat Commander of Llandovory Castle Sailing.

Halifax, July 6.—At last night's meeting of the city council Alderman Gillis read an extract from a cable from Ireland to America stating that the commander of the German submarine which sank the Llandovory Castle had said he had done so because of receipt of information from Halifax that she was carrying aviation officers.

The council referred the matter to the Board of Control to inquire into,
and that board at a meeting this morning decided to consult with the militia department and see if any action is necessary in relation to enemy agents at large.

Around the City

UNSETTLED.

SAFE IN ENGLAND. Word has been received that Gunner G. Russell, of Tower street west, has arrived safely in England.

SARDINE PLANT STARTS. The Booth Fisheries Ltd. canning plant will open for business this morning. Several supplies of fish have been received.

PASSED SUCCESSFULLY. Two St. John boys, John G. Knowlton, son of F. J. G. Knowlton and J. Edward Ellis, son of George D. Ellis have succeeded in passing the ex-aminations for entrance to the Royal Naval College.

WILL BE LATE COMING. A letter recently received from J. D. O'Connell conveyed the information that he had been obliged to defer his start from Cuba for New Brunswick and would not reach here until late in August.

GR. THURSTON IN ENGLAND. The many friends of Gr. Edward K. Thurston, formerly malling clerk with The Standard Publishing Co.—will be pleased to learn of his safe arrival in England. He left here a short time ago with a detachment from No. 9 Siege Battery.

UNDERGOES OPERATION. John Slattery, a young boy of this city was admitted yesterday afternoon to the St. John Infirmary, to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Later information received, stated he had gone under the operation—which proved very successful.

THE STRAWBERRY MARKET. In spite of the generous down pour of rain on Thursday, the berry-pickers must have utilized umbrellas, as a goodly number of crates of strawberries arrived on the river boats yesterday. The prices were 15-16 cents per box, and going strong at these figures.

IS IN HOSPITAL. Robert Brown, of 107 Newman street, was advised yesterday that his son Pte. C. E. Brown, had been admitted to hospital in Rouen on June 20, suffering from multiple gunshot wounds. Pte. Brown enlisted with the 104th and was later transferred to the New Brunswick battalion.

SAFE IN ENGLAND. The many friends of Gunner J. H. Baram will be pleased to hear that a cable received by his parents told of his safe arrival in England. Gunner Baram left St. John recently. Victor Markham, son of Col. and Mrs. Fred Markham, has also cabled his parents telling of his safe arrival in England.

MAIN STREET PAVING. The main street paving is proceeding quite rapidly and two sections from Cedar to Eight streets are now open for traffic. Yesterday afternoon a start was made on asphaltting the loop at Indian town and by the time this is completed it is expected the rest of the north side of Main street will be ready for the asphalt surface.

MUST SHOW TICKETS. Travellers coming in, and leaving the city, find the railway officials on the job these days, approaching them regarding their tickets. They must produce these before entering a train. Some more negligent ones find themselves in an embarrassing position. A word to the neglectful ones "Procure your ticket before entering the train."

SOCIAL SERVICE ACTIVITIES. Rev. H. A. Goodwin, president of the New Brunswick Social Service Council, left yesterday for Prince Edward Island and to assist Rev. Dr. Shearer, general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, who is to hold a number of conventions at the chief centres of that province. Dr. Grant will also be one of the speakers at these meetings. It is hoped to organize a number of local as well as a provincial council as a result of these conventions.

THE DEPOT ENTRANCE. Another suburban resident, referring to the item in The Standard regarding the mud in the Union Depot, said to a representative of that paper: "We are a long-suffering people. Not only is the inside of the station dirty but we need a boat, these wet days to navigate the entrance to the building itself. There are three pools of water through which one has to pass before actually getting into the building and they have been there for months and everyone complains of them and yet nothing is done."

LOYALIST CHAPTER MEETS. The regular meeting of Loyalist Chapter I. O. O. E. was held last night with the regent, Mrs. Hugh Mackay, in the chair. Two new members were elected, Mrs. R. A. Armstrong and Miss Eunice Macaulay. The sum of $75 was voted to Nursing Sister Edith Hogan for her work in the province and $21 to the Queen Mary Silver Wedding Anniversary Fund. The feature of the meeting was the reading of a paper by Mrs. Boyd Thomson on the annual meeting of the National Chapter held in Toronto. Mrs. Thomson gave a splendid report of the proceedings of that body and every member enjoyed her recital of the work done there.

WANT CHEAP RATES. Messrs. W. E. Seely, for the Union Ice Company; H. Colby Smith, for A. C. Smith & Company; J. Firth Brittain, for the Colwell Fuel Company, and George Waring, for the Union Foundry, Mayor Hayes and Commissioner Bullock yesterday morning laid before them a request to continue the special rates to teams of six and twelve carts, by buying books of tickets of 1,000 for single teams and 500 for double teams. They contended that the paying of the full fare of eight and fifteen cents respectively on single and double teams would mean a heavy tax on them, and asked that the order doing away with the selling of books of tickets be rescinded. Their request was promised consideration.

THE PLAYGROUNDS ASSOCIATION HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

Committees For Various Grounds Appointed—Appreciation of City Council Expressed By Members.

A largely attended and successful meeting of the Playgrounds Association was held last night with President Belding in the chair. Those present were L. F. D. Tilley, M. L. A. Commissioner Fisher, Police Magistrate Ritchie, A. W. Covey, H. H. McLellan, M. E. Agar, Capt. Mulcahey, R. E. Armstrong, W. F. Noble, Mrs. T. N. Vincent, Mrs. George Doherty, Mrs. W. C. Good, Miss Leavitt, Mrs. J. H. Doody, Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson and Miss Goodwin.

Communications were read from the Playground Association of America acknowledging the affiliation of the local association with the international body and from the Boys' Club Federation.

The following committees for the various playgrounds were appointed: Allison—Commissioner Fisher, L. P. D. Tilley, R. E. Armstrong and Mrs. Doody.

Aberdeen—H. H. McLellan and Miss Goodwin.

Centennial—M. E. Agar and A. W. Covey.

Alexandra—G. E. Day, Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Wilson.

Bentley—G. E. Day and Mrs. Good.

Carlton—Capt. and Mrs. Mulcahey and A. W. Covey.

The question of keeping playgrounds open in the evening was referred to the committee of each ground who will see if the neighborhood can provide supervision. The secretary was requested to seek the co-operation of the police in seeing that no disorderly element disturbed the proceedings of the play time or after hours.

The president expressed great satisfaction over the action of the city council in granting money to provide baseball diamonds and athletic fields in the different sections of the city. This sentiment was heartily endorsed by the meeting.

The president urged the formation of a neighborhood organization to get behind each of the grounds and invited members to a community meeting to be held in the King Edward School next Monday evening.

At the request of President Belding Mr. Tilley spoke to the members of the association. He said he had been an onlooker for some years and he congratulated those who had faithfully stood by the work and so successfully aroused the interest of the people of the city. He also stated that he knew what it meant to children to have playgrounds where houses are built on the street, he being a landlord for over 230 families. He put out the suggestion that each neighborhood provide a picnic for its particular playground some time during the season.

A general discussion on baseball diamonds and plans for the season closed and one of the most successful meetings ever held in the interest of this great work.

PROTEST AGAINST CHINESE LABOR

Trades and Labor Council To Take Up Matter With Premier Foster.

The Trades and Labor Council held a meeting last evening in their rooms on Union street.

Pres. John Kemp occupied the chair. Routine business was the order, and much business was transacted. Various questions were discussed, and the secretary of the association was authorized to forward to the acting premier of New Brunswick a communication protesting against the use of Chinese labor, if being understood this sort of labor was introduced principally in the town of Bathurst, N. B.

A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the holding of a labor week celebration in this city. Committee appointed being: Jos. McAulay, Frank Smith, J. L. Sussure, Dudley Campbell and John Kemp.

Delegates from the Teamsters Union were present and also entered into the discussion of the various questions which arose.

The Ship Carpenters meet this evening in the same hall to complete organization, a charter having been given this society by the International Union.

PERSONAL

Arthur Nobles, accompanied by W. J. Scott of Fredericton, were in the city yesterday.

Both men are lumber dealers and were in the city on a business trip.

Capt. R. W. Skiller, an American officer of New York, passed through the city yesterday.

J. S. Richards, New York, is at present spending a few days in the city.

The many friends of Fred Parker of Public Landing who has been undergoing treatment at the St. John County Hospital, will be glad to learn that he has sufficiently recovered to be able to return to his home and will leave for Public Landing today.

Dr. Spangler, who has been attending the National Convention of Osteopaths at Boston, is returning to St. John today.

Miss B. A. Congle has taken over the Chiropractic business of Miss L. M. Hill at the old stand, 93 Princess street. Office hours 9.20 a. m. to 6 p. m.

ENTERS MILITARY HOSPITAL. Pte. Hodson, a returned man, undergoing treatment in the Armories here, was admitted to the St. James street Military Hospital yesterday for further treatment. Pte. Hodson is a returned man since March, suffering from rheumatism, and is undergoing treatment in this institution awaiting transportation to his home in Calgary.

The main street Baptist Sunday school picnic which was to have been held today at Robbsey, will be held at Crystal Beach instead. The steamer Majestic will leave at 11 a. m. and the Hampton at 1.30 p. m.

WILL DISCONTINUE DAYLIGHT SERVICE

Public Utilities Commission Allow Sackville Electric Light Co. To Cut Out Day Service.

The Public Utilities Commission met yesterday morning to consider the applications of the Sussex Manufacturing Company for permission to increase their rates and the Eastern Electric and Development Company of Sackville for permission to discontinue its daylight service.

As the Sussex Manufacturing Company were not ready to present all their evidence the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday July 24.

In the Sackville matter the Board granted a permissive order allowing the Company to discontinue the daylight service until a further order from the Commission. One of the considerations which led to the granting of the order was the fact that by cutting out the day service between 300 and 400 tons of coal would be saved and the Board felt that this was worth while in view of the scarcity of fuel.

CASES HEARD IN POLICE COURT

Several Prisoners Were Before Magistrate Yesterday Charged With Various Offences.

Quite a number appeared in the police court yesterday to answer to various charges.

Roderick LeBreton, appeared on a vagrancy charge, as he was found wandering aimlessly on the streets.

He was remanded.

When found his shoes were in very poor condition. Policeman Winter acted good samaritan, and gave him a pair. An effort will be made to find out more concerning LeBreton.

John Hodd was reported for operating a steam boiler in the yards of the Maritime Construction Company, he not having a license. The case was stood over for further hearing on Monday.

Robert London, reported for running an engine for the same company without a license, appeared. His case was also stood over till Monday.

David Grenoff was reported by Policeman Kierstead for allowing his cattle to run at large on Main street, also on a charge of cruelty to the animals. He was fined $5, the fine standing.

Ernest Harding, reported for driving an auto over Coburg street Hill, faster than the law allows, was fined $10, the fine standing.

George Coplain, on a charge of keeping a ferocious dog, was fined $5.

Jon Dugan was charged with having a fire-pot in George Buchara's yard in Erin street; this fire-pot, necessitated the turn out of the fire department.

The case was settled.

H. A. Northrup, Clifford Creighton, and the Pacific Dairies, were charged with not having the necessary 1918 milk-licenses. All three were fined $200, the fine being allowed to stand.

Wm. F. Keane, an itinerant milk dealer of Sand Cove Road, who had been previously notified, did not appear in court yesterday. His Honor ordered notice to be forwarded to him to discontinue selling milk until the necessary license had been secured. The case to be heard again in two weeks time.

Clarence Dickson answered a charge of assaulting Wm. Trafion. Trafion's evidence showed that Dickson had knocked him down with the butt of a whip.

Dickson in his evidence, stated Trafion, who boarded with him, had been annoying his wife. Trafion threw him down stairs, telling him not to return.

The case was dismissed.

In the afternoon Frank Garson, was given a further hearing, regarding the removal of a building, without a permit.

Samuel Johnson, who had removed the building, gave evidence of receiving $75 for the work.

Policeman Gibbs, told of the house having been removed after twelve o'clock p. m.

Judgement will be given today.

THREATENED STRIKE MAY AFFECT ST. JOHN

Local Railway Men Taking Keen Interest in Negotiations Which Opened Yesterday in Montreal.

The negotiations which commenced yesterday in Montreal between the representatives of the Federated Railway Trades Brotherhood and the Canadian War Board, will be followed with interest by the many railway employees in St. John, as the decision will have Dominion wide effect.

Railway men in St. John have not as yet commented very much on the demands of the union, but are leaving the matter in the hands of officials of the brotherhood. The exact number of men, members of the union residing in St. John cannot, without reviewing the records, be ascertained, but practically all the mechanics, framers, engineers, brakemen, switchmen, yardmen and conductors, are members.

Labor officials however, are of the opinion that unless the demands of the men are granted the railway service will be tied up as far as the law allows. Railway officials on the other hand, state that it is impossible for them to grant increases without they are permitted to increase their rates, both passengers and freight.

SIX ST. JOHN FOLK LOST IN SINKING OF HOSPITAL SHIP

Nursing Sister Stammers Among Them—Two Others Reported Safe.

Official notification was received by six families in St. John yesterday that members who were on the ill-fated Llandoverly Castle when she was sent to the bottom by Hun pirates, were missing and believed to be drowned.

Two other families received the glad news that members were safe.

Those who were reported missing were—Miss Anna Stammers, daughter of Mrs. B. A. Stammers. Sister Stammers made several trips on the hospital ship. She was accompanied by her two sisters, Miss Willis, at home, and Mrs. J. S. Addy.

Kenneth Daley, an orderly whose home was at 150 Paradise Row. Pte. Daley enlisted with the 16th Field Ambulance and was later transferred to the hospital ship. He was making his last trip when she was sunk.

He is survived by his mother and two sisters at home, and three brothers, two of whom are in France and the third in England.

Albert Baker, 41 King square, enlisted with the 16th Field Ambulance, being later sent to the Llandoverly Castle. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Charles, a present in England suffering from shell shock.

Frederick Clark, 32 Erin street, an orderly on the hospital ship, was a native of England, but came to this city about four years ago. He leaves his wife and six children, five boys and one girl, all at home.

Clement George Scribner went overseas as a member of the 16th Field Ambulance and was later sent to the hospital ship for duty. He is survived by his parents, one brother, William, a member of the New Brunswick battalion, and two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Wilson, of Pine street, and Miss Ruth at home.

Edward Hickman of 2 River street, went overseas with the 16th Field Ambulance.

Those who received word of the safety of loved ones were—James Taylor, of 266 Rockland Road, who was officially notified that their grandson, S. K. Taylor, who was on the ship had arrived safely in England.

George Garnett, 699 Main street, received a letter from his son, Alfred Garnett, that he had left the ship after her last trip and was now in France.

PLANS FOR PRAYER SERVICE COMPLETED

Fourth Anniversary of Entry Into War To Be Observed By Gathering For Prayer and Supplication.

The plans for the meeting of prayer and supplication to be held on August 5, in commemoration of the fourth anniversary of the entry of the British Empire into the present struggle against tyranny and German militarism have been completed.

The gathering, which will be non-sectarian, will be held in the Imperial Theatre from two to three o'clock in the afternoon. The doors will open at one-thirty. Rev. (Capt.) G. A. Kuring of St. John church will preside and the following order of services will be carried out.

Hymn. "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Invocation. Rev. L. A. Tedford, Tabernacle Baptist Church.

Scripture Reading. Rev. J. C. B. Appel, Douglas Avenue Christian church.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY AT KENTVILLE FATAL TO ONE

Mrs. Ross Veiner Shot and Killed By Millidge Rafuse, Who Also Seriously Wounds Mrs. H. Selig and Himself.

Kentville, N. S., July 5.—A terrible tragedy, the work of a frustrated man, occurred last night at the home of Mrs. Ross Veiner. Mrs. Veiner was shot and instantly killed and Mrs. H. Selig was seriously wounded by Millidge Rafuse. After shooting the women Rafuse turned the gun on himself, inflicting serious injuries. He was still alive at a late hour tonight but the surgeons who examined his wounds expect that they will prove fatal.

There has been domestic trouble in connection with the people named and Rafuse having a violent temper, sent the law into his own hands. He is fifty years of age.

The authorities are in charge of the injured but it is possible none will remain alive to be taken into court.

W. M. FARRAR IN THE CITY. W. M. Farrar, who has been practicing law in Swift Current since being graduated from Dalhousie University, arrived in St. John last evening from Dorchester where he has been visiting his relatives. He will leave on the Empress Monday morning for Digby to visit friends.

THE WORLD'S AMAZING VISION OF SPIRIT LIFE AFTER DEATH

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle Offers What He Believes To Be Irrefutable Proof That He Has Been in Communication With the Spirit Realms.

(By Chas. Marshall)

One of the most remarkable phenomena of the war has been the tremendous world-wide revival of interest in all subjects pertaining to death and the possibility of another life beyond the grave.

So many have gone into the other world that it seems to have been brought closer.

We cannot forget them, we cannot get away from thoughts of them—those boys dead upon the battlefields of Europe.

There is not a man or woman who has not thought more about death within the last three years than in a whole lifetime before.

It is not a cold academic interest. It is vital. It is personal.

Fathers, mothers, the bereaved in many lands are looking into the beyond, where are their heroic dead, with a new, a passionate questioning. Religion affords the age-old consolation of faith that the dead shall live again, but religion has pierced the curtain into the beyond only with the eyes of faith.

Today, simultaneously from scientists of England and America, comes the amazing statement that this curtain has at last been lifted, and that living human beings are in daily communication with loved ones who have gone beyond.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, known throughout the world as the author of the Sherlock Holmes stories, and known to many as a physician and scientist of note as well, has followed the lead of a number of other investigators, and has published a book, entitled "The New Revelation," in which he sets forth his absolute conviction that he and others have been in communication with the other world, and offers what he believes to be irrefutable proofs for this belief.

At the same time Hereward Carrington, Ph. D., one of America's foremost thinkers, and a man whose works on the causes and phenomena of death have won him a distinguished place, publishes a new volume entitled "Psychical Phenomena and the War," in which he declares that in a literal sense, "Our dead soldiers yet live," and gives a host of communications which he declares have been received by bereaved parents.

Long investigation.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in the astonishing book which he has written after thirty years of scientific study, says that "the subject of life after death is one upon which I have thought more, and about which I have been slower to form my opinion, than on any other subject whatsoever."

"When I had finished my medical education in 1882," he says, "I found myself a convinced materialist. When it came to a question of my little personalities surviving death, it seemed to me that the whole analogy of nature was against it.

"This was my frame of mind when spiritual phenomena first came to my notice. I had always regarded the subject as the greatest nonsense upon earth.

"I met some friends, however, who were interested in the matter, and I sat with them at some table-moving séances. Bear in mind that this was thirty years ago. We got connected messages. But I am afraid the only result they had on my mind was that I regarded these friends with some suspicion.

"Such, then, was the initial attitude of the man who today declares that communication with the dead is an accomplished scientific fact.

"When I regarded spiritualism as a vulgar delusion of the uneducated, I could afford to look down upon it; but when it was later endorsed by men like Crookes, whom I knew to be the most rising British chemist; by Wallace, who was the rival of Darwin, immediately the table was seized by a much more robust influence, which dashed it about very violently. In answer to my questions, it claimed to be the spirit of one whom I will call Dodd, who was a famous cricketer, and with whom I had some serious conversation in Cairo before he went up the Nile, where he met his death in the Dongolien expedition. Dodd was not known to either lady. I began to ask him questions exactly as if he were seated before me, and he sent his answers back with great speed and decision. The answers were often quite opposed to what I had expected, so that I could not believe I was influencing them. He said that he was happy, that he did not wish to return to earth. He had been a free thinker, but had not suffered in the next life for that reason. Prayer, however, was a good thing, keeping us in touch with the spiritual world. If he had prayed more, he would have been higher in the spirit world.

Of All the Rotten Times For a Truant Officer To Put in His Appearance.

"When he died, he had found people to welcome him. He knew more than he did in life. Duration of life in the next sphere was shorter than on earth. He had not seen Gen. Gordon, nor any other famous spirit. Spirits lived in families and communities. Married people did not necessarily meet again, but those who loved each other did meet again."

Offering the Proofs.

After telling of coherent and intelligent messages received in other séances at which he was present, Dr. Doyle says that he asked himself at the time:

"What proof was there that these statements were true? I could see no proof, and they simply left me bewildered.

"Now with a larger experience, in which I find that the same sort of information has come to very many people independently in many lands, I think that the agreement of the witnesses does, as in all cases of evidence, constitute an argument for their truth."

In 1891, Dr. Doyle joined the Psychical Research Society, and continued more seriously what he sincerely believes to be his communication with spirits in the other world and his study of such communications alleged to have been received by others.

Summing up the result of these messages received by him and others, Dr. Doyle gives the following remarkable picture of what happens after death:

"The departed all agree that passing is usually both easy and painless and followed by an enormous reaction of peace and ease. The individual finds himself in a spirit body which is the exact counterpart of his old one, save that all disease, weakness or deformity has passed from it. This body is standing or floating beside the old body, and conscious both of it and of the surrounding people. At this moment the dead man is nearer to matter than he will ever be again.

"In most cases I imagine that the dead man is too preoccupied by his own amazing experience to have much thought for others. He soon finds to his surprise that though he endeavors to communicate with those he sees, his ethereal voice and his ethereal touch are equally unable to make any impression upon those human organs which are only attuned to coarser stimuli.

"The spirit is not a glorified angel or a goblin damned, but simply the person himself.

"Now before entering upon his new

GHOSTS—DR. JAMES DECLARES THAT THE INDIVIDUAL SPIRIT LIFE HAS BEEN PROVED

Prof. Von Schrenk-Notzing Has Demonstrated the Actuality of Ghosts—Sir Alfred Turner Says He Has Spoken With Stead's Spirit—Julia Sanderson Tells a Remarkable Story of the Dead.

Science is hard at work to determine whether it is a fact, as Spiritualists long have held and as gray tradition has indicated, that the dead return. But the question naturally arises among some thinkers: "Return from where?" for if infinity has neither beginning nor ending and a disembodied intelligence has neither dimension nor color, how can it occupy a space that is not space, and how can we see it if it possesses no quality that is visible? Some psychologists dealing with this conundrum, along with indisputable testimony as to apparitions; answer that the ghost is not beheld by the actual eye, but is the result of a mental impression which is visualized so sharply that one believes he sees the person or thing.

Dr. James Hyslop, of the American Society for Psychical Research, declares that the existence of individual spiritual life has been proved, which belief has been shared by Sir Oliver Lodge, Prof. Von Schrenk-Notzing, foreign corresponding secretary of the University of Munich, literally convulsed scientific Europe recently, when, in his erudite work, "The Phenomena of Materialization," he joined the increasing number of scientific men who have become convinced, almost against their will in some cases—namely Lombroso—that there is "something" in the "spook" manifestations of the seance room, when such are based upon honesty and good purpose.

The German investigator who admits the reality of materialization approached the subject of spiritualistic phenomena fully prepared to discover that it had its origin in some form of self-deception or in the activity of some hitherto unknown natural human faculty. But an experimental investigation of the phenomena, extending over a period of four years, carried on with the aid of a dozen photographic cameras and under all the test conditions which the rigidly skeptical scientific mind can devise, have constrained him to abandon this mental attitude and to make his public and unhesitating confession of faith.

This confession is to the effect that the phenomenon of materialization are pre-eminently a life of the mind, as this is of the body.

"Pre-occupations of food, money, lust, pain, etc., are of the body and are gone.

"Music, the arts, intellectual and spiritual knowledge and progress, have increased.

"The people are clothed, as one would expect, since there is no reason why modesty should disappear with our new forms.

"These new forms are the absolute reproduction of the old ones at their best, the young growing up, and the old reverting until all come to the normal.

"People live in communities, as one would expect, if he attracts like, and the male spirit still finds his true mate, though there is no sexuality in the grosser sense, and no childbirth.

"Since connections still endure, and those in the same state of development nations are still roughly divided from each other, though language is no longer a bar, since thought has become a medium of conversation.

"These, roughly speaking, are the lines of the life beyond in its simplest expression. All witnesses are agreed thereon.

"All agree that life beyond is for a limited period, after which they pass on to yet other phases, but apparently there is more communication between these phases than there is between us and Spiritland. The lower cannot ascend, but the higher can descend at will.

"Life there has a close analogy to that of this world, at its best. It is

ROTHESAY

SHEDIAC

Although for the most part, dubious weather prevailed, the holiday in the suburbs was enjoyed by hundreds of citizens, who anticipated the day with pleasure and who perhaps more than this year ever before, embraced the extra hours for patriotic endeavor in the potato patch. Hundreds of small boats, gallily bedecked with flags and pennants, coursed the rivers, and steamers were crowded with excursionists anxious for a day's relaxation. Suezix this year, more especially on account of the location of the military camp, attracted thousands of visitors, and during the day the residents of that thriving centre were kept busy supplying the wants of many additional guests. For the weekend the following were guests at the Cedars: Judge and Mrs. Hazen Grimmer, Mrs. George Fleming and Messrs. George Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Haycock and the Misses Helen and Joan Haycock, Mr. and Mrs. Margretts and little daughter Betty, Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, Miss Miss Brown and Miss E. Dykeman, Miss Ganong. Visitors on Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McDonald, Miss Florrie Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dykeman, Miss Dykeman, Mr. Ernest Higginson of Montreal; Mr. H. Dunn and Mr. Frank Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Percy W. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Christie as their guests motored to St. Andrews on Saturday and returned on Monday. The Misses Tapley, Mrs. Ralph Robertson and Master Daniel Robertson were visiting guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDonald, Woodman's Point; Mr. and Mrs. A. Melrose spent Dominion Day at Linsley, guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Halsey; and at Westfield Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sanction, Miss Thomas and Mr. I. O. Thomas were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Girvan.

William Pugsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pugsley, Jr., of Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Jack spent the holidays in Fredericton. At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Creighton, Quebec street, the marriage took place on Wednesday of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Creighton, to Mr. Samuel Robinson MacKillop of U. S. Ordnance Department, Washington, D. C. The Rev. J. A. MacKilgan performed the ceremony. The bride wore her traveling suit of imported beige velvet, with seal cape, and a corsage bouquet of pansies. Her hat was of black maline, and was trimmed to correspond with her costume. The wedding march was played by Mrs. R. P. Church. After the ceremony the bride and groom were entertained at a breakfast and later Mr. and Mrs. MacKillop left for Boston and other American cities on a wedding trip. They will make their home in Washington. The groom's gift to the bride was a grand piano. Among the guests at the wedding were Mrs. Walter Hodges, Brookline, Mass., mother of the groom. The best wishes for the future of the bride and groom in St. John will follow the bride, to her new home in Washington. Dr. James Christie, who has spent the winter in Boston, with his daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Bowditch, returned home on Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Bowditch and Miss McLeod. Mrs. Gordon, who has spent the winter with Mrs. Stewart Skinner, has opened the home on Crown St. where she is residing. Mrs. Roy A. Davidson and two daughters are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Davidson's sister, Mrs. H. W. Newnam, Moncton. Mrs. Percy W. Thomson, Germain street, entertained at a delightfully enjoyable luncheon on Friday, last week, in honor of Mrs. John Purdy of Chicago. The table was artistically arranged for the occasion and had in the centre a bowl of roses. Attractive floral cards marked the guests' places. Those present were Mrs. Purdy, Mrs. Maurice Forbes White, Mrs. T. Escoffier, Mrs. L. W. Barker, Mrs. James D. Seely, Mrs. H. H. Vroom, Mrs. Harold S. Schofield, Mrs. J. M. Christie, Miss Edith Hegar and Miss Edith Skinner. After luncheon, Mrs. T. E. Ryder was presented with a beautiful shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. It being the anniversary of her wedding day, Mrs. Ryder was showered with good wishes by the guests. Sapper Douglas Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Blair, Dorchester St., left on Tuesday evening for St. John's, Que., to join the Engineers. Before his departure the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Prince William street, presented him with a gold watch as a slight token of the esteem in which he is held by his associates. Sapper Blair has made several efforts to qualify in the past for overseas service, but only last week passed the required tests, and left almost immediately to join his regiment. His many friends in St. John wish him good luck and a safe return to his native city. Mrs. Thomas Gilbert entertained informally at bridge on Thursday evening last week at her apartments in the Dufferin, in honor of Mrs. Norman Guthrie of Ottawa. The guests were Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. George F. Smith, Mrs. James Jack, Mrs. L. Richmond Harrison, Mrs. D. C. Clinch, Mrs. Stewart Skinner, Mrs. Haber Vroom, Mrs. C. J. R. Kerr, and Miss Warner. Mr. James E. Whittaker, Dorchester street, on Sunday, celebrated the 88th anniversary of his birth. On Monday, Mr. Whittaker, in honor of the event made the recipient of a bouquet of 88 beautiful carnations by two gentlemen friends, formerly associated with him in business, and was also made the recipient of several other gifts of flowers from old friends. During the day Mr. Whittaker was visited by the members of a large family circle and many friends who showed him with respect and affection the continuance of his usual good health. At a recent meeting of the DeLomb's Chapter I. O. O. F., at the residence of a Garden Fete to be held on the beautiful grounds of the Burpee home on Burpee Avenue some time in August. With a realization of the success of former undertakings of this Chapter, the event will be anticipated with interest. A party of young ladies are enjoying a camping trip this week at Mr. B. Sidney Smith's lake, Sandy Point Road. Among those who make up the party are Miss Mary McLennan, Miss Dorothy Bishard, Miss Kathleen Coster, Miss Catherine McAvity and Miss L. Raymond. Mrs. Frederick R. Taylor entertained the members of the Valcartier Chapter of which she is regent at an enjoyable luncheon at her summer home at Rothsey on Wednesday. Luncheon guests of Mrs. William S. Allison at "Kingshurst," Rothsey, on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wilson and Mrs. J. Fenwick Fraser. The many friends of Captain Donald Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Skinner, Coburg street, congratulated him on the honor recently conferred upon him, the order of the British Empire, a new honor given by His Majesty the King this year. Captain Skinner has been mentioned recently in General Haig's despatches. Miss Louise Anderson entertained informally on Tuesday evening at dinner in honor of Mrs. Frederick Ayre of St. John's, Newfoundland, who returns to her home this week. The engagement is announced of Miss Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund T. Benedict of New Haven, Conn., to Mr. Axel Fleke Blake of St. John, New Brunswick. The wedding will take place July 22nd, at Shore Beach, Conn. Mrs. William Pugsley arrived home from Ottawa last Wednesday and was accompanied to Rothsey by Master

Mr. and Mrs. Braeme of St. John's Newfoundland, are spending this week in the city, guests at the Royal. Miss Grace Skinn returned on Thursday from Nassau and Montreal, where she has spent the winter. Mrs. George McLeod and Miss Ann Kingston, Ontario, via New York. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McAvity, Miss McAvity and Mrs. Clifford McAvity spent the holidays at the Algonquin, St. Andrews. Nursing Sister Christine Crawford and Miss Blanche Beattie spent the week-end at Westfield with friends. Capt. Robert Murdoch, who was a week-end guest of friends at Woodman's Point, returned to Fredericton Monday evening. Mrs. John E. Moore and Miss Louise Anderson spent the holiday at Westfield the guests of Mrs. Marion Moore and Miss Louise Holly. Mr. Douglas Hazen and Miss Althea Hazen left on Thursday afternoon by automobile for Fredericton to spend a few days. Mrs. W. J. B. Halsey who has been the guest of her sister, Miss Pauline Beard at the Prince William for three weeks, returned to her home in Hampton yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston have rented a house at Westfield for the summer months. Mrs. D. Sissette and Miss Marjorie Dissette are visiting Mrs. Lucius Allison, Peel street. Mr. C. F. Holden of Fredericton is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. J. Taylor, Princess street. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Morrill of Woodstock, spent a few days this week in the city, guests at the La Tour Apartments. Mrs. John B. Magee and Mrs. J. F. Fraser are spending this week-end with Mrs. H. H. Halsey at her summer home at Acamack. Mr. and Mrs. Rebmann of Philadelphia are visiting their son, Lieut. Paul Rebmann at the La Tour. Mrs. Swath Harrison of Savannah, Georgia, and son, Mr. Louis Harrison, are spending the summer with the Misses Merritt, Union street. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. C. Bearloto of Toronto spent Tuesday and Wednesday with Mrs. Bearloto's aunt, Mrs. J. Boyle Travers, en route to Charlottetown to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCready. Mrs. Frederick C. Jones and sons and Mrs. Charles Bowditch and sons left on Saturday last week to spend the summer months at Smith's Cove, N. S. Mr. and Mrs. George K. Barton have received word that their son, Gunner Chauncey Barton, has been admitted to hospital suffering from gas poisoning. Gunner Barton's many friends wish him a speedy recovery. Rev. W. H. Barraclough and Mrs. Barraclough are in the city, spending two weeks with friends in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Daniel have the deep sympathy of many friends in the death of their little daughter, Bettina, which occurred at Rothsey on Wednesday. The shocking news this week of the loss of a hospital ship on which was a popular young nursing sister from this city, cast a gloom over a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Miss Stammers has a splendid record in the present conflict and the news of her sudden death through the hand of the enemy brings the sadness of war nearer the hearts of her fellow citizens. For the bereaved family much sympathy is extended.

Rothsey, July 5.—The many friends of Mrs. J. R. Robertson are delighted that she was able on Wednesday afternoon to motor home with her husband from the St. John hospital, where she spent two weeks. Her hand is now healing nicely. Mrs. George Hoyt of Renfrew, left last Saturday on a two week's automobile trip. During her absence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyt are occupying their cottage. A Junior Red Cross has lately been formed here, with Miss Helen Allison as president and Miss Florence Puddington secretary-treasurer. Other members are Misses Millie Hibbard, Barbara Fairweather, Katherine Peters, Margaret Peters, Sibbie Prink, Muriel Hibbard, Audrey Allison, Kathleen Blanchet, Margaret Gray, Betty Thomson, Phyllis Barker, also Mrs. H. P. Puddington and Mrs. W. C. Robb, honorary members. These young workers on Tuesday gave to Rothsey Red Cross several pairs of socks, and face cloths and $10 in cash. Miss Marion Berry, who has recently graduated as nurse from the St. John hospital, is here guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. W. McMacKlin to remain through July. At her summer home, Fair Vale, Mrs. David and Hattie Hendon, entertained Mrs. Galloway and Miss Katherine Galloway, Mrs. Dody and Mrs. Bonnell of St. John, and five others who have done their "bit" overseas. The party motored from the city and had lunch at Westfield. The funeral of little Betty Daniel, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Daniel took place on Wednesday. There is wide spread sympathy for the bereaved parents. Mr. and Mrs. James F. Robertson and Miss Hooper left on Tuesday for their salmon fishing camp at Upland. They expect to be away ten days. Mr. and Mrs. T. McAvity Stewart of Montreal are occupying Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davidson's cottage, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson are spending the week-end at their summer home at Acamack. Last Saturday Mr. and Mrs. George McArthur crossed the bay and spent Sunday and Monday with friends in Annapolis, N. S. Some time ago Miss Annie Dobbin, Miss Marie and Hattie Hendon, Mrs. George Dobbin, Misses Beattie and Mabel Henderson and Miss Ruth Haslam of Fair Vale, started a red and white quilt for the "squares" for which were distributed among friends with the request that the white patches be filled in with the name of a soldier serving overseas. Each name represented 10 cents. On Tuesday evening a number of friends met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Halsey to finish the quilt for the drawing of which tickets had been sold, was decided, the tiny son of Mr. George Dobbin taking the lucky number, Mr. G. P. Trices. A drawing was made and the name of Mrs. J. B. McCready was drawn. Mrs. George Doan of Lowell, Mass., was won by Mr. Robert L. C. R. policeman in the St. John station. The amount raised was $81.00 which has been handed in.

Miss Bayard of St. John, arrived this week to spend the summer with Mrs. Stewart Skinner and family. Mrs. W. Malcolm Mackay was hostess at the Red Cross tea on Tuesday. Guests at the Kennedy House are Mrs. Louis Barker and daughter, Miss Phyllis Barker, Miss Isabel Jack, Miss Barbara Jacob and Mrs. Chipman, Mr. Harold Peters and Mr. Gordon Peters, St. John. In honor of the eighth birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Mrs. J. H. Henderson on Tuesday entertained a few young people from 3 to 6 o'clock. The weather was perfect and with various games a very happy afternoon was spent. Tea with the ever popular birthday cake was served on the verandah. On Monday Mr. W. W. Stewart and his three little daughters, Grace, Nora and Virginia, left for Bellefleur, Louisiana, to visit Mr. Stewart's father, Mr. Charles Stewart. Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Price have returned home to Renfrew, having enjoyed a delightful automobile trip to points along the St. John river. Mrs. C. W. McKee, Kinghurst, had as a guest Mrs. George McAvity, of Hampton, who returned home on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. McQuade and family of St. John, have returned to their summer home at Fair Vale. At the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Barry, Rothsey Park, on Tuesday, about twenty members of the Loyalty Chapter, I. O. O. F., Mrs. F. R. Taylor is the Regent, met and held their July business meeting. They were entertained at luncheon by the Rothsey members, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Mabel Henderson, Mrs. Lou Robinson, Miss Edith Cudlip and Miss Irene McArthur. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Richards of Renfrew, returned home on Saturday from Fredericton, motoring both ways. Mrs. Jean Dearborn of St. John, was guest of Miss Catherine Branscomb at Renfrew, over the last week-end. The energetic lady workers of Quispamsis, who have adopted a program of war and are regularly hearing from him in regard to receipt of parcels, have just added to their fund, $27 raised by the sale of tickets for a eight week's old pig, donated by a friend. The owner was Mr. David Magee. The soldier prisoner's name is Charles Gregory, who is very grateful for the kindness shown him. From Saturday till Tuesday, Mrs. J. M. Robertson of St. John, was guest of Mrs. David and Mrs. L. V. Price and daughter are occupying Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brock's home. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Nobles of Renfrew, have gone to Bellefleur, Point, to spend a few days. On Wednesday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock a "market stall" was held in connection with the Red Cross Society. Mr. and Mrs. Leachler of Boston, are at Riverside, visiting their daughter, Mrs. E. W. Henry. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fowler of Riverside, motored to Woodstock and spent Sunday and Monday.

Shediac, July 4.—The annual High School closings have become an event of interest and pleasure and the large and appreciative audience which recently assembled in the Central School, Sackville street, were delighted with the entertainment afforded them. The assembly room with its patriotic decoration and arrangement of wild flowers, adorning the stage and other parts, made the hall very attractive. Owing to war conditions the pupils of the advanced grades had left school to engage in different occupations, but the younger pupils ready for a varied program of musical selections and recitations and presented a charming flag drill in which eight little girls took part. Mrs. H. B. Stevens was chairman and Miss Cunningham presided at the piano. All the numbers on the programme were exceptionally well rendered and rounds of applause came from the audience. An interesting feature of the programme was the address given by Mr. F. B. Meagher of Fredericton, supervisor of the S. O. S. Movement for N. B. At the close of Mr. Meagher's remarks the S. O. S. boys were invited to the platform to express their appreciation for the programme given. Addresses were made by Rev. Dr. Weddall, Mr. F. J. Robb, Mr. Senator Pollock, Mr. Jas. McQueen and Dr. A. Sorhanay. The speakers were all complimentary to teachers and scholars for excellent work done. In the recent grading examination papers the results showed that the highest marks for the High School entrance were made by Fred Glasby of Shediac Cape and a close second was Miss Anne MacKillop of Renfrew. The entertainment closed with the National Anthem. The Red Cross met as usual Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance. Shediac, July 4.—The annual High School closings have become an event of interest and pleasure and the large and appreciative audience which recently assembled in the Central School, Sackville street, were delighted with the entertainment afforded them. The assembly room with its patriotic decoration and arrangement of wild flowers, adorning the stage and other parts, made the hall very attractive. Owing to war conditions the pupils of the advanced grades had left school to engage in different occupations, but the younger pupils ready for a varied program of musical selections and recitations and presented a charming flag drill in which eight little girls took part. THE DANGER OF THIN BLOOD If Not Corrected in its Early Stages Consumption May Follow. In no disease is delay or neglect more dangerous than anaemia, a poverty of the blood. It is very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its approach in a stealthy manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized. But taken in time there is a specific, a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had unbounded success in the treatment of this stubborn disease because of this wonderful property. The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical science. Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton, N. B., says—"I was as weak as it was possible for any one to be, any yet able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the Pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls, and I shall always warmly recommend them." These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockton, Mass.

ST. STEPHEN

St. Stephen, July 5.—The graduation exercises of the St. Stephen High School held in the Bldg on Friday afternoon last were well attended and unusually enjoyable. The entire march was played by Mrs. Geo. Daniel of Calais, Me., and was very artistic. Miss Marietta Lambman read a beautiful essay on the Red Cross, and Mrs. Old Class read a splendid essay on "The Spring Drive." The Class Play was delivered by Elmer Willey, Miss Annie Vall gave the valedictory in an unusually splendid manner, while Jack Dinmore delivered the "Class Last Will and Testament." Judge N. Marks Mills acted as Chairman of the occasion and Ven. Archdeacon Newnam opened the exercises with prayer. Judge M. N. Cookburn gave a splendid address to the Graduating Class, and at the close of the exercises offered a prize of $10.00 in gold to the member of the class making the highest average on the matriculation exams. He also made the same offer to the under-graduate class. Mr. Jas. Vroom read a letter to the class from Mr. A. L. Gilbert, who was the principal of the school and did splendid work with them up to April, when he resigned and enlisted in the service of his country. Judge Mills presented several prizes to members of the graduating class, and also to the under-graduates. He then presented the diplomas to the graduates after which the Class Ode which was written and composed by Mrs. Geo. Daniel was sung. The class colors were gold and black, and the stage was prettily decorated with butterflies and daisies and ferns and black eyed susans. Miss George Nesbitt delighted the audience with a soprano solo, in fact with two, one of which was composed by Mrs. Geo. Daniel, who accompanied her. Mrs. Marion also rendered two very delightful violin solos. The exercises closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Not a Corn or Callus on Feet

A noted Chemist has thoroughly discovered a remedy for corns and calluses. It is free from any harsh or irritating ingredients and is now available in bottles for a few cents from any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of this cream upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off with fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezons or afterwards, and the skin's even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses, just shrivel up and lift off so easy, it is wonderful! It works like a charm!

Women should keep freezons on their dressers and never let a corn ache twice.

Miss Winifred Upham, Miss H. Willott, St. John.

Homeopathic Costumes

A nervous old hostess entered a costume's aid: "I want a little help in the way of a suggestion. I am going to the French student's masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I can be quite sure no one else will wear. What can you suggest?"

The customer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on his gleaming bald and shining head.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said thoughtfully. "Why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

IN OUR SCHOOL

BY PAUL WEST.

The number of real school days now is a whole barrel of crackers.

It don't seem much but to us it is plenty.

Fatty in Disgrace.

Fatty Bellows is in disgrace & his further says he don't get another cent to spend for anything till he makes up the price of a whole barrel of crackers he cost him yesterday.

Fatty was sent down to Henney Hood's for something & the store was pretty busy, so while he was waiting he smoked up to the end of the counter where the cracker barrel was & dived down into it. He dived too far & lost his balance & got head first in the barrel, with his feet kicking. He tried to get out before Henney heard him, but they was nails in the barrel & they caught on his coat & the next thing he knew he had tipped the barrel over & was rolling all over the floor of the store shedding cracks & so-4th.

Lots of ladies hollered & thought it was some kind of an animal or something. Then Henney come round & got Fatty out of the barrel, pretty near choked with cracker dust & all the crackers busted all to crumbs. He sent him home kiting & Fatty told his father an accident had happened to him, so Mister Bellows went back down to Henney's to see about it. When he got back to the house he found that an accident had just happened when he took him out to the barn in a minute, he having to pay for the anything.

Will Be Pleasant.

Miss Palmer announced that examinations will begin next week, she going to try a new plan this year, & instead of having a week all full of them, have just about one every other day or something like that, to let us down easy. We think it is very nice of Miss Palmer, she saying she will wait till Monday & then talk to us a little & decide which one we would like to start with first. Bol Haynes says you don't need to wait till Monday to ask him, as he can tell now that the ones he would rather not have first are reading, riting, spelling, gograty, rith-mick & history. Mando Muldoney heard him & said, "But that wouldn't leave any as we don't have any other lessons only those." Bol said didn't he know that?

Notes.

Phil Wigglesworth was hanging round the fence around the ammunition factory this afternoon & set one of the soldiers if they wasn't some way a little feller like him could get a job in there. The soldier told Phil if he would let his hair grow he was just about the size they needed to clean out their new cannons with if he would mind being tied to the end of a pole & shoved through the cannon head first. Phil said he would like it so he is going to put something on his hair to make it grow quick if he can find anything.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

BUSTER BEAR HURTS HIS FOOT.

No one enjoys the spring more than does Buster Bear. Buster is a little bit in doubt just what season of the year he likes best. He knows which one he doesn't like, and this is winter. He doesn't like winter at all, and so he sleeps through most of it. Sometimes he would like to sleep longer than he does. Once in a while he wakes up before winter has fairly gone and then can't go to sleep again. When this happens Buster is quite sure that there is no part of the year quite so beautiful as spring. You see not until spring has really come can Buster find enough food to eat.

But when the summer comes with its blueberries and raspberries, Buster is sometimes inclined to think that this is the best season of all the year. He knows it would be if his big black fur coat were not so warm. Then when fall comes with its beech nuts and acorns and the honey busy bee has stored up all summer, and the air is just cool enough for comfort Buster knows that this is the best season of the year.

This particular spring Buster awoke rather early. He grumbled a good deal in that deep rumbling voice of his, because he couldn't go to sleep again, and keeping awake meant a lot of tramping about in search of enough to keep him from feeling half starved most of the time. So Buster wasn't as good-natured as he usually is. You know as a rule Buster is a very good-natured fellow indeed. He never is cross or ugly unless he has good reason to be or thinks he has. He felt that in being hungry he had good reason to be cross, and he was cross. It seemed to him that never in all his memory had it been so difficult to find the roots on which he must live at this season of the year.

One day he shuffled down the Lone Little Path, grumbling to himself because there was nobody else to grumble to, he felt a sudden sharp pain in one of his paws. At first he thought he had stepped on a briar. With a growl of disgust he sat down and turned his paw over to look at it. It wasn't a briar that he saw there. No, it was one of the little spears of Prickly Porky the Porcupine. It had fallen from Prickly Porky's coat as he had

With a Growl of Disgust He Sat Down and Turned His Paw Over to Look at It.

Some along that way, and somehow Buster had stepped on it just right to drive the point through the skin of his foot. Now Buster Bear knows all about the little spears of Prickly Porky. It is because of these little spears that Buster, like all the other people of the Green Forest, has a most wholesome respect for Prickly Porky. He knows that once one of those little spears has entered the flesh it is very hard to get it out again, and it keeps right on working in deeper and deeper. So now when Buster saw what it was that made that sharp little pain in his foot he quite lost his temper. "That stupid Prickly Porky is altogether too careless in all his miserable little spears!" growled Buster. "If he is going to drop them around this way, he ought not to be allowed to live in the Green Forest. I'd like to know how I'm going to get this pesky thing out. It's got to be done or I'll have a sore foot for goodness knows how long."

OUR SHORT STORY

"It's a Grand Life."

After thinking it over and reading all the pamphlets sent out by the food administration, and then thinking it over once more, young Mrs. Spindrow Jellybeans decided that thereafter she would go to the butcher shop in person every day and select her own meat, thus assuring herself against unnecessary waste. So, with her swagger new market basket, that she had knitted herself, she went around to Schmutt's meatery. "Good morning, Mr. Schmutt," she radiated. "I'm going to do my marketing personally, after this. There's to be no more waste in my house, absolutely none. I think I'll have a nice steak today—suppose you cut me some off of that piece, there? Oh, is that lamb? Well, well."

"CAP" STUBBS.

"YOUR ANCESTORS WUZ ALL GREAT FIGHTERS 'CAP' ON MY SIDE OF TH' FAMILY!"

Seven pounds.

"But oh, look at all the fat on it!" objected Mrs. Jellybeans, shaking her finger at him mischievously. "It's sheer waste to pay for fat, you know." "Sure, I'll cut it off for you," said the butcher with a butchery smile. "Shall I chop the bone out, too?" "Oh, how sweet of you to think of it and help me out so generously in my thrift plan!" she cried. "Notta tall," said Schmutt. And he cut off the fat and chopped out the bone, remarking "Seven pounds for a quarter." "Then I might as well take two pounds—every penny counts nowadays," sparkled Mrs. Jellybeans. And she tripped gaily out with her purchases.

"It's a grand life."

"It's a grand life," mused Schmutt the butcher, idly scratching his chin with a two pound roll of hundred roll bills.

PREPARING TO CRUSH THE NEXT OFFENSIVE

Special Cable to New York Tribune and St. John Standard. (By Hilaire Belloc.)

Author of "Elements of the Great War" and Britain's Most Distinguished Military Critic.

The lull through which the main operations on the Western front are now passing is an indication of the weight of the blow which the enemy received when General Marghin counter-attacked on the Matz on June 11. The enemy did not immediately break off the battle, as perhaps he logically should have done. His losses were consequently all the heavier, but by the 16th he could do no more than stop about three weeks, therefore, have passed since the last German offensive was brought to a halt on the Matz. The delay has puzzled people a good deal, for it is obvious that the enemy not only has worked quickly, but that he had planned from the beginning of the year to work quickly. It is important to understand why these halts (every one of which is to our advantage in proportion to its length on account of the rapidly increasing American reinforcement) are imposed upon the enemy and how they in some measure are the tests of the success of the defensive.

Two Sources Left For Recruitment.

Now losses of this kind must be replaced and the only two sources from which they can be replaced by Germany are from lands that incorporated with the army and from hospital returns. Further the internal organization of the units employed is certainly disturbed by such losses, and thorough reorganization is required. In proportion, therefore, to the severity of the loss after each attack must be the delay required to fill the gaps, for the hospitals return demand time and so does the incorporation into the units of the younger recruitment. Apart from this there is a second point of special and intensive training. The divisions chosen for delivering the shock have both received novel and intensive instructions, and they have to be withdrawn to be placed where they can get the instruction unmolested and with ample room for movement. They have to acquire careful coordination of many separate elements; they have to be trained for great rapidity of movement and for acting together with the utmost precision. All this has to be done, as I have said, well behind the lines and under conditions where the men cannot be molested. That is the second way in which delay is imposed after each great effort with its toll of men.

Losses in New Tactics Four Times as Great.

But there are necessary conditions attaching to the new tactics which are productive of these long pauses between each of its blows and which are, therefore, a handicap to its final success. The first of these conditions is a very high expense in men and the second is the necessity for special intensive training of the troops to be used. In the use of this method the enemy is compelled to budget for a very high loss of men in a very short time, because, though he may cut his losses after breaking the line, he is nearly always compelled in delivering his first blow to a normal rate of expenditure, which is far beyond anything hitherto known even in this war. In one case fortune favored him so that he broke the line cheaply—this was the attack of May 27 between Solons and Rheims. But in every other case he has had to pay as the price of his success in a week or ten days as he was paid during a period of four or five times as long under the older method of attack. As proof of this witness his

JIMMY COON STORIES

By DR. WARREN G. PARTRIDGE.

JIMMY COON ALMOST SHOT.

Jimmy Coon had a corking time, up in that big oak tree, watching the soldiers fire their Springfield rifles at the target on their rifle range, in the Old Pasture. But at least several of the soldiers failed to "pot" the tiny bulletpop on the target, and the major blurted out, "What's the matter with you chaps, today, that you can't shoot as straight as usual?"

And one soldier spoke up, "Major, look up in that oak tree! Do you see that Coon watching us every moment? That is the trouble with the boys' shooting!" And the Major, as usual, was astonished to see Jimmy Coon sitting on a branch of that Oak Well. It was enough to make a d. laugh to see Jimmy Coon watch that rifle practice. Why, he was grinning from ear to ear; and, from that distance he looked as if he wore black goggles on his eyes. It made the soldiers laugh, and you know that when soldiers laugh at rifle practice, on the rifle range, they cannot shoot as straight.

So Jimmy Coon was really hindering United States Soldiers! And, therefore, he was an Alien Enemy of the United States Government! And one soldier blurted out, "Major, kill that little Spy!" and that soldier brought his Springfield rifle to his shoulder, and had his finger on the trigger. But he was called to order, and I cannot understand why any one should waste his energies in a vain effort of this sort. My readers will remember that before the great attack of May 21 I summarized for them various sectors upon which the expected great offensive might be delivered, analyzing the advantages and disadvantages of each and pointing out that the most favorable one for the enemy was the region in front of Cambrai and St. Quentin. In point of fact the attack took place there. This was no case of phobsey; it was merely that the balance of conditions was presented for the reader himself to judge.

We are in the same situation today. We know in general the lines of things and can show what advantages and disadvantages there are on either side, but cannot pretend to prophesy without open and confessed folly. The general situation is that the enemy has the initiative through his own greatly superior numbers; he can strike where he will until that advantage is lost to him, until the rapid growth of the American recruitment. He cannot strike when he will, because we have seen each check compels him to pause, and in proportion to the severity of the check is the length of that pause. Were he free of this disability he would have made the battle continuous. His successive losses after each partial failure have rendered his continued action impossible.

He has, roughly speaking, six months in which to win or lose, throughout that period the handicap in his favor will get less and less. The first and most favorable half of that period has already been consumed. He must now finally break the line and get upon a new Allied flank in the remaining three months or expect defeat. The opportunity he now possesses resides principally in the fact that he has already gravely limited the power of the Allies to manuvre. Any considerable retirement in the northern sector will imperil the ports through which the British army is supplied. Any considerable retirement in the southern sector will imperil Paris, with all the political consequences involved.

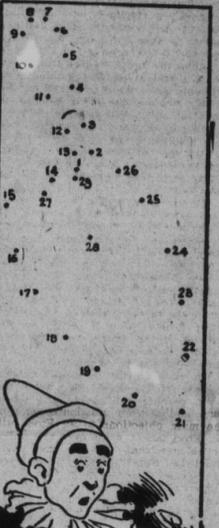

Many publicists suggest that the attack will come in the north. They have no evidence upon which to go and I do not propose to follow them. All we can say is that the enemy has three main possibilities before him—the northern, central and southern avenues of attack. But he has exhausted about half of the total margin of men in sight for him between March and September, and if he tries anything less than a complete breaking of the line it will prove that he has been reduced more than we thought, or that the original failure of his plan to separate the French and English armies on March 22 led him to dissipate his campaign and trust to the several blows which may prove the more successful.

The minor actions which alone distinguish the last week in June—British and the other French—are not things to exaggerate in view of the tremendous struggle which the enemy will renew at the earliest possible moment; that is, after he has fully recruited, reorganized and recovered from the heavy check which he suffered rather less than three weeks ago on the Matz. But they are interesting from several points of view. In the first place they show the similarity of design which springs from the present united command, although they took place on sectors a hundred miles apart. Both the actions of the British in the north and the French in the south were undertaken with clear the approaches to forest obstacles. Both were upon much the same scale; both were the same complete local success, based in each case upon surprise, and in both cases the local cause of the attack probably was the discovery that the enemy was preparing to use the sector in question for further attack on his own part.

The British action was undertaken in front of Hazebeek Junction, at the northeastern corner of the Nieppe, which covers that important point. It was delivered on a front of about 5,000 yards, held by two divisions—the 32nd Reserve. I think, upon the right, and the 43 Reserve, which is a Prussian division, upon the left. The attack was delivered early Friday morning and completely defeated the force opposed to it, occupying to the depth of a mile all points that the enemy had established. It had the advantage of surprise and was effected with comparatively small loss, and though the number of prisoners taken was not large in proportion to the sector attacked, the losses inflicted were heavy and, what is of more importance, there was evidence that high disorganization of the enemy forces had been caused. Just over 400 prisoners, two field guns and numerous machine guns were taken, and it is estimated that about 2,000 of the enemy were put out of action in addition to the prisoners.

To the north of the main sector attacked Australians supported the movement on the flank, the main action being for the most part the work of British country troops. The enemy had not constructed any regular trench system, but had only linked up crater holes and he also depended further back upon strong points organized in the ruins of farmsteads.

into the open country which lies west of the forest and between it and the Forest of Compiègne, and this would have begun to turn the great obstacle which the Forest of Villers-Cotterets presents. He so far succeeded that he pushed the French back beyond the ravine of which I have spoken, and apparently he was preparing another stroke in this region when the French surprise attack of Friday, June 28, was delivered at the same hour as the British effort in the north.

We have not yet been given any details as to the numbers and description of the German troops on this front of over six thousand yards, but we may presume that, as in the British case, some two or three divisions were engaged. The number of prisoners taken was large—1,200 in all. This was in part due to the conformation of the ground, where there are large quarries, some of them underground, in which men were trapped by the rapidity of the French advance, which had the advantage of effecting a complete surprise in spite of the heavy but short artillery preparation, to which the German dispatch corresponding to the French official communique alludes.

The belt of strong points seized by the French covered, as in the case of the English attack, about a mile or a little more.

VACCINATION

Vaccination is a painful remedy for some disease that is four jumps removed from the county line. Every once in a while the low, rumbling accents of an approaching epidemic can be heard in the distance, when it becomes necessary to puncture the entire community in the left arm and drive the germs in another direction. The germ has never been discovered that can attack a vaccinated citizen immediately after the vaccine has secured a firm hold and live to tell the tale.

Vaccination is caused by poisoning the patient with a penknife and six drops of high-priced lymph. By the proper use of these articles a very perceptible limp can be imparted to the patient, especially when he attempts to lift his left arm above his head. Some people are so constituted that they cannot be vaccinated without swelling up in a threatening manner, so that when slapped on the arm by a cordial friend a sense of deep annoyance sets in. Nothing will try the Christian fortitude. Every patient member more than to be vaccinated in the left shoulder-blade, and then have four or five life-long friends send the spot in a warm, clinging school.

is dismissed and the children are allowed to be vaccinated in order to sweeten their vacation hours. Vaccination is said to "take" when it takes four strong men to hold the victim in bed the second day after.

The old defenders of vaccination in this country are the doctors, who were the first to recognize its benefits. Why is it that the average doctor is perfectly willing to vaccinate everybody on the town plat and yet prefers to keep his own arm in an unblemished and shapely condition? If every patient would require his family physician to be vaccinated first, there would be fewer people going around with arms like a captive balloon.

When slapped on the arm by a cordial friend a sense of deep annoyance sets in.

AMAZING DETECTIVE MYSTERY.

On January 18, 1905, a package was sent from the treasury department in Washington to the Citizens' National Bank, New Castle, Pa.

It never reached its destination. The package contained $650, and its strange disappearance naturally created a sensation. It was carefully tied and sealed with the official seal of the treasury department. Secret Service men put on the case made a careful investigation, tracing the package from the time it left the department until it reached New Castle. It was one of those queer cases where it seemed impossible to lay the blame at any particular door. The officials in Washington soon demonstrated that they were not at fault. They had receipts to prove that the package had been delivered by them to authorized messengers of the express company.

Finally the paper in which the money was wrapped was found, and it contained part of the way seal that had been used in closing the package. The detective who found the seal made what he considered an important discovery. It was a thumb print on the wax. As a consequence, every man who had handled the package in the course of its journey from Washington to New Castle was compelled to submit his thumb print to the authorities. It was in the early days of finger print system and very few persons took the experiment seriously. Indeed, for a while it looked as if nothing would come of the test. The thumb prints that had been submitted had been carefully examined and none of them corresponded with that on the seal.

Henry Grove, one of the employees of the express company, happened to be out of the city when the thumb prints were obtained. When he returned, and was told what had taken place, he cheerfully gave an impression of his thumb. He had been with the company for many years and was held in high esteem. So great was the consternation of the officials when it was discovered that his thumb print corresponded precisely with that on the seal. It seemed inconceivable that such a man could be involved in a theft. He was active in church and social circles in his home town, and was regarded as altogether a model employe. Nevertheless, the evidence against him was most convincing, even if not conclusive. The argument was made that he might have handled the package without necessarily being the person who had stolen the money. Indeed, it was maintained that he had to handle the package and that the thumb print could not be accepted as legal evidence of the theft. Yet all conceded that it was the clew that might lead to the discovery of the thief.

So Henry Grove was shadowed and his every move noted. An investigation was made into his life, and he was engaged to an estimable young

A brother was praising Charles M. Schwab's conduct of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

"Schwab runs that plant well because he's in absolute control of it," the broker said. He chuckled and went on.

"A big minority stockholder tried to get away with Schwab one day—actually tried to boss the show."

"Schwab just looked at the man in that cool way of his. Then he said: 'I may as well tell you first as last, my friend, that there are only three men who have any say in this company—only three men.'

"Humph! Who are they?" growled the stockholder.

Bayard Veiller, author of "The Thirteenth Chair," was asked at a dinner if he really believed in ghosts, apokas, and kindred supernatural manifestations.

"Sure thing," he said. "I know of a case that really happened. Down in Richmond there was a haunted house and once a year at midnight on the anniversary of a murder the ghost of the dead man used to come back and moan and rattle chains and make himself generally annoying to anybody who happened to be living in the house. Two families tried it and moved out."

"The story got around, and the owner couldn't rent the place on any terms. He pooh-poohed the idea of a ghost and declared it was superstitious on the part of the former tenants and neighbors who had told of hearing chains rattle and seeing blue lights. Somebody suggested that he stay in the house all night on the anniversary of the time."

"He wasn't keen about that, but he had a Negro handy man who boasted he wasn't afraid of anything, not even ghosts, and he told the Negro he'd give him $50 if he'd stay in the house on the fatal night. The Negro accepted the offer. He got a cot, some food, and a deck of cards, and played solitaire in the light of a candle till 10 o'clock, then went to bed."

"At midnight he awoke and found a ghost sitting on the edge of the cot talking in sepulchral tones. Jasper jumped out of bed and through a window. He ran for miles. Then

WORK OR STARVE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," Etc. (Copyright, 1918, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Work or starve. This is one of the inexorable laws of nature. No one need hope to evade it.

To be sure, many do seem to evade it. Having earned or inherited wealth, they stop working, and seemingly get along well enough.

Others, though not wealthy, decline to work and live on the bounty of charitable relatives or friends. They may be well fed as the rich, but certainly they would not describe themselves as starving.

Yet, in the case of both the rich non-worker and the poor non-worker, Nature soon or late exacts her penalty. "Bear in mind, if you please, that nutrition is not simply a matter of eating a certain amount of food every day. The food eaten has to be digested. Waste products contained in it have to be eliminated. Its heat-producing, energy-producing, and tissue-building components have to be utilized or they will clog the whole organism."

Now, Nature has so designed things that when a man habitually avoids work some one or all of these health-maintaining processes are disturbed.

Partial compensation, it is true, may be gained through energetic play. But the man disinclined to work is usually also disinclined to energetic play.

And, in any event, he cannot obtain through habitual play the mental contentment which comes with regular, systematic work.

That is how Nature circumvents those who would, day in and day out, substitute play for work.

Disatisfaction gradually takes possession of their minds. Consciously or subconsciously they appreciate that they are not doing the right thing, and they become restless, uneasy, unhappy. Then they begin to starve as surely as though they failed to eat food sufficient for the body's needs.

As a result of physical inactivity they may put on flesh. They may indeed seem to be plump and well nourished.

But their nervous systems are not being fed as they ought to be. Their stomachs, kidneys, livers, reacting to the unfavorable mental state, are not doing their work properly. Lack of nutrition is a constant fact

TALKING IT OVER

KITCHEN-STOVE WOMEN.

Why do some women go through life with their souls hatched to the kitchen stove? Is it impossible for them to detach their minds from the daily round long enough to give at least a patient hearing to a Shakespearean production?

One of the type spoiled a perfectly good performance of Macbeth for me the other night. Surely it isn't necessary to discuss a husband's dislikes for clothes, or one's preference for an electric cooker, during the murder scene in Macbeth!

Why should a woman pay a dollar and a half for a seat in a theatre if her mind is on the kitchen stove and the four cases of pearls she put down without clothes in the theatre?

Isn't that kitchen-stove women are better housekeepers than anyone else. They are not! The best housekeeper that I know is a clever sculptor and her pet hobby is Greek mythology. She could never become a kitchen-stove woman. Her house-keeping is efficient, but it will never swamp her individually. She remarked with a twinkle in her eyes as she drew on her working gloves one day: "I put gloves on my mind also. House work will destroy that more quickly than the hands, if one is not careful. When I find myself dwelling dangerously on the merits and demerits of my stove, I pay a visit to the public art gallery."

THE MOTHER WHO GAVE HER SIX SONS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Recently I stood upon the sidelines and watched the dramatic figure of a Mother riding down Fifth Avenue, New York City.

And as far as I could see, this Mother was waving proudly to the thousands of watchers who cheered as she passed. I still see her white handkerchief moving up and down, up and down.

This Mother had given six sons to the service of her country.

And as I stood and watched her in her proud sacrifice, I thought of that other incident that Abraham Lincoln immortalized by his letter to the Mother who had given her five sons to the country that had first nourished her. I saw what President Lincoln must have felt Experts Discuss 1918 Golf Guide Which Even Old Players Can Read With Interest and Profit— Interpretations of Interesting Points.

Realizing the frequent disputes that naturally and honestly arise over the interpretation of the rules of play, Spalding's Golf Guide for 1918 gives interpretations of the different rules in numerical order, originally presented by A. H. Gilbert, Secretary of the Massachusetts Golf Association, and revised by Captain J. A. Scott of Boston. These interpretations should be very edifying to new and even to experienced golfers, for they call attention to points too often overlooked.

In discussing the time to drive, these interpretations say: "It is customary to let the player of the party ahead play their second shot, no matter if their drives are far beyond the possibility of their driving."

A too slight observance of this custom would lead to slow down play on a crowded day. It often happens that a pair of poor players follow the stars of the course, who regularly outdrive those behind by from forty to sixty yards. To hold back all these high lights play their second shots would be to delay the movement of the line, and might be considered as arguing too high an appreciation of one's ability. In the case of women playing, it is generally safe to allow them to play even before the good men players ahead take their second, as the men will be anywhere from eighty to 100 yards beyond where the women can drive.

It will profit many an experienced golfer to read these interpretations with care, for they will freshen up one's knowledge of the rules on points which a player may not have had occasion to deal with for several years, but which may arise at any moment in play.

Must Drop, Not Toss, Ball. Take, for example, the simple rule of dropping a ball which comes up so often in play. How many players know that the ball must be dropped, not tossed, over the shoulder? Is it not a common sight on any course to see players raise their hand to the top of the shoulder and give the ball a flick or toss over the shoulder instead of placing the hand far enough over the shoulder to permit the ball to be dropped clear of the body?

This mistake is the result of pure laziness more than anything else, with the exception, perhaps, of the feeling that it is a little beneath one's dignity to spend much time or devote much care to so simple a thing as dropping a ball. It is in watching great players like Travers and Outmet that one comes to understand the necessity of being right in little things. In this respect there is a great value in galleries at big matches, such as the recent Red Cross four-ball at Sivanoy.

The penalty for not dropping the ball properly is the loss of the hole in match play and two strokes in medal play. Yet how seldom does a player "call" his opponent for not having dropped properly, even if the ball was actually pitched over the shoulder. It is in thus overlooking rule violations rather than run the risk of getting the name of a kicker or a stickler that rules fail to be respected and the game to that extent is injured.

Under the heading of "Whose Turn to Play" the interpretations say something that is not often considered and has been overlooked even by the rules of the golf committee of St. Andrews, Scotland, as shown in its book of decisions on contested points submitted to it for judgment. The writer in Spalding's Guide says: "You should, before playing, find out where your opponent's ball is, for the only where the ball is farther from the hole must play first."

Opposed to St. Andrew's Decision. This view negates the correctness of the decision of the St. Andrew's body in the case of a golfer who plays into a bunker and in playing out before his opponent's ball was looked for, struck the sand with his club. Later it was learned that the opponent's ball could not be found. The committee ruled that the player who touched the sand in the hazard had lost the hole.

Now, if the player in the bunker had taken advantage of the privilege mentioned in the Guide he would not have played till he had ascertained where his opponent's ball was. When that ball could not be found, he would not have had to play out of the bunker at all, but could have claimed the hole on a lost ball. The decision of the committee was wrong in that it awarded the hole to a player who did not have a ball to play, something opposed to every consideration of fair play in sport.

Another often ignored or not understood rule has to do with lifting in match play and medal play. The interpretations say: "It may be that the ball is in such trouble as to be absolutely unplayable (as when lying in a crevice between two rocks). In such a case the player may be played where it lies or the hole given up. There is no option in this matter. Can Lift Any Time in Stroke Play. In medal play, however, the ball may be lifted with a penalty of two strokes. The ball does not have to be in an unplayable position to justify this lifting, for it is pointed out that "while this privilege of lifting is usually exercised only if the ball is unplayable, it is allowed at any time during a round and sometimes is taken advantage of by cautious players when in difficult positions in sand traps."

Many players get mixed on the count in such cases, but they will not if they listen to the explanation given in the Guide: "If the ball be played into an unplayable position in medal play, you desire to lift under penalty of two strokes, you should count as follows: If it is the drive, then you tee the ball and play 4, counting the drive as stroke 1, the penalty as 2 and 3, thus making the next stroke 4."

If Spalding will make these interpretations a feature of each year's Guide, keeping them up to date, in harmony with the latest decisions, a positive benefit will accrue to the game, not only in educating the newcomers, but also in enlightening those older players who are too lazy to work out the meaning or application of rules for themselves.

The Fulton and Dempsey bout is rapidly developing into a landmark. The dates seem set against this preliminary in a ring engagement as they were in the case of Messrs. Willard and Fulton.

Word comes from Baltimore saying that the barriers will probably be set up against this very interesting bout in that city. The board of police commissioners at a meeting in that city announced that except for the boxing contests for which permits have been granted, no more will be allowed during the period of the war. This will be a blow to the men who had hoped to promote the bout between Fulton and Dempsey on July 13. In effect, this order will stop all preparations. Strange to say, the board had already issued a permit for the bout for July 4, but owing to the inability of the promoters to secure the ball park for their festive extravaganza they decided to postpone the affair until July 13. As it develops, they postponed it just outside the money. There may be a chance that the Baltimore officials will have a change of heart, but the promoters were anything but jubilant when they were informed of the board's resolve when they applied for the second permit.

KNIGHTS OF THE MAT RING MAKE SUCCESSFUL BOXERS

Many Well Known Wrestlers Have Tried and Failed—Jack Dempsey One of the Few To Make Good—"Doc" Roller Had Aspirations.

As the chapters of Jack Dempsey's life appear it becomes evident that he was at one time a knight of the mat before taking up a career that bids fair to land him at the top of the heavy-weight division.

Dempsey is one of the few who started on the mat and became a success of boxing. Many of the best known wrestlers have tried their hands at the game and failed.

The reason for this has never been explained, but Jack Curley, who has had years of experience with both ends, gives a good explanation: "Wrestling requires a man to station himself as squarely and firmly on his feet as possible, so when a wrestler attempts to box he simply can't get out of his own way," says Curley. "Then, too, big, bulging muscles are not necessary to good fighters. Grapplers have proved themselves unusually game, are quick thinkers and strong, but few, if any, make good at the boxing game."

In signing up the wrestlers of today—all big men—one would think them able to hold their own with the Dempseys, Putnams and Willards, but a careful review of those who have tried, proves conclusively that such is not the case. Take Frank Gotch, now dead, for instance. The Humboldt giant was looked on as the greatest wrestler of all time. When Jeffries won the championship Gotch entertained high hopes of stepping into his shoes some day. He even went so far as to challenge Jack Johnson at one time.

His pugilistic dreams were shattered by old Frank Linn in Dawson City. The veteran knocked the pugilistic idea out of Gotch's head in a few rounds. Wanted To Be Boxers. Walek Zbyzsko, the Polish wrestler, and a magnificent specimen of muscles and bone, engaged Bobby Debb, the veteran colored boxer, to teach him the fine points of the game. He even asked Curley to match him with Carl Morris, a member of Curley's stable, but it was refused him. Morris, never much of a fighter, Curley figured, knew enough to settle Zbyzsko's aspirations, so never agreed to the matching of the two. Charley Cutler indulged in several ring battles. He toured the country with John L. Sullivan at one time and scored knockouts over some young heavyweights. This puffed him all up and he decided to step against some of the big guns, with the result that Jack Johnson and Jim Barry sent him kicking in a few rounds. That ended his ring career.

Ivan Linnov, who toured the country as "Terrible Cosack," many years ago, under the management of Harry Forbes, one time bantamweight champion of the world, boxed Jess Willard before the latter became champion and was carried from the ring in the fourth round. Linnov boxed under the name of Jack Leon, and was seen in action in the local ring many years ago. "Doc" Roller, as clever a wrestler as the game ever saw, at one time engaged "Demmy" Ed Martin to teach him boxing. Roller was an intelligent fellow and rapidly developed into a good boxer, but after trying his hand in a real battle in Seattle several years ago, quit the game. He was given an unmerciful beating by his opponent. Al Williams, now boxing instructor at the minimum quantity of his—was a champion with the padded mitts, but several beatings took the idea out of his head.

Victor MacLagen, who appeared on the Orpheum circuit demonstrating the art of jim jitsu, and was said to be a wonder at that end of the mat game, begged for a match right here in San Francisco and was accommodated. He lasted a couple of rounds. That was the last heard of him, as far as boxing was concerned. Tom O'Rourke, a maker of world's champions, and one time manager of that great trio—George Dixon, Tom Sharkey, and Joe Walcott—thought he saw in Joe Rodgers, the "American Apollo," another champion. Rodgers was a powerfully built fellow and had a wonderful physique. Tom entered him in a heavyweight tournament, from which he emerged victorious, but one crack at the professional game and he was forgotten.

It's a funny thing, but that old saying again fits in nicely here—"Every man to his own game." The last heard of him, as far as boxing was concerned. RALPH DE PALMA WINS BIG 100 MILE EVENT

Comes in First Short Distance Ahead of Tom Milton—Ralph Mulford Third and Barney Oldfield Fourth.

Cincinnati, O., July 5.—Ralph DePalma won the 100 mile liberty handi- cap automobile race here yesterday by finishing almost a full lap on the two mile course ahead of Tom Milton. The latter had only a small margin over Ralph Mulford while Barney Oldfield was half a mile behind, but landed in fourth place.

DePalma drove a consistent race and was favored by not having to stop during the entire race. He assumed the lead at the thirty-five mile and thereafter was never headed. Denny Hickey after repeated trouble with his engine came in fifth and Louis Chevrolet who was a favorite previous to the race, was forced to concede defeat without quitting, but finished well up and obtained sixth place. Others who finished were Ira Val, Fred McCarthy, Andy Burt, A. E. Cota and Omar Tot.

Dario Resta was forced out of it on his thirteenth lap. DePalma's time was 57 minutes 34 seconds. Sixteen started.

DUTCH LEONARD'S NO-HIT GAME IS A BIG EXCEPTION

Only on Three Other Occasions Have There Been Like Performances. When Dutch Leonard pitched a no hit game against Detroit a few days ago, he accomplished something that was three times turned in to the records by the same time a year ago. On three different occasions, with weather conditions that were far less favorable, big league pitchers a year ago vaulted into the hall of fame with hitless victories. Two of the efforts also were attended by a lack of runs on the part of the hitless club.

It was Eddie Cicotte, star of the world's champion White Sox, who pitched the first no hit game in St. Louis last spring and turned back the Fielder Jones aggregation with the minimum quantity of hits—none. And a few days later along came Ernie Kon and accomplished the same thing, with the exception that Ernie got into an argument with the umpire and almost lost credit for the performance.

Then George Mogridge pitched his only real good game of the season when he went against the Boston Red Sox and set down that team without a hit. Whether this means that the pitcher was better a year ago or that the hitting now is better is a matter for speculation and deep study.

There is no doubt that the pitching was some better; for Cicotte has not been so good as he was a year ago, and the Yankees have been unable to help Mogridge to many victories. However, the hitting is no better, for practically the same lay- out of hitters has been doing the average, and the averages are no more than normal. In fact, some of the averages have suffered woeful slumps.

But these are the facts—three hitless performances last spring, and one this year. If, as has been argued, the fans like free hitting contests, they have been well served during 1918.

Save and Humoring. Save and humoring are the elements that bring out the best in some ball players. Others have to be con- trolled after with a whip. They say that Leonard's recent no-hit game against the Detroit Tigers was his direct result of the Boston southpaw extend- ing himself to show what he could do because he was bolting mad over a panning given him by a Boston bese- tter. However, the hitting has not a glove to toss out on the diamond when he is sent out to try to "pitch," wrote the Boston critic, and he fol- lows it with more caustic comment to the effect that while Dutch doubt- less was trying his best, his case was hopeless because his arm was gone. Leonard was bolting mad. He con- cluded he would howl them back in Boston that his arm still was there. It was a warm, clear day in Detroit, just the kind Leonard likes, so Man- ger Barow told him that if he wanted to show up the Boston scribe there was his chance—and Leonard went to work. New Chief of British Imperial General Staff Hailed As War Genius.

Helped Establish Versailles War Council—France Applauds His Promotion—Rose Like Kitchener.

"In appearance he is like a Scotch university professor with a low golf handicap," remarked an intimate friend of Sir Henry Wilson recently.

"Ugly" Henry strolling through Piccadilly in frock coats, loose of limb, almost ungainly in his stride, with a longish head and his strong, almost whimsical mouth ever and ever about a large and rather rakish looking briar pipe, would be recognised by the passerby as anything but the descendant of a race of great Irish soldiers.

The last of the Wilsons has sprung into prominence as the leading figure in the greatest crisis in British military history.

The Imperial General Staff is the brain of the infantry and the guns and the aircraft on every front.

The former chiefs, whose office was founded in 1909, include such names as Gen. Sir William Nicholson, now Field Marshal, who was first to hold the office.

What, then, is the explanation of this unexpected appointment? The answer lies in the fact that last and always Sir Henry Wilson is a soldier.

Both belonged to a group which all unconsciously was trained in the higher art of war in readiness for the great military cataclysm which broke over a peaceful Europe in 1914.

AGUTE NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

All Treatments Proved Useless Until He Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. JAS. S. DELGATY.

R.R. No. 4, Gilbert Plains, Man. "In the year 1910 I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; was reduced in weight from 170 pounds to 115 pounds.

I never had such good health for twenty years as I have enjoyed in the past six years. We are never without a box of "Fruit-a-tives" in the house."

time broke into the trade unionism of the higher military commands. Sir Henry is an infantry man. To find an infantry man who has reached high places in the profession is to find a military rarity.

When at the Staff College as a student, the professors shook their heads. One of them placed it upon record that Wilson was too versatile ever to climb to the potential apex in his career.

In the interval Sir Henry had found and made his opportunity. He went to Natal as a junior staff officer on a tour of duty.

When it was necessary to send a trustee representative to handle the delicate diplomatic situation created by the Agadir incident Sir Henry was selected.

When it was necessary to send a trustee representative to handle the delicate diplomatic situation created by the Agadir incident Sir Henry was selected.

He cycled every year over the plains of Flanders and that part of France where the fight is now raging.

A good English, he always replied to his captors' angry questionings, "I like you as a people, and I like your wine."

It was he who drew up with Gen. Foch the various arrangements and agreements which enabled the British expeditionary force to co-operate smoothly with the French army.

His official position when war broke out was understood by Sir Archibald Murray, who was Chief of the General Staff in France.

greatest value to the British Commander in Chief during these first strenuous days of gigantic war.

It is probable that no contemporary history will tell the true story of that retreat—will truthfully chronicle the happenings of those "days of wrath" when the Cabinet at home was warned to expect the worst.

His fertile brain probed deep into the probabilities of the enemy's intention, and his quick and instant wit produced order out of chaos and confidence out of despair.

As the British army expanded, Sir Henry was appointed to the command of an army corps. As the commander of the major operations of the war.

"An intimate friend wrote recently: "Another time I saw Sir Henry Wilson in very difficult circumstances. He desired to see the whole defensive system of a certain sector of the front, and I had the privilege of escorting him along for some three hours in an arduous tour."

"Many men, on these occasions, are inclined to be silent, but Sir Henry cracked jokes all the time, and even when wisdom dictated a retreat toward home he insisted on continuing his tour, and in spite of the unpleasant persistence of the Hun artillery visited several posts and chatted with various sentries."

After this French command came a period with the Franco-British mission to Petrograd. Sir Henry and Gen. Castelnau were appointed as the military wing.
