KAISER'S VISIT CAUSES COMMENT

Some See in His Trip to England a Humiliating Defeat

ISOLATION COMPLETE

Practically All the Powers Have an "Understanding" With Britain That Bodes No Good for Germany—Mikado's Message to Hawaiian Subjects Sets Americans Thinking.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) New York, Nov. 11—A special cable received here today from Liverpool (Eng.) said that it was announced there that negotiations were in progress between the Cunard Steamship Company and the Grand Trunk Railway Company with regard to a joint scheme for the handling of the Canadian passenger and product traffic. The Liverpool Journal of Commerce, which was the authority for the announcement, says that the scheme provides for a direct Cunard service between Liverpool and Canada, and for a service of Cunard steamships to the Pacific coast ports and Japan, China and Australia.

THE KAISER'S VISIT

In connection with the Kaiser's visit to England, the Times displays a cable from London setting forth the idea of an English people regarding the German Emperor's coming as something in the nature of a humiliation to himself. This curious but interesting view is thus set forth: "Ever since his visit was announced the popular mind has undergone preparation for it. The average newspaper reading Briton has been entitled up to a certain point to believe almost that the Kaiser is about to follow the precedent created by another emperor, Henry IV, who went to Canada in 1377 and ate humble pie in order to make his peace with Pope Gregory VII."

"No course this idea has not been phrased bluntly nor often, but regard being paid to the courtesies by all the London papers, with one solitary exception. But there has all along and everywhere been apparent in the newspaper comment on the Kaiser's visit the suggestion that his majesty has undertaken to swallow a pill that cannot help being bitter and hard to get down.

Presbyterian and Methodist Ministers Denounce Bazaar Methods

A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Receipts, So Far, Have Been $15,000 in Aid of Tuberculosis Hospital—Under Patronage of Their Excellencies, and Got Pulpit Advertising.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Ottawa, Nov. 11—Two ministerial associations, Presbyterian and Methodist, expressed strong disapproval this morning at their regular meetings of what they termed the "gambling element" at the "Streets of Paris" bazaar, which was carried on under the patronage of their excellencies, in aid of a proposed tuberculosis hospital. The Presbyterian ministers put their disapproval into a resolution, while the Methodist ministers, although they expressed themselves in unmistakable terms, did not pass a resolution, but left the matter in abeyance until it was seen what action the general ministerial association would take.

The following is the resolution passed by the Presbyterian Ministerial Association, and that of Rev. J. H. Turnbull and Rev. P. W. Anderson: "Since our co-operation as ministers was requested by the management of the 'Streets of Paris' bazaar, and since some of our ministers, because of their interest in a worthy cause, gave announcement of the matter to their congregation, we feel it necessary to put ourselves on record as disapproving of the gambling element introduced into some of the methods of raising funds."

"The Methodist Ministerial Association meeting was unanimous in feeling on the question, which in effect was that 'while they were in sympathy with the object in view, they entirely disapproved with the methods employed and deeply regretted the gambling and other forms of amusement carried on.' They deplored this all the more in view of the fact that their sympathy and co-operation had been solicited."

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY

Recent events in other countries, both monarchies and republics, tend to throw into sharper relief the good fortune of the British Empire as regards both our form of government and the personality of the sovereign. The queenly dignity and womanly common sense of Victoria the Good are replaced by the kingly bearing and ripe diplomacy of her son, the Peacemaker. The years increase his popularity and the public recognition of his value to the nation.

BOOTH'S FAREWELL

General Booth spoke with fire and with tenderness to the people of New York Friday evening as he bade them what may be a final farewell. His mission has appeared with peculiar force to the great cities. There, owing to the pressure of the civilization we have evolved, the number tortured by sin and wrong, by failure and by the oppression of circumstances, is vast and ever growing.

THE PRICE OF COAL

Writing in regard to an editorial in yesterday's Telegraph on the price of coal and the importance of giving the consumer a fair deal once in a while, if only to encourage him, a prominent business man points out that cities farther from the mines than St. John get coal cheaper than we do. He says in part:

WHY NOT CHEAPER COAL?

What are the governments of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia doing towards giving the people cheaper coal? In a coal-producing country the consumers are altogether too ready to take it for granted that the price demanded is the price established by cost of production and conditions of competition.

MORE TALKATIVE SAILORS

There will be surprise, and perhaps some imperfectly smothered laughter, in England, and some fierce indignation in Berlin, over a disclosure made just as the German Emperor is due in London. At the conclusion of the British naval exercises by the Channel fleet and the first cruiser squadron Sir Percy Scott, of Lady Smith fame, ventured upon an unadvised signal to the ships of his division. An order had been received to paint the vessels after their stay at sea, in order that they might be spick and span when the Kaiser inspected them.

A FRANK PROFESSOR

A despatch from Ann Arbor, the seat of the University of Michigan, gives some of the reasons advanced by Prof. Joseph H. Drake of that institution in urging the people to crown Mr. Roosevelt as Theodore I. Some of the students, who do not follow public affairs and therefore are not aware that Mr. Roosevelt is already an autocrat, were at first inclined to think Prof. Drake was joking.

will warn the people that any talk of an investigation smacks of confiscation. These reactionaries believe we should all keep on smiling and paying up. -But there is another side to the story, and presently the commiser will be asking awkward questions and insisting that they be answered. Then, and only then, satisfactory answers will be forthcoming.

THE INDIANS

According to the report of the Department of Indian Affairs for the nine months ended March 31 last, Canada's Indian population increased by 931 during that period. The population for 1906 and 1907 by provinces is given as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Province, 1906, 1907. Rows include Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northwest Territories, Northwest Territories outside treaty limits, Outside Northwest Territories and treaty limits.

THE CARS AND THEIR PATRONS

Street railways promote and profit by the growth of cities if they are managed on progressive lines. The Ottawa Citizen, in discussing the growth of population and of street car transportation, tells what the Ottawa company has done in return for the franchise. The street car traffic, it says, "is not only an excellent barometer registering the growth of a city, but the street railway occupies the anomalous position of being both the cause and effect of a city's growth."

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

Students of methods to provide against poverty among aged workers are giving some attention to German legislation designed for this purpose. A reviewer has this to say of the steps Germany has taken: Beginning in 1883, the principle of insurance has been applied successively to Germany to certain classes of workers, industrial accident and infirmity, with which it is to be reckoned old age.

THREE P. E. ISLAND MEN LIKELY DROWNED

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 8.—(Special)—Great anxiety is felt for the safety of James Stewart, a miller, Howard Poole, aged 17, and a man named Reeves, aged twenty, who left Souris Wednesday night at nine-thirty in the midst of a furious northeast gale in the schooner Halcyn, for Georgetown, twenty-two miles distant. The Halcyn was only thirty tons and carried no ballast.

TWO CASES OF SMALLPOX IN CHARLOTTETOWN HOSPITAL

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 9.—The Prince Edward Island Hospital here is under quarantine for smallpox. Two cases of a rather serious nature are receiving treatment. A short time ago a young woman came to the city from Summerside and was taken ill. Owing to an imperfect diagnosis, she was ordered to the hospital, and it was not until she had been there for some little time that the true nature of the disease made itself manifest.

SPANISH SOVEREIGNS' VISIT STIRS PARIS

Paris, Nov. 8.—The visit in Paris of the Spanish sovereigns was remarkable for two things, the precautions taken by the authorities for their safety and the interest of the public in the baby picture of the Asturias. President Fallieres set the fashion by presenting to the baby, a box containing mechanical toys, doubtless appreciated. The rule of court etiquette which prevents kings from accepting gifts from private individuals was ignored and many anonymous presents were sent.

made another signal describing Scott's message as insubordinate and disrespectful, and ordering it stricken from the log books. Sir Percy Scott is likely to lose the number of his official mess as a result of his show of pique or his desire to crack a joke at the Emperor's expense in the presence of some thousands of sea dogs among whom he no doubt suspected many would be found of his way of thinking.

NOTE AND COMMENT

On a 1,200-mile trial trip the new Cunarder Mauretania averaged more than twenty-six knots an hour. In this performance there is a pretty reliable indication that she will prove even faster than the Lusitania. The last named ship is due in New York today, and wireless reports last evening promised a remarkable voyage. The British have just turned out a torpedo boat destroyer which ran thirty-nine and a half land miles an hour—the fastest craft in the world.

THE ROADS

Hon. Mr. McKeown's references to the failure of the Highway Act are much more definite and significant than those of Premier Robinson. Assuming that members of the cabinet conferred on this subject, it may be thought the conclusion was reached that it was politic to have the new Attorney-General make the government's confession of retreat from its frequently reiterated position in this matter. Mr. McKeown's constituency not being affected by the act in question. Even a government can learn, though frequently, as in this case, it too long delays acting on the conviction forced upon it.

ON THE ALTAR OF KNOWLEDGE BY BELMONT PURDY

HORROR OVERCAME HIM WHEN HE DISCOVERED THAT THE MAN WAS DEAD

His disappearance of the rector of St. James' church never had been accounted for. The mystery surrounding the absolute obliteration of a personage of so much importance in his parish as was the young and talented minister of a fashionable church leaving him an infant son and a congregation of sincere admirers—a man of sufficient fortune to make him independent of pecuniary considerations in his calling and endowed with perfect health and mental balance—had remained an unsolved problem for more than forty years.

This man, a physician of worldwide fame in his profession, had been the benefactor of the missing man from their schoolboy days to the night of the incident that ended abruptly a lifelong companionship.

The two friends sat together in the library the evening after the funeral, each wrapped in thought and sharing in silence the common sorrow of the household, when the rector started nervously from his chair and paced the room excitedly, exclaiming: "I can't resist it! Some unknown force seems to be drawing me toward the grave in the churchyard. I must go there, if only to look at it and return."

In the home life of the rector, constituted an existence that was bringing to the doctor's mind composure, if not actual contentment. Then the baby arrived, letting into the home of his fond parents bright, warm sunshine where hitherto calm, pale moonlight had reigned.

From this time the mother's health failed, and, in spite of all that loving hearts could devise and tender care bestow, no improvement in her condition could be effected. The doctor searched through the works of all known medical authorities, reading by night and day, but could find no clue to the nature of the malady from which she was suffering.

He appeared to be rational but nervous, the expression on his countenance being of sorrow, not of awe that might be inspired by a feeling of the possible presence of the supernatural. His friend followed him, so that he might come to him in his nervous, excited state of mind. The doctor saw him by the recurrent bright moonlight that flashed on his motionless figure through the rifts in the black, threatening clouds that raced across the sky, as if fleeing madly from the coming tempest, of which they gave warning. He stood gazing at the mound for a few minutes, his lips moving as if in prayer, then returned to his home.

His memory has been treasured by his profession and blessed by humanity because of the teachings gained by the sacrifice on the altar of knowledge made on that wild night forty years before.

His dream the doctor struggled at the task he had set for himself. At last he had uncovered that which he sought, and had got possession of it. All that remained was the filling up of a heavy umbrella.

He stood gazing at the mound for a few minutes, his lips moving as if in prayer, then returned to his home. That night came the storm, which raged throughout the following day and night, keeping within doors all those who were blessed with a sheltering roof and a fire side with which to defy the elements in upholstered easy chair, his bearded chin sunk into his hollow neck, the doctor remained motionless, except for the almost imperceptible movement of his head caused by his light, rapid breathing, his sunken eyes, half covered by weary eyelids, his emaciated, bloodless hands hanging limp over the ends of the soft arms of the chair.

His thoughts were busy with the past, that part of it which has mind had always reverted when not occupied with study, more constantly now that the end was so near, his health broken beyond repair, his life's work ended. Besides, it was on this very day of the year forty years ago that the tragedy of his life had been enacted, and, as on that fateful night, the weather was stormy, the wind was raging and the rain beating against the windows of his study. He had become accustomed to the use of an opiate with which to dull the working of his mind, now become weakened in the general wreck of his body, and he returned to the bottle for his elbow for the means of escape from the ever haunting day dream. He would sleep, even though he knew well that the slumber he courted might be on the wings of which he would never again awake.

The doctor dreamed, and the scene of action of his dream was a room in which lay the body of a woman prepared for burial. It was all that remained of the one woman in the world that he had loved—the one woman who had contained his soul and who he should be held sacred from the familiar touch of any man other than her husband. Still he could not suppress the desire to search beneath the surface of the information given in an examination would be sure to reveal concerning the unknown cause of her death. Her malady had been so deadly and so baffling in its nature that he had insisted upon Miss Turf following with some remarks upon her own work here.

Mr. Kidner insisted that the principles of hygienic cleanliness and simple, nutritious food should be taught even in the most unpromising of cross roads schools. The necessity for greater attention to the condition of school buildings and the chief superintendent remarked that it is his purpose to see that can be done to improve conditions by stringent regulations in regard to the duties of trustees. James W. Smith expressed the opinion that girls are being taught to make dresses they will never have to make in their homes, and urged that instruction should be confined to those things which would be of benefit in their daily life. He also thought the girls might be interested in keeping their school-house clean. The discussion was brisk and continued for some time eliciting good advice to trustees, officers, teachers and children.

Manual work had been sent in and were arranged on tables in the principal's room, and the evening of the meeting of the teachers during a recess. The election of officers closed the session with the following results—President, Hon. G. Perry; vice-president, Miss Margaret A. Stewart; secretary-treasurer, Wm. N. Bigger. Additional members of the executive: Joseph E. Howe and Miss Elsie Steeves.

The closing meeting of the teachers' institute of Kings and Queens counties, held this morning at the Hotel Hamilton, one of the most interesting and successful educational gatherings in the history of the county. The session opened at 1:30 o'clock. Principal Howard G. Perry, the new president, in the chair.

Mr. Kidner took up the subject of music in the schools, confining his remarks to the vocal culture side of the subject. He referred to the advantages gained by music in schools, emphasizing its power to inspire, its aid to discipline, its cheering and amusing influences. He pressed upon teachers the cultivation of their musical powers, and using the knowledge attained in teaching their pupils how to sing. He gave a lesson in tone and pitch with the teachers as a two part class, which was appreciated by all. Miss Steeves and Mr. John Marshall took up the discussion.

"Mechanical drawing" formed the subject of a paper by Miss Stewart. Ward, which was followed up by remarks from Mr. Kidner and Mr. Perry.

The Development of Ideas in Geometry, a paper by Miss Stewart, Alward, led to a long and instructive discussion of the best methods in teaching this important branch. The writer favored the abandonment of the text book until the underlying principles had been thoroughly taught, and exemplified on the blackboard. Mr. Perry took the same position and said he intended to follow it up book by book of Euclid throughout the whole course and he hoped to be able to make a satisfactory showing next year.

He appeared to be rational but nervous, the expression on his countenance being of sorrow, not of awe that might be inspired by a feeling of the possible presence of the supernatural. His friend followed him, so that he might come to him in his nervous, excited state of mind. The doctor saw him by the recurrent bright moonlight that flashed on his motionless figure through the rifts in the black, threatening clouds that raced across the sky, as if fleeing madly from the coming tempest, of which they gave warning. He stood gazing at the mound for a few minutes, his lips moving as if in prayer, then returned to his home.

'INSPECTED' I. C. R. AT RECORD SPEED

Minister of Railways' Train Went from St. John to Sussex in 50 Minutes

HON. MR. GRAHAM PRESENTED EDWARD WHITE WITH IMPERIAL LONG SERVICE MEDAL DURING HIS TEN-MINUTE STOP

Sussex, N. B., Nov. 10.—The official train carrying the minister of railways, Deputy Minister Butler, Mr. Pottinger, and others, arrived here at 12:40 o'clock Saturday, making the run from St. John, forty-four miles, in fifty minutes, which is considered fast time. The train stopped here ten minutes, during which the minister of railways presented Edward White, an old employee of the I. C. R., with an imperial long service medal and a short address.

The presentation took place on the platform in front of the minister's private car, among a large gathering of prominent citizens. Mr. White, on being introduced, was warmly received by the minister who, in addition to the address, congratulated him on his many years of service which he understood from the records, were marked by faithfulness. He also referred to the fact that he was receiving his majesty's medal on his birthday.

FORMER ST. JOHN MAN DROPS DEAD IN A BOSTON HOTEL

Dr. Robert Disbrow Stricken While in Young's to Meet Relative.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Dr. Robert Disbrow, for many years a prominent physician of Boston, dropped dead late today in Young's hotel, where he had called to meet a relative who was staying there. Death was caused by heart trouble. Dr. Disbrow was born in St. John (N. B.), in 1842. He was a past chief ranger of the Order of Scottish Clans. He leaves his widow, two daughters and one son.

Dr. Disbrow was the third son of the late Rev. Noah Disbrow, at one time of the diocese of Niagara. He graduated from Harvard University and served as a surgeon through part of the American civil war. He is survived by two sisters, Misses Emma and Louise Disbrow, who live at 72 Coburg street, this city. There is also one brother, Henry, a dentist at Jacques River (N. B.). The Misses Disbrow received a telegram from Boston Saturday night telling of their brother's death. It is a good many years since Dr. Disbrow visited this city, the last occasion being to attend his mother's funeral. One of his daughters, Miss Isabella, was here only last August, visiting her relatives.

CANADIAN GRAIN GOING FROM BOSTON

Large Amount Diverted from Montreal—C. P. R. Has 200,000 Bushels Already at St. John.

Boston, Nov. 9.—The export grain business from the port of Boston has increased to such proportions in the past few weeks that the lines running to this port may find it necessary to increase their tonnage to transport the vast amount of freight which has been booked for future shipments. Engagements have been made for fully 4,000,000 bushels of grain within the past three weeks, and during the past week tonnage has been engaged for more than 1,000,000 bushels of grain. Flour and other commodities will also be shipped in large quantities.

The immense amount of cereal will go forward on steamers leaving here between now and Jan. 1. The large increase is due to the fact that Montreal has discontinued booking grain, diverting shipments from the Canadian port to Boston. Shippers are mostly concerned with the possibility of the railroads being able to do their share to forward the freight to the wharves. Exporters declare that the conditions for an immense tonnage are more promising than they have been for years, and if the roads can be relied on, every steamer leaving here will be filled to its fullest capacity.

BIRTH AFTER DEATH

Infant's Cry at Deathbed Rescues Mrs. Massek Dies at Webster and Child Born Soon After

Webster, Nov. 9.—A most unusual incident occurred here tonight which has caused wonder among the medical men and the people of the town. Mrs. Adam Massek, aged thirty years, died during the evening, after an illness of several days of congestion of the lungs, and a few minutes after her death a baby boy was born of her.

THREE CAPE BRETON MEN DROWNED

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 9.—A telegram received at Louisaburg this morning from St. Eprict, Richmond county, states that the body of John Defries had been cast up on the beach at that point yesterday afternoon. Mr. Defries, who is known as one of the most capable submarine divers along this coast, and his two sons, John and Simon, left Louisaburg on Wednesday afternoon in a small deck boat, loaded with a cargo of eight tons of coal, bound to Prince Edward Island, where he hoped to exchange his freight for produce. Nothing was heard of the craft until this morning. It is certain that the whole boat's crew met death by drowning, presumably by their small craft becoming awayed by the big sea that were running, following the easterly gale of Wednesday and Thursday.

FIVE DROWNINGS IN THREE DAYS IN BORDER COUNTIES

Three Men Perished at Ashland, One at Van Buren, and Another at Milltown.

Houlton, Me., Nov. 10.—The fifth drowning in three days in Aroostook and Washington counties occurred late this afternoon when John Crawford, aged eighteen, sank in the St. John river at Van Buren. Crawford and a companion were upset from a canoe. The latter succeeded in swimming to shore.

Harry Robinson, aged fifteen, was drowned in the St. Croix river at Milltown in a probable overturning of a small punt in which he and Percy Hendershot were sailing. Hendershot reached shore, which was only a short distance away. The worst accident was at Ashland, where four men on their way to a lumber camp were capsized from a canoe on Squaw Pan Lake, and three of them were drowned. The victims were Frank and Paul Baker, and Arthur Cyr.

MONCTON IS NOW HOPEFUL OF CAR SHOPS BEING STARTED

Minister of Railway Favorable to Leasing Old I. C. R. Buildings for the Purpose

Moncton, Nov. 10.—A committee of the city council and board of trade had an interview with Hon. Mr. Graham, minister of railways, in the I. C. R. offices yesterday respecting the leasing of the old I. C. R. shops for car building. A memorandum was presented to the minister asking that the buildings, when vacated by the I. C. R., be leased by tender with a provision that they shall be used for the building of cars. The minister gave a favorable answer to the representations of the committee and said he thought the old buildings could be used for car construction to the advantage of the inter-colonial, as well as the city. He intimated that tenders for the buildings, upon the terms suggested, would be asked by the department.

LOST IN WOODS TEN DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Young Lumberman, Helpless from Exposure, Lived on Rain Water.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 9.—Lost for ten days in the Maine woods with no food and with only what water he could catch in a rusty tin can from the roof of a deserted logging camp, his feet and legs so swollen that he was practically helpless, and his body racked with pain and illness caused by exposure to the rain, is a young lumberman, Thomas Cloutier, aged eighteen, of 24 Bond street, endured in his efforts to find his way back from an upstate lumbering camp to his home city, Augusta.

Four weeks ago last Tuesday Cloutier, with his brother Alphonse, hired with James Kinsley to join his logging force at Lily Bay and started for the woods. The brothers worked sixteen days, after which Thomas grew homesick and decided to return to Augusta. Leaving the camp alone he walked all day and at night came to a deserted blacksmith shop. He had lost his bearings soon after leaving the camp. Worn, and soaked by the rain which he began to fall shortly after he started, he threw himself on a pile of coal and was soon sound asleep.

When he awoke his legs and feet were so swollen that he was unable to walk. He crawled to the door and discovered another shanty a short distance away. He crawled to it and found a bunk and a rusty tin pail, but nothing to relieve his hunger. The pail he placed in such a position that the rain drops from a leak in the roof fell into it, affording means to make his thirst.

THE PROVINCIAL OPPOSITION AND THE HIGHWAY ACT

Supporters of the provincial opposition feel that in view of the utterances of government speakers and of the government press which convey the impression that the opposition party led by Mr. Hazen agreed to the passage of the present Highway Act when it was under discussion in the legislature, a quotation from the journals of the house at that time is now in order.

"The order of the day being read for the third reading of (4)—The bill intituled an Act Relating to Highways."

"The Honorable Mr. LaBallois acquainted the house that he honore the lieutenant-governor having been informed of the subject matter of the bill recommends the same to the consideration of the house."

"Then the Honorable Mr. LaBallois moved, seconded by the Honorable Mr. Tweeddale, that the bill be now read the third time."

FARMERS SHUT OFF CITY MILK SUPPLY

Apohqui Men Decide to Send in None Tuesday Unless 35 Cents a Can is Paid by Dealers—Sussex Farmers Refuse to Accept Empties and War is On—City Dealers Warned By Health Board Against Some Producers.

All indications now point to a temporary milk famine in St. John. Producers along the line of the I. C. R. have taken a decided stand for higher rates which the dealers here claim they are unable to grant. At a meeting held at Apohqui Monday night the producers of the Sussex Milk Company, he said, they would be refused to accept empties and war is on—city dealers warned by health board against some producers.

The reason given by the two men for not signing is that they are under contract for a year. Mr. Raymond told the meeting that the milk producers around Sussex had also come to the decision not to send any milk unless their demands were complied with. The farmers who form the Sussex Milk Company, he said, refused to come in. There are four of these and they are the largest producers there—Andrew Aiton, Dave Aiton, A. P. Prescott and George Dohson. David McKnight, of this place, also refused to sign, saying that he is not ready getting his price.

Sussex Farmers Hold Out. Sussex, N. B., Nov. 11.—(Special)—A strike is now on in earnest here between the milk producers and the milk company. Tonight when the Sussex express arrived the farmers were lined up at the depot and the station where they usually get their empty cans, but when the agents for the different companies offered them cans they simply refused to take them unless the price was paid at the rate of 35 cents a can in future.

The agents told them that they could not give this. There was more or less quite a tie up for the dealers in St. John as the average shipment for them is 300 cans of eight quarts each day. Mr. Floyd, of Bloomfield, was here this evening and announced that there would not be a pound of milk shipped from there tomorrow morning.

If the farmers hold out for a week or more, the city dealers in St. John will be forced to take the matter to the court. The regular shipment will go out tomorrow morning.

The secretary of the board of health has received a list of the names of farmers supplying milk to the city. It is reported that the names of those who are not to be supplied are now in the hands of the health board.

There are about twelve names in the list, among them are the names of Mr. Macaulay, of the Drummond company, and Mr. Burns, of the Sussex Milk Company. It is reported that the health board will come up for discussion at the next meeting of the board.

barrier before the supreme court this morning. Other candidates will be sworn in the last Thursday of the term. Argument in Rundle vs. McNeill will be heard on Monday.

Moran vs. O'Regan is now being argued. Teed, K. C., is moving for a new trial, Mullin, K. C., contra.

The Drummond Mining Company, of Montreal, have secured the lease of valuable iron mining areas in the County of Gloucester and will immediately undertake the development of the property. The deal was put through at Montreal last week by T. M. Burns, M. L. A., of Bathurst, who was here yesterday on route home. He is very enthusiastic in his proposals to do that any more. We propose now to run the road on business principles.

Mr. Phinney suggested that the present property be located in the Nepisiquit river, 11 miles from Bathurst. In order to develop the property it will be necessary to build a branch line of railway to Bathurst, and Mr. Burns has arranged to have a delegation discuss the matter with the minister of railways during his stay in the province.

Under the terms of the lease the government is to receive a royalty of five cents per ton of iron ore mined. It is reported that the Drummond company agreed to pay eighty thousand dollars for the lease, which was hitherto held by a local syndicate. T. G. Loggie, chief draftsman of the crown land department, claims that the Gloucester iron deposits are the most valuable in the world.

D. M. FERRY, THE BIG SEEDSMAN, DIES SUDDENLY

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 11.—Dexter M. Ferry, head of the seed firm which bore his name and who was prominent in local business enterprises, was found dead in bed at his home here today. He retired last night in apparently good health and died from heart disease during the night. Mr. Ferry was born near Rochester (N. Y.) in 1852. He came to Detroit where a young man and amassed a large fortune, being one of the wealthiest men in Detroit. He was prominent in politics and an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1896. When the campaign was unusually warm.

Mr. Tiffin said that the I. C. R. had nothing to do with rates west of Montreal. The discrimination against Fredericton was most unfair and the I. C. R. had protected against it, the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. were responsible for it.

Mr. Chestnut suggested that a Pullman be attached to the Intercolonial express leaving Fredericton at 6.30 with view of encouraging through traffic to Montreal. He also thought suburban service should be extended to Cross Creek.

Mr. Graham said there were difficulties in the way of carrying out his proposition but it would receive attention.

S. Hart Green, of Winnipeg, son of Louis Green of St. John was sworn in a
