We have handled a good deal of clothing, but we here state that these new suits are THE BEST YET. Men who have worn our suits furnish enough testimonials to fill an Almanac, but these new ones make the old ones look as mean as thirty cents. We have reduced the latter from $9.00 to $5.75, below cost, just to clear them away. Call and see these goods.

MISS ELLIOTT

Writes Interesting Letter
From Africa

AT BRANTFORD.

Teachers Institute at Johannesburg. Lord Milner's Reception.

Letters were received on Saturday by her parents, from Miss Mabel Elliott, who went to South Africa with the Canadian teachers.

Miss Elliott is teaching in Brantford Camp and is delighted with her work. She says the children are smart and very industrious. There are three other Canadian girls at Brantford camp, Miss Fleet, Miss Pickle and Miss Burns. The camp is situated one mile from the town of Brantford, Orange River Colony. The Canadian teachers live in little cottages which were built especially for them and are fitted up very nicely.

In July, 750 teachers, including the Canadians, met at Johannesburg and spent ten days there at Teachers' Conference.

Among the entertainments was a reception given by Lord Milner. Miss Elliott describes it as follows:

Last Monday, July 7th, we attended a reception at Sunnyside, given for us by Lord Milner. It was delightful. The band played all the time, except for a little while that Lord Milner addressed us.

It was a most delightful afternoon and the grounds seemed especially laid out for the event. Broad gravel walks led up to the mansion and to the right of the walk is a very pretty hedge and some few yards from the house and immediately in front of it, three stone steps lead into the garden. As we turned down these steps we heard the loveliest music and on looking round could just see the red tops of the military bandmen's caps above a high hedge.

This hedge enclosed a circular space of the garden which again was surrounded by the most lovely shade trees, and in the shady nooks were seats. A very neatly kept path extended all around this enclosure, and as you came to the gate-way and were just about to enter, a footman or groom in dark green uniform and brass buttons came along and very graciously asked you to go on a little further. A few yards on and the path branched to the left. You turned in here and soon came to another lovely spot entirely enclosed in an immense net work of vines too lovely to describe. Here waiters were in abundance dressed in faultless evening dress. No matter how thickly the people swarmed in, there were waiters to spare, ready to show you to a seat and bring the most delicate and delicious refreshments. This over, everybody proceeded to where the band was. Of course everybody was anxious to meet Lord Milner; but it was scarcely to be expected that he would stand at the gate and meet over a thousand people. A few of us were walking through the garden when we chanced to see Dr. Mullin, of Fredericton, talking with Lord Milner. We were all Canadians and three New Brunswickers, so we hoped that Dr. Mullin would introduce us, but instead, and very much to our disgust, he went his way just before we got to them. Nothing daunted, Winifred Johnstone went up and introduced herself as a pupil of Dr. Parker. This was enough and very soon we were deep in conversation. Dr. Parker is one of Lord Milner's greatest friends and Miss Johnstone also had a letter of introduction from him to Lord Milner. He expressed a wish to meet other Canadians so then she introduced us and he was so nice. We had met a number of his friends in London and were able to tell him some interesting things. He seemed to enjoy it very much, for when a post announced the arrival of some personal friend, he sent back word that they would have to excuse him for a little while. When he had to leave he wished he could stay longer and hoped to meet us again. Then we walked on and learned that general Baden-Powell was among the company and saw him surrounded by ladies. So we went to Dr. Mullin and asked him to introduce us. He did so, saying that we were New Brunswickers. There were just Miss Pickles, Miss Burns, Miss Johnstone and myself then. We told him about meeting his sister in London and that she means to produce to meet him if we could and take his picture. He gaped at this and very pleasantly said, "But I hope you don't intend to obey all my sister's commands, do you? We said we did if he would allow us, and surely he would, for when we wrote to her it would be mean if we had to say he refused to let us have a snap of him. Then he looked at us and said rather joyfully, "Oh, but you haven't anything to take it with!" At this, Miss Johnstone produced her kodak. Then he said, "All right, Where will you have me stand?" We suggested that he go up on the front steps of the house, but he shook his head and said, "I wouldn't go up there for anything! Let us take a walk down the path and the people will think we are going for an ice, then, when they are not looking, Miss Johnstone can take the snap, and we will talk about ice so that I will look pleasant! She took one, but was afraid it wasn't very good, so he had to stand again and he told her she had better hurry for his pleasant looks never lasted very long. Just as he finished and stood aside, we noticed another girl away off taking a snap and he said, "Why, that lady has a 'long ten' for it works at a long range!" (Of course we have no idea how the pictures will turn out, but we hope they will be good and I will try to send one home.)

Dear me! how I wish I knew what became of the 14th contingent. Did they go home again or not, for you know they just arrived as peace was proclaimed. You have no idea how welcome a Canadian is out here to us.

On our way down from Johannesburg the other night, two or three places the train stopped a number of Canadian S. A. C. boys were waiting and came all along the cars asking if there were any Canadian teachers on board. We didn't know any of them but we shook hands just the same and you should have heard the stream of talk. Of course the train only stopped a few minutes, but I never did such a lot of talking in my life before in such a short time. As the train was leaving they gave us each a box of candies. There were just Miss Fleet, Miss Pickle, Miss Burns and I there.

It seems so hard to stop writing for there is so much to write about, but I simply must.

Remember me to everybody. I am perfectly well and happy and having no more time.

SAM. NAPIER

The Famous Gold Miner of the North Shore

FOUND DEAD.

The Story of his Life and Death. Was Well Known Here.

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—A gruesome story comes from the wilds of the Gatineau region, where an old man named Samuel Napier, was found dead in a shanty with his body partly eaten by a dog. It appears that Napier, who by the way was formerly a member of the provincial parliament of New Brunswick, had been sent to one of Gilmour and Hughson's shanties about 100 miles from Deseret to look after the supply of grain and other provisions that were stored there.

He was sent in about the first of May and was literally alone with the exception of a dog as his companion. During the month of June, he was visited by some of the firm's employees, who found everything all right. Napier was living his solitary life in comfort and happiness.

Since that time no one has been to see him until last week when men were sent in to inspect the premises. As they approached the shanty they saw the dog on top of a shed in the rear of the building. This extraordinary sight aroused their suspicions and they lost no time in entering the shanty. Their fear increasing upon finding no living creature within, the men immediately instituted a search for the old man. They groped about in the dark for some time when to their horror they found his dead and badly decomposed body in a sitting position beside the table.

The most sickening feature was that a large portion of the body had been eaten by the dog, which doubtless had become ravenous from starvation. Looking around it was found that the animal had jumped through a window to the top of the shed where they had seen it.

The body was brought to Deseret and interred there this week. Mr. Napier was a married man whose aged wife lives in Bathurst (N. B.), and from whom there were three letters awaiting him at the nearest post office. How long he had been dead will never be known but from the position in which he was found it is evident that the call must have come suddenly.

There is considerable indignation in the vicinity over the fact that he had been left alone for so long a period in such a wilderness.

Samuel Napier was a native of Bathurst and represented Gloucester county in the provincial parliament for a period extending from about 1872 to 1880. He was about 70 years of age, and was at one time a prominent lumberman on the North Shore. He leaves a widow and two sons. Mr. Napier left this province twenty odd years ago.]

Sam Napier was first returned to the New Brunswick assembly as a representative of Gloucester Co. in the general election of July, 1870, being then a prosperous merchant of Bathurst. As a legislator he failed to make a mark. Napier, however, had a world wide fame as the discoverer along with his brother of the Napier nugget, the largest and most valuable ever found in Australia. The nugget was exhibited in London and gained for Mr. Napier an audience with the Queen. A cast taken at the time can still be seen in Edinburgh and duplicates are shown in the British collection. Mr. Napier, after being lionized in England, returned to his New Brunswick home and started business as a merchant in Bathurst. But Gloucester county was too slow for the man, and after serving a term in the legislature he gradually drifted out of public view. As his money disappeared so did his friends.

"Words are easy, like the wind, Faithful friends are hard to find, Every man will be your friend, While you have wherewith to spend, But if store of crowns be scant, No man will supply thy want, If that one be prodigal, Bountiful they will him call, And with such like flattering, Utter, but he were a king, If to woman he be bent, They have at commandment, but, if fortune once do frown, 'Tis farewell his great renown."

Shakespeare and his latter years on earth were far from comfortable. He was last heard from as working on the Gatineau in the employ of Mr. Kelly, son of the chief commissioner of public works in the King Fraser ministry, and a personal as well as political friend of the deceased nugget discoverer. Sam Napier will be remembered with interest by every old resident of Fredericton as well as by a host of people along the North shore of the province.

The above Samuel Napier, who is well remembered in Newcastle, was born at Port Abella, near Leith, Scotland, and when quite a young lad was sent out here to his uncle Samuel Napier, who was deputy (Continued on page five)

AN EASY VICTORY.

How an Obstinate English Lord Was Outwitted in Naples.

Lord Charles Hamilton used to go about Naples attended by a large, ferocious bulldog. Having decided upon going to Rome, he proceeded to the station and took his place in a first class carriage, the "dawg" taking up a position on a seat opposite his master. The platform inspector, with many gesticulations, declared the bulldog should not travel in a passenger carriage.

"Very well, then: take him out," was Lord Charles' rejoinder.

In vain the official expostulated. He merely reiterated his former reply, a piece of advice it is needless to say which was not followed, and Lord Charles, apparently master of the situation, threw himself back in his seat and calmly lighted a cigar.

But the Italians were not to be outdone, and, quietly detaching the carriage in which the English "milord" was seated, they made up the train with another compartment and started it off.

Lord Charles sat quietly smoking for about a quarter of an hour and then, surprised at the delay, thrust his head out of the window and demanded when the train was going to start. His feelings when the situation was described to him may be imagined.

Subduing a Bully.

An experience on a Siberian train related by a writer in a Vladivostok paper reminds one of the early stage-coach days beyond the Mississippi and seems even more vivid because the participants in the adventure were not rough plainsmen and mountaineers, but a lady and a nobelman.

When the train pulled up at Tikhon, a Manchurian, a Manchurian noble who had bullied all his fellow passengers alighted at the station restaurant after warning them that he would decapitate any of them who took his seat. During his absence a smartly dressed young Russian lady entered the car and, despite the alarmed expostulations of its occupants, calmly appropriated the seat.

When the noble returned, he flew into a passion and advanced threateningly with his curved sabre drawn. But the young woman coolly covered him with a shining revolver.

"Do you take us for a pack of cowardly mandarins?" she exclaimed, and then, pointing to her feet, she remarked, "Here is your place, my lord."

The Manchurian noble surrendered and sat at her feet for the rest of the journey.

Books and English Spelling.

Most people think when they see a book that has the English spelling—the "u" in "house" and "color," the "ise" for "ize," etc.—that the types were set up and the plates made in England, but as a matter of fact most English books are written by Englishmen and are set up in this country. When an important writer is to bring out a new volume, an arrangement is made for its simultaneous publication on both sides of the water. The manuscript is then sent to the American publisher, who gives it to his compositors marked "English spelling," and it is set up in that manner quite as accurately here as any London compositor would do it. After the plates have been made they are sent to England. This roundabout method of simultaneous publication is due to the intricacies of the copyright law.

Making It Simple.

The scholarly looking man with the big eyeglasses had been invited to address the Sunday school and was making a few remarks concerning the lesson.

"I see the word 'line' occurs here," he said. "Will some one give me a definition of 'line'?"

Nobody answered.

"It is very easy," he proceeded encouragingly, "though you may find it a little perplexing to convey the idea in simple terms. Try again. Well, the ordinary signification of the word is longitudinal extension. The manuscript is then sent to the American publisher, who gives it to his compositors marked 'English spelling,' and it is set up in that manner quite as accurately here as any London compositor would do it. After the plates have been made they are sent to England. This roundabout method of simultaneous publication is due to the intricacies of the copyright law."

"The Trouble With Poets.

"Trouble 'bout these here poets," said the Georgia farmer, "they none of 'em make good field hands."

"Ever tried 'em?"

"Of course. They're dead set ag'in plowin' for fear they'll hurt a willow flower, an' they won't beat an' swear at a mule for fear he's got a soul."

Twitching of The Nerves

Mrs. Drinkwater, 5 Water Street, Galt, Ont., states:—"My great trouble has been with my nerves. I was very nervous, had twitching of the nerves and could not get to sleep at night. I seemed quite worn out and believing that I needed some medicine began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can truthfully say that this preparation has proven surprisingly beneficial to me. It has strengthened and steadied my nerves, made me rest and sleep well, and in fact built up the system generally."

In Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is found the ideal tonic for food and nerves, and through these two mediums every organ in the human system is benefited. The languid, or, rising fever, disappears when this great restorative is used, and with renewed energy and vigor disease is overcome, the nervous body performs their various duties and new flesh and tissue are added. It costs a box, at all dealers, or direct from Dr. Chase & Co., Toronto.

If You are Conscious of Failing

Strength and Energy This Month, Make Use of

PAINE'S CELERY

COMPOUND

THE GREAT HEALTH AND STRENGTH GIVER.

No Other Medicine Can

Afford or Guarantee

Such Happy Results.

Men and woman, young and old, of every rank in life, freely admit that they are more conscious of overtaxed nervous strength in the hot weather than at any other season.

When such a condition is experienced, Paine's Celery Compound affords advantages and results that no other remedy can offer with honesty. It vigorously cleanses the blood and regulates the tardy circulation. It strengthens and encourages the kidneys and enables them to filter from the blood all waste and morbid matters; it secures strong, firm nerves, gives sweet and natural sleep to the nervous and brain-weary. In a word, Paine's Celery Compound is a true summer life-giver and health-builder. Mr. J. Ralston, of Nixon, Ont., says:

"It is now a year past since I had a severe attack of nervous prostration caused by chronic dyspepsia, and I could not sleep at night. This condition of sleeplessness brought on delirium. I was attended by four of the best doctors, and took a great quantity of medicine, but all failed to do me any good. I thought I would try your Paine's Celery Compound. After I had used four bottles the nervousness and dyspepsia left me, and I have done more work since than for years past. I now enjoy excellent health and consider myself completely cured."

John, I'd like you to wake me at 5 o'clock tomorrow. I want to catch the early train.

All right, sir; all right, replied the able servant expressively; all you got to do, sir is to ring.

HEALTH FOR WOMAN

"Few things are more important to a community than the health of its women. If strong is the frame of the mother, the strength of the nation will be laid to the people." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is especially women's medicine. By its action on the blood and nerves it gives strength and vigor to the delicate feminine organs and ensures their regular and healthful functions. It gives color to the pale, and vigor to the weak, and a roundness to the thin and angular.

When a young fruit or shade tree stops growing and looks as if it were about to give up the struggle for existence, the trouble may often be traced to its being bark-bound. In the case of a long perpendicular stick in the bark will enable it to resume its growth.

A GREAT SUFFERER CURED.

Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was a sufferer from Muscular Rheumatism by Polon's Nerve Food, and says: "I feel my duty to problem Polon's Nerve Food as an infallible cure for Rheumatism. It cured me after 30 years suffering, nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerve Food has no equal in relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c."

Somebody figures that there are 1,437 remedies for rheumatism. But it gets there just the same.

IT IS SAFE TO SAY that nearly every Mother knows the value of McLean's Vegetable Worm Syrup. Caution is advised in buying substitutes for the original and only genuine.

"That's strange."

"No, it ain't. 'Twixt you an' me an' the gatepost it's downright lubberly laziness."

New Bark in Trees.

It is not a new fact, but yet a remarkable one, that if a fruit tree—apple, pear or cherry—be stripped entirely of its bark in the second week in June a new surface of bark will immediately take the place of the older one. It is believed that the chief growth of deciduous trees in our part of the world takes place at midsummer.

The Complacent Wife.

Mrs. McLean's husband seems like a man of rare good taste and excellent judgment.

Mrs. McLean—Of course. Otherwise he wouldn't have wanted to marry me.

Ambitious Youth.

Papa—And when you grow up would you like to be a captain of industry? Johnny—Now, I'd rudder be captain of de baseball team.

CANADA-AUSTRALIA.

MR. BURRIS GAHAN DESCRIBES JOURNEY FROM FIRST TO LAST.

Magnificent Month of Continuous Traveling—through Four Seasons of the Year in Thirty Days—A VIVID Contrast Between These Two Lands Born of the Same Imperial Mother.

The Canadian who starts from Toronto for Sydney has before him a magnificent month of continuous traveling. After all, the most pleasant and profitable week of the four will probably be the first, as the journey is crossing the great west of his own country. To pass through the land of heavy and resource is a supreme lesson in patriotism that should form part of the education of every Canadian. For the rest of the journey he sees nothing to remind him, save by contrast, of his national scenery. He crosses the equator and visits tropical islands, where the pineapple, banana, and coconut-palm flourish. At last he reaches Australia—a land that has the English name instead of the North Star—a land that has the sun when Canada has the sun, and scuttles under a temperature of 100 degrees in the shade when young Johnny Canada is playing in the depths of winter, picking spring violets in the gardens of Vancouver. It is an ideal summer's day at Honolulu, and arrived at Sydney to find everyone thankful that autumn had come at last. Thus, in a single month, the traveler passed through the four seasons of the year.

The first stop on the ocean voyage is Honolulu, seven days out from Vancouver. Men who have traveled pretty well over the world agree in pronouncing this one of its most charming corners. The town stretches itself along the sunny beach and struggles half-way up the mountain side beyond. Windy roads and steep stairs, half-hidden among the trees, make it a splendid sight from the sea. And the harbor does not vary when the harbor is entered and the people are seen. Honolulu, indeed, is a fascinating city of Yucca progressiveness, native backwardness and Oriental picturesqueness. The streets and shops are crowded with a pig-tailed Chinaman in their characteristic garb; dirty, loafing niggers, with no clothes beyond the two essential loincloths, and hustling American business men, dressed in immaculate ducks. Big, fat, native women in the market place, jostle the slight American girls, whose stylish frocks indicate that they are probably visitors from New York or Chicago. One of all the persons to be met in the town, by far the most engaging are the dainty little Japanese ladies, arrayed in their native costume, and looking for all the world as if they had just stepped out of some pagoda or Oriental tea-house. But, unfortunately, the traveler is allowed only a few hours ashore and as he watches the island fade into the distance, he has a feeling of homesickness, as if he had lived in Honolulu all his life.

From Honolulu to Suva, the capital of the Fiji Islands, is a sail of nearly ten days. The Pacific in the tropics is usually as calm as a Canadian back-lake in August. Indeed, I never saw Lake Ontario or Erie or Huron as calm as the ocean was during these ten days. Often the water was so calm that it was covered with oil, for not even a ripple disturbed its surface. At times the heat was oppressive, and there was no breeze to bring relief. For 10 in the morning till 3 in the afternoon exertion was practically impossible. Life was confined to sitting in a deck-chair, reading, dozing, chatting, or lazily watching the flying fish that played around the boat. Four o'clock, however, brought cricket, and even had its own charm in the form of a gorgeous tropical sunset, and, perhaps, a cool breeze at last.

The colony of Fiji consists of 255 islands, of which nearly 100 are inhabited. Between 20 and 30 of these can be seen on the way to the capital. The harbor of Suva itself is entered through a narrow opening in the coral reef. It was coming when I saw it, and the quarantine officer refused to allow anyone to land, as plague was reported in Honolulu. It was necessary, therefore, to view the town from afar off. The natives, however, kindly came alongside for closer inspection, and a magnificent lot of fellows they appeared to be. They were no covering except a white cloth wrapped round their waist and extended half way down to their knees. This costume gave full opportunity for admiring their powerful shoulders, broad chests, straight backs, strong arms and muscular legs. But more conspicuous than his well-knit body is the mop of red hair that crowns each grinning face. Every Fijian with any personal pride or social pretension has red hair. He gets it into his civilized sisters do by bleaching it with lime. I had always thought that the chemical process was a peculiar feature of our latter-day civilization, but apparently there is nothing new under the sun. The bleaching of the hair is probably as old as the tattooing of the skin. In the case of the South Sea Islanders, however, the copper skin, white teeth, black eyes, and red hair constitute a human color scheme that surely must be unique. From Suva it is a five days' sail past New Caledonia to the Australian coast, at the mouth of the Brisbane River. The distance is 500 miles, and mails leave the steamer to go by rail to Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide. The trip to Sydney by boat takes the greater part of two days, starting for 500 miles down the eastern coast of New South Wales. At last, a solid month after he left Toronto, the traveler enters the greatest harbor in the world, and lands in perhaps the finest city of the southern hemisphere. To reach Sydney in a paragraph would be an impertinence—to attempt a description of the harbor would be nothing short of insolence. The one requires at the very least, a letter to itself; the other deserves a volume.

When I reached Sydney the city was in a mild state of alarm over a fresh outbreak of the fulsome plague, which has been poisoning and shops were closed on its account. The plague is still here, and two fresh cases were reported today, but the alarm has subsided a good deal. Many citizens, indeed, seem disposed to accept the plague as a permanent institution. The health authorities, however, are fighting it with great vigor and intelligence. Their measures are directed principally against rats, for they are deemed to be the chief source of infection. A dead rat is sure to cause quite a sensation where it is found. It is supposed that the disease is communicated to man by the bite of a rat, which has been poisoned previously by biting a plague-rat. There have been just 125 cases during the present outbreak, and the mortality has been slightly less than the usual one-third. A week or two ago the disease made its appearance at the Zoological Gardens, and several valuable animals died. If energetic measures are of any avail, however, the epidemic will be stamped out before long. The whole city has declared war against rats, and cleanliness has been made the battle-cry. Every citizen has been urged to set his house in order, and if he will not do it himself the Board of Health does it for him. All classes in Sydney have joined in the sanitary crusade, and formal has become the fashionable perfume of the hour—Borris Gahan, in The Toronto Globe.

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

THE ENGLISH POULTRY MARKETS.

Poultry farming in Canada is a business that can be substantially developed in several market branches: first—the selling of specially plump, well dressed chickens to Canadian city merchants, or to commission merchants in Great Britain; second—the selling of live chickens to firms who export them to Great Britain; three—the selling of fresh winter eggs. These are the most profitable branches of poultry farming.

There are in Montreal produce merchants who will pay from ten to eleven cents a pound for fatted chickens. The quality of chicken they desire is a plump, full-breasted young chicken weighing about four pounds. A thin chicken can be transformed into one of these plump juicy chickens by three weeks' special feeding in confined crates. The chicken must be starved thirty-six hours before killing, and be killed either by dislocation of the neck, or by bleeding in the root of the mouth. It must be dry plucked with the exception of the feathers on the upper part of the neck and head, around the hock joints, and on the small joint of the wing; and it must not be drawn.

One of these merchants stated that he would buy five hundred thousand pounds of these specially fatted chickens in Montreal this fall, and guarantee to pay not less than ten cents per pound for each chicken. There is, therefore, no danger of an over-supply or of a lowering of the price of fatted chickens in Montreal during the present season.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture ships specially fatted chickens to Great Britain every year. Last year the price received in Great Britain for the chickens exported from the illustration stations was from six and three-quarter pence to eight pence per pound. The ocean freight from Montreal to Liverpool, haulage and commission charges, amount to one cent per pound on a shipment of over two hundred chickens, so that sixteen cents per pound in Liverpool equals fifteen cents per pound at Montreal.

Canadian chickens are favorably received in Great Britain. The British produce merchants are desirous of a large increase in the Canadian chicken trade. A prominent Manchester merchant (England) wrote concerning a shipment sold by him from the Smithville (Ontario) station "The lot were nice young stuff, and I should be glad if Professor Robertson could recommend me to some firm who could sell me a few thousand dozen packed similarly, to arrive next December, January, February and March."

The last British trade returns to hand show that Canada exports to Great Britain only two per cent of the value of the chickens imported. The Canadian chicken trade with Great Britain is as yet only in its infancy. It can be substantially developed. It is a profitable business.

The greatest demand in both Great Britain and Canada is for chickens weighing from four to five pounds each, dressed weight. The demand for large chickens in Great Britain or Canada is limited: Two chickens four pounds each are satisfactory for a large dinner, but one eight pound chicken is not satisfactory for two ordinary dinners. However, it is advisable to fatten large framed chickens even if they weigh more than five pounds when dressed. A large plump-breasted chicken is more saleable than a large thin chicken.

The White Wyandottes and medium sized Barred Plymouth Rocks are the two best American breeds for market and for eggs. Early hatched White Wyandottes or Barred Plymouth Rock pullets are good winter layers. The cockerels should be placed in the fattening crates when they are three months old; and they will be ready for market when they are about four months old.

The crates in which the fattening is carried on at the illustration stations are six feet long, sixteen inches wide, and twenty inches high. The bottom of the crate is of laths, one and three-eighths of an inch apart. Each crate is divided by two wooden partitions into three compartments, and each compartment holds four chickens.

Ordinary packing boxes of about the same size as the fattening crates can have the bottom and one side removed, and by nailing laths on the bottom of the box, as well as up and down the front, the fattening can be carried on satisfactorily. One or two boards should be loosened on the top of the box in order that the chickens can be removed. The boxes should be placed on the stands sixteen inches from the ground.

Further information regarding the feeding, killing and shaping of the chickens will be found in the evidence of 1901 of the Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying on the fattening of chickens. This will be mailed to all who write for it. The Department of Agriculture is issuing a bulletin on Profitable Poultry Farming, which will also be mailed free on request.

Farmers who are not in a position to properly kill and pack their chickens for market can dispose of them alive to firms who export them to Great Britain. Several Montreal firms have notified the farmers in that neighbourhood to increase the capacity of their poultry yards, guaranteeing to buy all the young chickens reared at the highest possible market price, provided they be well fatted. Several firms in Western Ontario will buy all the live chickens they can secure, so that farmers who desire to dispose of their chickens without the attendant labor of killing and packing can do so at profitable price.

There is a generally a scarcity of fresh eggs during the winter months. The reason of this is usually attributed to a want of early hatched pullets for laying, and to their not being properly housed and fed. A warm roosting pen at night is a great factor in stimulating hens to lay during the winter. The food should contain a large quantity of refuse meat or green bone. The meat can be boiled, and the water that the meat has been boiled in can be used for mixing with the mash. A laying hen should be fed in the winter three times a day: a small handful of grain thrown in the litter in the morning, a light feed of warm mash in the middle of the day, and a handful of grain at night. A variety of grain is suitable. Roots and vegetables are also necessary. They should be cut in half and stuck on nails driven in the wall of the pen about a foot above the ground.

Mr. F. C. Hare, Chief of the Dominion Poultry Division, points out as the result of experience, that the farmers and poultry rearers of Canada should realise:

1. That pure bred or high grade chickens can be reared more cheaply, can be fattened more cheaply, in the fattening crates, and present a better market appearance than do common chickens, or "scrub" chickens.

5. That there is more profit in placing well fatted chickens on the market than in marketing lean chickens.

3. That four months old is the most profitable age at which to market chickens.

4. That heavy chickens are not generally as saleable as medium weight ones.

5. That the type of chicken desired in Canada or Great Britain is a young, plump bird, with a broad full breast, white colored flesh, white or yellow colored legs, with-out feathers or spurs, and with a small head.

6. That crate fattening of chickens is the farmer's business; that it is a profitable business; that it does not require a large outlay to fatten one or two hundred chickens; that the chickens are fed from troughs; and that machine feeding is not necessary.

The Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, Ottawa, will on application, freely furnish additional information concerning any branch of the poultry business.

THE CALGARY SALE A GREAT SUCCESS.

The gathering of stockmen at Calgary from the 14th to the 17th of May for the live stock convention, Show and Sale, was the largest and most representative ever known in the West. Calgary is the center of the great ranching country and it was not surprising that hundreds of able and prosperous ranchers, representing literally "the cattle on a thousand hills," should assemble at the meetings which had for their object the fostering of interest in which every farmer and rancher of the plains of Alberta is concerned. It is recognized in the West as well as in the East that those who engage in any branch of Agriculture or in pastoral pursuits are entitled to rank high in the community, their occupations calling for as much skill and intelligence as any of what are termed the higher professions. The stockmen of the Territories came together to interchange views and experiences with regard to the care, breeding and improvement of stock, to receive instruction from men who have made a life study of such matters, and to enjoy social intercourse one with another. That the addresses at the meetings were well worthy of attention will be readily recognized when it is mentioned that among the speakers were C. W. Peterson, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the Territories, J. R. Anderson, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for British Columbia, J. A. Turner, W. R. Stewart, R. B. Bennett, M. P. P. A. E. Cross, M. P. P., and P. J. Nolan, besides a strong delegation from the East, consisted of Prof. Day, Creechman and Grisdale and Messrs. Robert Miller and F. W. Hudson.

There was only a moderate number of entries for the Stallion Show, but everything shown was of excellent quality, and spoke volumes for Alberta as a horse raising country. Clydesdales, Shires, Hackneys, Standard Breds and French Corbiers were the breeds represented and all classes were judged by Mr. Robert Miller of Stouffville, Ont.

The show of cattle was very large, and the quality averaged high, although a number of the females were old, and some not in calf which detracted considerably from the sale ring. The large majority of the animals exposed for sale were Shorthorns, with a few Herefords, Aberdeen Angus and Ayrshires, all of which were judged very satisfactorily by Prof. E. E. Day. The sale passed off exceedingly well, and the price realized were considered very good taking into consideration the fact that some of the animals were as young as one month and others as old as twelve years. Two hundred and twenty head were disposed of at an average price of $95.80, making the total receipts of the sale $21,077. The top price of the sale was $290, while six excellent yearling Shorthorns contributed by one breeder averaged $175 each.

Messrs. Alfred Mansell & Co., Live Stock exporters, Shrewsbury, shipped by ss. "Lycia" from Avonmouth on the 29th April, 20, including the p. used by Mr. A.

E. Mansell, and purchased by Mr. Robert Miller. These sheep consisted of 14 rams and 16 ewes, which with the exception of one ram, were all too young to include in the famous Harrington Dispersal sale, so were kept by Mr. Mansell until his final farm sale at Bishton Hall last March.

Mr. Miller is to be congratulated on obtaining these sheep which are the last of Mr. Mansell's breeding which Canada will obtain and it is therefore to be hoped that they will all arrive safely at their destination.

On Tuesday April 20th, four shorthorn bulls purchased by Mr. J. Lawrence of Manitoba during his recent visit to England were shipped by ss. "Lycia" to Quebec by Messrs. Alfred Mansell & Co. Live stock exporters, Shrewsbury. These bulls were really fine animals, two being bred by Mr. W. J. Hosken, and two by Mr. Roskrige and should they reach Manitoba safely should prove of great service in Mr. Lawrence's herd.

HOBBLED SIX YEARS Cured in Six Weeks of Chronic Rheumatism By Ferrozone.

Hundreds, nay thousands of cures have been put on the market for Rheumatism during the past few years, but a remedy with power to cure Chronic Rheumatism, Ferrozone accepted, in the estimation of Mr. Cullen, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist.

Mr. Cullen says, "As everyone knows I have been simply tortured for years with Muscular Rheumatism, not the ordinary kind that bothers most people, but the kind that ties one up so they can't move. For six years I hobbled about like a cripple, unable to move without crutches and canes. I used quantity of medicines, special baths, etc., but they didn't help me very much."

On the advice of a Presbyterian minister I used Ferrozone, gave it a good trial at first and when I saw it was helping, I bought six boxes and took one tablet at the close of each meal. I am perfectly cured and am today as spry as a young colt. I am convinced that my recovery is entirely due to the marvelous action of Ferrozone."

Mr. Cullen's case is a fair example of the kind of cure that Ferrozone is effecting every day. In severe cases of Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism and Lumbago, it acts with surprising alacrity, and no cure is recorded where it failed.

Ferrozone cures these diseases because it is a solvent for uric acid in the blood. It removes all traces of it and other poisons from the blood in from two to ten days. Then it builds up and invigorates the system, and makes weak, sickly people strong and well enough to resist and ward off disease.

The best Rheumatism remedy that one can buy is Ferrozone. It cures quickly and cures so perfectly that the disease never again returns. After all other remedies fail, it cures, and that is the sort of medicine you want. Ferrozone, 50c. per box, at five boxes for $2.50. Send to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Pilsen & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MILL COVE BRIDGE.

From time to time we hear the question of the new bridge over the Mill Cove discussed, but the matter does not seem to come to a head. Who is to blame?

We understand that the Public Works department, has had the necessary plans prepared for a structure to cost $30,000 and is only waiting for the citizens of Newcastle to choose a right of way to the approaches of the proposed structure and this seems to be the difficulty. As long as the citizens of Newcastle cannot agree on the approaches, just so long will the government postpone the building of the structure. Why not call a public meeting, and take a vote of the people on the question, or find some solution to the difficulty. The Town Council has discussed the question at various meetings, but they seem to be divided as regards this trifling difficulty.

There is not a doubt that with a bridge which would do away with a large part of the hills at the cove a large amount of business which goes to Chatham would revert to Newcastle.

ADVERTISING RATES.

For the past three years the circulation of the Advocate has increased from 1,100 to 1,850 copies but the advertising rates have remained the same. At present we do not intend to make any radical change but have increased the price per inch of transient advertising from 60 cents to 75 cents for first insertion, and from 30 cents to 50 cents for each subsequent insertion. These prices will be strictly adhered to. Classified advertisements such as Wanted, Lost, Found, etc. will remain as before as will the price of yearly contracts.

PROVINCIAL CAPITAL.

Fifty Young Men Going to the Northwest.

FREDERICTON, Aug. 18.—It is estimated that upwards of 50 young men from this section will join the harvest excursion to the Canadian Northwest tomorrow afternoon.

A few days ago Chas. Gillop, of Hanwell was walking along the banks of the Rustagornish, a small branch of the Oromocto, when he espied a clam shell lying in the mud and on the shell something gleaming brightly—a smooth, round, hard, white substance, about the size of a large pea. He has shown his find to city jewelers, who state that it is a pearl, and a gentleman from New York who is engaged in the jewelry business and saw it, stated that it was worth $500. Mr. Gillop is negotiating with a New York firm for the sale of the gem.

Bishop Kington, and Mrs. Kington, who have been spending some weeks at their summer residence at St. Andrews, have returned home, bringing Mrs. Kington's daughter, Miss Catherine Marsh, who is suffering from fever. The superintendent of the C. P. R. placed his car at the disposal of the bishop for Miss Marsh. His lordship while feeling somewhat better has not yet fully recovered from the effects of his severe illness of last spring.

Judge Wilson has been confined to his home since Wednesday last from the effects of an accident. He was splitting wood in his yard. A clothes line crossed the yard directly over his head, and in bringing down the axe it caught on the line and rebounded. The pole struck the judge on the forehead, inflicting an ugly wound, three or four inches long. Dr. Vanwart found it necessary to insert several stitches.

ENGLAND AND THE BOERS.

Giving the Generals a good Time.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 19.—Generals Buller, Durnell and Durnell arrived here this morning and met with a great reception from the government officials and the public.

The Boer generals looked remarkably well and evidently were much pleased by the heartiness of the welcome accorded them. Soon after landing they boarded the steamship Nigeria, where Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, Earl Roberts, and General Lord Kitchener greeted them. They were also introduced to Mrs. Chamberlain and Lady Roberts, with whom they chatted for some time.

Y. M. C. A.

On Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Rev. Mr. McCurdy, who has been supplying the Presbyterian church here, gave a very excellent address, taking for the foundation of his remarks "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness." The address was one of great interest, as applied to every day life. Several ladies were present, some of whom expressed themselves as being very much benefited by the meeting. Next Sunday the meeting will be at 4 o'clock.

CHILD EATEN BY BEAR.

Terrible Fate of a Little One Near Mattawa.

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The strange disappearance from home on Tuesday last of the seven-year-old son of Mr. Dupuis, the only resident of Les Caves, four miles above Mattawa, was the cause of a search party being formed and a search being instituted for the missing child.

While searching in a pile of brush in the afternoon of Wednesday, the searchers were sorrow stricken at the sight of an arm and leg, which were undoubtedly parts of the child's body. The advent into that part of the country of the grizzly in such large numbers has become a menace to public safety.

How Wars Begin.

"Papa, how do nations get into war with each other?" asked Tommy Seasonby.

"Sometimes one way, sometimes another," said the father. "Now, there are Germany and Spain; they came near getting into war because a Spanish mob took down the German flag."

"No, my dear," put in Mrs. Seasonby; "that wasn't the reason."

"But, my darling," said Mr. S., "don't you suppose I know? You are mistaken. That was the reason."

"No, dearie, you are mistaken. It was because the Germans—"

"Mrs. Seasonby, I say it was because—"

"Peleg, you know better. You are only trying to—"

"Madam, I don't understand that your opinion was asked in this matter anyway."

"Well, I don't want my boy instructed by an old ignoramus."

"See here, you impudent!"

"Put down your cane, you old brute. Don't you dare bristle up to me or I'll send this rolling pin at your head, you old—"

"Never mind," interrupted Tommy; "I think I know how wars begin."

Used in Bookbinding.

It seems a somewhat surprising statement to make that eggs, condensed milk, olive oil and vinegar are all used in the binding of books. Yet such is no case. The white of egg is used for "gluing," to cause the delicate ornamental gold leaf to adhere to the leather. To make the "gluing" perform its adhesive work even more delicately a little milk is added, and to help further in the important work of adhesion, a coating of olive oil or diluted vinegar is sometimes applied to the leather. Wise old bookbinders have been seen to use the light froth of ale as a coating over a binding of silk. The froth holds the gold leaf with perfect success and does not stain the silk. Many of the old expert bookbinders have little secret methods of their own by which to produce peculiarly fine results, and these secrets they guard as jealously as the housewife does her favorite family recipes.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Theologian's Point.

A dispute recently arose at a beer table in Germany between a group of university men as to which science was the oldest.

A representative of the law declared that it was jurisprudence, for this science must have been known in paradise, seeing that Adam and Eve were evicted therefrom.

"Why," said a graduate of medicine, "medicine is certainly of older date. Just think of the operation that Adam had to submit to in order that a rib should be obtained for Eve."

"No, no, gentlemen," retorted an electro technician, "for before anything was created God said, 'Let there be light!'"

Then came the theologian, who said, "I do not want to appear presumptuous, but I think that precedence belongs to theology, for before it was light it was—dark!"

What Borax Is.

One of the most desirable articles in the laundry or the washroom and valuable in many purposes connected with the household economy as well as in scientific use is the simple salt known to every one under the name of borax.

But probably not much known as to its constituent elements or its nature by most of those who use it more or less frequently. Borate of sodium, to use its chemical name, first comes as a natural product from Tibet by way of India under the name of tincal, the salt being covered with a green crust of a soapy nature which requires removal before the borax is available for use.

A Scientific Discussion.

Professor Searcher—What are supposed to be petrified horse tracks have been found in Missouri.

Old Lady—Oh, they can't be.

Professor Searcher—Just my opinion exactly, madam. The horse and the alluvial deposit in which those imprints were discovered represented widely different eras of geological and geological history.

Old Lady—Yes, and a petrified horse couldn't walk, you know.

Notoriety Seekers.

Mrs. Greene—Miss Black and that Brown girl made themselves ridiculously prominent at the musical last night. It was positively scandalous.

Mrs. White—For mercy's sake! What did they do?

Mrs. Greene—Do! They just sat there all the evening listening to the music and never passed a word between them.

A Wise Woman.

Mr. Snuggle (emphatically)—Don't be correcting that boy always, Sarah. Let nature take its course, won't you?

Mrs. Snuggle (drying the child's slings)—I'll do nothing of the sort, Mr. Snuggle. I don't intend that any woman shall have such a husband as I've got if I can prevent it.

The New Quebec Minister.

Hon. A. T. Robitaille, the new Provincial Secretary of Quebec, is the third son of Dr. Olivier Robitaille of Quebec and was born in Quebec in 1823. He was educated in Quebec Seminary and Laval University, being called to the bar in July, 1877. He is senior member of the law firm of Robitaille & Roy, his partner being Mr. Rudolph Roy, M. P., for Kamourang.

For four years Mr. Robitaille was a civic alderman and entered the lists for provincial honours in 1897, when Hon. Mr. Marchand was returned to power. He was elected for Quebec Centre, defeating Mr. Victor Chabouvet, a very strong candidate by a majority of 317.

At the Royal Academy.

First Painter—I've just been showing my aunt round. Most amusing. Invariably picks out the wrong pictures to admire, and denounces the good ones! Second Painter—Did she say anything about mine? First Painter.—Oh, she liked yours—Punch.

Don't forget the two Bargain Days of each week, Monday and Wednesday. Special discount for cash.

We also carry the largest and best varieties of Household Furniture in the town, call and examine our goods and procure prices.

Well about, those 98c. hat in our window, or rather those hats we are selling at 98c. There are $2.00 hats in this lot, some are not worth quite so much but every hat there, is worth more than we are asking for it. There is no fraud or deception at all, if you choose a $2.00 hat, the price is 98c., if you choose one not quite so good the price is the same, but we guarantee you this "that it is worth a good deal more than 98c."

Mer Lawns at 12½c. per yard, have about touched rock bottom, if they haven't gone below. A few pieces left yet, don't delay if you wish to get any, this is the kind of weather for these goods too. Other kinds of lawns, muslins, etc., from 7c. to 15c., some worth double what we are asking now.

Those suits we talked of last week, yes, we still have some $8.50 to $10.00 serge suits, double breasted, heavy twill. Come in and have a look at them. We dislike hanging clothing around the door in summer, it gets full of dust (the movements of the watering cart are very uncertain) and never has the same fresh appearance after, so if you don't see any suits hanging around, we have them just the same, walk right in and ask about them. The price for these $8.50 to $10.00 suits mentioned above is now $6.75. Of course, we have cheaper, we can you a good suit at $4.75, not a mean trashy thing, but good servicable and strong, good looking too, and all grades from that up.

Still a few white shirts at 29c., and some better qualities.

KING LEAVES LONDON.

Cheered by the Crowds on the Streets on His Way to the Railroad Station.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Escorted by the Life Guards to the railway station, King Edward and Queen Alexandra, drove in semi-state this afternoon, leaving London for Cowes, Isle of Wight. The streets were thickly crowded with cheering people.

The King and Queen arrived at Portsmouth at 4.30 p. m., and went on board the Victoria and Albert, which sailed at once for Cowes. The warships in Portsmouth harbor dressed ship and fired the royal salute when the King went on board his yacht. The King and Queen arrived at Cowes at 6 p. m.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 15.—The King and Queen of Wales landed at East Cowes today and visited Osborne House. During the morning the King marked the spot occupied by the coffin containing Queen Victoria's body on the deck of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. A brass cross was set into the deck, bearing the words: "Here rested the beloved remains of Queen Victoria, from Feb. 1 to Feb. 2, 1901. Born May 24, 1819. Died Jan. 22, 1901."

LONDON, Aug. 15.—King Edward has presented Westminster Abbey with a beautiful golden crucifix as a memento of his coronation.

Sheriff of this county. He received his early education under Sawright, the senior, at Newcastle's then Grammar school and as a boy is well remembered by the older residents. When he was about 16 years of age he returned to Scotland and it was then that his brother and he went to Australia and later found the celebrated nugget which made them famous. The nugget was for a time on exhibition in Crystal Palace. A number of casts were made from it, one of which is exhibited in the Boston Natural History Room, and another is owned by his aged wife who still resides in Bathurst. Mrs. Napier was a very handsome bride, a niece of a Mr. Mitchell who conducted the first salmon packing industry on the North Shore at Tongahall.

WHY CROUP IS FATAL

When croup attacks your child you must be ready for it. It comes as an accompaniment to an ordinary cough, or it may attack without warning. All children develop quickly, and when any kind of cough appears there should be something at hand to stop it with promptness. Many a child choked to death with croup because the right remedy was not convenient. Every one should know that the right safeguard for a child's cough or any cough is Adam's Botanic Cough Balsam. With this soothing compound in the house, croup is always easily checked and relieved.

To give a child a "cough mixture" containing a narcotic is a very serious matter, yet most preparations contain something of this kind. Adam's Botanic Cough Balsam is prepared from the purest extracts of herbs and roots and gums of trees, and is health-giving in every component part of it. Wherever it touches an inflamed surface, it heals and soothes it. Nothing ever compounded for cough is so harmless, and nothing so efficacious. Adam's Balsam is an old remedy and it has never lost a friend through failure to help. Keep it in the house. Try it on your own cough and do your child a good turn by being ready for any emergency. Price 25c. at any druggist's.

Briggs—How do you know Mrs. Dulcet is such a handsome woman? You say you never saw her.

Griggs—No, but you should hear how this other woman talk about her.

Snake, Centipede and other poisonous things may assail you in your walks through field and forest. Be sure to have a bottle of Perry Davis' Painkiller in the house and you run no risk. Directions on the wrapper.

Tess—Why on earth has Miss Ann Teek subscribed to all those legal journals?

Jess—Some one told her that proposals were printed in them.

THE DAY OF MIRACLES

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look back on their recovery as next thing of Miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard cure for piles.

The Bore—Haven't I met you somewhere before?

The Other Man—If you have, it was entirely unintentional on my part, I assure you.

IRRITATING PIMPLES AND DISFIGURING BLOTCHES.

They place many young girls at a disadvantage in life. The only cure is blood purifier like Ferreroze. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow in the cheeks and lips. Ferreroze quickly makes all skin eruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirit, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferreroze. It's all right. Price 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50 at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.—Sold by A. E. Shaw.

Ma, what does quid pro quo mean?

Oh, I don't know. Ask your pa. He chews tobacco.

FOR COUGH, HORSE AIL, Stomach and Fever, use The Granger Condition Powder. A genuine Condition Powder, Blood Purifier and Tonic. The Granger is guaranteed superior to many so-called Condition Powders that are put up in small and large packages.

An architect of New York says that with the modern steel frame a building can be carried to a height equal to seven and one-half times the diameter of the base. By this rule on an ordinary city block could be erected a building 1,300 feet high, 500 feet higher than the Eiffel tower. It would have 125 stories and cost about $30,000,000.

I bought a horse with a supposedly incurable ringbone for $30.00, cured him with $1.00 worth of MINARD'S LINIMENT, and sold him in four months for $85.00. Profit on Liniment, $54.00.

CATARHIZONE.

Inhale Catarrhizone five minutes any time and it kills a cough or cold in the head. Inhale Catarrhizone five minutes four times daily and it permanently cures Chronic Catarrh, Deafness, Asthma and Hay Fever. How about that historical novel? asked the publisher.

No good at all, answered the reader to whom it had been assigned. The man doesn't understand how to write historical novels, and he hasn't perverted the truth as we know it enough to make any kind of a rumpus among the critics. His book would fall flat.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House.

It's just a hundred years, said Mr. Biggerson, since men began wearing trousers.

I wonder, asked little Tommy, how long ago boys' mothers commenced cutting them down?

Minard's Liniment is used by Physicians.

There is one country in the world where it is considered a crime to smoke—Abyssinia. The law forbidding tobacco dates from the year 1642. It was at first merely intended to prevent priests from smoking in the churches, but it was taken to literally, and now a days even foreigners have to be careful not to be seen smoking.

Minard's Liniment Lumbermans Friend.

The guest came down to breakfast sleepy and wild eyed, but the hotel proprietor cheerfully queried: Did you enjoy the flute playing in the room next to you last night? Enjoy it? I spent half the night pounding on the wall for the idiot to stop.

Goodness! Why, Herr Wiffler told me that he played all the tunes he knew four times because the person in the next room encoored every one.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 cents.

Are plagiarists always found out?

No, my boy. A mediocre plagiarist may steal all his life, and no one cares. It is only when a man has the ability to make a success of what he steals that we give him any attention.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

A loaf of bread is a favorite talisman in most European countries. Sometimes it is found sufficient of itself, sometimes it needs the aid of some other substance. Thus in England the loaf is usually weighted with quicksilver.

Maude—I didn't see you at Mrs. Upperton's garden party last night.

Clara—No, I had made preparations to go, but was prevented at the last minute.

Maude—I'm awfully sorry. But of course, there had to be a limit to the invitations somewhere.

It's wonderful, said the meditative man, how one small word, insignificant in itself, may induce an endless train of thought, speaking volumes, in fact.

Yes, replied the caustic man. Take the word but, for instance, when a woman says, Of course, it's none of my business, but.

She got even with him for buying such an expensive panama hat after all.

How?

Why, she put a bow and feather on it and wears it herself.

Judge—Your innocence is proved. You are acquitted.

Prisoner (to the jury)—Very sorry, indeed, gentlemen, to have given you all this trouble for nothing.

He—Darling, I have lost my position.

She—Never mind, dear. Think of how small your salary was.

Jeje, said the colored prisoner, is I expected ter tell de truth? Of course you are.

Well then, des go ahead an sentence me fust!

Do you like to dine in these cheap restaurants?

No, but I have to in order to have money enough left to tip the waiter.

Lady Fisher—Do you ever think about matrimony, dear?

Lady Candid—Think, my dear? I worry!

Parent—Why in the name of gumption is that kid of Nexo's yelling around our yard?

Parentess—Why George! I'm surprised at you! That is our own little Gladys singing!

Parent—Oh!

It doesn't take much to make some people conceited.

What now?

Why, since the village Blacksmith learned how to mend automobiles he call himself a blacksmith.

Hewitt—The editor says it will be at least a year before he can publish my poem. That's a long time to wait.

Jewitt—Yes. You might die, and then the whole disgrace would fall on your family.

Since he married that rich girl I understand Dabsley leads a dog's life.

I expected as much.

Yes, he does nothing but eat, lie around the house and growl.

Mabel, love, said Mr. Tenspot by way of proposal, let me be your bread-winner for life.

The girl, with her eye on the beef trust, answered:

I want some one who can win me beefsteak.

A very pretty man in Chicago has a very pretty daughter. One day she was sitting on his knee right before a looking glass. She contemplated the reflection of their two faces and then asked, Papa, did God make me?

Yes, dear, he replied.

And did he make you?

Yes.

Looking again in the mirror, she drew a long breath and rejoined:

He must be turning out better work lately, isn't he?

A MAN WITHOUT BRAINS.

Hawley, hey? Well, who would have thought it of him? Bought 500 shares at 50 and sold out at 85. Well, that nets him over $17,500—oh, did he sell short again at an average of 80, expect in the price to drop again? Well, sir, I'll drop! The only reason I don't let people in my mine is because I don't want my machinery copied before I get my patent papers. See? That Hawley, though—well, blast if I thought it was in him! Smart fellow that!

The bottom fell out of the boom at once. The Evening Star stock dropped back to 50 when Hawley covered his short sale at a profit of 25 points, which, added to the $17,500 already made by him, left him richer by $32,500.

And for once the gossips were right, for that, after all, was what settled it for him and Mary.

A Little Mischief.

Here is a story which Congressman Angus J. Cummings was fond of telling:

A member of congress was going home late one night when he met a young man who was satisfactorily "loaded." The congressman happened to know where the young man lived and kindly guided him home. The congressman had no sooner pulled the bell than the door was thrown wide open and a tall, husky woman appeared. She never said a word, but grabbed the young man by the collar and shook him till she fairly loosened his teeth; then into the hall she took him and slammed the door.

The congressman was descending the steps when the door was thrown open a second time, and his friend flew out of it as if thrown by a catapult. At the foot of the stairs he landed, and the congressman picked him up. Very much frightened and considerably soggy, the young man gasped: "We don't live here! We moved last week!"

The Girl He Wanted.

The following letter was sent by a Mississippi man in answer to a matrimonial ad:

I incline my photograph with My Full Description. It shows the features as much as can be, only it is to be dark. I am very life complexion, Gray eyes, Orange hair, 6 feet high, weight 190 lbs., inclined to be hump shouldered; A Muskrat Man and a widower 25 years old, with a Common School Education, but have Got Anst to Attend to Every Business, I am Strictly Moral. Don't use Tobacco Nor Whiskey.

He is anxious to have her understand that her—

Are, Combinations, wait and All Suits me to see, Kind Loving Girl. I have Only one thing to Offer, And it is Neither Lands Nor Gold, But A Strong Arm and True Heart, and will Lay Down My Life for you, the lastest Be happy, I am tired of living Alone. The Girl that Reads my Heart and takes my Name for the Remainder of My life I will make Happy, for I am Hunting a Girl that I can write and sing to.

DON FELIPE

By GRANVILLE THARE

Copyright, 1901, by Granville Thare

Don Felipe, banker of Manila, knew that to be for the good of the church is a virtue, and he was not the man to separate religion and business. His devotion to the strong box was no less ardent than his ambition never to fall of counting the requisite number of beads on Sunday or to confess to Father Garcia at least once a week.

Don Felipe lived with readiness when the church or his pesetas were concerned, especially the pesetas. Therefore was he considered a good citizen, and thereby also he incurred the wrath of two heretics, impolite Americans with ancient Springfield in their hands and un-Spanish ideas in their heads. At least once a week Don Felipe lived with readiness when the church or his pesetas were concerned, especially the pesetas.

But the brains and the rifles served Don Felipe well once when, just after their arrival, he offered two thousand ("Mex.") to Privates Turner and Larson for the rescue of his two-year-old son, who was supposed to be at the plantation La Honradez in the interior.

The colonel, on whose ranch the two had punched steers, was old and when they went to him about it, but Larson had often worsted him at poker, and out of respect for the man he finally gave him permission to try for the reward. As for Turner, the "old man" looked him for a shiftless dog and considered it only a question of time when he would be shot by order of a court martial.

So Don Felipe sent his emissaries Juvencio, to return after three months with a melody of bruises and beads of long standing and wide sweep. They brought the boy, and he was bruised about the ears.

"We thought it was the king of these cannibal boys," Turner said. "We had to cut the little devil a good deal to teach him his place. At first he ordered us around as if he was born in shoulder straps, but we soon taught him that traveling in the jungle isn't the same thing as lying in a hammock and having a nigger to work the fan. That trip was a good thing for the kid. It would have been a good thing for any of these satin skinned Spaniards."

It was philosophy, but Don Felipe was no philosopher. He was indignant, and he went to the colonel. The colonel in turn was indignant and showed him the door, whereas Don Felipe waxed more wrathful than ever. He sent for several Castles and breeches and his flabby fists, and told Turner and Larson to get their pay where they might.

It was a bluff, a lie, to save the reward, for if more killing would have yielded more gold he would have kept the boy's ears roasting like a canelike in a mouson. But what was to be done? The military government must be content with the resident population, advertising its benevolent intentions. Moreover, how were soldiers, who, according to the sergeant's book, had been spending their time in lairades to receive pay for a misty job some where in the jungle?

Larson was stupefied. The barratry trade of a king was beyond him. It was best for him that he recovered from the shock, and when the eruption finally began Turner stopped him.

"Return good for evil," he admonished.

Larson was amazed, and his demureness returned upon him. "We never," he said, "should pay his honest debts, and we must do what we can to make him see his best interests."

It was Saturday night and Larson was eager for content drill, but Turner objected. He turned in early to think.

Monday morning, and Don Felipe sat at his desk a look, half sad, half terror on his face and his right hand grasping nervously for his cane. The intruder was Turner. Don Felipe's apprehensions were soon quieted, however, Turner stopped at three paces from the door, but in hand, and made a deep obeisance.

"Will the senior grant me a word?" Don Felipe radiated majesty for a half minute, then pronounced:

"I shall hear you."

Turner expressed gratitude.

"The senior no doubt expects to dispose of his plantation?"

No reply.

"The condition of the country is extremely unsettled and the future is uncertain. The new administration may not be friendly to Spanish interests. Being an American, I am willing to place capital here. In case the senior wishes to dispose of the plantation my friend and I are prepared to offer a satisfactory price."

Don Felipe was astonished at hearing a private refer to himself as a capitalist, but he reflected that the man must be merely an agent, and, moreover, even the slowness of such an opportunity would have been worth grasping at. But business policy dictated delay, and Don Felipe bade his caller to an interview the day following.

"Well?" queried Larson as Turner came back from the second encounter.

"Good. He standing me off for a day was pure bluff. He was dead anxious. All there is left for us to do is to sign the papers and turn over the money."

Larson contorted his visage expressively.

"When do we sign the papers?"

"Saturday evening, and we are to do it in style—invite a dozen or two of the push and have a blowout at the castle of his highness. A banquet is always in order with these Spaniards. A Spaniard couldn't have his mustache curled without giving a dinner."

Numerous paper lanterns revealed the splendor of twenty white uniforms in the pavilion that served for a banquet hall, and the glory thereof was full compensation to Don Felipe for an expenditure that ordinarily would have been heartrending. He was eloquent in lame English, and there was free flowing of good wine and hot toasts.

"Elos Socorro, the Rescuers."

"Say, Turner, don't you think, really now, that the old gent is coming round all right? Maybe we'd better not!"

"Yes, we had too. Suppose we'd be getting any of that if it cost him anything? Don't be easy—and let up on the cocaine."

Don Felipe's commercial English was too limited for use on an occasion like this, and in his native tongue, thus interpreted, he concluded:

"Rescuers, heroes, you have restored to me the light of my soul. I love you the life of my beloved son, and I repay you, seniors, with the only reward which the poor may bestow or which heroes can desire: seniors, I thank you."

Principals and witnesses signed legal documents, and Turner and Larson became owners of La Honradez.

Don Felipe was about to give the signal for resuming festivities when a servant brought a letter. It was from the plantation. He broke the seal and read:

Honorable Mr. Felipe: I hasten to write to you of what happened when the two Americans were here three weeks ago. One afternoon when we were all sitting in the river where it cut through during the last rains I dropped my fish pole in the water, and when I brought it up it contained some queer yellow pebbles. I showed them to the Americans, and they reacted greatly astonished and said it was gold, and they clipped the pole and brought up more of the substance.

Don Felipe did not finish the running account. He hastened to find the signature and after casting aside several closely written pages found crumpled into a corner:

Your honor's faithful and humble servant,
PEDRO.

Don Felipe felt genuine emotion now. His mils blushed, but he did not swear. Turner was watching him, and it was necessary to act. He signed for silence after a moment and said in a hoarse voice:

"Seniors, a letter from my mother, on her deathbed. She makes a last request. A last request that I shall never part with the beloved estate of La Honradez. Seniors, you will appreciate my position. Such a request cannot be denied. I take refuge in the honor and generosity of my dear friends."

"Mas, your honor's salutary mother," interrupted Turner, "a plans and decent woman, I have heard. Is her name not Pedro? I hurried Pedro to keep silence, but—"

Valuable and profane remarks from Don Felipe then calm.

He led Turner to one side and set the landlady like a man by paying two thousand ("Mex.") to get the deed back.

They of the uniforms departed. Another message arrived. It read:

Seniors—it is my duty to inform you of the sad death of your faithful servant, Pedro, on the day before his arrival at La Honradez. He was widely beloved before death and begged himself the honor of your death.

TO-LET.

Our large increase of business is due to the fact that we are showing better values than can be obtained elsewhere. Many people have taken advantage of the low prices and special bargains we have been offering this summer. Our prices are still as low and if possible in some instances lower than before. We have one or two specialties we would like to draw your attention to this week.

MEN'S SUITS.

Our stock in this direction is still somewhat heavy and must be reduced. Regular $9.50 and $10.00 suits, heavy twilled serge, now all one price, $6.75. Call and see them and you will quickly be convinced that they are the best you have seen for the price. We have a big lot of tweed suits the prices of which have also been slashed away down.

BOY'S SUITS.

A lot of these left yet, to be cleared out at reduced prices. All sizes, price, from $1.00 upwards.

MEN'S RAIN COATS.

We have a big stock of these in black, blue, greys, etc., which have been somewhat slow in selling, so in order to clean them out we have reduced prices to the lowest notch, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00. No need to get wet for the want of a rain coat.
