St. Patrick, Oct. 4, 1867.

A BRASS BAND.—Well, father, I've left Brown's for good," said a boy as he entered the house.

"What's the matter, Edmund?" said the father.

"Nothing particular," replied Edmund; "but Mr. Brown threw out some hints, and talked so insinuatingly, that I couldn't stand it."

"What did he say, my son?"

"Why he pretended that I robbed the money drawer—and insinuated as much as if I was a liar and a thief—and he hinted that I did not respect his premises at once, he would lock me out."

WATER.

Mother of beauty is water;
Water is fairest and best;
Spring from the deep's briny breast:
Fair in the billows of ocean.
Lovely when calmly at rest,
Grand and sublime when in motion,
Chainless, uncurbed, unrepentant.

"Water's the griddle of nations,"
Reaching from day unto night,
Binding far-off generations;
Pathway of fame and of might;
Ceasing its benefits never,
Life-giving source of delight;
Bringer of beauty forever,
Ever a joy to the sight.

Over the precipice dashing,
Proud, and exulting, and strong,
How it goes foaming and flinging,
Leaping and laughing along!
Rainbows its forehead surround,
Doing its purposes no wrong,
On it goes leaping and bounding,
On it goes singing its song.

Up from the deep it ascends,
Viewless on pinions of air,
With the fine ether it blends,
Clouds are its chariot there.
High in the home of the thunder,
Where makes the lightning its lair,
Wearing a mantle of wonder—
There, even there it is fair.

THE PIRATE'S TREASURE.

BY JOHN RANDOLPH.

Thirty years ago, when I was a young man and strong in the conscious of my own abilities to take care of myself, the love of romance and a constant change of scene was part and parcel of myself. I was often led into scenes of danger, and escaped at the last moment by the skin of my teeth.

When I was a boy, I was called wild and reckless,

and all of the misadventures and deceptions that occurred in my native village were looked on as my proudest achievements. The fatherly advice of my father, was nothing compared to mine, and I rebelled at it, by running away

one morning, and proceeding to the nearest commercial town, where I boarded a brig bound to the West Indies. I took to the water as a duck, and soon became proficient in the varied duties of a seaman.

I could land, reef and steer with the best of them, and in the forenoon I could spin a yarn

that would make a sailor's heart ache.

My first voyage was a long one, and I was not a little surprised to find that the captain, who was a Quaker, was a very different person from what I had imagined. He was a very different person

from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had imagined.

He was a very different person from what

I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had

imagined. He was a very different person

from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had imagined.

He was a very different person from what

I had imagined. He was a very different

person from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had

imagined. He was a very different person

from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had imagined.

He was a very different person from what

I had imagined. He was a very different

person from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had

imagined. He was a very different person

from what I had imagined. He was a very different person from what I had imagined.

The berth is not taken as yet, and if you

suit me I will take you.

You are bound to the West Indies, I believe.

Yes, sir, to Havana.

A sudden change came over the man's face,

his eyes sparkled, the blood mounted to his cheeks, and as quickly faded away, and I instantly saw his very frame trembled with enthusiasm and eagerness.

What ship did you sail in last? I asked.

What ship did I sail in last? I was sent away on the Florida Keys, and coasted from there to this port; but I have left my papers

at the house, and will show them to you if you wish.

Very well, I replied, I'll take you.

When will you get away, captain?

To-morrow morning, early, if this wind holds.

Very well, sir, I will be on hand.

At that moment I was called away by the steward, and from that time till I was fairly

out to sea, I forgot all about asking the mate

to let me examine his credentials, and queer thoughts came into my mind.

The Harriet Matilda was a full rigged brig

of three hundred tons burden; she was built in Baltimore, and had been originally intended for a privateer, the hullwork was pierced for ten guns. I carried four long thirty-two and two quakers. She was heavily armed and rigged like a man-of-war; her masts raked

beautifully, and when underway would easily pass for a man-of-war. At any rate, any privateer would find the ship and crew to moment us, would find that he had caught a tar-

net. I carried a double crew of thirty men, and felt as proud of my little craft as though it floated a pennant from the main royal truck.

We had a fine run across the gulf, and for a week we proceeded on our course without anything worthy of note transpiring. The mate proved himself to be a good sailor, and the crew were much to be commended. The articles as John Grey, an honest enough sort of fellow. Mr. Grey was in every sense of the word a fine-looking man. He overlooked me just two inches, and I measured six feet in my shoes. A beard long, heavy and black, adorned his face, a broad forehead surmounted his upper lip, his eyes turned were well defined and regular, his features in particular attracted my attention; they were prominent and large, dark colored sharp and brilliant as diamonds. Such was the man who had been the mate of my vessel, without a single recommendation, and without making a single inquiry, as to who he was or where he was from. Whether I regarded my carelessness or not remains to be seen.

I had made up my mind to overhaul the mate's

credentials as soon as a good opportunity offered; but as day after day rolled by, I found myself as much in the dark Saturday night as at the commencement of the week. He attended strictly to his duty, appeared anxious to please and give satisfaction, and in spite of myself my heart was drawn irresistibly towards him.

We were now rapidly nearing that region of islands and keys known as the Bahamas.

In twenty-four or thirty-six hours at the fur-spread out before him a chart was spread out which he was studying intently; his lips were moving, and I strained my ears to catch the slightest sound that might fall from them.

At last I heard him mutter: "The decisive moment is rapidly approaching. I have withstood many disappointments, surrounded by difficulties, only to be defeated. My plans are likely to succeed, and by heaven the gallant and true hearted man, who has been my friend, under the impulse of his excitement,

Yon bloodthirsty scoundrel! I muttered, as I crept back to my cabin. I will defeat you in infernal plans what ever they may be.

It struck eight bells, and I heard Mr. Grey ascend to the deck, relieving the second mate.

Throwing on a light money jacket, I stowed

a revolver away in the breast pocket, and stepped on deck. The night was a fine one, the moon just rising above the horizon, cast a sparkling silver pathway across the dark waters, rivaling the brilliant wake left by our vessel in brightness and beauty. We were close hauled on the wind, every sail set below and aloft. Walking leisurely aft where the mate was standing, I accosted him with:

A fine night Mr. Grey.

Yes, sir, but nothing remarkable for these latitudes.

Alas, indeed, then you have been in this vi-city before? Pray what vessel were you in?

Lifting his head quickly, he gave me a sharp, piercing look that caused me involuntarily to clutch my revolver with a firm grasp.

Rising slowly from the bunkin bills where he had been sitting, he walked up to the weather rail where I was standing, and in a thick

The Press says the Pope is confident of the ability of his forces to successfully resist the struggling parties of the invaders. He greatly fears that the Italian Government will yield to the popular outcry, and order its troops, now concentrated upon the papal frontier, to march upon Rome and occupy the city.

The "Standard" to day publishes a letter, which it declares genuine, addressed by the Emperor to the Marquis de Lavallette, his Minister of the Interior, and written in August, 1866. In this letter the Emperor explicitly denies he had any desire to interfere with or profit by the reconstruction of Germany.

The insurgent and invading parties in the province of Viterbo have concentrated at Fornez, where they have thrown up entrenchments.

Many other places in the Roman territory have been occupied by Garibaldians.

Several detachments of Pontifical troops have been sent out to dislodge them, and the Garrison of Rome is very small at present.

A strong papal force had left Rome to prevent a junction of Menotti Garibaldi and the papal forces under his command with the insurgents at Fornez.

The plan of the Garibaldian leaders seems to be to draw the soldiers of the Pope away from Rome, and thus give their friends in that city an opportunity to rise.

Arrangements have been completed for a meeting between the Emperor Napoleon and the King of Prussia at an early day, and the city of Baden has been fixed upon as the place where the interview is to take place.

The President has made an important move regarding the Reconstruction question by summoning all of the District Commanders to Washington. Gen. Schofield has been here and gone, and Gen. Pope and Gen. Ord are expected to be here this week. So far as can be learned, the orders requiring their presence here have not gone through Grant's head quarters, as required by the Act of Congress of March last.

The Cabinet makers of influence are circulating a written slip of paper, professing that on Nov. 8 the Cabinet will be changed as follows:

Secretary of State, Reverdy Johnson.

Secretary of Treasury, Erasmus Corning.

Postmaster General, William S. Groesbeck of Ohio.

Secretary of War, Frank P. Blair, Jr.

Secretary of Navy, John Quincy Adams.

Secretary Browning and Attorney General Stanbery are to remain.

The Fenians here are moving again, and will hold a mass meeting during the present week. It is proposed to revise the spirit of the organization, and raise additional funds.

Gen. Beauregard arrived here from Rich to-day, on private business.

The President has officially decided not to grant Gen. Sickles a Court of Inquiry. He bases it on the ground that the publication of the official correspondence is sufficient.

London, Oct. 13.

Much fault is found with the selection by the Foreign Office of Edward Thornton, now Minister at Brazil, to represent Great Britain at Washington, as announced last week in the London Times. The opinion is generally expressed that none but a diplomatist of the highest rank should be sent to the United States to fill the post occupied by Sir Frederick Bruce.

Dublin, Oct. 13.

The apprehensions of another Fenian landing, caused by the reports that suspicious vessels had been hovering off the shore of Kerry and other portions of the Irish coast, are subsiding. The war vessels which have been guarding the southern and eastern coast of Ireland for some time past will be withdrawn, with the exception of one or two iron-clads.

Memphis, Oct. 13.—The yellow fever was declared epidemic here to-day at a council of physicians. Forty seven cases were reported during the 24 hours ending at noon to-day.

There was a slight frost this morning. The weather is clear.

Port Colborne, Oct. 12.—The store and residence of Samuel Hopkins, the residence of L. G. Carter, and the express and Post Office were destroyed by fire this morning.

Loss about $40,000.

Kingston, Oct. 12.—This morning the steamship Magnet, of the Royal Mail line, while running Gallop's Rapids, struck a rock, knocking a hole under her fore-castle. She was run ashore. The steamer Champion has been sent to bring off her passengers. Her cargo will probably be saved without damage.

Springfield, Oct. 13.—A party of State Constables made a descent on a gambling establishment at Westfield last night, and were assaulted by a mob of over 500 persons, firing pistols, stones etc. One of the leaders was shot and killed by Deputy Constable Chapin of this city. The others are now in jail and will be examined to-morrow. The act was one of absolute self defence.

Albany, Oct. 13.—A collision occurred last evening, just outside the city limits, between a car loaded with iron, which had broken loose from the 10 P. M. freight train, which was struck near the summit of a heavy grade west of this city, and the 11 P. M. passenger train and two cars were smashed and a passenger named Charles H. Britton of Glenville, crushed to death. No other person was injured. Three men who were on the freight car got off safely before the collision occurred.

The Sheriff then declared Benjamin R. Stevenson and Henry Frye, Esquires, the members returned to serve in the Local Legislature of this Province.

The Candidates, Messrs. Stevenson and Frye, then addressed the Electors, as did also Mr. Donald one of the defeated candidates. Messrs. Smart and Rose were not present.

We regret that we cannot give a report of the speeches owing to an accidental absence from town; having delayed too long on board the steamer which took us to Eastport, but thanks to the gentlemanly commander, Capt. Prince, we arrived home in the afternoon, after passing an agreeable hour or two at Eastport, where we met our contemporary of the "Courier" and other celebrities on their return from the Exhibition.

CONFERENCE.—The Pittsburgh Conference has resolved that every candidate shall preach before that body. The American Presbyterian says this "recalls the entire into the M. E. ministry of a somewhat eccentric minister in this conference, lately deceased. His admission, was opposed by many in the conference, and on the occasion on which he was to preach his final sermon, he found not only the usual conference committee in his audience, but also the most part of the entire conference. Abandoning the text assigned him (somewhere in the Gospels, it is said) he chose another in Genesis: "By the life of Pharaoh I ye are spies;" and preached with such point and force that his opponents yielded, and he became one of the most popular preachers in the conference.

JAMAICA.—A private letter, partly printed in the "Fall Mail Gazette," says that the writer, who is an old resident, never knew Jamaica in such a state of despondency.

None of the better classes—no educated persons—would remain if they could manage to get away. The country is deeply in debt, no effort is made to develop her resources, and taxation is largely increased. "Regret is expressed that the colonies no longer possess anything like self-government."

The Parish of St. Ann's that in 1840 contained thirty sugar estates, now has thirteen, and of these several are on the point of abandonment. Of fifty three coffee proprietors, there are only fifty remaining. The principal crop, pimento, promises to perish ungathered.

ARROSTOCK COUNTY SOCIETY.

The third annual cattle show and fair took place at Hamilton. The exhibition of cattle was not large, but there was a choice collection of Durham and native breeds. J. D. Gove of Lincolnton contributed a two year old bull weighing 1772 pounds. The show of horses was inferior and there was but one entry of sheep and swine.

It appears that while we in Arrostock are enjoying the pleasantness of the harvest season, our less favored citizens in the Western part of the State have been visited with snow storms such as were never known before in that region in the month of September. At Ramford, Oxford County, there was four inches which remained on the ground, and roofs of buildings all day, and in the adjoining State of New Hampshire, people were reported to be rollicking in the enjoyments of sleighrides and a keen atmosphere.—Times.

The Charlotte County Agricultural Society's Annual Cattle Show and Fair, will take place to-morrow, Thursday, at the Bay Side.

Mr. Bridges Coach will leave Town for the Fair at 9 a. m., and return after the Show is over, thus affording an opportunity to those who wish to be present.

We learn that Dr. Gove forwarded a lengthy Report on the Marine Hospitals and Quarantine establishments in this Province, to the Minister of Marine at Ottawa.

From accounts which we have received, the Exhibition at St. John was as creditable to provincial industry as it was successful in a pecuniary point of view. Thousands of visitors from the Provinces and United States visited the Exhibition, and expressed themselves pleased with the mechanical skill of our workmen, their inventive genius, and the products of the soil. Much praise is justly awarded to Provincial Board of Agriculture for their efficient services in assisting to make the Exhibition what it was—a success.

"THE UNIVERSITY MONTHLY" is the title of a neat and respectable quarto, the first number of which has been received; it is issued at Fredericton, by H. A. Cropley, and edited and published by the students at the University. The articles are well written, and do not bear the stiff scholastic impress of the schoolmen, but possess an elasticity, freshness, and free exercise of thought, highly creditable to the publishing Committee. The want of such a paper has long been felt—and that want is well supplied by the sheet before us. We suggested something of the kind a few years ago, but—well, it did not take. The subscription is very low, only 50 cents per ann.

NEW CHURCH BELL.—The bell for the New Church arrived on Sunday last at St. John. It will be here in a few days, and be hung in time to give notice of the Dedication which is to take place on the 31st instant.

We have received from the Controller of St. John, Wm. Smith, Esq., the "Annual Returns of the Trade and Navigation for the Province of New Brunswick for the year 1866," but have only time this morning to acknowledge its receipt.

Our thanks are due Mr. Alexander of the Eastern Express for Boston papers of Monday last.

AN OLD ANECDOTE.—The Pittsburgh Conference has resolved that every candidate shall preach before that body. The American Presbyterian says this "recalls the entire into the M. Within the space of a month three of the principal business men at Little Falls, N. B., have died. Their names are Vital Herbert, Francis Rice and John Emerson.

We have received from the Justices of the Peace of the County of Charlotte a copy of Messrs. J. & A. McMillan's Map of New Brunswick, on which is marked the principal routes for the Intercolonial Railway, and the number of inhabitants in the different parishes in the vicinity of the best of these routes, both in our Province, and on the American side of the river St. John. This special information shown on the Map was prepared and added in by Walter M. Buck, Esq., C. E., who devoted much time last summer in acquiring the information given. Copies of the same Map, similarly furnished, have we understand, been sent to the Cabinet Ministers at Ottawa, and cannot fail to have a good effect upon their minds in imparting information as to the best route for the Intercolonial road. The energy and enterprise of the Justices of Charlotte County might well be emulated by people in other localities. Let the advocates of the different routes make public all the information they possibly can in regard to their favorite. Publicity and information is what is wanted. We understand that Mr. Buck has in press at the office of Mr. William M. Wright, in this city, a pamphlet, in reference to the Railway, which will appear at an early day.—Globe.

Among the acknowledgments received by the Clerk of the Peace from some of the Cabinet Ministers at Ottawa, the following is from the President of the Privy Council, all of these must prove highly satisfactory to the Justices in regard to the courteous information thus furnished by them of the Comparative advantages of the Frontier route for the Intercolonial Railway, which will, no doubt, be more fully shown and substantiated in the forthcoming pamphlet alluded to by the Globe.

Privy Council, Canada.

Ottawa, 4th Oct. 1867.

Sir,

I beg to acknowledge with my best thanks, the receipt of the very valuable and interesting Map of New Brunswick, which the Justices of Charlotte County have done me the honor of presenting to me, through you, and have the honor to remain,

Your very obedient servant,

A. J. FERGUSON, B. A., President.

Geo. S. Grimmer, Esq.

AN OLD RELIC.—The St. John Globe speaks of a Bible in the possession of Mr. William S. Bailey, of that city, which dates back to the year 1599, with a Family Directory in it dating back a century and a half before it was printed. This said to be the oldest copy of the scriptures, complete, in America.

A fire in Woodstock on Saturday morning destroyed four brick buildings on Water street, from the Benfrew House to the store of R. L. Armstrong, both inclusive.

The Fredericton Reporter says that Jas. H. Beck, Esq., has been appointed Assistant General in place of J. Johnson, Esq., promoted. The salary is to be considerably reduced.

The race boat "Jas. A. Harding" arrived by the "Trig" "Royal Sovereign" on Sunday morning. It is said that Mr. Coyle will give her some necessary repairs, in order to start her for the regatta on Wednesday.—Globe.

FOUND AT LAST.—A remedy that not only relieves, but cures Consumption, and its numerous satellites, which revolve around it in the shape of coughs, colds, influenza, bronchitis, &c. This remedy is Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

Mr. Mulligan protests against the decision of the Judges in the case of the race on Wed. night last between his mare "Lucy Long" and the horse "Reclifer," and intends to institute legal proceedings—regardless of expense.

The French Government says the Liberte, has just ordered 800,000 waistcoats, each having attached to it a small medicine box.—The latter will contain whatever is necessary to give, in a rough way, a first dressing to a wound, or to stop hæmorrhage. The whole will cost about 1,000,000fr.

A tremendous hail storm occurred in Philadelphia on Wednesday week, the stones varying in size from one to three inches in diameter. Not less than 500,000 panes of glass were broken, horses were frightened, and great damage done to ornamental trees, gardens and conservatories.

The Machine Union warns farmers against leaving potatoes to dry in the sun. It deteriorates their value and renders them more liable to decay.

We were visited yesterday by a snow storm. Considering it was early, the first of October, it caused a great deal of surprise.—We believe that interesting individual "the oldest inhabitant," never saw the like before in Halifax so early in the season.—[Halifax paper.]

Van Dieman's Land, out of a population of 80,000, contains but four of the aboriginal inhabitants.

Enough gum has been chewed this year to enable a firm of Brunswick to pay a tax on nearly $6000 income. How many jaws must have wagged, at a cent a "chaw!"

Tomatoes, it is said, were first introduced into this country as an article of food on the table of the Astor House in 1890. Now they are raised in almost every garden.

A man on exhibition in London, who calls himself "Nator, or the Human Frog," performs a number of wonderful feats under water. He eats sponge cake and drinks milk at the bottom of an aquarium. He also smokes a pipe and comes up with it still lighted. He has remained under water sixty-nine seconds at a time.

At Fredericton last week, X. Herbert Vail, I. Allen Jack, Robert J. Ritchey and Wm. H. Simoff, Esqrs., Attorneys, etc., were called to the Bar, and enrolled as Barristers of the Supreme Court; and Messrs. Jas. Beveridge, Ezekiel McLeod, and Chas. Beckwith were admitted as Attorneys.

A SINGULAR CASE.—Henry A. Landry of Bangor was tried on Saturday in the U. S. District Court on a charge of cutting open a mail bag on the steamer New England with intent to rob the mail or render it insecure.

The evidence was conclusive that the defendant cut open the bag. It was shown he was somewhat under the influence of liquor at the time the act was committed.

He was defended by E. W. Morton, Esq., who argued that although intoxication is no defence to crime, it is to be considered with reference to criminal intent. He claimed that defendant's condition was such, that it was doubtful whether he entertained an intention to rob or only to do mischief.

The Judge supported the proposition that intoxication may be properly considered upon the question of intent; and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.
