FARM AND TURF.
We have already stated that method tells upon quality and that quality makes the price; and that the creamery system supplies butters of uniformly good quality. Now as to quantity. At the Dairy Department of the Agricultural College last year, experiment was made upon 3,081 lbs. of milk; one third was creamed by shallow pan, one third by deep pan and one third by separator. 127.58 pounds of butter were made in all. The total loss of fat in skim milk and buttermilk was as follows in each case: by separator .47 pounds; by deep pan 1.67 pounds; by shallow pan 3.29 pounds. Thus 2.82 pounds more were lost by shallow pan than by separator. These 2.82 pounds of fat would make over 3 pounds of butter. The average cow produces 4,000 lbs. of milk. Then by shallow pan 12 pounds of butter per cow would be lost by the shallow pan method, which would be regained by the best creamery method. For a herd of ten cows this would make a difference of $25. The ordinary farm method would increase the difference. The conclusion is that by sending the milk to a creamery at least 12 pounds per cow more will be obtained than if the milk is creamed at home in shallow pans.

CLOSE APPLICATION.
She—Don't you think that in order to be successful in these days a man should apply himself constantly?
He—That's my idea, I have been calling on an actress now every day for six months.
'Ah,' said Watts, as he saw the old soldiers marching by, some well dressed and some in humble garb. 'It is not the coat that makes the man's standing as a citizen in this country.' 'No,' said Potts 'it is his wife's gown.'

Humane Officer.—Why do you call all your load on the front of the cart? Lazy Man.—So th' boss won't have us 'er pull in, y' course. Think I ain't got no feelin'?

Peter, when the fit was on him, literally called everybody—from his cook to his counsellor, from the meek peasant to the highest noble—sparring neither age nor sex. He would get up from the table and slog the host who was entertaining him. He would stand at the door of the senate house and slog each senator that went in. Lefort was an intimate and trusted friend, yet on slight provocation he was knocked down and brutally kicked by his imperial master. But all this flogging was in the way of recreation. When Peter "meat business" it was a more serious matter. Incredible as it may seem, it is nevertheless well authenticated that one of his own sisters it is said more than one—received a hundred strokes of the whip on her back in the presence of the whole court.

In 1713, Alexis, his only son, who out-lived infancy, was for some offense of no great seriousness, several times tortured, in the presence of the diabolical father, and in the end died either from the effect of the torture or by assassination. For sympathy with Alexis, the Princess Gollitsyn, the bosom companion of the Empress Catherine, was publicly whipped by soldiers. For the same reason the brother of his first wife, Rodionia—who he had thrown into prison—was tortured and then torn in pieces on the wheel. Nothing ever told of Nero is more horrible grotesque than this, yet this man, or monster rather, is paraded before the world as Peter the Great.

A good Example.—Are these the biggest china eggs you have? asked the customer. 'Yes, sir. They are the usual size.' You see, I am just going into the poultry business, and I would like a large nest egg as I can get, in order to give the hens an idea of the size I expect them to attain with their produce.

'I see you have had a visit from George Francis Train,' said a grizzled old man recently. I never hear his name that I don't think of an incident in his remarkable career many years ago, when he was in his prime and enjoying almost unlimited power says the Washington Star. When the Union Pacific road was being built and had nearly reached completion Train took a large excursion party of eastern people out west to examine the enterprise. At Omaha, which was then the most primitive kind of a town, Train gave the party a dinner in the only hotel in the place. When the guests were seated the fatted calf discovered that one of the panes in the window behind his chair was broken out and he ordered a waiter to stand in front of it and keep the draught from him. The servant refused, whereupon Train called the head waiter, who also declined to be used as a pneumonia screen. The philosopher grew angry, and sent for the proprietor.

'What will you take for this infernal old rookery?' he demanded. The boniface named $10,000. Train scratched off a check for the amount, threw it in the window behind his chair was broken out and he ordered a waiter to stand in front of it and keep the draught from him. The servant refused, whereupon Train called the head waiter, who also declined to be used as a pneumonia screen. The philosopher grew angry, and sent for the proprietor.

Years ago when a low standard of morals prevailed, the epithet Great was bestowed upon any monarch who won battles and enlarged the territory and resources of his kingdom. It mattered little then to the historian what might be a king's private character, provided he made his nation formidable by his brute strength and tall warfare. Even if he was a bad man they glorified in him as a good ruler. Peter I. of Russia called "Peter the Great," because he transformed a barbarous into a semi-barbarous nation. But no one can now read the following summary of his character without a feeling of disgust. Yoltaire in his "Philosophical Dictionary" says that "Peter was half hero and tiger." Macaulay declares that "to the end of his life he lived in his palace like a hog in a sty, and when he was entertained by other sovereigns, never failed to leave unequivocal proof that a savage had been there."

History Shows That the Old Ruler of Russia Was a Monster.

A Gold Medal with the insignia of the Legion of Honor was presented by the French Government, while Carnot was still at his head, to a child eleven years of age—Jenny Creek by name—who lives in Mill rd., Ohio. The statement has been made that she is the youngest person of either sex who has ever received this distinction; but one cares more to know that the deed thus commemorated—her heroism in saving a World's Fair train last summer—has a picturesque quality that may perhaps keep it in memory when other acts of heroism have been forgotten. It is the subject of a poem, entitled "Maid of the Legion of Honor," by Margaret E. Sangster, in HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE for July 3d.

A REMINISCENCE OF THE FENIAN RAID.
BY THE REV. DR. LOGAN.
In these days of growing Imperial unity and responsibility, it is well to bear in mind that Canada, in the past, sacrificed their lives and their fortunes for the cause of the British Empire. In the case of the Fenian raid upon Canada in the 'sixties, Canada had on part in the Anglo-Irish quarrel which was its cause. Yet Canadians did not spare themselves, and what they did then they would do again did the occasion arise. The following reminiscence of the Fenian raid is kindly sent us by the Rev. Dr. W. Lucas, D. D., of Canada:

The Fenians had been for some months preparing for a raid on Canada. Colonel Bagot had been ordered out from England to aid in giving the rounds as warm a reception as possible. When he learned that they had reached the international line and were about to enter our country, he started with his regiment of English regulars to drive them back. They were entering at a point about seventy-five miles south of Montreal. The colonel with his regiment arrived at Oranstown, and he sent for Colonel McEachren, of the Volunteer forces of the neighborhood, and said: "Colonel McEachren, I think your Volunteers can rout these rascals; if you think they would like the honour, I will hold my regulars in reserve." The colonel asked to be allowed to consult his under officers and as many of his men as possible. At daybreak he rode up to Colonel Bagot's camp, and announced that the Canadian boys were ready for the fray.

About nine o'clock the Fenians, some 3,000 strong, were seen approaching, though yet two miles away. The volunteer forces marched in column until the two forces were a half-mile or so apart; they were then deployed into an open field, and drawn up in rank and file, still marching onward. The Fenians began the attack too soon, thus revealing their fear.

Colonel McEachren, with quietness and encouraging words to boys all about him, marched steadily on to the head of his regiment the Fenians firing all the time until he was certain that he was within range, when with quick action, following quick words of command, a volley of Canadian bullets brought the invaders to a halt, and some of them to something worse—to an everlasting lie-down.

A very few, well-directed volleys brought them to the "bout face." They threw away their guns, their knapsacks, coats, caps, and vests. The ground was covered for miles with cast-off clothing and guns, and the whilom brave Anglophobes never stopped till they had run seven miles to the south of the international line.

When our former soldiers reached the line, the colonel called a halt and said, "Boys, you must not cross this; at least, with your guns. We must not have any international difficulty, if we can avoid it. You must remain on your own territory. I will go on to the Fenian camp (about a mile), and see what I can find there."

The boys said, "We fear, colonel, you may receive harm." He assured them that he would be quite safe. They replied, "Well, we will leave our guns behind; but we will form a line, with distances apart of a few hundred paces, reaching from our guns to the Fenian camp, and if any harm at all comes to you, or any danger, let the nearest man, and let him telegraph it along the line; and we will come and shoot every scoundrel we see, and see what I can find there."

Arrived at the camp, Colonel McEachren found there 500 saddles to be put on Canadian horses, perfect maps of the territory invaded, names of the farmers occupying the territory, etc. etc.

The Fenian council met him there. "You could hardly expect, Colonel McEachren," he said, "that my recruits could stand long before your old regulars."

"Regulars!" I have none, said McEachren. "What!" said the Fenian. "Do you mean to say that your men, whom we saw coming up the road in column, and then march forward with such regularity and steadiness to meet us, were not regular and professional soldiers?"

"I mean to say," said McEachren, "that these boys were yesterday ploughing those fields you see in the valley, but have to day come out to defend their homes against your invasion."

The Fenian with an oath replied, "If farmers' sons in Canada can play the soldier like that, I have no more fighting to do against Canada."

Canada has had some little fighting to do on her own account, but she has had a good deal more of it to do on England's account.

What had Canada to do with the quarrel between England and the United States in 1812-14? When she was, at States in England's account, she was ready with her yeomanry and her money to defend the measure of her ability, to defend the flag, to defend the defence of the Empire?

The above, however, is but a fraction of what Canada has done, and is doing at her own cost, for the strengthening of the Empire, as Sir Charles Tupper showed us by his paper before the Royal Colonial Institute.

THE PRICE OF MILK.
The hard times are causing city dwellers to buy less milk, while the recent rains have stimulated such luxuriant pasture that the cows fill the milk pails to overflowing. In consequence, the wholesale price of milk in the Greater New York City has fallen to one and three-fourths cents per quart. This is the price fixed by the New York City Exchange, which is controlled by about a half dozen dealers, and forms the standard to which all other prices conform. It has never before gone below two cents. The prices generally range from 3/4 cents in January to two cents in June.

What Constitutes a Drink.
One day as I drove along a pleasant Kentucky road, I came to a farm-house and noticing an old time well-sweep in the yard, it occurred to me that it would be nice to get a drink there, so I stopped and spoke to a man at the gate.

"An' I get a drink here?" I asked with a longing look at the well.
"Sorry, mister," responded the Kentuckian, "but there ain't a drop in the place; and I was gettin' purty dry myself."

"Isn't there any water in the well?" I repeated.
"Oh, yes, of course," he blurted out as he hustled off for the gourd; "I didn't know you wanted water; I thought you wanted a drink."

Elections in Greece.
In Greece, says an American, "elections are held in churches on Sunday. In the church in which I succeeded in gaining an access on one election day there were ranged around the walls forty-two boxes, that being the number of candidates to be voted for. These boxes were about the size and shape of a cracker box, one-half painted white with 'Yes' on them, and the other half black with 'No' on them. Beside each box stood a representative of the candidate, and over each box was hung the candidate's picture. Each voter as he entered the church, had his name registered and a check given him. In passing around the church the voter is given a bullet, or vote, by the representative standing beside the box of each candidate. Negative votes, as well as affirmative, must be cast—that is, if a voter objects to a candidate he must cast a negative bullet. Great care is exercised by the representatives of the candidates that there is no stuffing of the ballot boxes."—N. Y. Tribune.

Another story shows the wit of Sir John McDonald. At one time when he was running the race for Premier he was engaged to speak at a political meeting.

As is customary in Canada, his opponent was to speak on the same occasion.

It was during the speech of his adversary that Sir John became suddenly ill on account of the excessive heat of the room. His indisposition finally compelled him to go to the window and proceed to lose his dinner.

The speaker, Sir Richard Cartwright, hoping to gain a point for himself, called attention to Sir John's predicament, and, addressing the opposite party said "Your leader has come before you tonight drunk. His actions at the present moment will speak for themselves."

Sir Richard Cartwright's colleagues cheered, but Sir John did not return the sally. Though given to tipping, he was by no means drunk, and when the time came to speak he was sufficiently improved to be equal to the emergency.

As a prelude he referred to his late indisposition then to his opponent, and said: "I don't know why it is, but whenever I look at Sir Richard Cartwright's face, it makes me sick to my stomach." And then the roof fell.—"Chicago Inter-Ocean."

CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER

SACKVILLE, N. B., JULY 19, 1894. THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

The delegates occupied themselves with five subjects. The first was the Commercial Reciprocity between the colonies and Great Britain, the Pacific cable, and the Great Britain, the fast steamship service, and the proceedings of the Colonial Conference of 1887 in regard to the bankruptcy and winding-up of companies.

COAL STRIKES. We do not know that any one can claim that the two strikes that recently took place at the Joggias Mines have benefited either the company or the men or any one except those professional agitators who are found in every body of laborers, and who as the price of settlement generally succeed in getting themselves bought off or billeted either on the employers or the employed.

FUNNY. The Transcript says: The CHIGNECTO POST seeking to establish a historical date says it was "about the time the President of the Transcript was writing a paper in Ontario." Yes! we remember! It was also the time the editor of the Post was the travelling agent for a lunatic asylum!

Lord Aberdeen's Plans. A program has been arranged for Lord Aberdeen's visit to several agricultural conferences in the Maritime provinces, leaving Halifax Aug 9th. His Excellency will attend the farmers' tournament at St. John, N. B., Aug 14, and attend the agricultural conference for New Brunswick at Fredericton Aug 16th.

Curran Bridge Scandal. In the public accounts committee on 12th St. Louis, contractor for the labor on the bridges over the Lachine Canal, returned his evidence. He told Lester he frequently and constantly submitted to the committee his books and receipts, and that he would not give cheques nor would he give the money direct, but through third parties.

River Hebert. We have a road making machine in this District. It is a good article, but like every other new machine a person to work it has to be got to have some brains, and some practice. They have done some very good work with it.

Parliament.

On Thursday, Mr. Tarte made his long promised charges against the Judges. He asserted that there was a veritable reign of terror in the province, because for twenty years past the judges had been chosen from one political party.

CONFIDENCE OF LITIGANTS. He would not take any responsibility for the story about the Hon. Thos. McGreevy sending the judge a cheque in blank. He had never believed the judge to be venal.

He next mentioned that Judge O'Quinn, of the Richelieu district, had not acted in it as required by law, and had drawn extra travelling allowances while domiciled at Montreal.

He then charged Judge Teller, of Ste. Hyacinthe, with corrupt partiality in withholding judicial advertisements from the Z'Union newspaper, attacking the Provincial Government from the Bench when Mr. Mercier was in power; and drawing illegal travelling allowances. He was not at present prepared to make accusations against other judges, but promised to make them later.

Sir John Thompson stated that the Judges had written him desiring the accusations against them be formulated and demanding an investigation. His own view was that while the statements made at that time were most offensive yet because of their very lack of definiteness and want of particularization they were of such a nature that he could not ask for a Parliamentary investigation. Nothing had been definitely charged. The hon. member had generalized, he had not specified in a simple charge. He could not, therefore, see how he could demand an investigation upon such lines.

Corey still engaged in the "Green Goods Business." Corey G. Corey, who about ten years ago got into trouble on account of his proclivities for swindling and "shooting the queer," is again locked up on a similar charge.

He was arrested on Saturday at St. John on a charge of bargaining with and selling Harry J. Allbright between $800 and $900 in valueless money. Allbright is a Queens county man whom Corey convinced by his fluent conversation that there was a mine of wealth to be made by handling the "goods" to be supplied by the latter. Corey was a speculative as most Queens county men, so he met Corey on Tuesday last and they had a quiet and very important talk over the matter. Corey said he had $100,000 in good, hard, clear, honest cash. Corey supplied Allbright with between $800 and $900 of his green goods, telling him to do as he pleased with it. He told him he expected to hear from him in a short time how he was making out with the money. He also told him that he expected him to come down after he had passed it, with not less than $300. After that Corey said he could do business with him as the regular business agent, saying that he had a good prospect for his work. He said he was giving the reduction in order to start him. Afterwards he expected full rates. Corey then changed his mind, saying that he had arranged with someone else to give him the money, so if anything went wrong he (Corey) would not be in it. Corey said Corey said "Now, for God's sake, don't expose me. Keep this to yourself." Wishing him every success Corey bade him good-bye and expressed the hope that he might see him again soon, never dreaming that he might see him in a way that was anything but pleasant.

Allbright became scared after Corey had left him with the green goods on his hands. He had an idea of the consequence of dealing or trafficking in bogus money, and as he realized his dangerous position, he also saw that he had been taken in to the extent of $100. It was then that his conscience troubled him, and he made known some information to the police that led to Corey's arrest, and when taken before the Chief Justice, Corey admitted that he had arranged with someone else to give him the money, so if anything went wrong he (Corey) would not be in it. Corey said Corey said "Now, for God's sake, don't expose me. Keep this to yourself." Wishing him every success Corey bade him good-bye and expressed the hope that he might see him again soon, never dreaming that he might see him in a way that was anything but pleasant.

Joggias Matter. Sir William Dawson is expected at Joggias this week. The late strike is condemned on all sides as a useless waste and a loss for both parties.

The Cheese Factory at Minidie receives about 3,000 lbs of milk daily. It is in charge of Mr. Am. Seaman. The Shulze Lumber Company has shipped about 3 million feet of lumber and in shipping.

Memramcook Gold Mine.

WORK STOPPED—WHAT THE MANAGER SAYS—OFFER OF MR. J. B. NEELY—OPINIONS OF HALIFAX STOCKHOLDERS—INVESTIGATION CALLED FOR.

The report of the crown lands department for 1893 contains an article on the mining industries of New Brunswick by Professor Bailey in which no very enthusiastic view is taken of these gold fields. The geologist after speaking of the vein search for gold in Charlotte, where according to all signs it might be found, says:

During the past year, however, a new departure has been taken in the search for this metal, in consequence of its discovery in the conglomerates of the coal formation in the southern counties. Its existence in similar conglomerates in Nova Scotia was first pointed out thirty years ago by the late Prof. C. F. Hart, and more recently works were started on the rock and the separation of the gold contents were erected on Gray's river in that province. The undertaking, however, terminated disastrously. It is impossible, therefore, to contemplate without some misgiving the similar attempts to be made at College Bridge, near Dorchester, in Westmorland, according to the statements furnished us by Mr. A. C. Van Meter of Moncton, a great many practical tests have been made of the rock, and in every case the results have been satisfactory, showing from $2 to $5 per ton. A test of 100 tons was also made on a 10-stamp mill, giving a result of $2 per ton, whereupon the company decided to erect a 50-stamp mill and to proceed with the work in a systematic manner.

Despatches published in Saturday's Herald, referring to the Memramcook gold mine, have caused somewhat of a sensation in Halifax, owing to a large number being interested. Some of those who have taken an interest in the mine are J. P. Cox, Hon. A. G. Jones, G. A. Pyke, J. C. Macintosh, A. N. Whitman, William Lithgow, J. B. Neely, Thomas Spry, R. Robertson, H. H. Heston & Devine, John Peters, George E. Book, J. W. Crichton. Thomas Spry was interviewed by a Mail reporter to-day. Without hesitating for an instant he denounced the whole thing as a fraud from beginning to end. He had invested his money, and he had not had it back, and he had lost, or to use his own words, "had from him." One of the directors was also interviewed. He stated that he signed for many shares in the mine, but he had not received any dividends. He said that he had not received any dividends, and he had not received any dividends, and he had not received any dividends.

Elizabeth Dryden has commenced an action in the Halifax county court against George York. The claim is $245 for board, washing, etc. The defendant has filed a novel defence. He alleges that he had no knowledge of the plaintiff's house he and she entered into a mutual agreement. He was to live at Mrs. Dryden's house for a certain time, and if he failed to do so, he was to pay her $245. He says that he had no knowledge of the plaintiff's house he and she entered into a mutual agreement.

At the regular meeting of the I. O. G. T. No. 40 Monday night the following address was adopted: "As in the providence of God, it seems necessary for you to remove from our midst a brother who has helped us in the work of our conduct has been worthy of our imitation; your addresses before the public have been praiseworthy, and we believe have had a good effect. As you go from us be assured that our best wishes will be for your welfare, and that of your family. If in the future you have any occasion to take active steps against the Ram traffic, which you have done, we are confident that our of your character will always commend the esteem and support of all right thinking people and if you incur the displeasure of the rumrunner and his sympathizers we know it will not hurt you. We sincerely hope that your labours may be blessed in your new field, and that you may be very successful in building up not only the principles of our religion, but the still higher and holier principles of Christianity. We in bidding you farewell, again express our best wishes for your family, and earnestly hope that if we do not meet on Earth again that we may meet in Heaven at last."

Rev. Mr. Esker replied expressing his regret in leaving the lodge and thanking the Rev. Mr. Kierstead and the members generally for the expression of their kindly feeling toward him. Dorchester, July 11, 1894.

Fatalities.

—Michael Muszuroli, aged 10, young son of Mr. Joseph Muszuroli, was drowned off Esplanade on Monday while assisting Mr. James Taylor in setting lobster traps.

—Two Philadelphia, Me. Shelmiers, aged 40, and Miss Wilcox, aged 40, were drowned while bathing at Houston's hotel, Brackley Point. It is supposed they went beyond their depth. Others bathing a distance away saw them floating on their backs and heard screams, but suspected nothing, as such scenes were of common occurrence. Soon after they saw Miss Hill, another Philadelphia, also bathing, holding up the lifeless body of Miss Wilcox. The body of Mr. Shelmier was found two days later.

—A drowning accident occurred opposite the summer resort of Hugh J. McCormick, on the Kennebecasis on Thursday, resulting in the drowning of Miss Lucy Bee and her daughter, W. H. Beer. With several companions she was bathing and got over her head. Others bathing a distance away saw them floating on their backs and heard screams, but suspected nothing, as such scenes were of common occurrence. Soon after they saw Miss Hill, another Philadelphia, also bathing, holding up the lifeless body of Miss Wilcox. The body of Mr. Shelmier was found two days later.

—Only nine of the Senators appointed in 1893, are living. —Hon. Wilfred Laurier will start for the Northwest and British Columbia about the 20th of August. He may visit some places in Northern Ontario. —The Winnipeg young conservatives are arranging to hold a big picnic this summer in anticipation of a visit from Sir John Thompson and Sir Hilbert Tupper. —The late Archbishop Tache's will is now being probated. His will is as simple as was his life. He bequeaths nothing, for he possessed nothing. One clause says: "The members of my family except that legatee whom I know my affection for them and are satisfied with it."

—The descendants of Queen Victoria are citizens now in possession of, or will be in the natural course of events, of one city, seven thrones—those of the British empire, the German empire, the Russian empire, the Kingdom of Greece, the Duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and the Duchy of Saxe-Meiningen, says an American expert. —The Queen ought to be fairly well satisfied with her record. —Elizabeth Dryden has commenced an action in the Halifax county court against George York. THE WINE QUESTION in the East was discussed by Mr. Khadder of Palestine, who lectured at St. Paul's S. S. House on Thursday evening last. He said he had never heard of unfettered wine in Palestine. The wine used by the Jews at the Passover was prepared with greater care than the wine for ordinary use, but both were fermented. The ordinary wine was trodden out in wine presses but the Parsoner wine was made by taking the grapes in the hands and squeezing out the juice which was bottled and laid aside for use. He contended that the Eastern wine in its pure state contained very little alcohol it was merely the natural juice of the grape or sugar or other material being added to produce fermentation. A man could drink a great deal without getting drunk. It was very seldom a drunken man was seen in Jerusalem.

ST. JOHN SCANDAL.—St. John, July 11—J. Fraser Gregory, son of George F. Gregory, Q. C., the former as well known socially as his father in law and politics, is held to bail to day at the instance of one, Beeman, a citizen of Boston, who alleges that Gregory has alienated his wife's affections and deprived Beeman of the aid and comfort of her society, etc. Mrs. Beeman is a New Brunswicker by birth and plaintiff says that while pretending to be on a visit to her sick parents in Sanbury county, she was keeping company with Gregory in St. John. The husband came here for justice and seeks to have had some intention of administering physical punishment to the supposed destroyer of his home. It was found that this task was too much for a man of his size and Gregory was defiant. Beeman, therefore, retained Curry & Vincent and caused Gregory to be arrested by way of reprisal. Judge Tuck fixed bail at $1,000 which was furnished. Gregory has retained counsel and will defend the action for damages.

The only matters before the grand jury were the assault case of Margaret Wallace vs. Stephen Ryan and the case of Constable Carter of Sackville against J. B. Thompson and Pascal Hebert of Moncton an account of which appears elsewhere.

Local.

After the grand jury had selected Mr. Walter Dolson foreman the above cases were given to them for consideration. His Honor referred to the business before the grand jury as not requiring very grave consideration. According to the evidence in the assault case of Wallace vs. Ryan, a true bill should be found. In the case of Pascal Hebert for resisting arrest Judge VanWart said if they believed the statement of Carter as to what took place at the time he went to make the arrest then it was such a case as would make Hebert liable to the charge of resisting arrest. As to Thompson and Hebert, Hebert is somewhat confused and it was difficult to tell whether Thompson knew that Carter was a peace officer or not. If they believed he did then he felt it his duty to tell them they should find a true bill.

In the case of Pascal Hebert for resisting arrest Judge VanWart said if they believed the statement of Carter as to what took place at the time he went to make the arrest then it was such a case as would make Hebert liable to the charge of resisting arrest. As to Thompson and Hebert, Hebert is somewhat confused and it was difficult to tell whether Thompson knew that Carter was a peace officer or not. If they believed he did then he felt it his duty to tell them they should find a true bill.
