CHINA AND JAPAN. LONDON, April 2.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent says that the Emperor of China has instructed Li Hung Chang to ask for an audience with the Mikado himself for the armistice. If Li should be too ill his son-in-law will deliver th emessage. Li will probably ask that his assailant be pardoned or his sentence mitigated.

TO DESTROY A MONUMENT. BUDA-PESTH, April 2.—An attempt was made last night to blow up the Hentzi monument, erected to the memory of the Austrian general, Hentzi, and the 418 soldiers who fell with him defending the fortress against the Hungarians in 1849. The monument, which stands on George's Platz, is a Gothic column in bronze, 65 feet high, rising over a group of the dying heroes, crowned by Victory. A well-dressed man was seen to deposit a parcel, to which was attached a lighted fuse, near the monument. A tremendous explosion ollowed, shattering the windows of the rchduke Joseph's palace, the armory, nd other buildings in the neighbor-ood. The monument, however, was

THE CUBAN REVOLT.

HAVANA, April 2.—It is reported in Manzanillo that several rebel leaders intend to surrender. During the past week some 8,000 troops have arrived from Spain and have landed at various ports, where they were received with great enthusiasm. It is understood that they will be followed immediately by further contingents of some 10,000 men. The majority of the people here are much pleased with the appointment or Gen. Martinez Campos as Governor of the island. It is confidently expected that he will succeed in suppressing ...e political disturbance without unnecessary bloodshed. Those in arms against the Government do not appear to be increasing in numbers, and it is not likely that the present trouble will extend be-yond the Santiago de Cuba district.

FRANCE INDIGNANT. PARIS, April 2.-As an indication of the strained relations between England and France, the Matin and other French newspapers persist in insinuating that the collision on March 30 off Messina, Island of Sicily, between two British steamers, the Alvah and the Brinkburn, the latter chartered by the French Government as a transport to take troops and munitions of war to the Island of Madagascar, was due to England's malice, and that a nation capable of such an action should be made to repent it.

The Alvah, as cabled the Associated Press at the time, was sunk and the Brinkburn, which was on the way from Toulon to the Island of Madagascar with French troops and ammunition of war on board, was seriously damaged, but succeeded in making the harbor of

A POPULAR PAIR.

LONDON, April 2.-Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, who have been on a visit to Lincoln, England, to their son-in-law, the Rev. Edward C. Wickham, for some days past, drove to the railroad station today in an open carriage in spite of the cold and rain, on their way to Hawarden. Mrs. Gladstone was presented with a bouquet on behalf of the Women's Liberal Association, and an address referring in eulogistic terms to her devotion and help to her husband. Replying to the address, Mrs. Glad-stone said that they owed nothing to her, but all to her husband. Mr. Glad-stone, when his wife had finished speaking, said that he must add his thanks to those of Mrs. Gladstone, al-though he was disinclined to interfere with her speech. Continuing, he said: "The fact is, all ladies are now taking much to public speech, and if they persevere and keep steadily to it they will

Bill to Prevent Fraud in Fruit-Packing-

(Special to the "Advertiser."

The Minister of Education explained that arrangements are being made to publish a number of text-books. One of these will be a small book containing all the Euclid and algebra necessary for the junior leaving examinitions. It will cost 25 cents, while the text-books before needed cost $1 25, so that 120,000 pupils will save $1 eacl. A modernized and cheaper Frenca grammar has been prepared by Messrs. Squair and Fraser, of Toronto University. A new high school arithmetic has also been prepared by Mr. Thompsor, of Hamilton, Inspector Ballard and Prof. McKay, of McMaster Hall, which will give modernized methods and far more commercial arithmetic, and will cost 60 cents, instead of 75 cents. The writing course in the public schools has been modernized so that the books costing 5 cents each will be used instead of those costing 10 cents each Thus the total saving will be 80 cents on the whole course, and there are 300, 000 children who will benefit by the reduction. duction. The contract is very carefully made, as the Minister fully showed. At Mr. Ryerson's request the discussion of the motion was postponed. Hon. Mr. Hardy secured the approval by the House of an agreement made between him and Edward V. Douglas, of Philadelphia, and Francis H. Clergue, of Bangor, Maine. UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 2.—The coke workers have been notified that rents will be advanced from 30 to 40 per cent for company houses. The rents were reduced at the time wages were cut. Now that wages have been raised the operators want higher rent for their houses. This action and the advance in prices at the company's store offset the advance in the coker's wage and causes great dissatisfaction.

PERISHED IN THE WOODS.

Two Little Lads Start to Meet Their

Father and Lose Their Way. ROSE CITY, Mich., April 2.—Two little sons of Frank Andrus, a farmer residing two miles from this place, were lost in the woods and frozen to death. The boys (aged 4 and 6 years) left the house Wednesday forenoon, telling their mother they were going to the sugar bush, where their father was at work. The boys did not turn up and the half-crazed father, assisted by at least 150 men and boys, scoured the woods and plains, and all day Thursday, Friday and Saturday the hunt was kept up. At noon on the latter day the remains of the little wanderers were found in the woods about seven miles from their home. The lads must have wandered all day Wednesday and most of the night before becoming exhausted and lying down to die in the cold.

On the latter subject he said: "I recommend that prize fights or glove contests be made felonies by statute, with such penalties attached as will cause these thugs to respect the law and to respect the law-abiding, God-fearing people of the State in the pur-suit of all their rights as citizens."

THE CANADA RELIEF SOCIETY. TORONTO, April 2.-The Canada Relief Society, which did business on Victoria street, became insolvent several months ago, and subsequently the mas-ter in chancery held that about 1,000 of the parties interested in the society were contributors. His finding was appealed against by a number of the parties, but today at Osgoode Hall Mr. Justice Robertson's judgment was handed down upholding the master's judgment that they are liable.

Grand Spring Display

Will continue all this week. We have prepared seventeen additional cases of late novelties, and extend a cordial invitation to all who take an interest in the most elaborate display of style and fashion ever made in London to come and see us. What our former efforts have been in this direction our patrons know, and when we say that this season our preparations have been to excel anything previously attempted by any establishment in Western Ontario, you know what to expect. We have spared no labor in search of the newest, nobbiest and most exquisite goods to be found in the British and Foreign capitals. Everything that experience, capital and skill could do has been done, and in asking your attention, do so with the confidence that the time spent in inspecting here, will result in mutual profit.

The Practical Question of the Day

And one that should be considered by all persons is economywhere to get the best for your money. While we do not propose to sell goods at a loss, we think that on account of our superior facilities we can save you something. Being the largest importers in this district, and buying direct from the makers, thereby saving all middlemen's profits, we are able to sell goods often at a lower price than other houses have to pay the wholesale for them.

Novelties in Laces.

There is no department which offers greater variety than laces, which are to take a most important part as dress trimmings this season. We have every new make, and all the old ones, in every color to match our dress fabrics at prices that will surely please.

Novelties in Dress Fabrics.

Look to your hearts content, shop where you please, inquire where you may, you'll find us always in the lead. It would be a pleasure to us, and repay you, to show you our novelties in this department. In plain colors we show 32 different lines, ranging in price from 12c to $3 50 a yard. Lack of space prevents us from enumerating the different lines, all we can say is come and see for yourself.

Novelties in Millinery.

The success of the millinery opening encourages us to continue the display of patterns, hats and bonnets all this week. Last week we wrote strong things and true concerning our headwear and millinery finery. The opening was a success, both in point of enthusiasm and sales. But we never know what it is to rest on our oars. We have the facilities to make and trim, the capital, command and skill to collect smart hats and bonnets, and each day will see some new oddities added to our imported collection of French patterns. The present collection is unequaled by any store in this neighborhood, so we're told and believe.

Carpets.

Busy months are ahead of us in this department, but we have the facilities to supply your wants. Intending purchasers who are dissatisfied with the small and imperfect stocks of carpets and house furnishings kept elsewhere, should visit our carpet warehouse, Nos. 130 and 132 Carling street. From a York shilling hemp carpet to the most costly coverings will be seen there. Carpets of the most elaborate design, of the most modest colorings. We import for the trade of Western Ontario, and do not propose carrying a stock of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS IN CARPETS ALONE to be approached in price by any petty dealers in this part of the province. Our sales during last month are an evidence that our prices are unapproachable. All railroad charges prepaid on purchases out of town.

LONDON'S ELECTRIC ROAD.

Prospects Are Bright for an Early Consummation

Of the Deal-Deputation to Toronto Re Springbank Line-Lawyers Busy.

Word was received in the city last night from Toronto that the Springbank Electric Railway Bill would come up in the Local House today, and Ald. J. W. Jones and City Solicitor T. G. Meredith went to Toronto during the night. Messrs. Ivey and Carr of the street railway company went down yesterday afternoon.

Word was received in the city this afternoon that the consideration of the bill had been postponed until Friday.

Electric railway matters are progressing swimmingly and harmoniously, and the much-wanted document will soon be ready to be laid before the council in its ancient English formula of hereintofores, hereinafters, and whereuntos. There are numerous minor matters centering around the vital points of the franchise that have to be mutually agreed upon between the solicitors representing the different parties, with the supervision of those having in hand the city's welfare. The draft of the franchise sent from the committee, voluminous as it was, is but a mere skeleton of the document that must be made to "hold water" for about 30

That the agreement will go through there is not the slightest ground for doubt, and those who are on the inside track say that when things are finally in shape they will go with a hum that will surprise people. "If the franchise goes through when can you have your lines electrified?" was asked

"Well, that just depends on how quickly we can get our orders filled. This is probably the busiest year that manufacturers have ever known.

of Manager Carr.

"But your lines will be in operation by fair time? "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Carr.

A Third of a Mile Bicycle Track for Queen's Park.

Effort to Be Made To Centralize Sports in the Park-The C. W. A. Meet for 1896.

A meeting of the Fair Board executive was held in the association's rooms last evening, when the proposed bicycle track at Queen's Park was thoroughly discussed. The idea was very favorably received and a sub-committee was appointed to confer with the committee of wheelmen having the matter in charge on Saturday night. Then the draft of the agreement will be sub-

Evans of the Meteo:s. However the track will be built by a joint stock company, and no club or individual will have any spec al favors on it. All will be on the same footing; clubs will be charged a lump sum for the use of the track for meets, and individual riders will also pay for the use. Of course the fee will be virtually within the reach of everybody. What the track will be composed ofcinders, salt, or clay-is still an open question. There are many suggestions, all of which will receive consideration. Stock promises to be rapidly taken in the concern. The idea is to centralize sports in the park and make it an athletic center. It is thought that a cricket crease and football grounds will speedily make their appearance in the center of London's new one-third

Harry L. Atkinson Reads His Own Death Notice.

A Young Lad's Queer Way of Gaining Admission to a Newspaper Office Fooled the Editor.

When Mr. Harry L. Atkinson came down town this morning he was rather startled to read his own death notice in a local morning paper. He pinched himself once or twice, and when he found that he was not dead or dreaming he started out to investigate. The notice read:

ATKINSON—On the 2nd inst., Harry L., youngest son of George Atkinson, aged 30 years. Funeral (private) from the family residence, 450 King street, on Thursday, the 4th inst., 3 p.m. Service at

Inquiry at the newspaper office revealed the fact that the advertisement was given by a 12-year-old lad named Munroe living on Picton street, who sauntered into the night editor's room about midnight. He carefully dictated the particulars and gave the funeral notice as well. The fact that he had not the necessary 50 cents to pay did not bother him, and he calmly told the editor that his father would call and the newspaper office all night. He is distantly related to Mr. Atkinson (who is bookkeeper at McGill Bros., and was formerly connected with the F. C. B. C.) and no doubt thought that an advertisement of such a sorrowful nature would be carte blancne to see the sights of a newspaper office for a whole night Mr. Atkinson telegraphed his father,

For the New Free Library for Lon-

Salary $750 Per Annum - Those Who Tried for the Position and Did Not Get It.

A meeting of the Free Library Board was held in the City Hall last night to consider the appointment of a librarian for the new library. The number of applications for the position was very large, and they came from all over Western Ontario-from schoolboys 15 years old; from men in all spheres of life, and from women, too. The applications were referred at a recent meeting to a special committee to weed out a few and recommend them for a vote. In some cases it was found the applicants could not spell the simplest words or even write a plain

The following were considered as capable to fill the position: Charles T. Glass, H. B. Ashplant, James O'Brien, Thomas Porter, Dr. E. T. Ede, Robert J. Blackwell, Rev. George I. A. Thompson, John Tanton and P. E. Bucke. All belonged to London. At last night's meeting each of the board was allowed to mark his ballot for three persons, and in each ballot the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes dropped out. In the first vote Mr. Bucke retired, in the second Messrs. O'Brien and Tanton, in the third Mr. Porter and on the fourth Messrs. Ashplant and Eede. This left Messrs. Glass, Thompson and Blackwell in the fifth ballot; then Mr. Blackwell received five votes, Mr. Glass two and Mr. Thompson one. Mr. Blackwell was declared chosen, and his salary was fixed at $750 a year.

Mayor Little did not vote, but with Architect Matthews acted as one of the scrutineers.

The committee appointed to interview the managers of the Workingmen's Free Library in reference to taking over that library reported that the labor organizations were opposed to the propositions.

The members present were Chairman Robert Reid, Messrs. E. R. Cameron, Talbot Macbeth, Joseph T. Marks, H. Dignan, James Egan, Henry Macklin, Secretary Keene and Architect Matthews.

"OH, IT'S ALL RIGHT."

What's the matter with the London "Advertiser"? Oh, it's all right! It has only taken another step forward and adopted the Mergentnaler typesetting machines, which accounts for its greatly improved typographical appearance. The "Advertiser," founded by Mr. John Cameron in 1863, has always been one of the very best newspapers published in Canada, and is today the foremost journal in character and influence in Western Ontario. Commissioners Contemplate Augmenting the Supply.

Increase of Over $3,600 in the Yearly Estimates-Electric Railway Probabilities-Conduit Changes.

The water commissioners held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Commissioner Cowan was in the chair, and there were also present Mayor Little, Commissioner Judd, Engineer Moore, Secretary Ellwood and Inspectors Plastow and Platt.

Applications were received for the releasing of the Springbank Hotel. At present it is occupied free of rent by Benj. Johnston, on condition that he supply suitable accommodation to visi-asked the chairman.

"I think there is a very strong probability," answered the mayor.
And the applications were laid over.
The auditor's report for the quarter ending Feb. 28, 1895, was received and adopted. It stated that $35,000 of the $50,000 waterworks debenture issue lad been paid to the city on revenue account. The receipts for the quarier were $66,954 27, and the disbursements $46,860 18.

Engineer Moore recommended some changes in the conduit pipes from the ponds to the pumping house. The alterations consist of replacing the wooden conduit from the west pond with a cast fron one, to cost $1,500, and that the wooden conduit leading to the east pond be replaced with a glazed tile one, to cost $300. The recommendation was adopted. The purchase of three engine indicators was deferred. A $100 water-ing cart will be purchased for Spring-bank. Mr. Moore also advised the procuring of more water, pointing out that the supply would likely be short next summer. He mentioned a couple of springs -one west of the present property, and the other across the river, near Ward's—that might be procured.

The mayor and Mr. Judd wanted to know why the springs running into the river could not be utilized. The engineer replied that the water could be collected, but the cost would be greater than either of the other The matter was laid over until the Ex-Treasurer Nicholls, of London West, to Pay or Be Sued.

Threatened Action for Damages-Doings of the Council.

Mr. Wm. Nicholls, ex-treasurer of the village of London West, will have to hand over to the corporation, within the next ten days, the sum of $904, or the village solicitor will institute proceedings against him. Such was a motion passed at last night's meeting of the London West council.

Solicitor McPhillips, of London, acting for Mr. J. H. Flood, sent in a letter asking for compensation for damage done to his client. It stated that Mr. Flood was driving in London West on the evening of March 28, and at the C. P. R. overhead bridge on the Wharncliffe road, his rig had a difference with a mound of snow and ice, which Year by year since this widely known sheet was founded it has been pushing resulted in bruising Mr. Flood's several stitches being necessary. resulted in bruising Mr. Flood's head,

"Well, if a few stitches had been put in a little lower down his face before he left London, it is not likely he would have needed any when he returned,"

said Councilor Moore.

asked for remission of taxes, as they had been ill for six months and two years respectively. The finance committee will attend to the matter. A complaint was received from J. B. Leigh that the water from Blackfriars street had flooded his front yard. The only egress and ingress was by sailing or climbing over the back fence. Referred to the board of works.

The account of W. D. Stanley, of Lucan, for $60, for auditing, was up again.

As the last year's council had accepted his work, it was ordered to be paid. Gibson Wright, of Winnipeg, sent his eleventh letter to the village in regard to taxes on a certain lot which he claim ed to have sold. He also wanted his bill for taxes on the property he still own-ed. Clerk Simpson will write him.

Commissioner Laing, of the Provincial Government, sent in a bill for $226 50, and stated that he had drawn on them for the amount.

Reeve Macdonald said at this juncture that newspapers had stated and iser" has never individuals had been saying that all these investigations had been made on account of spite. Only children and tools indulge in spite; it is out of place in a council. If we have taken wrong-fully from any man, we will pay him back, and we ask for the same justice. We took the only course in getting things put in better shape, and did our duty in recovering what was justly

The clerk said that a copy of the resolution passed at last month's meeting of the council in regard to ex-Treasurer Nicholls had been sent to him.

Councilor Moore said that Mr. Nicholls had ample time to make repara-tion. Last year's council had waited five months for their books. He (Moore) had done everything in his power to help the village and had been abused, as well as other members of the counby certain newspapers and indi-uals. "I move that Mr. Nicholls be viduals. ordered to hand over the sum of $904 inside of two days, and in default that the matter be put in the solicitor's hands to take proceedings, criminal or otherwise, as he sees fit." The time was extended to ten days and the motion

The treasurer's statement was adopttd, and a number of accounts passed. The bylaws in relation to peddlers licenses and dog taxes will be enforced. A committee was appointed to mee with the manager of the London Electric Company in regard to certain lamps which it is claimed have not been lighted.

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL CASE.

THE ADVERTISER, London.

We have abstained from discussing this question at length up to the presnot deeply interested in it, but because we had not in our possession the full text of the judgment of the judicial committee of the British Privy Council and the arguments addressed to that august body upon the subject. This question, in the first case, was twice judicially dealt with by the courts of Manitoba, then by the Supreme Court of Canada, and finally by the judicial committee of the Privy Council. On the second occasion it was, in the first instance, argued before the Supreme Court of Canada upon six propositions submitted to that body by the Department of Justice; and from the judgments of the Supreme Court an appeal was taken to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The case before the judicial committee was very ably argued on both occasions-the first time by Sir Horace Davey and Mr. McCarthy on behalf of Manitoba, and by Sir Richard Webster and Mr. S. H. Blake on behalf of the Roman Catholic minority. The second case was argued by Mr. Edward Blake and Mr. Ewart on behalf of the Roman Catholic minority, and by Mr. Cozens-Hardy and Mr. Haldane on behalf of the Province. Perhaps no other disputed provision of our constitution has been so fully and so exhaustively considered, and we feel it a duty we owe to our readers to give them a perfectly accurate summary of the interpretation put upon this part of our constitution by the highest court

The vast majority of the legislative powers of the Dominion and of each province are distributed by sections 91 and 92 of the constitution. Section 91 enumerates the powers of the Dominion. and 92 those which pertain to the provinces. These are mutually exclusive, each is sovereign within its own sphere, and the advocates of provincial rights have always maintained that in respect to anything coming within any of the enumerated powers of section 92, the Government of the Dominion ought not to interfere—that it is the constitutional right of the province to judge exclusively for itself what it shall undertake and what it shall abstain from undertaking within this exclusive spherethat in respect to all such matters the system of Parliamentary Government constitutionally protects the province from any attempt at supervision on the part of the Federal Ministry.

When we look at section 95 we find power given to each province to legislate in respect to agriculture and immigration; but it also provides that such legislation shall be subordinate to the legislation of Canada upon the same is clear that upon these subjects the authority of Parliament is paramount; and whenever the legislation of a province becomes repugnant to the legislation of Canada, the provincial law gives way. It would then be wholly at variance with the letter and spirit of the law to attach the same meaning to provincial rights in respect to agriculture and immigration that one would attach in respect to municipal institutions, property and civil rights, the management and sale of public lands, and other matters which fall within the exclusive jurisdiction of the province.

There is a third topic which falls short of the absolute jurisdiction of matters assigned exclusively to the provinces, but which nevertheless gives to the provinces a much wider authority than they possess in respect to agriculture and immigration. This is the subject of education. Now we desire our readers to bear in mind that the rights of the provinces under the constitution are the rights which the constitution bestows, and which the system of responsible government entitles them to exercise free from external interference. It does not warrant the encroachment by a province upon the sphere assigned to Dominion jurisdiction. It does not entitle the Province to say where the field is divided that it shall be allowed without question to appropriate the whole and to claim absolute authority where the authority bestowed is expressly

It is argued that in the Jesuits Estates Act the principle of provincial rights was recognized, and this was the ground upon which the Parliament of Canada refused to interfere. That is so. But it must be remembered that the Jesuits Estates were property situated in the Province of Quebec. So far as the crown possessed any right in them, it was the crown as part of the Government of Quebec. By section 109 of the British North America Act, "all lands shall belong to the province in which they are situate"; and by section 92 their management and sale are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the province. The provincial authority, in not a qualified authority, and to have interfered with it by the Parliament of Canada would have been asserting a right to exercise a controlling influence over a matter which the constitution says shall be within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Province. In other words, it would have been a clear invasion of an absolute right. This invasion, too, would have related to a matter especially concerning the popular branch of the legislature, for the revenues of the Crown are even beyond ordinary questions of legislation subject to a paramount authority on the part of the people's representatives. This distinction must be borne in mind. The British North America Act, section 92, bestows upon the provincial legislature. as we have already said, but a qualified jurisdiction. It is declared that the provincial legislature "may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following provisions," and then are set out four sub-sections, which qualify these exclusive powers, and which limit the exclusive jurisdiction of the legislature. These powers of limitation relate to accomplished facts in part, and in part to what may transpire in legislating upon the subject.

With regard to privileges relating to separate schools "at the union." Any violation of the right, any subsequent legislation which prejudicially affects the right, is ultra vires, and would be declared void by the courts; but there is a line of constitutional policy marked out by the act, and it is a part of the compact of the union that if the right does not exist at the union, but is subsequently bestowed, and the minority upon whom it is conferred, if they desire to maintain it, shall have the right to appeal to the Governor-General-in-Council, and he may call upon the proper provincial authority to uphold the right and to remove the ground of complaint; and if this is not done, the Parliament of Canada may, as far as each case may require, make remedial laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section.

It will be remembered that the time of the union, separate schools were conceded to the Roman Catholics of Ontario, and to the Protestant and Roman Catholic minorities in the Province of Quebec. In New Brunswick and in Nova Scotia there existed provincial systems, and the representatives of those provinces yielded to the supporters of the principle of denominational schools this far, that if they once conceded them they could not recall the subjects, and if repugnant to any act privilege, if the minority upon whom of the Parliament of Canada the privilege was bestowed could make have effect. It it clear to the Governor-General in ing he has a constitutional discretion

Council that this privilege was affected by subsequent legislation.

Such is the compact disclosed in this part of the British North America Act. This is made perfectly clear by the speech of Lord Carnarvon when proposing the second reading of the British North America Act. His words

"Your Lordships will observe some rather complicated arrangements in 'regard to education. I need hardly 'say that this great question gives rise to nearly as much earnestness, and 'division of opinion, on that, as on this "side of the Atlantic. This clause has been framed, after a long and anx-"ious controversy, in which all parties have been represented, and on condi-'tions to which all have given their consent. It is an understanding which, as it only concerns the local interests affected, is not one that Parliament would be willing to disturb, even if in the opinion of Parliament it were susceptible of amendment 'but I am bound to add, as the expression of my opinion, that the terms of 'the agreement appear to me to be equitable and judicious."

This quotation shows that the subject had been fully considered by the delegates, and that the terms of their agreement were embraced in these provisions of the act. When Manitoba entered the Union, the terms were substantially the same, in respect to education, as those embraced in the B. N. A. Act. The judicial committee say in "The terms upon which Manitoba was 'to become a province of the Dominion 'were matters of negotiation between representatives of the inhabitants of Manitoba and of the Dominon Government. The terms agreed upon so far 'as education was concerned, must be 'taken to be embodied in the 22nd sec-'tion of the act of 1870. Their Lordships do not think that anything is to be gained by the inquiry how far the provisions of this section place the Province of Manitoba in a different 'position from the other provinces, or 'whether it was one more or less ad-'vantageous. There can be no pre-'sumption as to the extent to which a 'variation was intended. This can only 'be determined by construing the words "of the section according to their natur-"al signification. * * * * At the outset this question presents itself: 'Are the second and third sub-sections, as contended by the respondent, and affirmed by some of the judges of "the Supreme Court, designed only to enforce the prohibition contained in "the first sub-section? The arguments 'against this contention appear to their 'Lordships conclusive. In the first 'place, that sub-section needs no further provision to enforce it. It imposes a limitation on the legislative 'powers conferred. Any enactment 'contravening its provisions is beyond the competency of the Provincial "Legislature, and, therefore, null and "void. * * * * * The first subection is confined to a right 'privilege of 'a class of persons' with respect to denominational education 'at the Union.' The second sub-sec-"tion applies to laws affecting a right "or privilege of 'the Protestant or Ro-"man Catholic minority' in relation to "education. If the object of the second "sub-section had been that contended for by the respondent, the natural "and obvious mode of expressing such "intention would have been to author-"ize an appeal from any Act of the "Provincial Legislature affecting 'any 'such right or privilege aforesaid.' The "limiting words at the Union are, how-'ever, omitted: for the expression 'any "class of persons' there is substituted "the Protestant or Roman Catholic "minority" of the 'Queen's subjects," "and instead of the words with respect "to 'denominational schools' the wider "term 'in relation to education' is used. "The first sub-section invalidates a law "affecting prejudicially the right or "privilege of any class of persons, the second sub-section gives an appeal 'only where the right or privilege afted is that of the 'Protestant or 'Roman Catholic minority.' Any class of the majority is clearly within the "purview of the first sub-section, but "it seems equally clear that no class "of the Protestant or Roman Catholic "majority would have a locus standi "to appeal under the second sub-secbecause its rights or privi-"leges had been affected. Moreover, to "bring a case within that sub-sec-"tion it would be essential to would be essential to that a right or privilege had been affected. Could this be said to be the case because a void law had been passed which purported to do 'something, but was wholly ineffectual? "To prohibit a particular enactment, "and render it ultra vires, surely pre-'vents it affecting any rights. It would 'do violence to sound canons of con-"struction if the same meaning were "to be attributed to the very different "language employed in the two subsections. In their Loraships' opinion 'the second sub-section is a substantive enactment, and is not designed merely

'which precedes it." Their Lordships then declare that the act applies to legislation subsequent to the Union, a to the rights and privileges existing at the time the act of 1890 was passed. They say that when the right to local assessment, the right to the school houses erected by their own money, is taken from them, it is impossible to say that the rights and privileges, in relation to education, which existed prior to 1890, have not been affected. They also say that it is not essential that the statutes repealed should be re-enacted, or that their precise provisions should again be made

'as a means of enforcing the provision

"The system embodied in the act of 1890 no doubt commends itself to "and adequately supplies the wants of 'the great majority of the inhabitants "of the Province. And that all legiti-'mate ground of complaint would be 'removed, if that system were supplemented by provisions which would remove the grievance upon which the 'appeal is founded, and were modified "so far as might be necessary to give "effect to these provisions."

Nothing can be clearer than that the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council hold that the Legislature of Manitoba have legislated away a privilege. The plan of the B. N. A. Act is that in this respect, if the contract is broken, an appeal shall be had to the Governor-General, and upon that clearly appear to ac. It was not intended to tie the hands of the Legislature so as to make change in the law impossible; it may raise the standard; it may alter the mode of paying the teachers; it may charge the system of inspection; but the privilege to the minority must reman untouched.
I remain, yours faithfully,

It has been said that Parliament ought not to be called upon to interfere. We admit that interference is an extreme measure. We ought not to as sume that Manitoba will not act in obedience to the law, and modify her system in conformity to the judgment of the Privy Council. It is true, as the Lord Chancellor said during the argument, "The constitution gives the ultimate remedy by legislation by the Dominion Parliament, which otherwise has 10 power to legislate on any such matter in the Province. That is the ultinate remedy it interposes between the action of the Dominion Parliament and the Provincial Legislature, the Governor and his consideration of the matter, and his decision, and, there fore, it is a check upon the interference by the Dominion Parliament in its legislative capacity with the Province as regards education."

It must be borne in mind that under the English Parliamentary system all constitutional powers are political. There is no coercive power to enforce a political obligation. Nothing could be more preposterous than to argue that because Parliament is not compelled to act, therefore nothing should be done. Upon such a rule, no faith would be kept by any sovereign body. The United States might refuse, in Congress, to make any provision for paying the Canadian sealers. The question to be considered is, is this a case which, in its spirit, falls within the class of privileges to be safeguarded, or does it fall outside of that class and within the field allowed for progressive legislation? If within the first, the duty of interference exists; if within the second, it does not arise,

We shall conclude this article with an observation by the Lord Chancellor during the argument, in reply to Mr. Haldane, who said this supervising power was a most unusual and extraordinary way of dealing with the matter. The Lord Chancellor replied "Is it so extraordinary when you remember that this was an arrangement as one of the terms on which the union was to be effected? It would be shutting one's eyes to the most obvious facts which were exhibited on the face of the British North America Act itself, if one were not to see that one of the obstacles to this federation scheme was the fear of educational legislation in the separate and distinct Provinces which might affect the position of those who desired a denominational education. That runs through all the provisions of section 93, and it appears to me to be on the face of section 22 also. Therefore it is not extraordinary in that case to find limitations and safeguards and superior legislative power given to the Dominion Parliament, which represents the country as a

Is it right for this country to keep faith, or should it assume that, so far as it can, it will act as freely as if no compact existed? One thing is clear. that the subject requires very much fuller discussion before the public can judge fairly in regard to it. There is a constitutional way of amending the constitution. Its political obligations call for honest observance no less than those which are under the jurisdiction of the courts. The law imposes no restraint upon a Provincial right. When the superintending authority of the Dominion Parliament arises, it is when the boundary of the Provincial right has been crossed and the compact broken; then it is the constitutional duty of Parliament to safeguard the privilege invaded. This is the law, and must so remain until it is changed by an Imperial Act, or by Revolution.

Gentlemen,-I think it is due to you to let you know the benefits I have received from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have been suffering off and on for three years from bladder trouble, with a constant desire to urinate, with its accompanying weakness. Medicine furnished by a skillful physician afforded me temporary relief, but the trouble would return, often at very awkward times. I was persuaded to try the pills, and obtained relief from the first. Before I had taken one 25 cent box I felt better than I had for years, and have had not the slightest symptoms of the complaint since. As there are, no doubt. many others who are suffering from like troubles, and to whom a cure would be a similar boon, you are welcome to

WINDSOR, April 2 .- Judge Horne this morning handed to Assistant City Clerk Mc-Arthur his judgment in the Windsor salt works case. He dismisses their appeal against the tax levied upon them. The decision recites that on Feb. 27, 1893, the City Council, by resolution. declared their willingness to pass a, bylaw protecting from tax...tion manufacturers who would establish industries in the city, provided they would guarantee the employment of 25 men, and did not enter into competition with any other industry. The promoters of the salt works, who were most of them C. P. R. men, conferred with the sitting mayor, Mr. Fleming, who assured them everything was all right, so they went ahead. After the works were completed they asked the council to authorize the exemption by a bylaw but it was refused a number of times, and the tax, amounting to $735, was levied. Judge Horne is not prepared to say that the resolution had the same effect as a bylaw, and therefore decides against the salt works. A nice point of law involved is the right assumed by the C. P. R. Company to rent or use its exempted lands for other than railroad purposes. IN POLITICAL CIRCLES.

Mrs. Williams Calmly Admits Her Terrible Crime-Her Sad Story.

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.-Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, who killed her two children at the Park Hotel yesterday, was examined by Coroner Herbst this morning. She was perfectly calm, and showed no signs of insanity, relating the story of her domestic troubles, the disregard of her husband for her and the children, her conclusion to end her misery and theirs by murder and suicide, and how she partially carried the plan into effect.

A letter found in the house in Grove City, and addressed to her husband was shown to her by the coroner, Though it was not signed, she admitted that she wrote it. It upbraided the husband for his cruelty to his family. She said he had never cared for anything but his own pleasure and comfort, and that he would have that at any cost, She announced in the letter her determination to kill her children and com-

Neither Will a Commercial Form Be Established.

Salaries of Two Principals Raised $190-Miss Saidie Vining Resigns-Wanted Fair Play.

The Board of Education held a busy two-hour session last night. It was the regular monthly meeting, and among the business which came up was the consideration of the text-book question, and the establishment of a commercial form. The propositions were fathered by Mr. Griffin, trustee for No. 3 ward, and he has stuck by them through thick and thin. The commercial form will not be established, nor will free text-books be supplied. But a change will be made in the upper rooms at two schools which may go towards meeting Mr. Griffin's views. Then again, the salary question was considered, and while two of the principals received $100 increases, the board absolutely refused to interfere in the payment of janitors. The members present were: Chairman D. W. Blackwell, Trustees Logan, Turner, Sanders, Martyn, Wilkins, Greenlees, Anderson, Craig, Keenleyside, Murphy, Griffin, Dr. Campbell, Hunt, Johnston, Buchner, Dr. Wilson, Principal Merchant, Inspecter Carson and Secretary McElheran.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.
Mr. Sanders' report from No. 1 committee left with the board the question of raising Mr. Bryant's salary as principal of King street school. It advised that Mr. Althouse, of Rectory street, be paid the same salary as before, $800. Both principals were highly spoken of and after a little questioning as to whether or not provision had been made for increases, the salaries went up $100. Another clause recommended that free text-books should not be provided in the schools. Mr. Griffin, in prefacing an amendment to this stated that he wanted the Free Press to give him credit for certain things. The "Advertiser" had given him a very fair report at the last meeting of the finance committee when he showed that a supply of text-books would only cost $600 a year. The Free Press representative was not at the meeting, but the next morning that paper came out stating that it would cost $6,000. He had written to the Free Press to show them the true position of affairs, but they had not either acknowledged or published the communication. Mr. Griffin's amendment was that the history, grammar, arithmetic and readers be furnished free.

Chairman Blackwell-The amendment is in order, but your remarks about the newspapers are not. Mr. Griffin-Well, I think they are, The reporter of the Free Press was not at the meeting, and I should have the privilege of explaining. The amendment was defeated, the mover and Mr. Johnston only voting for COMMERCIAL FORMS. Clause 7 recommended that the curriculum of the senior rooms in Princess avenue and Aberdeen schools be so changed as to give more time for the teaching of composition, spelling, book-keeping, commercial, geography, writing and arithmetic, and that the change, together with the time table, be submitted to the committee for approval; that pupils for entrance work from the districts referred to be permitted to attend other schools in which classes for high school entrance are taught, and that the change be made after the midsummer holidays. In amendment to this Mr. Hunt moved that the board adopt a scheme to provide for a higher grade or commercial form of education to be taught in the public schools, to take effect upon the opening after the midsummer holidays; that the present entrance examination form the basis of entrance to the form, with the exception that pupils who may have failed in passing the entrance in some subjects not really necessary for commercial work may be referred by the principal to the inspector for promotion. The amendment also stipulated that Inspector Carson be instructed to prepare a satisfactory plan for this course Mr. Hunt spoke strongly in support of his ideas, and was followed by Mr. Griffin with a further amendment that a separate room and an expert teacher be secured for a commercial form. This was ruled out of order by the chairman, who held that no provisiosn had been made in the estimates for such a step. After a motion to hoist the matter for six months was defeated, Mr. Anderson moved that a room be furnished at the Princess avenue school for commercial

Mr. Griffin was on his feet in an instant. "That," he said, "is a similar motion to mine, and should be ruled out of order.

It was. When the vote was finally Mr. Hunt's amendment was defeated and the clause in the report was adopted.

IF NOT SATISFIED, RESIGN. The question of janitors' salaries was thrashed out again, when No. 2 committee recommended that the applications of Messrs. Smale and McDonald for increased remuneration be filed. Mr. McDonald was present, and though a strong objection was made by Mr. Anderson, he was allowed to address the board. He told how well he did his work, and how he saved the board many a dollar by doing all repairs. He had more labor than other janitors re-ceiving the same salary. Mr. Sanders wanted the question laid over for a to allow his constituent. Mr. Smale, to attend, but Trustee Griffin fought against any delay. He moved that all salaries remain as they are. If any increase was granted all the school officials would be flocking after more money. If any janitor was not satisfied he could resign. No trouble would be experienced in securing new ones. The committee's recommencation adopted by a vote of 8 to 7.

STILL INCREASING. Principal Merchant reported 636 pupils on the Collegiate institute roll for March. The average attendance was 580, or an increase of 3% as compared with the same month of last year.
Inspector Carson's report stated that Misses Kilbourne and Henderson had resumed duties after three monabsence. Miss Pocock, teacher at coe street school, had been greent through illness for about two months, and was still unable to take her classes. Through the return of Miss Kilbourne, Miss McNaughton had been thrown out of employment, but with the consent of the chairman was appointed to a class in Colborne street school. Miss Grieve was moved from Colborne to Simcoe street to fill Miss Pocock's room. It was necessary to appoint two teachers to take charge until the end of June of the two rooms to be opened on the corner of Waterloo and Gray streets. COULD NOT CHANGE THE LAW.

see his way clear to amend the school law in the direction asked by the board.

At the last meeting of the board the following resolution was moved by Mr. Jeffery, seconded by Dr. Campbell, and carried: "That the board petition the Minister of Education for Ontario to so affected the Education and the Education and the second the sec amend the Education act that only the amount of school taxes actually paid by non-residents shall be credited against the fees which pupils attending the city schools are required to pay."

The above was the Minister's reply.

It was filed. MOTIONS AND NOTICES. Dr. Campbell moved that the use of the Collegiate Institute be granted the medical faculty for Friday evening next. Carried. Mr. Logan gave notice of motion that Principal Althouse be transferred from Rectory street school to Princess avenue, Principal May from Park street to Rectory, and Principal Woodburn from Princess avenue to Park.

Mr. Griffin gave notice of motion that $2 per month be charged each pupil attending the upper school in the Collegiate Institute.

FEEDING MILCH COWS.

to Maintain Even Production Throughout the Season

One of the important items in securing the best profit from the cows is to have an even flow of milk well maintained throughout the season. On many farms there are cows that for a short season after they come in fresh yield a good flow of milk, but this soon begins to tail, especially if care is not taken in the feeding and management, and at the end of seven or eight months the quantity they give is so small that they are allowed to go dry. Many cows are kept that if charged a fair price for the food they eat would not pay for their keep.

The first important item is to have good cows. Then they must be well fed, even in summer. While during growing season the pastures can be largely relied upon it will pay to give also a light feed of bran and cornmeal, or bran and middlings. Then in order to make sure of a good supply of cheap food it will also be a good plan to plant some crop like sweet corn, fodder corn, millet, sorghum, or something of this kind that can be used at any time when needed. There should be a change of feed occasionally, so as to keep the cow with a good appetite, as the more good food the good dairy cow conrames the more good milk she will give. It will also be a good plan to divide the pastures so that she can be changed from one to the other at least every ten days. The cows will do much better than it they are compelled to depend upon one pasture. Besides, by changing, there will be less waste of feed. With all animals there is a natural inclination to eat the tender, sweet growth, and in doing this, when kept in one pasture, there will grow up mature seed. By dividing up the pastures and hanging from one to the other, grass will all be eaten down more evenly. There should always be sweet. ous grasses in the pas the cows can get enough to satisfy their appetites without tramping too long or too far. The quieter and more comfortable the cows can be kept the better the results. Feed to keep the cow in a good, thirfty condition. It is not possible to make a good dairy cow fat, but good treatment will keep her in good condition. Her food will be converted into milk rather than flesh.-St. Louis Republic.

Dry Fodder for Dairy Cows. The quantity of dry fodder given to a cow may be fifteen to twenty pounds daily. It depends on what other food is given, as if part of the food is ensilage, or roots, or much grain is given less hay will be needed. But if hay and grain are used, the feed may be ten pounds of each, or two-thirds of hay and one-third meal. It is best to have the grain ground as finely as possible, and the food is best digested when the hay is cut into chaff and wetted and the meal is mixed with it. The food is better masticated; and Lou Paladino, Manager. this first digestive process when best done, aids the other digestive organs to do the work.

Why Good Roads Are Needed. The wheelmen have taken the lead in demanding good country roads, and the construction of proper roads will remove one of the chief objections to country residence. Well-graded, smooth roads, properly drained and well cared for, are a public interest that demands universal attention. They are a prime factor of civilization.-Review of Reviews.

Cattle—Prices today were 2½c per pound for common butchers', up to 24c per pound for choice butchers' cattle; butchers' easter cattle, 34c to 44c, one lot of exceptionally choice steers and heifers fetching 5c per lb. In export cattle 3½c to 4¾o, one lot of except-onally choice steers and heifers fetching 5c per lb. In export cattle the market is purely nominal. One of two choice steers brought 4½c per lb, but most of the sales were made at 3½c per lb for bulls up to 4c per lb for good cattle fat enough for export; stockers and feeders nominal at from 2½c to 3c per lb. Of milch cows and springers there were about 15 head in, and all sold, but poor prices were paid in nearly every instance, the top figure being $35.

Sheep and lambe—Offerings very light. Lambs were firmer, making an advance of about ½c per lb. Sheep quiet; no buying for export. Butchers are buying a few sheep at from 2½c to 3½c, or about ¾t to $5 per head.

Hogs—Decided advance; one car load of choice long, lean hogs was reported sold at 5c and 5½c has been paid in the country for hogs to be delivered next June. Several sales were made at 90c per cwt, weighed off the cars. For the best long, lean bacon hogs today the general range was from ¾t 75 to §4 87 per cwt—an advance of about 5c per cwt from last Friday's prices.

Dean Innes, president of the Humane Society, presided at the regular monthly meeting of the society yesterday afternoon. Among those present were Miss Kathleen Hutchinson (secretary), F. J. Darch_(treasurer), Thos. McCormick, Andrew Thompson, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. Whitehead, Inspector Sanders and others. The inspector's report, which was a most interesting document, contained a detailed account of what had been done in a number of cases referred to him.

A couple of horses were ordered to the boneyard and the owners took them there. Another horse should go but the owner, who is a peddler, has both feet badly frozen and has a sick wife and six small children and he could not get on without the animal. Mr. Sanders reported that a city livery which had been complained of because the horses were not properly fed had changed hands and the matter was now remedied. The Wilde-Queensberry Libel Suit in Court.

Oscar Takes the Stand In His Own Behalf.

Denies the Charges of Immorality-A Letter Written to Queensberry's Son.

LONDON, April 3.-The Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey, was densely packed with people long before the hour of opening, 10:30 a.m., today, the attraction being the trial of the action of Oscar Wilde against the Marquis of Queensberry for libel. Justice Collins took his seat on the bench at 10:30, and the case was called. The prosecution was conducted by Sir Edward Clarke, Q.C., M.P., and the Marquis of Queensbury was defended by Edward H. Carson, Q.C., M.P. Lawyer Bestly watched the proceedings on behalf of Lord Douglas, of Hawick, son of the Marquis.

Oscar Wilde, wearing a light blue overcoat entered the court-room with his solicitor, Mr. Humphreys. He resolutely maintained an air of unconcern despite the fact that everybody was staring at him and took a seat in front of Sir Edward Clarks.

The Marquis of Queensberry entered the dock, and in answer to the usual questions pleaded not guilty, adding that the so-called libel was true and had been made known in the interest of public morality. Sir Edward Clarke, in opening the case, reviewed the evidence taken in the police court, dwelling upon the writing on the card which constituted the libel complained of. This writing alleged that Mr. Wilde had been posing immorally. It would be noticed, he said, that it was not charged that there was any actual offense, but the gravity of the case consisted in the fact that the libels com-plained of had extended over a long period of time. The Marquis of Queensberry, Sir Edward said, had also accused Mr. Wilde of having solicited a number of gentlemen to engage with him in a series of grave offenses. Several of these gentlemen would be called to deny whatever the marquis might say on cross-examination. At this point the marquis, who, WITH CLENCHED FISTS, sat glaring at Mr. Wilde, made a move ment as though he intended to attack him, and he undoubtedly would have done so had it not been for the persons between them.

Sir Edward, continuing, said that Mr. Wilde had been a great friend of the Queensberry family until 1890, when he earned that offensive statements were being made against him by a man named Wood, who had either stolen or found some letters written by Mr., Wilde to Lord Alfred Douglas. Wood offered to return these letters for money and afterwards at Wood's earnest entreaty Mr. Wilde paid his fare to America. Later Mr. Wilde learned that two men named Knebley and Allen pretended to have in their possession compro-mising letters, but Mr. Wilde refused to purchase them. Mr. Wilde, he said, admitted having written in 1893 a most extravagant letter to Lord Alfred Douglas in answer to a near the letter take into consideration the artistic cir-cles in which Mr. Wilde moved. Mr. Wilde himself described this letter as a presence of the servants and refused further admittance. The annoyance was aggravated by the behavior of the marquis on the first night of the production of any of Mr. Wilde's plays.

A FUNNY LETTER.

The letter which Mr. Wilde had written to Lord Alfred Douglas was read, and is as follows:

"My Dear Boy,—Your sonnet is quite lovely. Your roseleaf lips seem made no less for the music of song than for the madness of kisses. Your slim gilt soul walks between poetry and passion. I know that Hyacinthus, who was loved by Apollo, was you in the Greek days. Why are you alone in London and when do you go to Salisbury. Do you sleep in the gray twilight of gothic things? Come here whenever you like, but go to Salisbury first." The marquis, Sir Edward Clarke said, now attacked Mr. Wilde respecting his "Dorian Grey," and his articles in he Chameleon, which it is alleged he published in the furnishment and for the furnishment. lished in the interests and for the furtherance of immoral practices.

Mr. Wilde was then call to the stand and detailed his relations with the family of the marquis.

Mr. Wilde testified that Wood produced three letters which were of no duced three letters which were of no importance. Afterwards, in response to a strong appeal from Wood, he gave him f15 with which to go to America. Later Allen brought to him a copy of one of these letters which had been sent to Beerebohm Tree. Allen demanded £60 for the letter. Wilde laughed at him and refused to pay the money, say-ing he had never received as much as f60 for his own short prose writings. He told Allen he had better sell the letter to somebody else. Subsequently he gave Allen a half-sovereign for him-self. Mr. Tree had handed him (Wilde) what purported to be a copy of a let-ter written by Wilde. When the Marquis of Queensberry called at his house in 1893 Wilde asked him whether he had nished rooms for Lord Alfred Douglas. Wilde asked the marquis if he really accused him of the crime implied, where-upon the marquis replied, "You look it, and if I catch you with my son again

I will thrash you."
Wilde, continuing, said he replied to the marquis: "I don't know the Queensberry rules, but the Oscar Wilde rules are short and at sight." Then, when we were in the hall I said to a servant: "This is the Marquis of Queensberry, the most infamous brute in London. Do not let him enter the house again."
Wilde said it was absolutely untrue that he had taken the rooms for Lord Alfred Douglas, or that he had stopped with him at the Savoy Hotel. He had no connection with the Chameleon, and disapproved of the article entitled "Acolyte and Priest," which had been published therein. As regarded "Dorian Grey," Wilde said it had first appeared as a serial in Lippincott's Magazine, but had been altered when published in book form. Cross-examined by Mr. Carson, Mr.

Wilde admitted that he had stayed with Lord Alfred Douglas, Mr. Cromer and Mr. Worthing at various hotels in London. He was aware that Lord Alfred had written articles in the Chameleon. One of them, entitled "Two Loves," he did not regard as proper, though the "Lovts" were boys. He regarded por-tions of "Priest and Acolyte" as disgusting, but he did not think it blasphemous. He knew that the Chameleon phemous. He knew that the Chameleon had a circulation among the students of Oxford University. Referring to his publication, "Philosophy of the Young," Mr. Carson asked Wilde if he believed what he had written.

Wilde answered: "I rarely write what I believe to be truth." Continuing Wilde

I believe to be truth." Continuing Wilde said that he believed that the realization of self was the primal end of life. Mr. Wilde maintained perfect composure. He frequently ran his fingers through his hair, a habit peculiar to him. Several times he propounded paradoxes to Mr. Carson, and in the course of the questioning contended that the letter addressed to Lord Alfred Douglas was beautiful, but that it could not be judged as a letter apart from art. He denied that he had "madly adored" a man twenty years his jun-for. He did not adore anyone except himself, nor did he believe that any book affected the conduct of its read-

"Oh, ves. Did vou not know? It was in to-day's paper; but perhaps you have not noticed it. He was not so rich as people thought him to be, and that preyed upon his mind. The doctors say that all his excitement and his eager way of talking about his riches merely showed the strain that he was undergoing. If he had made up his mind at once to retrenen and to live quietly, he could have weathered the storm, they say. But a sort of madness seemed to have taken hold of him. He is not a bankrupt, but the house and everything will have to be sold at once, and Aunt Jacky and I will have only a pittance to live upon. But you must not be sorry for me, dear," she said, suddenly breaking off at the sight of a trange expression on Hannington's face; "as long as I have you, I want nothing else! And you will not love me any the less if I am a beggar, will you?"

CHAPTER III.

Haunington was aghast. And, even at that moment, not only for his own sake. He was sorry for Stella, though he was sorrier for himself. Stella Raeburn a beggar! Could this be true? 'It is bad news indeed," he said, not able to keep his dismay out of his voice. "You will not love me the less, will you,

"No, dear; oh, no. But-we can't disguise the fact, Stella-it may make a material difference in our plans for the future. I-I-am not-rich." He could not give her this hint without perfectly genuine agitation. It seemed to him that fate had played him a cruel trick.

"I know," said Stella, slipping her little hand-oh, so confidingly-into his nerveless fingers, "you told me that in the boat. But we are young and strong; we can work and wait-surely? It may not be for so very

"What shall you do then?"

"Oh, John, don't look as if you were angry with me.

"I am not angry, dear; or at least I am only angry with circumstances-for your sake-that things should have turned out Stella turned towards him pleadingly. "If it is God's will that we should suffer, John, ought we to repine?" Hannington had difficulty in repressing his usual shrug. "It does not grieve me to think that I must work for my own living," she went on, her sweet level tones wavering a little now and then. "If only I could have worked for my dear, dear father, how gladly I would have done it! There is nothing hard in working for those we love. What I grieve for is his death and his distress of mind before he died." "I am afraid," said Hannington "that everybody cannot be so unworldly as you,

She gave him a troubled, puzzled look. She did not see his meaning in the least. "Don't you approve of my plan?" she asked. "Did you mean to carry it out here, in

"No, not in Dundee. I could not bear it here; and it would be worse for Aunt Jacky than for me. Some friends of ours, the Sinclairs, have written to us to stay with them in Dunkeld for a little time, and if I go there I may be able to get some work."

"It is a horrible idea," said Hannington, suddenly rising and beginning to pace the room. "You are not fit to work. And I-I am a poor, miserable dog, with barely a sixpence in the world. I-don't see what we are to do.'

His eyes fell; he could not bear to look her in the face.

"We must wait," sald Stella, softly.
"Yes, we must wait," he said, in almost an eager tone "We really cannot decide on anything just yet. If you go on your visit to Dunkeld, perhaps something will turn up-we must not be rash, you know, Stella; I must not let you be rash-"

He stopped abruptly and drummed with his fingers on a little table that happened to be near at hand. Stella sat with donwcast eyes, the color stealing into her pale cheeks. Was he going to propose something rash on his own account? There are times when women adore rashness. If he had asked her to marry him in a week, Stella could not have found it in her heart to say him nay. But that proposal was not in his mind at

"When should you go?" he asked, advancing towards her, but not touching herrather holding himself back a little rigidly, as if under some constraint. "Next week, I think. The sooner we are out of the house the better. There is to be "I shall know where you are? I shall be able to write to you?"

"You see I shall not be able to stay much longer in this neighborhood," said Hanninging, rather nervously. "My visit to the Esquharts terminates next week, and I—I don't quite know what I am going to do then. You will let me know your move-

For almost the first time Stella felt hurt and chilled. She lifted her eyes with a lovely reproach in their azure depths-"Of course I shall, John!"

He bit his lip. "And I shall see you again or write to you," he said. "I think I must really be getting off; I shall only just be in time to dress for dinner."

Stella was a little surprised. "It is five o'clock," she said. "I thought they did not dine till eight at the Towers. You will take some tea before you go?"
"Thanks, no; I would rather not. You will give kind messages from me to your aunt? I must see her another time." was becoming extremely anxious to get

'May I tell her, John?" "No, I think not, dear. Not just yet, darling," he said turning his eyes away, and trying to speak softly. "I will write."
"You are not vexed with me, are you?" she asked coming up to him, and laying her hand gently on his arm.

"Vexed with you? Certainly not. Why should I be vexed? I-confound it all, Stella, don't you see what a position I am in?" he said, actually stamping with vexation, and then relenting when he saw hr frightened face. "Poor little darling! it isn't your fault You are the sweetest. noblest, most perfect of perfect women! Dear Stella! you do care for me a little, don't you? You won't quite forget me?"

He kissed her as he spoke. She had no idea that he meant his kiss for an eternal farewell. She clung to him trembling, and looked piteously into his face. "Must you go," she asked.

"I must, indeed. Good-bye, my little darling. Don't try to keep me, there's a good girl. I'll write." She released him at once. Her face was very white, and her lips quivered, but she did not utter a single sob or a complaining word. She had heard it said that women were cowards and incapable of self-control. She would show her lover that she could be bravely mistress of herself, He kissed her again, and hurried out of the room, not daring to look back. In view of the resolution which he knew that he should ultimately take, he felt himself the meanest of Stella watched him depart, and then, as was perhaps natural, she threw herself on a sofa, and burst into an agony of sobs. The interview had been wretched unsatisfactory, but what she wanted she scarcely knew. Some of Hannington's looks and tones returned to her with startling distinctness; but she did not yet know their full meaning. Any doubt of his fidelity would have seemed to her cruelly disloyal.

Hannington strode down to the railway station, when he took a train to the village on the outskirts of which Esquhart Towers was situated, and arrived at his host's abode about six o'clock in the afternoon. He went straight to his own room, and did not appear till dinner-time, having, in the meantime, said Stella, shyly. "I thought of taking a thoroughly reviewed the situation, and situation, if you would not mind—if you made up his mind what to do. "A very would not be ashamed of me. I speak near thing!" he said to himself. "It was as French and German fluently, you know, and close to making a mess of it as ever I was in I my life. Luckily nobody knew, and I can who, it is believed, for nearly a year have don't think I should find any difficulty in back out of it in time. Why, if I am to been robbing the United States Express marry a girl with no money, I might as well company. It is roughly estimated that the take Lady Val, who has pride and spirit and company has been victimized to the extent good blood, and can amuse a fellow when he's low. Stella's not a patch upon her eyes filling with tears at the sharp edge in his cice. "I must see that my aunt wants nothing; and our income will be very small."

"What shell you do then?"

"What shell you do then?" was a very near thing!"

He looked as brisk and bright as usual when he appeared in the drawing room before dinner, and Lady Val eyed him somewhat curiously. It fell to his lot to take her down to dinner, and no sooner were they established at the table, aad a busy hum of talk was arising on every side, than she turned with one of her abrupt but not ungraceful movements, and said, in a quick,

"Well, how about the little Dundee girl of yours?"

He looked at her in surprise. "You've been to see her, I know. How was she?" (To be Continued.)

A Brand New Way to Pay Old Debts. VICTORIA, B. C., April 2.-Robert Ward & Co., who four weeks ago had Shipbuilder John Clark imprisoned for debt due to them which he could not pay, on Saturday continued civil action against Clark and his partner, Hannington, for $8,000.

The defense raised the unique point that by seizing the person of the debter the plaintiffs had taken the last recourse of law, and all liability on the defendant's part had thereby been discharged. The court held the point well taken, and ordered Clark's release, purged of all responsibility for the

The case is without precedent in the western courts, and excites an unusual amount of attention.

FUGITIVES IN CLOVER.

Defaulters From Canada Now in Argentina Cannot be Brought Back.

TORONTO, April 2 .- Chief Provincial Detective John Murray received a letter from Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, yesterday, stating that the Supreme Court had finally dismissed the application of the British Government for the extradition of Jabez Balfour. The Government has expended $150,000 in attempting to bring back this wholesale swindler of Liberator fame. Argentina had long been a haven for defaulters from British colonies, several from Canada being still domiciled there.

A. Cori h, 57; D. Roberts, 76; T. Smibert, 57; C. Cornish, 51; E. Elliott, 59; C. Elliott, 67.

Fred Hartley, of New Durham, has surrendered to his bail on a charge of pended $150,000 in attempting to bring from Canada being still domiciled there. As a result of the negotiations for Spencer's extradition, a treaty was arranged for the handing over of all criminals from Britain and her colonies. This treaty, it has now been held, is not retroactive, and defaulters who arrived there prior to its consummation are safe. When the treaty was passed several defaulters from Canada left for Rio, and were there during the blockade of the Brazilian port. Detective Murray's advices are to the effect that they have returned to Buenos Ayres as the result of the decision in the Spencer case, and are living luxuriously on the money they made while Rio was in a state of seige.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN UTAH.

A Morman Who Opposed It Asked to Resign From the Convention.

SALT LAKE, Utah, April 2.- Twentytwo speeches were delivered in the Constitutional Convention for and against the adoption of the female suffrage clause. Those in favor largely predominate, and there is no doubt of the adoption of the clause by a heavy majority.

A dramatic incident marked the close of Saturday's proceedings. Roberts, the Mormon leader of the Democracy, read a dispatch from the Democratic committee of his county, calling on him to cease opposing woman suffrage or resign, He stated that he had telegraphed back that it would be impossible for him to change his course. He asked the privilege of delivering the last speech in the debate, as, he said impressively, it might be his last speech before the convention. His request was granted, amid a storm of cheers from both Democrats and

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED. TORONTO, April 2.—Provincial Detective Greer left yesterday to inquire into the mysterious circumstances in connection with the death of John Flynn, who was found insersible in a shed near Cruickshank's postoffice, eight miles from Owen Sound and near Shadow Lake, on Sunday last, and died in a few hours. Two wounds, which the doctors think were caused by a blunt instrument, were discovered on the body. Neither wound was sufficient to cause death, but it is claimed that the blows rendered Flynn unconscious and he subsequently died as the result of exposure. Flynn was formerly night watchman at the Owen Sound cement works, and was the principal witness against a man indicted for firing the premises in

A Marked Increase in the Sale of the

New Specific Remedy. DETROIT, Mich., April 3 .- City druggists here report a great number of inquiries with regard to the specific remedy for Bright's disease, diabetes and all forms of kidney complaint, known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. A partial investigation has shown that in every case the replies of the druggists to the questions of their customers have been highly laudatory of the remedy, and that they have been able to cite many cases from their own personal knowledge where the most signal benefits have bee derived from its use. The result been derived from its use. The result has been a very marked increase in the number of sales made and several unusually large orders have been given.

Attempt to Assassinate Rabbi Wise at

Cincinnati. CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 2.-An attempt was made last night to assassinate Rabbi Wise. A reception was being held in his parlor at No. 55 Mound street when suddenly there was a loud explosion followed by dense smoke and a shower of glass. The guests all escaped injury save Mrs. May, the rabbi's daughter, who was painfully cut by flying glass. Investigation showed that a homb of gunpowder, with a time fuse, had been placed in a jardiniere in the

On Monday Leonard Day, of Garafraxa, saw an attack made upon his fine 3-year-old mare, which he was powerless to prevent. The animal was turned out to water when one of the cows made a charge, goring her open. Nearly two-thirds of the intestines dropped out of the dreadful wound. Of course, the mare died immediately together with its colt foal. Mr. Day summoned a veterinary surgeon and had the cow dehorned.

Writs have been issued against Mr. nd Mrs. Mintern, farmers in Onon daga, Brant county, and Fred Boulton, second-hand dealer, the owners and auctioneer of a carpet, for $2,000 damages. The plaintiff bought a carpet from Boulton, which had belonged to the Minterns, in whose house there had been a case of diphtheria. Three of the plaintiff's children caught the disease and died. He holds the defendants responsible for the outbreak of the disease in his family, and under the Ontario Health Act makes the claim alluded to.

The Grand Trunk lost no time in endeavoring to place the responsibility for the accident of Sunday morning at Junction Cut, and on Mondy about a dozen interested trainmen we: ' through the ordeal known as being called on the carpet. The examination was conducted by Supt. Tiffin and Assistant Mechanical Supt. Smith in the superintendent's office in this city, and lasted all day. The crews of the whole three trains were examined and things must be all right with the crew of the first train (No. 422), which was in the cut, as the men are working again. This leaves the blame to fall on either the crew of No. 418, which was run into, or No. 420, which did the execution. The matter was enlarged in order to obtain the evidence of Fireman B. McAteer, of No. 420, who is still unable to get around, owing to injuries received by jumping. Mr. Tiffln was out of town yesterday, but the inquiry will no doubt be resumed at once. Meanwhile the crews of No. 418 and No. 420 are taking a holiday.

Is the gain in new business of the Provincial Provident Institution of St. Thomas during the past three months as compared with the same period of last year. This company furnishes sound life insurance at rates within reach of the masses, and the insuring public evidently appreciate the fact. Notwithstanding the hard times the agents of the P. P. I. are meeting with greater success than at any time in the past history of the institution. This is no doubt accounted for by the fact that while the security is unquestionable, the rates are so low as to prevent any one having a family dependent upon him saing, "I can't afford it," and thus the Company's agents are enabled to do business, not only with men of means, but with all classes of the community. The P. P. I. has a well-merited reputation for paying claims promptly, and has paid nearly half a million dollars to the widows and orphans since organization. Its reserve is assuming large proportions and is rapidly accumulating. The expense rates are lower than in any other company, and owing to careful medical selection the death rate has been lower than that of any other company reporting to the insurance department at Ottawa for the same length of time. All things considered, the success of the P. P. I. agents and the great and growing popularity of the institution is not surprising. Persons contempating life insurance or an agency should address the secretary at St. Thomas. bd bw
